§ 200.2 General description. The Geological Survey has a headquarters in Washington, D. C. The field offices report to the Branch in charge of the respective activity. The Director as the Chief executive of the Survey has charge of all of its activities.

HEADQUARTERS ORGANIZATION

§ 200.3 Office of the Director. The Director and the Assistant Director formulate bureau policy and exercise general control over the activities of the Geological Survey and its programs of scientific and engineering work.

§ 200.4 Administrative Geologist. The Administrative Geologist serves as advisor to the Director and the Branch Chiefs. He is in charge of the administrative and service groups which handle personnel, finance, correspondence, records, publications, library, field equipment, and map reproduction.

§ 200.5 Chief Counsel. The Office of the Chief Counsel reviews and advises on legal matters affecting the Geological Survey.

§ 200.6. Conservation Branch. The Conservation Branch examines and classifies the public lands of the United States, territories and possessions as to their mineral character and water power and water storage values. This Branch, in cooperation with the Bureau of Land Management, also supervises technical operations under oil and gas and other mineral leases on the public lands and Indian lands, and on naval petroleum reserves.

§ 200.7 Geologic Branch. The Geologic Branch investigates the geology of the United States, territories and possessions and prepares, from its findings, maps and reports as to geologic formations, including distribution, structure, composition, and history. It also conducts detailed research investigations of mineral resources with respect to location, quality and potential reserve supplies. The Branch carries on research in other sciences as they relate to geology.

§ 200.8 Topographic Branch. The Topographic Branch is charged with the execution of topographic field surveys in the United States, territories and possessions. It prepares and issues the results of its work in the form of maps and various engineering bulletins.

§ 200.9 Water Resources Branch. The Water Resources Branch investigates the quantity, quality and availability of surface and underground waters in the United States, territories and possessions. Its results appear as water supply of the Geological Survey papers or reports by cooperating States.

FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 200.20 General description. The Geological Survey is organized in the field along the lines of the functions performed by each of its four Branches. Regional organization is related to the particular Branches. In § 200.72, regional and field offices of all Branches are grouped by States and Territories. The sections immediately following give the field organization of the Branches.

§ 200.21 Conservation Branch. The Mineral Classification, Mining, Oil and Gas Leasing, and Water and Power Divisions each have regional areas. The sub-offices within each region report to the regional office. (In the case of the Mining Division, the regional areas are called districts.)

§ 200.22 Geologic Branch. Three regional offices assist in coordinating the field work of this Branch. The regional offices report directly to the Branch.

§ 200.23 Topographic Branch. The field work of this Branch is directed by field division offices which report directly to the Branch. There is one additional field office, a photogrammetric unit organized for cooperative work with the Tennessee Valley Authority.

§ 200.24 Water Resources Branch. The entire work of this Branch is supervised directly through the four Divisions of the Branch: Ground Water, Quality of Water, Surface Water, and Water Utilization. Field offices and laboratories under each Division report directly to the Division.

LIST OF DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY

§ 200.50 Purpose of list of delegations of authority. The following sections are not in themselves delegations of authority. The sections are merely a list of delegations and indicate the various matters with respect to which delegations have been made. They are intended merely as an index and outline. For the scope and limitations of delegations of authority, the specific regulations and orders to which cross references are made must be consulted.

§ 200.51 Director. The Director has authority to:

(a) Determine boundaries of geological structures. (See 43 CFR 192.3.)

(b) Classify certain land for prospective oil or gas value. (See 43 CFR 192.44.)

(c) Classify public land as to coal content. (See 30 CFR, Part 201.)

(d) Determine that certain land is non-mineral. (See 43 CFR 192.25.)

(e) Determine interference of non-mineral public land laws with leasing laws. (See 43 CFR 102.38.)

(g) Fix terms of sodium leases. (See 43 CFR 195.16.)

(h) Determine certain water values. (See 30 CFR 241.5.)

(i) Determine existence of deposits of fissionable material. (See Order No. 2188 (11 F. R. 4705).)

§ 200.52 Oil and Gas Supervisors. The Oil and Gas Supervisors have authority to:

(a) Act with respect to operations on oil and gas leases. (See 30 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 221.)

(b) Terminate drilling on oil and gas leases. (See 43 CFR 191.10.)

(c) Act with respect to operations on oil and gas leases on Indian lands. (See 30 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 221.)

§ 200.53 District Mining Supervisors. The District Mining Supervisors have authority to:

(a) Act with respect to operations on coal-mining leases. (See 30 CFR, Part 211.)

(b) Act with respect to operations on potash, oil shale, sodium, phosphate, sulphur, gold and quicksilver mining leases. (See 30 CFR, Part 231.)

(c) Regulate mining operations on Indian lands. (See 25 CFR, Parts 183, 186, 189, 192, 195, and 210.)

PLACES TO OBTAIN INFORMATION AND MAKE REQUESTS

§ 200.70 Inquiries and requests in general. Information of specialized technical import and concerning the policies and programs of the Geological Survey, including reports and bulletins, may be obtained by addressing the Director, Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, Federal Works Agency Building, Washington 25, D. C. Information centers, with files of Survey reports and maps for consultation by the public, are maintained at 429 F, U. S. Post Office and Court House Bldg., Los Angeles 12, Calif.; 625 Market St. Bldg., San Francisco 5, Calif.; 320 Denham Bldg., Denver 2, Colo.; and 303 Federal Bldg., Salt Lake City, Utah. Questions as to local water resources and mineral or geologic problems may be submitted to the appropriate Branch's regional or field office nearest the area concerned.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 200.100 Regulations. Regulations usually are drafted by scientific and technical personnel in the field or in Washington, D. C., engaged in the performance of the mineral classification and mineral lease supervisory functions of the Geological Survey. Industry advice is sought when warranted by the novelty or unusual complexity of a particular problem. The draft of proposed regulations is reviewed by each division of the Geological Survey concerned, by the Office of the Chief Counsel, and, if approved by the Director of the Geological Survey, is submitted, after review by the Solicitor's Office, to the Secretary of the Interior for approval and promulgation.

§ 200.101 Exercise of supervisory functions. The regulations provide in detail the manner in which oil and gas and mining lessees or their operators may effect compliance therewith and also set forth the manner in which, in proper cases and upon application, relief may be obtained under the regulations or specific provisions may be modified, suspended or waived. The procedure for filing such applications, the forms to be used, the information required to be submitted, notice as to the action taken upon such applications, and the manner in which appeals from denials or rejections of applications may be taken are set forth in 30 CFR, Parts 201, 211, 216, 221, 231, and 241. The applications referred to in this section must be submitted to the supervisor for the district in which the leased lands are situated. The address of the appropriate supervisor will be found in Subpart A of this part.

(a) Coal. (1) Prospecting, production, royalty reports on coal prospecting permits on Forms 9–367, Alaska; 9–374 Billings, Montana; 9–374a, Denver, Colorado; 9–374b, Salt Lake City, Utah; 9–374c, Carlsbad, New Mexico. These forms require information each month relating to the amount of coal mined, amount disposed of and royalty thereon, work done and cost thereof, and results of prospecting. (See 30 CFR 211.6.)

(2) Production and royalty reports on coal leases on Forms 9–373a, continental United States; 9–519, Alaska. These forms require information each calendar quarter relating to the amount of coal mined, amount sold, royalty, sales price, and receipts. (See 30 CFR 211.6.)

(3) Production reports on coal licenses in continental United States and on mining permits, Alaska, on Form 9–370. This form requires information semiannually relating to the amount of coal mined, amount disposed of, wages, opertaing costs, sales, and income. (See 30 CFR 211.6.)

(4) Annual reports on coal leases on Form 9–372. This form requires information on the amount of coal mined, amount sold, amount produced from fee land connected with the lease, receipts, costs of improvements and other works placed on the leased land. (See 30 CFR 211.6.)

(b) Potassium and sodium. (1) Production reports on potassium and sodium prospecting permits on form 9–128, Carlsbad, New Mexico; 9–128c, Salt Lake City, Utah; 9–128d, all other districts. These forms require information each calendar quarter relating to prospecting operations, including the nature thereof, extent, cost, and amount removed for experimentation and research. (See 30 CFR 231.3 (c).)

(2) Production and royalty reports on potassium and sodium leases on form 9–128a. This form requires information each month relating to the output from the leased land, the amount in storage, amount disposed of, unit and total value, and royalty thereon. (See 30 CFR 231.3 (c).)

(3) Annual production reports on potassium and sodium leases on form 9–128B. This form requires information relating to the output from the leased land, the amount in storage, amount disposed of and gross value thereof, total amount of products, and cost of production. (See 30 CFR 231.3 (c).)

(c) Phosphate. (1) Production and royalty reports on phosphate leases on form 9–368. This form requires information each calendar quarter relating to the amount of phosphate rock mined, its character and quality, amount in storage, products and byproducts disposed of, unit and gross value, and royalty. (See 30 CFR 231.3 (c).)

(2) Annual reports on phosphate leases on form 9–369. This form requires information on the output from leased land, the amount in storage, amount disposed of and gross value thereof, total amount of products, and cost of production. (See 30 CFR 231.3 (c).)

(d) Silica sands. Production and royalty reports on silica sand leases on form 9–1146. This form requires information each quarter on the production from leased land, unit and gross value at point of shipment to market, and royalty. (See 30 CFR 231.3 (c).)

(e) Oil shale and sulphur. Production and royalty reports on the above-described potassium and sodium forms.

(f) Logs of prospect bore holes drilled for coal, potassium, sodium, phosphate, silica sands, sulphurs, and oil shale on form 9–1147. This form requires, not later than 15 days after the completion of each bore hole, a complete and accurate log and history, in chronological order, of all operations conducted on the bore hole. (See 30 CFR 211.16, subsections (a) and (b), and 231.3 (c).) Form 9–331a, Sundry Notices and Reports on Wells (30 CFR 211.58) shall be used in connection with form 9–1147.

(g) Oil and gas. (1) Log and history of well on oil and gas leases on form 9–330. This form requires complete information, in chronological order, of all operations conducted on the well. (See 30 CFR 221.59.)

(2) Sundry notices and resports on wells on oil and gas lease on form 9–331A, Public lands; form 9–331B, Indian lands. These forms cover all notices of intention and all subsequent reports on individual wells except those for which special forms are prescribed. (See 30 CFR 221.58.)

(3) Monthly report of operations on oil and gas lease on form 9–329, Public lands; form 9–329A, Indian lands. These forms require complete information on all operations conducted on each well during each calendar month. (See 30 CFR 221.60.)

(4) Daily report of gas-producing wells on oil and gas lease on form 9–352. This form requires the submission to the oil and gas supervisor daily of the readings of all meters showing production of natural gas and meter charts. (See 30 CFR 221.61.)

(5) Statement of oil and gas runs and royalties on oil and gas lease on form 9–361, Public lands; form 9–361A, Indian lands. These forms require a monthly report of each run of oil, all sales, and royalty accruing therefrom. (See 30 CFR 221.62.)

(6) Royalty and rental remittance on oil and gas lease on form 9–614A, Indian lands. This form is required to be submitted with each remittance of royalty or rental payments. (See 30 CFR 221.63.)

(7) Loyalty and rental remittance on oil and gas lease on form 11 ND Naval Petroleum Reserves. This form is required to be submitted with each remittance of royalty and rental payments on naval petroleum reserves. (See 30 CFR 221.64.)

C. GIRARD DAVIDSON,
Assistant Secretary.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

ESTABLISHMENT

§ 01.0 Creation. The National Park Service was established in the Department of the Interior by statute on August 25, 1916.

§ 01.1 Purpose. The National Park Service promotes and regulates the use of national parks, monuments, and similar reservations in conformity with the statutory mandate "to conserve the scenery and the natural and historic objects and the wild life therein and to provide for the enjoyment of the same in such manner and by such means as will leave them unimpaired for the enjoyment of future generations."

§ 01.5 General description. The National Park Service is composed of a headquarters staff in Chicago, Illinois, and a liaison office in Washington, D. C., four regional offices and eleven types of field activities, such as national parks, monuments, and historical sites. Each activity is under the supervision of a superintendent or custodian who reports to the regional director. Regional directors in turn report to the Director of the Service.

HEADQUARTERS ORGANIZATION

§ 01.6 General description. The Director of the National Park Service is in charge of the Service. The headquarters organization consists of the Director and several assistants, staff divisions, and seven technical branches. Under the supervision of the Director, the headquarters staff formulates policies for the protection, preservation and use of the national park areas. It directs the interpretive services in natural sciences, history and archeology rendered for the public, provides for museum developments, and investigates proposed additions to the national park system. The headquarters organization, through an Office of National Capital Parks, maintains the Executive Mansion and Grounds in Washington, D. C.

Staff offices and divisions consist of the Office of Chief Counsel, which supervises legal matters, the Office of Information, which supervises informational work, the Office of Chief Clerk, the Personnel Division, and the Safety Division, which supervises building~fire protection and accident prevention programs.

§ 01.7 Branch of Concessions. The Branch of Concessions supervises matters pertaining to concessioners' affairs, including the initiation of concession policies; plans and negotiates for new concessions and the improvement of existing facilities to provide adequate and proper accommodations for the public; and consults with and advises concessioners concerning their operations.

01.8 Branch of Engineering. The Branch of Engineering supervises engineering (except major road construction), sanitation control and water rights projects in park areas; has charge of surveys, maps, land description, planning, design and construction, road maintenance and minor road construction, hydraulic structures, materials research, radio installation and research, and the formulation of engineering codes and standards.

01.9 Branch of Forestry. The Branch of Forestry supervises fire protection work, and the preservation and protection of park and monument forests from injurious insects and diseases and from preventable damage. The Branch cooperates with other bureaus and agencies in fire protection and insect and tree disease control, and supervises forest planting, wood preservation and utilization, and forest studies.

§ 01.10 Branch of History. The Branch of History supervises technical matters pertaining to historic and archeologic sites and buildings, including their preservation and protection. It coordinates research, planning, and interpretive programs for such sites, and carries on investigations for the purpose of developing a comprehensive long-time plan for the acquisition, preservation and use of such sites and buildings.

§ 01.11 Branch of Lands. The Branch of Lands supervises and coordinates the investigation and acquisition of lands and the adjustment of boundaries. It maintains land status and land use records and prepares data and maps for inclusion in reports and publications. The Branch handles proposals for naming geographical features within the national park system, and supervises recreational studies of other Federal lands and cooperative work on behalf of states and communities under the Park, Parkway and Recreational Study Act of 1936.

§ 01.12 Branch of Natural History. The Branch of Natural History supervises the study and interpretation of natural history, coordinates protective work pertaining to wildlife and to geological and biological features in scenic and scientific sites and prepares conservation and other scientific information. It plans, prepares and installs museum exhibits, and exercises general direction over museum programs. The Branch coordinates grazing studies and range and wildlife management.

§ 01.13 Branch of Plans and Design. The Branch of Plans and Design supervises architectural and landscape design and construction and prepares master plans for the control of physical developments. It collaborates with the Public Roads Administration in the location, design and construction of major roads and parkways. The Branch reviews concessioners' development plans, directs the Historic American Building Survey, and recommends proposed park sites.

§ 01.14 Washington Liaison Office. The headquarters office was transferred from Washington, D. C., to Chicago, Illinois, in 1942. Since that time a small liaison office has remained in Washington to carry out special assignments for the Director, to contact and maintain liaison with officials of the Department of the Interior as well as other Government agencies, to attend Congressional committee hearings and to handle other matters requiring special attention there. The Associate Director of the Service is in charge of the Washington Liaison Office.

FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 01.30 Regional Offices. Each Regional Office consists of a Regional Director and a staff of regional, technical and administrative employees. A regional director serves as the representative of the Director of the National Park Service concerning matters within his region, and is responsible for seeing that the policies of the Department of the Interior and the Service are understood and uniformly applied in the individual activities under his jurisdiction. The staff renders technical advice and assistance to the superintendents and custodians under the Regional Director's supervision.

§ 01.31 Field Activities. There are eleven classifications of field activities. The work of a field activity logically falls into administrative, protection, maintenance and construction, and research and interpretive divisions. A superintendent or custodian is in direct charge of his activity and supervises all operations. He is responsible for maintaining the policies and rules and regulations of the National Park Service.

§ 01.32 Office of National Capital Parks. The Office of National Capital Parks is a field office of the National Park Service and is located in Washington, D. C. This Office is charged with administrative jurisdiction over the National Capital Parks in the District of Columbia and its environs embracing 750 reservations, including the George Washington Memorial Parkway and the Chopawamsic Recreational Area in Virginia, and the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal in Maryland. This Office also has administrative jurisdiction over the Lee Mansion National Memorial and the Battleground National Cemetery in Virginia, the House Where Lincoln Died, the Lincoln Memorial, the Lincoln Museum, the Thomas Jefferson Memorial, and the Washington Monument in Washington, D. C. The Office of the National Capital Parks is under the immediate supervision of a Superintendent, and the general supervision of the Associate Director of the National Park Service.

LIST OF DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY

§ 01.50 Purpose of list of delegations of authority. The following sections are not in themselves delegations of authority. The sections are merely a list of delegations and indicate the various matters with respect to which delegations have been made. They are intended merely as an index and outline. For the scope and limitations of delegations of authority, the specific regulations and orders to which cross references are made must be consulted.

§ 01.51 Director. The Director has authority:

(a) To perform various functions at Hot Springs National Park; approve construction and concession contracts. See Order No. 1815 (8. F. R. 6552).

(b) To act in connection with concessioners and concession contracts. See Order No. 1932 (9 F. R. 3040).

(c) In specific areas, to authorize disposition of carcasses of birds or animals; to designate areas where dogs and cats may not be admitted; to issue, limit, or revoke various types of permits and licenses for use of areas within the National Park System or the conducting of approved types of commercial or other activities thereon; suspend or waive collection of fees; to prescribe periods of park operation; to authorize the building of fences or other structures; to approve regulations for use of sport facilities; to authorize exemption of certain employees from operation of regulations governing hours of labor and wages. See 36 CFR, Parts 2, 3, 28, 34.

(d) To permit filming of motion or sound pictures. See Order No. 2029 (10 F. R. 2522).

§ 01.52 Superintendents. The Superintendents have authority, in specific areas, to:

(a) Issue, limit or revoke various kinds of licenses and permits for the use of lands within the National Park System and the conduct of certain types of activities thereon; permit cutting dead or down timber; designate fruits which may be taken; regulate use of picnicking facilities, use of camp sites, bathing, smoking, and building of fires; permit carrying of firearms, use of public address systems, mountain climbing in certain parks or monuments, and the collection of scientific specimens in certain instances; require delivery of archaeological objects found or purchased; regulate visitation to ancient ruins; permit saddle horse operations; restrict use of spring waters; remove disorderly persons; receive and return lost articles; authorize posting of private notices; close roads or trails; prescribe load and weight limitations for use of roads; establish hours and direction of travel on roads; determine commercial vehicles to be admitted; issue special trucking permits; regulate use of trailers; determine hours during which entrances and exits shall be open; permit carrying of inspected parcels, dumping, storage of vehicles; regulate boating and use of boating facilities; designate places to be used for various kinds of recreation; give examinations, supervise service and prescribe rates of guides. See 36 CFR, Parts 2, 3, 20, 21, 23, 25–28, inclusive.

§ 01.53 Park Rangers. The Park Rangers have authority to:

(a) Permit digging or leveling for camp sites; issue permits for building fires. See 36 CFR, Part 2.

§ 01.54 Superintendent, National Capital Parks. The Superintendent has authority within National Capital Park areas in the District of Columbia and its environs to:

(a) Issue, limit, and revoke various kinds of licenses and permits; designate and regulate the use of camp sites, campfires, and picnic groves; regulate dumping or storage of materials, advertising and commercial soliciting, excavations and the stringing of wires, use of athletic grounds, hunting, fishing; permit parades and ceremonies; regulate use of roads or trails and the parking of automobiles; prescribe load and weight limitations; establish hours and direction of travel; regulate or prohibit the use of park roads by commercial trucks; establish taxicab stands; regulate or prohibit bicycling, roller skating, and coasting; permit boating; designate places to be used for various kinds of recreation; receive and return lost articles found in park areas; permit the filming of motion pictures and the collecting of scientific specimens. See 36 CFR, 1945 Supp., Part 3.

PLACES TO OBTAIN INFORMATION AND MAKE REQUESTS

§ 01.80 Inquiries and requests in general. General information concerning the functions, policies, program and activities of the National Park Service, or concerning the National Park System as a whole, may be obtained by addressing The Director, National Park Service, Merchandise Mart, Chicago 54, Illinois.

Inquiries concerning a specific park, monument or other area within the National Park System should be addressed to the superintendent or custodian in charge, who can also supply free informational literature. Inquiries concerning areas under the jurisdiction of the Office of the National Capital Parks should be addressed to the Superintendent, National Capital Parks, National Park Service, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C.

Requests for reservations for overnight accommodations in national park, monument or other National Park Service areas, should be addressed to the authorized concessioner within such area, if known; otherwise, the request may be addressed to the superintendent or custodian in charge of the area. Applications for permits with respect to activities on, or use of, National Park Service areas should be submitted to the superintendent or custodian in charge of the area, subject to certain exceptions as outlined in 36 CFR 01.102.

Prospective visitors to National Park Service areas should consult the rules and regulations (see 36 CFR, Chapter I) for information regarding the requirements to be observed.

The National Park Service publishes free information publications relating to most of the areas in the National Park System. In addition, there are a number of publications for sale, dealing with historical areas, the geology, fauna and flora of the parks, etc., which may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., from whom lists of such publications may also be obtained. Lists of publications, both free and for sale, are also obtainable from the Director, National Park Service.

§ 01.81 Location of Headquarters Organization. The Office of the Director of the National Park Service, the staff offices, and the offices of the chiefs of the Branches are in Chicago, Illinois.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 01.100 Regulations. Regulations usually originate in a draft of proposed regulations prepared by field personnel, administrative personnel in the Director's Office engaged in a particular function, or legal personnel in the Director's Office utilizing information supplied by administrative personnel. The draft of proposed regulations is reviewed by each branch of the National Park Service which may be concerned, and if approved by the Director, is submitted, after review by the Solicitor's Office, to the Secretary of the Interior for approval and promulgation.

§ 01.102 Applications. (a) Applications for permits with respect to activities on, or the use of, National Park Service area should be submitted to the National Park Service officer in charge of the area in question, subject to the following exceptions:

(1) Applications for permits made pursuant to §§ 2.16 (a) and 5.5 of this chapter should be submitted to the Secretary of the Interior.

(2) Applications for permits made pursuant to §§ 2.13 (a), 2.20 (a), 2.31 (a), 2.31 (c), 2.31 (d), 20.53 and 34.1–34.4 of this chapter should be submitted to the Director of the National Park Service.

(3) Applications for permits made pursuant to §§ 2.3 (h), 2.8 (g), and 20.26 (c) of this chapter should be submitted to a National Park Service ranger for the area in question.

In general, applications for permits are of an informal nature and may be submitted in the form of a letter, or, in the case of those listed in subparagraph (3), orally.

Applicants are notified by letter of the action taken in connection with their applications. Applicants may secure reconsideration of action taken by rangers by presenting the case to the appropriate officer in charge of the National Park Service area, and may secure reconsideration of action taken by officers in charge of National Park Service areas by writing to the appropriate Regional Director or to the Director. Actions of the Director are subject to review by the Secretary of the Interior upon request.

§ 01.104 National Monuments. The National Park Service prepares reports for submission by the Secretary of the Interior to the President on proposals to create national monuments under the act of June 8, 1936 (34 Stat. 225; 16 U. S. C. 431).

§ 01.105 Recreational Demonstration Projects. The President approves transfers of recreational demonstration projects by the Secretary of the Interior to States, or political subdivisions thereof, and to Federal agencies under the act of June 6, 1942 (56 Stat. 326; 16 U. S. C., Sup., 459r).

C. GIRARD DAVIDSON,
Acting Secretary.

ESTABLISHMENT

§ 01.0 Creation. The Bureau of Indian Affairs was created in the War Department in 1824 and transferred to the Department of the Interior at the time of its establishment in 1849.

§ 01.1 Purpose. The purpose of the Bureau of Indian Affairs is to carry out the provisions of nearly 5,000 statutes and treaties in order to protect the interests and promote the welfare of more than 417,000 Indians, including more than 30,000 natives (Indians, Aleuts, and Eskimos) of Alaska. Its main objectives are the economic and social rehabilitation of the Indian, the organization of Indian tribes so that they may manage their own affairs, and the adaptation of native Indian institutions and culture to modern conditions.

§ 01.2 General description. The Bureau of Indian Affairs is composed of a headquarters staff in Chicago, Illinois, a liaison office in Washington, D. C., five district offices, the Alaska Native Service, which has the same organizational status as a district office, and several score field jurisdictions which are the operating units in the field. The field jurisdictions include Indian agencies, schools, sanitoria, and irrigation projects, each of which is supervised by a Superintendent. Superintendents report to a District Director, who in turn reports to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

HEADQUARTERS ORGANIZATION

§ 01.5 General description. The headquarters organization is called the Office of the Commissioner, and is made up of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, two Assistant Commissioners, two staff offices and five technical branches.

§ 01.6 Commissioner. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs is the chief executive of the Bureau. The Office of the Commissioner develops, interprets, and implements national policy on Indian affairs. It establishes objectives and standards of performance, develops integrated programs designed to accomplish the Bureau's objectives, and exercises general direction and control over all field operations.

§ 01.7 Office of the chief counsel. The office of the chief counsel, under general supervision of the Solicitor of the Department, reviews and advises on legal matters and is responsible for the probate of Indian estates.

§ 01.8 Office of Information. The office of Information directs the informational work of the Bureau of Indian Affairs; handles requests from the public for information relating to Indians and Bureau activities; and supervises the publication of material dealing with Bureau activities.

§ 01.10 Branch of Administration. The Branch of Administration is responsible for all phases of administrative management, including budget, finance, personnel, property, and office services.

§ 01.11 Branch of Education. The Branch of Education develops curricula for Indian schools. It provides education facilities through the operation of about 400 day schools, boarding schools, and community centers, and through Federal aid for the education of Indian children attendin gpublic and mission schools. The Branch arranges and provides education loans for Indians desiring to attend vocational schools, colleges and universities. It provides guidance to aid Indians in receiving maximum benefits from education. The Director of Education also supervises welfare, and law enforcement.

§ 01.12 Branch of Engineering. The Branch of Engineering prepares plans and specifications, and develops engineering standards for construction and maintenance programs. It directs field activities related to the construction, maintenance and operation of roads, buildings, utilities, communications systems, and irrigation projects, including incidental power systems.

§ 01.13 Branch of Health. The Branch of Health develops and supervises health programs, undertakes to prevent and to lower the incidence and severity of tuberculosis, trachoma and other communicable diseases, and to reduce infant mortality. The Branch provides medical services to Indians through 70 hospitals and sanatoria and more than 100 clinics.

§ 01.14 Branch of Resources. The Branch of Resources develops plans for the conservation and improvement of 56,000,000 acres of Indian lands, water, minerals, forests, wildlife, and other resources to better the economic status of the Indian. It provides agricultural and industrial guidance, handles oil, gas, and mineral leases and mining permits, rights-of-way and boundary disputes, and provides credit facilities to assist Indians in establishing themselves in income-producing enterprises related to the utilization of resources.

§ 01.15 Indian Arts and Crafts Board. (a) The Indian Arts and Crafts Board is a statutory body established in the Department of the Interior in 1935. The Board is charged with the promotion of the economic welfare of the Indians through the development of Indian arts and crafts and the expansion of markets for the products of Indian arts and craftsmanship.

(b) The Board is composed of five Commissioners appointed by the Secretary of the Interior. The Board appoints a manager with the approval of the Secretary.

FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 01.20 District Offices. Each District Office consists of a District Director, a District counsel, and a small staff of District supervisors who direct the execution of approved plans and programs for field jurisdictions within the District in accordance with the policies, objectives and standards established by the Office of the Commissioner, and provide expert technical and professional assistance to the field jurisdictions. The District Offices conduct programs which are beyond the capacity or responsibility of the field jurisdictions.

§ 01.21 District Director. The District Director is responsible for directing and controlling all activities in his District to the end that objectives and programs established by the Office of the Commissioner are executed promptly and effectively by the field jurisdictions comprising the District.

§ 01.22 Alaska Native Service. The Alaska Native Service has the same status as a District Office. It provides educational, health and welfare services for the Alaskan natives, and carries out programs for the development of their resources.

§ 01.23 Field jurisdictions. (a) Each field jurisdiction is under the immediate direction of a Superintendent, but the organization of a jurisdiction varies considerably depending upon the particular unit and the scope of activities involved. The Superintendent is responsible for directing all local activities and for serving as the primary point of contact between the Government and the Indians.

(b) The four types of field jurisdictions are:

(1) Agencies. An agency conducts all activities of the Bureau of Indian Affairs on a particular reservation, in contrast to the other three types of field jurisdictions whose activities are specialized.

(2) Detached boarding schools. Such schools are Federal schools conveniently located to serve students from agencies in the area. The schools offer high school and vocational training courses.

(3) Detached hospitals and sanatoria. These hospitals and sanatoria provide institutional medical services to Indians in the area. Some serve as the center of district-wide health programs, particularly those concerned with tuberculosis.

(4) Detached irrigation projects. These projects are similar to their reservation counterparts but are larger and more complex. They serve a mixed clientele of Indians and non-Indian settlers.

LIST OF DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY

§ 01.100 Purpose of list of delegations of authority. The following sections are not in themselves delegations of authority. The sections are merely a list of delegations and indicate the various matters with respect to which delegations have been made. They are intended merely as an index and outline. SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 01.300 Regulations. (a) There are three general categories of regulations relating to the functions of the Bureau of Indian Affairs:

(1) Those relating to the acquisition, utilization and disposition of trust or restricted real and personal Indian property, both tribally owned and individually owned.

(2) Those relating to the personal rights and duties of Indians and others.

(3) Those relating to the acquisition, maintenance and disposition of Government property held for the purpose of Indian administration and the rendition of Government services to Indians, including the construction and operation of schools, hospitals, roads and irrigation systems, and the furnishing of credit to Indians.

(b) Regulations usually originate in a draft of proposed regulations prepared by field personnel or by administrative personnel in the Office of the Commissioner charged with the particular functions dealt with. When the draft is initiated in the Office of the Commissioner it is usually sent to the field unit or units for consideration and comments. Consultation is had in some cases in the field with tribal councils and other representative bodies of the Indians. The draft of proposed regulations prepared is reviewed by each Division of the Office of the Commissioner affected thereby and by the Chief Counsel's Office, and, if approved by the Commissioner, is submitted after review by the Solicitor's Office to the Secretary of the Interior for approval. After aproval it is returned to the Bureau of Indian Affairs for promulgation.

(c) With respect to matters falling within the second category—those relating to personal rights—general notice of the proposed regulations will be given by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 01.310 Applications. Applications for oil and gas or other mineral leases, for agricultural, farm pasture, and grazing leases, business leases and permits, for rights-of-way, and for traders' licenses and timber contracts, should be submitted to the superintendent or other officer in charge of the particular reservation on which the land and improvements are located. Where disposition of tribal resources may be made by an Indian tribe itself, applications may be made directly to the tribe. The procedure for filing such applications, the information required as to action with respect to applications, permits, leases, and licenses, and appeals from such action are set out in detail in 25 CFR, Subchapter I, Parts 71 and 72; Subchapter Q, Parts 171, 174 and 177; Subchapter R, Parts 180, 183, 186, 189, 192, 195, 201, 204, 207, 210 and 213; Subchapter Y, Parts 276 and 277.

§ 01.341. Indian arts and crafts. Regulations relating to licensing by the Indian Arts and Crafts Board to use certificates of genuineness appears in 25 CFR, Parts 307, 308.

PURPOSE

§ 400.1 Functions. The Oil and Gas Division has the function of assisting the Secretary of the Interior in the execution of Presidential instructions to review, coordinate and unify policy and administration in respect to Federal activities relative to oil, gas and synthetic hydrocarbon fuels. In this connection the Division is charged with developing proposals for the centralization of such Federal functions. The Division assists the Secretary in serving as the channel of communication between the Federal Government and the petroleum industry, and as liaison agency of the Federal Government with the State oil and gas bodies. It gathers and analyzes information as to oil and gas matters and serves as the central Federal clearing house for statistics, technical data, and other information relating to oil and gas. It keeps the Secretary informed and recommends action with respect to significant developments in the petroleum field. The Division cooperates with the oil and gas-producing States in the prevention of waste in oil and gas production and in the adoption of uniform oil and gas-conservation laws and regulations. (See 43 CFR 01.21.)

§ 400.2 Functions under the Connally "Hot Oil" Act. The Division administers the Connally "Hot Oil" Act (49 Stat. 30; 15 U. S. C. 715 et seq.) which is designed to prevent the shipment or transportation in interstate commerce of oil produced in violation of State law or regulation. It is the purpose of the act to encourage the conservation of deposits of crude oil within the United States.

§ 400.5 General description. The Oil and Gas Division is composed of a headquarters staff in Washington, D. C., and of a subordinate field organization, the Federal Petroleum Board.

HEADQUARTERS ORGANIZATION

§ 400.6 Director. The Director of the Oil and Gas Division supervises and directs all of the activities of the Division, and formulates plans and programs for carrying out the work of the Division.

FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 400.15 Federal Petroleum Board. The enforcement of the Connally "Hot Oil" Act is essentially a field activity which is carried on by the Federal Petroleum Board under the supervision of the Oil and Gas Division. The Federal Petroleum Board administers the regulations promulgated under the act and makes the necessary investigations to accomplish the purposes of the act.

DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY

§ 400.25 Purpose of list of delegations of authority. The following sections (except insofar as orders are set forth) are not in themselves delegations of authority. The sections are merely a list of delegations and indicate the various matters with respect to which delegations have been made. They are intended merely as an index and outline. For the scope and limitations of delegations of authority the specific regulations and orders to which cross references are made must be consulted.

§ 400.26 Secretary of the Interior. (a) Executive Order No. 7756 (30 CFR 401.1, 401.2) delegated to the Secretary of the Interior certain of the powers and functions of the President under the Connally "Hot Oil" Act (49 Stat. 30; 15 U. S. C. 715 et seq) and authorized the formation of a Petroleum Conservation Division in the Department of the Interior.

(b) On March 14, 1936, the Secretary of the Interior issued Order No. 1054, creating a Petroleum Conservation Division. Order No. 1054 reads as follows:

Effective April 1, 1936 there is hereby set up under the Office of the Secretary a Petroleum Conservation Division, under the immediate charge of a Director.

This Division will assist the Secretary of the Interior in administering the Act of February 22, 1935 (49 Stat. 30), and under his direction is authorized to discuss the work of any agency dealing with oil and gas, recommend action on any case brought to its attention, coordinate information, and through appropriate channels, act as the contact agency with the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, present required data to the Congress, attend oil and gas conferences in which the Department is interested, cooperate with the oil producing States in the study of physical waste and the enactment of uniform oil and gas conservation laws, and contact other departments of the Government whose work deals in any measure with oil and gas.

By Executive Order No. 9732 (11 F.R. 5985) and Order No. 2193 (see § 400.27) the functions of the Petroleum Conservation Division were transferred to the Oil and Gas Division.

(c) The President, in a letter dated May 3, 1946, instructed the Secretary of the Interior to perform certain functions with respect to oil and gas. The relevant parts of the letter read as follows:

To the extent possible one agency must bear the primary responsibility for providing a focal point for leadership and information for the numerous agencies of the Federal Government dealing with petroleum. I, therefore, request that you undertake the initiative in obtaining coordination and unification of Federal policy and administration with respect to the functions and activities relating to petroleum carried on by the various departments and agencies. Where practicable and appropriate governmental activities relating to petroleum should be centralized and I ask that from time to time you submit to me for consideration proposals looking to the accomplishment of this objective.

You should, through such office as you designate, serve as the channel of communication between the Federal Government and the petroleum industry, and as the liaison agency of the Federal Government in its relations with appropriate State bodies concerned with oil and gas. I have been impressed with the great contribution of government-industry cooperation to the success of the war petroleum program, and feel that the values of such close and harmonious relations between Government and industry should be continued. I, therefore, suggest that you establish an industry organization to consult and advise with you.

I need not emphasize to you the importance of petroleum in the life of the Nation and the consequent necessity for assuring the adequate and continuous availability of this vital resource. You are requested to keep me informed concerning significant developments in the petroleum field, and to consider and recommend such steps as may be necessary appropriately to safeguard our petroleum future.

• • • • •

§ 400.27 Oil and Gas Division. On May 6, 1946, the Secretary of the Interior issued Order No. 2193 establishing the Oil and Gas Division. Order No. 2193 reads as follows:

Pursuant to the President's letter of May 3, 1946, to the Secretary of the Interior, there is hereby established in the Department of the Interior an Oil and Gas Division under the immediate charge of a Director.

The Oil and Gas Division with a view to the conservation of the oil and gas resources of the Nation and the achievement of petroleum security, shall:

1. Assist the Secretary in the execution of the President's instructions to:

(a) Coordinate and unify policy and administration in respect to the functions and activities relative to oil and gas carried on by the several departments and agencies of the Federal Government;

(b) Serve as the channel of communication between the Federal Government and the petroleum industry;

(c) Serve as liaison agency of the Federal Government in its relations with the appropriate State oil and gas bodies; and

(d) Review technological developments in the field of petroleum and synthetic hydrocarbon fuels and coordinate Federal policy with respect thereto.

2. Obtain and analyze information as to oil and gas matters in which the Federal Government has a proper interest and, in this connection, serve as the central Federal clearing house for statistics, technical data, and other information relating to oil and gas.

3. Keep the Secretary informed with respect to the adequacy and availability of supplies of petroleum and its products to meet the current and future needs of the Nation, and with respect to significant developments in the petroleum field, and make recommendations with respect thereto.

4. Develop proposals looking to the centralization of Federal functions and activities relating to oil and gas in keeping with the President's letter.

5. Coordinate all oil and gas policies and activities in the Department of the Interior.

"Pursuant to the Executive Order of May 3, 1946, terminating the Petroleum Administration for War, the personnel, records, property and funds of the Administration are transferred to the Oil and Gas Division which Division shall proceed to wind up and liquidate the affairs of the Administration.

Upon the issuance of an Executive order amending Executive Order No. 7756, dated December 1, 1937, and the regulations and amendments, approved October 27, 1942, for the administration and enforcement of the act of February 22, 1935, as amended, to designate the Oil and Gas Division in lieu of the Petroleum Conservation Division, the Oil and Gas Division shall assume all the authority and duties of the Petroleum Conservation Division, funds, personnel, equipment and records of the Petroleum Conservation Division shall be transfered to the Oil and Gas Division, and the Petroleum Conservation Division shall cease to exist.

§ 400.28 Federal Petrolcum Board. (a) On October 27, 1942, the Secretary by Order No. 1753–A established the Federal Petroleum Board to enforce, under the supervision of the Petroleum Conservation Division, the Connally Act and the regulations issued under that act. Order No. 1753–A reads as follows:

Pursuant to the authority contained in R.S. 161 (5 U.S.C. sec. 22), the act of February 22, 1935 (49 Stat. 30, 15 U.S.C. secs. 715–715 l), as amended, Executive Order No. 6979, dated February 28, 1935, and Executive Order No. 7756, dated December 1, 1937, I hereby establish the Federal Petroleum Board (hereinafter referred to as the Board) to enforce the act of February 22, 1935, as amended, and to administer the regulations promulgated pursuant thereto, subject to the supervision of the Secretary of the Interior. The Petroleum Conservation Division, created by my Order No. 1054, dated March 14, 1936, under the supervision of the Secretary of the Interior, wil supervise the operations of the Board. The Board shall consist of three members, one of whom shall be designated the Chairman. • • • The principal office of the Board shall be at Kilgore, Texas.

By Executive Order No. 9732 (and Order No. 2193), the supervision of the Federal Petroleum Board was transferred from the Petroleum Conservation Division to the Oil and Gas Division.

PLACES TO OBTAIN INFORMATION AND MAKE REQUESTS

§ 400.50 Inquiries and requests in general. (a) General information on the functions and activities of the Oil and Gas Division may be obtained by addressing the Director, Oil and Gas Division, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C.

(b) Copies of the regulations issued for the enforcement of the Connally "Hot Oil" Act may be obtained by addressing the Federal Petroleum Board, Kilgore, Texas.

(c) See §§ 400.104, 400.105 for the places at which the forms prescribed in the administratiton of the Connally "Hot Oil" Act may be obtained.

§ 400.51 Location of Oil and Gas Division. The Oil and Gas Division is located in Washington, D. C.

§ 400.52 Location of Federal Petroleum Board. (a) The principal office of the Federal Petroleum Board is located at Kilgore, Texas.

(b) Suboffices of the Board are located as follows: 817–818 Nixon Building, Corpus Christi, Texas; Federal Building, Houston, Texas; 316–317 Petroleum Building, Midland, Texas; Montgomery Building, Lafayette, Louisiana.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 400.100 Regulations. Proposed regulations concerning the administration of the Connally "Hot Oil" Act (49 Stat. 30; 15 U. S. C. 715 et seq. usually originate in the Federal Petroleum Board (except for proposed regulations concerning the reports to be filed with the Oil and Gas Division, which usually originate in that Division) and are reviewed by the Oil and Gas Division and by the Solicitor's office. If approved by the Secretary, the regulations are submitted to the President. Rules not requiring Presidential approval pursuant to Executive Order No. 7756 (30 CFR 401.1) are promulgated by the Secretary. The rule-making procedure specified in section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong.) is followed with respect to proposed rules under the Connally "Hot Oil" Act, as far as applicable.

§ 400.101 Violations of "Hot Oil" Act. The Federal Petroleum Board, operating under the supervision of the Oil and Gas Division, enforces the Connally "Hot Oil" Act. If a possible violation of the Connally Act or of a regulation issued thereunder is discovered, an examiner of the Federal Petroleum Board is directed to conduct an investigation. After investigation, the examiner presents the case to the Federal Petroleum Board for action and the Board holds a hearing. If it considers action appropriate, the Board submits the record of the case to the Oil and Gas Division with its recommendation. After review by the Division and the Solicitor's office, if action appears warranted, the record is transmitted by the Secretary to the Department of Justice with a recommendation for instituting legal action.

§ 400.104 Shippers' reports. Shippers, or their agents, of any petroleum or petroleum products loaded at any port in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, or Mississippi for interstate waterborne transportation are required to file reports pursuant to 30 CFR 403.11 on Form OCR–1. Form OCR–1 requires information as to port of departure, sailing date, vessel, consignor, consignee, loading, destination. Copies of Form OCR–1 may be obtained from the Director, Oil and Gas Division, Department of the Interior, Washington, D. C.

§ 400.105 Monthly reports. (a) The following monthly reports must be filed pursuant to 30 CFR 403.9. The forms listed may be obtained from the Federal Petroleum Board, Kilgore, Texas.

(1) By operators of natural gasoline, cycling, and other similar plants—Form G, requiring information on total intake volume of natural gas, disposition of intake volume, barrels of petroleum and petroleum products produced, delivered, received, and in stock.

(2) By petroleum producers—Form P, requiring information on lease data, lease operations, allowables, production and disposition of petroleum.

(3) By refiners of petroleum—Form R, requiring information on stock on hand, runs to stills, re-runs, products manufactured, plant use and losses, receipts and deliveries.

(4) By transporters and storers—Form I, requiring information on stock on hand, receipts, deliveries, shortages, and overages.

(b) If the Federal Petroleum Board determines that reports required of any person under 30 CFR 403.9, as amended, serve no useful purpose, it may by written notice relieve him of the obligation to submit such reports for any specified period of time or until further notice. See 30 CFR 403.9, as amended. Such determinations are made on the basis of the Board's records, including a report of field examiners. Notices to resume reporting are issued by the Board when it finds that conditions have changed or that the action relieving a person of the reporting obligation was unjustified.

§ 400.107 Filing and inspection of documents. Petroleum operators are required to make certain books and records open to inspection by the Federal Petroleum Board and to file with the Board certain diagrams, reports, and other papers. These requirements are set out in 30 CFR 403.3–403.8, 403.9a, 403.10, 403.11.

§ 400.115 Official records. Official records to be kept confidential, except when otherwise ordered by the Director of the Oil and Gas Division, shall include the following types of records: reports, diagrams and other papers submitted, and records of inspections made, pursuant to 30 CFR, Part 403; records of investigations and hearings; and recommendations in the enforcement of the Connolly "Hot Oil" Act. See also 43 CFR, Part 2.

201.2 General description.
201.5 Loans.
201.6 Housing.
201.20 Inquiries and requests in general.
201.21 Location of offices.

§ 201.1 Creation. The Puerto Rico Reconstruction Administration was established as an agency within the Department of the Interior by Executive Order No. 7057 (48 CFR, Part 200), to administer projects for providing relief and for increasing employment in Puerto Rico, with emphasis on rehabilitation of the Island's agricultural economy.

§ 201.2 General description. (a) The Puerto Rico Reconstruction Administration is composed of an office in Washington, D. C., and a number of offices in San Juan, Puerto Rico. The Administrator, appointed by the President, and the General Counsel are in Washington, D. C. By Executive Order 7689 (48 CFR 200.2) the Administrator is authorized to appoint the Assistant Administrator and to delegate to him such of the powers conferred on the Administrator as may be necessary for the efficient operation of the Administration in Puerto Rico. By Executive Order No. 7493, dated November 11, 1936, all administrative acts of the Administrator are subject to the control and supervision of the Secretary of the Interior. The functions of the Administration relating to the Office of the Secretary and the Washington Office of the Administration are handled through the Division of Territories and Island Possessions.

(b) The projects of the Administration consist principally in the management and maintenance of housing projects, the construction of additional rural housing units in distressed areas of the Island, the granting and servicing of loans to cooperatives, and the operation of a demonstration farm and various Central Service Farms for assistance to needy resettlers. The projects are operated in Puerto Rico under the active charge of the Assistant Administrator at San Juan, but subject to the direction of the Administrator. The principal divisions of the Administration, which like the Assistant Administrator have offices in San Juan, are the Offices of Housing Management and Rural Rehabilitation, Finance and Personnel, and Cooperatives.

§ 201.5 Loans. (a) The Puerto Rico Reconstruction Administration is authorized to make agricultural loans to cooperatives in Puerto Rico. (See 48 CFR, Part 202.)

(b) The Director of the Division of Territories and Island Possessions has been authorized by the Secretary of the Interior to approve offers of adjustment of Puerto Rico Hurricane Relief loans by Order No. 2176. Order No. 2176 reads as follows:

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 161, Revised Statutes (5 U. S. C. sec. 22), and for the purpose of facilitating and expediting departmental administration, there is hereby delegated to the Director, and in his absence to the Acting Director, Division of Territories and Island Possessions, the authority conferred upon me by the Joint Resolution approved June 3, 1935 (49 Stat. 320), to accept and approve offers of adjustments made by borrowers in settlement of loans granted by the former Puerto Rican Hurricane Relief Commission.

(c) Harley A. Miller, Assistant General Counsel of the Puerto Rico Reconstruction Administration is authorized to release mortgages issued as security for Puerto Rican Hurricane Relief Section Loans. (See 48 CFR 4.520.)

§ 201.20 Inquiries and requests in general. Information concerning the programs or operations of the Puerto Rico Reconstruction Administration may be secured by addressing the Puerto Rico Reconstruction Administration, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C. (or San Juan, Puerto Rico).

§ 201.21 Location of offices. The office of the Administrator of the Puerto Rico Reconstruction Administration is located in the Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C. The office of the Assistant Administrator is located in San Juan 3, Puerto Rico.

C. GIRARD DAVIDSON,
Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

ESTABLISHMENT

§ 600.1 Creation. The Solid Fuels Administration for War was established in the Department of the Interior on April 19, 1943 by Executive Order No. 9332 (3 CFR, Cum. Supp., p. 1270). The Secretary of the Interior was made ex officio Administrator.

§ 600.2 Purpose. (a) The Administrator was authorized and directed to establish basic policies and formulate plans and programs to assure the most effective development and utilization of solid fuels for the prosecution of the war, to issue policy and operating directives, and to work in liaison with solid fuels industries and Federal departments and agencies.

(b) By section 3 (e) of Executive Order No. 9332 the President, in respect to solid fuels for direct and indirect military, and essential industrial and civilian requirements, and materials allotted to the solid fuels industries, delegated to the Administrator of the Solid Fuels Administration for War, subject to the direction of the Chairman of the War Production Board, the powers, authority, and discretion of Title III of the Second War Powers Act, 1942, theretofore, by paragraph 1 of Executive Order No. 9125 (3 CFR, Cum. Supp., p. 1156), delegated to the Chairman of the War Production Board. The Administrator has retained these powers under the direction of the Civilian Production Administration (Executive Order No. 9638, 3 CFR, 1945 Supp., p. 125). The Administration now is concerned with the task of effecting an equitable distribution of the available supply of solid fuels in order to facilitate the reconversion program and to avoid industrial shut-downs and hardships incident to a short fuel supply. It also approves or disapproves the availability of solid fuels for export in the light of their necessity in the maintenance of the domestic economy of the United States.

§ 600.3 General description. The central organization of the Solid Fuels Administration for War is in Washington, D. C. Field offices are located within designated areas.

HEADQUARTERS ORGANIZATION

§ 600.5 Deputy Administrator. Under the direction of the Administrator, the Deputy Administrator directs and supervises the operations of the Solid Fuels Administration for War. Under Order No. 1899, dated November 10, 1943, the Deputy Administrator is authorized to exercise all of the powers, authority, and discretion vested in the Administrator. Order No. 1899 reads as follows:

Pursuant to the provisions of Executive Order No. 9332 of April 19, 1943, 8 F. R. 5355, the Deputy Solid Fuels Administrator for War, subject to such supervision and direction as the Administrator shall from time to time determine, is hereby authorized to exercise any and all power, authority and discretion conferred upon the Solid Fuels Administrator by that Executive Order to the same extent and with the same effect as the said power, authority and discretion may be exercised directly by the Solid Fuels Administrator.

§ 600.6 Central organization. The central organization of the Solid Fuels Administration for War consists of the Deputy Administrator and four Assistant Deputy Administrators, respectively, and the following Divisions:

(a) Legal Division. The Legal Division handles all legal matters incident to the discharge of the functions of the Solid Fuels Administration for War; drafts orders and regulations and issues interpretations thereof; prepares correspondence relating to legal matters; prepares legal opinions; and collaborates with the Department of Justice in respect to litigation affecting the Solid Fuels Administration for War.

(b) Anthracite Distribution Division. The Anthracite Distribution Division handles operating details of distribution of anthracite. Its personnel is composed of experts and specialists who keep currently posted on mine output, industrial stocks, consumption rates, and other related factors, and advise with respect to the direction of anthracite to points of critical need.

(c) Bituminous Distribution Division. This division is also composed of expert personnel who perform functions relating to bituminous coal similar to those of the Anthracite Distribution Division relating to anthracite.

(d) Administrative Division. The Administrative Division prepares budget estimates; controls disbursements;. prepares apportionments and reports required by the Bureau of the Budget; keeps accounting books and reports expenditures to the General Accounting Office, the Treasury, and the Disbursing Office; controls property; and maintains a central filing system.

(e) Compliance Division. The Compliance Division checks on the observance or non-observance of the orders, regulations and directions issued by the Administrator and makes recommendation for suitable action.

(f) Production, conservation, and information. The Information Division promotes the production and conservation of solid fuels by obtaining and publishing statistics and other data respecting the solid fuels industries and the activities of the Solid Fuels Administration for War. It also provides information requested by other government agencies.

§ 600.10 Advisory committees. For the purpose of obtaining industry participation and advice, Bituminous Coal Producers Advisory Boards (30 CFR, 1943 Supp., 601.11–601.14), National and Regional Anthracite Distribution Committees (30 CFR, 1943 Supp., 601.31–601.32), Lake and Tidewater Dock Coal Committees (30 CFR, 1944 Supp., 601.41), National, Area, and Community Advisory Committees (30 CFR, 1944 Supp., 601.51–601.54), and a National Advisory Coke Committee (30 CFR, 1944 Supp., 601.61), were established or continued in existence as established in former orders subsequently revoked. All committees are advisory only.

FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 600.11 Field offices. Field offices, headed by managers having various titles, are maintained in principal areas of production and distribution. The managers compile production data for all mines within their area of jurisdiction, or they supervise the functioning of distribution programs under the Solid Fuels Administration for War orders, regulations and directives, or they do both. Area Distribution Managers are authorized to approve the request of any shipper for transfers of tonnages of coal between retail dealers (§ 602.875 (b) (2) of Revised SFAW Regulation No. 32, 11 F. R. 8575), to require any shipper of coal to furnish him a detailed report of his shipments (§ 602.883 (b)), and to authorize shippers to distribute surplus coal (§§ 602.875 (d) and 602.876 (d)).

PLACES TO OBTAIN INFORMATION AND MAKE REQUESTS

§ 600.20 Inquiries and requests in general. Information of a general nature may be secured from any of the Administration's offices throughout the United States.

Requests for rulings concerning the applicability of any Solid Fuels Administration order, regulation, or direction to a specific set of facts; or for interpretations of Solid Fuels Administration orders, regulations, or directives, should be directed to the Solid Fuels Administration for War, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C. Applications for exception to orders, regulations, or directions may be directed to the Solid Fuels Administration for War, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C., or to the Area Distribution Manager for the district in which the coal is produced, as provided in the respective orders, regulations, or directions.

§ 600.21 Location of central organization. The office of the Deputy Administrator and the central organization of the Solid Fuels Administration for War is located at Washington, D. C.

§ 600.22 Location of field offices. The locations of field offices are as follows:[1]

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 600.100 Orders and regulations. The currently effective orders and regulations of the Solid Fuels Administration for War, which prescribe rules affecting solid fuels or the solid fuels industries, are as follows:

(a) Orders. (1) Order No. 2 (30 CFR, 1943 Supp., 601.11–601.14), establishing a Bituminous Coal Producers Board.

(2) Order No. 3 (30 CFR, 1943 Supp., 602.61–602.64), as amended, requiring the maintenance of records and the filing of reports and other data.

(3) Order No. 6 (30 CFR, 1943 Supp., 601.31–601.32), continuing the National and Regional Anthracite Distribution Committees.

(4) Order No. 11 (30 CFR, 1944 Supp., 601.41), establishing Lake Dock and Tidewater Dock Coal Advisory Committees.

(5) Order No. 12 (30 CFR, 1944 Supp., 601.51–601.54), establishing National, Area, and Community Advisory Committees.

(6) Order No. 15 (30 CFR, 1944 Supp., 601.61), establishing and prescribing functions of the National Advisory Coke Committee.

(7) Revised Order No. 29 (11 F. R. 7937), requiring the maintenance of records and filing of reports concerning anthracite.

(8) Order No. 30 (30 CFR, 1945 Supp., 602.890–602.891), continuing the National and Regional Anthracite Distribution Committees and respective functions.

(b) Regulations. (1) Regulation No. 1 (30 CFR, Cum. Supp., 602.1), as amended, authorizing the issuance of specific directions requiring, forbidding, or otherwise providing for the delivery of solid fuels by or to any person or persons.

(2) Regulation No. 14 (30 CFR, 1944 Supp., 602.250–602.255), authorizing the reconsignment or diversion of coal in transit.

(3) Revised Regulation No. 31 (11 F. R. 7894), regulating the allocation of coal for export.

(4) Revised Regulation No. 32 (11 F. R. 8575), allocating and providing for the distribution of coal produced in Districts 1–4, 6–11, and 13.

(c) Statements of policy. (1) Statement of policy relating to authorization by SFAW for shipment of bituminous coal on the United States Treasury Department's export program (11 F. R. 7128).

(2) Statement of policy respecting the export of anthracite (11 F. R. 7460).

(3) Statement relating to export of coal on commercial markets (11 F. R. 7505).

(4) Statement of policy concerning the export of coal produced in the Western United States (11 F. R. 8216).

§ 600.101 Exercise of functions. (a) The Solid Fuels Administration for War allocates solid fuels of which there is a shortage by means of general regulations and specific directions to shippers. The Administration also acts upon applications for determinations as to the availability of solid fuels for export.

(b) The information upon which the action of the Administration is based is obtained primarily by means of reports from producers, distributors, dealers, and consumers of coal. Periodic reports on the production and distribution of solid fuels are required under the regulations. Whenever the exigencies of the situation permit, full consultation is had with the several industry advisory boards and committees before the issuance of regulations.

§ 600.102 Monthly reports. The following monthly reports are required to be filed on forms prescribed by the orders and regulations. Copies of the forms listed may be obtained from the office of the Deputy Administrator, or any field office.

(a) By producers of bituminous coal generally, on Form S. F. A. No. 38, requiring information relating in general to the mine, tonnages, production, preparation, shipment, destination, and use. See Order No. 3 (30 CFR, 1943 Supp., 602.61–602.64).

(b) By producers of lignite coal, on Form S. F. A. No. 56, requiring information relating in general to the mine, shipping point, tonnages, sizes, destination and use. See Order No. 3 (30 CFR, 1943 Supp., 602.61–602.64).

(c) By producers and wholesalers of anthracite coal, on Revised Form S. F. A. No. 378, requiring information relating in general to the production, preparation, sale, and shipment of anthracite monthly and cumulatively from April 1, 1946, to and including the month reported. See Revised Order No. 29 (11 F. R. 7937).

(d) By dock operators on lakes and tidewater, on Form S. F. A. No. 48, requiring information relating in general to monthly inventories, receipts and shipments, with details as to origin, shipment, kind, destination, and use. See Order No. 3 (30 CFR, 1943 Supp., 602.61–602.64).

(e) By producers in Districts 1–13 (except 5 and 12), on Form SFA No. 79, requiring information relating in general to the producer's monthly distribution of coal, with data as to the mine, district of origin, customer, size, shipment, and use of the coal. See Revised SFAW Regulation No. 32 (11 F. R. 8575).

(f) By dock operators on tidewater and river, on Form No. 79-A, requiring information in general relating to the operator's monthly distribution of coal, with data as to the origin of the coal, size, kind, shipment, and use, inventory, receipts and shipments. See Revised SFAW Regulation No. 32 (11 F. R. 8575).

(g) Industrial consumers and utilities are required by Revised Regulation No. 32 (11 F. R. 8575) to file with the shipper on or before the 24th day of the month preceding the month in which shipment is to be made, an order showing data as to uses, inventories and consumption requirements, and a certification as to their right to receive the coal under the Regulation.

(h) In all cases where reports are required, the person making the report is required to maintain, for a period of two years, the data on which the report is based.

§ 600.103 Voluntary reports. (a) The Solid Fuels Administration for War solicits certain voluntary reports. Retail dealers are requested to file a monthly report (Form SFA No. 7) showing the location of the yard, inventories, receipts and deliveries. Manufacturers are requested to file a report (Form SFC No. 16) showing the name and location of the plant, inventories and consumption requirements as to anthracite, bituminous, lignite, coke, fuel oil, and gas. Producers are requested to submit a weekly mine production running time report (Form SFC No. 27) showing production days, shifts, and hours worked, time and tons lost due to "No Orders," and the number of employees.

(b) This information obtained by the Solid Fuels Administration for War in the above manner is treated as confidential. However, compilations and composite reports thereof may be prepared and published, where such publication would not disclose individual data.

§ 600.104 Applications for approval as to availability of coal for export. (a) Applications for determination as to the availability of coal for export should be made to the Solid Fuels Administration for War, Washington 25, D. C., on Form SFA No. 428 (Revised), requiring information relating in general to the kind, origin and quantity of the coal, destination, Office of International Trade export license number, foreign consumer, and ultimate use of the coal. (See § 602.852 (a) of this chapter.)

(b) If the application is approved, two copies will be returned to the applicant, who within seven days shall return one copy to the Solid Fuels Administration for War, Washington 25, D. C., together with a copy of the cargo manifest, consist report, or dumping sheet, and other information required by SFAW Order No. 3.

§ 600.105 Availability of coal for export. A statement of policy (11 F. R. 7128), issued June 24, 1946, provides that any person who has surplus coal for export on the Treasury Department's program may submit, in duplicate, an offer to the Solid Fuels Administration for War. Such offer, respecting coal produced in Districts 1–6, 8–11, and 13–15, shall be submitted to the Area Distribution Manager for the area in which the coal is produced, and, with respect to coal produced in Districts 7, 12, 16–20, and 22–23, to the Solid Fuels Administration for War, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 600.110 Compliance procedure. Compliance officers visit persons subject to or affected by the regulations. The officers may not officially interpret any regulations, but are instructed to ascertain the person's familiarity with them. The officers make periodic spot checks and investigate reported violations, interviewing the person reported to be in violation. If irregularities are noted the person involved is requested to make such explanation as the officer desires. The officer may not publicly disclose information obtained by him. A report of each irregularity is made to the manager of the field office, and, if a violation is indicated, the person is requested to appear before the manager and is afforded an opportunity to explain the circumstances of the transaction. The manager then files a report with the Chief of the Compliance Division in Washington, D. C.

It is the policy of the Solid Fuels Administration to permit the manager of the field office to make final disposition in cases of minor and unintentional violations when maldistribution is capable of being corrected. In more serious cases, alleged violators are given an opportunity to make such explanations to the central office of SFAW as they desire, and thereafter, the Deputy Administrator may issue a letter of warning or prohibition, or may issue an order suspending the violator from participation in the program of allocation of solid fuels or materials. He may also refer the matter to the Department of Justice for such criminal action as may be deemed necessary, or for the institution of injunctive proceedings, as provided for by Title III of the Second War Powers Act, 1942, as amended.

§ 600.112 Opinions and orders. All opinions and orders in the adjudication of cases, and official records, except those required for good cause to be held confidential and not cited as precedents, are available for inspection at the office of the Solid Fuels Administration for War, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C. In some cases permission will be given by the Washington office of SFAW to inspect certain data in the field offices.

§ 600.113 Official records. Upon application to the Deputy Administrator, Solid Fuels Administration for War, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C., all except confidential final opinions and orders of Solid Fuels Administration are available for inspection by interested parties at the central office and all except confidential matters of official record are available for examination and inspection at the central office by persons properly and directly concerned. See also 43 CFR, Part 2.

C. GIRARD DAVIDSON,
Acting Secretary.

ESTABLISHMENT

§ 500.1 Creation. The Southwestern Power Administration was created by the Secretary of the Interior in 1943 to market power from the Denison Dam Project and the Norfork Dam Project. Subsequently the Administration was charged with the responsibility of marketing power produced by projects of the Corps of Engineers, United States Army, in the Southwestern part of the United States.

§ 500.2 Purpose. In marketing hydroelectric power the Administration's objectives are to market such power at the lowest possible rates to consumers, to encourage the widest possible use of its power and in so doing to provide market outlets by constructing, inter-connecting, operating, and maintaining such transmissions lines and substations as are necessary. The area of operation is the States of Arkansas and Louisiana, the part of Kansas and Missouri south of the Missouri River Basin and east of the 98th Meridian, and that part of Texas and Oklahoma lying east of the 99th Meridian and north of the San Antonio River Basin.

§ 500.5 General description. The Southwestern Power Administration consists of a headquarters staff at Tulsa, Oklahoma, four offices of the Operations Division in Oklahoma and Arkansas, and district offices of the Administration at Little Rock, Arkansas, and Denison, Texas. The headquarters staff is made up of the Administrator, several staff offices and four technical sections.

HEADQUARTERS ORGANIZATION

§ 500.10 Administrator. The Administrator of the Southwestern Power Administration is the chief executive. He reports through the Division of Power to the Secretary of the Interior. The Office of the Administrator formulates plans and procedures for carrying out the objectives of the Administration, and directs its operations.

§ 500.11 Staff offices. Staff offices include the Legal Section, the Personnel Section, the Administrative Section and the Controller Section, the latter section performing budget, finance, accounting and auditing functions for the entire agency.

§ 500.12 Operations Section. The Operations Section directs the operation of the Southwestern Power Administration's electric power facilities, the regulation of stream flow, the transmission of power through its own and associated facilities and the maintenance of facilities.

§ 500.13 Engineering Section. The Engineering Section supervises the engineering activities of the Southwestern Power Administration, including the designing and constructing of lines, substations and plants, and renders technical advice on operation and maintenance. The Section prepares studies of an engineering nature in the general field with which the Administration is concerned.

§ 500.14 Industrial Management and Information Section. The Industrial Management and Information Section conducts power market surveys of the area, promotes industrial development and potential markets for the sale of power, develops relationships with private and public agencies interested in the expansion of power facilities and directs the informational activities of the Administration.

§ 500.15 Land Section. The Land Section performs all work necessary for acquisition of lands, maintains records and maps of land under jurisdiction of the Southwestern Power Administration and handles all claims arising from land acquisition.

FIELD ORGANIZATION

§ 500.20 Operations Section. To discharge the functions of operations and maintenance with which it is charged, the Section maintains four field offices. These offices report directly to the Section.

§ 500.21 District offices. There are two district offices reporting administratively to the Administrator, and technically to the respective Sections whose functions they perform in the field. The District Offices develop and maintain business and public relationships necessary to the negotiation of power sales contracts and related power marketing functions. They carry on an advisory service to customers, conduct engineering investigations, collect operating data, and assist in the operation of the transmission system.

LISTS OF DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY

§ 500.40 Purpose of list of delegations of authority. The following sections are not in themselves delegations of authority. The sections are merely a list of delegations and indicate the various matters with respect to which delegations have been made. They are intended as an index and outline. For the scope and limitations of particular delegations of authority, the specific regulations and orders to which cross references are made must be consulted.

§ 500.41 Administrator. The Administrator has been delegated authority to:

(a) Carry out the functions and duties assigned to the Secretary of the Interior by Executive Orders Numbers 8944 (3 CFR, Cum. Supp., p. 1026) 9353, 9365, 9373 (3 CFR, 1943 Supp., pp. 26, 35, 39), relating to the Denison Dam Project, the Norfork Dam Project, and the Grand River Dam Project. See Order No. 1865 (8 F. R. 12142).

(b) Carry out the functions of the Secretary of the Interior relating to power generated at certain projects under the control of the War Department. See Order No. 2135 (10 F. R. 14527).

PLACES TO OBTAIN INFORMATION AND MAKE REQUESTS

§ 500.60 Inquiries and requests in general. Information concerning the policies and programs of the Administration, including reports and bulletins, may be obtained by addressing the Administrator, Southwestern Power Administration, Kennedy Building, P. O. Drawer 1619, Tulsa 1, Oklahoma. Technical information on such matters as wholesale power rates, rate policies, power contract procedures, availability of supply, and construction plans also may be obtained from the same address. Inquiries regarding power contracts, including availability of supply and rates, which concern a particular locality in the area may be addressed to the nearest district office listed below.

(a) Pryor, Oklahoma.
(b) Langley, Oklahoma.
(c) Van Buren, Arkansas.
(d) Hot Springs, Arkansas.

§ 500.63 District offices. District offices of the Southwestern Power Administration are located as follows:

(a) Little Rock, Arkansas.
(b) Denison, Texas.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 500.100 Rates. Proposed rate schedules are initiated by the Power Distribution Sales and Contract Unit of the Engineering Section. They are reviewed by the Area Power Managers, Controller, General Counsel, and the Assistant Administrator. Proposed rates are then submitted to the Administrator, who, if they meet with his approval, forwards them to the Secretary through the Division of Power. Proposed rates, after being reviewed by the Division of Power, are submitted to the Secretary for approval. The rates are then submitted by the Administrator to the Federal Power Commission for confirmation and approval pursuant to the requirements of the act of December 22, 1944 (sec. 5, 58 Stat. 890; 16 U. S. C. Sup. 825s).

§ 500.101 Marketing activities. In marketing power, Southwestern Power Administration negotiates power sales contracts with public bodies, cooperatives, privately owned utilities, the large industrial customers who take power in wholesale quantities, and other Federal agencies. Contacts are made with potential industrial customers throughout the United States who indicate interest in establishing plants in the southwest. All possible service is rendered to customers or prospective customers, leading to increased and more efficient use of power.

Research activities and coordination of program of power distribution and use are carried on in coordination with other bureaus and agencies of the Department of the Interior, other Federal departments, and particularly with the Rural Electrification Administration.

Initial power marketing contacts are generally made by the District Offices or by Industrial Management and Information Section. On the establishment of the interest of a potential consumer, contact is taken up by the Power Distribution Sales and Contract Unit of the Engineering Section. Power utilization by rural electric cooperatives, public bodies and potential industrial customers is being stressed in every possible way.

VIRGIN ISLANDS COMPANY

PART 300—ORGANIZATION AND PROCEDURE

Sec.
300.1 Creation.
300.2 General description.
300.20 Inquiries and requests in general.
300.21 Location of offices.

§ 300.1 Creation. The Virgin Islands Company was created by Ordinance of the Colonial Council of St. Thomas and St. John, Virgin Islands, on April 16, 1934, to aid in effecting the economic rehabilitation of the Virgin Islands and to promote the general welfare of the people of those Islands. The Company's corporate existence has been recognized by the Congress.

§ 300.2 General description. (a) The Virgin Islands Company is a non-profit corporation. The total authorized capital stock of the Company is represented by three shares, issued at a fixed rate of $10 each, and held by the stockholders as a board of trustees under a trust agreement for the benefit of the people of the Virgin Islands. The Company operates certain Federal properties in St. Thomas and St. Croix, and a rural electrification project in St. Croix. The annual net profits of the Company, derived from operation of the Federal properties, are turned into the United States Treasury.

(b) The governing body of the Company is a board of seven directors elected by the board of trustees. A President, elected by the Board of Directors, is in immediate charge of the Company's operations. The Division of Territories and Island Possessions has the responsibility of protecting the Federal interests in the Company, and aids in the management of the Company.

(c) Under an operating agreement originally executed in November 1934 with the United States, acting through the Secretary of the Interior, the Company operates and maintains Federal properties in St. Thomas and St. Croix. The principal activity of the Company is the growing of sugarcane, the milling of sugar and distillation of rum. In addition the Company operates a mail, cargo and passenger schooner, supervises the operation of a market and abattoir, and rents out tractors and other equipment and supplies, homes and subsistence plots to its employees. In 1941, the Company formed a Rural Electric Division which supplies electric power to the rural areas of St. Croix.

§ 300.20 Inquiries and requests in general. Information concerning The Virgin Islands Company may be secured by addressing The Virgin Islands Company, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C. (or Christiansted, St. Croix, Virgin Islands).

§ 300.21 Locations of offices. The principal office of The Virgin Islands Company is located in the Municipality of St. Thomas and St. John. The office of the President of the Company is located in Christiansted, St. Croix, where most of the Company's activities are centered. There is an office of the Company in the Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C.

PART 2100—OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

Sec.
2100.1 The Secretary, Under Secretary, and Assistant Secretary.
2100.2 Judicial Officer.
2100.3 Availability of information and records.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURES

2100.10 General.
2100.11 Claims based on negligence.
2100.12 Rule-making procedures.
2100.13 Petitions.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

§ 2100.1 The Secretary, Under Secretary, and Assistant Secretary. (a) The work of the Department of Agriculture is supervised and directed by the Secretary of Agriculture, who is assisted by an Under Secretary and an Assistant Secretary. The Under Secretary and the Assistant Secretary may perform all the duties and exercise all the powers and functions vested in the Secretary of Agriculture, to the extent they may be delegated, subject to limitations specifically prescribed by the Secretary (6 F. R. 2204).

(b) In the absence of the Secretary, the Under Secretary may perform all the duties of the Secretary. In the absence of both the Secretary and the Under Secretary, the Assistant Secretary may perform all the duties of the Secretary.

§ 2100.2 Judicial Officer. By delegation from the Secretary pursuant to statute (5 U. S. C. 516a–516e), the Judicial Officer makes final administrative decisions in all regulatory proceedings of a judicial or quasi-judicial nature conducted by the Department (except proceedings arising under temporary powers existing for the duration of the war or a specified time thereafter), whether license, disciplinary, rate, reparation, or otherwise, in which hearings or opportunities for hearing are given, and he performs any action required or authorized before, after, or in connection with such decisions. All provisions of law are construed as if the powers delagted to the Judicial Officer by the Secretary had been vested by law in the Judicial Officer (5 U. S. C. 516c). Decisions of the Judicial Officer are published monthly in Agriculture Decisions, copies of which may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

§ 2100.3 Availability of information and records.[1] The following rules shall govern the availability for examination, or the furnishing of copies, of matters of official record of the Department, including those on file with the National Archives:

(a) Confidential records. The following records are confidential and shall not be subject to examination, nor shall copies thereof be furnished upon any request except in proper cases from Federal official sources:

(1) All records and reports required by statutes to be held confidential by the Department.

(2) Blueprints of meat slaughtering or meat, poultry or dairy products processing plants and establishments.

(3) Producers' referendum ballots.

(4) Minutes of meetings (except resolutions extracted therefrom) of Boards of Directors of Corporations under administrative supervision of the Department of Agriculture or any of its agencies, State Production and Marketing Administration committees, and county agricultural conservation committees.

(5) Records of audits, other than information with respect thereto authorized by the Secretary of Agriculture or the Boards of Directors of Corporations to be made available.

(6) Reports furnished the Department confidentially by dealers, manufacturers, or associations thereof covering quantities of commodities processed, purchased or sold during prescribed periods and the price paid therefor.

(7) Documents, photographs or maps of other government agencies required to be held confidential under regulations or orders of the other government agency.

(8) Personnel investigation reports, investigation or accounting reports made to determine compliance with law or regulations, or reports of inspection operations.

(9) Records of research, experimentation and physical analysis of samples and other materials in the course of investigations, including patent records, prior to publication, release, or use of the results thereof.

(10) Records, reports and estimates of crops for consideration and release by Crop Reporting Board prior to formal release.

(11) Charges, complaints and other processes in adjudicative proceedings prior to publication or use.

[1] Supersedes 7 CFR 1.1533.

NOTICE

Part II of this issue contains organizational and procedural material submitted pursuant to section 3 (a) (1) and (2) of the Administrative Procedure Act (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong.; 60 Stat. 238). This material is presented by Departments in the order of their establishment, followed by independent agencies in alphabetical order. Placement within the Code of Federal Regulations is indicated by bold face brackets at the head of each unit and by appropriate part and section designations within the unit.

Due to the volume of material presented in Part II it has been necessary to bind the part in several sections and to place the table of contents at the end of the last section.

(b) Records of limited availability. The records enumerated below are of limited availability and information contained therein shall not be disclosed, nor shall a copy thereof be furnished, except as specifically provided:

(1) Reports and records which by statute may be made available only in suits or administrative proceedings will be available only under the conditions provided for in the statute.

(2) Upon approval of the head of the bureau, agency or branch concerned, based upon the considerations prescribed in paragraph (d) of this section, the following records shall be available as indicated:

(a) Applications, reports, and like records, together with supporting data and documents, other than those under paragraphs (a), (b) (1), (b) (2) (c), or (b) (2) (d) of this section, submitted by an applicant for relief, license, certificate, use, loan, grant or other benefit provided by law or by regulations authorized by law, shall be made available to the person who furnished the record, and also under compulsory process.

(b) Contractual records and other agreement records, together with supporting data, shall be available to the contractor or person supplying the record, and also under compulsory process.

(c) Reports and applications acquired from farmers and handlers of agricultural products, equipment and supplies in connection with conservation programs formulated under sections 7 to 17, inclusive, of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act (1936), as amended (16 U. S. C. 590g to 590q), and in connection with control or adjustment programs developed under prior acts of Congress shall be available to the person who furnished the record, and also to other persons properly and directly concerned. When such records are to be used in court or administrative proceedings, an authorized representative of the head of the branch or bureau having custody of the records shall appear and produce such records only if the records remain in the custody of such representative at all times.

(d) Records, reports and applications submitted to central and field offices of the Production and Marketing Aministration by farmers, handlers, and processors of the commodities wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco, rice, and peanuts in connection with commodity loan, parity payment, and marketing quota programs pursuant to Title III of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1301–1393), shall be available to the person supplying the data, and also to the extent deemed relevant by the administrative head of the Production and Marketing Administration branch concerned, in any suit or administrative hearing under Title III of the above named act.

(3) Inspection certificates of grade, quality or condition shall be available for examination in accordance with the applicable regulations governing such inspection, and copies thereof may be obtained upon the payment of fees, if any, prescribed therefor (7 CFR, Subtitle B, ch. I).

(4) Records obtained pursuant to sec. 4 of Federal Reports Act of 1942 shall be released only with the approval of the agency from which the information is obtained.

(5) Reports received under the Commodity Exchange Act or information contained in such reports are only available where relevant in any suit or administrative proceeding pursuant to subpoena.

(6) Records of Farm Credit Administration and of the various corporations under its supervision that are declared confidential in regulations issued by Farm Credit Administration (6 CFR Part 4) shall be made available to the persons and in the circumstances specified in said regulations.

(7) Personnel records shall not be available except upon the authorization of the Director of Personnel given with due regard for the welfare of the employee concerned and in accordance with the considerations prescribed in paragraph (d) of this section.

(8) Records relating to the business or property of any handler or any person furnished by, or obtained from, such handler or person pursuant to any marketing agreement or marketing order are available as prescribed in 7 CFR 900.200.

(9) Records relating to the business and property of any person obtained pursuant to the requirements of the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act of 1930, as amended, are available as prescribed in 7 CFR Part 46.

(c) Records in adjudications and formal rule-making proceedings. Records in adjudications and formal rule-making proceedings are on file in the office of the Hearing Clerk, Office of the Solicitor, Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., and shall be made available to persons having a proper interest therein.

(d) Records available to properly interested persons. All other records of the Department and of corporations under the administrative supervision of the Department shall be made available if so determined by the administrative head of the bureau, agency, branch, or corporation having custody of same, to persons properly and directly concerned, and in making his determination he shall be guided by the following considerations:

(1) Whether the release of the record will jeopardize future government access to information.

(2) Whether the release of the record at the time is premature and will improperly affect a pending action.

(3) Whether the disclosure of the record will have the effect of hindering free administrative decisions in the same or similar matters in the future.

(4) Whether the purpose for which the record is sought is prejudicial to the public interest.

(5) Whether the record is already otherwise made public, such as reports of public hearings and conferences, recorded maps, plats and documents, records published for the information of the public, and material of a similar public nature.

(e) Other information. Any other information expressly or impliedly obtained or received in confidence, or relating to pending cases, or dealing with studies, inspections, or investigations of the Department or its collaborators, or otherwise confidential, shall not be available unless the head of the bureau, agency or branch concerned otherwise determines on the basis of the considerations prescribed in paragraph (d) of this section.

(f) Application, for examination or copy of records. Except as otherwise provided herein, application for examination of a record or for a copy thereof shall be made to the administrative head of the bureau, agency or branch administering the program relating to the same. Examination of records, where examination is permitted, shall be at times and places convenient to the public business, and copies, when obtainable, shall be furnished at rates established therefor.

(g) Authenticated copies. When a request is received for an authenticated copy of a record of the Department which is otherwise available under these rules to the party requesting same, for use as evidence in litigation or otherwise, the administrative head of the bureau having custody thereof shall cause a correct copy to be prepared and sent to the Solicitor who shall certify same and cause the seal of the Department to be affixed.

(h) Denial of access to record. The administrative head of the bureau, agency or branch having custody of the record shall give prompt written notice of a denial, in whole or in part, of any written application, petition or other request of an interested party when made in the course of a departmental proceeding, and shall set forth a simple statement of the grounds for such refusal. In any other case, the reasons for refusal shall be available to the applicant.

§ 2100.10 General. The functions of the Department of Agriculture and the methods by which they are channeled to and determined by the Office of the Secretary are described in the succeeding sections of this Subpart B and in the statements of functions and procedures of the various agencies in the Department of Agriculture that are contained in this chapter, in Chapters IV (Federal Crop Insurance Corporation) and VI (Soil Conservation Service) of Title 7, in Chapters I (Farm Credit Administration), II (Production and Marketing Administration—Commodity Credit), III (Farm Security Administration), and IV (Rural Electrification Administration) of Title 6, and in Chapters II (Forest Service) and IV (National Forest Reservation Commission) of Title 36.

§ 2100.11 Claims based on negligence. Any person claiming injury or loss alleged to have been caused by the negligence of an employee of any agency of the Department of Agriculture may apply to the local office of such agency for a copy of the appropriate claim form (No. 28 for claims arising out of motor vehicle collisions and No. AD–24 for other claims). The completed claim should be filed with the office from which obtained. Field officials of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service forward each completed form, together with an investigative report and recommendation, directly to the Office of the Solicitor, United States Department of Agriculture, Washingon 25, D. C. The field officials of each other agency forward each completed form, together with an investigative report and recommendation, to the Washington office of the agency, which in turn submits the materials to the Solicitor's Office. Upon the basis of the facts and law involved, the Solicitor recommends to the Secretary the allowance or disallowance of the claim. After final determination by the Secretary, the Solicitor notifies the claimant whether his claim has been allowed or disallowed. In the event a claim is allowed, the claimant is advised of the time and the method of payment.

§ 2100.12 Rule-making proccedures. In all cases where section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act requires notice to be given of proposed rule-making, the notice shall indicate the procedure to be followed in the rule-making proceeding unless the procedure is prescribed by statute or by published rule of the Department.

§ 2100.13 Petitions. Petitions by interested persons in accordance with the provisions of section 4 (d) of the Administrative Procedure Act for the issuance, amendment or repeal of a rule may be filed with the official that issued or is authorized to issue the rule. All such petitions will be given prompt consideration and petitioners will be notified promptly of the disposition made of their petitions.

[SEAL] CLINTON P. ANDERSON,
Secretary.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURE

§ 2401.1 Central organization. The Office of the Administrator is located at Washington, D. C., and conducts the general planning and coordination of the research and regulatory activities of all the agencies in the Agricultural Research Administration, which are: Bureau of Agricultural and Industrial Chemistry (see Part 2402 of this chapter); Bureau of Animal Industry (Part 2403); Agricultural Research Center (Part 2404); Bureau of Dairy Industry (Part 2405); Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine (Part 2406); Office of Experiment Stations (Part 2407); Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics (Part 2408); and Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils, and Agricultural Engineering (Part 2409). This Office is also responsible for the broad planning and the coordination of the programs of the four regional research laboratories authorized by Sec. 202 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 (7 U. S. C. 1281); and for the administration of the Special Research Fund (7 U. S. C. 427b).

§ 2401.2 Field organization. The Office of the Administrator is directly responsible for the administration of the Agricultural Research Center (Part 2404) and the U. S. Regional Plant, Soil, and Nutrition Laboratory, Ithaca, New York.

§ 2401.3 Information, submittals and requests. Persons desiring information or wishing to make submittals or requests with respect to the activities of the Agricultural Research Administration may do so by communicating with the Agricultural Research Administrator, Washington 25, D. C.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURE

NOTE: The Office of the Administrator serves as a coordinating office, and its procedures are matters of internal management.

Sec.
2402.1 Central organization.
2402.2 Field organization.
2402.3 Information submittals and requests.
2402.4 Delegations of final authority.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURES

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

§ 2402.1 Central organization. (a) The central organization of the Bureau of Agricultural and Industrial Chemistry is located at Washington, D. C. The Chief of the Bureau, aided by three Assistant Chiefs is responsible for the scientific and administrative direction of all activities of the Bureau. The work of the Bureau is conducted pursuant to Section 520 of the revised statutes, 5 U. S. C. 511, the Act of June 29, 1935 (7 U. S. C. 427 b), and Sec. 202 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 (7 U. S. C. 1281).

(b) These activities include research in the fields of chemistry, physics, and other sciences with the object of developing new, wider, and more effective industrial uses for agricultural products as well as improvement of agricultural products as foods, feeds, and other uses.

(c) The central organization includes the Administrative Services Division, Personnel Division, the Information Division, and the Allergen Research Division which Division conducts work relating to the distribution, properties, and chemical composition of allergens present in agricultural products and their immunological properties.

§ 2402.2 Field organization—(a) Regional research laboratories. Pursuant to section 202 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, four regional research laboratories have been established. These laboratories conduct research on the utilization of agricultural commodities, including fundamental, applied, and pilot plant research directed toward the development of new uses of agricultural products and byproducts and the improvement and extension of existing uses, including research on food products. (1) The Southern Regional Research Laboratory, New Orleans, Louisiana, primarily serves the southern producing area, including Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, South Carolina, and Texas. Present research work is conducted with respect to cotton, sweetpotatoes, and peanuts. (2) The Western Regional Research Laboratory, Albany, California, primarily serves the western producing area, including Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming. Present research work is conducted with respect to fruits, vegetables, poultry, alfalfa, and wheat. (3) The Eastern Regional Research Laboratory, Wyndmoor, Pennsylvania, primarily serves the eastern producing area, including Connecticut, Delaware, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia, and West Virginia. Present research work is conducted with respect to apples, vegetables, milk, animal fats and oils, and tanning materials. (4) The Northern Regional Research Laboratory, Peoria, Illinois, primarily serves the northern producing area, including Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, and Wisconsin. Present research work is conducted with respect to corn, wheat and other cereal crops, soybeans and other oilseed crops, and agricultural residues.

(b) Agricultural chemical investigations. Research on the chemistry, technology, processing, and utilization of raw agricultural materials; on the microbiology of agricultural products; on the application of enzymology to agricultural products; on the pharmacological testing of agricultural products and byproducts; and on biologically active chemical compounds in plants is conducted at the following locations: (1) Agricultural Chemical Research Division, New Orleans, Louisiana (chemistry, technology, processing and utilization of organic raw materials, including fruits, vegetables, sugar, tung oil, etc.). (2) Microbiology Research Division, Wyndmoor, Pennsylvania (microbiology of agricultural products). (3) Enzyme and Phytochemical Research Division, Albany, California (Enzymological and phytochemical study of agricultural products). (4) Fruit and Vegetable Laboratories, Los Angeles, California and Pullman, Washington (preservation and processing of fruits and vegetables). (5) Pharmacology Laboratory, Albany, California (pharmacological testing of agricultural products). (6) Biologically Active Chemical Compounds, Beltsville, Maryland (investigations of biologically active chemical compounds present in growing plants).

(c) Naval stores investigations. Naval Stores Research Division, New Orleans, Louisiana, conducts research on pine oleoresin, turpentine and resin to develop improved methods of producing, handling, and storage and new and improved derivatives.

(d) Synthetic liquid fuels investigations. Synthetic Liquid Fuels Project, Peoria, Illinois, conducts research for the purpose of determining manufacturing steps in the production of synthetic liquid fuels from agricultural residues.

§ 2402.3 Information submittals and requests. Public information may be obtained from and submittals and requests may be made to the heads of the various field organizations described above, or to the Chief, Bureau of Agricultural and Industrial Chemistry, Agricultural Research Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 2403.4 Delegations of final authority. All delegations of final authority are contained in Bureau of Animal Industry orders (9 CFR Parts 51–66, 71–96, 101–131, and 151), except the following:

Officials in charge of field stations are authorized to exercise limited authority to contract for supplies and services.

§ 2403.20 Research, service, and State cooperation—(a) Research. The Bureau conducts research in the breeding, nutrition, and management of domestic and foreign animals (except dairy cattle), poultry, and fur-bearing animals, their products, in the technology of the production and chemistry of their feeds, and in the cause, prevention, and treatment of diseases and pests of such livestock (5 U. S. C. 511; 7 U. S. C. 391–393). Results of research are disseminated to the public through the office of the Chief.

(b) Service and cooperative work. (1) The Bureau provides expert assistance and advice to producers, breeders, and others interested in livestock and poultry, independently and in cooperation with State and local authorities (5 U. S. C. 511; 7 U. S. C. 391–393; and Public Law 369, 79th Congress), concerning the eradication and control of certain specific diseases and pests affecting animals and poultry, such as scabies and ticks in sheep and cattle, tuberculosis in poultry and swine, etc. Livestock and poultry owners may receive inspections and tests of their animals and advice as to proper treatment and care upon request to the local or State authorities or to the local inspector for the Bureau. The cooperation with the State and local authorities is performed pursuant to cooperative agreements and memoranda of understanding.

(2) The Bureau administers the provisions of the National Poultry Improvement Plan and the National Turkey Improvement Plan (7 U. S. C. 429 (Supp. V)). These plans seek through the application of breeding and other standards of performance, tests for disease, certifications, and the dissemination of scientific information to improve the production and market quality of chickens and turkeys, to minimize losses from diseases, and to provide standards of breeding stock, hatching eggs, and chicks and poults with respect to breeding quality and freedom from pullorum disease. These plans are administered locally through State agencies and industry members within the State under cooperative agreements between an official State agency and the Bureau.

(3) The Bureau also makes diagnosis of rabies specimens for the public on a fee basis (7 U. S. C. 395 (Supp. V)). Persons desiring to avail themselves of this service may communicate with the Chief of the Bureau.

§ 2403.21 Eradication of tuberculosis, paratuberculosis, and Bang's disease. (a) The Tuberculosis Eradication Division conducts a program for the eradication of tuberculosis, paratuberculosis, and Bang's disease, in cooperation with the States (21 U. S. C. 111 and 114 and 21 U. S. C. 114a (Supp. V)). The participation of livestock owners in this program is voluntary so far as the Bureau of Animal Industry is concerned, but some State laws have the effect, by requiring testing, or bringing all livestock owners under the program. The work is conducted in accordance with B. A. I. Orders 309 and 375 (9 CFR, Parts 51, 71–77) issued by the Secretary pursuant to said acts.

(b) A livestock owner desiring to participate may make informal application to the State livestock sanitary officials or to the Inspector in Charge. B. A. I. Orders 309 and 375 set forth the procedure with respect to testing and inspection of the cattle, marking and appraisal of reactors, shipment and slaughter of reactors, and payment of indemnity. If the owner of cattle is dissatisfied with the appraisal of his cattle, he may appeal to the Inspector in Charge, then to the Chief of the Bureau, and finally to the Secretary of Agriculture. No special form of appeal is prescribed.

(c) The Bureau, in cooperation with the States, also offers a Bang's disease vaccination service which may be obtained on informal request to the Inspector in Charge or the proper State officials.

§ 2403.22 Field inspection—(a) Inspection and quarantine of import animals. (1) Under section 306 (a) of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U. S. C. 1306a), the importation of domestic ruminants or swine or of fresh, chilled, or frozen beef, veal, mutton, lamb, or pork from countries in which foot-and-mouth disease, or rinderpest, is known to exist is prohibited. The countries to which that prohibition applies are listed in B. A. I. Order 373 (9 CFR, Part 94). The importation of ruminants and swine which are diseased or which have been exposed to such infection within 60 days next prior to their exportation is also prohibited (21 U. S. C. 104).

(2) The regulations provide that such animals or products which reach this country must be returned or destroyed. The owner or his agent is notified of the fact that his property must be destroyed or returned, and if destruction is authorized it must be conducted under the direct supervision of employees of the Bureau. All livestock offered for importation into this country must be inspected to determine their freedom from disease (21 U. S. C. 101–105, 111). Inspectors are assigned along the international borders and at designated ports of entry to inspect the animals, examine accompanying certificates, and release or quarantine such animals. The conditions of inspection, methods of procedure, and other necessary information relating to the inspection of livestock offered for import are contained in B. A. I. Orders 368 and 379 (9 CFR, Parts 92 and 93).

(3) In the case of ruminants and swine, except from Canada, a prior permit is required before such animals may be brought into the United States. Application for a permit must be submitted to the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington 25, D. C., who will inform the importer of the special requirements to be met in making such importation. The general requirements governing such importations are found in B. A. I. Order 379 (9 CFR, Part 92). The permit may be issued or refused depending upon disease conditions in the country of origin at the time of application.

(4) Special regulations are prescribed governing the inspection and quarantine of livestock imported or exported to Mexico by B. A. I. Order 368 (9 CFR, Part 93), pursuant to a treaty with Mexico (46 Stat. 2451).

(5) The importation of animal byproducts, hides, skins, hair, wool, glue stock, bones, hoofs, horns, bone meal, hoof meal, horn meal, blood meal, meat meal, tankage, glands, organs, or other parts or products of ruminants and swine unsuitable for human consumption, and hay and straw, is governed by B. A. I. Order 371 (9 CFR, Part 95) issued pursuant to statute (21 U.S.C. 111).

(b) Importation of purebred animals. Paragraph 1606 of section 201 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1201, par. 1606) permits citizens of the United States to import, free of duty, livestock for breeding purposes where found and certified to be purebred by the Department of Agriculture. The regulations governing such importation are prescribed in B. A. I. Order 356 (9 CFR, Part 151).

(c) Inspection and testing of animals for export. Freedom from disease of domestic ruminants and swine must be established when such animals are offered for exportation, and the transporting vessels must be equipped to insure their safe and humane handling (21 U. S. C. 80–82, 105, 112–113, 120–122, and 45 U. S. C. 75–76). The provisions of B. A. I. Order 378 (9 CFR, Parts 91 and 93) contain the procedures and methods to be followed.

(d) Emergency outbreak of diseases. (1) The Bureau also conducts a program to control and eradicate contagious or infectious diseases of animals which, in the opinion of the Secretary of Agriculture, constitute an emergency and threaten the livestock industry of the country (21 U. S. C. 114 and 21 U. S. C. 114a (Supp. V)). The Secretary is authorized to purchase and destroy diseased or exposed animals or pay indemnities for their destruction. Regulations governing the exercise of this authority are contained in B. A. I. Orders 309, 375, and 376 (9 CFR, Parts 71–77, 51, and 53).

(2) This work is carried on cooperatively with the States. When it is determined that an animal is infected or exposed to a disease under conditions requiring its destruction, an appraisal of the animal is made and reported and a voucher is submitted to the local Inspector in Charge for the Bureau. Copies of forms and detailed instructions as to their use may be obtained from the local field inspector or the local Inspector in Charge in the locality in which the animals are located. Any person dissatisfied with the decision of the Bureau's local employee may request reconsideration of that decision by the Inspector in Charge within the State or the Chief of the Bureau.

§ 2403.23 Interstate inspection. (a) The Interstate Inspection Division administers B. A. I. Orders 291 and 309 (9 CFR, Parts 71–77, 81), issued by the Secretary pursuant to statute (21 U. S. C. 111–119 and 123–128), which prescribe regulations for the quarantine of areas affected with contagious, infectious, and communicable diseases and the interstate movement of livestock.

(b) The Secretary may place in quarantine any State or territory or part thereof where he deems such quarantine necessary to prevent the spread of contagious, infectious, or communicable diseases. The order of quarantine is published in the Federal Register, and notice thereof is also published in local newspapers in the affected areas.

(c) The owner or shipper desiring to make interstate shipment of livestock may make application to the local field office of the Bureau or to the Chief of the Bureau at Washington 25, D. C. The conditions under which interstate shipment is permitted are prescribed by rules (9 CFR, Parts 71–77, 81).

(d) If permission is refused the owner or shipper may request review of the decision by the Bureau Inspector in Charge of the area and from his decision may apply for review to the Chief of Bureau. With such request supporting evidence may be included. No form of request is prescribed.

§ 2403.24 Virus-serum control. (a) The Division of Virus-Serum Control administers the Virus-Serum Control Act (21 U. S. C. 151–158) which regulates the manufacture, preparation, importation, and sale of viruses, serums, toxins, and analogous products for the control of hog cholera and other animal diseases. The general course and method of procedure are prescribed in regulations which the Secretary has issued pursuant to authority contained in said act (9 CFR, Parts 101–122).

(b) Generally, applications for licenses or permits are submitted through the office of the Inspector in Charge. If the application is denied, the applicant may request review by the Chief of the Bureau, and from his ruling by the Secretary. No form of request is prescribed. The licenses or permits may be suspended or revoked after hearing in accordance with prescribed procedure (9 CFR, Part 101).

(c) Marketing agreements and orders controlling distribution of hog cholera serum and virus may be issued under the provisions of 7 U. S. C. 851–855. The Secretary has issued procedural rules and regulations pursuant to said act (9 CFR, Part 131–132).

BUREAU OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

[7 CFR, Subtitle C, Ch. XXI]

PART 2405—BUREAU OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

Sec.
2405.1 Central organization.
2405.2 Field organization.
2405.3 Public information, submittals and requests.
2405.4 Delegations of final authority.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURES

2405.20 Process or renovated butter regulations.
2405.21 Dairy herd improvement associations.
2405.22 Loan of dairy sires.

§ 2405.1 Central organization. (a) The central organization of the Bureau of Dairy Industry is located at Washington, D. C. The Bureau conducts research (1) in dairy cattle breeding, feeding, and management to improve the producing efficiency of dairy cows; (2) to determine the nutritional requirements of dairy cattle for maintaining optimum levels of usefulness, and the value of feeds, feed constituents, and feeding regimes as sources of nutrients; the nutritional value of milk and the effect of nutrition of the cow upon the milk produced, and the physiological factors affecting the general economic usefulness of dairy cattle; and (3) to improve the quality of dairy products and to develop methods of manufacturing new dairy products through chemical, bacteriological, and technological research in the production and handling of milk to preserve its palatability and nutritive and sanitary qualities. The Bureau also administers the regulations of the Secretary governing the manufacture, sale and exportation of process or renovated butter (9 CFR, Part 301; 26 U. S. C. 2325).

(b) The Chief of Bureau is aided by an Assistant Chief for Research and an Assistant Chief for Administration. The research work is conducted through the following Divisions: Dairy Cattle Breeding, Feeding and Management; Nutrition and Physiology; Dairy Herd Improvement Investigations; and Dairy Research Laboratories. The regulations concerning process or renovated butter are administered by the staff of the Assistant Chief for Administration.

§ 2405.2 Field organization. The Bureau of Dairy Industry maintains an experiment station at Beltsville, Md., where certain phases of its research work are conducted. It also maintains dairy experiment stations for research and for demonstrating dairy practices peculiar to specific regions in Louisiana (address Iberia Livestock Experiment Station, Jeanerette, La.), in South Carolina (address R. F. D. #3, Columbia, S. C.), and at Lewisburg, Tenn., Willard, N. C., Oakwood, Mo., Woodward, Okla., Huntley, Mont., and Mendan, N. Dak.

§ 2405.3 Public information, submittals and requests. Persons desiring information or wishing to make submittals or requests in connection with the activities of the Bureau of Dairy Industry should communicate with the Bureau of Dairy Industry, Agricultural Research Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 2405.4 Delegations of final authority. All delegations of final authority are published (9 CFR Part 301) except for the following: The Chief of Bureau and designated field station personnel are authorized to exercise certain functions in the procurement of supplies and services necessary in the conduct of the Bureau's research activities, to sell and loan surplus animals, and to sell animal and other perishable products.

§ 2405.20 Process or renovated butter regulations. Pursuant to authority vested in him by law (26 U. S. C. 2825), the Secretary has promulgated regulations relative to the manufacture, sale and exportation of process or renovated butter (9 CFR Part 301). The regulations include the methods and procedures by which this work is conducted. Any person dissatisfied with the decision of any bureau employee may request reconsideration of such decision by the Chief of Bureau.

§ 2405.21 Dairy herd improvement associations. The Bureau provides information to dairymen to enable them to organize and operate diary herd improvement associations. A dairy herd improvement association consists of approximately 26 dairymen who voluntarily form an organization and employ a person (tester) to determine the quantity of milk produced and its butterfat content. The tester calculates the total production for the test period (about one month) and determines the feed cost and the profit (or loss) for the month. These data are entered in the farmer's herd records and such data are reported to the respective State colleges which, in turn, report them to the Bureau for summarization, tabulation, and analysis. Dairy herd improvement associations operate in the 48 States and in Puerto Rico and Hawaii. The Bureau makes herd record books available to members of dairy herd improvement associations through the respective State colleges without cost.

§ 2405.22 Loan of dairy sires. The Bureau loans dairy sires from its several breeding herds to dairymen in the regions served by its experiment stations as a means of augmenting its breeding research data. Information concerning the specific conditions under which dairy sires are loaned is obtainable on request. Generally, the dairyman must be a member of a dairy herd improvement association and must enter into an agreement assuming responsibility for the feeding and care of the sire and for furnishing the Bureau with breeding and production data.

2406.30 Transit inspections of materials regulated by quarantines.
2406.31 Sanitary inspection and certification of plants and plant products offered for export.
2406.32 Importation or interstate movement of insect pests.
2406.33 Review of rulings.

§ 2406.1 Central and field organization. (a) The Chief of the Bureau, aided by an associate chief and four assistant chiefs, has general administrative supervision and control over all of the work of the Bureau, which (1) conducts research and disseminates information concerning the utilization of beneficial insects, the means of eradicating and controlling noxious and injurious insects, in order to prevent injury and annoyance to man, and to eliminate the damage and destruction of food, fiber, products, materials, and other possessions; (2) takes steps to eradicate, control, and prevent the spread of insect pests and diseases in plants; (3) administers plant quarantines and regulatory orders issued by the Secretary of Agriculture to prevent the entry and spread of insect pests and plant diseases; and (4) upon request inspects and certifies plants and plant products offered for export to meet the sanitary requirements of the receiving country. The foregoing work is conducted in accordance with the following statutes:

5 U. S. C. 511; 7 U. S. C. 141–149; 7 U. S. C. 151–167; 7 U. S. C. 281–283; 16 U. S. C. 581–581i; and 16 U. S. C. 594a.

The work is conducted through 23 separate divisions, each headed by a leader.

(b) Divisional and field organization—(1) Division of Finance and Business Administration, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., handles the business and financial operations of the Bureau.

(2) Division of Personnel, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., handles the personnel matters of the Bureau.

(3) Division of Insect Survey and Information, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., records and analyzes data on the distribution and occurrence of insects, and releases information pertaining thereto.

(4) Division of Insect Identification, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., conducts research on the classification and identification of insects.

(5) Division of Fruit Insect Investigations, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., conducts research on insects affecting fruits, nuts, and grapes, including the Japanese beetle, the pear psylla, and Hall's scale. The field project for the suppression of the pear psylla has headquarters at Spokane 8, Washington. The field project for the eradication of Hall's scale has headquarters at Chico, California.

(6) Division of Fruit Fly Investigations, with headquarters at Laboratorio Entomologico, Apartado Num. 3, Colonia Anahuac, D. F., Mexico, conducts research on fruit flies and certain other insects not prevalent in the United States, under cooperative arrangements with the Government of Mexico. Field laboratories are located in other localities than Mexico, such as the Territory of Hawaii and the Canal Zone.

(7) Division of Truck Crop and Garden Insect Investigations, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., conducts research on insects affecting vegetables, greenhouse and outdoor ornamental plants, including bulbs, sugar beets, and tobacco.

(8) Division of Cereal and Forage Insect Investigations, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., conducts research on insects affecting cereal and forage crops, including sugarcane, rice, and stored grain and cereal products.

(9) Division of Cotton Insect Investigations, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., conducts research on insects affecting the production of cotton.

(10) Division of Forest Insect Investigations, with headquarters at Beltsville, Maryland, conducts research on insects attacking forest and shade trees, hardy ornamentals, and forest products; conducts surveys to appraise status of insect pests of forests.

(11) Division of Insects Affecting Man and Animals, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., conducts research on insects which affect animals, attack, annoy, or injure man, household supplies, fabrics, drugs, and stored materials.

(12) Division of Bee Culture, with headquarters at Beltsville, Maryland, conducts research on the honey bee and its diseases, develops and improves strains of bees, works out improved methods of managing apiaries and of using bees in the pollination of economic plants; and administers the statutes and regulations governing the importation of honey bees (7 U. S. C. 281–283; 7 CFR, Part 322).

(13) Division of Foreign Parasite Introduction, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., conducts studies in foreign countries to locate the natural enemies of insect pests within the United States, and imports beneficial parasites. A laboratory for the handling and study of imported parasites is maintained at the plant quarantine inspection house, Hoboken, New Jersey.

(14) Division of Control Investigations, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., conducts research on the physiology and toxicology of insects, devises and develops means of killing insects associated with materials regulated by plant quarantines, and tests effectiveness of their application under commercial use.

(15) Division of Insecticide Investigation, with headquarters at Beltsville, Maryland, conducts research on the chemical and physical properties of and manufacture of materials used as insecticides.

(16) Division of Domestic Plant Quarantines, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., controls and suppresses certain plant diseases and insect pests, including enforcement of Federal quarantines or State quarantines in cooperation with States, administers the Terminal Inspection Act (7 U. S. C. 166); and is responsible for inspections in transit of products regulated by plant quarantines. The field headquarters for certain specific control activities are located as follows: Phony Peach and Peach Mosaic Control, Federal Building, San Antonio, Texas; Sweet Potato Weevil Control, Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine Building, 25th Avenue, City Limits, Gulfport, Mississippi; Dog

Fly Control, Panama City, Florida; and White-Fringed Beetle Control, Gulfport, Mississippi, and Wilmington, North Carolina.

(17) Division of Plant Disease Control, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., is responsible for planning technical leadership, surveys, and the coordination of federal and cooperative activities to control White Pine Blister Rust and Black Stem Rust of small grains, including cooperation with federal land-managing agencies and cooperating with states in work done on state and privately owned lands. Field headquarters for operations on White Pine Blister Rust are located at Boston, Massachusetts, Richmond, Virginia, Minneapolis, Minnesota, Spokane, Washington, and Oakland, California.

(18) Division of Japanese Beetle Control, with headquarters at East Orange, New Jersey, is responsible for control operations directed against the Japanese beetle and Dutch elm disease and enforces Federal and, in cooperation with the States, State quarantines on the Japanese beetle, Dutch Elm Disease, and Gypsy and Brown-Tail Moths.

(19) Division of Gypsy Moth Control, with headquarters at Greenfield, Massachusetts, suppresses and eradicates infestations of the Gypsy Moth, including cooperation with Pennsylvania in enforcement of its quarantine on this pest. Field project headquarters is located at Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania.

(20) Division of Pink Bollworm Control, with headquarters at San Antonio, Texas, controls and eradicates infestations of pink bollwarm within the United States, enforces Federal and, in cooperation with the States, State quarantines on the pink bollworm and Thurberia weevil, and cooperates with Mexico in the suppression of pink bollworm.

(21) Division of Mexican Fruitfly Control, with headquarters at Harlingen, Texas, enforces Federal and, in cooperation with the States, State quarantines on the Mexican fruitfly.

(22) Division of Grasshopper Control, with headquarters at Denver, Colorado, conducts cooperative control activities to suppress and prevent losses from grasshoppers, Mormon crickets, and chinch bugs.

(23) Division of Foreign Plant Quarantines with headquarters at Washington, D. C., supervises and controls the import of plants, plant products, and other materials, and insects from foreign countries and from Hawaii and Puerto Rico to the mainland; and certifies for export plants and plant products to meet sanitary requirements of receiving countries. Field offices are located at Hoboken, New Jersey (for the issuance of entry permits and for the eastern part of the Canadian border), New York, New York (for the Atlantic Coast), New Orleans, Louisiana (for the Gulf Coast and Florida), Brownsville, Texas (for the Mexican border), San Francisco, California (for California and Hawaii), Seattle, Washington (for Oregon, Washington, Alaska, and the western part of the Canadian border).

(24) Special field locations. The foregoing divisions from time to time establish local field offices and laboratories to cope with special local conditions.

§ 2406.2 Public information, submittals, and requests. Public information may be obtained from, and submittals and requests may be made to, the officer in charge of the various Divisions or field stations listed in § 2406.1 as to the work performed by each Division or station. All other requests and submittals should be sent to the office of the Chief, Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, Agricultural Research Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. Requests and submittals on matters pertaining to the various plant quarantines may be made to the various field offices listed in the regulations (7 CFR, Chap. III).

§ 2406.3 Delegations of final authority. All delegations of final authority are contained in the regulations of the Bureau (7 CFR, Chap. III), except the following: Officials in charge of field stations are authorized to exercise limited authority to contract for supplies and services.

§ 2406.20 Research. The Bureau, independently and in cooperation with Federal, State, local, and private agencies, conducts investigations on insects and pests to determine and develop methods of eradicating and controlling those which are injurious, and develops methods of utilizing beneficial insects (5 U. S. C. 511 and 16 U. S. C. 581–581i). Information obtained as a result of such research is disseminated to the public.

§ 2406.21 Service. The Bureau offers the following service, which the public can secure in accordance with § 2406.2: Information and advice on the identification, habits, and means of controlling or using insects, appraisals of insecticides, their composition and use, inspections to determine the status of insect pests destroying forest trees, and advice on the means of control; surveys on the distribution and occurrence of pests and insects, and information concerning patents controlling insecticides and devices for insect control. The Bureau also advises Federal, State, and local authorities with reference to quarantine policies and insect control needs and methods (5 U. S. C. 511; 7 U. S. C. 141–148e; 16 U. S. C. 594a).

§ 2406.22 Control and prevention of spread of insects and plant diseases. The Bureau cooperates with Federal, State, and local agencies, private organizations, and the Governments of Mexico and Canada, in carrying out operations to control, suppress, eradicate, and prevent the spread of insect pests and plant diseases (7 U. S. C. 147a, 148–148c, and 151–167). Individual participation in the control work is voluntary as far as the Bureau is concerned, but some State laws require participation. The control work includes such measures as the destruction of diseased plants and trees, surveys to determine distribution of the pests, and applying insecticides and other control measures.

§ 2406.23 Plant quarantine orders affecting interstate movement. The Bureau advises the Secretary on the promulgation of all quarantines and restrictive notices affecting the interstate movement of plants, plant products, and other articles, and administers the provisions of those issued by the Secretary pursuant to statute (7 U. S. C. 151–167). The quarantine and restrictive notices describe the procedures followed by the Bureau and to be followed by anyone desiring to make interstate shipments of the plants and articles subject to the quarantines (7 CFR, Part 301).

§ 2406.24 Plant quarantine orders affecting Puerto Rico and Hawaii. The Bureau administers the provisions of certain quarantines governing the movement of plants, plant products, and other materials from Puerto Rico and Hawaii to the mainland, issued pursuant to statute (7 U. S. C. 151–167). The quarantine notices prescribe the procedure to be followed (7 CFR, 301.43, 301.30, 301.32, 301.51, and 301.60).

§ 2406.25 Plant quarantine orders affecting the introduction of products into the United States. The Bureau advises the Secretary on the promulgation of restrictive and prohibitory orders governing the importation of plants, plant products, and other articles, issued pursuant to statute (7 U. S. C. 151–167). The Bureau also enforces such orders which describe the procedure to be followed (7 CFR, Parts 319, 321, 351, and 352). Enforcement work is conducted in cooperation with other agencies in the Federal Government, such as the Bureau of Customs of the Treasury Department, and the Post Office Department.

§ 2406.26 Movement of vehicles into the United States from Mexico. The Bureau makes inspections of railway cars, other vehicles, express, baggage, and other material from Mexico in order to prevent the entry of insect pests and plant diseases, requires cleaning if needed, and when necessary fumigates or disinfects vehicles or materials, for which a fee is collected (7 U. S. C. 149). The procedures are described in the regulations (7 CFR, Part 320).

§ 2406.27 Terminal inspection of materials regulated by State quarantines. A State desiring terminal inspection of mails, express, and parcel post may secure the cooperation of the Department of Agriculture and the Post Office Department in the conduct of such an inspection operation in order to prevent the introduction of injurious pests into the State (7 U. S. C. 166). The Postmaster General is authorized to issue the rules and regulations concerning the inspections and the statute states how the assistance of the Department of Agriculture may be obtained.

§ 2406.28 Movement of plants and plant products into and from the District of Columbia. The movement of plants and plant products into or out of the District of Columbia is restricted by statute (7 U. S. C. 167) and must be in compliance with the rules and regulations issued by the Secretary of Agriculture which prescribe the procedure to be followed (7 CFR, Part 302).

§ 2406.29 Importation of honey bees. A permit for the importation of honey bees is required by statute (7 U. S. C. 281–282). The Bureau administers this statute and the regulations issued by the Secretary pursuant thereto (7 CFR, Part 322) which prescribe the procedure to be followed in securing a permit.

§ 2406.30 Transit inspections of materials regulated by quarantines. In order to assure that plants, plant products, and other materials regulated by Federal plant quarantines are moving in compliance with the regulations, the Bureau inspects at appropriate distribution centers and transfer points, mail, express, and freight, and cooperates with officials of the Post Office Department, express companies, railroads, and State officials in this connection (7 U. S. C. 161). The procedures are prescribed in the regulations (7 CFR, Part 301).

§ 2406.31 Sanitary inspection and certification of plants and plant products offered for export. The Bureau, upon request, inspects plants and plant products offered for export and issues certificates showing compliance with the sanitary plant pest requirements of the country to which the articles are to be shipped, and cooperates with State Officials in the issuance of certificates (7 U. S. C. 147a). The procedure is set out in the regulations (7 CFR, Part 353).

§ 2406.32 Importation or interstate movement of insect pests. The importation or interstate movement of certain insects is prohibited (7 U. S. C. 141–144), except for scientific purposes. The Bureau issues permits for such movement of insects for scientific purposes upon request of interested persons. No special form of request is prescribed, but the request should recite the particular purpose, the kind of insects, origin, destination, and time and number of shipments. In the issuance of permits, the Bureau cooperates with the Public Health Service of the Federal Security Agency, the Bureau of Customs of the Treasury Department, the Post Office Department, and transportation companies.

§ 2406.33 Review of rulings. Any person aggrieved by the ruling of an employee of the Bureau in connection with any work of the Bureau may request a review of that ruling by the Chief of the Bureau and from the Chief's ruling may request review by the Secretary of Agriculture. No form is prescribed for such requests, but they may be accompanied by supporting evidence.

2407.20 Administration of grants to States.

§ 2407.1 Central organization. The Chief of Office of Experiment Stations is responsible for the administration of the Hatch, Adams, and Purnell Acts, and supplementary acts (7 U. S. C. 361–363, 365–386g), and for that part of Title I of the Bankhead-Jones Act of June 29, 1935, dealing with research grants to the States (7 U. S. C. 427a–427f), which acts authorize appropriations for the conduct of research at the State, Territorial, and Puerto Rican agricultural experiment stations. This office coordinates agricultural research conducted at State agricultural experiment stations both between the State and with similar research conducted by the Department. It acts as a liaison office between agencies of the Federal Government and the States and Territories in matters relating to agricultural research. It is responsible for the supervision of the Federal Experiment Station in Puerto Rico and disseminates informational materials of use to agricultural research workers and to others. The Office is organized into the Divisions of Grant Fund Administration and Administrative Services.

§ 2407.2 Field organization. (a) The Federal Experiment Station in Puerto Rico, at Mayaguez, P. R., under the direction of the Chief, operates as an outpost of the Department for conduct of agricultural research under tropical conditions. (b) The Federal grant funds are paid directly to designated officers of the States for use by the State agricultural experiment stations and are utilized by these stations pursuant to plans agreed upon by the stations and this Office.

§ 2407.3 Information, submittals, and requests. Persons desiring information or wishing to make submittals or requests should communicate with the Chief, Office of Experiment Stations, Agricultural Research Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25,

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURE

§ 2407.20 Administration of grants to States. The Secretary of Agriculture is charged with the proper administration of the acts affecting the State agricultural experiment stations. These acts are the Hatch Act of March 2, 1887, the Adams Act of March 16, 1906, the Purnell Act of February 24, 1925, the Act of May 10, 1928, extending the benefits of the Hatch, Adams, and Purnell Acts to Hawaii, the act of February 23, 1929, and the act of June 20, 1936, extending the benefits of these acts to Alaska, the act of March 4, 1931, extending the benefits of these acts to Puerto Rico (7 U. S. C. 361–363, 365–386g), and Title I of the Bankhead-Jones Act of June 29, 1935 (7 U. S. C. 427a–427f). The Agricultural Research Administration through the Office of Experiment Stations represents the Secretary of Agriculture in the administration of these Acts. The Office assists in ascertaining whether the agricultural experiment stations in each State, Territory, and Puerto Rico are complying with the acts providing Federal grant funds for research, and as to whether each of the State stations is entitled to receive its share of the annual appropriations for agricultural experiment stations. This work includes the examination of the work and expenditures of the experiment stations and determination of compliance with conditions of the Federal statutes. It also covers the coordination of the research work between stations and with similar work of the Department of Agriculture. The Office of Experiment Stations, under the general direction of the Research Administrator and the Secretary, prescribes the form of the annual financial statement required from the stations and furnishes such forms to each State, approves annual programs of work and individual research projects, assists the States in the development of research and of formal and informal cooperation, and prepares an annual report to Congress on the work and expenditures of the State agricultural experiment stations under the several grant acts.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONNS AND PROCEDURES

200.21 Activities.
200.22 Claims by or against Commodity Credit Corporation.

§ 200.1 Creation. The Commodity Credit Corporation was incorporated under the laws of the State of Delaware pursuant to section 2 (a) of the National Industrial Recovery Act of June 16, 1933 and Executive Order 6340 of October 16, 1933, and by Congressional action has been continued as an agency of the United States. The Corporation is a part of the United States Department of Agriculture and its operations are under the supervision and control of the Secretary of Agriculture.

§ 200.2 Office. The principal office of the Commodity Credit Corporation in the State of Delaware is in Wilmington, and the resident agent in charge thereof is The Corporation Trust Company. The principal office of the Commodity Credit Corporation outside the State of Delaware is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building.

§ 200.3 Stock. All the certificates of stock of Commodity Credit Corporation are owned by the United States. The Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to exercise on behalf of the United States all rights arising from the ownership of such stock.

§ 200.4 Board of Directors. The Board of Directors consists of the following: The Secretary of Agriculture who serves as Chairman of the Board; the Under Secretary of Agriculture; the Assistant Secretary of Agriculture; the Administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration; the Deputy Administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration; the Assistant Administrators of the Production and Marketing Administration; the Director of Price of the Production and Marketing Administration; and the Director of the Field Service Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration.

§ 200.5 Officers. The officers of Commodity Credit Corporation are as follows: The Administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration is the President of the Corporation; the Deputy Administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration is a Vice President of the Corporation; the Assistant Administrators of the Production and Marketing Administration are Vice Presidents of the Corporation; the Director of the Fiscal Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration is Treasurer of the Corporation; and the Director of the Budget and Management Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration is the Secretary of the Corporation.

§ 200.6 Management. The property and business of the Commodity Credit Corporation are managed by the Board of Directors. The President of the Commodity Credit Corporation is responsible for the general direction and supervision of all activities of the Commodity Credit Corporation. The Directors of the Branches of the Production and Marketing Administration serve as executives of the Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through their respective Branches.

§ 200.7 Contracting officers. (a) Contracts requiring formal execution by the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to any of its activities may be executed by the President.

(b) Vice Presidents of the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Directors of the Branches of the Production and Marketing Administration may execute Commodity Credit Corporation contracts relating to activities for which they are respectively responsible.

(c) Contracting Officers appointed by the President or by the Vice Presidents and Directors of the Branches of the Production and Marketing Administration with the written approval of the President, may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to activities of the Commodity Credit Corporation. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Directors of the respective Branches.

§ 200.8 Functions. The functions of the Commodity Credit Corporation are carried out through the facilities and personnel of the Production and Marketing Administration of the Department of Agriculture. Operations are approved by the Board of Directors of Commodity Credit Corporation and the Secretary of Agriculture before being put into effect by the President through the Branches of the Production and Marketing Administration.

§ 200.9 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests with respect to a Commodity Credit Corporation function should address the Director of the Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration which carries out such functions (7 CFR, Parts 2300–2330). The records of the Branches pertaining to Commodity Credit Corporation activities, including those maintained in field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rule and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 2100).

§ 200.21 Activities. (a) The operations of the Commodity Credit Corporation fall into the following major types of programs; a price support program; a foreign purchase program; a subsidy program; a supply program; a commodity export program, and a loan program for agricultural conservation purposes. Under its price support program the Commodity Credit Corporation through loans, purchases, and other operations supports the price of various agricultural commodities. Purchases are made abroad under the foreign purchase program of such foods, agricultural commodities, and products thereof, and related facilities as are needed to meet emergent requirements. Payments or purchases for resale at a loss are made under the subsidy program for the purpose of maintaining price ceilings established by the Office of Price Administration. Under the general supply program foods, agricultural commodities and products thereof, and related materials are procured for the purpose of supplying the requirements of United States Government agencies, cash paying foreign governments, American Red Cross, UNRRA and other similar organizations. The Commodity Credit Corporation also procures or aids in the procurement of supplies and facilities needed by farmers in connection with the production, handling, and marketing of agricultural commodities and their products, such as feed, seeds, grain bins, cotton bagging, fertilizers, and insecticides. It also procures or aids in the procurement of foods, agricultural commodities, and products thereof in order to facilitate distribution or to meet anticipated requirements during periods of short supply. The Commodity Credit Corporation under the commodity export program exports or causes to be exported agricultural commodities and products at competitive world prices or otherwise. Under the loan program for agricultural conservation purposes the Commodity Credit Corporation pursuant to section 391c of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1935, as amended, makes loans to the Secretary of Agriculture to be used in making Federal crop insurance premium advances and advances under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act and in payment of administrative expenses of county agricultural conservation associations.

(b) Full information concerning the authorities exercised and the procedures followed by the various Branches of the Production and Marketing Administration in executing the functions of the Commodity Credit Corporation appears in 7 CFR, Parts 2300–2330.

§ 200.22 Claims by or against Commodity Credit Corporation. Claims by or against the Commodity Credit Corporation where there is disagreement as to the amount due because of disputed questions of fact or law, except any claims resulting from the termination of war contracts or claims filed under section 17 of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 (procedure for settlement of which is set forth in 7 CFR, Part 2301) and any indebtedness of a farmer which falls within the purview of 12 USC 1150–1150c (procedure for settlement of which is set forth in 1 CFR, Part 01) are handled as follows:

(a) The Directors of the Branches of the Production and Marketing Administration are authorized to settle and adjust such claims arising out of activities under their jurisdiction when the collectibility thereof is subject to doubt because of disputed questions of fact or law, and the claim is not in excess of $5,000, or, if in excess of $5,000, settlement can be made on the basis of resolving all disputed questions of fact or law in favor of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

(b) Branch Directors may, subject to the written approval of the President of the Commodity Credit Corporation, delegate to Branch personnel, hereinafter referred to as "Claims Officers," in Washington and in the field any part of their claim responsibility, provided that the settlement of any claim in excess of $1,000 shall be approved in writing by the Branch Director and no Claims Officer shall settle or adjust any claim arising under a contract executed by himself.

(c) The Director of each Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration negotiates and recommends the settlement or other disposition of claims other than those specified in paragraph (a) above and forwards such recommendations to the Director of the Fiscal Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration who, in turn, forwards them to the Vice President of the Commodity Credit Corporation who is the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control of the Production and Marketing Administration. Upon the approval of the recommendation by the Vice President, the claim is settled by the respective Branch in accordance therewith. Upon disapproval of a recommendation, the claim is handled by the respective Branch as directed by the Vice President.

(d) The Contracts Disputes Board, composed of the Vice President who is Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control, Production and Marketing Administration, (and Chairman of the Board), the Treasurer of the Corporation, and the Vice President who is Deputy Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, or their designees, holds hearings and determines all disputes between the Commodity Credit Corporation and claimants where settlement cannot be otherwise effected and handles all matters, including settlement of claims, relating to renegotiation of Commodity Credit Corporation contracts. Presentations to the Contracts Disputes Board must be in written form and may be supplemented at the discretion of the Chairman of the Board by oral argument and claimant may be represented by legal counsel. Decisions of the Board are final for administrative purposes.

§ 2501.1 Central organization. The Director of Extension Work, aided by three assistant directors, represents the Department in the administration, through the State agricultural colleges, of the nation-wide system of cooperative extension work in order that it may function nationally as well as State and locally as an effective educational force which helps rural people to utilize fully all available resources in solving current problems and in meeting the new situations resulting from changing economic, social, and political conditions, to the end that nutrition and health, economic welfare, family and community life may be improved and the general standard of living raised; reviews and analyzes budgets, projects, and plans for State extension work in agriculture and home economics to bring about a coordinated national cooperative extension program. Under general direction from the Direction of Extension Work, the Deputy Director of Extension Work administers and supervises all functions relating to domestic labor, except provision of housing, subsistence and medical care of interstate or other migratory labor housed in camps owned or leased by the Department; and all relationships with State agricultural extension services incident to Section 2 (A) of the Farm Labor Supply Appropriation Act, 1944 (58 Stat. 11) as amended and supplemented. The work of the cooperative extension service is conducted by the following Divisions of the central organization: Business Administration; Extension Information; Field Coordination; Subject Matter; Field Studies and Training; Recruitment and Placement (Farm Labor Program); Victory Farm Volunteers (Farm Labor Program); and Labor Utilization (Farm Labor Program).

§ 2501.2 Field organization. Each of the 48 States, and the Territories of Hawaii, Alaska, and Puerto Rico, has a director of extension who represents jointly the Department of Agriculture and the State Land-Grant College in the administration of cooperative extension work. In each State the organization consists of a State administrative, subject matter, and supervisory staff, with headquarters at the following addresses: Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Alabama; University of Alaska, College, Alaska; University of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona; College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, Arkansas; College of Agriculture, University of California, Berkeley, California; Colorado Agricultural and Mechanical College, Fort Collins, Colorado; University of Connecticut, Storrs, Connecticut; University of Delaware, Newark, Delaware; College of Agriculture, University of Florida, Gainesville, Florida; Georgia State College of Agriculture, Athens, Georgia; University of Hawaii, Honolulu, Hawaii; College of Agriculture, University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho; College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois; Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana; Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, Ames, Iowa; Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, Manhattan, Kansas; College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky; Louisiana State University and Agricultural and Mechanical College, University Station, Baton Rouge, Louisiana; College of Agriculture, University of Maine, Orono, Maine; University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland; Massachusetts State College, Amherst, Massachusetts; Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science, East Lansing, Michigan; Department of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota, University Farm, St. Paul, Minnesota; Mississippi State College, State College, Mississippi; College of Agriculture, University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri; Montana State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, Bozeman, Montana; College of Agriculture, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebraska; University of Nevada, Reno, Nevada; University of New Hampshire, Durham, New Hampshire; State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey; New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, State College, New Mexico; New York State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, New York; North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering, State College Station, Raleigh, North Carolina; North Dakota Agricultural College, State College Station, Fargo, North Dakota; College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio; Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, Stillwater, Oklahoma; Oregon State Agricultural College, Corvallis, Oregon; Pennsylvania State College, State College, Pennsylvania; University of Puerto Rico, Rio Piedras, Puerto Rico; Rhode Island State College, Kingston, Rhode Island; Clemson Agricultural College of South Carolina, Clemson, South Carolina; South Dakota State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, Brookings, South Dakota; College of Agriculture, University of Tennessee, Knoxville, Tennessee; Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, College Station, Texas; Utah State Agricultural College, Logan, Utah; College of Agriculture, University of Vermont, Burlington, Vermont; Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Virginia; State College of Washington, Pullman, Washington; College of Agriculture, West Virginia University, Morgantown, West Virginia; College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin; College of Agriculture, University of Wyoming, Laramie, Wyoming.

County extension offices are maintained in almost every county of the United States. Offices are usually at the county seat and located in Post Office buildings or county court houses. Each county office has a county agricultural agent. The number of county offices having home demonstration agents and 4–H Club agents varies.

§ 2501.3 Public information, submittals and requests. Requests for information regarding the National program of cooperative extension work, or employment in the central organization, should be addressed to the Director of Extension Work, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. Requests for information regarding State extension programs, or employment in State or county offices, should be addressed to the extension director in the State concerned. Information regarding county extension programs may be obtained from local county extension agents or State extension directors. Submittals and requests should be made in the same manner as requests for information.

§ 2501.20 Internal management. Except for the function of determining prevailing farm wage rates, all administrative functions and procedures of the cooperative extension service are matters of internal management.

§ 2501.21 Determination of prevailing farm wage rates. In the administration of Public Law 45, 78th Congress, approved April 29, 1943, and section 2 (A) of the Farm Labor Supply Appropriation Act, 1944 (58 Stat. 11) as amended and supplemented, it is necessary to establish prevailing wage rates for particular crops and areas as an incident to the recruitment of foreign and interstate labor.

A County Farm Wage Board (hereinafter called the "Board") is authorized to be created in each county to act on behalf of the Secretary of Agriculture and the State extension service in the conduct of investigations and hearings for the purpose of making findings of fact and recommendations as to the prevailing wage rates paid agricultural labor with respect to particular crops and areas within each such county. The Board is composed of the County Agent and four members of the County Farm Labor Advisory Committee appointed by the chairman of that committee. The County Agent acts as chairman of the Board and presides at hearings conducted in accordance with the procedure hereinafter set forth. Three members constitute a quorum.

Upon a request for findings and recommendations as to prevailing wage rate, the County Agent immediately arranges for a time and place within the designated employment area for the holding of a public hearing. Public notice of the proposed hearing is given not less than two days in advance of the hearing by posting notices at not less than five appropriate places within the designated employment area. The hearing before the Board is informal and farm operators, agricultural workers, and other interested persons are permitted to present testimony. The Board makes a record of the testimony presented at the hearing, by a verbatim transcript or by a memorandum summarizing the testimony. The hearing should continue no longer than one day and on the basis of the evidence developed at the hearing, and such further investigation as the Board may deem appropriate, the Board makes findings and recommendations as to the prevailing wage rate. Such findings and recommendations and a copy of the record of testimony at the hearings are transmitted by the County Agent not later than two days after the conclusion of the hearing to the State Director of Extension, who determines the prevailing wage rate.

Farm Credit Administration

[6 CFR, Ch. I]

PART 2—ORGANIZATION, FUNCTIONS, AND PROCEDURES OF THE FARM CREDIT ADMINISTRATION, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Part 2, including the title thereof, of Title 6 is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec.
2.1 Organization.
2.2 Functions and procedures.

§ 2.1 Organization. All functions and activities of the Farm Credit Administration are conducted under the general supervision of the Secretary of Agriculture. The work of the Farm Credit Administration is directed by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, assisted by the Deputy Governors, and is performed by the four Commissioners named in 12 U. S. C. 638, and the several divisions of the Farm Credit Administration as follows:

(a) The Land Bank Commissioner, assisted by the personnel of the Land Bank Division, regulates and supervises the twelve Federal land banks, the national farm loan associations, and the joint stock land banks under 12 U. S. C., Chap. 7, Subchap. I; and regulates and supervises the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation in the discharge of its functions as disposal agency for surplus agricultural and forest real property under the Surplus Property Act of 1944 (50 U. S. C. App., Sup., 1611–1646).

(b) The Intermediate Credit Commissioner, assisted by the personnel of the Intermediate Credit Division, regulates and supervises the twelve Federal intermediate credit banks under 12 U. S. C. Chap. 7, Subchap. III.

(c) The Production Credit Commissioner, assisted by the personnel of the Production Credit Division, regulates and supervises the twelve production credit corporations and the production credit associations under 12 U. S. C., Chap. 7, Subchaps. IV and VI.

(d) The Cooperative Bank Commissioner, assisted by the personnel of the Cooperative Division, regulates and supervises the twelve district banks for cooperatives and the Central Bank for Cooperatives under 12 U. S. C., Chap. 7, Subchaps. V and VI. The Cooperative Bank Commissioner is ex officio the chairman of the board of directors of the Central Bank for Cooperatives and that Bank has its headquarters with the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, D. C., and utilizes the personnel and facilities of the Farm Credit Administration.

(e) The Mortgage Corporation Service Division, headed by the Director of that Division who is also the Executive Vice President of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, performs various functions for that Corporation which conducts its affairs under 12 U. S. C., Chap. 7, Subchaps. II and II A. The Governor and the Land Bank Commissioner, together with the Secretary of the Treasury or an officer of the Treasury designated by him, are ex officio the directors of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, and that Corporation has its headquarters with the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, D. C., and utilizes the personnel and facilities of the Farm Credit Administration. The Land Bank Commissioner makes loans on behalf of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation under 12 U. S. C., Chap. 7, Subchap. II.

(f) The Regional Agricultural Credit Division, headed by the Director of that Division, regulates and supervises the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C., under 12 U. S. C., Chap. 7, Subchap. VIII. The Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C., has its headquarters with the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, D. C., and utilizes the personnel and facilities of the Farm Credit Administration.

(g) The Revolving Fund Section, headed by the Director of the Revolving Fund, conducts the liquidation of loans made to cooperative associations out of the Revolving Fund created by the Agricultural Marketing Act (12 U. S. C. 1141–1141j), and the liquidation of loans made to individuals to capitalize local agricultural credit corporations under 46 Stat. 1032, as amended by 46 Stat. 1160, and 12 U. S. C. 1401–1404.

(h) The Cooperative Research and Service Division, headed by the Director of that Division, gathers and disseminates information pertaining to cooperatives and promotes the organization and development of cooperative associations, under the Cooperative Marketing Act (7 U. S. C. 451–457) and the Agricultural Marketing Act (12 U. S. C. 1141–1141j).

(i) The Examination Division, headed by the Chief Examiner, conducts examinations of the various institutions supervised by the Farm Credit Administration.

In addition, there are five other staff divisions in the Farm Credit Administration which perform, for the Administration as a whole, the services denoted by their titles as follows: Finance and Accounts; Administrative; Personnel; Information and Extension; and Economic and Credit Research.

Prior to the enactment of the Farmers' Home Administration Act of 1946 (Pub. Law 731, 79th Congress, approved August 14, 1946), the Farm Credit Administration, through the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Division, made and collected emergency crop, feed, drought, and rehabilitation loans under an Act of Congress approved January 29, 1937 (50 Stat. 5) and a number of earlier statutes and Executive Orders. The Farmers' Home Administration Act of 1946 abolished these functions of the Farm Credit Administration and vested in the Farmers' Home Administration the function of collecting such loans.

§ 2.2 Functions and procedures.—(a) Supervision of institutions in farm credit districts. The Farm Credit Administration regulates and supervises the Federal Land banks and national farm loan associations, the Federal intermediate credit banks, the production credit corporations and production credit associations, and the district banks for cooperatives, through the respective Commissioners under the general direction of the Governor. Such regulation and supervision is exercised in the various respects and by the methods stated in the respective statutes enumerated above in § 2.1 (a) (d). The Farm Credit Administration also conducts examinations of these institutions. The substantive rules and regulations promulgated by the Farm Credit Administration with respect to these institutions are contained in 6 CFR, Chap. I, Subchaps. B, D, E, and F.

(b) Functions with respect to the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation. The Governor of the Farm Credit Administration and the Land Bank Commissioner, together with the Secretary of the Treasury or an officer of the Treasury designated by him, are ex officio the directors of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation and as such they direct its affairs. The loans of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation are made on its behalf by the Land Bank Commissioner. The Farm Credit Administration conducts examinations of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation.

The functions of the Department of Agriculture as disposal agency for surplus agricultural and forest real property under the Surplus Property Act of 1944 (50 U. S. C. App., Sup., 1611–1646), have been delegated by the Secretary of Agriculture to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, and redelegated by the Governor to the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation, which utilizes the facilities of the Federal land banks in performing these functions. The Farm Credit Administration regulates and supervises the execution of these functions. The regulations issued by the Farm Credit Administration, with the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture, are contained in 6 CFR, Part 5 (11 F. R. 7877).

(c) Functions with respect to the Central Bank for Cooperatives. The Cooperative Bank Commissioner is ex officio chairman of the board of directors of the Central Bank for Cooperatives, and the other six directors are appointed by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. The Cooperative Bank Commissioner is also the chief executive officer of the Central Bank. The Commissioner, as chairman of the board, and the Governor prescribe rules and regulations governing the activities of the Central Bank and these rules and regulations are contained in 6 CFR, Chap. I, Subchap. F. The Farm Credit Administration conducts examinations of the Central Bank and supervises it in other respects and by the methods stated in 12 U. S. C., Chap. 7, Subchaps. V and VI.

(d) Functions with respect to the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C. The Farm Credit Administration prescribes the charter provisions and bylaws of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C., appoints its directors and officers, prescribes rules and regulations governing its activities, and conducts examinations of its affairs. The rules and regulations governing the Corporation are contained in 6 CFR, Chap. I, Subchap. G.

(e) Revolving Fund Section. The Farm Credit Administration, through this Section, conducts the liquidation of loans made to cooperative associations by the Federal Farm Board and the Farm Credit Administration out of the Revolving Fund created by the Agricultural Marketing Act (12 U. S. C. 1141–1141j). Since loans to cooperative associations for the purposes specified in the Agricultural Marketing Act are now available from the banks for cooperatives, loans under that Act are not ordinarily made by the Farm Credit Administration out of the Revolving Fund, except in furtherance of the liquidation of outstanding loans. The requirements for such loans and the terms and conditions thereof are stated in the Agricultural Marketing Act.

The Farm Credit Administration, through the Revolving Fund Section, also conducts the liquidation of loans made to individuals by the Secretary of Agriculture to capitalize local agricultural credit corporations under 46 Stat. 1032, as amended by 46 Stat. 1160, and 12 U. S. C. 1401–1404. No loans under these statutes are now being made.

A cooperative association desiring to apply for a loan from the Revolving Fund should submit an application on a prescribed form to the Director of the Revolving Fund, together with evidence of the association's eligibility under the Act, and of the authority of its officers to execute the loan documents, and statements of its financial condition. Forms for making application for loans may be obtained from the Director of the Revolving Fund upon request.

Real and personal properties acquired by the United States as a result of loans made from the Revolving Fund are leased and sold in accordance with the provisions of 12 U. S. C. 1141b (7). Ordinarily, these properties are advertised and sold on the basis of sealed bids, reserving the right to reject any and all bids. Each bidder is notified of the acceptance or rejection of his bid.

Certain indebtedness of farmers being liquidated by the Farm Credit Administration through the Revolving Fund Section may be compromised, adjusted, or canceled, in appropriate cases, in accordance with Public Law 518, 78th Congress (58 Stat. 836) and the regulations contained in 6 CFR, Part 01. Applications of debtors for compromise, adjustment, or cancelation of their debts should be submitted on prescribed forms which may be obtained from the Director of the Revolving Fund upon request.

(f) Cooperative Research and Service Division. The Farm Credit Administration, through this Division, conducts studies and gathers information regarding the organization and operations of agricultural cooperative associations, and disseminates such information and gives technical assistance to cooperative associations and persons and groups interested in the organization or operation of such associations, in accordance with the Cooperative Marketing Act (7 U. S. C., 451–457) and the Agricultural Marketing Act (12 U. S. C., 1141–1141j). The Division prepares various publications and distributes them generally to cooperative associations and other interested persons and groups, and confers and advises with individual associations, persons, and groups on their problems with respect to the organization and operation of particular cooperative associations.

(g) Liquidation of joint stock land banks. The Farm Credit Administration supervises and examines the few remaining joint stock land banks which are now in process of liquidation. Plans for the voluntary liquidation of joint stock land banks are subject to approval by the Farm Credit Administration in accordance with 12 U. S. C. 822. In the case of some insolvent joint stock land banks, the Farm Credit Administration has appointed receivers to liquidate them under its supervision in accordance with 12 U. S. C. 963.

PART 4—PUBLIC INFORMATION, SUBMITTALS, AND REQUESTS

Part 4 of Title 6 of the Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended by changing the title of Part 4 to read "Public Information, Submittals, and Requests", and by adding to Part 4 new §§ 4.50, 4.51, and 4.52, as follows:

§ 4.50 General information. Information regarding the Farm Credit Administration or any of its activities, and general information regarding any of the institutions under its supervision (named in 6 CFR, 2.2) may be obtained from the Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C., or from the particular institution concerned.

§ 4.51 Submittals and requests. Submittals and requests pertaining to the activities of the Farm Credit Administration should be sent to the Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C. Submittals and requests pertaining to the activities of any particular institution supervised by the Farm Credit Administration should be sent to that institution.

§ 4.52 Official records. The Farm Credit Administration and the several institutions under its supervision keep confidential the classes of records enumerated in 6 CFR, 4.1–4.4. Information contained in other official records in the custody of the Farm Credit Administration or of a particular institution may be made available to persons directly and properly concerned upon written application to the Farm Credit Administration or the particular institution. Such application must identify the specific information sought and must show how the applicant is concerned therewith. Such applications with respect to official records in the custody of the Farm Credit Administration may be granted by the Governor or any Deputy Governor or by the Commissioner or other Division head in charge of the functions to which the records relate. Such applications with respect to official records in the custody of a particular institution may be granted by the chief executive officer of the institution.

PART 8—FARM CREDIT DISTRICTS

Subchapter A, of Chapter I, Title 6, of the Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended by adding thereto a new Part 8 as follows:

Sec.
8.1 District institutions.
8.2 District organization.

§ 8.1 District institutions. The United States is divided into twelve farm credit districts, each served by a Federal land bank, a Federal intermediate credit bank, a production credit corporation, and a bank for cooperatives. These four institutions in each district maintain their offices together. The city in which their offices are located in each district and the area comprising each district are as follows:

District No.	Location of offices	Area in district
1	Springfield, Mass.	Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, and New Jersey.
2	Baltimore, Md. (Branch office at San Juan, P. R.)	Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.
3	Columbia, S. C.	North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida.
4	Louisville, Ky.	Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and Tennessee.
5	New Orleans, La.	Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana.
6	St. Louis, Mo.	Illinois, Missouri, and Arkansas.
7	St. Paul, Minn.	Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North Dakota.
8	Omaha, Nebr.	Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, and Wyoming.
9	Wichita, Kans.	Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, and New Mexico.
10	Houston, Tex.	Texas.
11	Berkeley, Calif.	California, Nevada, Utah, and Arizona.
12	Spokane, Wash.	Washington, Oregon, Montana, and Idaho.

§ 8.2 District organization. The activities of the Federal land bank, Federal intermediate credit bank, production credit corporation, and bank for cooperatives in each district are coordinated through a farm credit board of seven members elected or appointed in acordance with 12 U. S. C. 640b–Z640j. The members of the farm credit board of the district are ex officio the directors of each of the four institutions in the district. Each of the four institutions has its own separate officers and employees, although the same individual may be an officer or employee of more than one institution. In addition, a general agent and other officers and employees appointed by the farm credit board, with approval of the Farm Credit Administration, pursuant to 12 U. S. C. 640 1, serve as joint officers and employees of all four institutions. The general agent and the presidents of the four institutions constitute an advisory committee.

PART 10—FEDERAL LAND BANKS GENERALLY

Part 10 of Title 6, Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended by adding thereto new § § 10.1 and 10.2 as follows:

§ 10.1 Organization of Federal land banks. (a) The twelve Federal land banks, of which there is one in each farm credit district, were organized in 1917 under the Federal Farm Loan Act (12 U. S. C. 641–1012). The location of each bank and the States served by it are given in 6 CFR, 8.1. The activities of the Federal land bank in each district are coordinated with those of the Federal intermediate credit bank, production credit corporation, and bank for cooperatives of the district through the district organization described in 6 CFR, 8.2. The farm credit board in each district elected or appointed under 12 U. S. C. 640b-j is ex officio the board of directors of the Federal land bank. This board appoints the officers of the bank and is responsible for the management of its affairs under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration.

(b) Under the provisions of the Act it was contemplated that the capital stock of the Federal land banks ultimately would be owned entirely by borrowers through their national farm loan associations and some few direct borrowers, although provision also has been made for subscriptions to such stock by the United States. At present the United States owns stock in only one of the land banks.

(c) The Federal land banks, together with the national farm loan associations (see §§ 11.1 and 11.2), constitute a cooperative system known as the land bank system which, since 1934, has been supplemented by the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation (see §§ 12.1 and 12.2).

§ 10.2 Functions and procedures of Federal land banks.—(a) General. The twelve Federal land banks were established as permanent institutions designed to provide long-term farm mortgage credit for agriculture in accordance with the Federal Farm Loan Act (12 U. S. C. 641–1012). Related thereto is the issuance of farm loan bonds to obtain funds with which to make loans, or obtaining such funds otherwise, and investing in Government securities. As a consequence of the large scale lending by the banks, they have acquired properties through voluntary deeds and foreclosure of mortgages securing loans which have broken down, requiring the management and disposal of such properties. In servicing their loans and acquired properties, the banks have in nearly all instances utilized the services and facilities of national farm loan associations. An important objective of the banks has been the strengthening of the associations both financially and from the standpoint of management.

(b) Agents for Land Bank Commissioner and Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation. The Federal land banks also act as agents in making and servicing Land Bank Commissioner loans on behalf of the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation.

(c) Loans. The principal function of the Federal land banks is to make first mortgage loans on farm land to eligible applicants for the purposes and on the terms prescribed in the Federal Farm Loan Act. These bank loans are limited to 65 percent of the normal value of the security and may not exceed $50,000 to any one borrower. The Land Bank Commissioner loans authorized by 12 U. S. C. 1016, which the banks make as agents, may be made up to 75 percent of the normal value of the property, or 75 percent of the prudent investment value under certain conditions, but not to exceed $7,500 to any one farmer. They are made either as a first mortgage loan or as a second mortgage loan supplementing a first mortgage land bank loan. The maximum term for land bank and Commissioner loans is 40 years, but they are commonly made for a shorter period. The present contract interest rate on Federal land bank loans made through national farm loan associations is 4 percent, and the rate on Commissioner loans 1 percent higher.

A joint application for a loan (bank or Commissioner or both), on a prescribed form available from the banks and associations, is filed with the secretary-treasurer of the national farm loan association in the territory in which the property offered as security is located. The application calls for information regarding the amount and purposes of the loan sought, the security offered, and the applicant's financial condition. As a first step, the Federal Farm Loan Act provides for an investigation as to the character and solvency of the applicant and the sufficiency of the security offered, by the association loan committee or its investigator, and for a written report thereon. The association loan committee may also request a written report on the value of the security by a land bank appraiser, who is a public official appointed by the Farm Credit Administration. Where such a report by an appraiser has been obtained, the association may notify the applicant of any loan approved by it, subject to further approval by the Federal land bank.

The application and written report of the association loan committee, as well as any report by a land bank appraiser, are next referred to the Federal land bank; if there has been no report by a land bank appraiser, the bank will then obtain one. No loan may be made by the bank unless the reports of both the association and the land bank appraiser are favorable. On the basis of the association approval and the favorable report by a land bank appraiser, the Federal land bank determines the amount of any loan that can be soundly made. Whether a Land Bank Commissioner loan is to be approved is determined by the bank as agent. The actual passing on applications in each bank is usually done by a loan or executive committee, and notice of its action is duly given to the interested association and the applicant. Loans to livestock corporations in certain circumstances, and land bank loans in excess of $25,000, require the approval of the Land Bank Commissioner which may be given by authorized personnel in the districts (see 6 CFR, 3.12, 3.13, 3.14).

There are certain statutory provisions also for direct loans to borrowers by the Federal land banks and loans through agents, where they cannot be made through an association, but the general plan is for the land bank loans to be made through associations.

(d) Bonds. Related to the lending functions of the Federal land banks is the issuance of Federal farm loan bonds to obtain funds with which to make loans. While the Federal Farm Loan Act provides both for Federal farm loan bonds to be issued by the banks individually, with the approval of the Farm Credit Administration (12 U. S. C. 841–844), and for consolidated bonds of the twelve banks to be sold through a common selling agency (12 U. S. C. 875–886), all issues now outstanding are consolidated bonds. The collateral for consolidated bonds is prescribed in 12 U. S. C. 857, 875–899. This collateral is deposited or pledged with the farm loan registrars who are public officials appointed for each district by the Farm Credit Administration. Federal farm loan bonds are not guaranteed by the United States either as to principal or interest.

Such bonds intended for sale to the investing public are generally advertised and a prospectus is prepared as to the details of a particular issue. Further information as to such issues may be obtained from the Fiscal Agent of the Federal Land Banks, 31 Nassau Street, New York City.

(e) Surplus property disposal. The services and facilities of the Federal land banks are utilized further by the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation in discharging its functions as disposal agency for surplus agricultural and forest real property under the Surplus Property Act of 1944. A separate Surplus Property Disposal Manual has been issued to cover this work, 6 CFR, Part 5 (11 F. R. 7877).

PART 11—NATIONAL FARM LOAN ASSOCIATIONS

Part 11 of Title 6, Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended by adding thereto new § § 11.1 and 11.2 as follows:

Sec.
11.1 Organization of national farm loan associations.
11.2 Functions and procedures of national farm loan associations.

(b) The members of an association elect its board of directors from its membership. The board appoints its officers and employees, the secretary-treasurer being its executive officer. Each association has a loan committee which considers applications for loans and also may elect applicants to membership if so authorized by the board. The necessary blanks and instructions for the formation of an association may be obtained from the Federal land bank authorized to operate in the particular State. The organization of a new association is not undertaken if an existing association is giving adequate service in the territory.

(c) The office address of the association serving a particular locality may be obtained from the Federal land bank of the district.

§ 11.2 Functions and procedures of national farm loan associations. (a) The Federal Farm Loan Act provides, in connection with Federal land bank loans through associations, that the borrower will be elected to membership in the association and subscribe for association stock in the amount of 5 percent of his loan, such stock to be held by the association as collateral security for repayment of the loan; and that the association will in turn endorse and thereby become liable for the loan and subscribe for a similar amount of stock in the bank, which stock will be held by the bank as collateral security for the association's obligations. Unless the capital of the association is impaired, both types of stock ordinarily are retired and paid off at par when the loan is repaid. The further association procedure on applications for loans is indicated under the heading "Loans" in section 10.2 of this Subchapter.

(b) Full information as to the farm loans available from the land banks is obtainable from the local associations.

(c) The Federal land banks also utilize the services and facilities of the associations in servicing land bank and Commissioner loans in their territory, and have delegated certain functions with respect to loans and acquired properties to qualified associations. Among the transactions reserved for decision by the banks is the approving of new loans, calling loans for foreclosure, accepting deeds in lieu of foreclosure, filing suit for judgments, accepting offers for the sale of real estate, and the sale and disposition of minerals. In any event, even though final decision with respect to a transaction is reserved to the bank, initial application therefor should be made to the local association.

(d) Further, the services and facilities of the associations may be utilized, if convenient, by the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation in discharging its functions as disposal agency for surplus agricultural and forest real property under the Surplus Property Act of 1944.

PART 12—FEDERAL FARM MORTGAGE CORPORATION

Part 12 of Title 6, Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended by adding thereto new §§ 12.1 and 12.2 as follows:

§ 12.1 Organization of Federal Farm Mortgage Corporaiton. (a) The Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation was created in 1934 by the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation Act (12 U. S. C. 1020–1020h), and has its principal office with the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, D. C. Its entire capital is provided by the United States, and it has the authority, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to issue bonds fully and unconditionally guaranteed both as to interest and principal by the United States. The administration and management of the Corporation is vested in its board of directors consisting of the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration as chairman, the Secretary of the Treasury or an officer of the Treasury designated by him, and the Land Bank Commissioner. While the board is authorized to appoint such agents, officers, and employees as it deems necessary, it utilizes, on a reimbursable basis, the services and facilities of the Farm Credit Administration and the Federal land banks in discharging its functions, and may utilize the services and facilities of the national farm loan associations, if convenient, in surplus property disposal.

(b) An executive vice president is the active executive officer of the Corporation. Between meetings of the board, an executive committee acts upon matters not specifically requiring initial consideration by the board.

§ 12.2 Functions and procedures of Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation—(a) General. The main purposes of the establishment of the Corporation were to provide funds for the Land Bank Commissioner loans made on behalf of the Corporation by the land banks as agents, and to assist in providing funds to the Federal land banks for making loans. The Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation is specifically authorized to make loans to the Federal land banks, or otherwise provide them with loanable funds in accordance with 12 U. S. C. 1020c and 1020d.

(b) Land Bank Commissioner loans. These loans were first authorized in § 32 of the Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933 (12 U. S. C. 1016) as a temporary measure, but the authority to make them has been extended from time to time, most recently until July 1, 1947. Land Bank Commissioner loans may be made to eligible borrowers and for eligible purposes up to 75 percent of the appraised normal value of the farm property, or 75 percent of the prudent investment value under certain conditions, but not to exceed $7,500 to any one farmer. These loans are made as first mortgage loans or as second mortgage loans supplementing a first mortgage land bank loan which is now limited to 65 percent. The interest rate on Commissioner loans is 1 percent higher than the rate on Federal land bank loans made through associations at the same time. The procedure for applying for Commissioner loans is covered under "Loans" in § 10.2 of this Subchapter.

When the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation was created in 1934, there was transferred to it the Land Bank Commissioner loans which had already been made, and the Corporation was authorized to invest its funds in such loans to be made thereafter on its behalf. In making and servicing these loans, the land banks act as agents for the Commissioner and the Corporation.

(c) Surplus property disposal. The Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation has undertaken the functions of disposal agency for surplus agricultural and forest real property under the Surplus Property Act of 1944. The functions of the Department of Agriculture as such disposal agency were delegated by the Secretary of Agriculture, subject to his general supervision and direction and to regulations approved by him, to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. They were redelegated by the Governor, subject to his general supervision and direction, to the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation. The Corporation in turn utilizes the services and facilities of the Federal land banks in discharging these functions, and may also use the national farm loan associations if convenient. A separate Surplus Property Disposal Manual has been issued to cover this activity, 6 CFR, Part 5 (11 F. R. 7877).

PART 40—GENERAL

Part 40 of Title 6 of the Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended by adding thereto new §§ 40.1 and 40.2 as follows:

§ 40.1 Organization of Federal intermediate credit banks. (a) The twelve Federal intermediate credit banks, of which there is one in each Farm Credit district, are corporations chartered under 12 U. S. C. 1021 et seq. The location of the several Federal intermediate credit banks and the district served by each are stated in 6 CFR, 8.1. All of their capital stock is owned by the United States. The activities of the credit bank in each district are coordinated with those of the Federal land bank, production credit corporation, and bank for cooperatives of the district through the district organization described in 6 CFR, 8.2. The Federal intermediate credit banks discount agricultural paper for eligible lending institutions and make loans to such institutions, and are authorized to make loans to cooperative associations of farmers and stockmen.

(b) The farm credit board of each district, elected or appointed under 12 U. S. C. 640b–640j, is ex officio the board of directors of the Federal intermediate credit bank of the district. The board of directors appoints the officers of the credit bank and is responsible for the management of its affairs under general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. The president of the credit bank is its chief executive officer.

§ 40.2 Functions and procedures of Federal intermediate credit banks—(a) Discounts for and loans to lending institutions. The Federal intermediate credit banks are primarily banks of discount for agricultural and livestock lending institutions. The banks are authorized to discount agricultural paper for, to purchase such paper from, and to make loans secured by such paper to, various types of lending institutions including national and State banks, trust companies, agricultural credit corporations, incorporated livestock loan companies, savings institutions, cooperative banks, credit unions, and cooperative associations of agricultural producers. To be eligible for discount or purchase by a Federal intermediate credit bank, or as security for loans from a credit bank, the paper offered by such institutions must represent an obligation the proceeds of which have been advanced or used in the first instance for an agricultural purpose or for the raising, breeding, fattening, or marketing of livestock.

The Federal intermediate credit banks also discount loan paper for, purchase such paper from, and make loans to, the production credit associations and the banks for cooperatives.

The discounts and loans by the Federal intermediate credit banks are made in accordance with 12 U. S. C., Chapter 7, Subchapter III, and the rules and regulations contained in subsequent sections of this Subchapter of the Code of Federal Regulations.

A lending institution desiring to rediscount the obligations of farmers and stockmen with a Federal intermediate credit bank, or to obtain loans from a Federal intermediate credit bank on the security of such obligations, should communicate with the credit bank serving the district in which the lending institution operates. To qualify for discounts and loans from the credit bank, the lending institution is required to submit to the bank, on prescribed forms available from the bank, an "Application for Rediscount Privileges" and related documents, in which the institution gives certain information and makes certain agreements regarding the types of obligations to be offered by it to the bank for discount or as security for loans, submits evidence of its eligibility and the authority of its officers to rediscount with and borrow from the bank, and sets forth its financial condition.

Applications of lending institutions to qualify for discounts and loans from a Federal intermediate credit bank, and their offerings of paper for discount or as security for loans, are approved or rejected by the bank's executive committee.

(b) Loans to cooperative associations. The Federal intermediate credit banks are authorized to make loans to cooperative associations of agricultural or livestock producers secured by staple agricultural products or livestock or by other collateral approved by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. Since such loans are available to eligible cooperative associations from the banks for cooperatives (see 6 CFR, Chapter I, Subchapter F), the credit banks do not ordinarily make such loans but refer requests to the banks for cooperatives. Occasionally, however, loans to cooperative associations are made by the Federal intermediate credit banks where extraordinary circumstances make it more advantageous to have the loans made by the credit bank rather than the banks for cooperatives. Applications for such loans from a Federal intermediate credit bank are made on prescribed forms furnished by the credit bank. Cooperative associations desiring to apply to a Federal intermediate credit bank for loans should first communicate with the credit bank regarding the special reasons for requesting that the loans be made by the credit bank rather than the bank for cooperatives.

(c) Issue and sale of debentures. The Federal intermediate credit banks finance their discount and lending operations for the most part by issuing consolidated collateral trust debentures which are sold to the general public. These debentures are the joint and several obligations of the twelve Federal intermediate credit banks and are issued and sold in accordance with 12 U. S. C. 1040–1045 and the rules and regulations contained in 6 CFR, Part 45. The debentures are secured by collateral as specified in 12 U. S. C. 1041, and this collateral is deposited or pledged with the farm loan registrars of the several districts who are public officials appointed by the Farm Credit Administration. The United States Government assumes no liability for the payment of these debentures. New issues of debentures are offered for sale, generally each month, through the Fiscal Agent of the Federal intermediate credit banks, and the Fiscal Agent notifies dealers listed with him of debenture offerings. Dealers desiring to be placed on the list should communicate with the Fiscal Agent for the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks, 31 Nassau Street, New York 5, New York. Persons interested in purchasing debentures for investment may communicate with any securities dealer or with the Fiscal Agent.

PART 48—PRODUCTION CREDIT CORPORATIONS

Subchapter E of Chapter I, Title 6, Code of Federal Regulations, is hereby amended by adding thereto new Parts 48 and 49 as follows:

Sec.
48.1 Organization of production credit corporations.
48.2 Functions and procedures of production credit corporations.

§ 48.1 Organization of production credit corporations. (a) The twelve production credit corporations, of which there is one in each Farm Credit district, are corporations chartered by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration under 12 U. S. C. 1131. The location of the several production credit corporations and the district served by each are stated in 6 CFR 8.1. All of their capital stock is held by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration on behalf of the United States. The activities of the production credit corporation of each district are coordinated with those of the Federal land bank, Federal intermediate credit bank, and bank for cooperatives of the district through the district organization described in 6 CFR, 8.2. The production credit corporations assist in the organization and capitalization of the production credit associations in their respective districts and supervise the associations.

(b) The farm credit board in each district, elected or appointed under 12 U. S. C. 640b–640j, is ex officio the board of directors of the production credit corporation. The board of directors appoints the officers of the corporation and is responsible for the management of its affairs under general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. The president of the corporation is its chief executive officer.

§ 48.2 Functions and procedures of production credit corporations. (a) The production credit corporations assist in the organization of production credit associations by advising with farmers desiring to form an association and by advising the Farm Credit Administration regarding the need and prospects for any proposed new associations. The corporations also consult with associations and make recommendations to the Farm Credit Administration regarding proposals for changing the territories of, consolidating, and liquidating associations.

(b) The production credit corporations assist in the capitalization of production credit associations by purchasing their class A stock in accordance with 12 U. S. C. 1131c.

PART 49—PRODUCTION CREDIT ASSOCIATIONS

Sec.
49.1 Organization of production credit associations.
49.2 Functions and procedures of production credit associations.

§ 49.1 Organization of production credit associations. (a) The production credit associations, of which there are about 500, are corporations organized by ten or more farmers and chartered by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration pursuant to 12 U. S. C. 1131d.

(b) The farmer members of each association own some or all of its capital stock. Non-voting class A stock of the associations is purchased by the production credit corporations subject to retirement in accordance with 12 U. S. C. 1131c, and the aggregate amount of stock owned by the corporations is being progressively reduced.

(c) The farmer members of an association elect its board of directors from its membership. The board of directors appoints its officers and employees and manages its affairs under general supervision of the production credit corporation and the Farm Credit Administration. The secretary of the association is its managing officer. The association's executive committee, consisting generally of two directors and the secretary, acts as a loan committee and passes on loan applications.

§ 49.2 Functions and procedures of production credit associations. The production credit associations make loans to farmers and stockmen for general agricultural purposes, principally short-term loans for production purposes. The regulations prescribing the general terms and conditions on which such loans may be made are contained in 6 CFR, Parts 50 and 51. Applications for loans should be made to the production credit association serving the territory in which the applicant's farming operations are conducted. Loan applications should be made on prescribed forms, which may be obtained from the association, in which the applicant gives information regarding the amounts and purposes of the loan sought, his farming facilities, the anticipated sources of repayment, the security offered, and his financial condition. Each borrower from an association is required to own stock in the association as provided in 12 U. S. C. 1131g. The executive committee of the association has authority to approve or reject loan applications except that further approval is required for loans in excess of certain amounts (see 12 U. S. C. 1131g) and for loans to certain officials of the Farm Credit Administration, the production credit corporation, or the association (see 6 CFR, 51.2 (f)).

PART 69—ORGANIZATION, FUNCTIONS, AND PROCEDURES OF BANKS FOR COOPERATIVES

Subchapter F of Chapter I, Title 6 of the Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended by adding thereto new Part 69, as follows:

Sec.
69.1 Organization of Central Bank for Cooperatives.
69.2 Organization of district banks for cooperatives.
69.3 Functions and procedures of banks for cooperatives.

§ 69.1 Organization of Central Bank for Cooperatives. The Central Bank for Cooperatives is a corporation chartered by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration under 12 U. S. C. 1134f. Its offices are located in Washington, D. C., with the Farm Credit Administration, and it serves the entire United States. Its capital stock is held partly by cooperative associations that borrow from it and partly by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration on behalf of the United States. The Central Bank makes loans to large regional-type cooperative associations of farmers and assists in financing the district banks for cooperatives. The board of directors of the Central Bank consists of the Cooperative Bank Commissioner, who is ex officio chairman of the board, and six other directors appointed by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration of whom three are appointed from among individuals nominated by cooperative associations borrowing from the Central Bank. The Cooperative Bank Commissioner, as charman of the board, is the executive officer of the Central Bank and prescribes the terms and conditions of its loans. The business of the Central Bank is managed by its vice president and general manager under the direction of the Commissioner, subject to general supervision by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

§ 69.2 Organization of district banks for cooperatives. (a) The twelve district banks for cooperatives, of which there is one in each farm credit district, are corporations chartered by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration under 12 U. S. C. 1134. The location of the several district banks and the district served by each are stated in 6 CFR 8.1. The capital stock of each district bank is held partly by cooperative asociations that borrow from it and partly by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration on behalf of the United States. The activities of the district bank for cooperatives in each district are coordinated with those of the Federal land bank, Federal intermediate credit bank, and production credit corporation of the district through the district organization described in 6 CFR 8.2. The district banks for cooperatives make loans to farmers' cooperative associations.

(b) The farm credit board of each district, elected or appointed under 12 U. S. C. 640b–640j, is ex officio the board of directors of the district bank for cooperatives. The board of directors appoints the officers of the corporation and is responsible for the management of its affairs under general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. The president of the district bank is its chief executive officer.

§ 69.3 Functions and procedures of banks for cooperatives. (a) The Central Bank and the twelve district banks for cooperatives make loans to eligible farmers' cooperative associations, as defined in 12 U. S. C. 1141j, for the purposes and subject to the conditions specified in the Agricultural Marketing Act (12 U. S. C. 1141–1141j). Such loans are made in accordance with the rules and regulations contained in subsequent sections of this Subchapter of the Code of Federal Regulations.

(b) The amount of loans that a district bank may make to any one borrower is limited by regulation (6 CFR, 71.3), but a district bank may receive applications for loans in excess of such limit and offer the excess amount to the Central Bank for participation in the loan. A cooperative association desiring to apply for loans should apply to the district bank serving the State in which the association's principal office is located (see 6 CFR, 8.1). However, an association whose operations extend over several farm credit districts may apply to the Central Bank. In appropriate cases, applications submitted to a district bank may be referred by it to the Central Bank and vice versa.

(c) Loan applications should be made on prescribed forms furnished by the banks, in which the applicant gives information as to the amount and purposes of the loan desired, the security offered, the proposed method of repayment, and the association's eligibility as a cooperative. The association should submit with its application certified copies of its articles of incorporation, bylaws, and board resolution authorizing the application, and audit reports or financial and operating statements for the preceding three years. Each borrower from a bank for cooperatives is required to own stock in the bank in the amounts stated in 6 CFR, 70.78.

(d) Loan applications are approved or rejected, and matters relating to loans are determined, on behalf of the Central Bank by its vice president and general manager with the concurrence of the Cooperative Bank Commissioner; and on behalf of a district bank by its executive committee composed of its president and other officers, except that loans in excess of $500,000 to any one association require further approval by the Cooperative Bank Commissioner.

PART 90—ORGANIZATION, FUNCTIONS, AND PROCEDURES OF REGIONAL AGRICULTURAL CREDIT CORPORATION OF WASHINGTON, D. C.

Part 90, including the title thereof, of Title 6 of the Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec.
90.2 Functions and procedure.

§ 90.1 Organization—(a) Central organization. The Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C., is a corporation chartered by the Farm Credit Administration under 12 U. S. C. 1148c. Originally there were twelve regional agricultural credit corporations created under 12 U. S. C. 1148, but all of them have been consolidated or merged into the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C., pursuant to 12 U. S. C. 1148c. The principal office of the Corporation is located in Washington, D. C., with the Farm Credit Administration. All of the capital stock of the Corporation is held by the Secretary of the Treasury on behalf of the United States. The Corporation is empowered to make loans to farmers and stockmen for agricultural purposes. The directors and officers of the Corporation are appointed by the the Farm Credit Administration. The board of directors of the Corporation has general management of its affairs, and the president of the Corporation is its chief executive officer. The Corporation's loan committee passes on applications for loans and related matters referred to the principal office.

(b) District offices. When the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation is engaged in a loan program in any particular area, it utilizes the farm credit district office serving that area (see 6 CFR, 8.1 and 8.2) as its district office, and utilizes the personnel and facilities of the farm credit district institutions. The district office of the Corporation is under the direction of a district vice president who is aided by an assistant district vice president and by local representatives as needed. Persons interested in learning the name and location of the local representative serving any particular county may obtain this information by writing to the district office of the Corporation serving the State in which the county is located, or by writing to the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C., Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D. C.

(c) Wenatchee branch office. The Corporation has a branch office in Wenatchee, Washington, which makes loans to fruit growers in Chelan, Okanogan, Douglas, and Grant Counties in the State of Washington. The Wenatchee office is managed by a manager under the general direction of a branch committee.

§ 90.2 Functions and procedures. (a) The Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation of Washington, D. C., is empowered to make loans to farmers and stockmen for agricultural purposes in accordance with 12 U. S. C. 1148. Loans from the Corporation are made available from time to time in areas where adequate credit for agricultural purposes is not then available from other sources. Accordingly, new loans from the Corporation are made available only in specified areas and for specified purposes designated from time to time, and are made only to applicants who are unable to obtain suitable financing from other sources. New loans have been made available during 1946 in the following areas for the following purposes:

Area and purposes
(1) Chelan, Okanogan, Douglas, and Grant Counties, State of Washington (Wenatchee Branch Office): Fruit production.
(2) Accomac and Northampton Counties, State of Virginia (Baltimore, Md., District Office): Production of certain vegetable crops.

The Corporation is also engaged in liquidating loans previously made throughout the United States. Where necessary, additional loans may be made to assist in the liquidation of outstanding loans.

(b) Applications for loans in the area served by the Wenatchee Branch Office should be submitted to that office. Such applications are approved or rejected by the branch committee of that office. Applications for loans in other areas where loans are made available should be submitted to the local representative of the Corporation or to its district office. The district vice president is authorized to approve or reject loan applications, except those in excess of specified amounts which require further approval by the principal office, and he may delegate such authority to the assistant district vice president.

(c) Loan applications are made on prescribed forms in which the applicant gives information as to the purposes and amounts of the loan desired, his farming facilities, the security offered, the anticipated sources of repayment, and his financial condition. The applicant must also submit evidence of his inability to obtain suitable financing from other local sources. The terms and conditions on which loans are made are prescribed or approved by the Farm Credit Administration and are contained in subsequent Parts of this Subchapter of the Code of Federal Regulations.

(d) Requests for cancelation of obligations for special war crop advances made in 1943 (see 6 CFR, 96.200 (b)) should be submitted to the local representative of the Corporation or to its district office. The district vice president has authority to approve or disapprove such requests for cancelation and he may delegate this authority to the assistant vice president. Such requests for cancelation are made on prescribed forms in which the applicant gives information regarding his fulfillment of the conditions required for cancelation.

[SEAL] A. T. ESGATE,
Acting Governor.

Farm Security Administration

[6 CFR, Ch. III]

PART 300—GENERAL

Section 300.1 of Title 6, of the Code of Federal Regulations, is amended and modified to read as follows:

§ 300.1 General functions and organization of the Farm Security Administration—(a) General functions. To assist veterans, and farm tenants, farm laborers, share croppers and other individuals who are eligible under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, (50 Stat., 522; 7 U. S. C. 1000), to become farm owners through long-term loans; to carry on a rural rehabilitation program for low-income farmers, in accordance with the item "Loans, Grants and Rural Rehabilitation" in the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act, including the making of short-term agricultural loans, practical guidance on farm and home methods, equitable farm-debt adjustment, tenure improvement, and health and group services; to promote conservation in the arid and semiarid areas of the United States by aiding in the development of facilities for water storage and utilization in accordance with the Water Facilities Act, as amended (50 Stat., 869, 54 Stat., 1124); to liquidate, as expeditiously as possible, resettlement projects and rural rehabilitation projects for resettlement purposes; and to provide emergency rural relief. The Farmers' Home Administration Act of 1946 (P. L. 731, 79th Congress, 2d Session, approved August 14, 1946) abolished the Farm Security Administration and its functions, powers and duties and provides for the administration of similar functions, powers and duties by the Farmers' Home Administration. Under section 2 (g) of the act, the Secretary of Agriculture, by order dated August 14, 1946 (11 F. R. 9007 and 9183), postponed, for a period not exceeding 90 days, the effective date of the transfers provided for by the act. Pending consummation of the transfer of the functions, powers, and duties transferred or abolished by the act, and in order to permit continuance of functions pending transfer to the Farmers' Home Administration, the functions, powers, and duties of the Farm Security Administration are to be carried on in the same manner as carried on prior to the effective date of the act. The Secretary's order also established the Farmers' Home Administration as an agency within the Department of Agriculture.

(b) Central organization. The National Headquarters of the Farm Security Administration, located in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., is under the direction of an administrator, who is assisted by an associate administrator, three assistant administrators, and two special assistants. The Administrator is also assisted by 14 divisions, each under the direction of a director or chief, consisting of the following nine service divisions: Administrative Analysis, Administrative Services, Audit-Investigation, Budget, Engineering, Finance, Information, Personnel, and Statistical Analysis; and the following five program divisions:

(1) Farm Ownership Division. Advises and assists in developing, planning and applying, and observes compliance with, FSA policies and procedures for the making, supervising and servicing of loans made in accordance with Title I and related provisions of Title IV of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act.

(2) Rural Rehabilitation Division. Advises and assists in developing, planning, and applying, and observes compliance with, FSA policies and procedures for the making, supervising and servicing of Rehabilitation, Water Facilities and Group Service loans and for Farm Debt Adjustment and Tenure Improvement.

(3) Project Sales Division. Advises and assists in developing, planning and applying, and observes compliance with, FSA policies and procedures for the liquidation and interim management of those FSA projects or properties designated for liquidation by law.

(4) Cooperative Division. Advises and assists in developing, planning and applying, and observes compliance with, FSA policies and procedures for utilizing services available through existing FSA-financed associations in the rehabilitation of low-income farm families. Provides technical guidance to such associations.

(5) Health Services Division. Advises and assists in developing, planning and applying, and observes compliance with, FSA policies and procedures for medical care, dental care, hospitalization, nursing, physical rehabilitation, physical examination, environmental sanitation and health education for low-income farm families.

(c) Field Organization. For purposes of administering the FSA program, the continental United States, it territories and possessions are divided geographically into regions, finance areas, states, districts, and units or counties.

(1) Regions. The continental United States, its territories and possessions are divided into 12 regions, each under the supervision of a regional director responsible directly to the Administrator for the prosecution of the FSA program within the region. The Regional Director is aided by his Assistant Regional Directors in charge of Rural Rehabilitation and Farm Ownership, Executive Assistant, Information Advisor, Engineer, and Administrative Services and Personnel Divisions. The following is a list of states, territories, and possessions within each region, and the location of the regional headquarters thereof:

Region I—Cunard Building, 229 South 16th Street, Philadelphia 2, Pennsylvania. Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, and Maryland;

Region II—County Court House, Milwaukee 1, Wisconsin, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota;

Region III—342 Massachusetts Avenue, Indianapolis 7, Indiana. Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri;

Region IV—Raleigh Building, S. W. Hargett Street, Raleigh, North Carolina. West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and North Carolina;

Region V—Farm Security Building, Montgomery 4, Alabama. South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Florida;

Region VI—Waldon Building, 7th and Main Streets, Little Rock, Arkansas. Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi;

Region VII—13th & N Streets, Lincoln A, Nebraska. North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas;

Region VIII—Parry Avenue at Commerce Street, Dallas 1, Texas. Oklahoma, Texas, and New Mexico;

Region IX—30 Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco 2, California. Arizona, Utah, Nevada, California and Hawaii;

Region X—950 Broadway, Denver 3, Colorado. Wyoming and Montana;

Region XI—Terminal Sales Building, Portland 5, Oregon. Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Alaska;

Region XIII—Box 4269, San Juan 21, Puerto Rico. Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands.

(2) Finance Area Offices. Four finance area offices, each under the supervision of a finance area manager, are responsible to the Administrator for serving the 12 FSA regions in the installation and maintenance of prescribed accounting systems to reflect financial condition and transactions within the area. Their headquarters and the regions served are as follows: Indianapolis, Indiana—Regions I, II, III; Montgomery, Alabama—Regions IV, V and XIII; Dallas, Texas—Regions VI and VIII; and Denver, Colorado—Regions VII, IX, X, and XI.

(3) States. Forty-five state and two territorial offices, each under the supervision of a state or territorial director, are responsible to the Regional Directors for coordinating the FSA program in the districts and counties within the limits of their respective states or territories. The states or territories and their headquarters are as follows:

Alabama—Auburn, Ala.; Arizona—Los Angeles, Calif.; Arkansas—Little Rock, Ark.; California, South—Los Angeles, Calif.; California, North—Sacramento, Calif.; Colorado—Denver, Colo.; Connecticut—Hartford, Conn.; Delaware—Baltimore, Md.; Florida—Gainesville, Fla.; Georgia—Athens, Ga.; Idaho—Boise, Idaho; Illinois—Champaign, Ill.; Indiana—Lafayette, Ind.; Iowa—Des Moines, Iowa; Kansas—Topeka, Kans.; Kentucky—Lexington, Ky.; Louisiana—Baton Rouge, La.; Maine—Bangor, Maine; Maryland—Baltimore, Md.; Massachusetts—Hartford, Conn.; Michigan—East Lansing, Mich.; Minnesota—St. Paul, Minn.; Mississippi—Jackson, Miss.; Missouri—Columbia, Mo.; Montana—Bozeman, Mont.; Nebraska—Lincoln, Nebr.; Nevada, Sacramento, Calif.; New Hampshire—Concord, N. H.; New Jersey—New Brunswick, N. J.; New Mexico—Albuquerque, N. Mex.; New York—Ithaca, N. Y.; North Carolina—Raleigh, N. C.; North Dakota—Bismarck, N. Dak.; Ohio—Columbus, Ohio; Oklahoma—Oklahoma City, Okla.; Oregon—Portland, Oreg.; Pennsylvania—Harrisburg, Pa.; Rhode Island—Hartford, Conn.; South Carolina—Columbia, S. C.; South Dakota—Huron, S. Dak.; Tennessee—Nashville, Tenn.; Texas—Dallas, Tex.; Utah—Logan, Utah; Vermont—Montpelier, Vt.; Virginia—Richmond, Va.; Washington—Olympia, Wash.; West Virginia—Morgantown, W. Va.; Wisconsin—Milwaukee, Wis.; Wyoming—Laramie, Wyo.; Territorial Office—Hilo, T. H.; Territorial Office—Anchorage, Alaska.

(4) Districts. The 48 States are divided into 163 geographic districts which are delineated insofar as possible on the basis of types of agricultural and economic problems. The District FSA Supervisor, in charge of the District Office, is responsible to the State Director for training and supervising the local office employees within the district in the conduct of the FSA program.

(5) Counties. A local (unit or county) FSA office under the direction of an FSA Supervisor, is assigned to serve each county. Usually this office is located in the county seat; however, depending upon the volume of business in certain counties, the local office located in the county seat of one county may also serve one or more adjoining counties. The local office is the normal channel through which the public is expected to seek information, make application for assistance, and conduct business with the Farm Security Administration. County FSA Committees, composed of three farmers residing in the county, examine applications, appraise farms, and certify to the eligibility of applicants and reasonable value of farms in connection with the making of farm ownership loans. County FSA Committees also determine the eligibility and need of applicants for Rural Rehabilitation loans and review the progress of borrowers who have received FSA assistance for a period of three years.

NOTE: The general course, procedures, and methods by which the FSA functions are channeled and determined (except with respect to the Project Liquidation and Water Facilities programs which are hereinafter set out), including the delegations of final authority, are codified in 6 CFR, chapter III.

PART 353—SALES OF REAL PROPERTY

Part 353 of Title 6, the Code of Federal Regulations, is amended to add the following section:

§ 353.1 Project liquidation: Pursuant to the directive from the Congress in the "Loans, Grants, and Rural Rehabilitation" item of the Department of Agriculture Appropriation Act of 1947 (Pub. Law 442), and the provisions of Public Law No. 563, 79th Cong., 2nd Session, the Farm Security Administration is engaged in a program of liquidating, as expeditiously as possible, its resettlement projects or rural rehabilitation projects for resettlement purposes, and other similar type enterprises. It is the present policy of the Farm Security Administration to utilize the following methods of disposal:

(a) Economic farm units are being sold at earning-capacity values to veterans of World War II and present project occupants to whom previous commitments to purchase have been made or who have existing contracts to purchase, who meet the requirements of eligibility specified in Title I of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act.

(b) Subsistence units are being sold, wherever practicable, to low-income families and veterans, at the fair-market value of such units.

(c) Wherever practicable, project facilities and utilities, other than land for farming purposes, are being sold, at the fair-market value thereof, to present operators who have demonstrated an ability, financial and otherwise, to operate such type of property successfully.

(d) Other property is offered for sale directly by Farm Security Administration by means of notices published in newspapers and posted at public places in the area surrounding the property. The property is then sold for the highest offer if that offer is deemed to represent the fair-market value of the property and to be consistent with the best financial interest of the Government.

(e) Applications to acquire project units or facilities may be made through the local FSA office in the same manner as applications are made for farm ownership loans.

Section 353.21 paragraph (d) of Title 6 of the Code of Federal Regulations is hereby revoked and the following is inserted in lieu thereof:

§ 353.21 Sale of management projects by deed, note and mortgage. • • •

(d) Minerals. No minerals will be reserved in the conveyance of project properties.

PART 391—WATER FACILITIES LOANS

Subchapter J of Title 6, Chapter III of the Code of Federal Regulations is amended to add the following part:

§ 391.1 General. (a) Water Facilities loans are made under the authority of the Water Facilities Act, as amended (50 Stat. 869, 54 Stat. 1124), to individual farm owners, tenants, and ranchers, or to groups or associations, in order to promote the conservation and adequate use of water resources on farm, grazing, and forest lands. Loans are made in the arid and semiarid areas of the United States, which include the following 17 Western States: Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming. Eligibility is determined by County FSA Committees, and applicants must show that they are unable to secure adequate credit on reasonable terms from other sources to provide needed facilities. Loans are made for those types of water facilities which will enable farmers and ranchers to store or utilize water for domestic use, livestock, farm gardens, crop and haylands, ranges and pastures, or other lands used for agricultural purposes. Loans are also made for the purchase of water stock in companies or associations, or for the purchase of needed water rights if the transfer of the water privileges or water rights will result in better use of land.

(b) No loan may be made in excess of $50,000 in connection with a single project or facility. Regional Directors are authorized to approve Water Facilities loans to individuals in amounts not to exceed $5,000 and to associations in amounts not to exceed $7,500. Loans may be made for the expected life of the facility or for twenty years, whichever is less, and bear interest at the rate of three percent per annum. Generally a first mortgage on the facility, and additional security, when available, and when needed to protect its interests, are required.

(c) Before a loan is approved, a determination is made, based on technical investigations, as to the effect of the facility upon the whole drainage basin. Facilities must not be located where encouragement will be given to farmers to operate submarginal land areas, which, in the public interest, should be devoted to other uses.

(d) Applications for loans may be filed on Form FSA197, "Application for FSA Services," with the local FSA office. Assistance in planning and constructing the facility is furnished. The individual, or association, assumes the responsibility for the completion of the installation. Representatives of the FSA give technical assistance and engineering service as needed.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 28th day of August 1946.

[SEAL] CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

§ 200.1 Central organization — (a) Central Office. The central office of the Forest Service is at Washington, D. C. in the South Agriculture Building. This consists of the office of the Chief and six Branches, each headed by an Assistant Chief, and the Division of Fiscal Control headed by a Division Chief.

(b) Chief of the Forest Service. The Chief of the Forest Service under the general direction of the Secretary of Agriculture formulates, directs and supervises the execution of the Forest Service policies, programs and activities.

(c) Branches. The branches are as follows:

(1) Administrative Management and Information Branch. Is responsible for general administration and management activities of the Forest Service.

(2) National Forest Administration Branch. Formulates national policies and plans for the protection, development, administration, and utilization for all national forest resources; and administers a program for the production of guayule rubber.

(4) Forest Research Branch. Obtains basic technical information and scientific data necessary to insure adequate supplies of timber and other forest products for the people of the United States and to promote the full use for timber-growing and other purposes of forest lands in the United States, including farm woodlots and abandoned areas not suitable for agricultural production; obtains similar information for range lands; provides national leadership in forest research; correlates within the Department of Agriculture research in reforestation, timber-growing, protection, and utilization, forest economics, range rehabilitation and utilization, water and soil vegetation relationships, and related subjects.

(5) Lands Branch. Promotes the establishment of a system of national forests adequate to national needs when correlated with forest programs of other public and private agencies; formulates objectives with respect to forest land status and economy; and develops policies and procedures for land planning and acquisition.

(6) Program Planning Branch. Is responsible for planning forestry programs in the light of national social, economic and cultural conditions related to forestry.

(7) Fiscal Control Division. Is responsible for all phases of fiscal management and performance of all fiscal work.

§ 200.2 Field organization. (a) The field organization of the Forest Service (except for Research activities) is divided into 10 regions for the continental United States and Alaska. A Regional Forester is responsible to the Chief for all activities except research within each region. A Forest Supervisor is responsible to the Regional Forester for all activities pertaining to management, protection and utilization of national forest lands within the boundaries of each national forest. Most national forests are divided into from 2 to 10 Ranger Districts. A Forest Ranger is responsible to the Forest Supervisor for all activities pertaining to management, protection and utilization of national forest lands within the boundaries of each Ranger District.

(b) A Director of Tropical Forestry is responsible to the Chief for activities in Puerto Rico.

(c) The field organization of the Forest Service for research activities comprises 11 Forest and Range Experiment Stations and the Forest Products Laboratory. A Director is responsible to the Chief for all research activities in the territory assigned each station. The Director of the Forest Products Laboratory is responsible to the Chief for research conducted in connection with wood and wood products.

(d) The Regional Forester for Region 8 is responsible to the Chief for the operation of the Naval Stores Conservation Programs; a Program Supervisor is responsible to the Regional Forester; and Inspectors are responsible to the Program Supervisor.

(e) The addresses of Regional Foresters, Directors of Experiment Stations, and Forest Supervisors and the Naval Stores Conservation Program Supervisor are given below. Location of specific Ranger District headquarters may be obtained from Forest Supervisors. Location of specific Naval Stores Inspectors may be obtained from the Program Supervisor.

§ 200.3 Offices to which applications or requests should be submitted. (a) Any person desiring information about any national forest activity may submit his request to the Chief, the Regional Forester for the region involved in the request, the Forest Supervisor or District Ranger of the national forest with which the request is concerned.

(b) Any person desiring information about research activities may submit his request to the Chief, or to the Director of the Experiment Station in the area with which the request is concerned.

(c) Any person desiring information about other activities for which the Forest Service is responsible may submit his request to the Chief, or to the Regional Forester for the region with which the request is concerned.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURES

§ 200.21 General—(a) Work of the Forest Service. Broadly, responsibilities of the Forest Service are: (1) To initiate and apply, locally and nationally, forestry action programs in the interest of public welfare and help with action programs initiated by county, State and Federal agencies; (2) to protect, develop, and administer the national-forest system; (3) to conduct research in problems involving protection, development, management, renewal, and continuous use of all resources, products, values, and services of forest lands; (4) to make research and administrative findings and results available to individuals, industries, and public and private agencies generally.

The national-forest system comprises approximately 179 million acres of Government land. On these public properties forestry methods are applied in growing and harvesting timber. Grazing by livestock and big game is scientifically regulated. Sustained and, where possible, increased yields of timber, forage, and wildlife are obtained. Watersheds are managed to safeguard the supply of water for domestic, agricultural, and industrial purposes. Simple, democratic, and inexpensive forms of recreation are encouraged. Provision is also made for other forms of land and resource use.

(b) Legislative authority. The basic laws authoriizng the activities of the Forest Service are set forth in 16 U. S. C. 471–582; 33 U. S. C. 701, and 7 U. S. C. 1010, 1011, and 1018.

(c) Where information and forms generally may be obtained. Information regarding activities and forms, when required, may be obtained from the Chief of the Forest Service, Regional Foresters, Forest Supervisors, and Forest Rangers; and from Directors of Experiment Stations where research activities are involved.

(d) Appeals from administrative action. Appeals from administrative actions or decisions made by officers of the Forest Service may be made under regulations issued by the Secretary (36 CFR, Part 211).

(e) Claims. Claims for property damage should be presented to the local forest officer, who in turn will submit them through channels to the Secretary for approval (16 U. S. C. 502, 574; 31 U. S. C. 215); except that claims for damage to private property hired or rented to the Forest Service not exceeding $50 may be approved by the area Regional Forester.

(f) Cooperative activities. The Forest Service cooperates with individuals, organizations and other governmental agencies in reforestation, in protection or administration of lands within or near the national forests (16 U. S. C. 572), in protection and improvement of national forests, and in forest investigations (16 U. S. C. 498). Contributions of money, supplies, services, etc. pursuant to written cooperative agreements may be accepted to accomplish such work. Regulations governing cooperation with groups of users of like resources of national forests are published (36 CFR, part 211).

§ 200.22 Timber management—(a) General. The Forest Service directs the growing, utilization and protection from insects and disease of timber on national forest lands. This includes sales or removal of timber and other forest products, improvement of forest stands, nurseries and tree planting, surveys and management plans, and disease and insect control. The latter are handled by the Forest Service in cooperation with the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine.

(b) Sales of and removal of timber. The sale of and removal of timber or other forest products from national forest land is governed by regulations of the Secretary of Agriculture (36 CFR, part 221).

Timber up to an appraised value of not more than $500 may be sold without advertising. For larger amounts notices of offerings of the sale of timber or other forest products are publicized in the general locality where the timber is located. These notices indicate the minimum acceptable prices, where bid forms may be obtained and submitted, and where samples of the timber sale agreement covering conditions of cutting and other requirements for the proposed sale may be obtained.

Applications or requests for sale, cutting or removal of timber or other forest products may be addressed to any regularly maintained office of the Forest Service, but, preferably, to the officer in charge of the area where the timber is located. Applications may be sent in any form but should specify the amount and location of the material desired.

(c) Sustained yield units. Sustained yield units may be established (16 U. S. C. 583) by the Chief of the Forest Service (36 CFR, part 221 and 11 F. R. 8650).

(d) Cooperative work. Deposits may be received from timber purchasers for disposing of brush and debris resulting from cutting operations on national forest lands (16 U. S. C. 490).

(e) Reforestation and stand improvement. Purchasers of timber from national forest land may be required to deposit the cost of reforestation or stand improvement not in excess of the cost of planting other national forest areas (16 U. S. C. 576).

(f) Cooperative scaling. The Forest Service may accept money from timber purchasers and use it to defray scaling costs in excess of those required by the Forest Service (16 U. S. C. 572).

§ 200.23 Range management. (a) The Forest Service allocates grazing privileges and supervises grazing of domestic livestock on the national forests (16 U. S. C. 471). This includes the issuance of grazing permits, the determination of grazing capacities by conducting range inventories and other field studies; preparation of management plans; installation of range improvements; range reseeding; range inspection and supervision; cooperation with permittees, advisory boards, and livestock associations; and controlling range-destroying rodents and insects. The latter are handled by the Forest Service in cooperation with the Fish and Wildlife Service and the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine.

(b) Authority to permit and regulate grazing. The Secretary has authorized the Chief of the Forest Service to permit grazing or refuse permission to graze livestock on the national forests and to prescribe the conditions and requirements under which permits will be issued or terminated (36 CFR, Part 231) (10 F. R. 15269). This authorization has been delegated to Regional Foresters, and in general to Forest Supervisors. District Rangers are ordinarily authorized to issue crossing permits and free permits within the limitations set forth in Secretary's Regulations.

(c) Applications and permits. Application forms for grazing permits may be obtained from and applications may be submitted to any regularly maintained office of the Forest Service, but, preferably, to the officer in charge of the area upon which grazing privileges are desired. Permits specify the kind and number of livestock to be grazed, period, area to be grazed, and other conditions.

Where national-forest ranges are used seasonally, holders of term or annual permits are required to own improved ranch property, capable of supporting the livestock during a specified period of time when they are off the national forests. Where yearlong grazing is permitted, water supply, headquarters, and ranch improvements may be substituted for crop-producing lands and privately-owned range lands as commensurate property. Full information on the land ownership requirements for any given area can be obtained from the Forest Ranger in charge of the area, the Forest Supervisor, or the Regional Forester.

(d) Preferences and limits. (1) A permittee who meets all requirements for holding a term or annual permit may be allowed "preference" in the use of national-forest range under conditions set forth in published regulations (11 F. R. 2535).

(2) Grazing preferences of a holder who is willing to waive his preference may be transferred in accordance with established rules to the heirs of a preference holder or to the purchaser of permitted livestock or base ranch property. A prospective purchaser of permitted livestock or base ranch property who desires to have the preference transferred to him, or permittees who desire to consolidate permitted operations into partnerships or corporations, should discuss the transaction in advance with the local Forest Supervisor who will be able to advise him of the status of the preference and the conditions under which it will be renewed to the purchaser or the circumstances under which consolidations of preferences will be allowed.

(3) A regulation provides for the establishment of lower and upper limits for each national forest or portion thereof. Upper limits, ordinarily, represent the optimum number of livestock for a range enterprise, and lower limits the minimum number of livestock required for a reasonably stable enterprise for the support of a family.

(e) Appeals. Appeals from a decision of a Forest Supervisor may be made under the standard procedure (36 CFR, Part 211), or by filing a complaint with the chairman of a recognized local advisory board (10 F. R. 15270). If the latter procedure is followed the appeal should be filed within 20 days after the original decision is rendered. After notice and hearing, and investigation if necessary, the board will submit its recommendation to the Regional Forester. Exceptions to the proposed report of the Board may be filed by the appellant with the chairman of the Board within 20 days. An appeal from the decision of the Regional Forester may be taken in the regular manner.

§ 200.24 Wildlife management. The Forest Service determines the extent to which national forests will be devoted to wildlife production, directs the management of the wildlife habitat and cooperates with the States in the protection and utilization of wildlife on the national forests. This includes improving food and cover conditions, coordinating wildlife needs with other authorized activities of the national forests, stocking areas with fish and game, and aiding in enforcement of State game laws (16 U. S. C. 551, 553; 36 CFR, Parts 241, 261). Regional Foresters are authorized to enter into cooperative agreements with the proper State fish and game authorities.

Permits for taking of game, carrying or having firearms, or camping on federal game refuges must be secured from the Forest Supervisor. Permits for hunting, fishing, or trapping on certain other national-forest lands are sometimes required in addition to State licenses and may either be sold or given free depending upon the area within or conditions under which issued.

§ 200.25 Watershed management—(a) General. The Forest Service is responsible for preventing the loss of top soils from national-forest lands. Vegetative and mechanical processes of control are used for this purpose. In addition, timber sale contracts and permits require the contractor or permittee to conduct operations so as to prevent erosion.

(b) Municipal watersheds. By authority of the Secretary (36 CPR, Part 251) the Forest Service may enter into agreements with municipalities and irrigation districts to restrict use of national-forest land from which water supplies are derived.

(c) Snow surveys. Depth and content of snow fall is measured by the Forest Service on surveyed courses. These data on water yield are furnished to water users, flood control authorities, and to the public.

§ 200.26 Special uses and minerals—(a) General. The Forest Service prescribes conditions for occupancy of national-forest land. Ordinarily, all occupancy and use that involves exclusive use of an area, the construction of improvements, the disturbance of the land surface, or the removal of stone or gravel for noncommercial purposes, must be authorized by a special use permit, lease, or easement (36 CFR, Part 251). Unauthorized occupancy or use is prohibited (36 CFR, Part 261). Persons desiring to obtain a special use permit, lease, or easement should submit an application to the Forest Supervisor or Forest Ranger responsible for the area concerned.

(b) Issuance of special use permits, leases, or easements. Special use permits are ordinarily issued by Forest Supervisors; but in some cases they are issued by Forest Rangers. Leases or easements are issued by the Chief or by specifically designated officials. Applications for uses not consistent with national forest objectives will be rejected and the applicant informed of the reasons.

(c) Minerals. The removal of minerals, including oil and gas, from national-forest lands is authorized by several laws. On certain national-forest lands the General Mining Laws (30 U. S. C. 21 et seq.) apply, while on other lands, leases or permits must be obtained as provided by the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U. S. C. 181) (16 U. S. C. 520), or certain other statutes. The Bureau of Land Management of the Department of the Interior is the administrative agency responsible for issuing commercial mineral permits and oil and gas leases on most national-forest lands. The Forest Supervisor is familiar with the several types of land and will inform all applicants whether the Bureau of Land Management or the Forest Service is the agency authorized to issue permits. Stipulations for the protection of the surface may be required in all cases, and, where the lands were acquired for forestry or other specific purposes, the consent of the Secretary of Agriculture must be obtained before a lease may be issued. Special use permits may be required for use or occupancy of the surface for related purposes.

The owners of private land or valid claims inside national-forest boundaries have certain rights of egress and ingress to those lands, but must obtain a special use permit before constructing roads.

§ 200.27 Power transmission lines and easements. Forms to be used by applicants, detailed information required, and types and specifications of rights-of-way for power transmission lines on national-forest land are governed by statute and published regulations (16 U. S. C. 522, 523, 792 et seq.; 36 CFR, Part 251).

§ 200.28 Recreation use. Published regulations govern the use of national forests for recreation purposes, the procedure for issuing permits, when required, and the conditions of such permits (36 CFR, Parts 251, 261).

§ 200.29 Fire Control. The Forest Service formulates general policies for and directs fire control activities on all national-forest land (16 U. S. C. 471, 551; 36 CFR, Part 261). It promotes investigations in all fields of fire control, sponsors local and national campaigns to prevent man-caused fires on forested lands, assumes leadership in the development and testing of new or improved fire fighting equipment and methods, and publishes forest fire statistics.

Fire protection activities are limited to national-forest land, to private land intermingled with or adjacent to national-forest land that presents a fire hazard to national-forest land, and to private lands within or near the boundaries of national forests on which the owners pay the costs of protection under cooperative agreements (16 U. S. C. 572). Control of fires is handled through field organizations under the direction of District Rangers.

§ 200.30 Forest roads, trails and highways. Roads primarily for heavy use by the public are usually designed and constructed by the Public Roads Administration of the Federal Works Agency. The Forest Service usually plans and constructs the roads that are of primary importance for the protection, administration and utilization of the national forests. Both types of roads may be constructed and maintained in cooperation with local agencies and the cost may be shared. Trails are planned, constructed and maintained by the Forest Service.

§ 200.31 Land Acquisition—(a) General. The Forest Service may acquire lands for national forests through purchase, donation, or exchange of lands for timber as authorized by Acts of Congress.

(b) National Forest Reservation Commission. This Commission was established by law (16 U. S. C. 513) to consider and authorize the acquisition of certain lands and to fix the price at which they may be acquired.

(c) Offers to sell, donate, or exchange; negotiations. Informal offers to sell, donate, or exchange lands may be filed with Forest Rangers, Forest Supervisors or the Regional Foresters and may be by letter or upon forms available at these offices. Examination and appraisal of the lands so offered generally are under the direction of the Forest Supervisor. Appraisals are subject to review by the Regional Forester and Chief of the Forest Service. Negotiations with the land owner as to consideration and conditions of purchase or exchange are usually carried on by the Forest Supervisor or his representatives. Reservations by vendors of minerals, timber, rights of occupancy, or easements must be exercised in accordance with published regulations (36 CFR, Part 251).

(d) Adjustment of lands erroneously acquired or to which title is rejected. The Secretary of Agriculture may quitclaim to the rightful owner, lands acquired through error or inadvertence or to which title is unacceptable (5 U. S. C. 567). Applications for such reconveyances may be made to Forest Rangers, Forest Supervisors or Regional Foresters.

§ 200.32 Land classification—(a) Agricultural areas. All national-forest lands found to be chiefly valuable for agriculture have been listed with the Secretary of the Interior (16 U. S. C. 506, 507, 509).

Persons who believe that any national-forest lands are chiefly valuable for agriculture and, therefore, are suitable for listing under the Forest Homestead Act should make application directly to the Forest Supervisor of the national forest involved. If the lands applied for are subject to the laws mentioned above, the Supervisor will have the lands reexamined by agricultural experts in the light of existing conditions. If such lands are found to be in fact chiefly valuable for agriculture, they will be listed with the Secretary of the Interior for entry. If the Forest Supervisor finds the lands not chiefly valuable for agriculture he will advise the applicant with reasons.

(b) Lands in Alaska upon which certain improvements have been made while under special use permit, upon request of permittee and approval of the Secretary, may be excluded from national-forest boundaries for entry (48 U. S. C. 461). Application should be made to Forest Supervisor of forest on which permit was issued (36 CFR, Part 251).

§ 200.33 Flood control. The Forest Service is authorized by the Flood Control Act, as amended (33 U. S. C. 701) to make investigations of water flow and soil erosion on specified drainage basins and initiate action program to prevent erosion and retard runoff on designated watersheds in cooperation with other Federal agencies and the States.

Ordinarily, upper basin drainages are handled by the Forest Service and the Soil Conservation Service and of these, certain drainages, chiefly agricultural, are included within the scope of the Soil Conservation Service while drainages largely timbered are the responsibility of the Forest Service.

All investigations and work programs must have specific authority of Congress. Examinations are first made followed by surveys, if justified by the preliminary report. Survey reports outline specific plans of action for watershed flood control which become work programs when approved by Congress.

§ 200.34 Settlement of civil trespass cases. Civil trespass cases involving national-forest lands may be settled by field officers of the Forest Service, designated in Secretary's Regulations, upon payment into the Treasury of the United States of the full amount of the claim (36 CFR, Part 261).

§ 200.35 Forest fire cooperation. The Forest Service cooperates with States and Territories in protecting non-federally-owned land from fire (16 U. S. C. 564). Legislation authorizes Federal participation up to one-half the total cost of protection, subject to appropriation limitations.

To receive assistance under this Act, a State must first pass an enabling Act to permit acceptance of federal contributions or payments, and submit an application to the Secretary. On receipt of the application, the Chief of the Forest Service directs an examination to be made of the State's forest fire problem, its contemplated plan of protection, and the State's ability to cooperate.

Fire protection activities under the above Act are handled by the State forestry departments. The Federal Government periodically reimburses the States for part of the cost of such activities; furnishes leadership, technical advice and assistance. The Forest Service approves State forest fire protection systems and annual budgets for that purpose and through inspection and audit assures that expenditures are properly made and are in accordance with mutually approved work plans.

§ 200.36 Farm and other private forestry coopcration.—(a) General. The Forest Stervice is authorized to furnish advice to owners of timberland on reforestation and forest management (16 U. S. C. 568). This includes advice on improvement of timber stands, determining when and what timber should be sold, logging methods and marketing.

(b) Farm woodland management. The farm woodland management program is conducted in cooperation with States and is jointly financed by the States and the Federal Government. Project areas consisting of an average of four counties are established with a project forester in charge. Farmers desiring assistance with management of their timberland or disposition of timber should apply to their local county agent, the State Forester, State Extension Forester or the Regional Forster for the area in which the timberland is located.

(c) Farm land reforestation. The production, procurement and distribution of forest tree planting stock for use in reforesting farm lands is authorized by law (16 U. S. C. 568). To encourage farmers to plant waste areas and to improve existing timber stands, the Secretary of Agriculture cooperates with the States in a program which makes planting stock available to farmers at low cost. Part of the cost of production, procurement and distribution of this stock is paid by the Federal Government. Farmers who wish to secure stock for these purposes should apply to their local county agents or State Foresters.

(d) Advice in management of commercial nonfarm timber lands is furninshed under authority of current appropriation acts. A complete plan usually is prepared. For large areas, a sample plan may be made for only a portion of the area which may be used by the owner in preparing plans for the rest of his lands. Applications for assistance should be made to the Regional Forester for the area in which the land is located. No particular form of application is required.

§ 200.37 Land utilization projects. Certain areas of land acquired pursuant to statutory authority (7 U. S. C. 1010, 1011) have been turned over to the Forest Service for custody and leasing to States for operation and management (36 CFR, Part 203). Information concerning any Land Utilization Area leased to a State as described above, can be obtained from the State Forester of that State.

§ 200.38 Naval Stores Conservation Program. The Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended (16 U. S. C. 590g to 590q) authorizes payments to producers of gum naval stores for carrying out on their farms practices designed to conserve and restore turpentine trees. The programs promulgated under this authority are known as the Naval Stores Conservation Programs and are administered by the Forest Service in accordance with regulations issued annually by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 706). These regulations contain detailed information relating to participation in the program, the conservation practices for which payment is offered, the specifications and rates of payment for such practices, and the procedure governing appeals from decisions of the Program Supervisor or Regional Forester with respect to payments. Bulletins, instructions and forms relating to the program are available at the offices of the Regional Forester, the Program Supervisor, and local Inspectors of the Forest Service.

§ 200.39 Forest research. Forest research is authorized by 16 U. S. C. 581 to obtain basic technical information for and demonstrate methods of management, improvement, protection from fire and utilization of products from forest and range lands and dissemination of this information to interested persons. Much of this work is conducted by the Forest Service in cooperation with State Experiment Stations and educational institutions. The Forest Service also cooperates with individuals and may accept contributions to pay the cost of such work. Persons interested in entering into cooperative arrangements may direct their inquiries to the Chief of the Forest Service or to a Director of an Experiment Station. Results of investigations are available to the public through issuance of publications, or by consultation with Directors of Experiment Stations.

PART 2300—PRODUCTION AND MARKETING ADMINISTRATION

§ 2300.1 Production and Marketing Administration. The Production and Marketing Administration formulates and administers all programs of the Department of Agriculture involving the production, processing, marketing and distribution of agricultural products. These include programs authorized by the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act of 1935, and by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938; programs involving farm labor supply, wage stabilization, the improvement of farm incomes by price support and subsidies, the publication of market news, and the furnishing of school lunches; regulatory programs involving the inspection, grading and standardization of agricultural products; programs involving food allocation and conservation orders, the agricultural utilization of surplus material, equipment and facilities, the improvement of nutritional standards, and the determination of national and international food requirements; price support, loan, purchase, sales and other programs of the Commodity Credit Corporation; programs of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation; and the liquidation of the Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation.

§ 2301.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Production and Marketing Administration is at Washington, D. C., in the Administration Building, United States Department of Agriculture. It consists of the offices referred to in the succeeding paragraphs of this section.

(b) Office of the Administrator—(1) The Administrator. Under the general direction of the Secretary, the Administrator is responsible for the formulation and administration of all programs assigned to the Production and Marketing Administration. Authority is delegated to the Assistant Administrators to act on behalf of and for the Administrator except with respect to authorities which are restricted from redelegation.

(2) Assistant Administrators. (i) Assistant Administrators, in addition to their general responsibilities, coordinate and have final authority to resolve major problems of policy and procedure arising under programs of the Cotton, Fats and Oils, Grain, Sugar, Tobacco, Dairy, Fruit and Vegetable, Livestock, Poultry, and Special Commodities Branches, including authority to take final action with respect to appeals for relief under War Food Orders.

(ii) An Assistant Administrator in addition to his general responsibilities, coordinates and has final authority to resolve major problems of policy and procedure arising under activities of the Budget and Management, Compliance and Investigation, Food Distribution Programs, Field Service, Materials and Equipment, and Labor Branches, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, and all staff offices except the Office of Foreign Programs Coordination.

(iii) An Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control, in addition to his general responsibilities, coordinates and has final authority to resolve major problems of policy and procedure arising under activities of the Fiscal, Marketing Facilities and Shipping and Storage Branches, the Office of Foreign Programs Coordination, and operaions by all branches under the Surplus Property Act of 1944 and the Contract Settlement Act of 1944.

The Assistant Administrator has final authority to approve sales of excess commodities of Commodity Credit Corporation; to authorize dispositions of surplus property and contractor inventory under the Surplus Property Act of 1944; to approve or disapprove claims not in excess of $50,000 submitted under section 17 of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944; and to disapprove claims for more than $50,000 submitted under section 17 of that act. A Settlement Review Board, of which the Assistant Administrator is Chairman, has final authority to approve, but not to disapprove, settlement agreements for contracts terminated under the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 that provide for payment of more than $50,000 to a prime contractor or $5,000 to a subcontractor.

(3) An Assistant to the Administrator is responsible for coordinating the administration and enforcement of regulatory laws, which include the issuance of marketing agreements and orders, War Food Orders, and the furnishing of marketing services, and for the coordination of industry relationships. He also serves as Chairman of a Petition Review Committee, which hears all appeals to the Assistant Administrators for relief under War Food Orders.

(c) Staff Offices.—(1) Office of Audit is responsible for planning, directing and controlling commercial type audits and examination activities of the Administration.

(2) Office of Foreign Programs Coordination assists in the formulation of programs for meeting the agricultural commodity requirements of United States governmental agencies and agencies of foreign governments and international organizations.

(3) Information Service formulates, coordinates and directs programs for furnishing regular, general and trade information, marketing news, and materials for periodicals, radio and educational and popular publications.

(4) Office of Price Administration collaborates with other staff officers and with branch directors in developing programs for price support, price stabilization and marketing agreements and orders, and any other programs that involve price problems.

(5) Office of Requirements and Allocations formulates for the approval of the Administrator or the Secretary policies with respect to national and international food requirements and allocations, participate in the activities of the International Emergency Food Council and coordinates the rationing policies of the Administration with those of the Office of Price Administration.

(6) Transportation Officer furnishes advice on all matters of policy and procedure with respect to transporation matters and maintains liaison with other governmental and private transportation agencies with respect to the transportation of farm products.

(d) Branch Offices. Responsibility for the formulation and administration of the programs assigned to the Administration is vested in the following branches in Washington:

(1) Cotton Branch.
(2) Dairy Branch.
(3) Fats and Oils Branch.
(4) Fruit and Vegetable Branch.
(5) Grain Branch.
(6) Livestock Branch.
(7) Poultry Branch.
(8) Special Commodities Branch.
(9) Sugar Branch.
(10) Tobacco Branch.
(11) Budget and Management Branch.
(12) Compliance and Investigation Branch.
(13) Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.
(14) Field Service Branch.
(15) Fiscal Branch.
(16) Food Distribution Programs Branch.
(17) Labor Branch.
(18) Marketing Facilities Branch.
(19) Materials and Equipment Branch.
(20) Shipping and Storage Branch.

§ 2301.2 Filed Offices—(a) State and County Offices. Within each State there are a Production and Marketing Administration State Office and various County Offices that are responsible for specifically assigned programs of the Administration. The functions and the locations of these offices are set forth in the description of the organization, functions and procedures of the Field Service Branch (7 CFR Part 2324).

(b) Regional Offices, Area Offices, Market Centers and Branch Field Offices. The functions and the locations of the regional offices, most of the area offices, the market centers and the branch field offices are set forth in the descriptions of the organization, functions and procedures of the Branches of the Administration (7 CFR Parts 2302–2330). In addition, the Information Service has area offices at 449 West Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Georgia; 5 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois; Wilson Building, Dallas, Texas; 150 Broadway, New York, New York; and 821 Market Street, San Francisco, California. They are responsible primarily for furnishing information regarding programs not administered through the Production and Marketing Administration State offices.

§ 2301.3 Availability of information and records. The places where information regarding the activities of the Administration may be obtained are indicated in the description of the organization of each branch (7 CFR Parts 2302–2330). The records of the Administration are available for examination in accordance with the rules and the designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 2100).

§ 2301.10 General. Each branch has the initial responsibility for the formulation of programs relating to commodities or activities assigned to it by the Administrator. Thereafter, the programs are transmitted to the Administrator for his approval, and then to the Secretary for approval if the statutes so require. Upon approval, programs are administered by the branches of the Administration, which issue the necessary instructions, procedures, and forms.

FS—Field Service.
FV—Fruit and Vegetable.
GR—Grain.
LS—Livestock.
MF—Marketing Facilites.
PY—Poultry.
SC—Special Commodities.
SU—Sugar.
TB—Tobacco.

§ 2301.12 Special functional assignments to branches. The programs listed below are specially assigned on a functional rather than a commodity basis:

(a) Agricultural Conservation Programs are assigned to the Field Service Branch.

(b) School Lunch Programs are assigned to the Food Distribution Programs Branch.

(c) Activities under the United States Warehouse Act are assigned to the Marketing Facilities Branch.

(d) Activities under the 28-hour Act are assigned to the Marketing Facilities Branch.

(e) Activities under the Commodity Exchange Act are assigned to the Compliance and Investigation Branch.

(f) Activities under the Insecticide Act of 1910 are assigned to the Livestock Branch.

(g) Activities under the Packers and Stockyards Act are assigned to the Livestock Branch.

(h) Activities under the Standard Container Acts are assigned to the Fruit and Vegetable Branch.

(i) Activities involving freight rate adjustments under section 201 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 are assigned to the Marketing Facilities Branch.

§ 2301.13 Procedures—(a) General. The nature and requirement of all procedures, except those described in succeeding paragraphs of this section, and the places for obtaining forms and instructions in connection with the administration of the programs assigned to the Production and Marketing Administration are indicated in the statements with reference to each branch (7 CFR Parts 2302–2330).

(b) Surplus property. The disposal of surplus property under the provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 is governed by the rules and regulations of the War Assets Administration (32 CFR Part 8300 et seq.). Additional policies and procedures governing the disposal of surplus agricultural commodities and surplus foods processed therefrom have been issued by the Secretary of Agriculture (7 CFR Part 1700). Property declared to the Department of Agriculture by other governmental agencies for disposal by the Production and Marketing Administration is disposed of by the commodity branches of the Administration pursuant to specific authority from the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control, or his designee, covering each declaration of surplus property. Notices of proposed sales are given the widest practicable distribution. Announcements are made by the use of priority announcements, sales announcements, special announcements, and press releases. Mailing lists are maintained for this purpose. Any person desiring to have his name placed on a mailing list for one or more specific commodities should address the request therefor to the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control, Production and Marketing Administration, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. Sales may be made either through the branch in Washington or through branch field offices. Information regarding consummated sales is available on request to the Office of the Director, Information Service, Production and Marketing Administration, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

(c) Contract settlement. Terminations of war contracts and settlements of claims under the provisions of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 are subject to the rules and regulations of the Office of Contract Settlement (32 CFR Part 8000 et seq.) and regulations of the Department of Agriculture (7 CFR Part 6) and (11 FR 1461). Each Branch Director, Associate Branch Director, and Assistant Branch Director is a "terminating officer", and, with respect to contracts within the jurisdiction of his branch, is authorized to terminate contracts, order the cessation or suspension of work, and to negotiate settlement agreements under terminated contracts. No settlement agreement involving the payment to a prime contractor of more than fifty thousand dollars, or the payment to a subcontractor of more than five thousand dollars, will be binding upon the Department of Agriculture until it has been reviewed and approved by the Settlement Review Board for the Production and Marketing Administration, or has not been disapproved by the board within thirty days after submission of the proposed settlement to the board, or, if disapproved by the board, has been approved by the Administrator. All claims under Section 17 of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 should be filed directly with the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control, who will either take final action with respect to the claims or submit them to the Administrator for final action.

(d) War Food Orders. War Food Orders designed to assure conservation and an equitable distribution of agricultural commodities are issued by the Secretary pursuant to the provisions of Title III of the Second War Powers Act (56 Stat. 177). Petitions for relief from the provisions of such orders should be filed with the appropriate order administrator. If disapproved by him, they will upon request of the petitioner be forwarded through the Petition Review Committee for final action by an Assistant Administrator. The Petition Review Committee hears all oral arguments in connection with such appeals and makes recommendations to the Assistant Administrator.

§ 2302.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the Department of Agriculture and consists of the Office of the Director; the Cotton Loan and Utilization Division; the Standards and Futures Division; the Quality Estimates and Market Reports Division; the Research and Testing Division; and the Hemp and Fiber Flax Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator the Director formulates, directs and supervises the execution of the policies, programs and activiites of the Production and Marketing Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to cotton and other commodities for which the Branch is responsible, and serves as a Contracting Officer and executive of the Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. The Director has final authority to:

(1) Execute purchase, sales, loan and diversion contracts on behalf of the Production and Marketing Administration or Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible.

(2) Settle and adjust claims by and against the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible, within the limitations established by the Corporation (6 CFR Part 200 et seq.).

(3) Calculate or determine rates and prices within the limitations of authorized loan, purchase, price support, subsidy, sales and other programs assigned to the Branch.

(4) Contract for sales of property under the provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 pursuant to authorization from the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control.

(5) Terminate, under the provisions of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, contracts relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible and approve settlement agreements under terminated contracts that do not provide for the payment of more than $50,000 to a prime contractor or $5,000 to a sub-contractor. (This authority may also be exercised by Associate and Assistant Branch Directors.)

(6) Under the cotton sales for export program, to determine and announce approved countries to which cotton may be exported; to determine and anounce the export differential subject to the limitations contained in the authorization of program; and to determine where necessary whether exporters have acted in good faith under the offer and to deny to the extent determined to be appropriate the right to register export sales or file declarations of intent to consign and apply for payments in connection therewith, and the right to apply for payments in connection with any previously registered sales.

(7) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of the United States Cotton Standards Act (7 U. S. C. 51–65), the United States Cotton Futures Act, as amended (26 U. S. C. 1920–1935), and the Cotton Quality Statistics Act, as amended (7 U. S. C. 471–476), subject to limitations contained in said Acts and in rules and regulations promulgated with respect thereto. (7 CFR 28.1 et seq.; 7 CFR 27.1 et seq.; 7 CFR 28.901 et seq.; 7 F. R. 1251.)

(c) Contracting and Claims Officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Production and Marketing Administration or the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR 200. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) Divisions. The Divisions are as follows:

(1) Cotton Loan and Utilization Division. Plans and administers loan, purchase and sales programs; determines and makes recommendations on quotas for cotton; plans and administers cotton and cotton products export programs; formulates contracts for storage of cotton held by Commodity Credit Corporation; approves certificates submitted by exporters for reentry of American cotton in accordance with Presidential Proclamation; plans and administers programs designed to maintain present uses for cotton and cotton products and to encourage the consumption thereof, and in connection with new and extended uses for cotton and cotton products; establishes specifications for inspecting cotton products under the utilization and diversion programs.

(2) Standards and Futures Division. Develops, formulates and recommends standards for cotton, cotton linters, cottonseed, hemp and other plant fibers; conducts meetings with representatives of industry relating to the proposed establishment of new standards and proposed revisions of existing standards; prepares for public distribution copies of standards in physical form; administers the international cotton standards agreements; directs all classing and grading of cotton, cotton linters, and cottonseed; supervises the handling of certificated cotton for delivery on futures contracts; directs examination, bonding, licensing and technical supervision of classers, graders and samplers; and maintains in Washington a Cotton Appeal Board of Review Examiners and a Board of Cotton Linters Examiners.

(3) Quality Estimates and Market Reports Division. Compiles and issues statistics on the grades and staple lengths of cotton in the annual carryover, and in the crop each year at intervals during the ginning season; collects market information and releases market news reports on cotton, cotton linters, and cottonseed; administers the Act of April 13, 1937, hereinafter cited (except classing), which provides for furnishing free cotton classing and market news services to farmers organized to promote the improvement of cotton, and cooperates with producers, ginners and state and federal agencies in connection therewith; analyzes relationships between prices for various qualities of cotton and participates with other agencies in formulating loan and purchase and other programs; prepares and releases reports on the qualities of cotton consumed and qualities exported; and issues other reports as required.

(4) Research and Testing Division. Conducts research and developmental work to effect improvements in ginning, packaging, sampling, handling, marketing, standardization and processing of cotton and cottonseed, and cooperates with processors, marketing agencies and others in these activities; collects and analyzes information on manufacturers' preferences for the various kinds, qualities and varieties of cotton and the effects of such preferences on outlets, consumption and production; collects and analyzes information on ginning, processing and warehousing facilities as they affect spinning quality of cotton and costs of marketing; compiles and analyzes data on market prices and spreads between prices in various types of markets and on marketing margins and costs of various marketing services; collects and analyzes fiber and spinning test data to establish relationships between properties of fiber and qualities of manufactured products; and administers the Cotton Fiber Testing Service Act, hereinafter cited, and determines from laboratory tests the kinds, varieties and types of cotton suitable for specific uses, disseminating such information to breeders, producers, manufacturers, state and federal agencies and others.

(5) Hemp and Fiber Flax Division. Directs and carries out the government hemp program for the production, processing and sale of hemp fiber; develops and administers price support programs for processed hemp fiber designed to offset for both growers and processors violent market fluctuations caused by excessive government produced stocks of fiber; develops and administers programs of financial aid to fiber flax growers through established growers cooperatives for the production, processing and marketing of fiber flax; currently is engaged in final stages of liquidating the milkweed floss program developed during the war.

§ 2302.2 Field Offices—(a) Area Manager Offices. Four area managers of the Cotton Branch in the field have jurisdiction over field offices in their respective territories, which handle the cotton quality statistics work, cotton and cottonseed market news, cotton classing, and the administration of the free cotton classing service for farmer-members of organized cotton improvement groups. The area manager at 441 West Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Georgia, has administrative jurisdiction over the field offices in the southeastern States east of Mississippi and Tennessee; the area manager at 1117 Falls Building, Memphis, Tennessee, has jurisdiction over field offices in the south central area including the States of Tennessee, Mississippi, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana; the area manager at 1104 South Ervay Street, Dallas, Texas, has jurisdiction over field offices in Oklahoma and Texas excluding El Paso, Texas; and the area manager at 212 Progressive Building, Bakersfield, California, has jurisdiction over field offices at Bakersfield, California; Phoenix, Arizona, and El Paso, Texas.

(b) Field Cotton Classing Offices. Offices are located at 1265½ North Second Street, Abilene, Texas; City Park, Alexandria, Louisiana; 105½ West Commerce, Altus, Oklahoma; 441 West Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Georgia; Building K, Little Campus, Austin, Texas; 210 Progressive Building, Bakersfield, California; 28½ South 20th Street, Birmingham, Alabama; 12 Adgers North Wharf Office Building, Charleton, South Carolina; 918½ Main Street, Columbia, South Carolina; 1104 South Ervay Street, Dallas, Texas; 517 U. S. Court House, El Paso, Texas; 701 Post Office Building, Galveston, Texas; Wright Building, Greenwood, Mississippi; Court House Building, Hayti, Missouri; 406 Main Post Office Building, Houston, Texas; 207 South State Street, Jackson, Mississippi; 317 West Fifth Street, Little Rock, Arkansas; 1701 Avenue H, Lubbock, Texas; 1111 Falls Building, Memphis, Tennessee; Hudson Building, Dexter and South Lawrence Street, Montgomery, Alabama; 940 Perido Street, New Orleans, Louisiana; 700½ West Grand, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; 311 West Jefferson Street, Phoenix, Arizona; Northwest Corner Caswell Square, Raleigh, North Carolina; and 9 East Bay Street, Savannah, Georgia. A temporary field office is maintained during the marketing season at Corpus Christi, Texas. These field offices provide cotton classing service for farmers, merchants, manufacturers, and others.

(c) Market News Field Offices. Offices are maintained at 441 West Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Georgia; 1117 Falls Building, Memphis, Tennessee; 1104 South Ervay Street, Dallas, Texas; 212 Progressive Building, Bakersfield, California. These offices collect and compile data on cotton prices and market conditions and issue market news reports for dissemination by radio, through the press and mailing lists.

(d) Supervision of Classing and Grading Office, Memphis, Tennessee. This office is located at 1132 Falls Building and is responsible for the technical supervision of cotton classing work in the field; for supervising spot cotton quotations in designated markets; for activities of the field committee of the cotton appeal board; for development work in cottonseed standardization; and for the examination of applicants for licenses as cotton classifiers, cottonseed chemists and samplers and the supervision of their work.

(e) Research Offices in the Field. Cotton fiber and spinning laboratories are maintained at Clemson College, Clemson, South Carolina, and Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, College Station, Texas, and a cotton ginning and fiber research laboratory is located at Stoneville, Mississippi. These offices conduct research work on the properties of cotton fiber and in cotton spinning and manufacturing; on ginning, packaging, handling, marketing, standardization and processing of cotton and cottonseed; and make tests for the public under the Cotton Fiber Testing Service Act (7 U. S. C. 473d).

(f) New Orleans office, Cotton Loan and Utilization Division. This office is located in the Masonic Temple Building, New Orleans, Louisiana, and is responsible for the execution in the field of loan, purchase, subsidy, diversion, export, price support, processing, distribution, sale, surplus disposal, commodity handling and shipping and storage programs assigned to it.

(g) War Hemp Industries, Inc. This corporation has its office at 135 South La Salle Street, Chicago, Illinois. It is a corporation which, under a non-profit contract with Commodity Credit Corporation acts as the agent of Commodity Credit Corporation in the purchase, care and preservation, sale and shipment of hemp fiber.

§ 2302.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals with respect to the functions of the Branch should address: The Director, Cotton Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, 25, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 2100.)

§ 2302.10 Commodity loans. The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, and supplemented by the Stabilization Act of 1942, as amended, (7 U. S. C., 1302 (c); 50 U. S. C. App. sec. 968) authorizes and directs the Commodity Credit Corpporation to make loans on cotton under certain conditions, and the Act of July 1, 1941, as amended by the Stabilization Act of 1942 (15 U. S. C., 713 a–8; 50 U. S. C. App. 969), requires that commodities on which the Secretary has made a public announcement be suported by loans or otherwise at not less than specified levels. American-Egyptian cotton was included in a public announcement made by the Secretary on November 28, 1942 (available for examination in the office of the Branch). Announcements and rules relating to loan programs approved by the Secretary and the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation are issued annually. The announcement and rules for the 1946 program may be obtained from the Director on request. The operation of loan programs is under the supervision of the Cotton Loan and Utilization Division and field administration is handled by the New Orleans office of that Division located in the Masonic Temple Building, New Orleans, Louisiana.

§ 2302.11 Sales program. (a) Stocks of cotton have been acquired by Commodity Credit Corporation through purchase programs, and through failure of farmers to repay loans (§ 2302.10). (Announcement and rules for the 1946 purchase program may be obtained from the Director on request.) These stocks are marketed by the Branch, through various domestic and export sales programs, under arrangements made by the Cotton Loan and Utilization Division. This Division also prepares for issuance by the Director announcements of proposed sales of cotton and cotton waste declared surplus by the various Departments and agencies of the government and handles the sales of such products. Announcements of these sales are published through mailing lists and otherwise.

(b) Stocks of hemp fiber are acquired by Commodity Credit Corporation from its processing mills. Additional stocks are acquired through purchases under price support programs. Currently, these stocks are offered to the trade at prices established by Commodity Credit Corporation or by advertised bid.

(c) Any person desiring to have his name placed on the Director's mailing lists should address a request to Director, Cotton Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 2302.12 Purchase Programs. (a) With the approval of the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Secretary, cotton is purchased for the account of other government agencies on request. Requests are transmitted to the Loan and Utilization Division of the Branch, which prepares for issuance by the Director announcements of the qualities and quantities to be purchased. These announcements are published and sent to persons whose names appear on a mailing list.

(b) Under programs approved by the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation and by the Secretary, the Commodity Credit Corporation has made open offers to purchase at specified prices and under specified conditions hemp fiber processed from hemp grown for eligible mills in 1946 and 1947. The programs are administered by the Hemp and Fiber Flax Division.

(c) Any person desiring to have his name placed on the Director's mailing lists should address a request therefor to the Director, Cotton Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 2302.13 Official standards. (a) The United States Cotton Standards Act (7 U. S. C. 51–65) and the United States Cotton Futures Act, as amended (26 U. S. C. 1920–1935), authorize the Secretary to develop official standards for lint cotton, and the Cotton Standards Act also authorizes the standardization of cotton linters. The Standards and Futures Division studies the kinds of cotton and linters produced and prepares for transmittal to the Secretary drafts of announcements for promulgating modifications of existing standards and for establishing new standards as may be required to differentiate the grades and staples of cotton and the qualities of linters produced. Standards have been promulgated for cotton and linters as follows: Official cotton standards of the United States for the grade of American upland cotton, known as the universal standards (11 F. R. 4777); official cotton standards of the United States for grades of American-Egyptian cotton, Pima and SXP (7 CFR 27.251 et seq.); standards for grades of sea-island cotton (7 CFR 28.351 et seq.); official cotton standards of the United States for length of staple (7 CFR 27.201 et seq.), as amended; tentative standards for the preparation of long staple cotton (7 CFR 28.301 et seq.); official standards of the United States for American cotton linters (7 CFR 28.201 et seq.); and standards for color for American cotton linters (7 CFR 28.251 et seq.).

(b) Permissive standards for grades of cottonseed (7 CFR 28.401 et seq.) and for American hemp line and tow are promulgated under the authority contained in the item "Marketing Farm Products" that is included from year to year in the Agricultural Appropriation Acts. A copy of the order promulgating the standards for American hemp line and tow may be obtained on request from the Director, Cotton Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, 25, D. C.

(c) Copies of standards in physical form for cotton, cotton linters and hemp line and tow are prepared in Washington for sale to the public. Order blanks may be obtained on request from the Director, Cotton Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, 25, D. C.

§ 2302.14 Classification and grading. The United States Cotton Futures Act, as amended (26 U. S. C., 1920–35) requires that all cotton delivered on futures contracts shall have been classed by employees of the government; and the United States Cotton Standards Act (7 U. S. C., 51–65) authorizes the maintenance of a general public cotton and cotton linters classing service. The Cotton Standards Act also authorizes the licensing and supervision of cotton and linters classifiers in private employment. The Act of April 13, 1937 (7 U. S. C., 473a), commonly known as the Smith-Doxey Act, authorizes the maintenance of a free cotton classing service for members of organized cotton improvement groups. The following regulations issued by the Secretary prescribe the methods for the classing of cotton and cotton linters, the inspection of cottonseed, and the licensing and supervision of cotton and linters classifiers and cottonseed samplers and chemists; and prescribe the procedure to be followed by interested parties in obtaining such services and in appealing classifications and gradings: Regulations under the United States Cotton Futures Act, as amended (7 CFR 27.1 et seq.), as amended; regulations under United States Cotton Standards Act (7 CFR 28.1 et seq.), as amended; regulations under the Act of April 13, 1937 providing for a free cotton classing and market news service for farmer-members of organized cotton improvement groups (7 CFR, 28.901 et seq.); regulations governing the inspection, sampling and certification of cottonseed sold or offered for sale for crushing purposes (7 CFR 61.1 et seq.), as amended.

§ 2302.17 Cotton Quality Statistics Act. The Cotton Quality Statistics Act of March 3, 1927 (7 U. S. C. 471–476) directs the Secretary to collect and publish annually statistics or estimates concerning the grades and staple lengths of cotton known as the carry-over on hand on the first of August each year; and following such publication each year to publish at intervals estimates of the grades and staple lengths of cotton of the current crop. Data are collected, compiled and published as required by this Act but the statute forbids the disclosure without the written authority of the Secretary of any information given by any individual establishment. It has not been necessary to promulgate any regulations with respect to these activities.

§ 2302.18 New use cotton diversion programs. Under Section 32, Public Law 320, 74th Congress, as amended (7 U. S. C., 612c), there are conducted programs designed to maintain present uses for cotton and cotton products and to encourage the consumption thereof; to develop new and extended uses for cotton and cotton products and to establish properties required in new products in order to ascertain the useability of such products; and to develop specifications for and directions for coordinating the inspection of cotton products under such programs. Dockets are prepared for approval, and the Cotton Loan and Utilization Division is responsible for general administration and operating details. All required forms are furnished to participants in the programs. Information regarding such participation may be obtained by addressing the Director, Cotton Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 2303.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, and consists of the Office of the Director, Dairy and Poultry Inspection and Grading Division, Dairy and Poultry Market News Division, Fluid Milk Division, Manufactured Dairy Products Division, Purchase and Sales Division, and Research and Analysis Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs and supervises the execution of the policies, programs and activities of the Production and Marketing Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation assigned to the Branch and serves as a Contracting Officer and executive of the Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. In addition he directs the inspection and grading and market news activities for the Poultry Branch (Part 2308). The Director has final authority to:

(1) Execute purchase, sale, and diversion contracts on behalf of the Production and Marketing Administration or Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible.

(2) Settle and adjust claims by and against the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible, within the limitations established by the Corporation (6 CFR, Part 200).

(3) Contract for sales of property under the provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 pursuant to authorization from the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control.

(4) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of war food orders assigned to the Branch, that have been approved by the Secretary under title III of the Second War Powers Act (56 Stat. 177, except with respect to the settlement of appeals to the Assistant Administrators (7 CFR Part 2301).

(5) Terminate, under the provisions of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, contracts relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible and approve settlement agreements under terminated contracts that do not provide for the payment of more than $50,000 to a prime contractor or $5,000 to a subcontractor. (This authority may also be exercised by Associate and Assistant Branch Directors.)

(6) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of marketing agreements and marketing orders, relating to the handling of milk and its products, approved by the Secretary in accordance with the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), subject to limitations contained in the agreements and orders themselves, and in rules and regulations applicable thereto. Such action includes, but is not limited to, the following:

(i) To supervise the operations and activities of any market administrator, committee member, or other agent or employee of any agency established under a marketing agreement or marketing order, and to require such agents or agencies to submit, from time to time, such reports or other data as the Director determines to be necessary or appropriate.

(ii) To direct such agents or agencies to take any action, not inconsistent with the provisions of such marketing agreements or marketing orders, as the Director determines to be necessary or appropriate to effectuate the purposes and to secure the lawful and successful administration of any such marketing agreement or marketing order.

(iii) To exchange information with State officials pursuant to memoranda of understanding between the Secretary and State officials under Section 10 (i) of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 610 (i)).

(iv) To review the suspension of reserve pool plant designations, to make determinations, and to issue orders pursuant to § 927.3 (a) (4) (iii) (b) of the order regulating the handling of milk in the New York metropolitan marketing area (7 CFR Part 927).

(v) To exercise the following powers of the Secretary under section 8d of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 608d):

(a) To find and determine what information is necessary to be furnished by handlers subject to regulatory orders to enable the Secretary to ascertain and determine the extent to which such regulatory orders have been carried out or have effectuated the declared policy of said act;

(b) To prescribe the forms of reports on which such information shall be furnished;

(c) To request handlers subject to regulatory orders to furnish the information determined to be necessary under (a) hereof; and

(d) To authorize and to direct other agents and employees of the Department of Agriculture to examine such books, papers, records, copies of income-tax reports, accounts, correspondence, contracts, documents, or memoranda, as he deems relevant and which are within the control of any such party to such marketing agreement, or any such handler, from whom such report was requested, or of any person having, either directly or indirectly, actual or legal control of or over such party or such handler, or of any subsidiary of any such party, handler, or person.

(7) Calculate or determine rates and prices within the limitations of authorized purchase, price support, subsidy, sales and other programs assigned to the Branch.

(8) Consider and approve the maximum prices of fluid milk as established or adjusted, from time to time, by the Regional Offices of the Office of Price Administration.

(c) Contracting and Claims Officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Production and Marketing Administration or the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR 200. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) War Food Order Administrators. Under war food orders approved by the Secretary, order administrators have final authority, under the general direction of the Director, to take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of orders assigned to them, except with respect to the settlement of appeals to the Assistant Administrators (7 CFR Part 2301).

(e) Office of the Director. This office formulates export-import programs for dairy products and recommends approval or disapproval of applications for import of dairy products and contracts for the sale of dairy products by the Department of Agriculture to foreign governments and to other United States governmental agencies.

(f) Divisions. The Divisions are as follows:

(1) Dairy and Poultry Grading and Inspection Division. Plans, supervises and directs the program for investigating and certifying upon application, the grade, quality or condition of dairy and poultry products. The Chief of the Division has final authority to exercise the powers and functions vested in the Administrator by §§ 55.9, 55.11, 55.13, 55.15, 55.18, 55.22, 55.24, 55.25, 55.28, 55.33, 55.34, 55.39, 55.52, 55.53, 55.54, 55.59, and 55.66 of the regulations (7 CFR Part 55) governing the sampling, grading, grade labelling, and supervision of packaging of butter, cheese, eggs, poultry and dressed domestic rabbits. The following officers and employees of this Division have been delegated final authority to act with reference to the administration of those sections of the rules and regulations (7 CFR 56) governing the inspection and certification of dressed poultry and dressed domestic rabbits and edible products thereof for conditions and wholesomeness which appear opposite their titles:

Chief of the Division—all sections of said regulations, except as to §§ 56.13, 56.14, 56.15, 56.19, and 56.20.
Chief, Poultry Inspection Section—§§ 56.12, 56.16, 56.18, 56.22, 56.29, 56.31, 56.42, 56.43, 56.44, 56.46, and 56.51.
Poultry Pathologist—§§ 56.43, 56.44, 56.46 and 56.51.

(2) Dairy and Poultry Market News Division. Directs the collection and dissemination of daily or weekly information on market stocks, movements, receipts, prices, sales, and marketing conditions of milk and dairy and poultry products, and prepares and distributes periodic reports containing market information.

(3) Fluid Milk Division. Administers the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, as it relates to milk and its products, develops policies and procedures with respect thereto, formulates marketing agreements and orders, and supervises the agencies administering such agreements and orders; prepares and recommends war food orders relating to fluid milk or cream and supervises their administration; participates in the development of subsidy, price support, and diversion program for milk; and recommends action on maximum price regulations affecting fluid milk markets.

(4) Manufactured Dairy Products Division. Develops, standards and grades for dairy products; prepares, recommends and supervises the administration of war food orders relating to dairy products; participates in the development of subsidy, price support and diversion programs for milk products; develops plans to encourage new uses or processes for the manufacture of dairy products; recommends priorities for the construction and equipment of dairy plants and the disposition of dairy plants built under contracts or leases approved by the Government; recommends action on maximum price regulations affecting dairy products; and develops plans for the utilization of milk in dairy products in accord with demand and necessary postwar readjustments.

(5) Purchase and Sales Division. Develops and executes the purchases, sales, and contract termination and settlement adjustment activities of the Dairy Branch; acts as point of referral within the Branch on labor, transportation, supply, or special operating problems; and plans and schedules commitments on purchases or sales in accordance with allocation, inventory, or docket controls.

(6) Research and Analysis Division. Provides the necessary operational research and analysis of various phases of the dairy economy; prepares statistical data and information for hearings and consultations; cooperates in the preparation of production goals; and develops studies of costs, wages, prices, production, market structures and market conditions for administrative use.

§ 2303.2 Field Offices—(a) Dairy and Poultry Grading and Inspection; Field Offices. Offices are located in Little Rock, Arkansas, Los Angeles, California, San Francisco, California, Chicago, Illinois, Des Moines, Iowa, Topeka, Kansas, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Boston, Massachusetts, Lansing, Michigan, Minneapolis, Minnesota, Kansas City, Missouri, St. Louis, Missouri, Omaha, Nebraska, New York, New York, Columbus, Ohio, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Portland, Oregon, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Aberdeen, South Dakota, Dallas, Texas, Houston, Texas, Seattle, Washington, and Milwaukee, Wisconsin. S. D. A., Washington, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 2100) and the general regulations (7 CFR 900.200) issued under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended.

§ 2303.10 Dairy and poultry grading and inspection. Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary by the annual Department of Agriculture appropriation acts (7 U. S. C. 414) the Secretary has issued regulations governing the grading and inspection of dairy and poultry products (7 CFR, Part 55), and the inspection of poultry to determine its condition and wholesomeness (7 CFR, Part 56). The grading and inspection work is performed by licensed graders, samplers, inspectors, and supervisors of packaging upon application by shippers and other interested parties in accordance with such rules.

§ 2303.11 Official standard grades for dairy products. The annual Department of Agriculture appropriation acts authorize the Secretary of Agriculture to develop, issue and promote the use of official standard grades for farm products. The Manufactured Dairy Products Division develops tentative standards, official standards, and modifications of existing official standards for dairy products. Official standards for dairy products may be obtained from the Director.

§ 2303.12 Publication of market news reports. The annual Department of Agriculture appropriation acts authorize the collection, compilation, and distribution by telegraph, mail or otherwise, of information on the market supply and demand, commercial movement, location, disposition, quality, condition, and market prices of dairy and poultry products. Under the direction of the Marketing Services Division, principal activities pertaining to the collection, publication, and distribution of such data are conducted through field offices, and such information is dispersed daily, weekly, and periodically for the benefit of producers, distributors, and consumers. Persons desiring such information may request the Chief of the Market News Division to be placed on the mailing list for the receipt of publications issued by the Division.

§ 2303.13 Marketing agreements and orders. (a) Marketing agreements and marketing orders regulating the handling of milk and its products are issued by the Secretary under the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.). The Secretary has issued general regulations pursuant to said act which contain (1) the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to promulgate marketing agreements and marketing orders, (2) rules of practice governing proceedings on petitions to modify or to be exempted from marketing order, (3) procedure governing meetings to arbitrate and mediate disputes relating to sales of milk or its products, and (4) miscellaneous regulations. These general regulations are published (7 CFR 900).

(b) Proceedings leading to the promulgation of a marketing agreement or a marketing order, or an amendment thereto, regulating the handling of milk in a specified area, may be initiated by the Department or at the request of any interested person. Proposals for the institution of such proceedings should be addressed to the Director. These proposals should contain economic and factual data showing the existence of the conditions prerequisite to the establishment of Federal regulation under the standards prescribed in the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act, as amended. Action on such proposals is taken in accordance with the procedures set forth in the general regulations mentioned above.

(c) Marketing agreements and orders are published (7 CFR 901 et seq.). Each marketing agreement or order specifies the agency for the administration thereof and prescribes such agency's powers and duties. The Branch supervises and reviews the activities of these marketing agencies.

(d) Except as the method or manner of making submittals or requests may be specifically provided for in the general regulations (7 CFR, Part 900) or in the agreement or order involved, submittals or requests concerning the administration of an agreement or order for milk may be made to the administrative agency for such agreement or order at the address indicated in § 2303.2 of this title.

§ 2303.14 War food orders. The Secretary has issued and published in the Federal Register war food orders relating to milk or its products. These war food orders are administered by order administrators under the supervision of the Director. Reference should be made to each war food order for information relating to the commodities regulated, the manner and extent of such regulation, and the authorities exercised thereunder by the various officials of the Department. Additional information may be obtained from the order administrator of the order involved or the Director.

§ 2303.15 Purchase programs. Purchases of milk products, approved by the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Secretary, are made by the Branch in the name of the Commodity Credit Corporation, to meet the requirements of requisitioning Federal agencies and foreign governments, or for price support purposes (15 U. S. C. 713a–8). Purchases of milk products are also made by the Branch, with the approval of the Secretary, for the purpose of encouraging domestic consumption of such commodities (7 U. S. C. 612c). Purchase announcements containing instructions are prepared and made available to all persons known to be interested in offering such commodities for sale. Any person desiring to receive announcements relative to the purchase of milk products by the Branch should address his request to the Director.

§ 2303.16 Sales Programs. The Branch markets excess milk products acquired by the Commodity Credit Corporation through purchase and price support programs and the stocks of milk products declared as surplus and referred to the Department of Agriculture for disposition by various agencies of the Federal Government (32 CFR 8300 et seq.). The Branch prepares and sends announcements containing the terms and conditions of sale to persons who have so requested. Bids in response to such announcements are received by the Branch and successful bidders are notified. Persons may request the Director to be placed on the mailing list for the receipt of sales announcements.

§ 2303.17 Diversion programs. Milk products may be diverted from the normal channels of trade and commerce into manufactured or industrial products, livestock feed or other products by means of indemnity payments, benefit payments, or other means approved by the Secretary (7 U. S. C. 612c). Any person desiring information concerning any of these programs should address his inquiry to the Director.

§ 2304.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, consisting of the Office of the Director, Oilseeds Division, Peanut Division, Processed Oils Division, and Procurement-Import Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs, and supervises the execution of Production and Marketing Administration's and Commodity Credit Corporation's policies, programs, and activities relating to fats and oils, carried out by the Branch, and serves as a Contracting Officer and executive of the Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. The Director has final authority to:

(1) Execute purchase, sale and other contracts on behalf of the Production and Marketing Administration or Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible.

(2) Settle and adjust claims by and against the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible, within the limitations established by the Corporation (6 CFR 200 et seq.)

(3) Contract for sales of property under the provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 pursuant to authorization from the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control.

(4) Calculate or determine rates and prices within the limitations of authorized loan, purchase, price support, subsidy, sales and other programs assigned to the Branch.

(5) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the Administration of War Food Orders assigned to the Branch, that have been approved by the Secretary under Title III of the Second War Powers Act (56 Stat. 177), except with respect to the determination of appeals to the Assistant Administrators (7 CFR 2301.1 (b) (2) (j)).

(6) Terminate, under the provisions of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, contracts relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible and approve settlement agreements under terminated contracts that do not provide for the payment of more than $50,000 to a prime contractor or $5,000 to a sub-contractor. (This authority may also be exercised by Associate and Assistant Branch Directors.)

(c) Contracting and claims officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director with the approval of the President of Commodity Credit Corporation and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director with the approval of the President of Commodity Credit Corporation and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR 200.22. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) War Food Administrators. Under War Food Orders approved by the Secretary, Order Administrators have final authority under the general direction of the Director, to take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of Orders assigned to them, except with respect to the settlement of appeals to the Assistant Administrators (7 CFR 2301.1 (b) (2) (i)).

(e) Divisions. The divisions are as follows:

(1) Oilseeds Division. Develops price support programs for oilseeds, such as soybeans, flaxseed, and other similar commodities, for submittal to the Secretary and the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation, and administers such programs as may be authorized by them; initiates and develops recommendations with respect to maximum price regulations affecting oilseeds; assists in research and development related to new and substitute products and processes and new uses; cooperates in the formulation of production goals; recommends programs related to production, distribution, and disposal of oilseeds.

(2) Peanut Division. Develops price support programs for peanuts for submittal to the Secretary and the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation, and administers such programs as may be authorized by them; initiates and develops recommendations with respect to maximum price regulations affecting peanuts; assists in research and development related to new and substitute products and processes and new uses; cooperates in the formulation of production goals; recommends programs related to production, distribution, and disposal of peanuts; formulates and administers through the Field Service Branch peanut marketing quota programs when in effect.

(3) Processed Oils Division. Performs a continuing analysis of supply, demand, and other market factors, and, on the basis of such analyses, initiates and administers programs, including war food orders, designed to assure conservation and an equitable distribution of such supplies, initiates and conducts meetings of advisory committees.

(4) Procurement - Import Division. Executes all purchase programs in connection with fats, oils, and imported oilseeds; collaborates in preparing directives for the importation of food to be acquired through public purchase; consults with the trade on the establishment and application of import programs; conducts all stock pile sales and sales of declared surplus oilseeds, fats and oils, and products; makes specific allocations of stock pile supplies of fats and oils among refiners, processors, industrial users, and others.

§ 2304.2 Field offices. (a) The Sugar, Fibers and Fats and Oils Office, Production and Marketing Administration, 150 Broadway, New York, New York, handles settlements with respect to sales and purchases of foreign vegetable oils and bulk domestic vegetable oils.

(b) The Chicago office of the Grain Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, 208 South La Salle Street, Chicago, Illinois, handles settlements in connection with processor contracts under the soybean price support program, and handles loans and purchases of soybeans.

(c) The G F A Peanut Association, Camilla, Georgia, the Growers Peanut Cooperative, Franklin, Virginia, and the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association, Gorman, Texas, act as agents of Commodity Credit Corporation in administering peanut purchase and loan programs.

§ 2304.3 Availability of Information and Records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests with respect to the programs and functions of the Branch, should address: The Director, Fats and Oils Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the Field Offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 2100).

quested. Increased production has been requested for peanuts for oil. Prices for peanuts are currently supported by nonrecourse loans made through lending agencies to producers. The announcement and rules relating to peanut loan programs approved by the Secretary and the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation are set forth in 6 CFR 275. Prices are also supported by the making of purchases of peanuts through designated agencies. Full recourse loans are made through dealer lending agencies to dealers in order to encourage them to purchase peanuts at not less than support prices.

§ 2304.12 Sales programs. Stocks of oilseeds, fats and oils, and products are acquired by Commodity Credit Corporation through purchase and price support programs. These stocks are marketed by the Branch through the facilities of the Procurement-Import Division. The Procurement-Import Division also prepares for issuance by the Chief of the Division announcements of proposed sales of fats and oils declared surplus by the various departments and agencies of the Government (7 CFR, Part 1700; 32 CFR, Part 8300 et seq.) and handles the sales of such products. Announcements of sales of surplus property are mailed directly to interested persons by the Chief of the Procurement-Import Division. Any person desiring to have his name placed on this mailing list should address a request therefor to the Chief.

§ 2304.13 Purchase programs. Purchases of domestic and foreign fats and oils and their products approved by the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Secretary are made in the name of Commodity Credit Corporation by the Procurement-Import Division of the branch for the accounts of requesting agencies of the Government and foreign governments. Foreign purchases and sales are made in accordance with recommendations of the International Emergency Food Council. Requests for the purchase of fats and oils to be procured domestically are also handled by the Procurement-Import Division. Announcements are prepared stating the types, grades and quantities of fats and oils to be purchased, and indicating the packaging requirements to be met. These announcements are mailed directly to processors, brokers and others who might have such commodities for sale. Any person desiring to have his name placed on this mailing list should address a request therefor to the Chief of the Division, indicating the commodities for which he desires announcements.

§ 2304.14 War Food Orders. Orders necessary to assure conservation and an equitable distribution of oilseeds, fats and oils, and products are recommended, and when issued by the Secretary, pursuant to Title III of the Second War Powers Act (50 U. S. C. App., 1152) are administered by Order Administrators. Information concerning any War Food Order may be obtained from the Order Administrator by writing to the Director of the Branch.

§ 2305.1 Central office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, consisting of the Office of the Director, Regulatory Division, Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Division, Fresh Products Standardization and Inspection Division, Market News Division, Vegetable Division, Potato Division, Citrus Fruit Division, Desiduous Fruit Division, Dried Fruits and Nuts Division, and Contracts and Records Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs and supervises the execution of the policies, programs and activities of the Production and Marketing Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation assigned to the Branch and serves as a Contracting Officer and executive of the Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. The Director has final authority to:

(1) Execute purchase, sale, loan and diversion contracts on behalf of the Production and Marketing Administration or Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible.

(2) Settle and adjust claims by and against the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible, within the limitations established by the Corporation (6 CFR Part 200 et seq.).

(3) Contract for sales of property under the provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 pursuant to authorization from the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control.

(4) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of War Food Orders assigned to the Branch, that have been approved by the Secretary under Title III of the Second War Powers Act (56 Stat. 177), except with respect to the settlement of appeals to the Assistant Administrators (7 CFR Part 2301).

(5) Terminate, under the provisions of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, contracts relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible and approve settlement agreements under terminated contracts that do not provide for the payment of more than $50,000 to a prime contractor or $5,000 to a sub-contractor. (This authority may also be exercised by Associate and Assistant Branch Directors.)

(6) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act (7 U. S. C. 499a et seq.), Produce Agency Act (7 U. S. C. 494), Export Apple and Pear Act (7 U. S. C. 581–589), and the Standard Container Acts of 1916 (1 U. S. C. 251–256) and 1928 (15 U. S. C. 257–257i), subject to limitations contained in said Acts and in rules and regulations with respect thereto (7 CFR 46 and 47, 48, 33, and 41, respectively).

(7) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of marketing agreements and marketing orders, relating to the handling of fruits, vegetables, and related products, approved by the Secretary in accordance with the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), subject to limitations contained in the agreements and orders themselves, and in rules and regulations applicable thereto. Such action includes, but is not limited to, the following:

(i) To issue, amend, modify, or terminate any volume, grade, or size regulation and make any finding or determination requisite to the issuance, amendment, modification, or termination of any such regulation, as may be deemed necessary or proper by the Director under and pursuant to the provisions of any marketing agreement or marketing order effective in accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid act, but the Director is not authorized to amend, suspend, or terminate any marketing agreement or marketing order or any provision thereof.

(ii) To supervise the operations and activities of any market administrator, committee member, or other agent or employee of any agency established under a marketing agreement or marketing order, and to require such agents or agencies to submit, from time to time, such reports or other data as the Director determines to be necessary or appropriate.

(iii) To direct such agents or agencies to take any action, not inconsistent with the provisions of such marketing agreements or marketing orders, as the Director determines to be necessary or appropriate to effectuate the purposes and to secure the lawful and successful administration of any such marketing agreement or marketing order.

(8) To calculate or determine rates and prices within the limitations of authorized loan, purchase, price support, subsidy, sales and other programs assigned to the Branch.

(c) Contracting and claims officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Production and Marketing Administration or the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR 200. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) War Food Order administrators. Under war food orders approved by the Secretary, order administrators have final authority, under the general direction of the Director, to take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of orders assigned to them, except with respect to the settlement of appeals to the Assistant Administrators (7 CFR 2301). The names of order administrators may be obtained from the Director.

(e) Divisions. The Divisions are as follows:

(1) Regulatory Division. Under the provisions of the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, Produce Agency Act, Export Apple and Pear Act, and the Standard Container Acts of 1916 and 1928, the Division develops for publication standard specifications for, and conducts an inspection service on, fresh fruit and vegetable containers; issues licenses to and collects license fees from commission merchants, dealers, and brokers handling perishable agricultural commodities; investigates alleged violations of the Acts and audits the books and records of licensees to determine compliance with the terms of the Acts; and directs the field activities of the Division.

(2) Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Division. Develops for publication U. S. Standards for and regulations governing the grading and certification of canned, dried, dehydrated, and frozen fruits and vegetables and miscellaneous commodities; performs research on and demonstrates standards for such commodities; formulates purchase specifications; maintains an inspection service on processed fruits and vegetables and miscellaneous commodities; develops and enters into cooperative inspection agreements; and directs the field activities of the Division.

(3) Fresh Products Standardization and Inspection Division. Develops for publication U. S. Standards for and regulations governing the grading and certification of fresh fruits and vegetables and miscellaneous commodities; performs research on and demonstrates standards for such commodities; develops purchase specifications; maintains an inspection service on fresh fruits and vegetables and miscellaneous commodities; develops and enters into cooperative inspection agreements; and directs the field activities of the Division.

(4) Market News Division. Conducts, through a system of field offices and leased-wire facilities, the collection and dissemination of market news on fruits and vegetables and miscellaneous commodities; compiles daily, weekly, and annual reports of market receipts, prices, unloads, and related data on fruits and vegetables; compiles daily reports and periodic summaries of shipments of such commodities; and directs the field activities of the Division.

(5) Vegetable, Potato, Citrus Fruit, Deciduous Fruit, and Dried Fruits and Nuts Divisions. Plan and recommend production goals; analyze current supply and demand and the effectiveness of marketing systems and adequacy of marketing facilities; plan and execute supply purchase programs, price support, subsidy, and sales programs; develop and administer marketing agreements, marketing orders, and war food orders approved by the Secretary; and exercise technical direction over programs of the Divisions conducted in the field.

(6) Contracts and Records Division. Assists commodity divisions in the development of contracts, agreements, and related documents; prepares abstracts of offers and acceptances; maintains control of commodity program performance; and compiles and issues periodic and special reports of purchase, sales, price support, subsidy, loan, and related program operations.

California—2288 Fulton Street, Berkeley; 704 South Spring Street, Los Angeles; 220 Federal Building, Sacramento;
Colorado—810 14th Street, Denver;
Florida—311 East Main Street, Lakeland;

Pennsylvania—501 Bessemer Building, Pittsburgh; 2d and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia;
Texas—Tenth and Lamar Streets, Fort Worth;
Washington—228 Federal Office Building, Seattle; 310 Old Court House, Yakima.

Temporary Market News Field Offices are established from time to time to issue market news reports concerning seasonal fruits and vegetables. The location of any such offices may be obtained from the Director.

(c) Regulatory field offices. Under the immediate supervision of the Regulatory Division, Regulatory Field Offices investigate alleged violations of the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, Produce Agency Act, Export Apple and Pear Act, and the Standard Container Acts of 1916 and 1928; audit the books and records of licensees to determine compliance with the terms of the Acts; examine and investigate complaints of violations; and collect fees, arrearages, and penalties. These offices are located as follows:

California—294 Wholesale Terminal Building, Los Angeles;
Florida—7 Postal Arcade Building, Winter Haven;
Illinois—1421 South Aberdeen Street, Chicago;
New York—204 Franklin Street, New York.

(d) Fresh and processed products standardization and inspection field offices. Standardization and Inspection Field Offices provide inspection service for fruits, vegetables, nuts and miscellaneous commodities at processing plants and at storage, shipping, transit, and receiving points; conduct training courses for inspectors; in cooperation with Federal and State agencies, agricultural schools and consumer organizations; conduct educational and demonstrational programs on the use of U. S. Standards; collect inspection fees; and issue, suspend and recommend revocation of licenses to inspectors. District supervisory offices are maintained at 821 Market Street, San Francisco, California; 1421 S. Aberdeen Street, Chicago, Illinois; and 641 Washington Street, New York, New York. Standardization and Inspection Field Offices are located throughout the United States. Their addresses may be obtained by writing to the Director.

§ 2305.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests concerning the programs or functions of the Branch should address: The Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 2100) and in accordance with the general regulations (7 CFR 900.200 et seq.) issued under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended.

§ 2305.10 Marketing agreements and orders. Marketing agreements and marketing orders regulating the handling of fruits, vegetables, and related products are issued by the Secretary under the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.). The Secretary has issued general regulations pursuant to said Act which contain (1) the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to promulgate marketing agreements and marketing orders, (2) rules of practice governing proceedings on petitions to modify or to be exempted from marketing orders, (3) procedure governing meetings to arbitrate and mediate disputes relating to sales of fruits and vegetables, and (4) miscellaneous regulations. These general regulations are published (7 CFR 900).

Proceedings leading to the promulgation of a marketing agreement or a marketing order, or an amendment thereto, regulating the handling of fruits, vegetables, and related products, in a specified area, may be initiated by the Department or any interested person. Proposals for the institution of such proceedings should be addressed to the Director. Such proposals should contain economic and factual data showing the existence of the conditions prerequisite to the establishment of Federal regulation under the standards prescribed in the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended. Action on such proposals is taken in accordance with the procedures set forth in the general regulations mentioned above.

Marketing orders are published (7 CFR, Part 901 et seq.). Each marketing agreement or order specifies the agency for the administration thereof and prescribes such agency's powers and duties. The Branch supervises and reviews the activities of such marketing agencies.

§ 2305.11 Official standards for fresh and processed fruits and vegetables. The Department of Agriculture Appropriation Acts authorize the Secretary to develop, issue, and promote the use of, U. S. Standards for fresh and processed fruits and vegetables. The purpose of the standards is to obtain uniformity in grading. The standards are developed in the Branch and are issued by the Administrator. Producers and handlers usually cooperate in the development of standards for specific commodities. Any person desiring information concerning grades for fresh or processed fruits and vegetables should address his request to the Director.

§ 2305.12 Fresh and processed fruit and vegetable inspection. The Department of Agriculture Appropriation Acts authorize the Department to provide an inspection service for fresh and processed fruits, vegetables, and other products. The Secretary is authorized to inspect and certify the grade, quality, and condition of fruits, vegetables, and other products and to make a charge for the service performed. Rules and regulations governing the inspection and certification of fruits and vegetables and other products are published (7 CFR Parts 51 and 52). Any person who desires to have fruits and vegetables inspected, or who wishes to obtain information relating thereto, should address his request to the Director.

§ 2305.14 Purchase programs. Purchases of fruits, vegetables, and products thereof, approved by the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Secretary, are made by the Branch in the name of the Commodity Credit Corporation, to meet the requirements of requisitioning Federal agencies and foreign governments, or for price support purposes (15 U. S. C. 713a–8). Purchases of fruits and vegetables and products thereof are also made by the Branch, with the approval of the Secretary, for the purpose of encouraging domestic consumption of such commodities (7 U. S. C. 612c). Purchases of potatoes and sweet potatoes (unprocessed) are handled through the County Agricultural Conservation Office of the Field Service Branch (7 CFR Part 2324). Purchase announcements containing instructions are prepared and made available to all persons known to be interested in offering such commodities for sale. Any person desiring to receive announcements relative to the purchase of any fruits and vegetables or products thereof by the Branch should address his request to the Director.

§ 2305.16 Diversion programs. Fruits and vegetables may be diverted from the normal channels of trade and commerce into manufactured or industrial products, livestock feed or other products by means of indemnity payments, benefit payments, or other means approved by the Secretary (7 U. S. C. 612c). Any person desiring information concerning any of these programs should address his inquiry to the Director.

§ 2305.17 Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act. The Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act (7 U. S. C. 499a et seq.) provides for the licensing of all commission merchants, dealers and brokers handling perishable agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce. The Secretary is authorized to investigate complaints of violations, hold hearings and issue reparation orders awarding damages, and to issue disciplinary orders requiring publication of the facts or suspension or revocation of licenses. Rules and regulations relating to such proceedings and the administration of the Act are published (7 CFR, Parts 46 and 47). Any person desiring information concerning the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act should address his request to the nearest Regulatory Field Office (§ 2305.2 (c)).

§ 2305.19 Export Apple and Pear Act. The Export Apple and Pear Act (7 U. S. C. 581–589) undertakes to promote the foreign trade of the United States in apples and pears, to protect the reputation of American-grown apples and pears in foreign markets, to prevent deception or misrepresentation as to the quality of such products moving in foreign commerce, and to provide for the commercial inspection of such products entering foreign commerce. The act is administered in accordance with rules and regulations issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 33). Any person desiring information concerning the Export Apple and Pear Act should address his request to the nearest Regulatory Field Office (§ 2305.2 (c)).

§ 2305.20 Standard Container Acts of 1916 and 1928. The Standard Container Acts of 1916 (15 U. S. C. 251–256) and 1928 (15 U. S. C. 257–257i) prescribe standard dimensions for containers for certain fruits and vegetables. These acts regulate the manufacture, sale, or shipment of containers, filled or unfilled. Provision is made for seizure or confiscation of containers deemed to be illegal. Regulations governing the administration of the acts have been issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 41). Any person desiring information relative to the Standard Container Acts should address his inquiry to the nearest Regulatory Field Office (§ 2305.2 (c)).

§ 2305.21 War Food Orders. The Secretary has issued and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, war food orders relating to fruits, vegetables and nuts. These war food orders are administered by order administrators under the supervision of the Director. Reference should be made to specific war food orders for information relating to the commodities regulated, the manner and extent of such regulation, and the authorities exercised thereunder by the various officials of the Department. Additional information may be obtained from the order administrator of the order involved or the Director.

(4) Inspection services. Establish and amend standards of class, quality, quantity, and condition; issue instructions and procedures; execute cooperative agreements; countersign and issue licenses to inspectors; approve forms of certificates and statements that may appear thereon; authorize seed dealers to issue verified-origin certificates; assign symbols to seed dealers; and issue schedules of fees and charges.

(5) Federal Seed Act. Examine records of origin, germination, and purity; issue instructions and procedures; determine costs and charges for services; execute cooperative agreements with States or agencies thereof; issue notice or warning for minor violations; issue notices of opportunity to present views before prosecution; fix time and place of hearings and designate officer to conduct hearings; determine media for publication of judgments and orders; and issue permits for mixing and blending.

(6) War Food Orders. Take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of War Food Orders assigned to the Branch, that have been approved by the Secretary under Title III of the Second War Powers Act (56 Stat. 177), except with respect to the determination of appeals to the Assistant Administrators. (7 CFR 2301.1 (b) (2) (i)).

(7) Research and market news. Execute cooperative agreements with States, organizations, and other persons for purposes of conducting standardization research and to provide market news services in connection with commodities assigned to the Branch.

(8) Contract inspection. Enter into agreements and fix fees for the inspection and certification as to compliance with contract specifications of grain products and miscellaneous commodities being acquired, owned, or offered for sale by Government agencies.

(9) Import permits. Issue import permits for seed wheat and wheat and flour for experimental purposes (Proclamation 2550).

(c) Contracting and claims officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Production and Marketing Administration or the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR, Part 200. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) War Food Order Administrators. Under War Food Orders approved by the Secretary, Order Administrators have final authority under the general direction of the Director, to take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of Orders assigned to them, except with respect to the determination of appeals to the Assistant Administrators. (7 CFR, Part 2301.)

(e) Divisions. The divisions are as follows:

(1) Feed and Feed Grains Division, Food Grains Division, Peas and Beans Division, Rice Division, and Seed Marketing Division. Formulate and administer production, adjustment, loan, purchase, subsidy, diversion, export, import, price-support, marketing-quota, processing, storage, transportation, distribution, sale, and surplus disposal programs for grains and other commodities assigned; analyze supply and demand factors and make recommendations for the allocation of available supplies of these commodities; make recommendations of action with respect to maximum price regulations; make recommendations to effect economies and improvements in the storage, transportation, processing, and marketing of these commodities; work with and represent the Branch on advisory committees; administer food orders; cooperate with industry and other agencies of the Department in developing new and substitute products and processes and new uses; render assistance in labor supply and utilization in commodity processing and distribution industries; develop and present program information; and render technical advice and assistance on storage and warehouse services and facilities, charges and priorities.

(2) Inspection Division. Supervises the inspection of grain under the United States Grain Standards Act; conducts the appeal service on grain; inspects and supervises the inspection of hay and straw, beans and peas, rice, hops, and other authorized agricultural products; negotiates cooperative agreements with other Federal agencies, State agencies, and trade organizations for the establishment and operation of inspection services; organizes and conducts demonstrations to insure the correct and uniform application of grades and standards; cooperates with producers and handlers in developing improved marketing practices designed to avoid waste and degrading of crops when presented for inspection at market centers; conducts courses of training for hay-inspector applicants; conducts examinations incident to the licensing of inspectors; issues or recommends the issuance of licenses; directs investigations of violations of the act and regulations, and recommends appropriate action to be taken; and in cooperation with the Food and Drug Administration develops programs designed to prevent the mixing of out-of-condition grain with grain of higher quality intended for human consumption.

(3) Market News and Services Division. Issues weekly, monthly, quarterly, and yearly and special reports on market supplies, distribution, and prices of grain, hay, seed, rice, hops, and dry beans; issues market reviews of feeding ratios, and the relationship of grain and feed prices; develops and carries out cooperative agreements with other Government agencies, and State, local, and commercial concerns in the collection and dissemination of market news; and compiles and keeps current, historical and basic data in connection with the commodity activities of the Branch.

(4) Seed Act Division. Plans, develops, and directs the sampling and testing of agricultural and vegetable seed imported and in interstate commerce to determine compliance with the provisions of the Federal Seed Act and the handling of seed rejected for importation; directs the inspection of the labeling of agricultural and vegetable seeds to determine compliance with the provisions of the Federal Seed Act; based on a review of evidence of alleged violations, recommends and initiates action to be taken; prepares and issues warnings; performs analyses and tests to determine the identity of seed, purity content, and variety and germination of seed; in cooperation with seed dealers and seed associations verifies, by maintenance, supervision and inspection of records, the origin of alfalfa and red clover seed to assist shippers, dealers, and consumers in the purchase of kown origin seed; performs a sampling and testing service to determine the dockage in forage seeds to assist dealers in arriving at a fair and equitable value of the seed; develops new or improved methods, techniques, and equipment for the purpose of determining germination, purity, and variety of agricultural and vegetable seed for seeding purposes and the quality of screenings and unclean seed; maintains contacts and working relationships with the various States, associations, colleges and other Federal agencies to promote uniformity of State seed laws and inspection, noxious-weed-seed restriction, seed-certification procedure, etc.; and cooperates with associations, the seed industry, other Government bureaus, States, and foreign governments in conducting schools and disseminating information to develop uniformity in seed analyses and testing methods.

(5) Standardization Research and Testing Division. Conducts research on the standardization of all commodities except seed assigned to the Branch; develops additional or improved standards; develops equipment for testing or grading commodities assigned to the Branch; tests equipment and methods developed by others and evaluates such equipment and techniques; develops specifications for use in procurement by Federal agencies; conducts cereal research; in cooperation with other agencies develops additional or improved testing methods for new varieties of grain or new marketing practices; tests and analyzes all factors used in the standardization research and regulatory work of the Branch; and performs, directs and supervises technical work of testing commodities purchased by this Branch and as assigned by other branches.

§ 2306.2 Field offices—(a) Merchandising offices. Offices are located at 208 South La Salle Street, Chicago 4, Illinois; 212 West 14th Street, Kansas City 8, Missouri; 328 McKnight Building, Minneapolis 1, Minnesota; and 515 SW. Tenth Street, Portland 5, Oregon. These offices handle field work connected with loan, purchase, subsidy, diversion, export, price-support, processing, distribution, sale, surplus-disposal, commodity-handling, shipping and storage programs on grains. Information on the programs of each office is available on request from the Director of each office or from the Director, Grain Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

(b) United States Grain Standards Act field offices. (1) A General Field Headquarters office is located at 1108 Post Office Building, Chicago 7, Illinois, and a Pacific Coast Headquarters office at 345 U. S. Court House, Portland 5, Oregon. These offices direct the operations of the district field headquarters offices in supervising the inspection of grain by licensed inspectors; maintain efficiency records of the licensees; check the intermarket uniformity of inspections; and investigate irregularities in the inspection and merchandising of grain under the act and recommend appropriate action. There is located at each of these offices a Board of Grain Supervisors which interprets the official standards and handles appeals from decisions by district supervisors on the grade of grain by licensed inspectors. (2) Field offices are maintained as headquarters of districts comprising defined areas (10 F. R. 7839). The location of these offices, by States, together with suboffices where indicated, is as follows:

California: 1534 Post Office Building, Los Angeles 12; and 749 New Appraisers Building, 630 Sansome Street, San Francisco, 11; Colorado: 573 U. S. Custom House, Denver 2; Illinois: 1204 Post Office Building, Chicago 7, with suboffice 3025 E. 92d Street, Chicago; and 355 Post Office Building, Peoria 2, with suboffice 324 Standard Office Building, Decatur; Indiana: 523 Federal Building, 201 North Meridian Street, Indianoplis 4; Iowa: 200 Post Office Building, Cedar Rapids; and 209 Post Office Building, Sioux City 16; Kansas: 507 Wheeler-Kelly-Hagny Building, Wichita 2, with suboffice 200-A Post Office Building, Hutchinson; Kentucky: 301 Post Office Building, Louisville 2; Louisiana: 333 St. Charles Street, Room 1401, New Orleans 12; Maryland: 801 U. S. Appraisers Stores Building, Baltimore 2; Massachusetts: 701-A U. S. Custom House, Boston 9; Minnesota: 338 Post Office Building, Duluth 2; and 116 Federal Office Building, Minneapolis 1; Missouri: 325 U. S. Court House, Kansas City 6; 331 Post Office Building, St. Joseph 54; and 1001 U. S. Court and Custom House, St. Louis 1; Montana: 251 Post Office Building, Great Falls; Nebraska: 506 Omaha Grain Exchange Building, Omaha 2; New York: 340 Post Office Building, Buffalo 3; and 225 Broadway, Room 3703, New York 7, with suboffices 342 New Post Office Building, Albany 1, and 225 Post Office Building, Hoboken, New Jersey; Ohio: 509 Post Office Building, Cincinnati 2; and 639 Edison Building, Madison and Superior Streets, Toledo 4; Oklahoma: 319 Post Office Building, Enid; Oregon: 525 Post Office Building, Portland 9, with suboffice Vancouver, Washington; Pennsylvania: 1002 U. S. Custom House, Philadelphia 6; Tennessee: 104 DeSoto Post Office Building, Memphis 3; and 319 Chamber of Commerce Building, 311 4th Avenue North, Nashville 3; Texas: 404 U. S. Court House, Fort Worth 2; and 216 Post Office Building, Galveston; Utah: 314 Post Office Building, Ogden; Washington: 622 Federal Office Building, Seattle 4, with suboffice 412 Post Office Building, Tacoma 2; and 415 Post Office Building, Spokane 8; Wisconsin: 642 Post Office Building, Milwaukee 2.

These offices supervise the inspection of grain by inspectors licensed by the Secretary and handle appeals from inspections made by the licensees. They also assist in enforcing the provisions of the act which are designed to prevent fraud and misrepresentation in the merchandising of grain and serve as a source of information regarding the requirements of the act, the regulations thereunder, and the official grain standards of the United States.

The licensed inspectors are located at important grain-marketing centers. Their names and addresses and the kinds of grain for which they are licensed may be obtained from the district field offices.

(c) Market Inspection of Farm Products Field Offices. The inspection of beans and peas, hay and straw, hops, rice, and seeds for (1) dockage and (2) verification of origin is performed upon request of interested parties. Inspections are made by authorized employees of the Department of Agriculture or by qualified persons licensed by the Secretary for this purpose. Licensed inspectors are employed under cooperative agreements with States and trade organizations. Field offices where inspections are made, from which licensed inspectors are supervised, and where information regarding the location of licensees may be obtained by commodities are as follows:

Beans and Peas. In California, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Texas, Utah, Washington, and Wisconsin at one or more of the United States Grain Standards Act field offices in each of these States as described in paragraph (b) above. Field headquarters offices at 1108 Post Office Building, Chicago 7, Illinois, and 345 U. S. Court House, Portland 5, Oregon, interpret the standards and handle appeals from original inspections.

Hay and Straw. In California, Colorado, Illinois, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New York, Oregon, Texas, and Washington at one or more of the United States Grain Standards Act field offices in each of these States as described in paragraph (b) above. In Georgia: 449 W. Peachtree Street, Atlanta 3.

Hops. Oregon: 345 U. S. Court House, Portland 5.

Rice. In California and Louisiana at the United States Grain Standards Act field offices as described in paragraph (b) above, and in Louisiana at suboffices, Railroad Avenue and S. Main Street, Abbeville; Duson Building, Crowley; and 102 Mill Street, Lake Charles.

Seeds for Dockage and Verification of Origin. In Illinois, Minnesota, and Missouri at one of the United States Grain Standards Act field offices in each of these States as described in paragraph (b) above.

(d) Federal Seed Act field offices. Offices are located at 515 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery 1, Alabama; State Office Building No. 1, Sacramento 14, California; 116 Federal Office Building, Minneapolis 1, Minnesota; 325 U. S. Court House, Kansas City 6, Missouri; Agricultural Experiment Station, Corvallis, Oregon (import work only).

Under the immediate supervision of the Seed Act Division these field offices enforce the interstate provisions of the act by receiving and investigating complaints involving interstate shipments of seed and enforce the import provisions of the act by receiving from customs officials for testing samples representing imports and then issuing admission or rejection notices.

(e) Market News Service field offices. Offices are located at 304 Wholesale Terminal Building, Los Angeles 21, California, for hay, feed, and beans; 630 Sansome Street, 731 New Appraisers Building, San Francisco 11, California, for grain, hay, feed, hops, beans, and rice; 449 W. Peachtree Street N. E., Atlanta 3, Georgia, for grain, hay, and feed; 1204 Post Office Building, Chicago 7, Illinois, for grain and feed; 116 Federal Office Building, Minneapolis 1, Minnesota, for grain, feed, and flaxseed; 325 U. S. Court House, Kansas City 6, Missouri, for grain, hay, and feed; 345 U. S. Court House, Portland 5, Oregon, for grain, hay, feed, hops, and seed.

Under the immediate supervision of the Market News and Services Division, acting in accordance with authority contained in the Agricultural Appropriation Act, these offices collect, compile and analyze data on stocks, production, movement and utilization of grain, grain byproduct feeds, oilseed meals, animal protein feeds, alfalfa meal, alfalfa and prairie hay, rice, beans, hops, and cover-crop seeds. This material is incorporated in daily, weekly, monthly, quarterly, and seasonal market reviews or summaries which are released for radio and press dissemination and for distribution in mimeographed form to farmers, feeders, and other agricultural interests.

§ 2306.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests with respect to the programs and functions of the Branch should address: The Director, Grain Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 2100).

§ 2306.10 Commodity loans. The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.) authorizes and directs the Commodity Credit Corporation to make loans on the basic commodities of wheat, rice, and corn. The making of loans on nonbasic commodities is also authorized (15 U. S. C. 713a-8). The announcement and rules relating to loan programs, approved by the Secretary and Board of Directors of Commodity Credit Corporation, are issued annually. Loans are available to eligible producers on application to County Agricultural Conservation offices of the Field Service Branch (7 CFR, Part 2324) in the areas where loans are available, and the borrower may obtain from such offices the names of local lending agencies (local banks, cooperative marketing associations, corporations or others) which will make disbursements on his loan papers. Producers who wish to make a loan direct with Commodity Credit Corporation may do so by writing to the Director of the merchandising office of the Grain Branch nearest to him. The addresses of these offices are listed in § 2306.2.

§ 2306.11 Purchase programs. With the approval of the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Secretary, grain and its products are purchased either to support prices and/or to fill requisitions of requesting agencies and governments. Purchases may be made on the basis of announcement and offer to buy, by bid, by direct negotiation, by open-market purchases or on such other basis as may best achieve the desired result. The type and character of purchase operation varies with the programs, and additional information may be obtained from the Director, Grain Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

(a) Surplus sales. Commodities referred to the Branch for disposal as surplus are sold in accordance with the regulations governing the disposal of surplus commodities and on the basis of public announcement and offer to sell in the order of priority classification.

(b) Regular program sales. Commodities are acquired through purchase programs specifically authorizing the acquisition of commodities for subsequent sale, through price-supporting operations, or through default of borrowers on loans. Commodities purchased to fill requisitions of requesting agencies are sold on the basis of the agreement covering such purchase and sale. Other commodities are sold on the basis of public announcement or on the open market.

§ 2306.13 Commodity services and facilities. Services and facilities required to carry out program operations are procured in accordance with custom and usage governing the particular transaction. Storage is contracted for on the basis of a Uniform Warehouse Agreement; commodities are moved through the use of commercial billing; drayage, weighing, handling, sampling, and inspection services are all procured in the usual manner. Information on any of these activities may be obtained from the Director of any of the four merchandising offices (§ 2306.2).

§ 2306.14 United States Grain Standards Act. (a) The United States Grain Standards Act (7 U. S. C. 71 et seq.) provides for service and regulatory activities. Under its terms the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to fix and establish standards for grains. Official standards (7 CFR, Part 26) have been promulgated under the act for wheat, corn, barley, oats, feed oats, mixed feed oats, rye, grain sorghums, flaxseed, soybeans, and mixed grain.

(b) Following the promulgation of standards for any grain, the act requires that such grain must be inspected, graded, and certificated according to the official standards when it is merchanised by grade in interstate or foreign commerce from or to an inspection point. The primary inspection of grain is performed by inspectors who are employees of State and trade association inspection departments and in some cases by independent inspectors who work on a fee basis, all of whom are licensed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

(c) Regulations under the act have been promulgated by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 26) which outline the procedure for licensing inspectors, the method of obtaining appeals, the fees charged for appeals and restrictions on the merchandizing of grain under the act.

§ 2306.15 Inspection of beans and peas, hay and straw, hops, rice, and seed. The inspection and grading of these commodities is conducted under authority contained in the Market Inspection of Farm Products item of the appropriation act for agriculture. Inspections under this authority are performed upon request of interested parties. Standards have been issued under this authority for (1) beans, peas, split-peas and lentils; (2) the principal kinds of hay and straw; and (3) rough rice, brown rice, and milled rice. Instructions and procedure have been issued in lieu of standards (1) for the inspection of hops for leaves and stems and for seeds; (2) for the determination of dockage in timothy and sweet clover seed; and (3) for the verification of the origin of alfalfa and red clover seed. Rules and regulations governing each of these services have been promulgated by the Secretary (7 CFR, Parts 57–59, 62, 69). These regulations are the guide to the development and use of these services including the training and licensing of inspectors, handling of appeals, and the establishment and collection of fees.

§ 2306.16 Federal Seed Act. (a) The Federal Seed Act of August 9, 1939 (7 U. S. C. 1551 et seq.) provides for the regulation of interestate and foreign commerce in agricultural and vegetable seeds; requires labeling and prohibits misrepresentation of seeds in interstate commerce; requires that imported seeds meet certain standards. Rules and regulations are promulgated by the Secretary of Agriculture under certain provisions of the act and joint regulations by the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Treasury under the import provisions of the act.

(b) The act requires specified labeling, prohibits false advertising, and incorporates requirements of State seed laws with respect to noxious-weed seeds. The import provisions of the act provide for limitations on the percentage of pure live seed, the weed-seed percentage, and the number of noxious-weed seeds present in seed before allowing its entry into the United States. The act also requires the staining of alfalfa and red clover seed of foreign origin.

(c) The act provides for administrative proceedings and criminal action against violators and seizure of seed found to be falsely labeled. The act requires that notice of judgments and cease and desist orders be published.

§ 2306.17 Permits for ex-quota importation of wheat and flour. Proclamation 2550 of April 13, 1942, authorizes the importation of certified seed wheat and of wheat and wheat flour for experimental and scientific purposes upon written approval of the Secretary or his designated representative. Applications for such importation of wheat or wheat flour for experimental or scientific purposes should be addressed to the Chief, Standardization Research and Testing Division, Grain Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. Application for importation of certified seed wheat should be addressed to the Chief, Seed Act Division, Grain Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 2307.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, consisting of the Office of the Director, Distribution Division, Insecticide Division, Market News Division, Meat Inspection Division, Meat Merchandising Division, Packers and Stockyards Division, Standardization and Grading Division, and Wool Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs and supervises the execution of policies, programs, and activities of the Production and Marketing Administration and Commodity Credit Corporation assigned to the Branch and serves as a Contracting Officer and executive of the Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. The Director has delegated to Chiefs of Divisions final authority to take all action necessary or appropriate in the discharge of their assigned functions.

(c) Contracting and Claims Officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Production and Marketing Administration or the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR Part 200. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) War Food Order Administrators. Under War Food Orders approved by the Secretary, Order Administrators have final authority under the general direction of the Director, to take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of orders assigned to them, except with respect to the settlement of appeals to the Assistant Administrators (7 CFR 2301).

(e) Divisions. The divisions are as follows:

(1) Distribution Division. Establishes set-aside requirements for specified amounts of meat which apply to meat packers, and establishes minimum prices which are permitted to be paid for food animals under War Food Orders approved by the Secretary pursuant to Title III of the Second War Powers Act (56 Stat. 177), acts as agent of Commodity Credit Corporation in purchasing horses and dairy cattle for procurement by UNRRA, administers orders and regulations issued by the Secretary and Administrator under the Stabilization Act of 1942 (50 U. S. C. App. 961 et seq.) providing for certification of non-federally inspected packing plants.

(2) Insecticide division. Takes all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of the Insecticide Act (7 U. S. C. 121–134) which is designated to protect farmers, livestock growers, and other users of insecticides, and fungicides including disinfectants, against losses resulting from the use of misbranded and adulterated products.

(3) Market news division. Under authority contained in the Agriculture Appropriation Act for 1917 (39 Stat. 473), the division directs, through a system of field offices and leased wire facilities, the collection and dissemination of market news on livestock, meats, and wool.

(5) Meat Merchandising Division. Acts as agent of the Commodity Credit Corporation in purchasing and selling meat products under authorized programs. Disposes of surplus meat products under provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 as authorized by the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control.

(6) Packers and Stockyards Division. Takes all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of the Packers and Stockyards Act, as amended (7 U. S. C. 181–231) which provides that facilities and services furnished by stockyards be adequate and that there be no unfair trade practices involving the purchase and sale of livestock at public stockyards. The provisions of the act as they relate to livestock have also been applied to live poultry handlers in certain designated cities.

(7) Standardization and Grading Division. Prepares standards for livestock and meat and demonstrates such standards to the trade (45 Stat. 539). Conducts a Federal meat grading service which is a permissive service not mandatory on the industry (7 U. S. C. 414). Arranges for the examination and certification concerning specification compliance of meat, meat products, dairy cattle, and horses intended for Government purchase and for others according to terms of agreements with the agency requesting the service.

(8) Wool Division. Develops and executes wool purchase and sales programs as an agent of Commodity Credit Corporation. Plans and develops programs and procedures for appraisal of domestic wool and conducts tests and studies designed to develop and improve marketing and utilization of wool, wool top, other wool products, and mohair as an agent of Commodity Credit Corporation. Prepares standards for wool and wool top under authority vested in the Secretary by statute (45 Stat. 593).

§ 2307.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests with respect to the programs and functions of the Branch should address: The Director, Livestock Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch including those maintained in the field offices are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designations of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 2100).

§ 2307.11 Market news. There is maintained a system of field offices and leased wire facilities through which is collected and disseminated market news on livestock, meats, and wool. Weekly and monthly records are compiled of prices, receipts, slaughter and shipments of livestock, and shipments of meat and wool for the leading markets and areas of the United States.

§ 2307.12 Standards for grades of livestock and meats. Tentative standards for grades of livestock and meats are first formulated and, when experience gained through their use indicates that changes are necessary, additional tentative standards are developed and subsequently published as U. S. standards. These standards provide the basis for the conduct of the Meat Grading Service, and the uniform reporting of livetock and meats according to grades by the Market News service. Also, the standards are used as specifications in contracts involving both private and governmental purchase. In conjunction with developing standards, research is performed in cooperation with the trade and educational institutions. Also, demonstrations of standards are made to the trade, trade associations, growers, and other interested parties. Standards for grades of slaughter cattle, vealers, and slaughter calves, beef, veal and calf carcasses, and lamb carcasses, yearling mutton and mutton carcasses have been published.

out and eliminate diseased and otherwise unfit meat which is destroyed for food purposes. The preparation of meat is supervised to assure its cleanly handling and wholesomeness and freedom from harmful preservatives or other deleterious materials. Labels must be approved before their use is permitted. Inspected meats are certified for export. Meats offered for importation must pass inspection before entry is permitted (19 U. S. C., 1306 (b), 1306 (c)). Meats are examined for specification requirements of governmental purchasing agencies and others. The Federal meat inspection regulations (9 CFR, Parts 251–279; 11 F. R. 7718) govern this program.

§ 2307.14 Packers and Stockyards Act. The Secretary is charged with responsibility for enforcement of the Packers and Stockyards Act (7 U. S. C., 181–231), a regulatory statute which gives him jurisdiction over public stockyards and the operations of marketing agencies, dealers and packers engaged in selling and buying livestock at those markets. An amendment of the Act in 1935 makes the provisions of the act governing the selling and buying of livestock and public stockyards applicable to operations of live poultry handlers in designated cities. In general, it is required that facilities and services furnished to livestock producers shall be adequate, that the charges assessed for stockyard and market agencies' service shall be reasonable, that the consigned livestock shall be sold under open competitive conditions, that the weighing of such livestock shall be accurate, that full and correct accountings shall be furnished consignors and buyers for whom the commission firms act as selling or buying agents, and that the stockyard companies, market agencies, dealers and packers shall not engage in unfair, deceptive, or discriminatory practices. The work of this program is governed by the "Regulations Under the Packers and Stockyards Act, as Amended" (9 CFR, Part 201) and "Rules of Practice Governing Proceedings Under the Packers and Stockyards Act" (9 CFR, Part 202; 11 F. R. 2630).

§ 2307.21 Meat set-aside. In order that the needs of the armed forces and other governmental claimants for meat product and edible animal fats and oils may be met the Meat Merchandising Division issues orders requiring meat packers to set aside for Government purchase specified portions of their production of identified products. War Food Orders have been published in the FEDERAL REGISTER establishing the set aside requirements under this program.

§ 2307.22 Wool purchase program. (a) The wool purchase program assures to growers a market for all domestic wool at established prices, less specified transportation and marketing cost. The Branch, acting as an agent for Commodity Credit Corporation, enters into wool agreements with wool dealers, cooperative associations, and banks. Under these agreements, wool is purchased, handled, and sold for the account of the Corporation by established wool dealers and cooperative associations. The agreements specify the maximum fee handlers can obtain under the program. Country dealers (secondary handlers) may also sell wool to Commodity Credit Corporation, provided such wool is hendled in accordance with the wool handler's agreement.

(b) The procedure for delivering wool to Commodity Credit Corporation is on consignment to a handler. Upon receipt of the wool from a producer or secondary handler, the handler grades the wool if necessary, and prepares it for appraisal. The appraisal, to determine grade, quality, type and shrinkage of each lot of wool, is made by appraisers employed by the Branch. After this appraisal is made, the handler prepares an account sale for the grower and forwards to the grower his check in settlement. After settlement is made, the handler requests reimbursement for the purchase value of the wool from one of the banks operating under a banker's wool agreement with the Corporation. The handlers request for reimbursement is supported by (1) a copy of the appraisal certificate, (2) copy of the grower's account sale, and (3) a warehouse receipt representing the wool. The banks, in effect, are acting as fiscal agents for the Corporation. Upon the sale of wool in the usual channel of trade, the handler remits to the bank the sales proceeds which are applied by the bank against its Commodity Credit Corporation wool loan account.

§ 2308.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agricultural Building, consisting of the Office of the Director, Program Division, Operations Division and Market Practices Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs and supervises the execution of the policies, programs and activities of Production and Marketing Administration, Commodity Credit Corporation assigned to the Branch and serves as a Contracting Officer and executive of the Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. The Director has final authority to:

(1) Execute purchase, sale, and diversion contracts on behalf of the Production and Marketing Administration or Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible.

(2) Settle and adjust claims by and against the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible, within the limitations established by the Corporation (6 CFR, Part 200 et seq.)

(3) Contract for sales of property under the provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 pursuant to authorization from the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control.

(4) Establish tentative standard grades for poultry, eggs and their products. Take all action necessary or appropriate in the Administration of War Food Orders assigned to the Branch, that have been approved by the Secretary under Title III of the Second War Powers Act (56 Stat. 177), except with respect to the settlement of appeals to the Assistant Administrators. (7 CFR 2301.1 (b) (2) (i)).

(5) Terminate, under the provisions of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, contracts relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible and approve settlement agreements under terminated contracts that do not provide for the payment of more than $50,000 to a prime contractor or $5,000 to a sub-contractor. (This authority may also be exercised by Associate and Assistant Branch Directors.)

(6) Calculate or determine rates and prices within the limitations of authorized purchase, price support, subsidy, sales and other programs assigned to the Branch.

(c) Contracting and claims officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President of Commodity Credit Corporation and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Production and Marketing Administration or the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President of the Commodity Credit Corporation and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR, Part 200. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) Divisions. The divisions are as follows:

(1) Program Division. Develops comprehensive economic research and analysis of the various phases of poultry economy. Develops programs for acquisition, distribution, sale, diversion and disposal of poultry products. Plans and recommends production goals and the methods for achieving those goals. Participates in the preparation of national and international allocations. Develops and recommends production adjustment in line with goals. Conducts surveys and analyses processing and marketing costs; reviews proposed price regulations. Proposes the issuance of set-aside orders, priority rating and requisitioning; takes necessary action to requisition supplies to meet allocations. Develops programs for importation and exportation of poultry products. Develops dockets for price support of poultry and eggs.

(2) Operations Division. Carries out authorized purchase and sales programs including sales of excess or surplus poultry products. Develops commodity quality and container specifications. Administers the quality control program for dried and frozen eggs and in this connection maintains a field force which surveys processing and drying operations and inspects plant equipment and practices. Processes claims by and against the Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation. Administers orders applicable to the marketing, or federal purchase of poultry, eggs and their product.

(3) Market Practices Division. Develops improved and uniform standards and grades for poultry and eggs, conducts programs demonstrating the use of federal standards and grades; assists in developing container specifications for use in contracting operations; reviews and recommends action on priority applications for materials and equipment; develops programs to improve market practices and quality conservation of poultry, eggs and their products; cooperates with processors and marketing and research agencies in developing new products or byproducts and new uses for poultry and eggs.

§ 2308.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests with respect to the programs and functions of the Branch should address: The Director, Poultry Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 2100).

§ 2308.10 Sales programs. Excess stocks of poultry and eggs and their products are acquired by the Commodity Credit Corporation through purchase or price support programs or by transfer to United States Department of Agriculture by other Government agencies as surplus for disposal. Such stocks are marketed by the Branch under approved arrangements of its Operations Division. This Division prepares for issuance of the Director announcements of such proposed sales. Announcements are mailed to members of the trade and trade associations. Any person desiring to have his name placed on the mailing list should address a request to the Director of the Poultry Branch.

(5) Terminate, under the provision of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, contracts relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible and approve settlement agreements under terminated contracts that do not provide for the payment of more than $50,000 to a prime contractor or $5,000 to a sub-contractor. (This authority may also be exercised by Associate and Assistant Branch Directors.)

(6) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the Administration of the Naval Stores Act (7 U. S. C. 94), subject to limitations contained in said act and in rules and regulations promulgated with respect thereto.

(7) Calculate or determine rates and prices within the limitations of authorized loan, purchase, price-support, subsidy, sales and other programs assigned to the Branch.

(c) Contracting and claims officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Production and Marketing Administration or the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR, Part 200. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) Food Order Administrators. Under War Food Orders approved by the Secretary, Order Administrators have final authority under the general direction of the Director to take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of Orders assigned to them, except with respect to the settlement of appeals to the Assistant Administrators (7 CFR, Part 2301).

(e) The divisions. (1) Each of the four commodity divisions performs the following functions for the commodities assigned: Performs a continuing analysis of supply, demand, and other marketing factors related to existing or projected Division programs; plans, recommends and executes all authorized purchase programs in connection with commodities under the jurisdiction of the Branch, and for other commodity branches as assigned; plans, recommends and conducts all authorized inventory turnover and surplus sales of foods under the jurisdiction of the Branch, and for other commodity branches as assigned; plans, recommends and carries out all authorized loan, subsidy, and diversion operations related to the price support and surplus removal programs under the jurisdiction of the Branch and for other commodity branches as assigned; based on current operating purchases, sales and program requirements data, makes a continuing review of age, condition and location of stocks; determines and recommends consignment of appropriate stocks to particular programs; plans purchases and sales of such commodities in line with program needs; determines and directs sale or other disposition of commodities which are out-of-position, are in odd lots, or are necessary to move on account of age; develops safe storage criteria for use in appraising the commodity position; initiates and recommends programs to effect economies and improvements in the processing, packaging, and marketing of assigned commodities; initiates and cooperates with other research groups in the development of research for new and substitute products and new uses for assigned commodities and in improving existing commodity standards; directs and participates with other groups in the formulation of production goals; initiates and promotes programs to assist producers in the achievement of these goals; on the basis of comprehensive supply, demand, and other data, determines, in cooperation with other agencies, inventory, production, and import potentialities of each commodity and formulates recommendations for national and international allocations of strategic commodities in short supply in order to assure equitable division among the various claimants; provides the Chairman for sub-committees of the Food Requirements and Allocations Committee and the U. S. Representative on Commodity Committees of the International Emergency Food Council; provides inspection and grading services; prepares and disseminates market news; establishes grades and standards for government purchases; recommends and assists in the establishment of Advisory Committees, which present the views of industry and agriculture concerning programs; develops recommendations with respect to maximum price regulations; recommends the time and extent of rationing for the commodities assigned; develops and recommends food orders; administers approved orders; recommends action in cases of violation; and provides assistance to agriculture and industry in connection with applications for materials and equipment priorities.

(2) In addition, the Naval Stores Division administers the Naval Stores Act; directs the work and reviews the findings of inspectors and analysts, makes appropriate recommendations in cases of violations and makes determinations as to propriety of labels, invoices, and other sales records.

(3) The Special Services Division administers war food orders relating to the importation of food under private purchase; consults with the trade on the establishment and application of import programs; assists the commodity divisions and other branches in the formulation of program policies governing the granting of import licenses; in collaboration with commodity divisions, prepares standard and negotiated contracts and amendments thereto, and related documents for the purchase and sales operations; processes surplus sales declarations, and performs other services to prepare referred commodities for sale; assists operating officials in conducting termination and renegotiation proceedings in accordance with prescribed regulations; and serves as the point of contact between the Divisions and other branches and agencies on matters pertaining to inventories, requisitions, inspections, compliance with food orders and all matters requiring investigations.

§ 2309.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests with respect to special commodities or the programs and functions of the Branch should address: The Director, Special Commodities Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the field, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary. (7 CFR, Part 2100.)

§ 2309.10 Commodity loans. Loans on gum naval stores are made under authority of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 (7 U. S. C. 1302; 50 U. S. C. App. 968) and section 4 (b) of the Act of July 1, 1941 (15 U. S. C. 713a–8). The Gum Naval Stores program provides for a loan by Commodity Credit Corporation to the American Turpentine Farmers Association Cooperative, Valdosta, Georgia, to enable such Association to make price support loans on eligible gum rosin, gum turpentine, and the turpentine and rosin content of oleoresin pledged by its eligible producer members. The program is implemented by the "1946 Naval Stores Loan Agreement" between Commodity Credit Corporation and the Association. Loan operations are conducted as follows:

(a) The Association enters into agreements with producers under which the latter pledge eligible naval stores to the Association as a basis for loans by the Association. Producers agree that such naval stores may be pooled and pledged by the Association as a basis for loans by Commodity Credit Corporation to the Association.

(b) The Association enters into agreements with warehousemen and processor warehousemen under which the latter receive and store for the account of the Association and Commodity Credit Corporation eligible naval stores tendered by producers and, for and on behalf of the Association, makes loans on such naval stores by drawing drafts on Commodity Credit Corporation payable at the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta (Jacksonville Branch).

(c) Upon proper certification by the Association, and providing all required documents are attached in proper form, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta (Jacksonville Branch) pays the draft to the producer or his named designee.

§ 2309.13 Official standard grades for naval stores. The Naval Stores Act (7 U. S. C. 94) authorizes the Secretary to develop official standard grades for the several kinds of naval stores. Certain standards and grades for naval stores and regulations pertaining thereto have been issued (7 CFR Part 160). The Naval Stores Division studies the several kinds of naval stores being produced and prepares for transmittal to the Secretary for issuance, such modifications of existing standards, or the establishment of new standards, as may be required to differentiate the grades of naval stores being produced. With respect to kinds of naval stores for which Official standards have not been issued, the division prepares proposed new standards. Hearings are held at which all interested persons are entitled to speak concerning the proposed new standards. Upon conclusion of hearings the Director recommends to the Secretary adoption or rejection. If the Secretary concurs, an order is issued by the Secretary establishing and promulgating the new standards to be effective not sooner than three months from date of issuance.

§ 2309.14 War Food Orders. The Branch administers War Food Orders, which have been published in the Federal Register. These War Food Orders are administered by Order Administrators in the Special Commodities Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. Requests for information concerning these orders and all petitions and requests for relief, relating thereto, should be addressed to the Order Administrator of the commodity involved.

2310.14 Administration of Sugar Act of 1937, as amended.

§ 2310.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, consisting of the Office of the Director, Distribution Division, Purchase and Price Support Division, Sugar Act Division, and Program Analysis Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs, and supervises the execution of Production and Marketing Administration and Commodity Credit Cooperation policies, programs, and activities relating to sugar carried out by the Branch and serves as a Contracting Officer and executive of the Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. The Director has final authority to:

(1) Contract with foreign and domestic producers, processors, refiners, distributors, and importers for the purchase and sale of raw and refined sugar, edible molasses, blackstrap molasses, and any commodity strategically related to the purchase and sale of sugar required to meet United States requirements.

(2) Contract with growers and processors of sugar beets and sugarcane for payment of incentive and price support payments offered in order to stimulate the production of sugar.

(3) Contract with refiners, beet sugar processors, and importers of direct-consumption sugar for payment of excess costs of transportation involved in the movement of sugar into deficit areas.

(4) Contract for sales of property under the provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 pursuant to authorization from the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control.

(5) Terminate, under the provisions of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, contracts relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible and approve settlement agreements under terminated contracts that do not provide for the payment of more than $50,000 to a prime contractor or $5,000 to a subcontractor. (This authority may also be exercised by Associate and Assistant Branch Directors.)

(6) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the Administration of War Food Orders assigned to the Branch, that have been approved by the Secretary under Title III of the Second War Powers Act (56 Stat. 177), except with respect to the settlement of appeals to the Assistant Administrators (7 CFR 2301.1 (b) (2) (i)).

(7) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of the Sugar Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1100–1183), subject to limitations contained in said Act and in rules and regulations promulgated with respect thereto.

(8) Calculate or determine rates and prices within the limitations of authorized loan, purchase, price support, subsidy, sales and other programs assigned to the Branch.

(9) Settle and adjust claims by and against the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible, within the limitations established by the Corporation (6 CFR, Part 200 et seq.).

(c) Contracting and claims officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director with the approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Production and Marketing Administration or the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR 200. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) War Food Order Administrators. Under War Food Orders approved by the Secretary, Order Administrators have final authority under the general direction of the Director to take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of Orders assigned to them, except with respect to the settlement of appeals to the Assistant Administrators (7 CFR 2301.1 (b) (2) (i)).

(e) Office of the Director. This Office renders assistance on problems involving the processing, handling, distribution, storage, and merchandising of sugar; developing production goals, supply estimates, and domestic and international allocation recommendations; and renders assistance to industry on material and equipment priorities and on labor supply and utilization problems. This office also assists in the formulation and execution of programs or activities not readily allocable to the established divisions of the Branch.

(f) The Divisions. The Divisions are as follows:

(1) Distribution Division. Develops and administers programs relating to (a) importation of direct-consumption sugar and its distribution pursuant to Office of Price Administration instructions; (b) purchase and sale of refined sugars, domestic and off-shore, to supply needs of government and certain foreign claimants, and the designation of sources of supply for authorized commercial exports to certain other foreign claimants; and (c) facilitation of the movement of sugar into designated deficit areas by making reimbursement for certain excess costs. Makes recommendations with respect to time, extent, and conditions of sugar rationing. The Chief of the Distribution Division has authority to enter into contracts for the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to the purchase or sale of refined sugar.

(2) Purchase and Price Support Division. Develops and administers programs for (i) government purchase of Cuban, Puerto Rican, Virgin Islands, and other offshore raw sugar, and, within allotments, control of the sale, transportation and delivery of sugar to refineries in Continental United States; (ii) encouraging the production of beet and cane sugar in the United States, including Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands by making price support payments; (iii) reimbursing processors of sugar beets and sugarcane (relating primarily to sugar not obtained through Government purchase) for specified excess costs; and (iv) regulating the use and delivery of edible molasses.

(3) Sugar Act Division. Develops and administers programs under the provisions of the Sugar Act of 1937, as amended.

(4) Program Analysis Division. Conducts research needed to formulate and administer sugar programs; develops procedures for reporting the current status of program operations and for analysis and appraisal of programs; and compiles, analyzes, and interprets statistical, economic, accounting, and other data in connection therewith.

§ 2310.2 Field Offices—(a) New York. Sugar, Fibers, Fats and Oils Office, Production and Marketing Administration, 150 Broadway, New York 7, New York, arranges for importations under contracts executed by Commodity Credit Corporation for purchase of Cuban, Puerto Rican, Virgin Islands, and other off-shore raw sugar; offers specific cargoes of sugar to refiners under sales contract with Commodity Credit Corporation and in fulfillment of allotments; authorizes specific importations of direct-consumption sugar; arranges for movement of specific purchases and sales of sugar to foreign and certain other claimants of sugar; performs disbursing and collection functions for all Sugar Branch programs except those carried out under the Sugar Act of 1937, as amended.

(b) Havana, Cuba. The Special Representative of the Sugar Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, and the Office of Defense Supplies, U. S. Embassy, Havana, Cuba, facilitates the operation of contracts for Cuban sugar, molasses and industrial alcohol, and settlement of claims.

(c) San Juan, Puerto Rico. The Special Representative, Sugar Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, P. O. Box 4512, San Juan, Puerto Rico, facilitates the operation of contracts for Puerto Rican and Virgin Islands sugar and settlement of claims.

§ 2310.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests with respect to the programs and functions of the Branch should address: The Director, Sugar Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 2100).

§ 2310.10 Excess costs and price support payments—(a) General procedure. Reimbursement is made to processors and producers for specified excess costs and to support prices under programs approved by the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation. Offers for such reimbursement to the processors for their own account or the accounts of their producers as the case requires are made by the Sugar Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. Upon acceptance by the processors these contracts are the basis for application for payments submitted to Sugar Division, Sugar, Fibers, Fats and Oils Office, 150 Broadway, New York, New York, which examines such claims and makes payments thereon.

(b) Excess costs payments which are currently authorized are as follows:

(1) Excess cost of transporting sugar beets to an operating factory over that normally incurred in transporting to a factory which now is closed, in order to encourage production and insure processing of all sugar beets raised.

(2) Part of the cost of transporting molasses from the 1945 crop of sugar beets from sugar beet factories not equipped with Steffens plants to others having such equipment, in order to get maximum extraction of crystalline sugar.

(3) Part of the increase since 1941 in operating costs of sugar beet factories and sugarcane mills in order to maintain operations necessary for maximum sugar extraction.

(4) Cost of transporting raw cane sugar to refineries in excess of stated costs.

(5) Excess costs incurred in the movement of off-shore direct-consumption sugar to continental United States markets, and excess transportation costs for movement of direct-consumption sugar into deficit sugar supply areas.

§ 2310.11 Purchase and importation of raw sugar. (a) Under a program approved by the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation, a contract has been executed with the Cuban Sugar Stabilization Institute as single seller for the Cuban sugar crop with the exception of quantities for local consumption and for sale by Cuba to other countries. Likewise, contracts have been made with individual producers for the Puerto Rican and Virgin Islands crops except for quantities needed for local consumption. Ships are offered by the War Shipping Administration and Sugar Division, New York, to the Cuban Sugar Stabilization Institute and Puerto Rican and Virgin Islands Shippers. Under the purchase contracts, advances are made on the purchase price of the raw sugar unshipped at the end of the harvest and grinding season.

(b) Under regulations relative to the distribution of raw sugar (8 F. R. 10605), the Order Administrator or Alternate Order Administrator is authorized to grant or deny exemptions, and to issue specific authorizations with respect to the importation, purchase and acceptance of delivery of raw sugar.

(c) The Director, Chief of the Sugar Division, and Assistant Chief of the Sugar Division, Sugar, Fibers, Fats and Oils Office, New York, are empowered to issue specific authorizations with respect to the importation, purchase, and acceptance of delivery of raw sugar. Any correspondence concerning this Order should be addressed to the Order Administrator, Sugar Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 2310.12 Purchase and sale of refined sugar. Under a program authorized by Commodity Credit Corporation, refined sugar is procured to meet allocation requirements of certain claimants. Announcements of terms and conditions of procurement are made and purchases are consummated upon the submission of bids in accordance with such announcements. Sales of such sugar to various claimants are made at the price set forth in the schedule of Commodities and Sales Price Quotations in effect for the month during which delivery of the sugar is made. The Sugar Division, New York, makes arrangements for deliveries involved in the purchase and sale of such sugar, as well as payment of the purchase price, and invoicing of claimants for the sales price.

§ 2310.13 Restriction on use and delivery of edible molasses. Under regulations governing the distribution and use of edible molasses (8 F. R. 5430, 12731), the Order Administrator and Alternate Order Administrator are authorized to grant or deny exemptions, and to issue specific authorizations with respect to the use, processing, delivery, or acceptance of delivery of edible molasses. Applications are made to and information obtained from the Order Administrator, Sugar Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 2310.14 Administration of the Sugar Act of 1937, as amended. (a) Title II of the Act providing for quotas for various sugar producing areas and marketing allotments for persons marketing or importing sugar is in suspense. Reports and recommendations are made to the President under section 509 relating to the restoration or continued suspension of the quota provisions.

(b) Under Title III, Conditional Payments Provisions, determinations are made of the conditions of payment and other factors relating thereto, and issued upon approval by the Secretary (7 CFR, Chap. VIII). Forms and instructions are prepared in the Sugar Branch, but the work of determining performance and making payments is done by the Field Service Branch (7 CFR, Part 2324).

(c) Under section 512, the Sugar Branch, in cooperation with other governmental agencies, conducts surveys, investigations, and research relating to the conditions and factors affecting the methods of accomplishing most effectively the purposes of the Sugar Act.

(d) Section 507 authorizes the collection of information from persons engaged in the manufacturing, marketing or transportation of sugar which the Secretary deems necessary to enable him to administer the Act. The Sugar Branch summarizes and publishes data on entries, stocks, production, receipts, meltings, and deliveries of sugar.

§ 2311.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, consisting of the Office of the Director, Marketing Programs Division, Production Programs Division, Marketing Services Division, Standards and Research Division, and Statistical and Economic Services Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs and supervises the execution of the policies, programs and activities of the Production and Marketing Administration and Commodity Credit Corporation assigned to the Branch and serves as a Contracting Officer and executive of Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. The Director has final authority to:

(1) Issue tobacco seed and plant export permits (7 CFR 34).

(2) Execute purchase, sale, loan and diversion contracts on behalf of the Production and Marketing Administration or Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible.

(3) Settle and adjust claims by and against the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible, within the limitations established by the Corporation (6 CFR Part 200 et seq.).

(4) Contract for sales of property under the provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 pursuant to authorization from the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control.

(5) Calculate or determine rates and prices within the limitations of authorized loan, purchase, price support, subsidy, sales, and other programs assigned to the Branch.

(6) Establish tentative standard grades for tobacco for which official standard grades have not been issued.

(7) Establish fees for tobacco grading services performed upon request (7 CFR 29.1–29.54).

(8) Terminate, under the provisions of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, contracts relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible and approve settlement agreements under terminated contracts that do not provide for the payment of more than $50,000 to a prime contractor or $5,000 to a sub-contractor. (This authority may also be exercised by Associate and Assistant Branch Directors.)

(9) Determine the grade of any lot of tobacco for which appeal has been taken from the grade assigned by the inspector (7 CFR 29.1–29.54).

(c) Contracting and claims officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director, with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Production and Marketing Administration or the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director, with approval of the President, Commodity Credit Corporation, and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR Part 200. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) Office of the Director. This office prepares, recommends, and administers allocation orders relating to tobacco; and examines and recommends approval or disapproval of applications for tobacco seed and plant export permits.

(e) Functions of the Divisions. The divisions and their functions are as follows:

(1) Marketing Programs Division. Develops tobacco loan, purchase, sale, export, and diversion programs for submittal to the Secretary and the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation, and administers such programs as may be authorized by them; conducts sales of Government surplus tobacco products; develops and recommends methods of effecting economies in the marketing of tobacco and of improved systems of marketing; directs and supervises the storage, shipping, care, and preservation of stocks of leaf or unmanufactured tobacco acquired by the Department.

(2) Production Programs Division. Formulates tobacco marketing quota programs and has general responsibility for their administration; develops and recommends production goals and correlates the goals with marketing quota operations.

(3) Marketing Services Division. Prepares necessary procedures and supervises mandatory and permissive tobacco inspections; prepares proclamations with respect to mandatory inspection referenda and conducts such referenda among growers; supervises collection of sales and price data and the daily, weekly, and seasonal publication and distribution of this information; supervises demonstrations and similar training programs to aid growers in sorting and preparing tobacco for market.

(4) Standards and Research Division. Develops, formulates, and recommends standards and grades for tobacco; directs and conducts investigations and studies of tobacco, including laboratory research in connection therewith.

(5) Statistical and Economic Services Division. Prepares for publication the "Annual Report on Tobacco Statistics"; conducts economic and statistical analyses with respect to supply, disappearance, production, imports, exports, domestic and foreign consumption, and prices of tobacco and tobacco products; prepares the quarterly Tobacco Stocks Reports; and makes economic studies and statistical analyses for use by the other divisions in connection with their program operations.

§ 2311.2 Field offices—(a) Tobacco Inspection Field Offices. Offices are located at: Kentucky—620 South Broadway, Lexington; North Carolina—604 Capital Club Building, Raleigh; Tennessee—Clarksville; and Virginia—Farmville. Temporary field offices are maintained during the marketing season at; Georgia—Valdosta; Kentucky—Bowling Green, Franklin, and Mayfield; North Carolina—Durham and Wilson; South Carolina—Florence; Tennessee—Greenville; and Virginia—Danville. Under the immediate supervision of the Marketing Services Division these field offices provide inspection and grading service of farm tobacco on auction markets, dealers' tobacco, and tobacco held by farmer cooperatives or associations under loan agreements; conducts referenda among tobacco growers to determine whether markets shall be designated for mandatory inspection and grading; and performs other functions as assigned by the Marketing Services Division.

§ 2311.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests with respect to the programs and functions of the Branch should address: The Director, Tobacco Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 2100).

§ 2311.10 Tobacco seed and plant exportation. The Tobacco Seed and Plant Exportation Act prohibits the exportation of tobacco seed or tobacco plants except for experimental purposes (7 U. S. C. 516–517). Application for such permits shall be sent to the Director, who has authority to issue such permits in accordance with rules of procedure issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 34).

§ 2311.11 Marketing quotas. (a) The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 provides for marketing quotas with respect to the several kinds of tobacco (7 U. S. C. 1311–1314, 50 Stat. 21). The kinds of tobacco for which quotas have been in effect are Burley, flue-cured, fire-cured, and dark air-cured. Proclamations of quotas, notices of referenda, results of referenda, and rules governing the apportionment of the national quota, the establishment of farm quotas, the identification of tobacco as being subject to or not subject to penalty, the collection and accounting for penalties, and the records and reports to be kept and submitted by farmers and tobacco handlers are issued annually by the Secretary (7 CFR Parts 724, 725 (Burley); 725, 727 (flue-cured); 726 (dark-air-cured); 726 (fire-cured)). Additional rules issued by the Secretary relate to the holding of referenda (7 CFR Part 717), administrative review of farm quotas (7 CFR Part 711), and refunding of penalties erroneously, illegally, or wrongfully collected (7 CFR Part 714). The Secretary delegates to the Director authority to prepare and issue the necessary instructions and forms for carrying out the rules (7 CFR Parts 724, 725, 726, 727), which state the duties and responsibilities of tobacco growers, dealers, and warehousemen and describe the nature of forms required to be executed or handled by them.

(b) The Production Programs Division prepares the various proclamations and rules which the Secretary is required to issue with respect to tobacco marketing quotas and the instructions and forms for use by tobacco warehousemen, dealers, farmers, and the Field Service Branch.

(c) The quota programs are administered in the field by the Field Service Branch through the State PMA Offices and the county committees. Reports and records submitted by dealers and warehousemen to the State PMA Offices are consolidated in a State PMA Office centrally located within the area in which each kind of tobacco under quotas is grown. The Production Programs Division supervises the summarization of these records and reports and any action taken on the basis of information developed in the course of this operation.

§ 2311.12 Commodity loans. The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 (7 U. S. C. 1302; 50 App. U. S. C. 968), authorizes and directs the Commodity Credit Corporation to make loans on the several kinds of tobacco if producers have not disapproved marketing quotas for such kind of tobacco for the marketing year. The announcement and rules relating to loan programs approved by the Secretary and the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation are issued annually. Loans generally are made available at auction warehouses or other places where farmers normally offer their tobacco for sale. The cooperative or other organizations operating under contract with Commodity Credit Corporation are responsible for making the loans to the grower and having the tobacco redried, packed and placed in acceptable storage, and for marketing such tobacco. Wet gains accruing through the final marketing of the tobacco are distributed to the growers who placed the tobacco under loan. The Marketing Programs Division exercises supervision required to insure performance by cooperatives and other contracting organizations with the terms of the contracts. Names and addresses of cooperatives and other contracting organizations may be obtained from the Division.

§ 2311.13 Sales programs. Stocks of tobacco have in prior years been acquired by Commodity Credit Corporation through purchase programs (§ 2311.14), and are acquired through failure of cooperatives and other organizations to repay loans (§ 2311.12). These stocks are marketed by the Branch under arrangements made by the Marketing Programs Division. The Marketing Programs Division also negotiates the sale of or prepares and issues announcements of proposed sales of tobacco products declared surplus by the various Departments and agencies of the Government (32 CFR, Part 8300 et seq.) and handles the sales of such products. Announcements of these sales are mailed directly to tobacco dealers, manufacturers, and others. Any person desiring to have his name placed on the mailing list should address a request therefor to the Division.

§ 2311.14 Purchase programs. As directed by the Secretary on recommendation by the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Marketing Program Division operates tobacco purchase programs in lieu of loan operations in areas where loans are not practicable as a price supporting measure due to lack of inspectors or other special market conditions. In addition, the Division negotiates purchases of tobacco by-products for insecticide purposes for the account of requesting agencies and governments.

§ 2311.15 Tobacco standards and grades. The Tobacco Inspection Act (7 U. S. C. 511–511q) authorizes the Secretary to develop official standard grades for the several classes, types and groups of tobacco. Standard grades have been issued for the following kinds of tobacco: Flue-cured tobacco (7 CFR 29.151–29.157), Fire-cured tobacco (7 CFR 20.101–29.108), Burley tobacco (7 CFR 29.201–29.207), Dark air-cured tobacco (7 CFR 29.251–29.258). Pursuant to the Tobacco Stocks and Standards Act (7 U. S. C. 501–508) the Secretary has issued "Classification of Leaf Tobacco" (7 CFR, Part 30).

The Standards and Research Division carries on field investigations and laboratory research and based thereon prepared for issuance by the Secretary modifications of existing standards and new standards. Prior to the issuance by the Secretary of official standards proposed standards are developed by the Division and issued by the Director for a trial period. At present such proposed standards have been prepared and used for Maryland air-cured, type 32; Pennsylvania seed leaf, type 41; Ohio cigar leaf, types 42, 43, and 44; Connecticut Valley broad leaf, type 51; Connecticut Valley Havana seed, type 52; Wisconsin cigar leaf, types 54 and 55; Connecticut Valley shade-grown, type 61; and Georgia and Florida shade-grown, type 62.

Another publication relating to tobacco standards is "United States Standard Tobacco Sizes" (Miscellaneous memorandum No. 83). This publication will be furnished upon request to the Tobacco Branch.

§ 2311.16 Tobacco inspection. The Tobacco Inspection Act (7 U. S. C. 511–511q) authorizes the Secretary to inspect and grade tobacco free of charge on any market for which growers have indicated in a referendum that they favor mandatory inspection, and also authorizes inspection service to be performed, with charge, to any person who requests the service with respect to particular tobacco which he owns or in which he has a financial interest. The rules issued by the Secretary (7 CFR 29.1–29.54) contain the procedure for conducting the referendum, the manner in which tobacco is graded, the procedure to be followed by interested parties in appealing the grade assigned to tobacco by the inspector, and, in connection with requested inspections, the establishment and collection of fees.

§ 2311.17 Publication of market news reports. The Tobacco Inspection Act (7 U. S. C. 511h), authorizes the collection of the necessary data with respect to tobacco sales and prices for the publication of reports of this information to tobacco growers and other interested persons. Under the direction of the Marketing Services Division, the data are obtained and compiled by the field market news offices, which issue daily, weekly, and seasonal reports. The Division prepares and issues season market reviews for the various kinds of tobacco.

§ 2311.18 Tobacco Stocks and Standards Act. The Tobacco Stocks and Standards Act (7 U. S. C. 501–508) authorizes and directs the Secretary to obtain quarterly reports from dealers and manufacturers in the United States and Puerto Rico of their stocks of leaf tobacco. These reports are made on a form prescribed by the Secretary and are held confidential except that the information contained therein is authorized to be used in published form provided the identification of the dealer or manufacturer cannot be determined therefrom. The Statistical and Economic Services Division compiles the data supplied in these reports and publishes quarterly "Stocks of Leaf Tobacco in the Hands of Dealers and Manufacturers in the United States and Puerto Rico." The Division also publishes the "Annual Report on Tobacco Statistics," which contains pertinent statistical and factual information relating to the various phases of the tobacco industry.

2322.10 Commodity Exchange Act.
2322.11 Compliance and investigational activities.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

§ 2322.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, and consists of the Office of the Director, Accounting Investigations Division, Commodity Exchange Supervision Division, Cost Investigations Division, and General Investigations Division. The Director, in his capacity as Administrator of the Commodity Exchange Act, and the officers and employees designated by him to perform duties in connection with the administration of the act, comprise the Commodity Exchange Authority.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs, and supervises the execution of the policies, programs, and activities of the Production and Marketing Administration assigned to the Branch. The Director has final authority to issue calls and requests for information in connection with the administration of the Commodity Exchange Act, as provided in regulations promulgated thereunder (17 CFR, Parts 1–11).

(c) Divisions. The divisions are as follows:

(1) Accounting Investigations Division. Plans, directs, and conducts audits of books and records (i) in connection with alleged or apparent violations of War Food Orders; (ii) of contractors and other vendors, other than fiscal audits incident to the disbursement of Federal funds; (iii) of food processors for the purpose of determining eligibility for, or fraud in connection with, payments made or to be made under subsidy programs; and (iv) of futures commission merchants to assure proper segregation of customers' funds and of futures commission merchants, floor brokers, and traders to assure compliance with reporting requirements, position and trading limits, and with other requirements of the Commodity Exchange Act and the regulations thereunder.

(2) Commodity Exchange Supervision Division. Performs general operating functions incident to the administration of the Commodity Exchange Act and the rules and regulations issued pursuant thereto (17 CFR Parts 1–11).

(3) Cost Investigations Division. Examines books and records of Government contractors and other processors and manufacturers to obtain cost data and determine factors affecting costs and profits; conducts general analytical and interpretative surveys of manufacturers' operating and accounting data and vendors' reports; and analyzes Government contractors' statements with respect to contracts involving modification, renegotiation, and termination, and conducts cost investigations in connection therewith.

(4) General Investigations Division. With respect to the functions of the Production and Marketing Administration relating to War Food Orders, procurement, sales, subsidy, price support, school lunch, surplus property disposal, crop insurance, agricultural adjustment and conservation, and regulatory programs: Receives, analyzes, and evaluates complaints and assigns apparent violations for investigation; plans and directs compliance surveys and spot checks to determine character and extent of compliance with orders and regulations; and conducts investigations of alleged or apparent violations incident to the operation of Production and Marketing Administration programs.

§ 2322.2 Field offices—(a) Compliance field offices. Offices are located at 261 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York; 5 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois; 1013 Glenn Building, Atlanta, Georgia; 200 Southland Life Annex, Dallas, Texas; and 461 Market Street, San Francisco, California. Under the general direction of the Director, these field offices direct, coordinate, and conduct all compliance and investigational activities of the Branch within the respective field-office areas.

(b) Commodity Exchange Authority field offices. Offices are located at 602 New York Cotton Exchange Building, New York, New York; 1200 Chicago Board of Trade Building, Chicago, Illinois; 854 Board of Trade Building, Kansas City, Missouri; 510 Chamber of Commerce Building, Minneapolis, Minnesota; and 306 New Orleans Cotton Exchange Building, New Orleans, Louisiana. Under the general direction of the Director, these field offices direct, coordinate, and conduct all activities of the Branch incident to the administration of the Commodity Exchange Act within the respective field-office areas.

§ 2322.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or desiring to make submittals or requests with respect to the programs and functions of the Branch should address: The Director, Compliance and Investigation Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch are available for examination subject to the restrictions set forth in the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 2100).

§ 2322.10 Commodity Exchange Act. (a) The basic objective of the Commodity Exchange Act (7 U. S. C. 1–17a) is to protect and facilitate commerce in commodities designated by the act that are the subject of transactions involving the sale thereof on boards of trade (commodity exchanges) for future delivery and known as "futures." These commodities are: wheat, cotton, rice, corn, oats, barley, rye, flaxseed, grain sorghums, millfeeds, butter, eggs, Irish potatoes, wool tops, fats and oils (including lard, tallow, cottonseed oil, peanut oil, soybean oil and all other fats and oils), cottonseed meal, cottonseed, peanuts, soybeans, and soybean meal.

(b) The functions and procedures of the branch under this statute are designed to prevent price manipulation and corners on commodity exchanges; prevent dissemination of false and misleading crop and market information to influence prices; protect hedgers and other users of the commodity futures markets against cheating, fraud, and manipulative practices; insure the benefits of membership privileges on contract markets to cooperative associations of producers; insure trust-fund treatment of margin moneys and equities of hedgers and other traders and prevent the misuse of such funds by brokers; and provide information to the public regarding trading operations on contract markets.

(c) The branch receives and considers applications of commodity exchanges for designation as contract markets preliminary to final decision by the Secretary. Applicants denied designation by the Secretary may appear to the Commodity Exchange Commission (7 U. S. C. 8). Inquiries concerning procedures to be followed by commodity exchanges in filing applications for designation as contract markets should be addressed to the Director.

(d) The Branch reviews rules of contract markets to determine conformity with statutory requirements; receives and considers applications for registration as futures commission merchants and as floor brokers, and prepares certificates of registration issued by the Secretary (7 U. S. C. 6f; 17 CFR, Parts 1.7–1.16). Application forms may be procured from the central office of the Branch or from any Commodity Exchange Authority field office.

(e) The Branch enforces limits on speculative transactions and commitments established by the Commodity Exchange Commission; reviews crop and market news and reports; analyzes cash-commodity transactions; cooperates with control committees of contract markets; observes floor trading; investigates alleged and apparent violations of the act; conducts special trade practice audits and surveys; investigates contract market delivery practices and procedures; audits books and records of futures commission merchants, floor brokers, and traders; analyzes futures commission merchants' financial statements; conducts analyses and appraisals of futures trading, cash-futures relationships, and price movements; and compiles and publishes reports and other informational material relating to operations on commodity exchanges.

(f) Substantive rules promulgated pursuant to the Commodity Exchange Act are set forth in parts 1 to 11, chapter I, title 17 of the Code of Federal Regulations. Procedural rules are published as part O, Chapter I, Title 17, CFR.

§ 2322.11 Compliance and investigational activities. With respect to War Food Order, procurement, sales, subsidy, price support, school lunch, crop insurance, surplus property disposal, agricultural adjustment and conservation, and regulatory programs administered by the Production and Marketing Administration, the Branch conducts investigations (including accounting investigations) of alleged or apparent violations; conducts audits of books and records of food processors and other claimants in connection with subsidy programs, and of war contractors and other vendors (other than fiscal audits incident to the disbursement of Federal funds); examines books and records of war contractors and other processors and manufacturers to obtain cost data and determine factors affecting costs and profits; conducts general analytical and interpretative surveys of manufacturers' operating and accounting data and vendors' reports; analyzes contractors' statements with respect to contracts involving modification, renegotiation, and termination, and conducts cost investigations incident thereto.

PART 2323—FEDERAL CROP INSURANCE CORPORATION

Sec.
2323.1 Central Office.
2323.2 Field offices.
2323.3 Availability of information and records.

SUBPART B—PRODUCTION AND PROCEDURES

2323.10 Federal crop insurances.

§ 2323.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, consisting of the Office of the Manager of the Corporation, Program Development Division, Underwriting Division, Finance Division, Sales Promotion Unit, and Loss Adjustment Unit.

(b) Manager. Under the general supervision of the Board of Directors (7 CFR 400) and the Administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration, and within established policies, the manager has final authority for the executive direction of the Corporation's programs and activities both in Washington and in the field. He determines or approves methods and procedures to be used, coordinates the activities of the Corporation with that of cooperating agencies and is responsible for commodity operations of the Corporation. In the office of the manager there are area directors who assist in the supervision of the field activities.

(c) Divisions and units. The divisions and units are as follows:

(1) Program Development Division. Develops plans for annual program changes on each commodity and plans for insurance on new commodities; develops insurance contracts and regulations, procedures for writing of insurance, determination of acreage and other contract terms, adjustment of losses and collection of premiums; makes economic and statistical analysis of the program and proposals for changes; develops and maintains current information on the volume of insurance.

(2) Underwriting division. Estimates the amount of risk to which the Corporation may be subjected for the amounts of insurance and other terms of the contract; develops the actuarial basis for the insurance and prepares the official actuarial tables; prepares procedures for field determination of the amount of insurance and premium rates for individual farms; gives technical assistance to state directors in connection with actuarial and underwriting phases of the crop insurance program in their states.

(3) Finance division. Plans and directs or performs the fiscal activities of the Corporation relative to receipt of premiums and payment of indemnities and for administrative funds and their expenditure. Plans and directs or performs the necessary accounting. Prepares financial reports.

(4) Sales promotion unit. Plans, coordinates, promotes and assists in sales and public informational activities.

(5) Loss adjustment unit. Plans, directs and coordinates loss adjustment work and reviews unusual claims for loss. Devises policies and procedures for selection and training of loss adjusters.

§ 2323.2 Field offices—(a) Branch offices. (1) The addresses of and States served by these offices are as follows:

1224 South 27th Place, Birmingham 5, Alabama (Florida, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina, Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware); New Post Office Building, Chicago 7, Illinois (North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut); Cooper Building, Denver 2, Colorado (Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, (Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Nebraska).

(2) Under the immediate supervision of the Manager these offices perform the audit and accounting functions relative to crop insurance contracts, receiving and maintaining files of the insurance contracts and related documents, receiving premiums and processing indemnity claims. Branch office managers have final authority to determine amount of premium due, approve indemnity claims and cancel or adjust debts (6 CFR, Part 01).

(b) State Crop Insurance directors. (1) These directors are located as follows and serve the state where located except where additional states are listed:

AAA Building, Auburn, Alabama, for Alabama and Florida; 415 First Street, S., Phoenix, Arizona; 108½ West 3rd Street, Little Rock, Arkansas; 2288 Fulton Street, Berkeley, California, for California and Nevada; 225 West Oak Street, Ft. Collins, Colorado, for Colorado and Wyoming; Old Post Office Building, Athens, Georgia; Room 317 Yates Building, 103 South 9th Street, Boise, Idaho; Second Floor Standard Building, 124 South Water Street, Decatur 12, Illinois; 105 South Meridian Street, Room 300 Big Four Building, Indianapolis 9, Indiana; 1101 Walnut Street, Des Moines 7, Iowa; 417–519 Humboldt Street, Manhattan, Kansas; Mill and Maxwell Streets, Lexington, Kentucky; P. (2) Under the immediate supervision of the office of the manager of the Corporation, the state crop insurance director reviews and accepts or rejects applications for crop insurance, supervises and reviews the adjustment of losses, provides information concerning crop insurance and in general represents the Corporation in the state. The state director is assisted by district supervisors who in turn supervise part-time adjusters. State directors have final authority to approve listing sheets and to accept or reject applications for insurance.

(c) Field work on crop insurance relative to establishing amounts of insurance per acre and premium rates for individual farms, sale of insurance, obtaining reports of insured acreage and collecting premiums is performed by the Field Service Branch (7 CFR Part 2324).

§ 2323.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information as to making submittals or requests with respect to crop insurance for a farm in any particular county should request such information from the county agricultural conservation committee of the Field Service Branch (7 CFR Part 2324). Other requests for information should be addressed to the state director for the particular state involved, or the Manager, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. Records of the Corporation, including those maintained in the field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 2100).

§ 2323.10 Federal Crop Insurance—(a) The Federal Crop Insurance Act (7 U. S. C. 1501–1519) authorizes the corporation to insure producers of wheat, cotton, and flax, against loss in yields due to unavoidable causes and for the purpose of determining the most practical plans, terms and conditions of insurance to insure on a trial basis any other agricultural commodity, if sufficient actuarial data are available as determined by the Board. Not more than three commodities may be added each year. Trial insurance for each commodity is limited to a period of three years and to 20 representative counties. Trial insurance is not limited to insurance against loss of yield but may be against loss of investment in the crop with the amount of insurance not to exceed 75 percent of the investment in the crop.

(b) Regulations governing the wheat, cotton, flax, corn and tobacco programs may be found as follows: Cotton (7 CFR Part 419), Flax (7 CFR Part 415), Corn (7 CFR Part 416), Tobacco (7 CFR Part 417), Wheat for contracts covering 1945, 1946, and 1947 (7 CFR Part 414), Wheat for contracts covering 1946, 1947, and 1948 (7 CFR Part 418), Wheat for contracts covering 1947, 1948, and 1949 (7 CFR Part 418).

§ 2324.1 Definitions—(a) State PMA offices. "State PMA offices" means the State offices of the Production and Marketing Administration.

(b) County ACA offices. "County ACA offices" means the county offices of the county Agricultural Conservation Associations.

(c) Regional office. "Regional office" means the offices of the Insular, East Central, North Central, Northeast, Southern, or Western Regions of the Field Service Branch located in Washington, D. C.

§ 2324.2 Central office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, consisting of the Office of the Director and six Regional offices.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs, and supervises the execution of the policies, programs, and activities of the Production and Marketing Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation assigned to the Branch, and serves as a member of the Board of Directors and executive of the Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. The Director has final authority to take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of programs authorized by sections 7 to 17, inclusive, of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended, (16 U. S. C. 590g–590q), subject to the limitations contained in said act and in the rules and regulations promulgated with respect thereto.

(c) Office of the Director. In addition to the administration of programs formulated under sections 7 to 17, inclusive, of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended, this office coordinates and integrates such programs and activities of all Branches of the Production and Marketing Administration as are assigned to the Field Service Branch, and cooperates with the Forest Service in carrying out the Naval Stores Conservation Program.

(d) Regional directors. Programs are administered through six Regional offices (which are parts of the central office), each of which is headed by a Regional Director who has general responsibility for carrying out such programs through the State PMA offices and county ACA offices within the region assigned to him. The names of the States, Territories, and Possessions assigned to each Region have been published (7 CFR Part 701, 702). Each of the six Regional offices plans, directs, and supervises within the Region the operation of conservation programs, performs services in connection with crop insurance programs and production goals, and plans, directs and supervises within the Region the operational phases of commodity loan, purchase, sales subsidy payments, marketing quota, and other programs as assigned.

§ 2324.3 Field Offices—(a) State PMA Offices. There is a State PMA office in each of the 48 States and an Area PMA office in Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

These offices are responsible for the execution of all programs of the Production and Marketing Administration which deal directly with farmers. In each State there is a PMA State Committee composed of not less than three and not more than five farmers, who are appointed by the Secretary, pursuant to section 8 of the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended. The State Director of the Agriculture Extension Service is ex officio a member of the State Committee. In adition to its responsibility under the Act for developing and recommending to the Branch the practices to be included in the Agricultural Conservation Program, the Committee determines policies to be followed in connection with PMA programs assigned to the State. The State Director of PMA is responsible for carrying out the policies so determined, and is responsible for the operations of the State PMA office. The addresses of the State PMA offices are as follows:

Alabama: Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn.
Arizona: 415 South First Street, Phoenix.
Arkansas: 108½ West 3rd Street, Little Rock.
California: 2288 Fulton Street, Berkeley.

Wyoming: Tip Top Building, 345 E. Second Street, Casper.
Alaska: University of Alaska, College.
Hawaii: 418 Dillingham Building, Honolulu.
Puerto Rico: LaCollectiva Building, San Juan.

(b) County Offices. Local administration of the programs of all Branches of the Production and Marketing Administration which deal directly with farmers is carried out through the county ACA offices. A county committee, elected annually by farmers in accordance with Articles of Association issued by the Secretary, is in charge of the county ACA office. The committee selects a Secretary, who may be the County Agent. If not selected as Secretary, the County Agent is ex-officio a member of the committee without vote. Copies of the Articles of Association may be obtained at any county ACA office. There is a county ACA office and county committee serving each agricultural county in the United States.

Because of their size and number of farms, the following counties are served by two county ACA offices and county committees:

Iowa: Pottawattamie.
Minnesota: Otter Tail, Polk, St. Louis.

Groups of counties where one county ACA office and one county committee serve more than one county are as follows:

Georgia: Camden and Charlton.
Illinois: Alexander and Pulaski, Hardin and Pope, Marshall and Putnam.
Michigan: Crawford and Otsego, Houghton and Keweenaw, Missaukee and Roscommon.
Nebraska: Arthur, Logan, and McPherson, Blaine, Grant, Hooker, and Thomas, Brown Keya Paha, and Rock, Garfield, Loup, and Wheeler.
South Dakota: Brule and Buffalo, Hughes and Stanley, Jackson and Washabaugh, Ziebach and Armstrong.
Virginia: Arlington and Fairfax.

Most county ACA offices are located at the county seat; however, the exact address of any office may be obtained from the State PMA office for the State in which the county is located.

§ 2324.4 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information with respect to the applicability of the several programs administered by the Branch to a particular farm or ranch should contact the county ACA office for the county in which the farm or ranch is located. Likewise, submittals or requests should be addressed to such county ACA office. General information concerning the programs and functions of the Branch may be obtained from county ACA offices, State PMA offices, Regional offices, or the Director, Field Service Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 2100).

§ 2324.11 Agricultural conservation program—(a) Authority. The Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, as amended (16 U. S. C. 590g to 590q), authorizes payments to farmers for carrying out on their farms soil-building and soil and water conservation practices. These programs are known as the Agricultural Conservation Programs.

(b) Regulations and procedures. The regulations for these programs are issued annually by the Secretary (7 CFR Parts 701, 702). Regional, State, and county bulletins, based upon the Secretary's regulations and adapting the programs to local needs are also issued annually, and copies may be obtained from State PMA or county ACA offices.

(c) Method of making payments. (1) In most States farmers must sign a farm plan indicating their intention to participate in the program and obtain prior approval for the practices they wish to perform if they expect partial reimbursement from the Government.

(2) After practices are carried out, farmers report the extent of practices performed to the local community committeeman or the local county ACA office, which is responsible for checking the practices performed to determine whether they have been carried out in accordance with approved specifications.

(3) Applications for payment are prepared on the basis of the performance report and must be signed by each person on the farm who claims payment for practices, and by a member of the county ACA committee on behalf of the committee. The application is computed to determine the amount of payment due each applicant by the county ACA office or the State PMA office, is audited by the General Accounting Preaudit Office; scheduled and certified for payment by the State PMA office, and payment thereon is issued by the Regional Disbursing Office serving the area. Checks are mailed directly to applicants by the Disbursing Office.

(d) Closing Dates. Prescribed closing dates are established and published for filing farm plans, performance reports, and applications for payment, to assist in keeping within appropriated funds. These dates may be obtained from county ACA or State PMA offices.

(e) Practice Specifications. Practices must meet prescribed specifications to qualify for payment. These are published in State or county bulletins and may be obtained from county ACA or State PMA offices.

(f) Rates of Payment. Rates for practices are published in State or county bulletins. These are available in county ACA and State PMA offices.

(g) Death, Incompetency or Disappearance. In case of death, incompetency, or disappearance of any producer, his share of the payment is paid to his successor, determined in accordance with provisions of ACP-122 (7 CFR Part 716).

(h) Conservation Materials and Services. Conservation materials and services are furnished to farmers to assist them in carrying out approved practices. Deductions for these materials and services are made from the payments earned at rates prescribed by the Field Service Branch. The farmer is required to pay a portion of the cost of such materials and services in advance, since the payment offered by the Government for practices covers only a portion of the cost. It is the policy of the Government to furnish materials and services for this purpose through regular trade channels where possible under the purchase order plan. Rules for determining fair prices under the purchase order plan are issued by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 734). Information in respect to the kinds of material and type of services available, the applicable deduction and credit rates therefor, and the conditions under which they are furnished, may be obtained from the county ACA or State PMA office.

(i) Assignments. Payment may be assigned as security for cash loaned or advance made for the purpose of financing the making of a crop. The assignment must be made on a prescribed form (ACP-69) and must be prepared and filed in accordance with instructions (ACP-70) in order to be valid. These forms and instructions are on file with county ACA and State PMA offices.

(j) Signatures and Authorizations. Required forms must be signed in accordance with prescribed instructions (ACP-16). Copies of these instructions are on file with county ACA and State PMA offices.

(k) Set-offs. Set-offs from payments for debts to the U. S. Government are authorized by the Secretary of Agriculture. Copies of the Secretary's order are on file with county ACA and State PMA offices.

(l) Appeals and Claims. Appeals from decisions affecting the right to payment or claims for additional payment may be filed with the county ACA offices. Successive appeals may be made to the State PMA office and the Director of the appropriate regional office within 15 days following decisions. The decision of the Director of the Regional office is final.

§ 2324.12 Other programs. County ACA and State PMA offices make recommendations through the Field Service Branch to the other Branches of the Production and Marketing Administration with respect to the provisions, operations, and effects of all programs of the Administration which deal directly with farmers. They are also responsible for carrying out these programs in accordance with the Secretary's regulations and instructions issued by the appropriate Branches. These programs include those relating to (1) marketing quotas; (2) Federal crop insurance; (3) commodity loans (where loans are made to farmers); (4) price support purchases (where purchases are made from farmers); (5) subsidies (where payments are made directly to the farmers); (6) sugar payments under the Sugar Act of 1937; (7) food distribution (school lunch, direct distribution of surplus crops, industrial feeding, abundant foods, distributive trades, and fat salvage); and (8) materials and equipment (farm construction, farm supplies, and equipment). Information on participation in any of these programs is available at county ACA offices.

§ 2324.13 Aerial photographs—(a) Authority. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1337), the Field Service Branch furnishes reproductions of aerial or other photographs, mosiacs, and maps, as have been obtained in connection with its authorized work at the estimated cost of furnishing the reproductions.

(b) To whom furnished. Reproductions may be furnished to agencies of the Federal Government; State, county, municipal, or other non-Federal governmental agencies; farmers; corporations; or other persons.

(c) Conditions. Photographs will not be furnished to (1) purchasers outside the United States; (2) purchasers that intend to use them in suits against the United States Government, unless approval is obtained from the Solicitor of the Department of Agriculture; (3) purchasers other than Federal agencies if the photographs cover classified areas and approval of the War or Navy Departments is not secured, and (4) purchasers who intend to use the photographs for advertising, or otherwise to indicate directly or by implication that the Department endorses any commercial product. Photographs made from materials of other Federal agencies will not be furnished without their approval.

(d) Terms of sale. Standard Form 1080 is used in securing collections from Federal agencies. Collections in advance will not be required from non-Federal agencies where legislative requirements prohibit advance payment by the ordering agencies. All other collections are made prior to delivery of the materials.

(e) Obtaining aerial photographic reproductions. Prices and other information regarding aerial photographs will be furnished upon request by county ACA or State PMA offices. Orders for photographs of any areas in the following States should be addressed to Western Aerial Photographic Laboratory, Field Service Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture, 145 Motor Avenue, Salt Lake City, Utah: Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, North Dakota, and Kansas. 2326.11 Direct distribution of agricultural commodities and other foods.
2326.12 Food preservation.
2326.13 Industrial feeding.
2326.14 Cooperative programs with distributive trades groups.

§ 2326.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, consisting of the Office of the Director, the School Lunch Division, the Direct Distribution and Food Preservation Division, the Distributive Trades Division, the Industrial Feeding Division, and the Program Planning and Analysis Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs, and supervises the execution of the policies, programs, and activities of the Production and Marketing Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation assigned to the Branch, and serves as a Contracting Officer and executive of the Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. The Director has final authority to:

(1) Enter into contracts by and on behalf of the Commodity Credit Corporation, in accordance with the bylaws of the Corporation carried out by the Branch.

(2) Settle and adjust claims by and against the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible, within the limitations established by the Corporation (6 CFR, Part 200 et seq.).

(3) Enter into agreements with State Educational Agencies and non-profit private schools pursuant to the National School Lunch Act, approved June 4, 1946 (Pub. L. 396, 79th Cong., 2d Sess.).

(4) Enter into agreements with public and non-profit private schools and institutions for the distribution of agricultural commodities purchased pursuant to section 32 of the Act of August 24, 1935, as amended.

(c) Office of the Director. Coordinates activities of various agencies affecting the supply of foodstuffs produced or consumed at home; maintains liaison with public and private agencies in order to obtain participation in this program both in urban and rural areas, and cooperates with National, State, and local officials in developing and conducting studies and educational programs on nutrition.

(d) The divisions. The divisions and their functions are as follows:

(1) School lunch division. Plans, directs, and supervises the School Lunch Program pursuant to the National School Lunch Act, approved June 4, 1946 (Pub. L. 396, 79th Cong., 2d Sess.).

(2) Direct distribution and food preservation division. Plans, directs, and supervises operation of the direct distribution and food preservation programs approved by the Secretary and the Board of Directors of the Commodity Credit Corporation, as the case may be, and administers such programs as may be authorized by them.

(3) Distributive trades division. Plans, directs, and supervises cooperative programs with distributive trade groups in meeting distribution problems which may be interfering with wider marketing of agricultural commodities.

(4) Industrial feeding division. Plans and directs, in cooperation with industry, labor, and Governmental agencies, programs to encourage the extension of the practice of industrial feeding, to improve the nutritional status of workers and their families, and to achieve the maximum consumption of abundant and surplus foods by industrial food services.

(5) Program planning and analysis division. Analyzes general policies and programs of food production and distribution and recommends the adoption of policies and programs designed to give maximum encouragement to domestic food consumption; formulates domestic food distribution programs, and conducts studies of methods of operation and economic effects of such programs.

§ 2326.2 Field Offices—(a) State PMA Offices. This Branch maintains no field offices but utilizes the services of State PMA offices described by the Field Service Branch (7 CFR Part 2324) in carrying out its programs in the field. The State PMA Directors have authority to enter into agreements, pursuant to instructions of the Director of the Food Distribution Programs Branch, with State educational agencies in connection with the School Lunch Program and with public and non-profit private institutions and schools with respect to the distribution of agricultural commodities.

(b) Technical Specialists. This Branch maintains technical specialists at the following locations:

449 West Peachtree Street, Atlanta 3, Georgia; 5 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago 3, Illinois; 321 Market Street, San Francisco 3, California; 539 U. S. Terminal Annex Building, Dallas 1, Texas; 641 Washington Street, New York 14, New York. Under the general supervision of the Direct Distribution and Food Preservation Division, these specialists assist state officials and others in planning and developing food preservation programs and, through workshops, in training food preservation center supervisors and workers. They also provide technical information and service in regard to equipment needs, plant layout, plant operation and management, and food processing techniques.

§ 2326.3 Public information, submittals, and requests. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests with respect to the programs and functions of the Branch should address:

The Director, Food Distribution Programs Branch Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., or the PMA office in the State wherein he resides.

The records of the Branch, including those maintained in field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 2100).

§ 2326.10 National school lunch program. The National School Lunch Act, approved June 4, 1946 (Pub. L. 396, 79th Cong., 2d Sess.) provides for a National School Lunch Program to be carried out in cooperation with the State educational agencies and non-profit private schools. Under authority of the Secretary, this program is formulated and administered in this Branch. The funds appropriated for this program for each fiscal year are apportioned by the Secretary pursuant to the formula set forth in the Act which takes into consideration the number of school children in the State and the need for assistance in the State as indicated by the relation of the per capita income in the United States to the per capita income in the State. In the case of a State wherein the State educational agency is not permitted to disburse funds paid to it under the National School Lunch Act to nonprofit private schools, or is not permitted to match Federal funds made available for use by such non-profit private schools, the Department disburses funds directly to such non-profit private schools in accordance with the Act. Agreements are entered into by the Department with State educational agencies (Form FDM-5, SL-4) and with non-profit private schools in States where the State agency cannot enter into agreements with such schools (Form FP-2). State PMA offices of the Field Service Branch have authority to execute such agreements. However, if any departures are to be made from the forms in connection with a particular State educational agency or a non-profit private school, the State PMA office is authorized to enter into all negotiations with the State educational agency or the non-profit private school with respect to the execution of the agreement but the agreement with the changes to be made must be submitted by the State PMA office to the Director for approval on behalf of the Department. Upon the certification by the Secretary to the Secretary of the Treasury of the amount to be paid to the State and the time when such amount is to be paid the Secretary of the Treasury will pay the State, at the time fixed by the Secretary, the amount so certified. In the case of funds withheld for payment to non-profit private schools under the circumstances mentioned above, the Department shall disburse the funds so withheld directly to such non-profit private schools in accordance with the act.

§ 2326.11 Direct distribution of agricultural commodities and other foods. From time to time supplies of agricultural commodities in abundance and other foods are distributed to public and non-profit private schools participating in the National School Lunch Program and to other public and non-profit private schools and institutions. The Direct Distribution and Food Preservation Division of this Branch determines which agencies are eligible to receive and distribute available agricultural commodities and other foods and the conditions under which such commodities may be donated; and agreements are entered into with such eligible agencies on Form FP-51 by State PMA offices of the Field Service Branch. Copies of these forms may be obtained by writing to the State PMA office or to the Director. From time to time, the Direct Distribution and Food Preservation Division makes allocation of commodities available to these distributing agencies, and notification thereof is given on Form FD-305 through the State PMA office to the distributing agency.

§ 2326.13 Industrial feeding. The Industrial Feeding Division of the Branch furnishes upon the request of interested parties, informational material designed to assist plant management in the operation of industrial food services; encourages the maximum consumption of abundant and surplus foods by industrial food services for industrial workers and their families; determines nutritional requirements of industrial workers; develops standards for food preparation and service in industrial feeding establishments; prepares menu-planning guides, recipes, and similar materials; renders assistance on food supply problems; advises on training of food service personnel; assists industrial plant management with feeding facilities and equipment problems; prepares basic layouts and facilities and equipment standards for food services; consults on types of equipment to meet sanitation standards; and cooperates on disposal of surplus food service equipment. Anyone desiring to secure these services should apply to the State PMA office of the Field Service Branch or to the Director.

§ 2326.14 Cooperative programs with distributive trades groups. The Distributive Trades Division of the Branch conducts programs to alleviate conditions arising from an unbalanced supply and demand situation. In order to accomplish this, the Division establishes liaison with the distributive trades in meeting distribution problems which may be interfering with wider marketing of agricultural commodities; establishes and serves local and national food distribution advisory committees; encourages the distribution of abundant or surplus commodities through normal channels of trade, and plans, directs, and supervises the operation of special merchandising programs for such commodities; alleviates the effects of maldistribution of available supplies on specific communities or trading areas; assists vulnerable groups in obtaining minimum requirements of essential foods in periods of short supply; and provides assistance to veterans engaged in processing and distributing foodstuffs in obtaining minimum quantities of scarce foods.

2327.10 Farm labor supply program.
2327.11 Wage stabilization.

§ 2327.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in Temporary Building, 20th Street and East Capitol Avenue, consisting of the Office of the Director, Program Division, Operations Division, Health Services Division, and Wage Stabilization Division.

(b) The Director. (1) The Director of the Branch, aided by two Assistant Directors, has general administrative supervision and control over all of the work of the Production and Marketing Administration which is generally concerned with the recruitment of foreign agricultural workers and the transporting, housing, and supplying of medical care to these workers, together with the housing of domestic migratory workers in camps operated by the Labor Branch. The Branch's work also consists of advising and assisting the Administrator and his staff on the labor, manpower, and wage stabilization programs of the PMA and in the general supervision of the agricultural wage stabilization program of the Secretary in accordance with the following statute and regulations: Supply and Distribution of Farm Labor, Public Law 229, 78th Congress (58 Stat. 11) (8 F. R. 11960, 8 F. R. 16702, 9 F. R. 6035, 11 F. R. 2517).

(2) The Director collaborates in negotiating contracts with foreign governments relative to the importation of foreign agricultural workers and in collaboration with the commodity branches, collects and presents information concerning the interests of the Administration and the Department in assuring that food processing, storing and distribution activities are not interrupted.

(3) In connection with the Wage Stabilization program the Director has final authority to:

(i) Establish State USDA Wage Boards.

(ii) Establish Specific Agricultural Wage Ceilings.

(iii) Determine whether or not salary or wage payments have been made in contravention of the act, impose sanctions, and certify the amount determined to any executive department or other agency of the Federal Government.

(iv) Issue interpretations of the definition of Agricultural labor when necessary to clarify jurisdiction between the Department of Agriculture and other governmental agencies.

(v) Determine and promulgate weekly, hourly, daily or piece-work rates equivalent to $2,400 per annum for specific areas or crops.

(vi) Approve or disapprove applications for wage or salary increases or decreases in conformity with the applicable regulations.

(vii) Redelegate any delegated final authorities relative to wage stabilization to State USDA Wage Boards.

(4) The Director of Labor has final authority to determine and pay claims of workers recruited in foreign countries submitted pursuant to section 3 (a) 4, title 1, Public Law 229, 78th Congress.

The work is carried on through four separate divisions in the central office and five divisional operations offices, and through State USDA wage boards, all being directly responsible to the Director of the Branch.

(c) The Divisions. The Divisions in the central office are as follows:

(1) Program Division. Coordinates the development and planning of programs for meeting farm labor and allied problems of P. M. A. Analyzes all certifications of need for foreign workers received from State extension directors and other pertinent data from the field; rejects the certifications or makes an allotment of laborers, specifying the source of workers and the condition of employment.

(2) Operations Division. Is responsible for the execution of a program to recruit foreign workers for importation to areas with domestic worker shortages. Obtains railroad, boat, or other transportation facilities to transport agricultural workers from their country of origin to destinations in the United States, between assignments in this country, and ultimately to their country of origin, including the provision of necessary meals in transit. Develops programs to provide shelter, feeding, and necessary community services for agricultural workers. Directs negotiations with imported workers and growers contracting for workers in order that agreements may be executed outlining fully the responsibilities of all parties. Develops, and technically supervises the application of procedures governing contract performance in workers agreements and growers contracts. Plans and formulates the activities of field offices concerning the maintenance and repair of farm labor supply center facilities, also the preparation of specifications, and contracts in connection therewith.

(3) Health Services Division. Develops and recommends medical care programs for the examination and treatment of eligible agricultural workers. Arranges for medical examinations on recruitment of foreign workers. Develops policies for the conduct of a dental program and the organization of dental clinics and the provision of dental services on a referral basis. Plans and develops procedures for the provision of nursing services and supervises the establishment of nurses clinics for preventive services and field and home nursing services. Develops sanitation standards for the maintenance and operation of farm labor supply centers. Develops policies and operating procedures governing the activities of agricultural workers health associations under contract with the Branch to provide medical care to agricultural workers. Collaborates with Federal, State and other agencies engaged in health, safety and sanitation activities, enlisting their cooperation on behalf of agricultural workers under the program.

(4) Wage Stabilization Division. Develops programs and procedures to stabilize agricultural salaries and wages, including the establishment of specific ceiling rates in accordance with Directives of the Office of Economic Stabilization. Directs activities of state wage boards in approving wage increases and analyzes individual requests for agricultural wage and salary increases where authority has not been delegated to wage boards and takes appropriate action. Directs activities of state wage boards in obtaining compliance with beard determinations; requests investigation of indicated cases of noncompliance; certifies economic sanctions growing out of violations to other agencies and refers violations to appropriate governmental agencies for action.

Northeastern Division, 1005 Market Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania: Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Vermont, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Connecticut.

C. The records of the Branch are available for examination (7 CFR, Part 2100).

§2327.10 Farm labor supply program. Public Law 229, 78th Congress (53 Stat. 11), as amended and extended, provides for the Secretary to assist in providing an adequate supply of workers for the cultivation, harvesting and preparation for markets of agricultural commodities essential to the orderly transition from war to peace. The Director, operating through Chiefs of Divisions in the Central office and through Chiefs of Divisional Operations offices, recruits foreign workers from countries of the western hemisphere; transports them to areas of need as certified by the Directors of the several State Extension Services; provides, where necessary, shelter for foreign workers and for migratory domestic workers in camps operated for that purpose; provides necessary health and medical service for foreign agricultural workers imported under the program and to domestic migratory agricultural workers and their families housed in camps operated by the Labor Branch, or who have entered the area serviced by any such labor supply centers and to whom adequate health and medical services are not otherwise available. In order to carry out these responsibilities, the Director of the Labor Branch executes agreements with foreign governments setting forth the conditions under which agricultural workers may be recruited; enters into agreements with the workers covering the conditions under which they are transported to the United States for employment; enters into agreements with employers covering the employment of foreign agricultural workers and setting forth the terms under which such workers are employed; and enters into agreements with agricultural workers' health associations whereby the health associations provide medical care to agricultural workers within the limitations of the Act. The delegated authority of the Director to enter into agreements with agricultural workers and to execute agreements with employers is redelegated to the Division Chiefs of Operations with authority for them to redelegate to other employees in the Labor Branch. Under the Act, the authority to place transported agricultural wrokers is vested exclusively in the Agricultural Extension Services of the Land Grant Colleges. The Labor Branch supplies workers only upon certification of need from the State Extension Directors to the Labor Branch, which then enters into agreements for the employment of such workers with employers specified by the Agricultural Extension Services. The Act provides that when authorized by the Secretary, workers under the program may be used in the packing, canning, freezing, drying, and other processing of perishable or seasonable agricultural commodities. Workers are placed in such occupations only upon certification of need from the Agricultural Extension Services.

The Director has entered into agreements with the Land Grant Colleges in the States of New York, Maine, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut, Delaware, Ohio, and South Dakota to carry out portions of the foreign labor program delegated to him by the Secretary.

§ 2327.11 Wage stabilization. The function of the program is to stabilize wages and salaries of agricultural labor as a means of controlling inflationary tendencies affecting the cost of living. Under authority of Regulations of the Economic Stabilization Director (8 F. R. 11960, 8 F. R. 16702, 9 F. R. 6035, 11 F. R. 2517), based on the Stabilization Act of 1942 (Public Law No. 729, 77th Congress, 2nd Sess.), as amended and extended, the Secretary of Agriculture has jurisdiction to stabilize wages of agricultural labor and salaries of agricultural laborers which do not exceed $5,000 per annum. Employers of agricultural labor may increase salaries and wages up to $2,400 per annum, $200 per month, or the equivalent weekly, hourly, or piece-work rate without approval unless a specific wage ceiling order setting a different maximum rate has been promulgated. Employers of agricultural labor may not decrease salary or wage rates below the highest rates paid for the particular work between January 1, 1942 and September 15, 1942 without approval. Application for approval of adjustments above rates promulgated in specific ceiling orders shall be made to the State USDA Wage Board in the State to which the order applies. These applications should be made on form LR–1701–2 which may be secured from the State Wage Boards. Application for approval to increase payments above the equivalent of $2,400 per annum or to decrease payments below the rates paid between January 1, 1942, and September 15, 1942, shall be made to State USDA Wage Boards in the States of California, Idaho, Oregon, Texas and Washington. For all other states such application shall be made to the Director, Labor Branch. Such applications may be made by letter or on Form LR–1701–1 which may be secured from the Director or the Wage Boards. If application is by letter the rates paid in 1941, 1943 and present and proposed rates should be indicated and the reasons for the proposed increase or decrease. The burden of justifying the proposed changes rests on the applicant. (10 F. R. 7609, 10 F. R. 3177, 10 F. R. 9581, 11 F. R. 5903.

§ 2328.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington 25, D. C., in the Agriculture Administration Building.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs, and supervises the execution of the policies, programs, and activities of the Production and Marketing Administration assigned to the Branch. The Director has final authority to:

(1) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of War Food Orders assigned to the Branch, that have been approved by the Secretary under Title III of the Second War Powers Act (56 Stat. 177), except with respect to the determination of appeals, to the Assistant Administrators. (7 CFR 2301.1 (b) (2) (i)).

(2) Take all action necessary or appropriate in the administration of the U. S. Warehouse Act (7 U. S. C. 241) and the 28-Hour Law (45 U. S. C. 71–76), subject to limitations contained in said Acts and in rules and regulations promulgated with respect thereto (7 CFR, Parts 101–114, 151).

(c) Functions of the Divisions. The Divisions and their functions are as follows:

(1) Transportation Rates and Services Division. Protects the interests of farmers and the Department in matters involving rates, charges, tariffs, and practices relating to the transportation of farm products and departmental shipments by rail, motor carrier, water carrier and air, and cooperates with various other Government agencies and farm organizations in the solution of their transportation problems.

(2) Market Organization and Facilities Division. Investigates and studies the marketing of agricultural products, the supply and demand of storage space, including refrigerated storage space, storage methods used for agricultural and food products, and administers War Food Order 111 relating to the storage of food.

(3) Transportation Facilities Division. Collects and assembles data, develops and promotes plans for conserving transportation facilities, in which connection it assists Office of Defense Transportation and other governmental agencies in the compilation of transportation priority lists, and advises on prospective transportation requirements of agricultural products.

(4) Warehouse Supervision Division. Administers regulations pertaining to the Federal inspection and operation of warehouses, and the licensing of warehousemen, inspectors, graders, weighers, and samplers of agricultural products, under the U. S. Warehouse Act. The Chief of this Division has final authority to grant licenses, under the facsimile signature of the Secretary, to warehousemen, inspectors, graders, weighers, and samplers; to cancel or suspend the licenses of warehousemen, inspectors, graders, weighers, and samplers where such cancellation or suspension does not involve disciplinary action, to approve warehousemen's bonds and increases in the amounts of such bonds and extensions thereof, and to approve increases in the capacities of warehouses.

(c) Administrative office for War Food Order 111, 956 Washington Street, New York City, New York. This office handles the administration of War Food Order 111, subject to the direction and supervision of the Order Administrator.

§ 2328.3 Availability of information and records. Any person may obtain information from and make submittals and requests to the officer in charge of the various field stations listed above as to the work performed by each station. All other requests and submittals should be addressed to: The Director, Marketing Facilities Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the field offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designations of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR, Part 2100).

§ 2328.20 Transportation rates on agricultural commodities. The Branch studies rates, charges, tariffs and practices relating to the transportation of agricultural commodities, animals and animal products, and supplies by rail, motor carrier, water carrier, and air, and appears, on behalf of farmers, farm cooperatives, and in the public interest before carrier adjustment committees, and formally before the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Maritime Commission, Civil Aeronautics Board, and State Public Utility Commissions as a party in administrative proceedings to secure just and reasonable freight rates on such traffic, and represents agricultural interests before such bodies in connection with transit arrangements, abandonment of facilities and related services. Appearances before such agencies are governed by rules of practice promulgated by the agency before which appearance is made. Farmers and other agricultural interests desiring the assistance of the Department of Agriculture in making complaints to such agencies with respect to rates, charges, tariffs, and practices, and operations relating to the transportation of farm products should address such complaints to the Director, as indicated in § 2328.3.

§ 2328.21 Warehouses. The Branch administers the United States Warehouse Act (7 U. S. C. 241–273) and the regulations of the Secretary issued pursuant thereto (7 CFR, Parts 101–114 and 151). The procedure for securing licenses under the Warehouse Act and for the suspension or revocation of such licenses is set out in said regulations. The Branch also cooperates with the warehousing trade, and State and Federal agencies in developing and promoting sound and improved warehousing methods and financial structures.

§ 2328.22 Twenty-eight hour law enforcement. The Branch investigates and reports violations of the so-called 28-Hour Law (45 U. S. C. 71-76), which provides that animals shipped in interstate commerce shall not be confined for more than 28 hours without unloading for rest, watering and feeding. Complaints of violations of this act should be reported to the Director. If the investigation and the collected evidence discloses a violation, the Chief of the Transportation Rates and Services Division refers the matter to the Solicitor's Office for review and further action.

§ 2328.23 Research. The Branch makes studies and investigations relating to all aspects of the marketing, transporting, and storage of agricultural commodities in order to acquire and diffuse useful information to the public (7 U. S. C. 612c and Annual Department Appropriation for "Marketing Farm Products"). The information so obtained is disseminated through the Director's office and other agencies within the Department of Agriculture.

§ 2328.24 War Food Order. The Branch administers War Food Order No. 111 (9 F. R. 10762) relating to the storage of foods and perishable items in refrigerated storage. The procedures and methods of operation are set out in said order.

§ 2329.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal Office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, consisting of the Office of the Director, Surplus Property Division, Agriculture Equipment and Supplies Division, Containers and Packaging Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, coordinates, directs and executes the policies, programs and activities of the Production and Marketing Administration assigned to it. The Director has final authority to:

(1) Decide appeals relating to issuance of certificates to veterans for preference in the purchase of farm machinery and to grant relief to farm implement dealers and other persons in hardship cases (7 CFR, Part 1202).

(2) Hear and determine appeals by manufacturers and users of food containers (32 CFR, Part 3270).

(3) Approve applications for nondwelling farm construction where expenditures will exceed $50,000, and for farm dwelling applications where expenditure will exceed $10,000 for a single family structure or $17,000 for a two-family structure, and decide appeals on applications for all farm construction (32 CFR, Parts 903.155, 903.156; 24 CFR, Part 705).

(c) Office of the Director. This office coordinates work of the Department relating to materials and equipment required to grow, harvest and process agricultural commodities, and, in connection therewith, maintains liaison with the Civilian Production Administration, Veterans' Administration, War Assets Administration, disposal and owning agencies, other Government agencies, members of agricultural and related industries and farm organizations. The administrative Management Section plans and carries out administrative policies and procedures essential to Branch operations through determining requirements and recommending appropriate action to be taken on organization, budgetary, personnel, fiscal and other management services.

(1) Surplus Property Division. In cooperation with disposal agencies, formulates policies, procedures and rules to assure farmers and farmers cooperative associations equal opportunity with others to purchase surplus property; develops, coordinates and administers programs for the sale of surplus property in the field; develops and administers programs for emergency sales and distribution of trucks, machinery and equipment necessary to prevent impairment or threatened impairment of farm production; conducts investigations to determine availability of equipment and requests owning agencies to declare, as surplus, equipment needed by farmers, farmers cooperative associations and allied agricultural industries; promotes the production of needed agricultural machinery, equipment and supplies by assisting manufacturers and suppliers of these items in securing necessary surplus machine tools and materials; and assists in obtaining surplus equipment for the determination of alternate uses of surplus property by agriculture and agricultural industries.

(2) Agricultural Equipment and Supplies Division. Determines and directs formulation of requirements for farm equipment and supplies, food processing machinery, equipment and facilities, packaging machinery, chemicals and fertilizers necessary to accomplish the food production goals of the Department, and present claims for priorities on such requirements in the Civilian Production Administration; develops programs for and administers allocations, authorizations, limitations, rationing and issuance of priorities for agricultural materials, equipment and supplies whenever these functions are delegated to the Department by the Civilian Production Administration, War Assets Administration and other Government agencies, recommends to the Civilian Production Administration action to be taken on requests for priorities assistance, and advises and aids applicants and the Civilian Production Administration in connection with priorities; formulates policies and administers the granting of preference to veterans for the purchase of farm machinery, reviews appeals on applications for such preferences; administers the issuance of permits for construction of farm dwellings and other farm construction.

(3) Containers and Packaging Division. In cooperation with the Civilian Production Administration, formulates and administers programs for the production, distribution and use of all types of containers, closures, packaging materials, agricultural textiles, cordage and related materials for the food production and distribution programs of the Department; and determines the agricultural requirements and specifications of all critical materials needed for containers, packaging, closures, textiles and cordage; develops programs for and administers allocations, authorizations, limitations, rationing and issuance of priorities for agricultural containers, closures, packaging, textiles and cordage whenever these functions are delegated to the Department by the Civilian Production Administration, recommends to the Civilian Production Administration action to be taken on requests for priority assistance, advises and aids applicants and the Civilian Production Administration in connection with priorities; and formulates policies and administers orders under which the use of tinplate for food containers is limited, and reviews appeals arising under such orders.

§ 2329.10 Veterans preference for farm machinery and equipment. War Food Order 135 (7 CFR Part 1202) provides priority assistance in the purchase of farm machinery and equipment by World War II veterans who wish to establish or re-establish themselves in farming. The order contains the conditions under which certificates are issued, the applicable procedures, and the method by which appeal may be taken from action on applications by the field offices of the Field Service Branch (7 CFR, Part 2324).

§ 2329.11 Farm construction program. Under authority delegated to the Department by the Civilian Production Administration (32 CFR 903.155, 903.156) and the National Housing Administration (24 CFR, Part 705), permits are issued to farmers for construction of farm dwellings and other farm buildings. Applications for such permits are filed with the county agricultural conservation committees of the Field Service Branch (7 CFR, Part 2324). The forms on which application is made are CPA–4386 and FC–1 for farm dwellings, and CPA–4423 and FC–1 for farm construction other than dwellings. Copies of these forms and instructions for their execution are available at the offices of the county committes. Applications are reviewed by the county committee and forwarded to the State committee with recommendations for approval or disapproval. The State committee is authorized to approve or disapprove applications involving dwellings having a cost of not more than $10,000 in the case of a single family house or $17,000 in the case of a two-family structure, and non-housing construction having a cost of not more than $50,000. The applicant and the county committee are notified by the State committee of its action on an application. The applicant may appeal the decision of the State committee to the Director.

§ 2329.12 Conservation of can manufacturing materials. Order M–21 of the Civilian Production Administration (32 CFR Part 3270), establishes the sequence of manufacture of and delivery; and limits the use of cans made of tin plate, terne plate or blackplate. Under authority delegated to the Department by the Civilian Production Administration, the Branch administers that part of the order relating to food containers. Applications for quotas are filed with the Containers Division, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C., as are appeals in connection with quotas. Appeals involving containers for food are referred to the Branch by the Civilian Production Administration and relief is granted within limits of tin and steel available, and in accordance with the food program requirements of the Department.

§ 2329.13 Surplus property program. In accordance with the authority vested in the Department under section 17 of the Surplus Property Act of 1944, the Branch has the responsibility of attempting to secure for farmers and farmer cooperative associations an equitable opportunity to purchase surplus property. This function is accomplished by collaboration and cooperation between the Branch, the War Assets Administration, War and Navy Departments and other owning and disposal agencies in the development of policies and procedures necessary for the disposal program. The Secretary is empowered by the Surplus Property Act to certify cases of agricultural impairment to the War Assets Administration. The Branch, for the Department, is authorized to make such certifications on cases of impairment or threatened agricultural impairment, and, assisted by the Field Service Branch, administers programs for emergency surplus and distribution of surplus property to prevent impairment to farm production. In the event it is believed that in an area agricultural production is impaired or threatened and can be relieved through surplus property, the Director of this Branch should be advised.

§ 2329.14 Agricultural equipment and supplies and containers and packaging programs. The Branch is the staff office of the Department responsible for the formulation of requirements for farm equipment and supplies, food processing machinery, equipment and facilities, packaging machinery, chemicals, fertilizer, container and packaging materials, agricultural textiles, cordage, closures and related materials to accomplish the food production, distribution and conservation programs of the Department. In doing this work the Branch coordinates requirements of the various commodity Branches and other Bureaus of the Department. The Branch is the designated representative of the Department on all of the above matters with the Civilian Production Administration, War Assets Administration, other Government agencies, members of agricultural and related industries and farm organizations.

§ 2330.1 Central Office—(a) General. The principal office of the Branch is at Washington, D. C., in the South Agriculture Building, consisting of the Office of the Director, Administrative Division, Claims Division, Field Operations Division, Inventory Accounting Division, Maintenance Division, Program Operations Division, and Shipping Division.

(b) The Director. Under the general supervision of the Administrator, the Director formulates, directs, and supervises the execution of the policies, programs, and activities of the Production and Marketing Administration and the Commodity Credit Corporation assigned to the Branch, and serves as a Contracting Officer and executive of the Commodity Credit Corporation in general charge of the activities of the Corporation carried out through the Branch. The Director has final authority to:

(1) Enter into contracts by and on behalf of the Corporation, including orders for services relating to: (i) The handling, shipping, and storage of Corporation commodities under authorized programs of the Branch, and (ii) the purchase of packaging, working materials, and supplies in connection with reconditioning commodities.

(2) Settle and adjust claims by and against the Commodity Credit Corporation relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible, within the limitations established by the Corporation (6 CFR, Part 200 et seq.).

(3) Allocate tonnage to provide the most economical and expeditious transportation of Corporation commodities assigned to the Branch.

(4) Dispose of commodities in excess of, or not applicable to, program requirements.

(5) Contract for sales of property under the provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944 pursuant to authorization from the Assistant Administrator for Fiscal and Inventory Control.

(6) Terminate, under the provisions of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, contracts relating to programs for which the Branch is responsible and approve settlement agreements under terminated contracts that do not provide for the payment of more than $50,000 to a prime contractor or $5,000 to a sub-contractor. (This authority may also be exercised by Associate and Assistant Branch Directors.)

(c) Contracting and claims officers. (1) Contracting officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President of the Commodity Credit Corporation and may, to the extent authorized by their appointment, execute contracts relating to the activities of the Production and Marketing Administration or the Commodity Credit Corporation for which the Branch is responsible. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(2) Claims officers are appointed by the Director with approval of the President of the Commodity Credit Corporation and may settle certain types of claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation in accordance with the procedure set forth in 6 CFR 200. The names of such officers may be obtained from the Director.

(d) The divisions. The divisions are as follows: (1) Administrative Division. Conducts activities essential to Branch operations by determining requirements and recommending appropriate actions to be taken on budgetary, personnel, fiscal organization, and other management services.

(2) Claims Division. Determines and settles claims arising out of contracts negotiated by the Branch and claims involving losses and damages to commodities in the custody of the Branch occurring while they are in transit or storage.

(3) Field Operations Division. Develops and installs operating procedures and examines and reviews operations of Branch Field Offices; performs operational cost analysis studies, establishes standards of performance, and compiles workload and other control information for use within the Branch.

(4) Inventory Accounting Division. Establishes, maintains, and verifies perpetual inventories of commodities in the custody of the Branch; and furnishes reports and information regarding such commodities purchased, shipped, stored, and delivered for use in the management of the Corporation's inventory of foodstuffs.

(5) Maintenance Division. Provides for special handling of stocks in warehouses, including fumigation, recoopering, repackaging, and general reconditioning of commodities; and sells commodities in the custody of the Branch or arranges for such sales.

(6) Shipping Division. Directs and issues general instructions to guide the Field Offices in the routing of commodities to be shipped, the application of proper protective services, and the use of special rail or transportation equipment required; maintains and furnishes tariff and rate information; and develops and carries out coordinated programs in conjunction with other Federal agencies for controlling export commodities to port areas.

(7) Program Operations Division. Develops commodity delivery schedules in connection with commitments to claimant agencies; directs Field Offices to effect shipment or to store commodities; and plans effective and economical storage programs.

§ 2330.2 Field offices. (a) Field Offices are located at:

150 Broadway, New York 7, New York, with Suboffices at Bronx, New York, Baltimore, Maryland and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Falls Building, Memphis 3, Tennessee, with Suboffices at Mobile, Alabama, Norfolk, Virginia, and Savannah, Georgia; Wilson Building, Dallas 1, Texas, with Suboffices at Houston, Texas, and New Orleans, Louisiana; 5 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago 3, Illinois; and 821 Market Street, Pacific Building, San Francisco 3, California, with Suboffices at Los Angeles, California, and Portland, Oregon. Field Offices are primarily responsible for all operations of the Branch within their respective jurisdictions, in accordance with policies established in the Washington office.

(b) Natural cooler storage. The Branch is responsible for the operation of the Natural Cooler Storage at Atchison, Kansas. This facility is utilized for the temporary storage of some agricultural commodities owned by the Corporation and, under certain conditions, it is utilized for the storage of privately-owned commodities of a nature not generally stored by warehouses in private industry.

§ 2330.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or to make submittals or requests with respect to the programs and functions of the Branch should address his request to the Director, Shipping and Storage Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The records of the Branch, including those maintained in the Field Offices, are available for examination in accordance with the rules and designation of records issued by the Secretary (7 CFR Part 2100).

§ 2330.10 Sales of corporation commodities. Under existing Corporation authority the Shipping and Storage Branch engages in contracts to sell part-lot, out-of-condition, and salvaged commodities in addition to packaging, bagging, and other container materials. The sale of part-lot and out-of-condition commodities is limited to a value of $300.00 and sales are on a competitive-bid basis. Salvage items up to any value are sold on a bid or fair-market-value basis. The sale of new packaging materials is on a competitive-bid basis and limited to a value of $300.00. Used packaging materials are sold on a competitive-bid basis without limitation. All other corporation commodity stocks in excess of the limitations enumerated above are referred for sale to the appropriate commodity branch in the Production and Marketing Administration.

§ 2330.11 Special contracts. Contracting Officers, both in Washington and the Field Offices, contract for reconditioning, recoopering, trucking, lighterage, storage, and related services for commodities in the custody of the Branch.

§ 2330.12 Claims adjudication and settlement. Claims by and against Commodity Credit Corporation, arising out of contracts negotiated by the Branch, and claims involving losses and damages to commodities in the custody of the Branch while they are in transit or storage may be submitted to the Chief, Claims Division, Shipping and Storage Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

(i) Authority to perform the following act has been delegated to the Associate Solicitor in Charge of Rural Electrification and to Chief, Electrification Loans Division, Office of the Solicitor.

(1) To execute releases of liens upon motor vehicles, and all other documents or instruments relating to such liens or releases thereof, including, without limitation, notices that the United States of America has such liens upon such motor vehicles.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURES

§ 400.21 Loans pursuant to section 4 of Rural Electrification Act—(a) General. These loans are made to finance the construction and operation of generating plants, electric transmission and distribution lines or systems. They must be amortized within a maximum of thirty-five years, must be found to be self-liquidating within the period of the loan, and must be reasonably secured in the judgment of the Administrator. They bear interest at two per centum per annum. They may be made to persons, corporations, public bodies, and to cooperative, nonprofit, or limited dividend associations.

(b) Applications. There is no prescribed or standard form of application for such loans. The Applications and Loans Division gives interested persons making inquiry specific advice as to their eligibility, the terms and conditions of the loans, the information that they should furnish and the further steps they should take to perfect application. The Applications and Loans Division receives and processes all loan applications. If the Administrator approves a loan proposal and makes an allocation of funds the applicant is immediately notified. Loan papers are then prepared for the signatures of the Administrator and the borrower.

(c) Construction. Under the loan agreements, certain controls over construction by the borrower are exercised by the agency. These include approval of the consulting engineer selected and hired by the borrower, approval of the plans and specifications for the construction, approval of materials and equipment used, and approval of contracts with third parties for engineering services, for construction, and for purchase of materials, equipment and wholesale power. There is also provision for progress reports to the agency on construction, for inspection of construction by the agency and for audits of the borrower's records relating to construction.

(d) Advance of loan funds. Loan funds are advanced on the basis of requisitions and public vouchers submitted by the borrowers. Borrowers may requisition up to ninety percent of the cost of construction prior to the completion of the project. The balance is withheld until construction has been finally approved.

§ 400.22 Loans pursuant to section 5 of Rural Electrification Act—(a) General. These loans are made to finance the wiring of the premises of persons in rural areas and the acquisition and installation of electrical and plumbing appliances and equipment. They bear interest at two per centum per annum. They may be made to any of the borrowers of funds under section 4 of the act or to any person, firm, or corporation supplying or installing the wiring, plumbing, or appliances.

(b) Applications. There is no standard or prescribed form of application for this type of loan. The information submitted in support of an application should set forth the purposes for which the loan is requested and the amount required for each purpose. The Applications and Loans Division receives and processes all such applications. If the Administrator approves the loan proposal and makes an allocation of funds the applicant is immediately notified and loan documents are prepared for the signatures of the Administrator and the borrower.

(c) Advances of loan funds. Loan funds are advanced on the basis of requisitions and public vouchers submitted by the borrower. Before any funds are advanced the borrower must satisfy the agency that the installations financed comply with minimum standards established by the agency.

§ 400.23 Studies, investigations and reports. Pursuant to section 2 of the act the agency may make, or cause to be made, studies, investigations, and reports concerning the condition and progress of the electrification of rural areas in the several States and territories and may publish and disseminate information with respect thereto.

§ 400.24 Assistance to borrowers. In carrying out the program of rural electrification provided for by the act, the agency provides specialized and technical assistance to borrowers in respect of their organization, the construction of their facilities, and the technical and managerial operation of their completed systems. Persons or associations seeking an initial loan from the Rural Electrification Administration for the construction of a rural power system, are assisted in perfecting their organization and in the conduct of their surveys and in the preparation of loan applications, by the Applications and Loans Division. Similar services are rendered when necessary to existing borrowers. The same Division furnishes assistance in the formulation of programs designed to enable consumers to obtain the maximum benefits of electric power. The Engineering Division assists borrowers in the solution of all types of technical engineering problems through a staff of field engineers and by correspondence. The Management Division, through its field representatives and by correspondence, furnishes borrowers with assistance on all types of general management problems. The Finance Division, through its field representatives and by correspondence, assists borrowers in their accounting problems, in training of accounting personnel, and keeps borrowers informed concerning their financial condition by periodic audits.

§ 600.1 Central office—(a) General. The Soil Conservation Service was established by the Secretary of Agriculture pursuant to the Soil Conservation Act (16 U. S. C. 590a–590f). The central office of the Service is in the South Agriculture Building, Washington, D. C. The work of the Service consists of carrying out the program of soil and water conservation and land use provided for in the Soil Conservation Act; functions under the Flood Control Act (33 U. S. C. 701 et seq.); the land conservation and utilization program under Title III of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act (7 U. S. C. 1010–1013) and the program for the construction and development of water conservation and utilization projects under the Water Conservation and Utilization Acts (16 U. S. C. 590y–590z–10; 53 Stat. 685).

(b) The Chief. Under the general direction of the Secretary, the Chief, assisted by the Assistant Chief, the Chief of Research and the Chief of Operations, directs all phases of the programs referred to in subsection (a) of this section and coordinates Service activities with those of cooperating agencies. A small staff of division chiefs assists the Chief.

(c) Office of the Assistant Chief in Charge of Research. The Assistant Chief of the Service, serving as Chief of Research, and assisted by a small staff of research specialists and research division chiefs, directs research and investigations into the character, cause, extent, history, and effects of erosion, soil and moisture depletion and methods of soil and water conservation.

(d) Office of the Assistant Chief in Charge of Operations. The Assistant Chief of the Service, serving as Chief of Operations, assisted by a small staff of technical division chiefs, formulates national policies and procedures for the operations phases of Service work; develops standards for soil and water conservation and land use practices and measures; assists field staffs with complex problems and examines field operations to assure adherence to broad standards, policies, and procedures; prepares and reviews proposals and procedures involving Service assistance to soil conservation districts and other areas; and consults with research agencies on conservation problems.

§ 600.2 Field. The Soil Conservation Service maintains 7 regional offices, 48 State offices, and approximately 2,800 small field offices. Each regional office is directed by a Regional Conservator, who is responsible for all activities of the Service within the region (except research) relating to soil and water conservation and sound land use. For each State there is a State Conservationist, who is responsible for general administration of all Service work within the State (with the exception of research, directed from Washington, and nurseries and water conservation and utilization projects, directed from the Regional Office). Location and jurisdiction:

(a) Region 1, comprising the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, West Virginia, Maryland, and Delaware; has regional headquarters at 6316 Market Street, Upper Darby, Pennsylvania.

(b) Region 2, comprising the States of Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, and Florida, and Puerto Rico; has regional headquarters at Montgomery Building, Spartanburg, South Carolina.

(c) Region 3, comprising the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, and Missouri; has regional headquarters at 4630 N. Port Washington Road, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

(d) Region 4, comprising the States of Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Texas, has regional headquarters at P.O. Box 1898, Fort Worth 1, Texas.

(e) Region 5, comprising the States of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Wyoming, and Montana; has regional headquarters at P. O. Box 713, Lincoln 1, Nebraska.

(f) Region 6, comprising the States of Utah, Colorado, Arizona, and New Mexico; has regional headquarters at P. O. Box 1348, Albuquerque, New Mexico.

(g) Region 7, comprising the States of Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, and California; has regional headquarters at P. O. Box 671, Portland 7, Oregon.

(h) The locations of the State offices are as follows: Auburn, Alabama; Phoenix, Arizona; Little Rock, Arkansas; Berkeley, California; Ft. Collins, Colorado; Storrs, Connecticut; Newark, Delaware; Gainesville, Florida; Athens, Georgia; Salina, Kansas; Lexington, Kentucky; Boise, Idaho; Urbana, Illinois; Lafayette, Indiana; Ames, Iowa; Baton Rouge, Louisiana; Orono, Maine; College Park, Maryland; Amherst, Massachusetts; East Lansing, Michigan; St. Paul, Minnesota; Jackson, Mississippi; Columbia, Missouri; Boseman, Montana; Lincoln, Nebraska; Albuquerque, New Mexico; Reno, Nevada; Durham, New Hampshire; New Brunswick, New Jersey; Ithaca, New York; Raleigh, North Carolina; Bismarck, North Dakota; Columbus, Ohio; Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Corvallis, Oregon; Harrisburg, Pennsylvania; Kingston, Rhode Island; Columbia, South Carolina; Huron, South Dakota; Nashville, Tennessee; Temple, Texas; Salt Lake City, Utah; Burlington, Vermont; Blacksburg, Virginia; Pullman, Washington; Morgantown, West Virginia; Madison, Wisconsin; Laramie, Wyoming; and San Juan, Puerto Rico.

(i) Information concerning the location and jurisdiction of field offices below the State offices, such as nurseries, offices serving districts, research projects, land utilization projects and water conservation and utilization projects, can be obtained from the appropriate State or regional office.

§ 600.3 Availability of information. Requests for information concerning the programs and functions of the Service (except research) should be addressed to the Regional Conservator for the region, as listed above, as to the work performed in each region. All other requests should be sent to the Chief, Soil Conservation Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 600.10 Final authorities. The Chief of the Service has final authority in all matters relating to the administration of the Soil Conservation Act (16 U. S. C. 590a–590f), except that the function of signing memoranda of understanding between the Department and soil conservation districts is exercised by the Secretary. The delegations of final authority to the Chief relating to the administration of Title III of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act (7 U. S. C. 1010–1013) are set out in §§ 601.11 and 601.20 of this Title. The Chief has final authority in all matters concerning those phases of the programs under the Water Conservation and Utilization Acts (16 U. S. C. 590y-590z-10; 53 Stat. 685) and the Flood Control Acts (33 U. S. C. 701 et seq.) assigned to the Soil Conservation Service for administration.

§ 600.15 Soil and water conservation—(a) Cooperation with soil conservation districts. (1) The Soil Conservation Service furnishes assistance to soil conservation districts in accordance with policies and procedures set out in "A Statement by the Secretary of Agriculture concerning Departmental cooperation with Soil Conservation Districts", dated September 21, 1940. Copies of that statement and forms and information relating to cooperation with districts may be obtained from the respective State Soil Conservationists.

(2) The Service, in accordance with the Secretary's statement, makes assistance available to a district pursuant to a supplemental memorandum of understanding between the district and the Service, after (i) the district has entered into a memorandum of understanding with the Department, (ii) the district has formulated a district work plan outlining how it will carry on its activities, and (iii) the Regional Conservator determines that the district program and work plan constitute a satisfactory basis for making assistance available, and that such assistance is available. The Service may also give the district certain preliminary assistance in connection with the formulation of the district's conservation program and work plan.

(3) Requests by district governing bodies for Service assistance may be submitted to the State Conservationist, with an explanation of the district's needs on the basis of its work plan. If the Regional Conservator determines that assistance is available, the State Conservationist furnishes copies of the form of supplemental memorandum of understanding to the district governing body for execution, after which he forwards them to the Regional Conservator for execution on behalf of the Service. A Service representative prepares and furnishes to the district a schedule of the specific assistance that the Service can make available for the remainder of the current fiscal year. Thereafter, schedules are made annually covering the period ending June 30 of the following year.

(4) Assistance to districts includes: (i) technical services, together with clerical assistance, transportation, and other facilities required by staff technicians; (ii) field equipment; (iii) materials; (iv) labor.

(b) Soil conservation research. In cooperation with State Agricultural Experiment Stations, Federal Research Agencies, and interested organizations and persons, the Service conducts a practical research program designed to develop, refine and improve soil and water conservation practices in support of field operations. Small field stations and laboratories are maintained at selected locations for the purpose of conducting research on specific problems of immediate concern in the program of operations. Information regarding research work may be obtained from the Chief or the Assistant Chief in charge of Research.

(c) Other assistance. The Service assists State and local educational agencies in the preparation of material for teaching soil conservation. It also assists organized groups and individuals in preparing informational material concerning soil and water conservation and in preparing and applying demonstrations of soil and water programs. Information regarding the availability of this assistance may be obtained from the Chief or from the respective Regional Conservators.

§ 600.20 Flood control. (a) The Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service have responsibility for carrying out on watersheds designated by Congress, the investigations of and measures for runoff and water flow regardation and soil erosion prevention provided for in the Flood Control Acts. Information regarding the areas for which the Soil Conservation Service is responsible may be obtained from the regional offices.

(b) The Service makes preliminary examinations to determine whether watershed treatment programs appear to be justified and whether surveys of the watersheds should be made, and recommends to the Secretary the action that should be taken. Surveys are made upon designated areas after approval by the Secretary. Survey reports describe the watersheds, their condition, flood history, and flood damages, and outline remedial watershed programs, together with estimates of their benefits and costs. They are prepared by the regional offices and submitted to the central office for ultimate consideration by Congress.

(c) After watersheds have been authorized for operations, work is carried out primarily in cooperation with State and local agencies and organizations. Flood control work plans are prepared to provide water management patterns for individual and groups of farmers on a subwatershed basis, in order to develop flood control conservation farm plans and designs for water control measures. Procedures for cooperating with soil conservation districts in carrying out flood control operations are generally similar to those described in § 600.15 of this Title.

§ 600.25 Land conservation and utilization. (a) Activities of the Service in carrying out the program under Title III of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act include the retirement of lands which are submarginal or not primarily suitable for cultivation so as to correct maladjustments in land use. Such lands are acquired and developed by the Service in accordance with their physical capabilities, primarily for pasture, range, woodland or wildlife use. Project lands are administered either directly by the Service or by State agencies or local organizations under agreements or leases.

(b) Some of this land is available for use by the public, under prescribed conditions, for grazing, haying, seed harvesting, timber harvesting, recreation and other purposes when determined to be suitable for such use by Regional Conservators upon the recommendation of Project Conservationists. Use permits are generally for periods of from one to ten years. Except for certain limited recreational and other special uses, an applicant must be a citizen of the United States or a person who has filed a declaration of intention to become a citizen, and preference is given to applicants living within or near the project area.

(c) In granting grazing permits, preference or priority will be given to qualified applicants on the basis of (1) dependency on supplemental grazing to establish and maintain a minimum operating unit, (2) applicant's ability to carry stock on private land under his control when not on Government land during approved grazing season, and (3) in certain areas, past use of project lands.

(d) Unless otherwise designated and posted, land and water within the projects is open to the public for hunting, fishing, and trapping, subject to Federal and State laws. Certain project lands have been made State game refuges by agreement with State game conservation agencies, or declared closed or controlled areas by the Chief of the Service for wildlife protection. In general, intensive recreational facilities are operated by concessionaires selected after competitive bidding, under agreements the maximum periods of which are 10 years. These agreements are executed by the Regional Conservators. Permits for the construction of recreational facilities in designated areas, may be obtained from Regional Conservators.

(e) Special use permits for harvesting woodland products may be issued to local applicants by Project Conservationists in amounts not exceeding $500 during one year. Regional Conservators may award contracts on the basis of competitive bidding for amounts in excess of $500.

(f) Rock and gravel may be removed from project lands for roads or domestic purposes upon application to and approval by Project Conservationists.

(g) Easements, licenses, and leases for the construction and maintenance of highways, power, telephone and telegraph lines, etc., may be obtained from Regional Conservaters.

(h) Project lands may be exchanged with private owners or State agencies for other lands.

(i) The Secretary has promulgated rules and regulations for the protection of Title III lands, any violation of which is punishable (7 CFR 601.20–601.22).

(j) Information concerning the availability of project lands for use by the public, the conditions governing such use, the qualifications of applicants and fees charged for various use privileges, and forms of applications for use privileges are available at project, State, or regional offices.

§ 600.30 Water conservation and utilization. (a) The Service, within the limits of project authorizations issued pursuant to the Water Conservation and Utilization Acts, is carrying out functions in connection with the construction and development of water conservation and utilization projects in the 17 Western States. This Department's participation is concerned with the acquisition, development, and settlement, on a sound agricultural basis, of project lands, and includes technical guidance and advice to settlers thereon in agricultural matters.

(b) In acquiring land, when determined necessary by the Regional Conservator, he will have the land in question appraised on the basis of its normal earning capacity. Land will be acquired only if it can be obtained at not more than the appraised price, with title satisfactory to the Secretary.

(c) Project Supervisors will determine the extent of land development to be carried out on acquired land, which work may be done either by contract after competitive bids have been received, or by force account, with the Service hiring the labor and purchasing the materials. Project lands and irrigation distribution systems in private ownership likewise may be developed or improved under contract with the owner upon his request to the Project Supervisor, who will furnish information regarding the conditions under which the work will be prosecuted. Contracts for development and improvement work, costing $5,000 or less when paid for in cash upon contract completion, and $500 or less when payments are made in installments, may be executed by Project Supervisors. Contracts under $20,000 may be executed by Regional Conservators; all others must be executed by the Chief.

(d) Acquired project lands will be sold, insofar as practicable, in family-size farm units, as determined by Regional Conservators. Prior to sale the land may be leased, at the prevailing rental rate in the area, in limited acreages to qualified farmers or ranchers upon application to the Project Supervisor. After the project lands have been developed and irrigation water is available Regional Conservators will advertise the number of family-size farm units on projects which will be available for sale at any specified time. For a period of 90 days after such advertisement, preference will be given to qualified veterans of the present war as defined in the Surplus Property Act of 1944, Public Law 457, 78th Congress, and present project occupants who have been approved by the Family Selection Committee and to whom commitments to purchase have been made. Application forms, for showing the applicant's qualifications, and information concerning the purchase of project farms may be obtained from the respective Project Supervisors or Regional Conservators. Prospective tenants and purchasers must, insofar as practicable, be in need of a family-type farm; be citizens of the United States; have had previous experience in farming where the major portion of the family income was from the farm; have a satisfactory credit reputation; and own or be in a position to secure necessary equipment and livestock to operate the land for which application is being made. In addition, prospective purchasers must be free from permanent infectious diseases or disabilities that are likely to obstruct the fulfillment of their obligations incident to the purchase of the farm. Applicants will be considered and passed upon by a Family Selection Committee composed of seven persons residing in the community or county in which the project is located. The applicants will be notified of the action taken by the Family Selection Committee.

(e) Farm units will be sold for cash or credit, at prices determined by appraisal on the basis of the normal earning capacity of the land, with quitclaim deed. In the case of credit sales, a promissory note and real estate mortgage must be executed by the purchaser. Deed, promissory note, and mortgage forms may be inspected at the project or regional office.

§ 600.35 Appeals from administrative action. In the case of any administrative action taken or decision made pursuant to authority delegated by the Chief, any member of the public may make an appeal by filing with the officer who made the decision a written request for reconsideration thereof or a notice of appeal. A decision of such officer shall be final unless an appeal is taken therefrom within a reasonable length of time by the person aggrieved. The decision appealed from shall be reviewed by the immediate superior of the officer by whom the decision was made; that is, in the following order: By State Conservationists, Regional Conservators, and the Chief. Unless a written notice of appeal contains an acceptable reason for allowing a longer time for the preparation of the case, the appellant shall file immediately a statement setting forth in detail the respect in which the action or decision from which the appeal is being taken is contrary to or in conflict with the law, Departmental or Federal regulation, or the determined facts. Upon receipt of such statement the officer from whose decision or action the appeal is taken shall prepare a statement presenting the facts and considerations upon which the decision or action was taken. The appellant's statement, together with the officer's statement and all papers comprising the records of the case, shall be then transmitted to the officer to whom the appeal is taken, who will thereupon review the case and notify both the appellant and the officer of the decision.

§ 2201.1 Central organization. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics under the general direction and responsibility of the Chief, aided by an Associate Chief, is the primary agency in the Department of Agriculture for the collection and dissemination of agricultural statistics, for economic research, and for the dissemination of the results thereof. As a staff agency of the Secretary, it coordinates the statistical work and economic research of the Department, and supplies the Secretary's Office and other agencies with statistical data and economic analyses relating to current problems and proposed activities. It acts as the Department's liaison agency with other Government agencies having an interest in statistics or economic research relating to agriculture. The Bureau is directly responsible for acquiring, analyzing, interpreting, and diffusing useful economic information relative to agricultural production and distribution, land utilization and conservation in their broadest aspects. Direct responsibility is also placed in this Bureau for collecting, compiling, abstracting, analyzing, summarizing, interpretating, and publishing economic and statistical data relating to agriculture and food. The work is conducted through divisions responsible to Assistant Chiefs as follows: (a) Assistant Chief for Agricultural Estimates directs the Divisions of Field Corps Statistics; Fruit and Vegetable Statistics; Livestock and Poultry Statistics; Dairy Statistics; Agricultural Price Statistics; and Special Farm Statistics. (b) Assistant Chief for Prices and Marketing directs the Divisions of Marketing and Transportation Research, and Statistical and Historical Research. (c) Assistant Chief for Production Economics directs the Divisions of Agricultural Finance; Farm Management and Costs; and Land Economics. (d) Assistant Chief for Farm Population directs the Divisions of Farm Population and Rural Welfare, and Special Surveys. (e) The Divisions of Administration and Economic Information are responsible directly to the Chief.

§ 2201.2 Field organization. The Bureau's field organization is comprised of offices engaged in collecting statistics usually under cooperative arrangement with the Department of Agriculture in the State where located or the Land-Grant college of the State. There are a total of 41 field offices all engaged in collecting statistics. These are known as "State Statisticians' Offices". In addition, there are a special dairy statistics office in Chicago and two cooperative statistical research laboratories located at Iowa State College and North Carolina State College.

§ 2201.3 Public information, submittals and requests. Persons desiring to obtain information or wishing to make submittals or requests should communicate with the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

2202.20 Procurement and sales.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

§ 2202.1 Central organization. The Office of Budget and Finance is a staff agency of the Department of Agriculture supervised by the Director of Finance who is also the Budget officer. It exercises, through appropriate divisions within the Office, general direction and supervision of budgetary and financial operations of the Department, including acquisition and distribution of funds, accounting, auditing, fiscal, and procurement and supply management, purchasing, warehousing, and related activities; formulates and promulgates departmental budgetary, financial, and procurement policies and, in cooperation with staff and program agencies, develops improvements in the management and operation of departmental activities; acts as liaison office on budgetary, fiscal, procurement, and legislative matters with other Government agencies, including the congressional Committees on Appropriations; the procurement and sales functions of the Office are conducted through the Division of Purchase, Sales and Traffic.

§ 2202.2 Field organization. The Office of Budget and Finance has no field organization other than seven field representatives who assist in the coordination of surplus property administration among bureaus and agencies of the Department, in cooperation with interbureau committees.

§ 2202.3 Public information, submittals and requests. Persons seeking information with regard to matters within the authority of the Office should communicate with the Director of Finance, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 2202.4 Delegations of final authority. The purchasing authority for the Department, with the exception of the exclusions specified in § 2202.20, has been delegated by the Secretary to the Director of Finance. The Director has delegated to field offices of Departmental agencies limited authority to make purchases in the open market, and by contract after public advertising, of equipment, materials and supplies, construction, repairs and alterations and other non-personal services, subject to a monetary limitation of generally not to exceed $10,000 for each purchase, except for construction and repair contracts which are usually limited to $2,000 per contract. The sales authority with the exception of the exclusions specified in § 2202.20 has also been delegated by the Secretary to the Director of Finance. The Director has delegated to field offices of Departmental agencies limited authority to make such sales and to exchange or rent equipment, materials and supplies, and other property subject to a monetary limitation for individual sales and the regulations of the War Assets Administration with respect to surplus property disposals.

§ 2202.20 Procurement and sales—(a) General. The procurement and sales functions of the Office of Budget and Finance do not include the procurement or sale of real property, commodity stocks or capital fund items in connection with commodity programs.

(b) Procurement. The Office of Budget and Finance receives requests from bureaus to contract for supplies or services, except where procurement authority has been delegated. Specifications and invitations to bid, are submitted to firms and other individuals and otherwise advertised in compliance with section 3709, Revised Statutes (41 U. S. C. 5). In specific cases, bureaus are authorized to solicit the bids but the award is made in the Office of Budget and Finance. Lists of prospective bidders are maintained in the Office of Budget and Finance. Prospective bidders may have their names placed on appropriate lists upon request in accordance with §2202.3. The following U. S. Standard Forms are used for contracting as indicated: No. 20—Invitation for Bids (Construction Contract); No. 21—Form of Bid (Construction Contract); No. 22—Instructions to Bidders (Construction and Supplies); No. 23—Form of Contract (Construction); No. 24—Form of Bid Bond (Construction or Supply); No. 25—Form of Performance Bond (Construction or Supply); No. 25a—Form of Payment Bond (Construction); No. 30—Invitation for Bids (Formal Supply Contract); No. 31—Form of Bid (Formal Supply); No. 32—Form of Contract (Formal Supply); No. 33—Short Form Contract (Combination of Invitation, Bid and Acceptance); No. 34—Form of Annual Bid Bond (Supplies); No. 35—Form of Annual Performance Bond (Supplies); No. 36—Continuation Schedule (For Forms No. 31 and 33, Supplies); No. 40—Contracts for Telephone Service; No. 41—Form of Contract (Coal); No. 42—Instructions to Bidders (Coal); No. 43—Purchase Conditions (Coal).

(c) Sales. The Office of Budget and Finance solicits bids on Form AD-224—Invitation, Bid, and Acceptance. These forms with accompanying specifications and other conditions are furnished interested bidders. Prospective bidders may have their names placed upon appropriate lists upon request in accordance with § 2202.3.

(d) Procedure upon receipt of bid. Each bid envelope which must be sealed, is time stamped and placed in a locked container until the time set for opening of the bids. At the designated time specified in the invitation to bid, the bids are opened, read in public and recorded. After opening, determination of the award is made and the Departmental agency concerned is notified and informs the successful bidder.

§ 2206.1 Central organization. The Office of Personnel is a staff agency of the Secretary, located at Washington, D. C., and engaged in the administration of personnel laws, regulations and procedures. The Director of Personnel and Assistant Directors of Personnel are generally authorized to take action with respect to classification, employment, organization, training, personnel relations and safety, investigations, and related matters. The Office plans, organizes and carries out a comprehensive program of personnel management, develops and promulgates Department personnel policies, and establishes and directs the maintenance of standards for organization, position classification, salary administration, recruitment and selection, transfer and promotion, training, employee relations, safety, health, and investigations. This Office represents the Department in its relations with the U. S. Civil Service Commission and, where personnel matters are concerned, acts as the liaison office with all governmental or private agencies concerned with the work of this Department.

NOTE: This Office is a staff agency and its procedures are matters of internal management.

(g) National Bureau of Standards (see Ch. II).
(h) Patent Office (see Title 37, Ch. I).
(i) Weather Bureau (see Ch. V).
(j) Civil Aeronautics Administration (see Title 14, Ch. I).
(k) Civil Aeronautics Board (see Title 14, Ch. II).

PART 11—ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS OF THE OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

Sec.
11.1 Immediate Office of the Secretary.
11.2 Office of the Solicitor.
11.3 Office of Program Planning.
11.4 Office of Information.
11.5 Office of Budget and Management.
11.6 Office of Personnel Administration.
11.7 Office of Administrative Services.

§ 11.1 Immediate Office of the Secretary. The Office of the Secretary is responsible for the general planning, direction, supervision, coordination, and control of the activities of the Department. Also, the Secretary is Incorporator and Governor, Inland Waterways Corporation; Chairman of the Foreign-Trade Zones Board; ex-officio General Chairman of the Business Advisory Council; and Vice Chairman of the Publications Board. He is a member of the Commodity Exchange Commission, Foreign Service Buildings Commission, Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, National Archives Council, U. S. Council of National Defense, National Munitions Control Board, Interdepartmental Committee on the Proclaimed List, Smithsonian Institution, Textile Foundation, Economic Stabilization Board, and National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems; and ex-officio member of the Federal Advisory Board for Vocational Education. The Under Secretary acts as principal business adviser to the Secretary. The Assistant Secretary supervises the activities of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the Coast and Geodetic Survey, and the Weather Bureau. The Executive Assistant to the Secretary serves as the general assistant to the Secretary on all executive matters, and is responsible for the over-all administrative management of the Department, including the coordination of the functions of the several offices and bureaus, and the supervision of the Offices of Budget and Management, Personnel Administration, and Administrative Services.

§ 11.2 Office of the Solicitor. The Solicitor is the chief law officer of the Department of Commerce. As such, he acts as legal adviser to the Secretary of Commerce, the Under Secretary, the Assistant Secretary, and the chiefs of the various bureaus.

§ 11.3 Office of Program Planning. The Office of Program Planning is responsible for developing for the Secretary long-range plans and programs for the Department and for advising the Secretary and other officers of the Department concerning the policy and program of the Department.

§ 11.4 Office of Information. The Office of Information is responsible for seeing that business, industry, and the general public is made cognizant of the activities and policies of the Department. The Office establishes the policy for the preparation and issuance of all departmental publications, operates the Department press room, and furnishes information concerning the Department's activities to the press and the public.

§ 11.5 Office of Budget and Management. The Office of Budget and Management advises and assists the Secretary and other officials of the Department in developing broad management and budget policies and programs necessary to achieve the various objectives, and develops the organization through which the Secretary can most effectively direct and coordinate the activities of the Department of Commerce; develops budget programs designed to assure the provision of funds necessary effectively to discharge the functions and responsibilities of the Department; develops and coordinates all administrative practices and procedures of the Department; develops systems to insure the most economical use of manpower, equipment, travel, communications, and printing services and other facilities of the Department.

§ 11.6 Office of Personnel Administration. The Office of Personnel Administration is responsible for establishing the personnel policies, standards, and criteria for the Department as a whole and within which the personnel offices of the primary organization units of the Department operate. The Office is also responsible for the recruitment, placement, and appointment of personnel; the classification of positions; hearing of grievances; the supervision of efficiency rating and safety and health programs; and related functions for the Office of the Secretary, the Office of Technical Services, and the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and for furnishing such of these services to the primary organization units as authority for the performance of which has not been delegated to the primary units.

§ 11.7 Office of Administrative Services. The Office of Administrative Services directs the application of administrative service policies and procedures throughout the Department of Commerce, furnishes all administrative services required by the Office of the Secretary, the Office of Technical Services, and the constituent units of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, and provides for all other primary organization units of the Department all administrative services which such offices and bureaus have not been authorized by law or administrative regulation to furnish themselves or which they furnish themselves through agreements reached with the Office of the Secretary. The Administrative Officer is the Chief Clerk and Superintendent of the Department and uses the title of Chief Clerk or the title of Chief Clerk and Superintendent in connection with all actions required by law to be taken under such title. The Administrative Officer is the contracting officer for the Department (excluding the Inland Waterways Corporation and the Civil Aeronautics Administration and excluding contracts for research for the Office of Technical Services) for contracts, leases, or renewals thereof in the amount of $10,000 or more and for supplemental contracts thereto in the amount of $500 or more and for contracts entered into pursuant to Executive Orders 9001 and 9264.

PART 12—DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY

Authority has been delegated by the Secretary of Commerce as follows:

Sec.
12.1 Appointing authority.
12.2 Contracting authority.
12.3 Inland Waterways Corporation.
12.4 Approval of Nebraska Municipal Airport Specifications.
12.5 Authority to act as Secretary.
12.6 Executive Order 9630.
12.7 Executive Orders 9568 and 9604.
12.8 Executive Order 9665.
12.9 Executive Order 9673.
12.10 Executive Order 9709.

§12.1 Appointing authority. (a) The Director of Personnel of the Department of Commerce is delegated, in accordance with section 12 of Public Law 600 (79th Congress, 2nd Session) the authority vested by law in the Secretary of Commerce to take final action on matters pertaining to the employment, direction, and general administration of personnel of the Department. In case of the absence of the Director of Personnel, the Acting Director may exercise this authority.

(b) Pursuant to R. S. 161 (5 U. S. C. 22) and the Act of June 26, 1930 (46 Stat. 817, 5 U. S. C. 43) (1) Regional Supervisors of the Coast and Geodetic Survey are authorized, subject to such limitations as the Director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey may prescribe, to make appointments of personnel in the field service up to, but not including, Grade CAF–12 or P–5;

(2) The Director and the Executive Officer of the National Bureau of Standards are authorized to make appointments of personnel in the field service up to, but not including, Grade CAF–12 or P–5; and

(3) Regional Directors of the Weather Bureau are authorized, subject to such limitations as the Director of the Weather Bureau may prescribe, to make appointments of personnel in the field service up to, but not including, Grade CAF–12 or P–5.

(c) Pursuant to R. S. 161 (5 U. S. C. 22) the European Director and the Chief of Operations of the Technical Industrial Intelligence Branch are authorized to make appointments of alien and native personnel employed locally and to establish rates of compensation for such employees according to prevailing local practice but not in excess of rates prescribed for similar positions under the salary schedule established by the Classification Act of 1923, as amended.

(d) Pursuant to the Act of June 26, 1930 (46 Stat. 817; 5 U. S. C. 43) and Section 404 of Reorganization Plan No. 2 (5 U. S. C. 133t) (1) The Administrator and the Executive Officer of the Civil Aeronautics Administration are authorized to make appointments of personnel in the field service of the Civil Aeronautics Administration up to, but not including, CAF–14 or P–7;

(2) Regional Managers of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the Chief of the Standardization Center, the Manager of the Washington National Airport, and the Superintendent, Central Depot of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, are authorized to make appointments of personnel in the field service up to, but not including, Grade CAF–12 or its equivalent;

(3) The Director of the Census is authorized to make appointments of personnel in the field service of the Bureau of the Census up to, but not including, Grade CAF–14 or P–7. (This authorization does not limit the authority of the Director of the Census to employ personnel in accordance with the Act of June 18, 1929 (46 Stat. 21; 13 U. S. C. 203) or other statutory authorization to employ personnel without regard to the Civil Service Act or Rules or without regard to the Classification Act, as Amended, or Schedule A of the Civil Service Rules).

(e) Pursuant to 15 CFR 1.16 (d), the Director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and officers and employees serving as chiefs of party, are authorized to employ contract employees on ships, tide observers, seismograph tenders and temporary employees required in connection with surveying operations of the field service.

§ 12.2 Contracting authority. (a) Pursuant to section 161 R. S. (5 U. S. C. 22) authority is delegated to the head of each primary organization unit (except the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the Inland Waterways Corporation), with authority to redelegate, to approve or execute all contracts (except research contracts of the Office of Technical Services and except supplemental contracts in the amount of $500 or more), accompanying bonds, leases or renewals thereof when the amount in any instance is less than $10,000 and is payable from funds available to such primary organization unit for this purpose.

(b) Authority is delegated, with power to redelegate, to the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics to approve and execute contracts, accompanying bonds, leases or renewals thereof, and contracts supplemental thereto or changes in contracts without regard to limitations established for other primary organization units.

(c) Authority is delegated to the Chief of the Division of Accounting Control, Office of the Secretary, to execute contracts and accompanying bonds for research to be conducted for the Office of Technical Services.

§ 12.3 Inland Waterways Corporation. Pursuant to the Act of June 3, 1924 (43 Stat. 360; 49 U. S. C. 151) and Section 6 of Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1939, the President and the Secretary-Treasurer, or those designated by the President of the Inland Waterways Corporation are authorized to sign leases or contracts for the Corporation. The President of the Inland Waterways Corporation is also authorized to formulate rules and regulations for the conduct of the business of the Corporation and to incur obligations and disburse money within the limits of the budget of the Corporation as approved by the Secretary of Commerce.

§ 12.4 Approval of Nebraska Municipal Airport Specifications. The Administrator of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, or such officer or officers as he may designate, is authorized to approve on behalf of the Department of Commerce the location and specifications of any municipal airport located in the State of Nebraska when such approval is required by Section 19–803, Compiled Statutes of Nebraska, 1929.

§ 12.5 Authority to act as Secretary. Under Executive Order No. 8541 the Assistant Secretary of Commerce is authorized to perform the duties of the Secretary of Commerce in case of the absence, sickness, resignation, or death of the Secretary of Commerce and of the Under Secretary of Commerce and the Solicitor of Commerce is authorized to perform the duties of the Secretary of Commerce in case of the absence, sickness, resignation, or death of the Secretary of Commerce, the Under Secretary of Commerce, and the Assistant Secretary of Commerce.

§ 12.6 Executive Order 9630. (a) Those functions of the Foreign Economic Administration transfered to the Department of Commerce by Executive Order 9630, except the functions of the Technical Industrial Intelligence Committee and the functions of the Clearing Office of Foreign Transactions and Reports, are assigned to the Office of International Trade.

(b) Pursuant to that order authority is delegated to the Director of the Requirements and Supply Branch, Office of International Trade, (1) To exercise and perform all powers and functions contained in Section 6 of the Act of July 2, 1940 (54 Stat. 714) as amended and extended, and to issue such rules and regulations as may be necessary or proper to carry out the provisions of said Act; and

(2) To exercise and perform such powers and functions as are contained in the Act of October 10, 1940 (54 Stat. 1090) as amended and extended, and the Act of October 16, 1941 (55 Stat. 742) as amended and extended, heretofore conferred upon the Administrator of the Foreign Economic Administration by Executive Order No. 8942 dated November 19, 1941 as amended, and thereafter conferred upon the Secretary of Commerce by Executive Order No. 9630 dated September 27, 1945, except the power to sign and issue subpoenas.

(c) The functions of the Technical Industrial Intelligence Committee transferred to the Department of Commerce by Executive Order 9630 are assigned to the Office of Technical Services.

(d) The functions of the Clearing Office of Foreign Transactions and Reports are assigned to the Office of Business Economics.

§ 12.7 Executive Orders 9568 and 9604. The Office of Technical Services is assigned responsibility for performing those operating functions contained in Executive Orders 9568 and 9604 responsibility for which is delegated to the Secretary of Commerce by letters from the Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

§ 12.8 Executive Order 9665. Those functions of the Smaller War Plants Corporation transferred to the Department of Commerce by Executive Order 9665 are assigned as follows: (a) The functions of the Office of Reports in the Smaller War Plants Corporation dealing with economic and statistical analysis of business conditions and prospects to the Office of Business Economics;

(b) The field functions of the Smaller War Plants Corporation together with the functions performed in Washington relating to the supervision of such field activities transferred to the Department of Commerce Field Service; and

(c) All other functions to the Office of Small Business. The Director of the Office of Small Business shall act as Accountability and Liquidation Officer for the Smaller War Plants Corporation and as such may execute necessary instruments in the name of said Corporation. The Director shall also be responsible for preparation of those reports required by section 5 of Public Law 603 (77th Congress) which the Secretary of Commerce is required to submit by paragraph 5 of Executive Order 9665.

§ 12.9 Executive Order 9673. Those functions of the Office of Production Research and Development of the Civilian Production Administration transferred to the Department of Commerce by Executive Order 9673 are assigned to the Office of Technical Services.

§ 12.10 Executive Order 9709. The Weather Bureau is designated as the agency of the Department of Commerce through which the functions relating to meteorological facilities transferred to the Department of Commerce by Executive Order 9709. The Civil Aeronautics Administration is designated as the agency of the Department through which all other functions transferred to the Department by that order are performed. The authority vested in the Department of Commerce by Executive Order 9709, including the authority set forth in Paragraph 2 to arrange for the interim custody, operation, and maintenance of facilities transferred to the Department under the provisions of the order, is delegated to the Chief of the Weather Bureau and the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics with respect to the functions assigned to their respective organization units.

[SEAL] H. A. WALLACE,
Secretary of Commerce.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS

[15 CFR, Ch. I]

PART 40—GENERAL ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

Sec.
40.1 Creation.
40.2 General statement of the purpose and functions.
40.3 General statement of organization.
40.4 General statement on procedure.
40.5 General statement on information.

§ 40.1 Creation. The Census Office was established by the act of March 6, 1902 (32 Stat. 51, 13 U. S. C. 1) to take the decennial census required by Article 1, section 2, of the Constitution and to perform related functions.

§ 40.2 General statement of the purpose and functions. The Bureau of the Census collects, collates, tabulates, and publishes data on the characteristics and activities of the people of the United States in the fields of population, housing, agriculture, manufactures, business, mineral industries, State and local government, cotton and oils, foreign trade, and other subjects. The Bureau also renders statistical services to other Government agencies, as well as to private business and research agencies, individuals, and State and local governments, as requested, and as the regular work of the Bureau permits. Whenever additional cost is involved, this work is done on a reimbursable basis.

§ 40.3 General statement of organization. The work of the Bureau of the Census in compiling and publishing data is performed at the seat of government. For purposes of collecting information by direct canvass of householders, business establishments, etc., there are area offices and district offices appropriately located throughout the country. The location of these offices is given in § 41.6.

In addition, a New York Office of the Foreign Trade Division is located at Room 434, Customs House, New York City, to perform certain operations on foreign trade documents which are the source of statistics on foreign trade (see § 41.7 and 15 CFR, Part 30).

Office of the Director	(41.1)

Twelve divisions as follows:

Administrative Service	(41.2)
Agriculture	(41.3)
Budget Office	(41.4)
Business	(41.5)
Field	(41.6)
Foreign Trade	(41.7)
Geography	(41.8)
Governments	(41.9)
Industry	(41.10)
Machine Tabulation	(41.11)
Personnel	(41.12)
Population	(41.13)

§ 40.4 General statement on procedure. The information to be gathered by censuses and surveys for which the Bureau is responsible is determined through consideration of needs expressed through experience with similar work in the past, requests for information currently received and needs for information as expressed by representatives of respondents, such as trade associations and business firms, as well as private individuals, and of other users of the information, such as other governmental agencies, business and industry and the public generally. All Census surveys conducted by the Bureau of the Census are cleared with the Bureau of the Budget in accordance with the requirements of the Federal Reports Act of 1942 (56 Stat. 1078; 5 U. S. C. 139).

A list of the schedules used in the various censuses and surveys conducted by the Bureau of the Census and copies of instructions and procedures for completing these schedules are available upon written request to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 40.5 General statement on information. All information on individual persons and establishments is treated as strictly confidential by the Bureau of the Census and is made available in the form of statistical totals only. This information relates to subjects mentioned in §§ 41.1 to 41.13.

Information published by the Bureau can be obtained from the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D. C., or from the Department of Commerce Field Offices. Copies of Census publications are sent to Government depository libraries, as well as to other libraries, where they may be consulted. A catalog of publications is available on request.

Unpublished data and special tabulations can be obtained from the Bureau of the Census at cost whenever the work of the Bureau permits. A request for data not shown in published volumes should be addressed to the Director, Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D. C. The request will be carefully studied, and the reply will include a description of the available material, an estimate of the cost involved, and the conditions under which the information will be furnished. If the available material is acceptable, a certified check or money order for the full amount, made payable to the Treasurer of the United States, must be received by the Bureau of the Census before the work can begin.

tion statistical data relating to the foreign trade of the United States, including weekly, monthly and annual tabulations of information on imports and exports of merchandise and gold and silver, vessels entered and cleared, and statistics of the trade of Continental United States with its territories and possessions. The tabulations contain information on the net quantity of each type of commodity shipped, the dollar value of the shipments and the shipping weight; information is also provided on export and import shipments by method of transportation (vessel, air, etc.); on trade with each individual foreign country; trade through individual United States Customs Districts, etc. Prepares special tabulations and reports, monographs and studies on selected phases of these problems. (See 15 CFR, Part 30, for a statement of requirements for filing papers from which information is obtained.)

§ 41.8 Geography Division. The Geography Division maintains a comprehensive collection of maps for all governmental and administrative areas in the territory of the United States; establishes administrative areas (enumeration districts) for the collection of Census data; prepares graphic materials for assistance in the presentation of complex statistical data.

§ 41.9 Governments Division. The Governments Division collects, processes, and prepares for publication current and bench mark statistical data relating to the characteristics and functions of State and local governments and their administration in the United States, including public finances, public employment, elections, and operating activity. Conducts special tabulations and research projects and prepares reports and monographs on selected phases of these problems.

§ 41.10 Industry Division. The Industry Division collects, processes, and prepares for publication current and bench mark statistical data relating to the characteristics and operations of manufacturing, minerals, electric light and power, communications, transit, and related industries, conducts research projects and prepares special tabulations and reports, monographs, and other studies on selected problems of these industries; compiles special statistical data and reports.

§ 41.11 Machine Tabulation Division. The Machine Tabulation Division transfers processed information to punch cards and tabulates statistical data for analysis and distribution by the divisions of the Bureau, and for public and private agencies; consults with operating officers of the several divisions on problems relating to the scope and method of particular surveys in the light of the capacities of equipment and techniques of machine tabulation.

§ 41.12 Personnel Division. The Personnel Division administers the program of personnel management within the Bureau, including the functions of organization, classification, pay administration, recruitment, personnel utilization, training, service ratings, changes of assignment and of status, separations, employee relations, services and welfare, hours of duty and leave, personnel research, and the preparation of personnel records, reports, and correspondence.

§ 41.13 Population Division. The Population Division collects, processes, analyzes, and prepares for publication current and bench mark statistical data relating to the people of the United States and their social institutions, including general characteristics of the population, employment and income, occupational and industrial affiliations of the population, Negro statistics, housing, religious bodies, and institutional population; conducts current surveys, research projects and prepares special tabulations and reports, monographs, and studies on selected problems in this field.

BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE

[15 CFR, Ch. III]

OFFICE OF BUSINESS ECONOMICS

PART 320—GENERAL ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

Sec.
320.1 Creation.
320.2 General purpose and functions.
320.3 Organization.

§ 320.1 Creation. The Office of Business Economics was established by Department of Commerce Order No. 10 dated December 18, 1945, by transferring and consolidating the Division of Research and Statistics, the Balance of Payments Analysis Unit of the Division of International Economy, the Clearing Office for Foreign Transactions and Reports, and certain other functions of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

§ 320.2 General purpose and functions. The general purposes and functions of the Office of Business Economics are to provide basic economic measures of the national economy, current analyses of the economic situation and business outlook, and general research on the functioning of the economy; to develop basic economic and statistical indicators; and to provide a basis for policy formulation of the Department with respect to Government operations insofar as they affect economic movements and tendencies.

PART 321—FUNCTIONS OF DIVISIONS

Sec.
321.1 Office of the Director.
321.2 National Income Division.
321.3 Current Business Analysis Division.
321.4 Regional Economics Division.
321.5 Business Structure Division.
321.6 International Economics Division.
321.7 Clearing Office for Foreign Transactions.

§ 321.1 Office of the Director. The Office of the Director is responsible for planning, supervising, coordinating, and directing the work of the Office of Business Economics. Personnel, fiscal and administrative services are obtained for the divisions of the Administrative Management Staff of the Office of the Director from the appropriate units of the Office of the Secretary. The Economic Reports Staff of the Office of the Director is responsible for developing a coordinated publications program for the Office of Business Economics, for reviewing speeches, press releases, and the like to be issued by the Office and for coordinating and arranging informational material and economic data into form suitable for release.

§ 321.2 National Income Division. The National Income Division conducts containing studies of national income, gross national product and related aggregates, and their components in order to supply current and historical measures and analyses of changes in income and output. The Division prepares regular reports of the position of the economy and economic tendencies as revealed by its analyses of national income, gross national product, and income flow; compiles analytical data on national income by industries and distributive shares indicating the origins and components of income produced, and the flow of production from the basic resources to finished products; prepares estimates of income size distribution so as to describe the sources of income of recipients in different income classes, and the use of funds for taxes, consumption, and savings; and provides breakdowns of the significant income data by states, regions, and industrial areas, adapting these data for marketing and other purposes.

§ 321.3 Current Business Analysis Division. The Current Business Analysis Division is responsible for preparing current analyses of business conditions and for developing basic economic indicators for business and Government. It conducts a continuing study of business activity; prepares analyses of current economic developments and trends and of the forces influencing and contributing to such movements; develops quantitative indexes and basic measures of changes in the economy; develops techniques for the projection of economic series and magnitudes in order to provide quantitative extensions and translates these into qualitative evaluations of the tendencies for expansion and contraction of the economy; measures the influences determining expenditures by individuals in the aggregate and for particular types of goods and develops relationships to the flow of total income and to expenditures out of a given volume of income; and analyses the fluctuations of the capital goods industries, and the amount of capital put in place in relation to the flow of business and personal savings available for investment.

§ 321.4 Regional Economics Division. The Regional Economics Division integrates and analyzes economic and statistical data relative to the fundamental economic characteristics of the various regions of the United States or subdivisions thereof; determines the major factors bearing upon their economic development, and evaluates current and potential regional programs for maximum utilization of resources in relation to trends in the national economy. Analyses are made in terms of markets, market potentialities, resource use, and methods of promoting regional economic progress.

§ 321.5 Business Structure Division. The Business Structure Division establishes functional relationships within and among major segments of the national economy and analyzes the nature of the prevailing organization and use of productive and distributive resources. It analyzes the effects of structural organization upon the economy and the volume of business operations; this embraces the organization and structure of production and distribution, including the influence of size or concentration, location, and markets, the structure of wages as a cost factor, the structure of the materials flow, and the institutional set-up as determined by market laws and regulations.

§ 321.6 International Economics Division. The International Economics Division compiles, analyzes, and interprets data on the international payments and international investments of the United States and on their influence on the domestic economy, and collaborates with other Offices of the Department in the analysis of the international position of other countries and of their needs for American investment and their capacity to utilize effectively and service such capital. It analyzes proposed international programs to determine their probable effect on the domestic economy and reviews domestic industrial developments affecting the magnitude or pattern of foreign trade.

§ 321.7 Clearing Office for Foreign Transactions. The Clearing Office for Foreign Transactions ascertains the needs of Government agencies for information concerning foreign transactions of the United States, arranges for detailed quarterly reports on such transactions; compiles, analyzes and disseminates data on all foreign transactions of Government agencies; and receives reports from all Government agencies of their cash transactions abroad, their property owned abroad, and civilian supplies and relief and rehabilitation items furnished for distribution abroad. The circulation of these quarterly reports is restricted.

PART 322—SERVICES AVAILABLE

§ 322.1 The Office of Business Economics prepares regular statistical reports on the economic activities of the nation, the more important of these being: quarterly estimates of national income and national product; quarterly estimates of corporation profits; quarterly estimates of plant and equipment expenditures; annual estimates of indebtedness in the United States; monthly estimates of income payments to individuals; annual estimates of income payments by States; monthly industry survey of new orders, shipments, and inventories in manufacturing; monthly estimates of retail sales and consumer expenditures; monthly estimates on transportation activity; quarterly estimates of business births, deaths and total business population; quarterly and annual statements of the balance of international payments of the United States. Most of these reports and statements are printed in the monthly Survey of Current Business and its weekly supplements, which is concerned with economic highlights, the business situation and business statistics, providing a continuing series of business indexes covering over 2,200 items. The subscription price of the Survey of Current Business is $2.00 per year for domestic subscribers and $2.75 per year for foreign subscribers. Subscriptions should be mailed to the nearest Department of Commerce Field Office or to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C. Most of the special reports appearing in the Survey of Current Business are reprinted as separates and can be obtained without charge by addressing the Office of Business Economics, Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C.

OFFICE OF DOMESTIC COMMERCE

PART 330—GENERAL ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

Sec.
330.1 Creation.
330.2 General purpose and functions.
330.3 General organization.

§ 330.1 Creation. The Office of Domestic Commerce was established by Department Order No. 10 of December 18, 1945, by consolidating functions formerly carried on by certain organizational units of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce as follows: (a) the functions of the Trade Association Unit, (b) the functions of the Division of Industrial Economy, except those concerned with foreign trade, (c) the functions of the Distribution Division, except those concerned primarily with small business, and (d) the functions of the Construction Division.

§ 330.2 General purpose and functions. It is the purpose of the Office of Domestic Commerce to promote domestic commerce and industry. This objective is to be attained by means of (a) stimulating the profitable operations of manufacturing, distribution, transportation and service industries to achieve full and efficient production and employment, (b) providing factual and analytical, and interpretative data on commodities, industry, transportation, and marketing as basic guides to industry and business in trade maintenance and expansion programs, and (c) assisting industry and trade in its relations with other Government departments and agencies. These activities are carried on in cooperation with other offices and bureaus of the Department of Commerce, with industry and trades and other Government agencies. Liaison is maintained with other units of the Department of Commerce especially with the Office of Small Business for the development of data and information of an industrial or commodity nature that will be useful to small business; with the Office of International Trade on matters of common interest in the international field; with the Office of Business Economics in the preparation of selected data on full employment, analyses of industrial trade developments and similar projects. The Department Field Offices are utilized to insure the application to local conditions and demands of the research data, analysis and studies, and all other information developed by the Washington office, and for the collection of information, statistics and other data which reflect local business conditions.

§ 330.3 General organization. Within the Office of Domestic Commerce are the (a) Office of the Director, (b) Construction Division, (c) Industry Division, (d) Marketing Division, (e) Trade Association Division, and (f) Transportation Division.

PART 331—FUNCTIONS OF DIVISIONS

Sec.
331.1 Office of the Director.
331.2 Construction Division.
331.3 Industry Division.
331.4 Marketing Division.
331.5 Trade Association Division.
331.6 Transportation Division.

§ 331.1 Office of the Director. The Office of the Director is responsible for planning, supervising, coordinating, and directing the work of the Office of Domestic Commerce. Personnel, fiscal and administrative services are obtained from the divisions by the Administrative Management Staff of the Office of the Director from the appropriate offices of the Office of the Secretary. The Information Staff of the Office of the Director is responsible for developing a coordinated publications program for the Office of Domestic Commerce for reviewing speeches, press releases, and the like, to be issued by the Office, and for coordinating and arranging informational material into form suitable for release.

§ 331.2 Construction Division. The activities of the Construction Division are directed toward the formation of a body of factual data to provide a basis for the development of government policy relating to the construction industry and to foster the potentially great role which the construction and building materials industries may assume in achieving high levels of employment.

Operations are divided along three main functional lines, (a) reduction of building costs as a contribution to full employment, (b) maintenance of statistics on the dollar volume of construction on a national and regional basis and the assembly of information on the production and availability of building materials, and (c) analysis, interpretation, and publication of data relating to factors influencing the demand for the products of the construction and building materials industries. The Division has initiated studies of the revision, modernization and eventual standardization of building codes; of restrictive practices which limit production and increase costs; of technological improvements involving new materials and construction methods; and of improved winter building methods as a means of avoiding construction unemployment in bad weather.

§ 331.3 Industry Division. The functions of the Industry Division are to provide comprehensive, detailed and timely data of an industrial or commodity nature for use by manufacturers, processors of materials and other businesses dependent upon or related to manufacturing; to prepare basic economic and statistical surveys of important industries as a guide to trade promotion efforts and meeting industrial problems; to prepare and issue periodic reports on industrial developments and trends for specific industries and of a general character; in close cooperation with industry groups to develop projections of future trends, industry by industry, and serve as focal point for industry in the study of forward planning to maintain maximum employment, high output, and high consumption.

§331.4 Marketing Division. The objective of the Marketing Division is to promote and activate a high level of the sale and distribution of goods and services to take up the increased production capacity of the Country's manufacturers and producers. It seeks to promote greater operating efficiencies in distribution, to develop comprehensive market data by geographical areas, to foster lower distribution costs and prices, and to attain a maximum consumption of goods and services.

Operations are divided along three main functional lines (a) those relating to distribution costs, including determination of the cost of distribution in total, by channels, commodities and functions; development of methods for reducing the cost of distribution by individual and trade action; analyses of cost allocation procedures by commodities, customers and functions; exploration of inter-firm competition costs; preparation of price analysis studies; (b) those relating to market research including analyses and reports on market data by geographical areas for establishing sales potentials and trading area delineations; preparation of manuals on applying market data to sales potential problems and source books on market data and market research agencies; and (c) those relating to market operations, including providing the individual members of whole trades with methods for more proficient and profitable performance in a competitive market. This is done by making case studies in separate wholesale and retail trades; making studies to aid management in determining policies and procedures in the performance of separate marketing functions, such as selecting a location, store layout and modernization, cooperative buying, warehousing, stock control, advertising and sales promotion; and by making available to business generally tested methods of gaining a strong position for a product in a local or national market.

§ 331.5 Trade Association Division. The Trade Association Division acts as liaison between the Department and trade associations, chambers of commerce, boards of trade and community development organizations to insure the mutual exchange of ideas between Government and business. In that capacity it encourages close cooperation between the Department of Commerce and the various industry association groups; maintains up-to-date information concerning the activities of these groups and publishes directories and summaries of such information; analyzes the problems and services of representative associations in major geographical areas and in each commodity field; endeavors to raise the standards of efficiency and public service objectives of such organizations; and promotes national conferences and arranges for Department of Commerce participation at leading conventions of businessmen.

§ 231.6 Transportation Division. The general objectives of the work of the Transportation Division are to (a) determine the needs of the commerce of the United States for transportation and public utility services; (b) ascertain the adequacy and economy of transportation and public utility services in terms of national and regional requirements; and (c) promote the commerce of the United States through reporting, analyzing and recommending improvements in transportation and public utility facilities, practices, rates, services, and policies.

To further these objectives, the Transportation Division represents the Department in its relationship with shippers, carriers, and other Government agencies regulating and promoting transportation and public utilities; conducts research in each of the transportation and public utility fields designed to ascertain the needs of commerce, the adequacy and economy of present facilities and services for those needs, the effects of rates, services, and public transport policies upon commerce and national and regional industrial development, and to suggest the improvements and economies in transportation and public utility services that can be made; supplies shippers, carriers, Government agencies and others with information regarding transportation and public utility rates, services, and practices; and takes action before regulatory bodies, Congressional committees, and other agencies toward obtaining improved services and lower rates, more adequate transportation and public utility data, and progressive public transport policies.

PART 332—RESOURCES AVAILABLE TO PUBLIC

Sec.
332.1 Services available.
332.2 Published material.

§ 332.1 Services available. The resources of the Office of Domestic Commerce are made available to the public through answers to inquiries received by mail, through personal interviews, and through the publication of reports and articles. Inquiries may be addressed to the Office of Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C., or to the nearest field office of the Department. (See Parts 350–359 for the location and addresses of the field offices.) Personal interviews may be had at the Washington Office or in the field offices.

§ 332.2 Published material. The Office of Domestic Commerce disseminates material, information and analyses of a commodity or industry nature through the medium of the following publications:

(a) Industry reports. These reports are designed to give periodic analyses of significant current trends in specific industries and services. They are free to the public upon request to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C., or to the nearest Department Field Office.

(b) Industrial reference service. This service consists of a series of eleven parts in commodity groups and one part called the Commodity Reference Series. The commodity groups cover important commodity and industrial developments relating to markets, technology, production, sales potential, and the like, in the United States and foreign countries. The Commodity Reference Series provides concise basic information on important raw materials and finished products and are designed to serve as a reference manual. The Industrial Reference Service is a subscription publication, available from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

(c) Domestic commerce. This is a monthly publication of the Department of Commerce. The Office of Domestic Commerce contributes special articles of current interest on a wide variety of subjects of industrial and commercial interest.

(d) Industrial and economic series. This medium is used for special booklets giving complete and detailed statistical and other background information on specific industries, trades and services.

A complete list of these publications together with specific instructions for requesting them is available in a publication entitled List of Selected Publications Copies may be obtained upon request addressed to Printing and Publications, Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C.

OFFICE OF SMALL BUSINESS

PART 340—GENERAL FUNCTIONS AND ORGANIZATION

Sec.
340.1 Creation.
340.2 General functions.
340.3 Organization.

§ 340.1 Creation. The Office of Small Business was established by Department of Commerce Department Order No. 10, dated December 18, 1945, as the focal point through which all of the Department's services for the small business segment of the national economy would be made available.

§ 340.2 General functions. The Office of Small Business is generally responsible for ascertaining the needs of small business and assisting small business in supplying those needs. It represents small business with other Government agencies, assists in developing and protecting small business opportunities, furnishes small businessmen with information as to business opportunities and methods of operation obtained from public and private sources which would not normally be available to businessmen of limited resources.

The functions of the Smaller War Plants Corporation which were transferred to the Department of Commerce by Executive Order 9665 have been assigned to the Office of Small Business.

§ 340.3 Organization. The Office of Small Business is headed by a Director who reports to the Secretary of Commerce through the Assistant to the Secretary for Small Business. The Office consists of the Office of the Director, the Management Division, the Industrial Production Division, the Finance and Tax Division, and the Business Practices Division.

PART 341—FUNCTIONS OF ORGANIZATION UNITS

Sec.
341.1 Office of the Director.
341.2 Management Division.
341.3 Industrial Production Division.
341.4 Finance and Tax Division.
341.5 Business Practices Division.

§ 341.1 Office of the Director. The Office of the Director is responsible for formulating the policies and programs of the Office of Small Business and for supervising, directing, and coordinating its operations.

§ 341.2 Management Division. The basic objective of this Division is to promote greater economy and efficiency in the management of small business and particularly to assist veterans desiring to establish new small businesses or to acquire going small business enterprises. In the accomplishment of this objective, this office will assemble, classify, and disseminate information on the management problems involved in establishing a new business, taking over a business already in operation, and operating a going concern and provide a service to small business to assist particular businesses in the solution of specific management problems.

§ 341.3 Industrial Production Division. The Industrial Production Division is responsible for assisting small businesses in obtaining contracts and subcontracts from Federal, State, and local governments and private firms; in obtaining allocations of scarce materials and products; in obtaining Federal surplus property; for representing the interests of small business with the Government agencies; and for assembling and disseminating information on particular production problems.

§ 341.4 Finance and Tax Division. The basic objectives of the Finance and Tax Division are: (a) to assist small business in improving its financial structure and position; and (b) to work for improvements in such tax laws and regulations as may be found unnecessarily burdensome to or definitely contrary to the best interests of small business. The Division furnishes information to small businesses concerning the types of taxes which must be paid under various types of business organizational structures and concerning basic requirements for complying with Federal tax laws, and refers businessmen to public and private sources for specific instructions relating to technical tax questions. It also attempts to determine what tax laws and regulations are burdensome or harmful to small business and to obtain, in collaboration with the various taxing agencies, corrective measures and legislation.

§ 341.5 Business Practices Division. The basic responsibility of the Business Practices Division is to discover and eliminate trade practices, regulations, and laws which, in their operation, tend to restrict small business unfairly. The Division maintains active liaison and cooperative arrangements with Governmental regulatory bodies such as the Federal Trade Commission and the Food and Drug Administration. The Division, in collaboration with such regulatory bodies, sponsors specific legislation or revisions of enforcement procedures, when such action is required to correct trade practices which are having an adverse effect on small business enterprises. Information will be made available to small businessmen concerning the types of service available to them from the several Government agencies having an impact on the trade practices of small business.

PART 342—AVAILABILITY OF SERVICES

§ 342.1 Availability of services. All of the programs and objectives indicated in the foregoing section are planned and directed by the Washington staff of the Office of Small Business, and are implemented by and put into active operation through the field offices of the Department of Commerce. Interested persons obtain the assistance available through the activities of the Office of Small Business from the central office, located at 101 Indiana Avenue, NW, Washington, D. C., or from the various field offices, listed in Parts 350–359 of this chapter. Requests for assistance received in the field offices which cannot be adequately rendered, or which indicate problems of interest to the entire small business economy, are referred to the Washington staff for solution. All information of national significance to small business, regardless of where it is developed, is given wide dissemination to small business interests through the various field offices of the Department.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE FIELD SERVICE

PART 350—GENERAL STATEMENT

Sec.
350.1 Creation.
350.2 General purpose and functions.
350.3 General organization.

§ 350.1 Creation. The Department of Commerce Field Service was created by Department Order No. 10 effective December 18, 1945, by transferring and consolidating the Field Service Division and field offices of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and the field offices of International Trade Operations in the continental United States. On January 28, 1946, the field functions of the Smaller War Plants Corporation, transferred to the Department of Commerce by Executive Order 9665, were assigned to the Department of Commerce Field Service.

§ 350.2 General purpose and functions. The purpose of the field organization is to provide a link between the Department of Commerce and the business and industrial communities of the nation in order to make the programs of the Department of Commerce effective in achieving higher levels of trade, employment, sales and investment within the framework of an expanding domestic economy based on free enterprise.

§ 350.3 General organization. The Department of Commerce Field Service will consist of the Office of the Director of Field Service located in Washington and a total of seventy-five field offices grouped into fourteen regions and serviced administratively by three area administrative service offices. (See Part 356 for a list of Field offices which are open at present.) Other offices will be opened in the near future.

PART 351—OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF FIELD SERVICE

§ 351.1 Functions. The Office of the Director of Field Service in Washington is responsible for:

(a) Supervising the operation of the Department Field Offices;

(b) Coordinating the programs assigned to the field offices to avoid duplications and to insure most effective utilization of personnel;

(c) Representing the field offices at the Washington level to insure that the experience and opinions of field personnel and their knowledge of local conditions are brought to bear upon policy deliberations at the Washington level;

(d) Advising the Secretary and his staff regarding the needs of business and industrial establishments for services rendered by the Department, and assisting and advising the heads of primary organization units of the Department in the development of policies and programs which will enable the field offices to more adequately meet those needs.

PART 352—REGIONAL OFFICES

§ 352.1 Location. Regional Offices are located in the following cities:

Boston	Kansas City
New York	Dallas
Philadelphia	Minneapolis
Cleveland	Denver
Chicago	San Francisco
Atlanta	Seattle
St. Louis	Los Angeles

§ 352.2 Organization and function. Each Regional Office operates under the supervision of a Regional Director who acts as representative of the Secretary in relationships between the Department and the representatives of business and industry throughout the Region. Each Regional Director is responsible to the Director of Field Service for the accomplishment of all field programs assigned to the Regions and the efficient administration of all activities within the Region. Each Regional office includes a Deputy Regional Director and other assistants responsible for the following activities:

(a) World trade promotion.
(b) Small business service.
(c) Domestic commerce.
(d) Area development.
(e) Technical advisory service.
(f) Business economics.
(g) Business and economic information.

PART 353—DISTRICT OFFICES

§ 353.1 General. District Offices report through and are responsible to their appropriate Regional Director with the exception of Baltimore, Richmond, and Norfolk, which will report directly to the Washington Office of Department Field Service. Each District Office is responsible for carrying on the activities indicated in § 352.2 above.

PART 354—MAJOR ACTIVITIES

Major activities of the field offices are as listed below.

§ 354.1 World trade promotion. Field offices provide foreign traders with advice regarding the techniques and opportunities in the world trade field, advising exporters and importers with reference to markets and general or specific economic conditions abroad, including quotas and other trade controls established by foreign governments; and furnish export and import statistics for all types of commodities and market and production information on individual commodities and industries abroad. Trade lists and world trade directory reports, as well as other available services are used to assist in placing exporters and importers in touch with agents and producers abroad. The field offices also furnish world traders with information and assistance regarding export licenses and other trade controls in the United States and supply exporters and importers with information and assistance in connection with insurance, travel, transportation and communications abroad. The New York office is authorized without prior clearance with the Office of International Trade in Washington to extend and amend licenses under specified conditions and to approve transfers of licenses in accordance with export regulations. It is authorized, after clearance with the Office of International Trade in Washington, to validate, amend, and extend licenses covering urgently needed commodities and to validate duplicate licenses in cases of emergency.

§ 354.2 Small business services. Field offices are equipped to assist small businessmen in the solution of their problems, including methods for the control of operating costs, reduction of overhead expenses, development of operating methods, determination of the cost of distribution and the evaluation of specific trade practices of small businesses. This work includes assistance to Veterans and others in evaluating new business opportunities and furnishing independent small businesses with other available information for the purpose of strengthening and perpetuating small business in a free enterprise system.

§ 354.3 Regional development. The Regional field offices include a staff which represents the Regional Director in negotiating with State Planning Boards, State Departments of Commerce or other organizations within the region with the objective of industrial and commercial improvement of underdeveloped areas.

§ 354.4 Technical advisory service. The field offices are responsible for assisting and advising small manufacturers and others concerned with industrial processes in the solution of technological problems, including problems on machine tool utilization, plant layout, the development of new products and processes, the utilization of alternate types of raw material, etc. This work is carried on in collaboration with the Office of Technical Services in Washington in the development of technological research projects to be carried on by universities, libraries and other institutions.

§ 354.6 Business and economic information. Personnel of the Regional field offices are responsible for disseminating through the local press, radio, trade associations, trade journals, etc., news stories and articles prepared by the Department of Commerce in Washington designed to acquaint the public with the published reports and business data prepared by the Department and to acquaint them with the business services rendered by the Department and to interest local business leaders in regional or area programs. Each field office maintains a business library which is supplied with appropriate books, periodicals, and other printed material of value to the businessmen in the community. They also maintain a supply of Department of Commerce publications for sale and for official distribution and prepare a domestic news letter and a foreign commerce news letter to be distributed periodically to a mailing list of local businessmen.

§ 354.7 Domestic commerce. The Department Field Service advises and assists businessmen and manufacturers for the purpose of stimulating and obtaining profitable operations of manufacturing, construction, distribution, and transportation. This is done by providing factual, analytical, and interpretative data on commodities, industries, transportation, and marketing for use by businessmen and manufacturers as basic guides in trade maintenance and expansion programs; and by maintaining close contact with trade associations and other groups representing industry, and advising such groups of activities and programs of the Department. The field offices also gather such factual information and data as may be required from time to time by the Office of Domestic Commerce. The broad field programs of the Office of Domestic Commerce are adopted by the individual field offices in such ways as will best serve the needs of the particular regions.

PART 355—SERVICES OF FIELD OFFICES

The services of the Department Field Service field offices are made available to businessmen through a number of channels. Primarily through local newspapers, trade journals, trade associations, and the radio, businessmen are made familiar in a general way with the information and services available for their use in the field offices. Domestic commerce news letters and foreign commerce news letters are periodically prepared and distributed to a mailing list of local businessmen. Individual inquiries are received in the field offices by mail, telephone, or personal interviews.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

§ 360.1 Creation. The Office of International Trade was established by Department Order No. 10, issued and effective December 18, 1945, and its organization and functions are defined in Department Order No. 11, issued and effective December 26, 1945. It represents a consolidation of the foreign trade functions of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce with the export control and corresponding trade relation functions which were transferred from the Foreign Economic Administration to the Department of Commerce pursuant to Executive Order No. 9630 (10 F. R. 12245) dated September 27, 1945, and it also includes certain additional functions arising from participation of the Secretary of Commerce in formulation of the economic and commercial foreign policy of the United States.

§ 360.2 General purpose and function. The basic purpose and function of the Office is to promote the foreign trade of the United States, both export and import, with the view to maintaining full production and employment, facilitating the expansion and balanced growth of international trade, and stabilizing international economic relations. In pursuing this objective the Office represents the interests of the foreign trade community, not only in supplying its continuing need for factual information, analysis and advice concerning world commerce, but also in providing it with a channel and voice in the formulation of this country's foreign economic policy, and, in turn, interpreting that policy to business men.

§ 360.3 Informational and promotional functions. The Office is charged with execution of the Department's statutory responsibilities of collecting, analyzing, and disseminating statistics and other information as to the foreign trade of this and other countries, as to present and potential sources of supply for imports and markets for exports, and as to foreign business concerns, trade opportunities and available channels of distribution. These responsibilities include the compiling, analyzing and publishing of information concerning laws, regulations, and business practices affecting foreign trade at home and abroad and involve active efforts to secure adoption of those which are beneficial and modification or elimination of those which are detrimental to the advancement of world trade. The Office thus makes investigations and recommendations concerning such matters as tariffs, preference systems, and subsidy arrangements; trade restricitons based on quota systems, bilateral trade agreements, and exchange controls; State trading, government monopolies, and cartels; restoration of private trade with ex-enemy countries and other war areas; simplification of customs regulations, standardization of business codes and practices, and equitable revision of tax laws; and elimination of restrictive or discriminatory conditions or measures generally.

In connection with its promotional responsibilities, the Office also administers the China Trade Act of 1922, as amended (42 Stat. 849; 43 Stat. 995; 49 Stat. 1921; 53 Stat. 1432), under which companies may secure Federal incorporation pursuant to regulations issued by the Secretary of Commerce, provided that they will in his judgment aid in developing markets in China for goods produced in the United States. Corporations organized and operated in accordance with the Statute and regulations, doing business solely in China, enjoy certain tax exemptions under the internal revenue laws.

The administrative functions of the Secretary of Commerce under the Foreign Trade Zone Act of 1934 (48 Stat. 998), as well as those of the Executive Secretary of the Foreign Trade Zones Board, likewise fall within the Office of International Trade. The organization, functions and procedure of the Board are separately stated in Chapter IV of this Title and Subtitle.

§ 360.4 Foreign trade policy functions. It is the further function of the Office of International Trade to participate with the State Department and other interested agencies in formulating the foreign commercial and economic policy of the United States; representing the Department of Commerce on the President's Executive Committee for Economic Foreign Policy, the interdepartmental Trade Agreements Committee and the Committee for Reciprocity Information, as well as other interdepartmental committees, such as the Board of the Foreign Service. Through the membership of the Secretary of Commerce on the National Advisory Council, the Office also participates in the foreign lending and investment policy and program of this country, as carried out by the International Monetary Fund, the World Bank, the Export-Import Bank, and otherwise. The Department's responsibilities in connection with the activities of the United Nations, particularly with respect to the Economic and Social Council, the Food and Agriculture Organization, and the proposed International Trade Organization, are likewise borne by this office.

§ 360.5 Administration of export control. The export licensing powers conferred on the President by section 6 of the act of July 2, 1940 (54 Stat. 714), as amended and extended by Public Law 389, 79th Cong., approved May 23, 1946, which were formerly exercised by the Foreign Economic Administration, have been transferred to this Office, as stated above, along with responsibility for liquidating certain other parts of the Foreign Economic Administration.

§ 360.6 Basic organization. The Office of International Trade is composed of four main organizational units, viz., (a) Office of the Director, (b) Areas Branch, (c) Commodities Branch, and (d) Special Services and Intelligence Branch.

§ 360.7 Office of the Director. The Office of the Director, which exercises general supervision over, and furnishes certain staff services to, the three operating Branches, consists of a Director, a Deputy for Trade Policy, a Deputy for Trade Promotion, an Assistant for Occupied Areas and Reparations, a Legal Staff, an Administrative Management Staff, and a Foreign Service Liaison Staff. It also includes the Executive Secretary of the Foreign Trade Zones Board, his functions, as well as the administrative functions of the Secretary of Commerce under the Foreign Trade Zone Act, being vested in the Office of the Director.

The Deputy for Trade Policy has primary responsibility for direction, review and coordination of policy formulation and execution of the three operating Branches. It is also his function to coordinate the Department's representation on interdepartmental and other committees and its relations with international organizations, conferences, etc., dealing with international economic and commercial policy.

The Deputy for Trade Promotion has primary responsibility for directing, reviewing, and coordinating operations of the three Branches relating particularly to promotional work, including formation and use of industry advisory committees, relations with the Foreign Service, and all plans or programs for stimulating exports or imports or for rendering specialized services to exporters or importers. He also supervises relations with Department field offices insofar as concerns foreign trade. In addition, he represents the Secretary on the Committee of Alternates of the Foreign Trade Zones Board.

The Assistant for Occupied Areas and Reparations has primary responsibility for coordinating all activities relating to trade and reparations with respect to Germany, Japan and other occupied areas and for providing representation of the Department on interdepartmental and other committees dealing with these subjects.

The staff operations centralized in the Office of the Director are carried on by a Legal Staff, which provides all legal advice and services to the Office; an Administrative Management Staff, which handles all matters of budget, personnel, office space and equipment, and related subjects; and a Foreign Service Liaison Staff which provides liaison with the State Department in connection with the Foreign Service, coordinates Department participation in selection, training and assignment of Foreign Service personnel engaged in commercial reporting, surveys needs for foreign commercial reporting and undertakes to secure necessary changes or improvements in such reporting, and serves as a channel for communications between the operating branches and the Foreign Service.

§ 360.8 Areas Branch. The Areas Branch, which is organized on a geographical basis, compiles, analyzes and disseminates foreign trade information with respect to particular countries or regions and represents the Department on committees or other groups dealing with world trade problems on an area basis. It is also responsible for preparing basic information for use in negotiating reciprocal trade agreements, administers the China Trade Act, and maintains liaison with economic staffs of foreign governments in this country and with economic representatives of this country abroad.

§ 360.9 Commodities Branch. The Commodities Branch is organized along commodity lines, one Division having jurisdiction over foodstuffs, another over machinery, etc. This Branch, however, serves two distinct functions, each under the direction of a Deputy: (a) It compiles, analyzes and disseminates foreign trade information with respect to particular commodities or industries, (b) it administers the export licensing and control program. It also represents the Department on committees dealing with commodities, and maintains liaison with other agencies, including foreign government missions, with regard to world requirements and supply situations. The Director of the Commodities Branch also has responsibility for determining ownership of, and compensation for, property requisitioned during the war by predecessors of the Office of International Trade, viz., the Foreign Economic Administration, the Office of Economic Warfare, the Board of Economic Warfare, the Economic Defense Board, the Office of Export Control, or the Administrator of Export Control, pursuant to the act of October 10, 1940 (54 Stat. 1090), as amended. This act authorized the requisitioning of any property the exportation of which was prohibited or curtailed in accordance with the act of July 2, 1940 (54 Stat. 714), as amended. This is a residual war function and will terminate with the settlement of outstanding claims. Reference of disputed claims is made to a Compensation Commissioner, before whom the dispute may be heard, but ultimate decision rests with the Director. This authority is exercised under delegation from the President. (E. O. 6942, 3 CFR (Cum. Supp.) 1024; E. O. 9361, 8 F. R. 9861; E. O. 9380, 8 F. R. 13031; E. O. 9360, 10 F. R. 12245)

§ 360.10 Special Service and Intelligence Branch. The Special Services and Intelligence Branch consists of three Divisions, viz., Transportation and Communications Division, Commercial Intelligence Division, and Special Services Liaison Division. As these titles suggest, there are combined in this Branch the functions of compiling, analyzing disseminating information as to foreign business establishments, export and import connections abroad, activities of foreign trade associations, etc., making studies and recommendations relating to the removal of obstructions to development of transportation and communications, and providing personalized services to exporters and importers, particularly in planning selling or buying operations abroad. This Branch issues various publications, such as foreign buyers lists, reports on particular foreign establishments, surveys of conditions abroad in particular countries or affecting particular commodities, aids and guides to exporters and importers, and other material helpful to the trade.

§ 360.11 Field offices. The Office of International Trade utilizes the regular field offices of the Department of Commerce at which any publications or services of the Office may be secured. These field offices are listed in the statement published by the Office of Field Operations in Parts 350 and following of this chapter. Forms and information concerning export control may also be secured from such offices.

Field offices, however, have not been delegated any rule-making or adjudicatory authority with respect to export licensing or otherwise except that the New York office is authorized to amend or extend licenses issued in Washington. Applications for licenses must be filed with, and licenses must be issued by, the Washington Office. Field offices have no responsibilities with respect to the granting of compensation for requisitioned property or relating to the China Trade Act or the Foreign Trade Zone Act.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 360.12 Functions involving administrative procedure. The preceding description of organization and functions demonstrates that, except with respect to the administration of export control, the granting of compensation for requisitioned property and the administration of the China Trade Act and the Foreign Trade Zone Act, the Office of International Trade exercises no regulatory or adjudicatory functions and consequently does not employ procedures through which rights are asserted or obligations are enforced. The procedure applicable to the Foreign Trade Zone Act is stated in chapter IV of this title. The other three exceptions do, however, call for a statement of procedure.

§ 360.13 Procedure relating to the China Trade Act. The procedure and forms governing organization and operation of corporations under the China Trade Act are set forth in regulations duly issued by the Secretary of Commerce and published as Parts 300 and 301 of this chapter (15 CFR 581). They are administered jointly by the Secretary and the China Trade Act Registrar, the latter being a Foreign Service Officer in China, but the Registrar is subject to supervision by the Secretary and his actions may be appealed to the Secretary for review.

Three or more persons, a majority of whom must be citizens of the United States, may file an application in duplicate on Form 1 for a certificate of incorporation as a China Trade Act corporation. It may be filed with either the Secretary or the Registrar, as may any other documents required to be filed, but must be transmitted to the Secretary, who alone may issue the certificate. The application must be accompanied by articles of incorporation in quintuplicate and, before a certificate of incorporation may be issued (Form 2), at least 25% of the authorized capital stock must have been paid for in cash or property. Where payment is made in property, a statement (Form 6) must be filed by the directors within six months certifying as to the value of such property, and a supporting certificate of property value (Form 7) by two disinterested persons must also be filed—both in duplicate. The articles must name an accredited agent in the District of Columbia, be accompanied by a letter of consent and a power of attorney, and must designate the location of the corporation's principal office in the District of Columbia.

Provision is also made for the securing of certificates of amendment of the articles (Form 3), certificates of authorization for voluntary dissolution (Form 4), and certificates of authorization for extension (Form 5)—all of which are to be filed in quintuplicate with either Secretary or Registrar. Minutes of stockholders' meetings, certified copies of by-laws, annual reports (Form 8), and certificates of distribution of special tax-saving dividends (Form 9) must also be filed. The last named certificates furnish the Secretary with the necessary data on the basis of which he in turn certifies to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue as to the tax status of the corporation.

The Registrar is authorized to investigate the affairs of China Trade Act corporations to ascertain whether they are operating within the law; to issue subpoenas, order depositions taken, etc., for that purpose; and, in the event that he finds an evasion of the law, to institute proceedings for revocation of the certificate of incorporation.

Appeals to the Secretary may be taken from action of the Registrar within six months thereafter, the procedure being for the appellant to file his appeal and a full statement of the facts with the Registrar, the latter then certifying as to his action and the facts, and forwarding the documents to the Secretary. In the event of failure of the Registrar to certify, the appeal may be taken directly to the Secretary, but the Registrar must furnish the Secretary with a statement of his action and the reasons therefor.

§ 360.14 Procedure relating to requisitioned property. Insofar as concerns the requisitioning functions, the only remaining activities involve determination of ownership and compensation, hence only the procedure applicable to claims is of any present significance. Any claimant may petition the Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C., for compensation for property in which he asserts an interest, which was requisitioned by one of the above-named predecessors of the Office of International Trade. Each petition must be filed in duplicate and must fully identify the claimant, describe the property and claimant's alleged interest therein, state the fair value of the property when requisitioned, specify the nature and amount of the claim, set forth the facts establishing ownership, and indicate any other outstanding interests in the property in the nature of lien, pledge, contract of purchase, or otherwise. The petition must be verified. It may be signed by an attorney-in-fact if accompanied by power of attorney in duplicate original. The petition must also be accompanied by a list and description of the property requisitioned, copies of any purchase orders or contracts covering the property, originals of all documents of title, including warehouse receipts, bills of lading, etc., evidencing or affecting claimant's ownership, and evidence of any payment for such property and a statement of any discount or rebate—all such documents to be filed in duplicate.

Determinations of ownership and compensation are made by the Director of the Commodities Branch pursuant to recommendations made by the Compensation Commissioner. The Compensation Commissioner reviews the claims and all related documents, may hold oral hearings where he deems them necessary, may require any person to appear or file claim within the limited time or else be bound by any determination made against him, and makes his recommendations on the evidence submitted. All hearings are public and are held at such times and places as the Compensation Commissioner may prescribe upon reasonable notice. Witness may be examined orally and under oath and depositions or other documentary evidence may be taken and received.

Provision is made by statute for resort to the courts by claimants who are dissatisfied with an award of compensation made according to the above procedure.

§ 360.15 Procedure relating to export control. The export licensing functions of the Office of International Trade are administered in accordance with rules and regulations published in the FEDERAL REGISTER under Title 32, Chapter VIII, Subchapter B. The general scheme of export control is that all countries to which exportation is permitted are divided into two classes, viz., Group K and Group E; a list of commodities, known as the "Positive List", indicates those commodities which can be exported to Group K countries only when so authorized by an export license issued by the Office; other commodities may be exported to Group K countries under general license requiring no application and no issuance of any document of license; but all commodities shipped to Group E countries require application for and issuance of specific licenses. There are certain exceptions to the foregoing, viz., no commodities shipped to Canada or a territory or possession of the U. S. require a license; no specific licenses are required, the general license being sufficient, where the value of the shipment is under prescribed amounts, or where the property constitutes personal baggage, or a gift parcel, or is going to a member of the U. S. armed forces or other U. S. representative abroad, etc.; there are special provisions applicable to certain commodities such as textiles, nylon hosiery, new tires and tubes, penicillin, building materials, etc. There are also some situations in which, instead of using individual licenses applicable only to particular shipments of specified commodities to specified consignees, exporters may use blanket licenses applicable to several consignees in the same country, or may secure other specialized types of licenses, as described below.

An individual license, where necessary, is secured by filing an application with the Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C., on Form IT–419. This application, when validated by stamp or other writing on its face, constitutes a license authorizing shipment of specified quantities of designated commodities from a designated consignor to a designated consignee, and is returned to the applicant. If it is denied, it is so marked and returned; if it is insufficient in some material respect, it is returned without action, but with instructions. It may, however, be granted in part and denied in part. Licenses are valid, subject to certain exceptions especially with respect to foodstuffs, for one year from the date of validation. If not used, or upon expiration, they must be returned to the Office of International Trade.

The application (Form IT–419) must state the name and address of the applicant, the consignor (if different from applicant), the foreign purchaser, the foreign consignee (if different from foreign purchaser), the party for whose account the applicant is exporting (if not for his own account), and the supplier of the goods (if the applicant is not the manufacturer and is not shipping from stock) as well as the character of the supplier as manufacturer, distributor, etc.; must fully describe the goods to be exported, listing quantities, the Department of Commerce Schedule B numbers, and prices; and must indicate how prices charged are computed in terms of basic domestic price and export premium so as to show compliance with applicable price regulations.

The exporter, when making shipment, is required to present the license to the Collector of Customs at the port of exit or, where shipment is by mail, to the postmaster at the point of mailing, who retains and returns it to the Office of International Trade (except where partial shipments are made, in which case the license is returned to the exporter, with the amount of shipment noted thereon, for further use and later retention and return to the Office).

Most commodities which may not be exported to a particular destination under general license may nevertheless be exported under blanket license which permits shipment of specific commodities by a named exporter to two or more specifically named consignees located in a designated Group K or Group E country. Applications for blanket licenses are submitted on Form IT–419, with attached lists of consignees, purchasers, and other parties in interest, and with total values and quantities shown. The holder of such a license need not present it to the Collector of Customs at the port of exit, but must certify on the export declaration that the shipment is made pursuant to blanket, license, furnishing the number thereof and the date of validation, and must endorse the facts regarding the shipment on the back of the license.

Limited production licenses may be used in lieu of individual licenses by manufacturers of 1945 and 1946 passenger cars, trucks, bus chasses, and truck-tractors, provided such manufacturers have been authorized by the Civilian Production Administration to produce these vehicles for export. Application must be made on Forms IT–48, which requires merely that the applicant identify himself and the products (including quantity), but must be accompanied by a proposed schedule of distribution by countries, or, if the applicant has not been notified of his permitted exports for the specified period, the Office of International Trade will inform him thereof by letter and, upon receipt of his proposed distribution schedule, will furnish him (on Form IT–38 or IT–43) with an approved schedule indicating his permitted exports of each product to each country during the specified period. This license need not be submitted to Collectors of Customs but its number must be endorsed on the export declaration.

Limited distribution licenses may be secured for certain commodities, such as nylon hosiery, new tires and tubes, and penicillin, authorizing exportation of specified quantities to specified destinations within stated periods. Application must be made on Form IT–48 and the appropriate application for distribution schedule (Form IT–41, IT–554 or IT–555) showing quantities proposed to be exported during the stated period to each of the specified countries. The procedure is similar to that relating to limited production licenses—the difference being mainly that the latter are confined to manufacturers whereas limited distribution licenses are not so limited.

Consolidated licenses may be secured for the export of certain building materials and broad woven cotton textiles. Such licenses, for which application is made on Form IT–419, permit shipment of a designated quantity of the products to specified countries during a stated period—thus avoiding the necessity for submission of individual license applications. They must be submitted to Collectors of Customs at the time of shipment and, when shipment against them is completed, must be returned to the Office of International Trade.

Provision is also made for issuance of special licenses covering specific foreign projects or programs, authorizing export of all items needed for such projects or for one year's operation of such programs. These projects or programs must be of an essential character, as determined by standards specified in the regulations, and applications for these special licenses (on Forms IT–419 and FEA 375) must be accompanied by statements showing that such standards have been met.

The Office of International Trade also serves as the certifying agency for manufacturers who wish to establish their eligibility to participate in the "British Token Import Plan". Under this plan, the United Kingdom permits importation from the United States of certain branded products in yearly amounts not exceeding 20% of the average annual shipments of each producer during the years 1936, 1937 and 1938. Applications may be submitted in triplicate on Form IT–558, furnishing data as to pre-war exports to the United Kingdom of applicants' branded products which are subject to the plan, on the basis of which the applications will be certified and returned to the applicants, together with token scrip in an amount proportional to the pre-war exports so certified. This scrip may be forwarded to the British importer and used by him to secure an import license from the British Board of Trade.

License application forms, unless otherwise stated, must be filed in duplicate and must be accompanied by an acknowledgement card on Form IT–116. Copies of each may be secured in Washington, at any field office of the Department of Commerce, or from any Collector of Customs. The acknowledgement card is returned to the applicant, serving to inform him of receipt of the application and also of the case number assigned to it, this number becoming the license number if and when a license is issued.

Licenses may be amended or transferred, upon application, by the Office of International Trade in Washington or at the New York office—or, upon special instructions and authorization from Washington, they may be amended by Collectors of Customs. Licenses may also, upon cause shown, be renewed or extended beyond their original expiration date.

An appeal may be taken from denial of an application for a license or from denial of a request for transfer or extension, provided such appeal is filed within 60 days after denial, and provided other required data is furnished. Such appeals are to be filed with the Office of International Trade in Washington and are subject to final action by the Director of the Commodities Branch.

Violations of export licenses or regulations, as well as the giving of any false information, is punishable as a crime under the laws of the United States. In addition, violations may result in the institution of administrative proceedings leading to a suspension for a stated period of the right to secure or use export licenses. Such proceedings are begun by filing formal charges, the accused being given an opportunity to answer in writing or at oral hearing before a Compliance Commissioner, the latter then making findings of fact as to whether or not a violation has occurred, together with recommendations to the Deputy Director of the Commodities Branch, who makes final disposition of the matter. An appeal to the Director is allowed from adverse action.

SUBPART C—SUBSTANTIVE RULES, POLICY STATEMENTS AND INTERPRETATIONS

§ 360.16 Functions involving rule-making. The only substantive rules, policy statements or interpretations issued by the Office of International Trade for the guidance of the public are those which, as indicated above, relate to administration of export control, the granting of compensation for requisitioned property, and administration of the China Trade Act and the Foreign Trade Zone Act. They have been published in the manner and places specified above and all future action of this character will be published under appropriate titles in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 360.17 Publication of export regulations. Attention is called to the fact that these rules, statements and interpretations, insofar as they relate to the principal administrative activity of the Office, viz., export control, are not only published in the FEDERAL REGISTER but also are summarized and explained in less technical language in the Comprehensive Export Schedules issued every three months and the Current Export Bulletins issued intermittently by the Office of International Trade. Copies may be secured from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C., either individually or on a subscription basis.

SUBPART D—FINAL OPINIONS AND ORDERS

§ 360.18 Action on export license applications held confidential. The Office of International Trade has found and hereby declares that all action taken upon applications for export licenses is required to be held confidential and accordingly has not been and will not be published or made available to public inspection. Such applications and action upon them contain or constitute information which, for competitive reasons, the licensee and other parties to the transaction are entitled to have withheld from the trade and the general public. Action is taken on such applications in accordance with published rules and is not cited as precedent.

§ 360.19 Other adjudicatory action. Orders imposing penalties for violation of export regulations or approving or disapproving claims for compensation for requisitioned property are available to public inspection on working days and during working hours upon request at Room 2047, Temporary Building "T", 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, N. W., Washington 25, D. C. Action taken with reference to China Trade Act corporations is similarly available to public inspection at Room 3525, Commerce Building, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, N. W., Washington 25. D. C.

SUBPART E—OFFICIAL RECORDS

§ 360.20 Availability for public inspection. Persons properly and directly concerned may inspect any official records of the Office of International Trade, except those required for good cause to be held confidential, upon request on working days and during working hours at Room 2047, Temporary Building "T", 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, N. W., Washington 25, D. C., if such records pertain to export control or compensation for requisitioned property; at Room 3525, Commerce Building, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, Washington 25, D. C., if such records pertain to China Trade Act corporations; or at Room 3733, Commerce Building, if such records pertain to any other matter.

Issued this 29th day of August 1946.

[SEAL] ARTHUR PAUL, Director.

H. A. WALLACE,
Secretary of Commerce.

SUBPART A—GENERAL PROVISIONS

§ 650.1 General. Under Reorganization Plans III and IV of the Reorganization Act of 1939, certain functions of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 are performed by the Civil Aeronautics Board, while others are performed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Accordingly, persons desiring information with respect to civil aviation should also consult the rules and regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board. The organization of the central office of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, which is located in the Commerce Building, Washington, D. C., is as follows:

SUBPART B—ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICES

§ 650.11 Office of the Administrator—(a) The Administrator. The Administrator of the Civil Aeronautics Administration:

(1) Adopts and promulgates the Regulations of the Administrator with respect to the designation of civil airways, the registration of aircraft and the recordation of conveyances affecting the title to, or interest in, civil aircraft of the United States, notices of construction or alteration of structures on or near a civil airway. Aeronautical Rules for the Washington National Airport, and such other rules and regulations which may be necessary to properly effectuate the powers and duties vested in him under the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, the Act to provide for the Administration of the Washington National Airport, and the Federal Airport Act.

(2) Recommends to the Civil Aeronautics Board the adoption or revision of rules and regulations with respect to safety in air commerce.

(3) Apportions the money made available for grants for airport among the several states, determines grants made to sponsors of airport development and exercises discretionary authority in the determination of the rules and conditions of any offer of such funds to the sponsor of airport development.

(4) Accepts compromise offers of civil penalties resulting from violations of Titles V and VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 as amended.

(5) Designates medical examiners.

(6) In an over-all capacity directs, supervises and coordinates all functions and activities of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

(b) Deputy Administrator. (1) The Deputy Administrator of Civil Aeronautics assists the Administrator in the duties and functions set forth in § 650.11 of this subpart.

(2) During the absence of the Administrator acts for the Administrator.

(c) Assistants to the Administrator—(1) Assistant to the Administrator for Personal Flying Development. Advises and assists the Administrator in formulating and determining over-all policies in matters pertaining to the development of personal flying and aircraft development.

(2) Assistant to the Administrator for Investigations. (i) Investigates cases of fraud, collusion, violations of law and regulations and other malpractices and actions contrary to the public interest alleged to have been committed by Civil Aeronautics Administration employees or by other individuals, partnerships, corporations or agencies in connection with any phase of the Administration's programs and activities. (ii) Collaborates with investigative agents of other Federal organizations or of State and local governments where matters pertaining to the Administration's programs, activities, or interest are involved.

(3) Assistant to the Administrator for State Relations. (i) Develops, recommends and coordinates a broad program for establishing and maintaining a satisfactory and uniform understanding and working relationship between the Administration and the several States with respect to legislation and the promotion and development of civil aviation. (ii) Serves on, and acts as, secretary to the Department of Commerce—Civil Aeronautics Administration Committee on State Legislation.

§ 650.12 Staff offices—(a) Director of plans and performance. (1) Is a member of the Secretariat of the Air Coordinating Committee.

(2) Coordinates the Administration's activities and relationships with international bodies concerned with, or related to civil aviation including the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organization.

(3) Coordinates engineering and related standardization pertaining to the various activities of the Administration in relationship to other agencies or groups active in such fields.

(b) General counsel. (1) Directs and is responsible for the performance of all work of a legal nature of the Civil Aeronautics Administration; is responsible for the development and establishment of all legal policies and legal procedures of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, directs and coordinates the rendering of legal counsel and other legal services to the Administrator and other officials of the Administration in all matters pertaining to the functions of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

(2) Directs and coordinates the legal aspects of the work of the Regional Attorneys.

(3) Renders legal interpretations of the safety provisions of the Civil Air Regulations and the regulations of the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics.

(4) Directs the initiation and negotiation of the compromise of civil penalties for violations of Titles V and VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 and the rules and regulations issued thereunder.

(5) Directs the initiation of action and prosecution of cases before the Civil Aeronautics Board relating to the suspension or revocation of any type certificate, production certificate, airworthiness certificate, airman certificate, air carrier operating certificate, air navigation facility certificate, or air agency certificate.

(6) Represents the Administration in all cases before the Board arising out of the denial of airman certificates.

(7) Represents the Administration in all legal proceedings involving violations under Title V and VI of the Act and other cases arising out of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended; the Act to provide for the Administration of the Washington National Airport, and the Federal Airport Act.

(c) Assistant Administrator for aviation information. (1) Formulates, directs and coordinates the aviation information program with respect to the world-wide collection, correlation and dissemination of publications, current information and statistics for the use of airmen and others concerned with aviation. Lists of the various publications issued by the Civil Aeronautics Administration may be obtained by addressing a request to the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

(2) Represents the Civil Aeronautics Administration in governmental and private fact-finding committees concerned with the gathering, evaluation and publication of aeronautical data.

(3) Serves as the official channel of contact with the press, radio and other media of public expression for all offices of the Administration.

(d) Assistant Administrator for aviation training. (1) Plans, coordinates and guides the Administration's program of fostering and encouraging the development of civil aviation through schools and colleges, public and private; cooperates with and provides professional and technical assistance to such schools and Federal agencies, state and local governments, organizations and individuals interested in aviation education, including audio-visual training.

(2) Maintains liaison with appropriate state agencies on matters pertaining to the flight training of veterans in connection with Federally sponsored programs.

§ 650.13 Office of Airports. The Office of Airports shall be under the direction of the Assistant Administrator for Airports. The Office of Airports formulates broad policies, develops, directs and fosters the coordination of a national system of airports, and directs the Federal Aid Airport Program.

(a) Airport Requirements Service. (1) Develops and recommends policies, requirements and procedures governing the participation of states, municipalities and other public agencies in federal aid airport projects and the securing of adherence to such policies, requirements and procedures.

(2) Directs and coordinates the fostering of state and local legislation required to permit or facilitate airport development, regulation and protection of approaches through zoning or property acquisition.

(3) Secures compliance with statutory policy and contractual requirements relative to airport operation practices, conditions and arrangements.

(4) Develops, recommends and interprets policies, procedures and requirements governing CAA participation in programs for the disposal of surplus Government airports, and in connection therewith it advises and assists State and local representatives with respect to public use or acquisition of Federal airport property.

(b) Airport Planning Service. (1) Directs, formulates and keeps current a national plan for the development of an adequate system of airports in cooperation with Federal, State and local agencies, and determines and recommends the extent to which portions or units of that system should be developed or improved.

(2) Directs the collection and maintenance of current information pertaining to all civil airport facilities, management, operation and maintenance, and collaborates with the Office of Aviation Information in the preparation of bulletins and other media for the dissemination of such information to the public.

(3) Cooperates with and assists State and local officials, planning boards and commissions in the development of plans for all types of airport facilities and systems. Develops planning standards, methods and procedures for their guidance.

(4) Consults with and advises airport owners and operators in matters pertaining to airport management, operation and maintenance.

(c) Airport Engineering Service. (1) Develops and establishes standards governing the engineering aspects of airport and seaplane base design and construction, including layout, grading, drainage, paving, turfing, lighting and airport building design.

(2) Disseminates current airport design standards and provides consulting advisory assistance to governmental, professional, industrial and other individuals, and agencies concerned with airport design and construction problems.

§ 650.14 Office of Safety Regulation. The Office of Safety Regulation shall be under the direction of the Assistant Administrator for Safety Regulation. The functions of the offices of the principal subdivisions thereof are as follows:

(a) Aircraft and Components Service. (1) Directs the issuance of aircraft registration certificates and provides for the registration of such aircraft with the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

(2) Maintains the records of all conveyances affecting the title to, or interest in, civil aircraft of the U. S.

(3) Directs the issuance of type, production and airworthiness certificates.

(4) Maintains the register and records of all such aircraft certificates.

(5) Directs the approval of the issuance and amendment of the "aircraft" and "maintenance" portions of the air carrier operating certificates.

(6) Directs and coordinates the development, recommends for adoption, and interprets from a technical standpoint, new and revised safety standards governing the airworthiness of aircraft, aircraft components and aircraft equipment; and prepares and disseminates information on matters pertaining to the design, engineering, production and maintenance of aircraft, components and equipment.

(7) Establishes fundamental policy and procedures governing examination and testing of design, engineering, manufacturing and maintenance of aircraft, components and equipment to determine compliance with the Civil Air Regulations and other airworthiness standards.

(b) Airman Service. (1) Directs and coordinates the issuance of pilot certificates and flying school certificates and other airman or air agency certificates issued in the field. (See Part 651, Procedure of CAA for application and issuance of airman certificates.)

(2) Directs the preparation of written examinations and establishes flight and other practical tests given in the field to determine the competence of airmen and air agencies applying for certification.

(3) Directs the interpretation from a technical standpoint of safety standards governing the certification and rating of airmen and air agencies.

(4) Assists and provides consulting assistance to the aviation industry and the public in the development of improved training methods and techniques for airmen and air agencies.

(c) Flight Operations Service. (1) Directs and coordinates the issuance and amendment in the field of appropriate operating certificates for scheduled and non-scheduled air carriers.

(2) Issues air navigation facility certificates and certificates for the operation of a true light. (For procedure for application and issuance of such certificates see Part 651, Procedure of Civil Aeronautics Administration.)

(3) Directs, coordinates or assists in the examination, inspection, and investigation of flight operations given in the field to determine compliance with the Civil Air Regulations.

(4) Directs and coordinates the interpretation from a technical standpoint of the safety standards governing flight operations.

(5) Assists and provides consulting assistance to industry and the public in the development of improved operating methods and practices.

(d) Aviation Medical Service. (1) Directs and coordinates the issuance to airmen of appropriate medical certificates by designated medical examiners of the Civil Aeronautics Administration in the United States and foreign countries. (There are approximately 2,000 designated medical examiners in the U. S. and foreign countries. A list of those examiners in a particular area may be obtained by mailing a request to the Director, Aviation Medical Service, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 5, D. C.)

(2) Prescribes special medical examinations in difficult or controversial cases. Determines the adequacy of other evidence of physical examinations given in lieu of examinations by designated medical examiners of the Administration.

(3) Directs and coordinates the conduct of a broad program of study and analyses of developments in the field of aviation medicine for the purpose of advising and recommending with respect to the Administration's medical policies.

(4) Directs and coordinates the interpretation from a medical standpoint of the physical standards governing the issuance and competency of airmen.

(5) Serves as consultant to the industry and the public in the formulation and conduct of medical research programs pertaining to physical fitness of airmen, medical criteria for aircraft and equipment design, and sanitary and hygienic measures necessary to maximum performance, safety, and comfort of pilots, crews, and passengers in civil aviation.

§ 650.15 Office of Federal Airways. The Office of Federal Airways shall be under the direction of the Assistant Administrator for Federal Airways. The functions of the office of the principal subdivisions thereof are as follows:

(a) Air Navigation Facilities Service. (1) Directs the planning, survey, design, construction, improvement, and maintenance of the Federal Airways in the United States, its territories and possessions.

(2) Inspects such facilities, during and after construction.

(3) Collaborates with representatives of foreign governments, through established channels, in developing international airway systems and services.

(b) Airways Operations Service. (1) Coordinates and directs the development and operations of air navigation facilities, both foreign and domestic.

(2) Establishes fundamental policy and procedure for the operation of communications and air traffic control systems and services for aircraft engaged in air commerce in the United States, its territories and possessions.

(3) Inspects such facilities to determine compliance with established procedures and practices.

(4) Collaborates with representatives of foreign governments, through established channels, in developing international communications and air traffic control systems and services.

(c) Technical Development Service. (1) Conducts applied research, both by contracts with industrial organizations, educational institutions, and other agencies of the Government, and by direct participation of service personnel, leading toward new and improved radio and radar aids to air navigation, communication, traffic control and landline communication; improved methods of airport surfacing, drainage, lighting and marking; improved aircraft structural and power plant components, instruments, appliances, safety devices, and flight analysis instrumentation and methods; and new and improved aeronautical charts, navigational and cartographic instruments, devices and techniques.

§ 650.16 Office of Business Management. The Office of Business Management shall be under the direction of the Assistant Administrator for Business Management. The functions of the offices of the principal subdivisions thereof which affect the public are as follows:

(a) Budget Service. (1) Assists in the formulation and control of the Administration's budgetary matters.

(b) Management Analysis Service. (1) Plans and directs studies of organization and provides for the development and coordination of procedures and forms used, or issued by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

(c) Personnel Service. (1) Provides for personnel services such as recruitment, placement, classification, and in-service training as required by the personnel program of the Administration.

(d) Contract and Requirements Service. (1) Formulates policies and standards relating to, and directs procurement of property, materials, and services in Washington; reviews field office procurement activities.

(e) General Accounts Service. (1) Plans, organizes, directs, and maintains fiscal accounts and records of the Administration; and establishes standards, practices and procedures governing the fiscal operations of the field offices.

(f) Aircraft Control Service. (1) Provides for the control and maintenance of aircraft assigned to or owned by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

§ 650.17 Office of Field Operations. The Office of Field Operations shall be under the direction of the Assistant Administrator for Field Operations, who shall direct and coordinate the continuous survey and appraisal of the activities of the domestic field offices of the Administration.

§ 650.18 Office of Foreign Operations. The Office of Foreign Operations shall be under the direction of the Assistant Administrator for Foreign Operations. The functions of the offices of the principal subdivisions thereof are as follows:

(a) Foreign Office Operations Service. With respect to the Civil Aeronautics Administration's foreign operations, except where matters relating to the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organization, are concerned the Foreign Office Operations Service:

(1) Develops policies, plans, and procedures to encourage and foster the development of United States Civil Aeronautics and air commerce abroad.

(2) Establishes and directs foreign field offices for the efficient safety regulation inspection of United States flag air carriers engaged in international air transportation and provides local administrative control over civil aviation technical assistance missions to foreign governments.

(3) Conducts periodic inspections of all Civil Aeronautics Administration foreign field offices for the purpose of determining efficiency of operation in compliance with established policies, plans and procedures.

(4) Conducts continuous studies of international civil aviation problems to determine the need for new or revised policies, plans or procedures.

(b) International Activities Service. With respect to the Civil Aeronautics Administration's international activities, except matters relating to the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organization, the International Activities Service is responsible for:

(1) Promoting U. S. air commerce abroad through the development of cooperative relations between the aeronautical industry and foreign countries, the interchange of aviation information by detailing CAA technical missions abroad to serve as advisors to foreign governments, the indoctrination and training of foreign civil aviation representatives in U. S. civil aviation standards, procedures, and techniques.

(2) Formulating plans and programs in cooperation with States and aviation industry, designed to remove unreasonable barriers to international air travel.

(3) Collecting and arranging for the dissemination of data to the aviation industry, foreign aviation representatives and governments dealing with international duties and functions of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, U. S. requirements for navigation of foreign civil aircraft in the United States, and U. S. civil aircraft abroad.

(4) Arranging for cooperation of industry in the preparation of CAA technical documents to be used at international civil aviation meetings.

(5) Formulating policies for the issuance of U. S. airmen, air agency, and aircraft certificates to foreign nationals.

(6) Coordinating international aviation problems with interested State and political subdivisions thereof, and the aviation industry in order to create a uniform U. S. policy.

SUBPART C—WASHINGTON NATIONAL AIRPORT

§ 650.31 Office of the Airport Administrator. The Office of the Airport Administrator is located in the Terminal Building of the Washington National Airport, Gravelly Point, Virginia, and is under the direction of the Airport Administrator. The functions of the Office of Airport Administrator and the offices of the principal subdivisions thereof are as follows:

(a) Airport Administrator. (1) Administers, controls, and provides for the care, operations, maintenance, and protection of the airport in conformance with the general policies, rules, and standards established by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics.

(2) Negotiates with air carriers and others for use of the airport and its facilities, and with concessionaires to provide proper services required by air carriers, the public, and airport users.

(3) Provides consulting advice, exchanges information with foreign and domestic visitors to the airport and maintains liaison with State, municipal and other public officials, private and civic aeronautical organizations and others concerned with, or interested in, airports.

(b) Traffic Control Tower. (1) Controls air traffic at the airport and operates approach control of air traffic.

(2) Reports alleged violations of air traffic regulations and irregularities resulting from non-observance of standard procedures.

(c) Protection Services. (1) Maintains records and reports of accidents and injuries to persons on the airport premises.

(2) Guards and polices the airport buildings and grounds.

(3) Operates fire, crash and rescue vehicles, boats and aircraft.

(d) Business Management Branch. (1) Maintains accounting records, performs administrative audits, receives and deposits collections, and other receipts.

(2) Procures materials, supplies, and services for the airport.

(3) Provides information service to the public.

(e) Engineering and Maintenance Branch. (1) Directs the handling, placing and movement of itinerant aircraft, other than at landing and take-off; and provides various service facilities for public and private aircraft, including flight clearance service.

(f) Operations Service. (1) Maintains records of itinerant aircraft arrivals and departures; collects fees for aircraft parking and for services furnished by the airport.

(2) Assists pilots in filing or flight plans and in securing flight clearances.

(3) Makes inspections of all runways, taxiways, and apron surfaces, to assure their safe condition for use.

SUBPART D—AERONAUTICAL CENTER

§ 650.41 General. The aeronautical center of the Civil Aeronautics Administration is located at Will Rogers Field, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and is under the direction of the Director of the Aeronautical Center. The functions of this center are primarily the standardization and training of CAA employees and other individuals in whose training and standardization the Administration is concerned. The center maintains liaison with the aeronautical and manufacturing industries and other organizations with respect to the development of the latest technological advancements.

SUBPART E—REGIONAL OFFICES

§ 650.51 General. There are 9 regional offices of the Administration covering prescribed areas of the United States, Alaska, and the Hawaiian Islands. Each of the Regional Offices maintains district offices in every state or territory in its area. Information and advice with respect to technical matters relating to civil aviation, or applications for and the issuance of, airman, aircraft and air agency certificates may be obtained by corresponding with, or personally contacting the Regional Office, or district office thereof, in your area.

§ 650.52 Organization. Each of the Regional Offices of the Civil Aeronautics Administration is under the direction of a Regional Administrator. The functons of each of the principal subdivisions of such regional offices is as follows:

(a) Regional Attorney. (1) Renders legal counsel and service to the Regional Administrator and other officials of the regional office.

(2) Initiates and negotiates the compromise of civil penalties for violations of Titles V and VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, and the rules and regulations issued thereunder, except violations by scheduled air carriers. Violations involving scheduled air carriers are handled in the General Counsel's Office, Washington, D. C.

(3) Initiates action and prosecutes cases before the examiners of the Civil Aeronautics Board relating to the suspension or revocation of airman, aircraft and air agency certificates, except where such cases involve air carriers or their personnel.

(4) Renders legal interpretations of the safety provisions of the Civil Air Regulations and the regulations of the Administrator in accordance with the decisions and opinions of the General Counsel. If the question involved is one of first instance, the interpretation is subject to review and confirmation by the General Counsel at the Central Office of the Administration.

(b) Air Navigation Facilities Plant and Structure Branch. (1) Directs and inspects planning, engineering, and construction of air navigation aids and facilities (except radio and other electronic and communication equipment) for civil airways.

(2) Promotes the use of air marking as an aid to air navigation in collaboration with public and private agencies.

(c) Air Navigation Facilities Communication Branch. (1) Directs and inspects the planning, engineering, and construction in the development and improvement of radio and other electronic and communication equipment used on civil airways and in air navigation aids.

(d) Air Navigation Facility Operations Branch. (1) Directs the operation of air navigation aids and facilities under Federal jurisdiction.

(2) Directs and coordinates the control of air traffic along the civil airways and at airports having control towers under the jurisdiction of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

(3) Directs the training of air traffic control and communications personnel.

(4) Directs the inspection and improvement of air traffic control and communications facilities procedures and operations.

(e) Airports Branch. (1) Advises and informs civic and other public officials with respect to airport sites selection and development, airport approach protection, and the operation and management of airports.

(2) Consults on, or conducts the preparation of, engineering plans and specifications for airport construction.

(f) Airman Branch. (1) Directs the issuance of certificates and the examination and inspection of applicants for pilot, mechanic, parachute rigger, dispatcher, air-traffic control-tower operator, ground instructor, and other airman and air agency certificates issued by the representatives and officials of the Civil Aeronautics Administration in the field. (For the procedure respecting application and the issuance of such certificates see Part 651, Procedure of Civil Aeronautics Administration.)

(2) Directs the inspection of such airmen and air agencies for compliance with, and the enforcement of, the requirements of the Civil Air Regulations and other regulations, rules or orders issued under the safety regulation provisions of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended.

(3) Directs and coordinates the investigation of alleged violations of such regulations, rules, or orders by airmen and in cases of an emergency, the emergency suspension of an airman certificate.

(g) Flight Operations Branch. (1) Directs the issuance, and amendment of, air carrier operating certificates for air carriers engaged in scheduled and nonscheduled operations, certificates for airmeets, waiver of air traffic rules, temporary air navigation facility certificates, and certificates for the operation of a true light. (For the procedure respecting application and the issuance of such certificates see Part 651, Procedure of Civil Aeronautics Adminstration.)

(2) Directs and coordinates the inspection of air carriers including their facilities, equipment, and operating practices to determine compliance with, and the enforcement of, the safety requirements of the Civil Air Regulations and other rules, regulations, and orders issued pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended.

(3) Directs the investigation of alleged violations of such safety requirements including aircraft accidents.

(h) Aircraft and Components Branch. (1) Directs the issuance of production and airworthiness certificates, registration certificates, and ferry permits. (For the procedure respecting application and the issuance of such certificates, see Part 651, Procedure of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.)

(2) Directs and coordinates the inspection and testing of aircraft and components and manufacturing facilities of such aircraft and components to determine compliance with, and the enforcement of, the safety requirements of the Civil Air Regulations and other rules, regulations, and orders issued pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended.

(3) Directs the investigation of alleged violations of such safety requirements including aircraft accidents and, in cases of an emergency, the emergency suspension of aircraft and air agency certificates.

§ 650.53 Location. The designation of the Regional Offices, their location, and the areas over which they have jurisdiction are as follows:

SUBPART F—FOREIGN FIELD OFFICES

§ 650.61 General. The Civil Aeronautics Administration maintains Foreign Field Offices in those countries listed in § 650.63 of this subpart. Information and advice with respect to technical matters relating to civil aeronautics and application for the issuance of certificates may be obtained by corresponding with, or personally contacting the foreign field office in the area concerned. Aircraft and airman certificates are issued by the Foreign Field Offices.

§ 650.62. Functions and Authority. The functions performed by each of the foreign field offices are as follows:

(a) Issues certificates and examines and inspects applicants for pilot, mechanic, parachute rigger, dispatcher, and other airman certificates.

(b) Issues airworthiness and other aircraft certificates.

(c) Inspects airmen and aircraft of U. S. flag air carriers engaged in international air transportation to determine compliance with, and the enforcement of, the applicable safety rules, regulations, and orders issued pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended.

(d) Directs the investigation of alleged violations of such safety requirements including accidents when such violations or accidents involve civil aircraft of the United States.

(e) Provides liaison between United States technical personnel, including those assigned to the foreign field office and those performing special mission activities, and the Embassies, Legations, Consulates, or other appropriate Department of State offices.

(f) Promotes United States civil aviation interests through familiarization of foreign officials with United States standards, procedures, and techniques and with related international standards, procedures, and techniques as set forth in the Provisional International Civil Aviation Convention or other international agreements to which the United States is a party.

§ 650.63 Location. The location of the foreign field offices of the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the mailing address of such offices are as follows:

(a) Paris, France; c/o U. S. Embassy, Paris, France.

(b) Balboa, Canal Zone; c/o U. S. Embassy, Panama City, Panama.

(c) Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; c/o U. S. Embassy, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

(d) Lima, Peru; c/o U. S. Embassy, Lima, Peru.

T. P. WRIGHT,
Administrator of Civil Aeronautics.

[F. R. Doc. 46–15462; Filed, Aug. 29, 1946; 10:51 a. m.]

PART 651—PROCEDURE OF THE CIVIL AERONAUTICS ADMINISTRATION

Acting pursuant to the authority vested in me by the Air Commerce Act of 1926 (44 Stat. 568–576, as amended 45 Stat. 933), the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended (52 Stat. 977–1030, 54 Stat. 1233, 1235, 1236), Act to provide for the administration of the Washington National Airport (54 Stat. 686–688), and the Federal Airport Act (Public Law 377, 79th Congress, 2d Session), and in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act (Public Law 404, 79th Congress, 2d Session), I hereby adopt Part 651 of the Regulations of the Administrator to read as follows:

Sec.
651.1 General.

SUBPART B—REGULATIONS AND INTERPRETATIONS

651.11 Regulations of the Administrator.
651.12 Safety regulation releases and manuals.

SUBPART C—ENFORCEMENT PROCEDURE

651.21 Violations of Titles V and VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938.
651.22 Denial of safety certificates.

SUBPART D—ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATES

651.30 General.
651.31 Aircraft certificates.
651.32 Airman certificates.
651.33 Medical certificates.
651.34 Air carrier operating certificates.
651.35 Air agency certificates.
651.36 Air navigation facility certificates.
651.37 Designation of representatives of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

SUBPART E—RECORDATION OF AIRCRAFT CONVEYANCES

651.51 General.
651.52 Forms of conveyance.
651.53 Application.
651.54 Requirements.

SUBPART A—GENERAL PROVISIONS

§ 651.1 General. Under Reorganization Plans III and IV of the Reorganization Act of 1938, certain functions of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938 are performed by the Civil Aeronautics Board, while others are performed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Accordingly, persons desiring information with respect to the procedure, or the general course and method for the discharge of a particular function pertaining to civil aviation should also consult the rules and regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

SUBPART B—REGULATIONS AND INTERPRETATIONS

§ 651.11 Regulations of the Administrator. (a) Regulations of the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics are prepared and drafted by the technical offices of the Administration and submitted to the Administrator for final adoption and promulgation. Such regulations may result from recommendations from the industry or research and experimentation of the technical offices of the Administration. The Administration may, prior to the adoption of a regulation issue a draft of the proposed regulation to the industry requesting its views and comments respecting the merits of the proposed regulation.

(b) The Regulations of the Administrator are set forth in Parts 500 to 699 of the Code of the Federal Regulations.

§ 651.12 Safety regulation releases and manuals. Safety regulation releases and manuals are prepared and drafted by the Office of Safety Regulation and are issued by the Assistant Administrator for Safety Regulation. These releases and manuals contain informative and explanatory material respecting the pertinent safety provisions of the Civil Air Regulations. Copies of the releases and manuals are available to all persons concerned and interested in civil aviation. Requests should be addressed to The Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

SUBPART C—ENFORCEMENT PROCEDURE

§ 651.21 Violations of Titles V and VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938. Any violation of the safety provisions of the Civil Aeronautics Act, or the regulations issued thereunder may be reported by any person to a representative of the Civil Aeronautics Administration at any Regional or District office of the Administration. The violation is then investigated by an appropriate representative of the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the results of such investigation, together with all obtainable evidence, are submitted to the Regional Attorney in charge of the area in which the violation occurred. If the violation involved an air carrier or air carrier personnel the report of investigation is submitted directly to the Office of the General Counsel in the Central Office of the Administration. The General Counsel, or the Regional Attorney, as the case may be, then determines the action, if any, which will be taken. Such action may be:

(a) Letter of reprimand. A letter of reprimand is sent to the violator, which calls attention to the fact that a violation has occurred and will be taken into consideration in the event of a repetition of any offense by the violator.

(b) Civil penalty. In the event a civil penalty is determined and it is considered advisable to compromise the amount of such civil penalty, pursuant to Section 901 of the Act, the Regional Attorney, or an official of the General Counsel's Office sends a letter to the alleged violator advising him of the provisions of the Act or the regulations alleged to have been violated and suggests the submission by the alleged violator of an offer of compromise in a specified amount. If such an offer of compromise is made, the offer is then submitted to the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics with a recommendation respecting its acceptance. The Administrator, or the Deputy Administrator, may accept or refuse the offer of compromise.

(c) Filing of complaint with the Civil Aeronautics Board. Such action may be taken with a view toward the suspension or revocation of a safety certificate issued by the Administrator to the alleged violator, or the imposition of a civil penalty pursuant to the provisions of section 901 of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, or both. If such action is determined, the Complaint is prepared by the General Counsel's Office, or the Regional Attorney, and filed with the Docket Section of the Civil Aeronautics Board. The proceeding is then conducted in accordance with the procedure of the Civil Aeronautics Board, which is set forth in Part 302 of this title.

§ 651.22 Denial of safety certificates—(a) Denial of airman certificates. Any applicant for an airman certificate who has been denied the issuance or renewal thereof, by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, may petition the Civil Aeronautics Board for a reconsideration of his application pursuant to the provisions of section 602 (b) of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended.

(b) Denial of aircraft, air agency and air carrier operating certificates. Any applicant for an aircraft, air agency, or air carrier operating certificate, who has been denied the issuance or renewal thereof, may appeal the order of denial by the Administrator to the Circuit Courts of Appeals of the United States, or the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, upon petition, filed within 60 days after the entry of such order, pursuant to the provisions of section 1006 of the act.

SUBPART D—ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATES

§ 651.30 General. (a) Except where hereinafter stated, applications for certificates may be obtained from, and submitted to, representatives of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, and the Regional, District, and Foreign offices of the Civil Aeronautics Administration. The requirements for the issuance of each type of certificate are set forth in the pertinent parts of the Civil Air Regulations or the Regulations of the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics. These regulations are found in the 14 CFR, Chapter II.

(b) In order to obtain an airman certificate the applicant is required to accomplish a medical, written, and, where applicable, a flight or practical examination. Medical examinations are given by designated medical examiners. Written examinations are given by Civil Aeronautics Administration inspectors, except student pilot tests on the Civil Air Regulations, which are given by any certificated flight instructor. For the convenience of the applicants, the inspectors conduct written examinations at all recognized airports. The itinerary of the inspectors is posted in such airports.

§ 651.31 Aircraft certificates. The types of aircraft certificates issued by the Civil Aeronautics Administration are as follows:

(a) Type certificates. A type certificate (Form ACA 311) certifies that an aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or any appliance specified in the Civil Air Regulations as eligible for a type certificate is of proper design, material, specification and construction for safe operation, and meets the minimum requirements of the Civil Air Regulations.

(1) Application. Application for a type certificate shall be made on the Form "Application for Type Certificate" (ACA 312). This form is obtained from and submitted to The Director, Aircraft and Components Service, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

(2) Requirements. For the evidence required for the issuance and the general rules pertaining to the type certification of aircraft, see Part 02 of this title.

(3) Reports—(i) Semiannual Production Report (ACA 503) is required on January 1 and July 1 of each year, of every holder of a type certificate or a current right to the benefits of a type certificate under a licensing arrangement.

(ii) Statement of Conformity (ACA 317). Upon the initial transfer of any aircraft not manufactured for United States registry under the terms of a production certificate, the holder of a type certificate or of a current right to the benefits of a type certificate under a licensing arrangement submits a Form "Statement of Conformity" to The Director, Aircraft and Components Service, Washington 25, D. C., or to the nearest Regional Office.

(b) Production Certificate (Form ACA 333). A production certificate authorizes the manufacture, at designated places, of duplicates of a product for which a type certificate has been issued. The type certificate is set forth in a production limitation record (Form ACA 332) which constitutes a part of the production certificate.

(1) Application. A single application for the production certificate and production limitation record is made on Form ACA 332 "Application for a Production Certificate". This form is obtained from, and is submitted to, the Aircraft and Components Branch of the Regional Office in the area in which the manufacturer's plant is located. If an amendment is desired, application should also be made to such Regional Office.

(2) Requirements. For further information with respect to production certificates and requirements, see Part 02 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board and Manual 02, Production Certificates, issued by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

(3) Reports—(i) Changes. The holder of a production certificate is required to notify the Regional Office, which issued such certificate, of any change of methods, procedures, facilities, or location of the manufacturing facilities which affect the product for which the certificate was issued.

(ii) Production report. Form ACA 503 "Semi-Annual Production Report" is required on January 1 and July 1 of each year, of the holder of a production certificate.

(c) Aircraft registration certificate. An aircraft registration certificate (Form ACA 500) is conclusive evidence of the nationality of the aircraft for international purposes, but not in any proceeding under the laws of the United States. The registration of the aircraft by the Civil Aeronautics Administration is not evidence of ownership in any proceeding in which ownership by a particular person is, or may be, in issue. Form ACA 1160, which is also issued together with the aircraft registration certificate, certifies that the aircraft is entered in the Civil Aeronautics Administration's record of conveyances as owned by the person or persons named thereon subject to such liens as are recorded by the Administration and described on the face of the certificate.

(1) Application and fee. A single application for both certificates is made by the owner of the aircraft on Form "Application for Registration of Aircraft" (ACA 501). This form should be submitted to The Director, Aircraft and Components Service, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C. A money order or check, payable to the Treasurer of the United States, in the amount of $5.00, should accompany such application.

(2) Requirements. For the evidence required for the issuance and the general rules pertaining to registration of aircraft, see Part 501 of the Regulations of the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics and Form ACA 505 "Instructions for Registration and Recording". This form may be obtained by mailing your request to the Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

(d) Aircraft airworthiness certificates and aircraft operation record. An aircraft airworthiness certificate (Form ACA 308) authorizes the operation of a civil aircraft of the United States within the United States, its territories and possessions. However, there shall be attached to this certificate an aircraft operation record (Form ACA 309), which sets forth the limitations for safe operations prescribed and set forth by the Administrator in such record.

(1) Application. A single application for the certificate and record shall be made on Form "Application for Aircraft Airworthiness Certificate" (ACA 305). Usually the manufacturer obtains the airworthiness certificate, which thereafter remains with the aircraft. If no airworthiness certificate has been issued for the aircraft, or if it has expired, the application for an airworthiness certificate is made by the registered owner of the aircraft. An application for registration and airworthiness of an aircraft may be made simultaneously.

(2) Requirements. For further information with respect to airworthiness certificates and requirements, see Parts 01, 03, and 04 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board and Manual 04, Airplane Airworthiness, issued by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

(3) Inspections and reports—(i) Annual inspection. An annual inspection of the aircraft, given by a designated representative of the Administrator is required for all aircraft. A copy of such inspection report (ACA 305a) is attached to the aircraft operation record.

(ii) Aircraft and engine log books. An aircraft and engine log book is required in accordance with Part 01 of the Civil Air Regulations.

(e) Ferry permits—(1) A "Letter of authority for ferry flight" authorizes the the flight of a civil aircraft of the United States between two specified points for the purpose of repair or to obtain certification of the aircraft. The applicant will be required to furnish evidence of the identification of the aircraft, the points between which the aircraft will be flown, duration of the flight, name of the mechanic certifying with respect to the airworthiness of the aircraft and a statement as to the reasons why the aircraft airworthiness certificate is not applicable.

(2) Ferry permit, temporary registration and airworthiness certificate. This permit authorizes the flight of a surplus military aircraft from the base of purchase to the owner's home base. An application for this permit may be made to the representative of the Civil Aeronautics Administration station at the surplus depot or by making application to the Regional or District Office having jurisdiction over the area in which the depot is located.

(f) Foreign aircraft permit (Form ACA 1452). This certificate authorizes flight in the United States, its territories, and possessions, of foreign aircraft with foreign markings.

(1) Application. Application is made on Form ACA 776A "Application for Foreign Civil Aircraft Flight Permit", which requires identification of the owner and evidence of his citizenship, identification and markings of the aircraft, requested itinerary, estimated duration of flight in the United States, and an indication as to whether certain equipment is installed or carried in the aircraft. This form is obtained from, and submitted to, the Regional or District Office of the Administration which is nearest to the port of entry, except where the itinerary is to, or through, the Panama Canal Zone, in which case submit the application to the Director, Aircraft and Components Service, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

(g) Certificate of Airworthiness for Export (Form ACA 306). A certificate of airworthiness for export certifies that the type certificated product involved meets certain general and special requirements for export to particular foreign countries.

(1) Application. Application is made on Form ACA 306 "Application for Certificate of Airworthiness for Export".

§ 651.32 Airman certificates. The types, grades, and ratings of airman certificates issued by the Civil Aeronautics Administration are as follows:

(a) Student pilot certificates. A student pilot certificate (Form ACA 340) authorizes the holder to pilot in solo flight an aircraft of a specified type, class and model.

(1) Application. Application for such certificate is made on Form ACA 355 "Application for Airman Certificate".

(2) Requirements. For further information with respect to student pilot certificates and requirements, see Parts 20, 22 and 43 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board, which are set forth in Title 14 of the Code of the Federal Register.

(b) Private, commercial, and airline transport pilot certificates. An airman pilot certificate (Form ACA 348) and airman rating record (Form ACA 545) issued for a private, commercial, airline transport, or instructor rating authorizes the holder to pilot aircraft within the prescribed limitations of the applicable ratings.

(1) Application. Application for such certificates is made on Form ACA 355 "Application for Airman Certificate or Instrument Rating".

(2) Requirements. For further information with respect to, private, commercial, and airline transport pilot certificates, see Parts 20, 21, 22, and 43 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board, 14, CFR, Ch. I.

(c) Mechanic certificates. A mechanic certificate (Form ACA 348) authorizes the holder to inspect, maintain or repair aircraft and aircraft engines and appliances in accordance with the limitations set forth on Form ACA 545 "Airman Rating Record", which is attached to such certificate.

(1) Application. A single application for such certificate and rating is made on Form ACA 363 "Application for Airman (Mechanic) Certificate".

(2) Requirements. For further information with respect to mechanic certificates and requirements, see Part 24 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board, Title 14, Code of the Federal Register.

(3) Reports. A Form ACA 1130 "Periodic Activity Report" is required to be submitted to the Administration, annually, during the month of January.

(d) Parachute technician certificate. A Form ACA 348 "Airman (Parachute Technician) Certificate" authorizes the holder to inspect, pack, repair, construct, or jump and instruct in jumping, in accordance with the limitations prescribed on the form ACA 545 which is attached to such certificate.

(1) Application. A single application for the certificate and rating desired is made on Form ACA 363 "Application for Airman (Parachute Technician) Certificate".

(2) Requirements. For further information with respect to parachute technician certificates and requirements, see Part 25 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board. 14 CFR, Ch. I.

(3) Reports. A Form ACA 1130 "Periodic Activity Report" is required to be submitted to the Administration, annually, during the month of January.

(e) Traffic control tower operator. An "Airman (Traffic Control Tower Operator) Certificate" (Form ACA 348) authorizes the holder to control air-traffic in accordance with the limitations prescribed on the Form ACA 545 "Airman Rating Record", which is attached to the certificate.

(1) Application. A single application is made on Form ACA 372 "Air-Traffic-Control-Tower-Operator Application".

(2) Requirements. See Part 26 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board set forth in Title 14, Code of the Federal Register.

(3) Reports. A Form ACA 1130 "Periodic Activity Report" is required.

(f) Aircraft dispatcher. An "Airman (Aircraft Dispatcher) Certificate" (Form ACA 348) authorizes the holder to act as a dispatcher for a certificated air carrier in accordance with the limitations prescribed on the airman rating record (Form ACA 545).

(1) Application. A single application for the certificate and rating is made on Form ACA 374 "Application for Airman (Aircraft Dispatcher) Certificate".

(2) Requirements. See Part 27 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board, 14 CFR, Ch. I.

(3) Reports. A Form ACA 1130, "Periodic Activity Report" is required to be submitted annually, during the month of January.

§ 651.33 Medical certificates. A medical certificate is required for the issuance of an airman certificate. Original applicants for a medical certificate may obtain such certificate by undergoing the required physical examination by a designated medical examiner of the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Any competent licensed physician may conduct the physical examination for a student or private pilot certificate or any airman certificate requiring a medical certificate of the third class. A list of the designated medical examiners in your area may be obtained by addressing a request to The Director, Aviation Medical Service, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C. The three classes of medical certificates and the types and grades of airmen certificates included in each class are as follows:

(a) First class. A first class medical certificate includes an airline transport pilot. The examination is conducted by a designated airline medical examiner.

(b) Second class. A second class medical certificate includes, commercial pilots and air-traffic-control-tower operators. The examination is conducted by a designated medical examiner.

(c) Third class. A third class medical certificate includes, students and private pilots and free balloon pilots. This examination is conducted by a designated medical examiner or a competent licensed physician. If the examination is performed by a non-designated physician, the report of the examination is made on Form ACA 1345.

(d) Waiver of physical standards. Airmen with considerable aeronautical experience who do not meet the prescribed physical requirements may apply for a "Waiver of Physical Standards" (Form ACA 779), by making application to The Director, Medical Service, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C. In such instances a waiver may be issued if the applicant successfully demonstrates through a flight test that his physical deficiency is compensated for by his experience, ability and judgment. For further information with respect to the standards and requirements, see Part 29 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board; set forth in Title 14, of the Code of the Federal Register.

§ 651.34 Air carrier operator certificates. (a) An air carrier operating certificate is required for all air carriers engaged in scheduled and non-scheduled operations. This certificate describes the operations authorized and prescribes such operating specifications and limitations as may be reasonably required in the interest of safety.

(1) Application. (i) An application for a scheduled air carrier operating certificate is made by letter to the Regional Office in the area in which the headquarters of the air carrier is located.

(ii) An application for a nonscheduled air carrier operating certificate is made on Form ACA 1602, "Application for Non-Scheduled Air Carrier Operating Certificates."

(2) Requirements and reports. See Parts 40 and 42 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board set forth in 14 CFR, Ch. I.

§ 651.35 Air agency certificates. An air agency certificate (Form ACA 390) is issued for:

(a) Airman schools.

(b) Ground instructors (Form ACA 545 is issued for this certificate).

(c) Repair stations.

(d) Mechanic schools.

(e) Parachute lofts.

The requirements for such certificates are set forth in Parts 50 to 54 inclusive, of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board, as set forth in 14 CFR, Ch. I.

§ 651.36 Air navigation facility certificates—(a) An "Air Navigation Facility and Lawful Authority to Operate a True Light" certificate authorizes the operation of an aeronautical light as a "true light" in the identification of a landing area suitable for use by civil aircraft and in marking hazards to air navigation.

(1) Application. Application is made on Form ACA 114. The Regional Office issues a temporary certificate for a period of 60 days, but the permanent certificate is issued by the Office of the Director, Flight Operations Service, Washington, D. C.

(b) Notice of Construction or Alteration of Structures Along or Near Civil Airways (Form 117). This Form is required to be submitted to the Administration in order to give proper notice to airmen of the construction or alteration of a structure located along or near a civil airway. Further information may be obtained by referring to Part 525 of the Regulations of the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics.

§ 651.37 Designation of representatives of the C. A. A. The Civil Aeronautics Administration designates the following representatives to perform the activities indicated below. The certificates required for the performance of such activities are:

(a) Certificate of Authority—Flight Examiner (Form ACA 1382). This certificate authorizes the holder to act as a flight examiner for the Civil Aeronautics Administration and to conduct flight examinations for issuance of pilot certificates and ratings.

(1) Application is made on a Form "Pilot Examiner Qualification Record and Recommendations" (ACA 914).

(2) Reports. A report on Form "Pilot Examiner or Flight School Activity Report" (ACA 857) must be executed and submitted to a Civil Aeronautics Administration inspector when requested.

(b) Designation of Airline Transport Pilot Flight Examiner (Form ACA 997). This certificate authorizes the holder to conduct under the general supervision of the Flight Operations Service, within local limits, flight tests of applicants for airline transport pilot certificates and aircraft class, horsepower and instrument ratings and to recommend to the local inspector the issuance or denial of such certificates and ratings.

(1) Application. Application is made on a Form "Application for Designation as Airline Transport Pilot Flight Examiner" (ACA 993).

(c) Authorized Medical Examiner and Letter of Designation (Form ACA 1668). This certificate and letter authorizes a member of the medical profession to perform physical examinations as required to issue medical certificates.

(1) Application. Application is made on Form "Application for Designation as Medical Examiner" (ACA 861) and is submitted to any regional medical officer of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

(2) Reports. A report on Form "Report of Physical Examination for Airman Certificate" (ACA 358) is required to be submitted within forty-eight hours to the Medical Director, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C., for each applicant examined. A copy of this report must be retained in the file of the designated medical examiner for three years.

(d) Certificate of Authority—Designated Mechanic Examiner (Form ACA 1382). This certificate certifies that the holder is authorized by the Civil Aeronautics Administration to conduct oral and practical examinations for the issuance of aircraft mechanic and aircraft engine mechanic certificates.

(1) Application. Application is made on a Form "Statement of Qualifications and Recommendations for Designated Mechanic Examiner" (ACA 1618).

(e) Certificate of Authority (Form ACA 1382). Certificates of authority are issued by the Civil Aeronautics Administration to qualify persons for the designation of:

(1) Designated Manufacturing Representative. This certificate authorizes the holder to determine the conformity and quality of articles produced under the production certificate listed on his authorization and to issue airworthiness certificates for aircraft and a certificate of airworthiness for export with respect to aircraft and components under the production certificate listed on his authorization.

(i) Application. Application is made on Form ACA 1381 "Statement of Qualifications and Recommendations for Designated Manufacturing Representatives".

(2) Designated engineering representative. This certificate authorizes the holder to certify that the technical data pertaining to a particular aircraft structure or power plant proves compliance with the Civil Air Regulations.

(i) Application. Application is made on Form ACA 1599 "Statement of Qualifications of Designated Engineering Representatives".

(3) Designated aircraft maintenance inspector. With respect to scheduled and non-scheduled air carrier aircraft this certificate authorizes the holder to determine the airworthiness of aircraft or to inspect repairs and alteration of aircraft for compliance with approved methods and practices, material and pertinent regulations; and approve the repair and alteration form and return the aircraft to service.

(i) Application. Application is submitted on Form ACA 751 "Statement of Qualifications and Recommendation for Designated Aircraft Maintenance Inspector".

§ 651.38 Flight plan and Control Record (Form ACA 398). Serves as authorization for an aircraft to fly in a controlled area, an airport approach zone, or an airport traffic zone under instrument flight rules. A flight plan may also be filed for flight under contact flight rules.

(a) Application. Application may be made by telephone, radio, or in person to any Civil Aeronautics Administration Airway Communications Station, or Airway Traffic Control Center giving such information as aircraft identification, type of aircraft, pilot's name, route of flight and cruising altitudes, cruising airspeed, radio frequencies available, proposed time of departure, estimated time enroute, fuel supply in hours, and alternate airport(s). The approval to proceed together with any amending instructions are issued by an airway traffic controller. Such approval is usually oral and is delivered to the pilot through the radio facilities of an airport traffic control tower or airway communications station.

(b) Requirements. Regardless of whether the flight plan is filed under contact or instrument flight rules, the pilot in command of the flight files an arrival or completion notice with the nearest Civil Aeronautics Administration Communication Station or control tower upon landing or completion of the flight. For further information with respect to flight plans, see respectively Part 60 of the Regulations of the Civil Aeronautics Board set forth in 14 CFR Chapter I.

SUBPART E—RECORDATION OF AIRCRAFT CONVEYANCES

§ 651.51 General. All conveyances which affect the title to, or interest in, any aircraft registered under the provisions of the Civil Aeronautics Act are eligible for recordation with the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Upon receipt of any such conveyance, it is entered upon the Administration's record of conveyances and the person submitting such conveyance is furnished the docket number of the record for identification and future reference. If the conveyance acts as a lien or encumbrance upon the aircraft, a notation is made upon the Form ACA–1160 which is attached to, and made part of, the Aircraft Registration Certificate.

§ 651.52 Forms of conveyance. The following forms have been prepared by the Administrator for use in recording of conveyances and are available upon request to the Certificate and Record Section, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

(a) Form ACA 502—Bill of Sale.

(b) Form ACA 506—Release (This form appears on the back of a letter acknowledging receipt of a chattel mortgage and should be in the possession of the mortgage or his assignee to be used when the mortgage is cleared.)

(c) Form ACA 818—Release Contract of Conditional Sale (This form appears on the back of a letter acknowledging receipt of a contract of conditional sale and should be in the possession of the seller or his assignee to be used when all conditions of the contract have been met.)

(d) Form ACA 905—Aircraft Chattel Mortgage.

(e) Form ACA 906—Aircraft Conditional Sale Contract.

(f) Form ACA 909—Supplemental Affidavit to Application for Registration for All Types of Aircraft (To be filled in and submitted with Application for Registration (Form ACA 501) when the aircraft has been repossessed pursuant to the provisions of a chattel mortgage or contract of conditional sale and the person repossessing desires registration of the aircraft in his name).

§ 651.53 Application. A conveyance may be recorded by submitting the original document together with a check or money order in the amount of $5.00, payable to the Treasurer of the United States, to the Director, Aircraft and Components Service, Washington 25, D. C. No fee is required for the recording of a satisfaction of a lien.

§ 651.54 Requirements. For further information with respect to the requirements and instructions for the recordation of aircraft conveyances, see Part 503 of the Regulations of the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics and Form ACA 505, "Instructions for Registration and Recording." This form may be obtained by mailing your request to The Director, Aircraft and Components Service, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

T. P. WRIGHT,
Administrator of Civil Aeronautics.

COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY

[33 CFR, Ch. V]

PART 510—ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

Sec.
510.1 Creation and statutory authority.
510.2 General purpose and functions.
510.3 Organization.

§ 510.1 Creation and statutory authority. A survey of the coast of the United States was authorized by act of Congress of February 10, 1807 (2 Stat. 413; 33 U. S. C. 881–82). The act of March 3, 1871 (16 Stat. 508), provided for the extension of geodetic work across the country, and the act of June 20, 1878 (20 Stat. 206, 215), changed the name of this agency from Coast Survey to Coast and Geodetic Survey. The act of January 31, 1925 (43 Stat. 802; 33 U. S. C. 866), charged the agency with investigations and reports on earthquakes, an activity previously conducted by the United States Weather Bureau.

§ 510.2 General purpose and functions. The Coast and Geodetic Survey has been established for the purpose of providing, for the United States and its possessions, information required for the safe navigation of coastal waters; basic geodetic control data (geographic positions of monumented stations and elevations of bench marks); and information concerning earthquakes. It has also been assigned the duty of producing aeronautical charts for use in civil aviation. In accomplishing this purpose it conducts various classes of field surveys and disseminates the resulting data.

§ 510.3 Organization. The Coast and Geodetic Survey consists of the Office of the Director, the Office of the Chief Clerk, and the following divisions: (a) Personnel and Accounts, (b) Instruments, (c) Geodesy, (d) Tides and Currents, (e) Geomagnetism and Seismology, (f) Coastal Surveys, (g) Photogrammetry, and (h) Charts. In addition to the offices located in Washington, D. C., the Coast and Geodetic Survey maintains field stations at the following locations:

Boston, Mass., Tenth Floor, Customhouse.
New York, N. Y., Room 631, Federal Office Building, 90 Church Street.
Norfolk, Va., Room 418, United States Post Office Building.

New Orleans, La., Room 314, Customhouse, 423 Canal Street.
Los Angeles, Calif., Room 1426, Post Office and Courthouse.
San Francisco, Calif., Room 114, Customhouse.
Portland, Oreg., Room 502, Panama Building.
Seattle, Wash., Room 400, Insurance Building.
Honolulu, Hawaii, Room 244, Federal Building.
Manila, P. I., O'Racca Building.

In addition there are latitude observatories at Gaithersburg, Md., and Ukiah, Calif.; magnetic and seismological observatories at Cheltenham, Md., San Juan, P. R., Tucson, Ariz., Sitka, Alaska, and Honolulu, T. H.; a number of primary tide stations along the coasts and other stations maintained for various purposes by the Survey in cooperation with other Federal and private agencies. Surveys are carried on by ships and other mobile field units.

PART 511—METHODS OF OPERATIONS AND INFORMATION AVAILABLE

Sec.
511.1 Collection of data.
511.2 Analysis and issuance of data.
511.3 Purchase of charts and publications.

§ 511.1 Collection of data. Each of the operating divisions indicated in § 510.3 above conducts surveys and studies relating to the functions assigned it as indicated by its title. The field stations collect data for the correction of local charts, and cooperate with field parties and survey ships in their areas, as well as with local engineers and organizations engaged in operations requiring specialized data of the sort obtained by the Coast and Geodetic Survey.

§ 511.2 Analysis and issuance of data. The data obtained by surveys and studies are analyzed in the Washington office and are issued in various forms, including nautical and aeronautical charts, annual tables of predicted tides and currents, charts showing magnetic declination, results of observations at magnetic observatories, annual lists of United States earthquakes, publications of geographic positions and elevations, annual and special publications (including comprehensive manuals), and Coast Pilots. The Coast Pilots supplement the nautical charts, furnishing such information as descriptions of the coasts, recommended sailing directions, port, harbor, and anchorage information, and emphasizing any conditions that may be hazardous to water-borne traffic.

§ 511.3 Purchase of charts and publications. Nautical charts and related publications (Coast Pilots, tide and current tables, and distance tables) of the Coast and Geodetic Survey can be purchased at its Washington Office and field stations and from various sales agencies at the principal seaports of the United States and possessions. Aeronautical charts can be purchased from the Washington Office and from authorized dealers throughout the country, generally at airports. (See § 501.24 for information as to distribution of charts to dealers.) Other publications of the Bureau are available on a sales basis from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

PART 600—PURPOSE AND FUNCTIONS

Sec.
600.1 Creation.
600.2 General purpose and functions.
600.3 Operation of barge service.

§ 600.1 Creation. The Inland Waterways Corporation was created a corporation in the District of Columbia by the Act of June 3, 1924 (43 Stat. 360; 49 U. S. C. 151–157).

§ 600.2 General purpose and functions. The purpose and functions of the Corporation are to conduct a common carrier service until such time as the system can be transferred to private operation to the best advantage of the Government, and to carry out the policy of Congress to promote, encourage and develop water transportation, service and facilities in connection with the commerce of the United States and to foster and preserve in full vigor both rail and water transportation, and in so doing to demonstrate the feasibility of water transportation on the inland rivers and to extend the benefits of this service to the people of the United States. It is the duty of the Secretary of Commerce, exercised through the Corporation, to investigate the appropriate types of boats suitable for different classes of such waterways, investigate the subject of water terminals, both for inland waterway traffic and for through traffic by water and rail, including the necessary docks, warehouses, apparatus, equipment, and appliances in connection therewith, and also railroad spurs, and switches connecting with such terminals, with a view to devising the types most appropriate for different locations and for the more expeditious and economical transfer of traffic between carriers by water and carriers by rail; to advise with communities, cities and towns regarding the appropriate locations of such terminals and to cooperate with them in the preparation of plans for suitable terminal facilities; to investigate the existing status of water transportation upon the different inland waterways with a view to determining whether such waterways are being utilized to the extent of their capacity and to what extent they are meeting the demands of traffic and whether the water carriers utilizing such waterways are interchanging traffic with the railroads; and to investigate any other matter that may tend to promote and encourage inland water transportation.

The Corporation is not a regulatory agency. In performance of its statutory functions it operates as a common carrier of freight and is subject to the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, as amended, the Shipping Act, 1916, as amended, in the same manner and to the same extent as if such facilities were privately owned and operated.

§ 600.3 Operation of barge service. The Corporation operates a common carrier barge service between the following points:

From Minneapolis, Minnesota, to New Orleans, Louisiana, on the Mississippi River; from Kansas City, Missouri, to St. Louis, Missouri, on the Missouri River; from Chicago, Illinois to St. Louis, Missouri, on the Illinois River; from New Orleans, Louisiana, via the Mississippi Sound to Mobile, Alabama, thence via Warrior River to Port Birmingham, Alabama. It also owns and operates the Warrior River Terminal Company, an Alabama corporation which is its switching and terminal facility, from Port Birmingham, Alabama, to connecting rail lines at Ensley, Alabama. Terminals and rail-water connections are operated by the Corporation at Minneapolis, Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota, Dubuque, Iowa, Clinton, Iowa, Rock Island, Illinois, Burlington, Iowa, St. Louis, Missouri, East St. Louis, Illinois, Kansas City, Missouri, Chicago, Illinois, Peoria, Illinois, Cairo, Illinois, Memphis, Tennessee, Helena, Arkansas, Greenville, Mississippi, Vicksburg, Mississippi, Baton Rouge, Louisiana, New Orleans, Louisiana, Mobile, Alabama, Port Birmingham, Alabama.

PART 601—ORGANIZATION

Sec.
601.1 Officers.
601.2 Principal divisions.

§ 601.1 Officers. The incorporator and head of the Inland Waterways Corporation is the Secretary of Commerce (Washington, D. C.). The administration of the Corporation is directed by the President (St. Louis, Mo.) under the general supervision of the Chairman of the Advisory Board (Washington, D. C.). Under the general direction of the President the following officials supervise the functions stated:

Vice President (St. Louis, Mo.): Operation of vessels and terminals, engineering, design and construction, traffic (solicitation and rates) personnel.

Vice President (New Orleans, La.): Warrior River Terminal Company: Claims and liability insurance, purchasing.

Secretary-Treasurer (new Orleans, La.): Fiscal, accounting, disbursing and revenue.

§ 601.2 Principal divisions. The principal Divisions of the Corporation are as follows:

Marine Superintendent; St. Louis, Mo.: In charge of all marine activities.

Superintendent of Terminals; St. Louis, Mo.: In charge of terminal operations.

Traffic Manager, Solicitation; St. Louis, Mo.: In charge of solicitation.

Traffic Manager, Rates; New Orleans, La.: In charge of rates and divisions.

Traffic Manager, Transportation; St. Louis, Mo.: In charge of vessel and barge movement.

Personnel Officer; St. Louis, Mo.: In charge of personnel functions and procedures.

PART 602—DELEGATED AUTHORITY

Sec.
602.1 The Chairman.
602.2 The President.
602.3 General agents and local agents.
602.4 Purchasing agents.
602.5 Freight claim agent.
602.6 Chief freight accounts.

§ 602.1 The Chairman. The Chairman of the Advisory Board presides at meetings of the Board and has been delegated to exercise any of the functions vested in the Secretary of Commerce by the Act of June 3, 1924.

§ 602.2 The President. The President is delegated responsibility for the general administrative direction of the business of the Corporation including authority to enter into contracts subject to such general limitations as may be prescribed in the by-laws or enjoined upon him by the Secretary of Commerce.

§ 602.3 General agents and local agents. General and local agents are authorized to issue bills of lading.

§ 602.4 Purchasing agents. Purchasing agents have general purchasing authority.

§ 602.5 Freight claim agent. Freight claim agents have authority for settlement of loss and damage claims.

§ 602.6 Chief freight accounts. Chief freight accounts has authority for settlement of overcharge claims.

PART 603—INFORMATION

§ 603.1 Availability of information. Information may be obtained by inquiry as follows:

(a) Services offered and rates applicable, from:

Traffic Manager, Solicitation, St. Louis, Mo.
Traffic Manager, Rates, New Orleans, La.
General Agents at Minneapolis, Minn.; St. Paul, Minn.; St. Louis, Mo.; Chicago, Ill.; Memphis, Tenn.; New Orleans, La.; New York, N. Y., Mobile, Ala.; Birmingham, Ala.

(b) Information regarding all other matters not specifically listed herein may be obtained from Vice-President, St. Louis, Mo.

PART 604—ORDERS, RULES, AND PUBLIC RECORDS

Sec.
604.1 Orders and rules.
604.2 Public records.
604.3 General course and methods.

§ 604.1 Orders and rules. The Corporation issues no orders or rules binding on the public in general and has no adjudicative function. The general policies are set forth in the by-laws (Part 605).

§ 604.2 Public records. The public inspection of records is governed by the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act, as amended, the Shipping Act, as amended, and the regulations of the Department of Commerce.

§ 604.3 General course and methods. The general course and method by which the Corporation functions are channelled and determined are set forth in the by-laws (Part 605).

PART 605—BY-LAWS

Pursuant to the provisions of an Act of Congress, entitled, "An act to create the Inland Waterways Corporation for the purpose of carrying out the mandate and purpose of Congress as expressed in sections 201 and 500 of the Transportation Act of 1920, and for other purposes," approved June 3, 1924, as amended, the following amended by-laws for the Inland Waterways Corporation are hereby promulgated to become effective Sept. 1, 1946.

Article I

SECTION 1. Basic purposes of the Corporation are those defined and promulgated by the Congress in the Act of June 3, 1924, as amended (49 U. S. C. 151 et seq.).

SEC. 2. The basic policies of the Governor and Incorporator of the Inland Waterways Corporation, controlling the administration of the concerns and functions of the Corporation, are declared to be:

a. Compliance with the purposes of the Congress as provided in Section 1, Article I of these by-laws.

b. That the Corporation was organized for the purpose of demonstrating through a Government owned transportation system the economy and feasibility of inland water transportation; that carrying on the operation of this system until such demonstration is completed and the business can be advantageously, and in accordance with the Statute, turned over to private capital and private enterprises, is paramount; but that, meanwhile, reasonable measures will be taken to promote and encourage private operation by common carrier barge service on the rivers upon which the Corporation operates.

SEC. 3. (a) In connection with the extension of the service of the Corporation to new lines, the President of the Corporation shall cause to be made such surveys for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of traffic, terminal facilities, and other pertinent factors as are required by Section (3–b) of Act of June 3, 1924, as amended (49 U. S. C. 153), and report thereon to the Secretary of Commerce with his recommendations, and no extension of the service of the Corporation on such new lines shall be made except upon the order of the Secretary of Commerce in accordance with the foregoing and the provisions of the Statutes.

b. From, and after the effective date of these by-laws, no new or additional terminals shall be operated nor shall operations be discontinued at present regularly operated terminals of the Corporation except upon the approval of the Secretary of Commerce.

c. No contract or agreement shall be entered into for the purpose of operation of any new terminal that may be authorized by the Secretary of Commerce in accordance with the provisions of Section 3–b above, except upon the inclusion in such contract or agreement of a clause providing that the payment to be made by the Corporation for the use of such terminal shall be upon the basis of a stated rate per ton for freight handled in or through such terminal.

d. No expenditure of funds of the Corporation shall be made for the following purposes, except upon the approval of the Secretary of Commerce:

1. Complete replacement of old or acquisition of new wharf or track barges at terminals.

2. Complete replacement or acquisition of any new unit of floating equipment.

e. All contracts or leases shall be made in the name of the Corporation and shall be signed by the President or by those authorized by the President.

f. All funds and securities of the Corporation shall with the approval of the Secretary of Commerce be deposited in such depositories and under such conditions as may be designated by the Secretary of the Treasury.

g. All checks and drafts on the Corporation's bank accounts and all bills of exchange and promissory notes and all acceptances, obligations and other instruments, authorizing the payment of money, shall be signed by at least two (2) officers or agents as shall be thereunto authorized from time to time by the President of the Corporation and the Secretary of Commerce.

h. Borrowing of money or the issuance of notes shall only be done when specifically authorized and approved by the President of the Corporation and the Secretary of Commerce.

i. No purchase, sale or transfer of real estate shall be made except upon the approval of the President of the Corporation and the Secretary of Commerce.

j. No equipment owned by the Corporation shall be leased or chartered for a period of longer than six (6) months except upon the approval of the President of the Corporation and the Secretary of Commerce.

k. No lease of real estate, covering a period of longer than one (1) year, shall be entered into without the approval of the President of the Corporation and the Secretary of Commerce, nor shall any real estate owned by the Corporation be leased to others for a period in excess of one (1) year except upon the same approval.

l. No sale or transfer of equipment or other capital assets having a book value of $5,000.00 or more shall be made except upon the approval of the President of the Corporation and the Secretary of Commerce. However, no direct obligation of the United States or obligation guaranteed by it as to principal or interest, or both in excess of $100,000.00 may be sold or purchased without the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

m. All questions of the legal rights or responsibilities of the Corporation, involving its status as an agency of the United States in its relations to the Congress or other Government departments, shall be referred by it and determined by the Solicitor of the Department of Commerce, providing that this clause shall not be construed to affect or include legal questions involved in the Corporation's ordinary and usual relations with its customers.

n. The President of the Corporation shall make an annual report on a fiscal year basis as of June 30 and such other reports to the Secretary of Commerce, in such form and of such kind, as the Secretary of Commerce may from time to time direct.

o. All personnel, budget and administrative service activities will be conducted in accordance with existing or future applicable laws, Executive Orders and regulations issued by agencies of the Federal Government which have application to the Corporation and policies and regulations of the Department of Commerce relating to the Inland Waterways Corporation.

Article II

SEC. 1. The Secretary of Commerce shall appoint all general officers; prescribe their duties; fix their compensation, and, if considered advisable, remove them or any of them and appoint others in their places.

SEC. 2. The general officers of the Corporation shall be a President, such Vice-Presidents as may be determined by the Secretary of Commerce, a Secretary-Treasurer, an Executive Assistant, and such others as the Secretary of Commerce may from time to time deem proper.

SEC. 3. (a) The President of the Corporation shall have general administrative direction of the business of the Corporation, subject to such general limitations as are prescribed in Sections 1, 2 and 3 of Article I hereof, or in any other of these by-laws or as may be from time to time enjoined upon him by the Secretary of Commerce. Within such limitations as are defined in these by-laws, or amendments thereto, he shall formulate such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the proper and efficient management and operation of the business and affairs of the Corporation. He shall have prepared for the Secretary of Commerce an annual budget estimate for submission to the President (of the United States) through the Bureau of the Budget. The President is authorized to incur such obligations, disburse such monies and employ such personnel as may be authorized by law, subject to such limitations as may be included in these by-laws or the directives of the Secretary of Commerce.

(b) In the absence of the President of the Corporation, or a vacancy in that office, a Vice President, or such other officer as may be designated by the Secretary of Commerce, may be authorized to exercise any or all of the powers or duties of the President of the Corporation. Subject to such limitations as the Secretary of Commerce may, from time to time prescribe by amendment to these by-laws or through the issuance of rules, regulations or orders, the general officers of the Corporation shall have such powers and duties as generally and usually pertain to such officers.

(c) The Treasurer and Assistant Treasurer, and such other officers and employees as are designated by the President of the Corporation, shall be required to give bond for the faithful discharge of their duties in such sums and with such surety or sureties as he may from time to time prescribe.

Article III

ADVISORY BOARD

SEC. 1. The Advisory Board shall be constituted and shall have such powers and duties as are provided by law.

SEC. 2. It shall be the duty of the Chairman of the Advisory Board to preside at its meetings; give to members full advance information on subjects scheduled for discussion and transmit its recommendations to the Secretary of Commerce. The Chairman may exercise any of the functions vested in the Secretary of Commerce.

SEC. 3. Meetings of the Advisory Board shall be held at such times and places as may be determined by the Secretary of Commerce.

SEC. 4. The order of proceedings at the meetings of the Advisory Board shall be:

a. Reading of minutes.

b. Reports of committees.

c. Consideration of and recommendations on special matters submitted to it by the Secretary of Commerce.

d. Consideration of matters respecting the management and operation of existing facilities or the development and operation of new lines, on which it deems advice and recommendations should be furnished to the Secretary of Commerce.

e. Miscellaneous business.

SEC. 5. Members of the Advisory Board shall receive no salary for their services on said board, but shall be paid by the Corporation $25.00 per diem compensation for attending meetings of said board and for time spent on special service of the Corporation when assigned thereto by the Secretary of Commerce, and their traveling expenses to and from such meetings, or when assigned as aforesaid to such special service. The time necessarily spent by members in proceeding from the places of their respective residences to any meetings of the Advisory Board, and in returning thereto by the most expeditious and practical route, shall be deemed to have been spent on special service. In determining per diem compensation, a day shall be considered as beginning at midnight and a quarter day will be allowed for each period of six hours or portion thereof.

Article IV

SEC. 1. The seal of the Corporation shall be a circle in the center of which shall appear the coat of arms of the United States and upon the outer margin of which shall appear the words, "Inland Waterways Corporation, Act of June 3, 1924."

SEC. 2. These by-laws and amendments thereto shall be binding upon the Corporation, its officers, agents and employees, including attorneys, and upon all persons dealing with it.

SEC. 3. These by-laws, or any of them, may be amended or repealed by the Secretary of Commerce at any time. (43 Stat. 360, 44 Stat. 1261, 45 Stat. 978, 48 Stat. 998, 49 Stat. 959, 50 Stat. 304, 53 Stat. 1434, 54 Stat. 955; 49 U. S. C. 151-157)

Issued this 1st day of September, 1946.

NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS

[15 CFR, Ch. II]

PART 250—ESTABLISHMENT OF THE NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS

§ 250.1 Establishment. The National Bureau of Standards was established by Act of Congress dated March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1449; 15 U. S. C. 271.)

PART 251—THE PURPOSE AND FUNCTIONS OF THE NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS

Sec.
251.1 Basic functions.
251.2 Research associate plan.
251.3 Federal specifications.
251.4 Weights and measures.

§ 251.1 Basic functions. (a) The National Bureau of Standards is the principal agency of the Federal Government for fundamental research in physics, chemistry, and engineering. It has the custody of the national standards of physical measurement in terms of which all working standards in research laboratories and industry are calibrated, and carries on necessary research leading to improvement in such standards and methods of measurement. It also has a general responsibility for basic research in physics, chemistry, and engineering, and for development of improved methods for testing materials and equipment. It determines physical constants and properties of materials, tests and calibrates standard measuring apparatus and reference standards, and studies technical processes.

(b) A large part of the work of the Bureau is concerned with the development of specifications for the purchase of supplies (other than foods and drugs) for the Federal Government and with rendering advisory service to Government agencies on scientific and technical matters. Cooperation is extended to States, industries, and national organizations in the development of specifications and engineering and safety codes.

(c) The services to the public include the furnishing of information regarding Bureau research and testing activities which is available for publication, furnishing of standard samples of chemicals, metals, and other materials, and the testing of materials and equipment and calibration of instruments when such services are in the public interest and are not available of sufficient accuracy elsewhere.

§ 251.2. Research Associate Plan. Many research projects at the Bureau originate in requests from industrial groups and are carried on in cooperation with the organizations primarily interested. The Research Associate Plan, inaugurated soon after World War I, was devised to further this cooperation, and provides a satisfactory method for assisting an industrial group in the solution of a problem of interest directly to that industry and directly or indirectly to the general public, but in which the Government is not sufficiently concerned to bear the entire cost. Under this plan an industrial or technical group may send to the Bureau one or more research men or women to work on the group's problem under the technical direction of Bureau staff members, the supporting group paying the salaries of these "Research Associates"; the results of their work become public property and are published in the Bureau's Journal of Research or in the technical press. As many as 100 Research Associates, sponsored by 20 or more groups, have been stationed at the Bureau at one time. Current sponsors and projects are listed following the organization charts.

§ 251.3 Federal specifications. The Federal Specifications Board, under the chairmanship of the Director of the National Bureau of Standards, acting in conjunction with the staff of the Procurement Division of the Treasury Department, is charged with the responsibility of the preparation, revision, and amendment of purchase specifications promulgated by the Procurement Division for supplies used by the Executive departments and agencies. This function is discharged through the operation of 72 Federal Specifications Technical Committees. One hundred and five members of the staff of the National Bureau of Standards currently hold membership on these Technical Committees; in the case of 37 Committees the Chairmen are staff members of the Bureau.

§ 251.4 Weights and measures. The United States was a signatory to the treaty under which the International Bureau of Weights and Measures was created in 1875. The National Bureau of Standards has participated in the affairs of the International Bureau, the International Conference on Weights and Measures, and the International Committee which is an executive agency for the International Conference. It assists and advises State and local authorities responsible for the administration of laws and regulations relating to weights and measures. As a part of this activity the Bureau conducts an annual National Conference on Weights and Measures.

PART 252—ORGANIZATION OF THE NATIONAL BUREAU OF STANDARDS

§ 252.1 Organization. The organization of the National Bureau of Standards consists of the Office of the Director and 14 scientific and technical divisions which are further subdivided into more than 100 sections.

The following tabulation lists the major organizational subdivisions within the Bureau, all of which are located in Washington, D. C.

Office of the Director.
Division I—Electricity.
Division II—Meteorology.
Division III—Heat and Power.
Division IV—Optics.
Division V—Chemistry.
Division VI—Mechanics and Sound.
Division VII—Organic and Fibrous Materials.
Division VIII—Metallurgy.
Division IX—Clay and Silicate Products.
Division X—Simplified Practice.
Division XI—Trade Standards.
Division XII—Codes and Specifications.
Division XIII—Ordnance Development.
Division XIV—Central Radio Propagation Laboratory.

Field stations and laboratories are maintained in 15 localities, as set forth in the following tabulation showing briefly the type of work being carried on at each location:

Master Railway Track Scale Depot, Clearing, Ill.
Materials Testing Laboratory, Permanente, Calif.
Materials Testing Laboratory, Riverside, Calif.
Materials Testing Laboratory, San Francisco, Calif.
Materials Testing Laboratory, Denver, Colo.
Materials Testing Laboratory, Allentown, Pa.
Materials Testing Laboratory, Seattle, Wash.
Radio Transmitting Station, Beltsville, Md.
Radio Propagation Laboratory, Sterling, Va.
Radio Propagation Field Station, Adak, Alaska.
Radio Propagation Field Station, Hawaii.
Radio Propagation Field Station, Christmas Island.
Radio Propagation Field Station, Trinidad.
Radio Propagation Field Station, Guam.
Radio Propagation Field Station, Manila, P. I.

PART 253—MAJOR ORGANIZATION UNITS

Sec.
253.1 Office of the Director.
253.2 Scientific and technical divisions.

§ 253.1 Office of the Director—(a) Purpose and functions. The Director is appointed by the President and is responsible for administering the affairs of the Bureau under the general direction of the Secretary of Commerce, in accordance with the statutes, executive orders, rules and regulations of the Department of Commerce, and rules and regulations of the regulatory agencies of the Federal Government. Specifically, he is responsible for development and coordination of Bureau policies within the scope of existing laws and regulations, the establishment of necessary organization units and facilities for discharging the responsibilities of the Bureau as provided by law and regulations, and issuance of directives for the performance of these functions.

(b) Organization. The Office of the Director consists of the Director, Associate Directors, Executive Officer, Assistants to the Director, and the necessary administrative and secretarial assistants.

(c) Procedures. Authority and responsibilities of the Director are discharged through the issuance of Bureau Orders, Administrative Procedural Memoranda, Bureau Memoranda, and other directives and oral instructions as may be given from time to time by conferences, meetings, and interviews.

§ 253.2 Scientific and technical divisions—(a) Purpose and functions. Generally speaking, each Division of the Bureau is engaged in basic research, in testing, in instrument calibration, in aiding in the preparation of specifications and codes, in rendering advisory service to other government agencies, and in supplying information to the public. These activities are conducted by each Division with relation to the particular field or branch of science with which the Division is concerned. There are listed below the several Divisions and the fields of activity covered by each:

(1) Division I; electricity—(i) Resistance measurements. The unit of resistance (the ohm); resistance standards, bridges, potentiometers, conductor materials; measurement of resistances and resistivities; correlation of ohm with units of length, mass, and time.

(ii) Inductance and capacitance. Standards of inductance and capacitance; formulas for calculation of inductance; correlation of electrical units with units of length, mass, and time; electrical properties of insulating materials.

(iii) Electrical instruments. Instruments for measuring electric voltage, current, power, and energy; high voltages; electrical surges; dielectric strength of materials.

(iv) Magnetic measurements. Magnetic properties of materials, their variation with temperature, and their relation to composition and other physical properties.

(v) Underground corrosion. The corrosive action of soils on metals underground (particularly cables and pipe lines), and the properties and effectiveness of pipe coatings.

(vi) Electrochemistry. Standard cells; development of storage batteries, dry cells, and other primary cells; determination of electrochemical constants.

(2) Division II; metrology—(i) Length. Line standards of length (bars and tapes); sieves and sieve cloth; haemacytometer counting chambers; measurement of length intervals; graduation and calibration of precision circles; tables of weights and measures.

(ii) Mass. The national standards of mass; scientific and reference weights; precision balances.

(iii) Time. Time-indicating and time-recording apparatus (watches, clocks, chronometers); the classification of imported watches (cooperation with Custom Service); standardization of watch repairing (cooperation with Horological Institute of America).

(iv) Capacity and density. Glass volumetric apparatus (pipettes, flasks, burettes, graduates, Babcock test bottles); hydrometers; metal capacity measures; density and thermal expansivity of liquids; preparation of tables of densities and volumes.

(v) Gas measuring instruments. Gas-measuring instruments (meters); meter-testing equipment; laws of fluid flow through pipes and metering devices.

(vi) Thermal expansion. Thermal expansivity of metals, alloys, glass, plastics, and other solids.

(vii) Dental materials. Physical properties and clinical service of restorative dental materials (amalgams, cements, gold, plastics).

(viii) Scales. Weighing scales; force-measuring devices; test-weight cars; portable testing equipment for commercial-type weighing scales.

(ix) Gage-master and limit gages; gage blocks; gaging methods; precision screws; screw threads; surface finish.

(3) Division III; heat and power—(i) Temperature measurements. The International Temperature Scale; temperature measuring devices (thermometers, thermocouples, pyrometers); thermometric fixed points.

(ii) Thermodynamics. Thermodynamic properties of substances (specific heats, enthalpies, entropies, free energies); calorimetric measurements; phenomena accompanying changes in heat energy.

(iii) Heat transfer. Heat transfer measurements; heating and ventilating systems and appliances; thermal conductivity; insulating, refrigerating, and air conditioning systems and devices.

(iv) Cryogenic laboratory. Production, application, and control of low-temperature refrigeration; liquid hydrogen, liquid helium, low-temperature research. (Supplies low-temperature refrigerants for Bureau use).

(v) Fire resistance. Fire resistance of building constructions and methods; fire hazard properties of materials; fire tests; fire detecting and extinguishing equipment; fire prevention.

(vi) Automotive. Performance of automotive engines, motor vehicles, and accessories, carburetion, and fuel quality requirements; special fuels and additives; coolants.

(vii) Lubricants and liquid fuels. Lubrication requirements for machinery; friction, wear, and seizure in parts; qualities of lubricants; viscometers; oil filters; voltatility of liquid fuels; vapor lock.

(viii) Aircraft engines. Performance and maintenance of aircraft engines and accessories; aviation fuels and lubricants; ignition and combustion in aircraft engines; aircraft electrical equipment.

(4) Division IV; optics—(i) Spectroscopy. Standard wave lengths; optical emission spectra; atomic energy states; spectrochemical analysis.

(ii) Polarimetry. Polarized light; polarimetric constants; formation, growth, and properties of crystals; development and grading of sugars; sugar control measurements; annealing of glasses.

practical route, shall be deemed to have been tions and engineering and safety

(iii) Photometry and colorimetry. Fundamental candlepower unit, photometric, spectrophotometric, and colorimetric measurements; measurements of light, lamps, and signaling devices; aviation lighting; transmittance, reflectance, opacity, and gloss of materials; color standards; phenomena of color vision.

(iv) Optical instruments. Design and construction of optical components and instruments; refractometric standards; optical properties of glass and other transparent media; photogrammetric standards. (Supplies optical-shop services for the Bureau).

(v) Radiometry. Standards and constants of radiation; protective glasses; ultraviolet lamps; properties of materials for ultraviolet and infrared radiation; infrared absorption and emission spectra.

(vi) Atomic physics. Optical and electrical study of fundamental atomic processes associated with electric discharges; mass spectrograph research.

(vii) Photographic technology. Standards for photography, including photographic reproduction of records; performance and physical properties of photographic materials; photographic illumination; photochemical processes; special cameras. (Supplies photographic service for the Bureau.)

(viii) Interferometry. Interferometric determination of thermal expansion, dimensions, planeness, and size of small bodies; ruling of line standards and diffraction gratings; micro-hardness; jewel bearings and diamond dies.

(ix) Radioactivity. Radioactive materials; radioisotopes; standards of neutron intensities; measurement of alpha, beta, and gamma radiations; standard radiation sources.

(x) X-Ray. X-Ray standards, phenomena, measurements, generators, instruments, protective materials, and medical and industrial hazards.

(5) Division V; chemistry—(i) Paints, varnish, and bituminous materials. Chemical and physical properties of nonmetallic coatings (paints and paint materials, varnish, lacquer, and bituminous materials); roofing materials; standard samples of colored pigments.

(ii) Detergents and miscellaneous materials. Chemical analysis of detergents, boiler waters, and miscellaneous materials.

(iii) Organic chemistry. Chemical microscopy; purification and synthesis of organic compounds; coated fabrics; inks, typewriter ribbons, carbon paper, and other office supplies.

(iv) Analytical chemistry and standard samples. Standards of acidimetry, oxidimetry, and composition; analysis of inorganic materials; standard samples; extraction of alumina from clay.

(v) Reagents and platinum metals. Inorganic and analytical chemistry of the platinum metals; analytical reagents; preparation of pure substances; criteria of purity.

(vi) Electrochemistry. Principles and methods of electrodeposition; electroplating processes; properties of solutions and deposits; thickness of plated coatings.

(vii) Gas chemistry. Standards for gas service; gas analysis; properties of gases and gas mixtures; preparation of pure gases; gas appliances.

(viii) Physical chemistry and pH standards. Physico-chemical constants (electrode potentials; activity coefficients, dissociation, dielectric and polarographic constants, conductivities of solutions, dipole moments, boiling points, vaper pressures); standard scale of pH acidity and basicity in inorganic media.

(ix) Thermochemistry and hydrocarbons. Thermochemistry; chemical thermodynamics; analysis, purification, purity, and properties of hydrocarbons; compilation of data on physical, thermodynamic, and spectrographic properties.

(x) Uranium and related materials. Analysis of uranium ores and related materials.

(6) Division VI; mechanics and sound — (i) Engineering instruments. Engineering instruments and mechanical appliances, including pressure gauges, water current meters, master beer meters, fire extinguishers, postage meters, stamp vending machines, elevator interlocks and similar devices.

(ii) Sound. Standards for absolute measurement of sound intensity; acoustic measurements; transmission of sound and vibrations; microphones; acoustic properties of materials and structures; loud speakers; noise meters; audiometers; hearing aids.

(iii) Aeronautic instruments. Aeronautic and aerologic instruments, including flight-test instruments, altimeters, compasses; radio sondes; barometers; oxygen instruments for aircraft personnel, instrument lubricants.

(iv) Aerodynamics. Aerodynamics, including turbulence and boundary layer phenomena; wind pressure on structures; aerodynamic characteristics of military missiles; anemometers and other instruments for measuring air velocities.

(v) Engineering mechanics. Mechanical properties of structural and engineering materials and of structural elements and structures; testing machines; measurement of strain distribution, displacements, and accelerations in structures; apparatus for determining hardness of metals.

(vi) Hydraulics. Hydraulics and hydrodynamics; model studies of hydraulic structures; flow in plumbing systems; water wave phenomena; diffusion and evaporation; transport of sand and sediment.

(vii) Special projects. Design of guided missiles.

(7) Division VII; organic and fibrous materials—(i) Rubber. Physical and chemical propertes of synthetic and natural rubbers and their ingredients; crystallization and vitrification of rubbers; rubber products.

(ii) Textiles. Physical properties and performance characteristics of fibers, yarns, cords, and fabrics; deterioration of fibers, spectrophotometric properties of dies; standards of color fastness to light; quantitative determination of fabric components.

(iii) Paper. Quality standards for paper; improvements in paper-manufacturing methods; development of new and improved papers; utilization of new raw materials for papers.

(iv) Leather. Properties, deterioration, and life expectancy of leathers and leather and allied products, tanning methods and materials.

(v) Testing and specifications. Testing of rubber, leather, paper, textiles, plastics, and flooring materials for Federal and State governments, and preparation of specifications for such materials; safety of walking surfaces.

(vi) Mass spectrometry. Development of mass spectrometers; analysis of hydrocarbons, gases, soils, leaf, ashes, rubbers and plastics; separation of isotopes and measurement of isotope ratios.

(vii) Organic plastics. Physical and chemical properties, constants, formulation, and molecular structure of organic plastics; protective coatings, films, and adhesives.

(8) Division VIII, metallurgy—(i) Optical metallurgy. Metallographic techniques (microscopic and X-ray); relation between metal structure and properties and service performance; corrosion and corrosion prtection.

(ii) Thermal metallurgy. Properties of metals at high and low temperatures; changes in structure and properties with temperature and thermal treatment; thermal analysis and methods of heat treatment.

(iii) Mechanical metallurgy. Determination and measurement of mechanical properties of metals; effects of mechanical working, fabrication, and distribution of mechanical stresses on properties and service performance.

(iv) Chemical metallurgy. Metals and alloys of high purity; rare metals and their alleys; powder metallurgy; relation between chemical composition and properties; effect and determination of gases in metals and alloys.

(v) Experimental foundry section. Founding materials and processes; properties of cast metals and of molding sands; preparation of special castings.

(9) Division IX; clay and silicate products—(i) Porcelain and pottery. Development of and standards for industrial insulators and chemical porcelains, and for household sanitary ware, table china, and pottery.

(ii) Glass. Development of new optical glasses and improved manufacturing methods; properties of commercial glasses.

(iii) Refractories. Properties of and performance standards for fire clay and special refractories.

(iv) Enameled metals. Vitreous enameled articles, fixtures, and structural units; effects of chemical composition and production methods on properties and service performance; preparation of calibrated enameled panels for use as standard samples.

(v) Cement and concreting materials. Performance standards for cements and concrete-making materials; effects on concrete properties and service performance of design of mixtures and methods of placement; routine testing of cements and concreting materials for Federal Government.

(vi) Masonry construction. Strength, stability, and durability of masonry products and structures; standards of quality, performance, and practice.

(vii) Lime and gypsum. Physico-chemical characteristics of limes, gypsum, and related cementing materials used in plasters, mortars, and concretes.

(viii) Stone. Physical properties of building stones; materials for exterior waterproofing, preserving, pointing, calking and cleaning stone masonry.

(10) Division X, simplified practice—

(i) Wood, textiles, paper, and rubber.

(ii) Metal and mechanical products.

(iii) Containers and miscellaneous products.

(iv) Materials-handling equipment and ceramic.

(v) Electrical products.

(vi) Construction materials.

(vii) Metal and woodworking tools.

The Division serves as an impartial centralizing agency through which individual producers, distributors, and users cooperate in furthering a nation-wide program for the elimination of avoidable wastes through the formulation of Simplified Practice Recommendations which identify and list those sizes, types, dimensions, and varieties of manufactured products that satisfy major demand. The names of the several sections indicate their respective fields of activity.

(11) Division XI, trade standards—

(i) Wood, wood products, paper, and leather section.

(ii) Metal products.

(iii) Textiles.

(iv) Apparel.

(v) Chemical and miscellaneous products.

(vi) Export standards.

(vii) Petroleum and rubber products.

The Division cooperates, upon request, with business and consumer groups in the development and establishment of commercial standards for manufactured products, as a basis for factual labeling, grading, testing, advertising, specifying, marketing, guaranteeing, and accepting products moving in domestic or export trade. The names of the several sections indicate their respective fields of activity.

(12) Division XII; codes and specifications—(i) Safety codes. Safety standards and codes; safety of Federal Government installations, especially of elevators and other electrical equipment.

(ii) Building codes. Building and plumbing codes and ordinances.

(iii) Building Practice and Specifications.—Construction of and materials for buildings and dwellings; prefabrication and factory assembly; care and maintenance, including service equipment and fixtures.

(iv) Producer contacts and certification. Information service to tax-supported purchasing agencies on available sources of commodities guaranteed to conform to Federal specifications, and to manufacturers on current changes in Federal specifications and commercial standards.

(v) Consumer contacts and labeling. Classified and indexed library of commodity specifications; directory of specifications and testing laboratories; labeling plan for identification of commodities guaranteed to comply with recognized standards.

(13) Division XIII; ordnance development—(i) Instrumentation, Tests, and Evaluation. Laboratory and proving-ground testing of electronic ordnance devices, and methods and equipment therefor.

(ii) Ordnance research. Fundamental studies on methods and components for new types of electronics ordnance devices.

(iii) Electrical engineering. Electronic designs, including electrical components for electronic ordnance devices.

(iv) Mechanical engineering. Mechanical designs, including components and materials, for electronic ordnance devices.

(v) Pilot engineering. Development of engineering releases on production designs for electronic ordnance devices; model shop production; quality control of mass production.

(vi) Electronics. Development and standardization of electron tubes and electronic measuring and control equipment, including special adaptation to guided missiles; electronic radiators and collectors.

(vii) Interior ballistics. Interior ballistics of cannon, including stresses in barrel and mount, gas presures and temperatures, displacement, velocity, acceleration of projectile and gun, and barrel temperatures during firing.

(14) Division XIV; central radio propagation laboratory—(i) Basic ionospheric research. Ionospheric effects on radio propagation; survey of ionospheric field intensity, and radio noise measurements; methods for analysis, prediction, and application of radio propagation data.

(ii) Basic microwave research. Propagation at VHF and microwave frequencies; survey of tropospheric propagation and allied meteorological measurements; methods for analysis, prediction, and application of VHF and microwave propagation data.

(iii) Regular propagation services. Predictions of ionospheric and radio propagation conditions; publication of reports, handbooks, bulletins, and training manuals.

(iv) Frequency utilization research. The utility for specific application, of various portions of the radio-frequency spectrum.

(v) Experimental ionospheric research section. Design of new equipment for radio propagation measurements and research at ionospheric frequencies; measurements and experimentation at ionospheric frequencies.

(vi) Experimental microwave research section. Design of new equipment for radio propagation measurements and research at VHF and microwave frequencies; measurements and experimentation at VHF and microwave frequencies.

(vii) Regular propagation measurements. Design of equipment for regular propagation measurements; operation of radio propagation field stations; supervision of technical operations of associated laboratories.

(viii) Ionospheric measurement standards section. Radio measurement methods and standards at frequencies below 300 megacycles per second; means for providing radio standards; measurement of frequency, voltage, impedence, and field intensity at ionospheric and VHF frequencies; broadcast service for frequencies and time signals.

(ix) Microwave measurement standards. Microwave radio measurement methods and standards including frequency, power, voltage, current, impedence, field intensity, attentuation, dielectric and magnetic characteristics, inductance, capacitance, Q interference; random electrical noise.

(b) Organization. Each division is subdivided into sections, in which research is conducted relating to one or more phases of the branch of science or field activity assigned to the Division.

PART 254—PROCEDURES

Sec.

254.1 Information.
254.2 Tests for Government agencies.
254.3 Tests for the public.
254.4 Research for Government agencies.
254.5 Research associate plan.

In general no formal procedures are prescribed for obtaining service from the National Bureau of Standards.

§ 254.1 Information. Information on technical and scientific subjects within its field of work is supplied by the bureau by means of publications, by correspondence, and by personal interviews with inquirers. All such service is given without charge, except that publications can be supplied free only to reference libraries or in answer to requests for information on specific problems. The regular method of distributing publications is through sales by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, 25, D. C.

§ 254.2 Tests for Government agencies. So far as the Bureau's means permit, tests of materials and equipment are made for government agencies without charge. Requests for such tests should be made in writing but no special form is required. When the amount of work desired by a particular agency is greater than can be done under the Bureau's direct appropriations, arrangements can sometimes be made to carry it on by using funds transferred by the requesting agency.

§ 254.3 Tests for the public. The bureau is authorized by law to perform services within its field "for any scientific society, educational institution, firm, corporation, or individual within the United States engaged in manufacturing or other pursuits requiring the use of standards or standard measuring instruments," provided that in each case of such service a fee shall be charged sufficient to cover the cost of the service rendered as set forth in 15 CFR, Supps., Part 200. The policy of the Department of Commerce, however, has been to undertake testing for the public only when satisfactory service cannot be obtained from other laboratories. Tests for the public are therefore limited almost entirely to these involving comparison of laboratory standards or instruments with the national standards.

Requests for such tests should be made in writing, with sufficient information about the instruments or standards to enable the bureau to determine whether they fall within classes which the bureau can appropriately accept for test.

§ 254.4 Research for Government agencies. On request from any Government agency the Bureau will carry out needed investigations which are within its field of work and for which it has facilities. When the bureau is unable to perform such work within the limits of its direct appropriations any department or independent establishment having funds available for scientific investigations may transfer to the bureau such sums as may be necessary to carry on such investigations.

§ 254.5 Research associate plan. Arrangements for carrying on an investigation under the Research Associate plan (see § 251.2) are made by conference with the organizations supporting the project and recorded by an exchange of letters. Funds contributed for such projects are not handled by the Bureau but are usually deposited with some appropriate organization, such as the National Research Council, which disburses them on the basis of vouchers certified by the Bureau.

Acting Director,
National Bureau of Standards.

OFFICE OF TECHNICAL SERVICES

[15 CFR, Ch. VI]

PART 600—GENERAL ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

Sec.
600.1 Creation.
600.2 General purposes and functions.
600.3 General statement of organization.

§ 600.1 Creation. The Office of Declassification and Technical Services was established by Departmental Order No. 5, September 18, 1945. The name of the Office was changed to Office of Technical Services by Departmental Order No. 5 (Amendment No. 1), July 1, 1946.

§ 600.2 General purposes and functions. The Office of Technical Services was established to assist in increasing the technological productivity of the nation by aiding manufacturers and industries in contacting Federal, State and private agencies which can help them in the solution of specific technical problems; by furnishing industry and the public with information on available methods, processes, products, devices, and the like; and by developing and furthering the use of new methods, processes, products and devices. In discharging this responsibility, the Office of Technical Services may:

(a) Initiate, sponsor, and arrange for the conduct of research and development work on such mechanisms, materials, processes, and inventions as will create employment and advance the technological productivity of the nation;

(b) Counsel and assist inventors in order to facilitate the development and utilization of new discoveries, inventions, processes, and products;

(c) Collect, and disseminate to business and industry technical and scientific industrial intelligence not now available to manufacturers and business for the purpose of promoting economic expansion and development. This applies to technical and industrial information obtained through investigators in Germany and other occupied countries; and

(d) Arrange for the exchange of technical and scientific information between the United States Government and foreign governments.

§ 600.3 General statement of organization. The Office of Technical Services consists of the Office of the Director, which has an Administrative Staff and an Information Staff, and the following divisions:

Industrial Research and Development Division.
Inventions and Engineering Division.
Technical Industrial Intelligence Division.
Technical Advisory Service Division.
Bibliographic and Reference Division.

PART 601—FUNCTIONS OF THE ORGANIZATION UNITS

Sec.
601.1 Office of the Director.
601.2 Industrial Research and Development Division.
601.3 Inventions and Engineering Division.
601.4 Technical Industrial Intelligence Division.
601.5 Technical Advisory Service Division.
601.6 Bibliographic and Reference Division.

§ 601.1 Office of the Director. The Office of the Director is responsible for the general direction, guidance, and coordination of the activities of the Office of Technical Services.

The Administrative Staff is under the direction of an Executive Officer, who serves as the principal adviser to the Director on matters of organization, budgeting, personnel management, and procedural planning. He is responsible for liaison with central administrative offices of the Department, for obtaining services from such offices, and for providing internal administrative services for the Office of Technical Services.

The Information Staff, under the general policy guidance of the Director of the Office of Information of the Department of Commerce, is responsible for developing and executing a coordinated information and publications program for the Office of Technical Services; for reviewing speeches, press releases, articles, and other public statements to be released by the Office of Technical Services; for negotiating with publishing companies for the private publication of documents in the possession of the Office of Technical Services, so that they may be made available to industry in economical and convenient form; and for writing, editing, and publishing a semi-popular magazine reporting the scientific and technical activities of the Department of Commerce, other Federal agencies, and cooperating foreign governments.

§ 601.2 Industrial Research and Development Division. The Industrial Research and Development Division is generally responsible for the performing of those functions of the Office of Technical Services relating to the selection, organization, negotiation, and administration of research projects on such mechanisms, processes, inventions, and the construction of pilot models therefor, which are entered into by the Office of Technical Services for the purpose of benefiting the technological and industrial productivity of the nation, creating new enterprises, and adding to employment. In performing these functions the Industrial Research and Development Division will:

(a) Review and analyze ideas for technological or scientific research to determine whether the undertaking of a research project is technically justified and whether the results of such a project are likely to justify the expenditure of public funds on the project;

(b) Initiate investigation of the feasibility of undertaking such research;

(c) Develop research programs and estimate the cost of projects proposed;

(d) Recommend to the Director the undertaking of research projects;

(e) Select the organizations with which research contracts are to be placed;

(f) Negotiate and administer research contracts;

(g) Handle patent problems arising out of projects and analyze the industrial applicability of research results;

(h) Encourage the industrial application and adoption of the results of research projects; and

(i) Within the limits of available funds, carry technical development through to a production stage, when advisable to do so, by arranging for the construction of prototypes of new products or for the building and operation of pilot plants.

§ 601.3 Inventions and Engineering Division. The Inventions and Engineering Division is generally responsible for performing those functions of the Office of Technical Services relating to counselling and assisting inventors, stimulating invention by indicating areas and situations in which invention is needed, and in general encouraging the development of inventiveness as a national resource. In addition the Inventions and Engineering Division serves the Office of Technical Services as a central pool of engineers available for interpretations and analyses. In performing these functions the Inventions and Engineering Division will:

(a) Systematically analyze and evaluate the technical merits of inventions and ideas, comment on their possibilities for the creation of new employment opportunities, and recommend to the Industrial Research and Development Division, prospective manufacturers, or the armed services those which appear to justify research and further development;

(b) Provide inventors with information as to the functions and procedures of the patent system; their rights and interests in inventive ideas; research, development, and test facilities available from public and private sources; and financing, exploiting, and marketing problems; and

(c) Compile and make available to inventors information on problems needing solution through new inventions.

§ 601.4 Technical Industrial Intelligence Division. The Technical Industrial Intelligence Division is responsible for those functions of the Office of Technical Services relating to collecting and disseminating technical and scientific industrial intelligence. In performing these functions the Technical Industrial Intelligence Division will:

(a) Conduct intensive searches in enemy and other foreign countries to locate personnel, documents, and material from which technical and scientific industrial information may be obtained, and study processes, methods, and techniques for the purpose of obtaining such information; and

(b) Analyze and appraise the information obtained to determine its possible usefulness to American business and industry.

§ 601.5 Technical Advisory Service Division. The Technical Advisory Service Division is responsible for those functions of the Office of Technical Services relating to providing technical information to business to aid in solving specific technical problems. In performing these functions the Technical Advisory Service Division will:

(a) Provide an advisory service to businesses and industrial firms and state and local governments requesting aid in the solution of their technical problems; and

(b) Direct applicants for technical assistance to appropriate public and private agencies conducting technical industrial research.

§ 601.6 Bibliographic and Reference Division. The Bibliographic and Reference Division is responsible for providing a pool of knowledge as to the existence and location of scientific and technical information, for developing improved methods of reference to such material, and for making such material available for use. In performing these functions the Division will:

(a) Acquire scientific and technical reports and publications for distribution to the general public.

(b) Effect the declassification of scientific and technical data that can be released for public benefit and make such data available to business and industry;

(c) Catalogue and index all scientific and technical reports available;

(d) Select the reports which appear to be most useful to business and industrial firms and prepare abstracts and other copy for publication in the Bibliography of Scientific and Industrial Reports; and

(e) Prepare special subject lists for general distribution.

PART 602—INFORMATION AND SERVICES AVAILABLE TO THE PUBLIC

Sec.
602.1 General policy.
602.2 Manner of dissemination.

§ 602.1 General policy. It is the policy of the Office of Technical Services to aid in the development of valuable new products and processes, to make scientific and technical information available in the most readily usable form, and to distribute such information as widely as possible to the maximum benefit of business, industry and the general public.

§ 602.2 Manner of dissemination. The Office of Technical Services aids in the dissemination of scientific and technical information to business and industry in the following ways:

(a) Through sale of the reports listed in the weekly Bibliography of Scientific and Industrial Reports. All material made available through the Office of Technical Services is listed and abstracted in the Bibliography. The material includes hitherto secret or otherwise restricted wartime research data, the results of investigations in Germany and other foreign countries, as well as reports on current Government research projects. Copies of all reports are sold at the cost of reproduction by the Office of Technical Services. A complete card index to the information contained in these reports is open to the public in the Office of Technical Services, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

(b) By assisting industry in the solution of specific technical problems. All the divisions are available to help in the solution of such problems submitted through correspondence or in person.

(c) By helping inventors develop new materials, processes, and products for commercial production. The staff of the Inventions and Engineering Division solicits and evaluates ideas submitted to the Office of Technical Services, provides informed advice on patents and inventions, and serves as a general information bureau on technical data in the possession of the Government. The Industrial Research and Development Division will assist in research programs, including the construction and operation of pilot plant facilities where necessary, for the development of new ideas which promise to increase industrial productivity and to create new business and employment opportunities.

(d) By making it possible for companies, trade and scientific groups, and individuals to conduct investigations of German and other foreign industrial technology under the sponsorship of the Technical Industrial Intelligence Division. The results of these investigations are made available to all industry through the Office of Technical Services.

(e) By obtaining samples of foreign equipment, products, and other matériel and making arrangements for research, testing, and inspection of these samples by Government, industrial, and scientific laboratories. Reports on the results of these investigations are made available to the public by the Office of Technical Services.

(f) By preparing public exhibits of foreign and comparable domestic materials and products of interest to American industry and by cooperating with other agencies and groups in preparing such displays.

(g) Through the issuance of press releases and through cooperation with the press in the preparation of articles for magazines, newspapers, and other public sources of information. Emphasis is placed on informing industry of new technological developments which may be of wide interest and commercial value.

§ 10.1 Establishment. The Patent Office was established to administer the patent laws enacted by Congress in accordance with Article I, section 8, of the Constitution. The first of these laws was enacted April 10, 1790 (1 Stat. 318), but the Patent Office as a distinct bureau in the Department of State dates from the year 1802, when an official who became known as the Superintendent of Patents was placed in charge. The general revision of the patent laws enacted July 4, 1836 (5 Stat. 117), reorganized the Patent Office and designated the official in charge as Commissioner of Patents. Another general revision of the patent laws was made in 1870, and since that date numerous acts of Congress relating to patents have been passed. The present patent laws are set forth in title 35 of the United States Code. The administration of the Federal trade-mark laws (title 15, sections 81 to 108 of the United States Code and Public Law 489, 79th Congress) is also in the Patent Office. The Patent Office was transferred from the Department of the Interior, in which Department it had been since 1849, to the Department of Commerce by Executive Order on April 1, 1925, in accordance with the authority contained in the act of February 14, 1903, (32 Stat. 830). The Patent Office is located in Washington, D. C., but some of its examining divisions are temporarily located in Richmond, Virginia.

§ 10.2 Functions. The chief functions of the Patent Office are to administer the patent laws as they relate to the granting of letters patent for inventions, and to perform other duties relating to patents. It examines applications for patents to ascertain if the applicants are entitled to patents under the law, and grants the patents when they are so entitled; it publishes issued patents and various publications concerning patents and the patent laws, records assignments of patents, maintains a search room for the use of the public to examine issued patents and records, supplies copies of records and other papers, supplies information concerning patents, and the like. Analogous and similar functions are performed with respect to the registration of trade-marks.

§ 10.3 Organization. The Patent Office is organized broadly in the office of the Commissioner of Patents and associated offices, including the Assistant Commissioners, a Solicitor and Law Examiners, Supervisory Examiners, a Chief Clerk, and executive and administrative officers; the examining and associated divisions which carry on the technical and legal work leading to the grant or refusal of a patent or a trade-mark registration; and service and clerical divisions. Various officers and divisions are described in greater detail in the following sections but those dealing with purely administrative or internal matters, and such functions in the named divisions, are omitted.

§ 10.4 Commissioner of Patents. The head of the Patent Office is the Commissioner of Patents, who superintends or performs all duties respecting the granting and issuing of patents and the registration of trade-marks. He exercises general supervision over the entire work of the Patent Office, prescribes rules, subject to the approval of the Secretary of Commerce, for the conduct of proceedings in the Patent Office and for the recognition of attorneys and agents, decides various questions brought before him by petition as prescribed by the rules, and performs other duties necessary and required for the administration of the Patent Office and the performance of its functions. The Commissioner also prescribes the rules governing the registration of trade-marks and hears appeals in trade-mark cases.

§ 10.5 Assistant Commissioners. The Commissioner of Patents is assisted by three Assistant Commissioners of Patents, one of whom is designated First Assistant Commissioner of Patents, who perform such duties relating to the office of the Commissioner of Patents as are assigned by the Commissioner, with the same authority as the Commissioner. One of them acts as Commissioner of Patents in the temporary absence of the latter.

§ 10.6 Solicitor and Law Examiners. The Solicitor and Law Examiners constitute the legal staff of the Commissioner. They have charge of litigation in which the Patent Office is a party, acting as counsel in appeals to the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals and in suits against the Commissioner, investigate legal and legislative matters for the Commissioner, edit the legal portions of the Official Gazette, and perform such other duties with respect to matters coming before the Commissioner as he may from time to time assign.

§ 10.7 Supervisory Examiners. The Supervisory Examiners aid the Commissioner in the administration of the Patent Office with respect to the examining of patent applications and the examining personnel, and in coordinating the formal procedures and practices among the examining divisions; they instruct new examiners, investigate complaints, investigate or decide for the Commissioner such petitions on matters relating to examining procedure as may be referred or delegated by the Commissioner; pass upon certain actions proposed to be taken by examiners; and perform such other duties as may be assigned by the Commissioner.

§ 10.8 Board of Appeals. The Commissioner, Assistant Commissioners and nine Examiners-in-Chief constitute a Board of Appeals whose duty is to hear and decide appeals from adverse decisions of examiners upon applications for patents. Each appeal is heard and considered by at least three members of the Board of Appeals. Their decisions are reviewable by the courts. The temporary designation of additional members of the Board of Appeals from examiners of the Principal Examiner grade or higher is authorized by Public Law 620, 79th Congress.

§ 10.9 Examining Divisions. The work of examining applications for patents is divided among 66 Examining Divisions, each having jurisdiction over certain assigned fields of invention. The Examining Divisions are numbered from 1 to 65 and the remaining division is the Design Division, which handles applications for patents for design inventions. Each of these divisions is in charge of a Principal Examiner and is staffed by a number of examiners, one of whom is assistant chief of the division and acts as chief in the absence of the Principal Examiner. The examiners perform the work of examining applications for patents and determine whether patents can be granted. An appeal can be taken to the Board of Appeals from their decisions refusing a patent and a review by the Commissioner of Patents may be had on other matters by petition. The examiners also determine when an interference exists between pending applications, or a pending application and a patent, institute interference proceedings in such cases and hear and decide certain preliminary questions raised by the contestants.

§ 10.10 Trade-Mark Division. The Trade-Mark Division similarly handles the examining and some of the other work relating to applications for the registration of trade-marks.

§ 10.11 Classification Division. The Classification Division supervises the existing classification of issued patents, revises unclassified and obsolete classes and makes new classes when necessary. The Classification Examiners review requirements for division in applications improperly claiming more than one invention before they can be made final.

§ 10.12 Interference Division. (a) The Interference Division deals with questions of priority between rival claimants for patents. Interferences are decided by a board of three Interference Examiners and their decisions are reviewable by the courts.

(b) An Examiner of Trade-Mark Interferences decides trade-mark interferences and trade-mark opposition and cancellation proceedings.

§ 10.13 War Division. The War Division was established to have charge of the administration of temporary wartime legislation relating to preserving inventions in secrecy, and to issuing licenses to file applications abroad. Rules relating to such licenses are published in the Code of Federal Regulations, 37 CFR, Part 3.

§ 10.14 Chief Clerk. The Chief Clerk, who is required by law to have the qualifications of a Principal Examiner, has direct supervision over service and clerical divisions of the Patent Office. He is also in charge of the general correspondence of the Office and the register of attorneys and agents admitted to practice before the Patent Office, and supplies information of a general nature.

§ 10.15 Mails and Files Division. The Mails and Files Division receives, opens and distributes all official mail and sees to it that all remittances are properly applied, recorded and deposited with the Financial Officer. It has custody of the general correspondence not relating to particular applications for patents. Some routine inquiries are answered by circular letter sent out by this division.

§ 10.16 Financial Division. The Financial Division is in charge of a Financial Officer and receives and accounts for all fees paid into the Patent Office and deposits them in the United States Treasury. Coupons redeemable for copies of patents and other papers are sold, and deposit accounts for the payment of certain charges are maintained. This Division also has charge of refunding money paid by mistake or in excess.

§ 10.17 Application Division. The Application Division receives, records and acknowledges all applications for patents when they are filed. Upon receipt of an application, the papers are scrutinized to see if the application is complete in all its parts and complies with certain formal requirements. If the papers are not sufficiently complete to be accepted as an application for patent, the applicant is notified of the deficiencies and the papers are held for completion. If it is complete, the application (the papers being placed in a jacket or file) is given a serial number and filing date, indexed, and (after the drawing has been inspected by the Drafting Division) sent to the particular Examining Division having charge of the subject matter of the application.

§ 10.18 Drafting Division. The Drafting Division inspects the drawings accompanying applications for patents and for registration of trade-marks to insure compliance with the formal rules relating to drawings and minimum standards of execution. It also prepares new drawings from sketches or models when ordered by an applicant, and makes corrections in drawings on file.

§ 10.19 Issue and Gazette Division. This division has the duty of attending to the details of issuing the patents after the applications have been allowed by the examiner. It prepares the specifications for printing and supervises the printing which is done at the Government Printing Office. It also prepares the drawings for photolithographing and supervises this work. It takes care of the numbering, dating, indexing and recording of patents when granted, and prepares and mails the formal grants. The same work is done in the case of trade-mark registrations. The preparation for printing of the Official Gazette of the United States Patent Office, with its indexes, the annual volumes of Decisions of the Commissioner of Patents, and other publications, are also functions of this division.

§ 10.20 Docket Division. The Docket Division has custody of patent and trade-mark dockets for the Commissioners, the files in interference cases except when they are in use by the examiners, and papers in cases appealed to the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals. Papers filed in such cases go to the Docket Clerk who enters them and is responsible for their custody and distribution. This division also handles correspondence relating to the revocation of powers of attorney or authorization of agents.

§ 10.21 Assignment Division. The Assignment Division receives and records all assignments transferring property rights in patents and trade-marks, and applications for the same. After the assignments are recorded, and the records compared, they are returned to the owners. The division also makes searches of the titles of patents and trade-marks and furnishes abstracts of titles. Digests and indexes are made of all assignments in order to facilitate title searches. These are available to the public.

§ 10.22 Manuscript Division. The Manuscript Division has charge of furnishing to the public copies of records of the Patent Office. It makes photostat and photographic copies of records, books, patents, etc., and also typewritten copies of manuscripts. It also prepares copies of patents and other papers to be certified under the signature of the Commissioner and the seal of the Patent Office.

§ 10.23 Publications Division. This division has charge of the storage and distribution and sale of the printed copies of patents and trade-mark registrations.

§ 10.24 Scientific Library. The Scientific Library contains over 35,000 volumes of scientific and technical books in various languages, about 40,000 bound volumes of periodicals devoted to science and technology, the official journals of foreign patent offices and over 6,000,000 copies of foreign patents in bound volumes. In many cases there are two sets of foreign patents, one set arranged in numerical order and one set classified according to the classification of the country of origin of the patents.

§ 10.25 Search Room. (a) The Search Room is maintained for the benefit of the public in searching and examining United States patents and their records. It contains a complete set of United States patents granted since 1836 arranged according to the Patent Office classification. By searching in these classified patents, it is possible to determine, before actually filing an application, whether an invention has been anticipated by a United States patent, and it is also possible to obtain the information contained in the patents relating to any field of endeavor. A file of registered trade-marks is also available in the Search Room for searching purposes.

(b) Attached to the Search Room is a Record Room in which the public may inspect the records and files of issued patents and registered trade-marks. The Record Room contains a set of United States patents arranged in numerical order, in bound volumes, and complete sets of the Official Gazette, the Patent Office Reports, the Annual Indexes, and copies of registered trade-marks.

(c) The Scientific Library, Search Room and Record Room are in immediate charge of the Librarian and are under the supervision of the Chief Clerk. They are all open to the public.

§ 10.26 Register of patents available for license or sale. The Patent Office maintains a register on which patentees who are offering their patents for licensing or sale may have them listed.

§ 10.27 Publications of the Patent Office—(a) Patents. The specifications (including the claims) and drawings of all patents are published on the day they are granted and copies are sold to the public by the Patent Office. The specifications are initially printed at the Government Printing Office and the drawings photolithographed by contractors. When the supply is exhausted, reproductions are made by photolithography.

(b) Trade-marks. Copies of trade-mark registrations are also printed and sold by the Patent Office.

(c) Official Gazette of the United States Patent Office. (1) The Official Gazette of the United States Patent Office is the official journal relating to patents and trade-marks. It has been published weekly since January 1872, and is now issued each Tuesday, simultaneously with the weekly issue of the patents. It contains a selected figure of the drawings and one claim of each patent granted on that day, an illustration of each trade-mark published for opposition, a list of trade-marks registered, and other trade-mark information; decisions in patent and trade-mark cases rendered by the courts and the Patent Office; notices of patent and trade-mark suits; indexes of patents and patentees; disclaimers filed; lists of patents available for license or sale; and much general information such as orders, notices, changes in rules, changes in classification, etc.

(2) The Official Gazette is sold, by annual subscription and in single copies, by the Superintendent of Documents. The pages containing the decisions and other information, and those containing trade-mark material, are separately bound and may be purchased independently of the remainder of the Gazette.

(d) Annual index. The annual index to the Official Gazette contains alphabetical indexes of the names of patentees, the subject matter of the patents granted, the names of trade-mark registrants, the names of the goods to which the trade-marks are applied, and the disclaimers filed, during the calendar year. Copies are sold by the Superintendent of Documents. At present it is issued in two volumes, one for patents and one for trade-marks.

(e) Decisions of the Commissioner of Patents. This volume is issued annually, reprinting the decisions which have been published weekly in the Official Gazette. Copies are sold by the Superintendent of Documents.

(f) Manual of classification. The present manual of classification is a loose leaf booklet containing a list of all the classes and subclasses of inventions in the Patent Office classification of patents, a subject matter index, and other information relating to classification. Substitute pages are issued from time to time. The manual and subscriptions for the substitute pages are sold by the Superintendent of Documents.

(g) Classification bulletins. The various changes and advances in classification made during each six months period are collected and published in a bulletin which gives all these changes as well as the definitions of new and revised classes and subclasses. These bulletins are sold by the Superintendent of Documents.

(h) Patent laws. This compilation of the patent laws in force is furnished free of charge by the Commissioner of Patents, revised editions being published from time to time.

(i) Rules of practice of the United States Patent Office. This publication contains the rules in force governing the procedure in the Patent Office which have been adopted by the Commissioner under the authority of the patent statutes and approved by the Secretary of Commerce, and which are also published in the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 37, Chapter I, Part 1. It also contains an appendix of forms. It is issued for free distribution by the Commissioner and revised editions are published from time to time.

(j) United States statutes concerning registration of trade-marks and the rules of the Patent Office relating thereto. This pamphlet is also distributed free of cost by the Commissioner of Patents. It contains the text of the trade-mark laws, the rules of the Patent Office governing the registration of trade-marks (which are also published in the Code of Federal Regulations, 37 CFR, Part 5), and forms.

(k) General information concerning patents. This pamphlet contains a large amount of general information concerning the granting of patents expressed in non-technical language for the layman. It is distributed free on request.

(l) General information about protection of trade-marks. This pamphlet serves the same purpose with reference to trade-marks as the preceding does with respect to patents.

(m) Other publications. The publications listed are those published regularl, and currently, those no longer published and those only issued on occasion not being listed. Circulars of information on particular subjects are also issued to answer particular inquiries.

§ 10.28 Outline of procedure in obtaining patents. (a) The obtaining of a patent is initiated by the filing of an application in the Patent Office. The application includes a complete description of the invention, claims defining the invention, a drawing in each case admitting of a drawing, an oath, and a filing fee, and must comply with various requirements. The application must be made by the inventor with the papers signed and the oath sworn to by him (unless he is dead or insane). The application is forwarded to the appropriate examining division where, when its turn is reached, it is examined. The application is studied and a search is made through all prior United States patents, and also through patents of foreign countries and publications to find out if the invention is new. A decision is reached, in the light of the study and the results of the search, as to the patentability of the invention or the claims presented and also as to various formal matters. The decision is communicated to the applicant. If adverse, the applicant may ask for reconsideration with or without amending. The application is then re-examined and reconsidered and the result again communicated to the applicant. Further reconsideration of the application may be given.

(b) If the final decision of the examiner is adverse to the granting of a patent, or any of the claims presented, the applicant may appeal to the Board of Appeals and is entitled to an oral hearing. From the decision of the Board of Appeals an appeal may be taken to the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals or a civil action may be brought against the Commissioner of Patents in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. Matters of form and procedure may be reviewed on petition to the Commissioner.

(c) The various responses and actions which an applicant may take are governed by time limits fixed by or under the statute and rules and an application is abandoned by failure to reply or take appropriate action within the specified times. An abandoned application may be revived as a pending application by the Commissioner if the delay was unavoidable.

(d) If there are two or more applications for a patent for the same invention, an interference proceeding to determine who is the prior inventor and entitled to the patent is instituted by the examiner, who also decides certain preliminary questions relating to the interference. An interference may also be declared between a pending application and an unexpired patent under certain conditions. The question of priority of invention is determined by a board of three interference examiners and their decision is reviewable by the courts, either by an appeal to the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals or by a civil action in a United States District Court.

(e) When it has been decided that a patent is to be granted, the applicant is sent a notice of allowance and if the final fee, due within six months, is paid, the patent is granted in due course. If the final fee is not paid, the patent is not granted, but the fee may be accepted late upon petition to the Commissioner accompanied by a petition fee and a verified statement proivded the delay does not exceed one year.

(f) The prosecution of an application for patent must be conducted in writing and the personal attendance of applicants is not required and is unnecessary. Applicants may arrange for interviews with examiners at such times within office hours as the examiners may designate.

(g) An applicant for a patent may prosecute his own case, but he is entitled to be, and usually is, represented by an attorney or agent. No person may represent applicants before the Patent Office unless he is registered in the Patent Office as an attorney or agent, or authorized and recognized to prosecute a particular case. The registration of attorneys and agents is conducted by a committee on enrollment and disbarment.

(h) The Rules of Practice, setting forth the requirements and the procedure in detail are published separately and also as 37 CFR, Part 1.

§ 10.29 Outline of procedure in registering trade-marks. (a) The procedure in trade-mark cases before the trade-mark examiner generally follows that in patent cases. An application for registration must be filed in accordance with the requirements of the statute and rules and the application is then examined to determine if the trade-mark can be registered under the law. Interferences are declared between conflicting applications to register substantially the same mark. When a trade-mark is found registrable, it is published in the Official Gazette and any person who believes he would be damaged thereby may oppose the registration. Any person deeming himself injured by a registered trade-mark may apply to cancel the registration. Interference, opposition and cancellation proceedings are decided by an Examiner of Trade-Mark Interferences. Appeal may be taken to the Commissioner from the decision of the examiner refusing to register a trade-mark and from the decision of the Examiner of Trade-Mark Interferences. The decision of the Commissioner is subject to review by the courts either by appeal or by a civil action.

(b) Rules of Practice, setting forth the requirements and the procedure in detail are published separately and also as 37 CFR, Part 5.

§ 10.30 Records and information. Applications for patent are not open to the public and information concerning them is not given except on authority of the applicant, or when necessary to the conduct of business as provided by the rules, or when required or made necessary by a statute. Selected decisions rendered by the Commissioner or the Board of Appeals in applications may be made public. Patents and trade-mark registrations and the records relating to the same including any decisions therein, the records of assignments, books, and other records and papers in the office are open to the public and may be inspected in the Patent Office or copies may be ordered. Printed copies of patents and trade-mark registrations are sold by the Patent Office, some publications are sold by the Superintendent of Documents, and other publications are distributed free on request by the Patent Office. When information is requested it is furnished either by answering the inquiry or by providing or calling attention to an appropriate publication. The office can not respond to inquiries concerning the novelty and patentability of an invention or the registrability of a trade-mark in advance of the filing of an application, nor to inquiries propounded with a view to ascertaining whether any alleged invention has been patented or trade-mark registered, and, if so, to whom. All letters and other communications for the Patent Office must be addressed to the Commissioner of Patents. A schedule of fees and prices in cases where they are required is set out in § 1.191 of Part 1 and § 5.82 of Part 5 of this title.

WEATHER BUREAU

[15 CFR, Ch. V]

PART 500—CREATION OF AGENCY

§ 500.1 Creation of the Weather Bureau. The National Weather Service, now known as the Weather Bureau of the Department of Commerce, was created as a branch of the Signal Service of the Army by Joint Congressional Resolution approved February 9, 1870. It was reorganized as a civilian agency by Act of October 1, 1890, and transferred to the Department of Agriculture. On June 30, 1940, the Bureau was transferred to the Department of Commerce by Reorganization Plan No. IV (16 Stat. 369; Sec. 1, 26 Stat. 653; 15 U. S. C. 311–313; Reorg. Plan IV, Sec. 8, eff. June 30, 1940; Fed. Reg. 2421; Sec. 8, 54 Stat. 1236).

PART 501—PURPOSE

§ 501.1 Purpose and functions. The basic purpose of the Weather Bureau is to collect, process and disseminate weather information required for the public safety and national welfare. The Bureau's functions include numerous authorized services in applied meterology. Specific laws enacted by the Congress require the Weather Bureau to make such observations, measurements, investigations, and studies of atmospheric phenomena, and establish such meteorological offices and stations, as are necessary and best suited for ascertaining, in advance, information concerning probable weather conditions; furnish such reports, forecasts, warnings, and advices in such manner and with such frequency as will meet the needs of agriculture, commerce, industry, and navigation, and will result in safety, especially to aviation; gage and forecast the occurrence of floods in rivers; collect and transmit marine intelligence for the benefit of commerce and navigation; report temperature and rainfall conditions for agricultural interests; display frost and cold-wave warnings; establish and record climatic conditions of the United States; cooperate with other public agencies, societies and institutions of learning, persons engaged in air commerce, or employees thereof, in meteorological service, establish and maintain reciprocal arrangements, and collect and disseminate weather reports from aircraft in flight; establish and coordinate international exchanges of meteorological information; participate in the development of an international basic meteorological reporting network, including the establishment, operation and maintenance of reporting stations on the high seas, in polar regions, and in foreign countries in cooperation with other governmental agencies of the United States and the meteorological services of foreign countries and with persons engaged in air commerce; coordinate meteorological requirements in the United States in order to maintain standard observations, promote efficient use of facilities and avoid needless duplication of services; and promote and develop meteorological science and foster and support research projects in meteorology through the utilization of private and governmental research facilities and provide for the publication of the results of such research projects.

(Sec. 3, 26 Stat. 653; 15 U. S. C. 311–313; Sec. 803, 52 Stat. 1014; 49 U. S. C. 603; Reorg. Plan IV, Sec. 7, 8, eff. June 30, 1940; 5 Fed. Reg. 2421; Secs. 7, 8, 54 Stat. 1235, 1236; P. L. 296, Feb. 12, 1946; P. L. 370, April 30, 1946; P. L. 691, Aug. 8, 1946)

Sec.
502.1 Chief of Bureau and employees.
502.2 General organization.
502.3 Washington office.
502.4 Chief of Bureau.
502.5 Assistant Chief for Administration.
502.6 Assistant Chief for Technical Services.
502.7 Assistant Chief for Scientific Services.
502.8 Division of Administrative Services.
502.9 Division of Personnel Management.
502.10 Division of Station Operations.
502.11 Division of Synoptic Reports and Forecasts.
502.12 Instrument Division.
502.13 Division of Climatological and Hydrologic Services.
502.14 Division of Special Scientific Services.
502.15 Weather Bureau station at Washington National Airport.
502.16 Regional offices.
502.17 Field stations.

§ 502.1 Chief of Bureau and employees. The Weather Bureau consists of such civilian employees as Congress may annually provide for and as may be necessary to properly perform the duties devolving on said Bureau by law; and the Chief of said Bureau shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate (sec 4, 26 Stat. 653; 15 U. S. C. 312).

§ 502.2 General organization. The organization consists of administrative and scientific services in Washington and a comprehensive field service with stations throughout the United States, in territorial possessions, and in foreign countries. Most of the public service functions of the Bureau, including the taking of meteorological observations, the issuance of forecasts and warnings, and the dissemination of advises to agriculture, aviation, industry, and the general public, are conducted by the field service. Administration of the field service is channeled through eight regional offices. Coordination and supervision of the technical services of the Bureau, general administrative supervision, and research activities are functions conducted by the Central Office in Washington.

ORGANIZATIONAL BREAKDOWN

§ 502.3 Washington office. The Central Office in Washington consists of the following principal subdivisions:

§ 502.4 Chief of Bureau, who directs, supervises and coordinates the activities of the Weather Bureau.

§ 502.5 Assistant Chief for Administration, who supervises the general administrative functions of the Bureau, and provides leadership in program planning, budgeting, and overall management.

§ 502.6 Assistant Chief for Technical Services, who is responsible for coordination and follow-up in established Weather Bureau service projects.

§ 502.7 Assistant Chief for Scientific Services, who plans, coordinates, and directs scientific investigations in meteorological subjects and other research activities of the Bureau.

§ 502.8 Division of Administrative Services, which is responsible for the administration of such services as fiscal, matériel, mails and files, printing, and general maintenance activities.

§ 502.9 Division of Personnel Management, which is responsible for the administration of personnel matters within the Bureau, including appointments, classifications, records, and safety and health of employees.

§ 502.10 Division of Station Operations, which supervises all operations and procedures involved in the taking of observations, and which is responsible for planning and organization of the station network and observational activities of the field stations.

§ 502.11 Division of Synoptic Reports and Forecasts, which is responsible for the general supervision and administration of forecasting services, including all actions from transmission of basic reports to the final public distribution of all types of reports, forecasts, and warnings.

§ 502.12 Instrument Division, which is responsible for the general administration of matters pertaining to meteorological equipment, including the determination of requirements, preparation of specifications, and the testing, installation, and repair of instruments.

§ 502.13 Division of Climatological and Hydrologic Services, which administers the climatological and hydrologic programs of the Bureau, including the compilation and publication of climatological data, the tabulation of meteorological observations taken by several thousand cooperative stations, and the forecasting of river stages and floods.

§ 502.14 Division of Special Scientific Services, which is responsible for the basic work in improving methods of forecasting, and for investigations in the physical and dynamical aspects of atmospheric problems.

§ 502.15 Weather Bureau station at Washington National Airport, which provides weather services, including forecasts and warnings for the public, aviation weather forecasts, and transoceanic aviation weather forecasts for the Washington area.

§ 502.16 Regional offices. The immediate supervision of field stations is the function of eight regional offices. Under the leadership of Regional Directors, these offices are responsible for the regional administration of fiscal, matériel, and personnel activities, and for the immediate operational supervision of field stations.

The regional offices are:

New York City—Region 1.
Atlanta, Ga.—Region 2.
Chicago, Ill.—Region 3.
Ft. Worth, Tex.—Region 4.
Kansas City, Mo.—Region 5.
Los Angeles, Calif.—Region 6.
Seattle, Wash.—Region 7.
Anchorage, Alaska—Region 8.

§ 502.17 Field stations. In addition to the regional offices, the field service consists of approximately 450 public weather service stations and about 10,000 purely subordinate weather observation reporting stations. The public weather service stations are located as follows:

PART 503—OPERATIONAL PROCEDURE

Sec.
503.1 Delegations of final authority.
503.2 Procedures for performing service functions.

§ 503.1 Delegations of final authority. No regulatory functions are exercised by the Weather Bureau. However, authority is delegated by the Chief of Bureau to chiefs of divisions and sections in Washington and to field regional directors and through them to officials in charge of field stations to furnish applicants with weather information already processed in usable form and to make arrangements for the processing of data in other forms required to meet special needs of the applicants.

§ 503.2 Procedures for performing service functions. The Bureau makes weather observations at its approximately 450 airport and city offices, has about 5,000 substations for observing weather conditions for the benefit of airways, river and flood, crop-weather, fruit-frost, and other miscellaneous services, and more than 5,600 cooperative climatological stations. The airways weather stations make observations and transmit reports by wire or radio at frequent times throughout the day; others make observations daily and report by wire or mail. Collective synoptic reports are exchanged with the meteorological centers of other nations. These observations include all surface weather elements, river and flood stages, and upper air conditions.

The observational data collected forms the basis of all weather maps and bulletins of the United States and its Territories. After being plotted on suitable map bases these data provide the necessary information for preparing forecasts of future weather occurrences for all purposes. Compiled in statistical form the data become the record of the climate of the Nation. Published in this form extremely useful information is provided to economic and social interests far and wide. Observational data in a variety of forms provide material for the conduct of meteorological research into the causes of weather and climate, and for special studies devoted to improvement in methods of forecasting and to the development of forecasts covering a longer period of time.

Close liaison is maintained with the Army and Navy to coordinate civil and military meteorological operations. The Bureau also cooperates closely with Civil Aeronautics, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, the Department of Agriculture, the U. S. Engineers, the Reclamation Service, and other interested agencies in order to serve their meteorological needs.

PART 504—WEATHER SERVICE

Sec.
504.1 Weather forecasts and warnings distributed publicly.
504.2 Daily weather forecasts.
504.3 Aviation weather forecasts (domestic).
504.4 Aviation weather forecasts for transoceanic flying.
504.5 Flight advisory weather service.
504.6 Airport terminal weather forecasts for aviation.
504.7 Weather forecasts for marine purposes including ships on high seas and on Great Lakes.
504.8 Storm, hurricane, flood and other special warnings.
504.9 Forest fire weather forecasts.
504.10 Fruit-frost forecasts.
504.11 Specialized weather forecasts.
504.12 Extended weather forecasts.
504.13 Records available to the public.
504.14 General information and publications.
504.15 Consultant weather service and hydrologic problems related to meteorology.

GENERAL FORECASTS AND WARNINGS

§ 504.1 Weather forecasts and warnings distributed publicly. The Weather Bureau prepares weather forecasts several times daily and issues when necessary, warnings of storms, hurricanes, heavy rains and snows, freezing rain, sleet or glaze, cold waves, frost, floods, freezing temperatures and dangerous forest fire weather conditions as applicable to the United States, its possessions, and adjacent waters of the North Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, the Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean Sea. These daily forecasts together with warnings, whenever issued, are given intensive distribution to the general public, domestic and transoceanic aviation, agricultural, business, industrial, transportation and maritime interests, including ships on the high seas, and also on the Great Lakes as a protection against loss of life and property.

Weather Bureau field offices also issue specialized forecasts containing specific weather advices for plowing, planting, cultivating, irrigating, spraying, harvesting and fruit drying for agricultural operations; livestock protection, including the slaughtering of animals for market; shipping forecasts for protection of livestock and produce in transit; winter sports activities in season; ice conditions on the navigable rivers and the Great Lakes in season; advices to safeguard navigation of small craft and numerous other activities supporting our national economy. In addition, industrial forecasts are prepared and issued with particular reference to humidity, daylight intensities, maximum, minimum and average temperatures expected and thunderstorms to estimate quantities of gas, electricity and other fuels which must be made available to meet day-to-day requirements of power consumption essential for manufacturing, heating and lighting uses.

Arrangements to furnish additional specialized weather forecasts and advices to serve new industries and activities will be made, when possible, on request to Weather Bureau offices.

Weather forecast and warning services indicated above are provided by Weather Bureau offices located in cities shown in the list of field stations under the heading "Part 502—Organization."

LOCALIZED FORECASTS AND WARNINGS

§ 504.2 Daily weather forecasts. Forecasts for individual localities and states are broadcast several times daily by over 900 government and commercial radio stations; published in numerous daily newspapers and on the daily weather map mailed from Washington, D. C., and also daily weather bulletins issued from several field stations. They may also be obtained by personal visit, or by telephone direct to the nearest Weather Bureau office, and also by telegraph when the recipient assumes the cost of forecast messages; by automatic telephone service (WE. 1212) in Baltimore, Md., Chicago, Ill., Detroit, Mich., New York, N. Y., and Washington, D. C.; by leased wire service of press associations and telegraph companies; by Civil Aeronautics Administration teletype and from numerous local automobile, business and civic clubs, associations and Chambers of Commerce.

§ 504.3 Aviation weather forecasts (domestic). These forecasts may be obtained by telephone and personal visit to nearest Weather Bureau airport station and Civil Aeronautics Administration teletype offices.

§ 504.4 Aviation weather forecasts for trans-oceanic flying. Information may be obtained from selected Weather Bureau airport offices located at airports serving transoceanic aircraft; Civil Aeronautics Administration teletype communication stations and radio.

§ 504.5 Flight advisory weather service. This service is provided at 26 Weather Bureau stations throughout the United States and forecasts are prepared 24 hours daily for the guidance and use of Civil Aeronautics Administration Airway Traffic Controllers in giving advices to planes in flight. This information is also available to planes in flight on request to the nearest Civil Aeronautics Administration radio communication station.

§ 504.6 Airport terminal weather forecasts for aviation. These forecasts are prepared four times daily at 18 Weather Bureau airway forecast offices and give expected weather conditions at 265 separate airports located throughout the United States. Terminal forecasts can be obtained by telephone or personal visit to Weather Bureau airport stations and selected Weather Bureau city offices; by planes in flight on request to Civil Aeronautics Administration radio communication.

§ 504.7 Weather forecasts for marine purposes including ships on the high seas and on the Great Lakes. Information can be obtained from nearest Weather Bureau office by telephone or personal visit; from broadcasts by several government and commercial radio stations located along the Atlantic, Pacific, Gulf of Mexico Coasts, including the Great Lakes, and Civil Aeronautics Administration teletype offices.

§ 504.8 Storm, hurricane, flood and other special warnings. This information is invariably given intensive and prompt distribution by government and commercial radio stations and can also be obtained as indicated under the above sub-paragraph entitled, "Daily Weather Forecasts."

§ 504.9 Forest fire weather forecasts. This service is rendered by selected Weather Bureau offices which are located in or near national and state forests, lands and parks, as a rule. For information relative to obtaining these forecasts, requests should be directed to the nearest Weather Bureau office.

§ 504.10 Fruit-frost forecasts. Special fruit-frost forecast service is provided mainly for the fruit and truck growing localities in California, Florida, southern Arizona and the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, during the critical winter months. Information is available by radio broadcast, newspapers, and by telephone or personal visit to Weather Bureau offices in the localities mentioned. Further information concerning these advices can be obtained on request to the nearest Weather Bureau office.

§ 504.11 Specialized weather forecasts. These special forecasts serve a variety of agricultural, commercial and industrial interests and may be obtained by telephone or personal visit to the nearest Weather Bureau office. Owing to the numerous types of specialized weather forecasts issued by the Weather Bureau, distribution of such information by radio and press is limited to those types of forecasts which will serve the greatest number of interests.

§ 504.12 Extended weather forecasts. These weather forecasts are issued on Tuesdays and Fridays and contain indicated temperature and precipitation trends as well as the expected average values as compared with normal for the ensuing five days.

Five-day forecasts are available on the days mentioned at Weather Bureau field offices and may be obtained by telephone or personal visit; by telegraph, provided the recipient assumes charges for the telegrams; from broadcasts by selected radio stations; and are published in certain daily newspapers and also in weather bulletins issued by a few Weather Bureau field offices.

CLIMATOLOGICAL AND HYDROLOGIC SERVICES

§ 504.13 Records available to the public. Original records of meteorological observations or other records of the condition of the weather, stages of the rivers and other data that are in the nature of records of natural conditions, are accessible at field stations and at Washington to persons desiring to consult them under arrangements which are required to protect the records from loss or damage. It is also permissible to compile information from the records in forms that meet special or legitimate needs of those consulting them.

Reports of current weather conditions based on observations that are taken at hourly intervals at points located along established airways and at some points off the airways, and less frequently at other field stations, may also be obtained by telephone or personal visit to Weather Bureau field stations; and from radio telephone broadcasts by radio range stations at fifteen and forty-five minutes after the hour.

§ 504.14 General information and publications. The Weather Bureau has available for public distribution numerous bulletins, charts, maps and pamphlets containing statistical information recording the weather which has occurred throughout the country. These publications provide weekly, monthly and annual summaries for specific cities, States and for the country as a whole, including contiguous ocean areas. Printed lists of the publications are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., or samples may be inspected at the nearest Weather Bureau office.

§ 504.15 Consultant weather service and hydrologic problems related to meteorology. Requests for data and advice on these problems affecting all types of business, industry, farming and other interests may be made by telephone, personal visit or letter to the nearest Weather Bureau office or to the Chief, U. S. Weather Bureau, Washington 25, D. C.

PART 505—RULES FOR GUIDANCE OF THE PUBLIC

Sec.
505.1 Authority for teletype connections on weather communications lines.
505.2 Certified data for court use.
505.3 Appearance in court of Weather Bureau employees.
505.4 Time of release of weather information affecting crops.
505.5 Counterfeiting weather forecasts.

§505.1 Authority for teletype connections on weather communication lines. (a) To protect current weather information transmitted over Federal Airway Communication Circuits of the Civil Aeronautics Administration against uses that would be detrimental to the National interest, it has been necessary to set up a formalized agreement procedure for authority for individuals or organizations to be connected with these teletype circuits by means of teletype drops.

(b) Five classes of teletype agreements are recognized. In case the same individual desires to operate under more than one category, separate agreements are necessary. The five categories are:

(1) Other government agencies, for their own use, but not for general publication or broadcast.

(2) Educational and research institutions, for their own use, but not for commercial purposes, general publication, or broadcast.

(3) Clubs and associations, chartered, not for profit, which confine weather service to their members.

(4) Business organizations, for their own use, but not for general publication or broadcast.

(5) Responsible, qualified, private consulting meteorologists, providing a specialized service which the Weather Bureau is not in a position to provide, but not for general publication or broadcast.

(c) Applications should be made by letter addressed to the Chief, Weather Bureau, Washington 25, D. C., stating in detail the purpose to be served, which should be accompanied by Form No. 3031 Mis., prepared in duplicate.

§ 505.2 Certified data for use in court. Section 882 of the Revised Statutes provides that authenticated copies of any books, records, papers, or other documents in any of the executive departments shall be admitted in evidence in courts of law equally with the originals thereof.

All field stations and the Washington office are prepared to furnish applicants with duly certified copies of original or published weather records that are necessary for legal purposes. (R. S. sec. 882; sec. 6a, 48 Stat. 1109.)

§ 505.3 Appearance in court of Weather Bureau employees. In all cases of private litigation where it is required that an employee interpret records, or testify as an expert, it is necessary that he be duly subpoenaed to appear in court as an official of the Bureau. As the Federal Government will be deprived of his services while so testifying, the employee will collect the authorized witness fees and allowances for expenses of travel and subsistance, all of which he is required to account for to the Bureau. Arrangements should be made with the court to set a time for the appearance of an employee that will not interfere with important duties that would result in injury to interests of the community by delay in issuing important weather forecasts and danger warnings (15 Comp. Gen. 196).

§ 505.4 Time of release of weather information effecting crops. Bulletins containing a synopsis of weather conditions and their effects on crops and farming operations throughout the Nation (some of which show snow and ice conditions during the winter season) are released simultaneously at 10:00 a. m. 75th meridian time on the day of issue, or as directed by special instructions.

The weekly crop-weather bulletins which are published at Washington, D. C., and at approximately 45 field stations, are issued each Wednesday, or on Thursday if either Tuesday or Wednesday is a holiday. Daily bulletins or radio broadcasts specializing on the cotton, corn and wheat crop, are issued at 10:00 a. m., on each workday in the areas affected during the growing season.

Because of the influence that might be exerted upon the market value of the products of the soil by the information contained in the weather and crop bulletins, the law provides a fine of $10,000 or imprisonment of ten years, or both, for any responsible Government official who wilfully imparts any information contained in the bulletins before the times of release to the public (sec. 123, 35 Stat. 1110; 18 U. S. C. 214).

§ 505.5 Counterfeiting weather forecasts. Whoever shall knowingly issue or publish any counterfeit forecast or warning of weather conditions falsely representing such forecast or warning to have been issued or published by the Weather Bureau, * * * shall be fined not more than $500, or imprisoned not more than 90 days, or both (sec. 61, 35 Stat. 1100; 18 U. S. C. 117; Criminal Code, sec. 61).

[SEAL] F. W. REICHELDERFER,
Chief, U. S. Weather Bureau.

Approved by:

H. A. WALLACE,
Secretary of Commerce.

LABOR DEPARTMENT

[29 CFR, Subtitle A]

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

PART 2—GENERAL REGULATIONS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

§ 2.6 Opinions and orders; availability for inspection. All final opinions or orders in the adjudication of cases (except those required for good cause to be held confidential and not cited as precedents) and all rules, as defined in the Administrative Procedure Act (Public Law 404, C. 324, 79th Cong., 2nd Session), issued by the Department of Labor will be made available for public inspection at reasonable times during business hours. Persons desiring to inspect such material may communicate with the Solicitor of Labor or the Director of Information, Department of Labor Building, Washington 25, D. C., or the regional attorney at the nearest regional office of the Department of Labor.

§ 2.7 Official records; availability for inspection. All papers and documents made a part of the official record in agency proceedings conducted by the Department of Labor in connection with the issuance, amendment or repeal of regulations or determinations having general or industry-wide effect, shall be made available for public inspection at reasonable times during business hours, upon request addressed to the issuing bureau or agency of the Department or to the Office of the Solicitor, Department of Labor Building, Washington 25, D. C.

Papers and documents made a part of the official record in connection with the making of determinations addressed to named persons, except insofar as such materials are made available to public inspection pursuant to Part II, Sec. 2.6 above, and reports and returns required to be filed with the Department of Labor, shall be made available for inspection at reasonable times during business hours, upon written request therefor, addressed to the Secretary of Labor, Department of Labor Building, Washington 25, D. C., to persons properly and directly concerned. Such request must set forth (1) the interest of the applicant in the subject matter, and (2) a description of the specific materials desired to be inspected. Any such request will be denied as to any papers, documents, reports, or returns for good cause found by the Secretary or his duly authorized representative to be confidential.

When permission to inspect records is granted, arrangements will be made where practicable for inspection of such records at regional offices of the Department.

ORGANIZATION OF THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Interdepartmental Publication Board (Executive Order 9568, June 8, 1945).

Under the Foreign Service Act of 1946, effective August 13, 1946, he designates a representative of the Department of Labor to serve as a member of the Board of the Foreign Service.

The Secretary has general responsibility for the administration of the Department of Labor, which he exercises through his aides and assistants, and has the duty of reporting annually to Congress on the Department's activities. He directs and supervises the work of the constituent bureaus, offices and other agencies in the Department. In addition, he has functions under particular statutes, some of which are delegated to officers in the Department, as indicated:

(i) Mediation, and appointment of commissioners of conciliation, in labor disputes (U. S. C., Title 29, sec. 51).

This function is ordinarily exercised through the United States Conciliation Service, under the general supervision of the Secretary. From time to time, however, the Secretary personally participates in mediation of disputes, or appoints fact-finding boards.

(ii) General direction of collection of labor statistics required to be collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, publication of the results thereof and reporting the findings of the Bureau to Congress (U. S. C., Title 29, secs. 2, 2b); authorization of, and promulgation of regulations with respect to, the making of special studies by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for private persons (U .S. C., Title 29, secs. 9, 9a, 9b).

(iii) Predetermination of prevailing wage rates for laborers and mechanics employed in the performance of government construction contracts subject to the following statutes: Davis-Bacon Act, as amended (U. S. C., Title 40, sec. 276a), which also empowers the Secretary to issue necessary rules and regulations; section 212a of the National Housing Act, as amended (U. S. C., Title 12, sec. 1715c); section 3 of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act (U. S. C., Title 16, sec. 831b), which provides for predetermination by the Secretary of Labor only in cases of disputes; section 15 (b) of the Federal Airport Act, approved May 13, 1946 (Pub. No. 377, ch. 251, 79th Cong., 2d sess.).

The functions of the Secretary under these statutes are delegated to an Assistant Secretary and the Solicitor of Labor severally, subject to Part 1 of this subtitle.

(iv) Administration of the "Copeland Anti-Kickback Act" (U. S. C., Title 40, sec. 276c; Reorganization Plan No. IV, effective June 30, 1940).

Administrative functions under this Act are delegated to the Office of the Solicitor of Labor.

(v) Advisory interpretation of the requirements of the Eight-Hour Law (U. S. C., Title 40, secs. 321-326) upon the request of interested parties and agencies.

This function is delegated to the Solicitor of Labor.

(vi) Receipt of dispute notices under section 8 of the War Labor Disputes Act (U. S. C., Title 50, sec. 1508) and making findings that certain activities are contracted for in the prosecution of the war, pursuant to section 2 (b) (3) of the act (U. S. C., Title 50, sec. 1502(b)(3); Presidential Directive dated August 10, 1943, 8 F. R. 11281).

A Docket Officer in the United States Conciliation Service acts as agent of the Secretary of Labor, the National Labor Relations Board and the National Wage Stabilization Board to maintain records and handle correspondence under section 3 of the War Labor Disputes Act.

(vii) To pass upon the issuance of certificates of merit requested by national organizations of railway employees to enable them to present their claims concerning their right to participate in selection of labor members to the National Railroad Adjustment Board, under section 3 First (f) of the Railway Labor Act, as amended (U. S. C., Title 45, sec. 153 First (f)).

(viii) Administration and enforcement of the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (U. S. C., Title 41, secs. 35-45).

This act is administered by the Secretary through the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, whose functions are described in Part 500 of this Title. Certain final authority under the act, including promulgation of regulations, granting of exemptions, issuance of complaints and final decisions and orders in proceedings pursuant thereto, and making determinations as to the application of the blacklist sanction under section 3, is exercised directly by the Secretary.

(ix) Administration and enforcement of the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (U. S. C., Title 29, secs. 201-219; Reorganization Plan No. 2, effective July 16, 1946).

The powers to issue regulations and orders under section 3 (l) of the Fair Labor Standards Act, to institute injunction proceedings under section 17 and to compel the production of testimony and evidence under section 9 are exercised directly by the Secretary. The Division of Labor Standards, through its Child Labor and Youth Employment Branch, acts as agent for the Secretary for the performance of administrative and enforcement functions under the child labor provisions of the act. (See § 2.005.)

(x) Administration of the "Wagner-Peyser Act," as amended, providing for a United States Employment Service (U. S. C., Title 29, secs. 49-491; Executive Order 9617, September 19, 1945).

This act is administered by the United States Employment Service under the general supervision of the Secretary.

(xi) Exercising general supervision over the activities of the Retraining and Reemployment Administration, pursuant to the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act of 1944 (U. S. C., Title 50, War App., sec. 1661) and Executive Order 9617, dated September 19, 1945.

(xii) Administration of the Apprentice Training Service (U. S. C., Title 29, secs.

50–50b; Executive Order 9617, September 19, 1945).

These functions are described in § 2.011.

(2) Under Secretary of Labor. The Under Secretary performs such duties as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor or required by law. He is authorized by statute to perform the duties of the Secretary in his absence or, in case of the Secretary's death, resignation or removal, to perform the duties of the Secretary until a successor is appointed (Act of April 17, 1946, Pub. No. 346, ch. 140, 79th Cong., 2d Sess.).

(3) Assistant secretaries. Three assistant secretaries of equal rank are provided by statute to perform such duties as the Secretary may assign or as may be required by law (Act of April 17, 1946, Pub. No. 346, 79th Cong., 2d Sess.).

(4) Special assistants. Special assistants in the immediate Office of the Secretary are available for special or confidential assignments by the Secretary, the Under Secretary or the assistant secretaries.

(5) Divisions within the Secretary's Office—(a) Library. The Librarian is responsible for the effective organization and administration of the library services of the Department. The three divisions of the Library consist of the Readers' Services Unit, the Periodicals Unit and the Cataloging Unit.

(b) Information. The Director of Information is responsible for the dissemination of information concerning the activities of the Department of Labor and its constituent bureaus, offices and agencies.

(1) Office of Director of Personnel. The Director of Personnel supervises all matters of personnel management within the Department.

(2) Office of Chief Clerk and Budget Officer. The Chief Clerk and Budget Officer supervises all business management functions of the Department of Labor.

(c) Field organization of the Department of Labor. The Department of Labor has thirteen regional offices, with headquarters and geographical coverage as follows:

The Regional Offices whose coverage includes Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands are shown in connection with the descriptions of the organization of individual bureaus and divisions of the Department. The functions of the Department carried on in Regional Offices are set forth in connection with the description of the functions of specific bureaus and divisions of the Department performed by their field staffs. Specific locations of Regional Offices are also set out in connection with the description of the field organizations of the bureaus and divisions having such organizations.

(d) Information and requests. Requests for general information concerning the activities of the Department of Labor should be addressed to the Director of Information, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C.

Requests for information concerning the notice and waiting-period provisions of the War Labor Disputes Act should be addressed to The Docket Officer, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C.

Requests for a determination as to the merit of a claim by a national organization of railway employees to participate in selection of members of the National Railroad Adjustment Board should be addressed to the Secretary of Labor, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C.

Information as to the officer to whom and the manner in which other requests for information, applications, petitions, etc., should be made is set forth in connection with the description of functions of the individual bureaus, divisions and other operating units within the Department.

§ 2.002 Office of the Solicitor—(a) Functions. The Solicitor serves as legal adviser to the Secretary of Labor and other officials of the Department and with the aid of his staff handles all legal proceedings arising under the statutes entrusted to the Department of Labor for administration and enforcement.

(b) Organization. The Solicitor is assisted by an Associate Solicitor who participates in policy and administrative matters, and acts as Solicitor in his absence, and by Assistant Solicitors who assist him in matters of administration and policy. Each Assistant Solicitor is in charge of a Branch of the Solicitor's Office. The branches and the other operating units carrying out the functions of the Solicitor are as follows:

(1) The Litigation Branch.

(2) The Appellate Branch.

(3) The Interpretations and Administrative Services Branch. The Interpretations and Administrative Services Branch includes the Interpretation Section which prepares advisory opinions on interpretative questions arising under the statutes and executive orders administered by the Department.

(4) The Legislative and Trial Examining Branch. The Legislative and Trial Examining Branch includes the Trial Examining Section which consists of trial examiners who, at the designation and direction of the Secretary in specific cases, preside over administrative hearings and recommend decisions in proceedings based on complaints of violation of contracts subject to the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act. In the performance of these functions they act independently, subject to the requirement that they comply with the precedents and policies of the Department under the act. They are avilable also to preside over any other hearings authorized to be conducted by the Secretary or by bureaus, offices and other agencies in the Department. The Legislation and Bureau Service Section prepares advisory letters in response to inquiries from members of the public with respect to labor laws with which the Department is concerned.

(5) The Wage Determination and Wage Adjustment Branch. The Wage Determination and Wage Adjustment Branch includes the Wage Determination Section which, under authority delegated by the Secretary, is responsible for work arising in the Department under the Davis-Bacon Act (40 U. S. C. sec. 276a), section 15 (b) of the Federal Airport Act (Pub. No. 377, c. 251, 79th Cong., 2nd Sess.), section 212 (a) of the National Housing Act (12 U. S. C. sec. 1715 (c)), and section 3 of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act (16 U. S. C. sec. 831 (b)). Under authority delegated by the Secretary it also performs administrative functions under the Copeland Anti-kickback Act (40 U. S. C. sec. 276–b–c; 5 U. S. C. sec. 133u).

(6) The Retraining and Reemployment Administration Branch. The Retraining and Reemployment Branch renders legal advice to and performs legal services for the Administrator of the Retraining and Reemployment Administration, whose functions are set forth in § 2.010.

(7) The United States Employment Service Branch. The United States Employment Service Branch renders legal advice to, and performs legal services required by the United States Employment Service, whose functions are set forth in section 2.012 of this part.

(8) The Wage and Hour Headquarters Section. The Wage and Hour Headquarters Section which is located in New York City, renders legal advice and assistance to the Administrator of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, and prepares advisory opinions on interpretative questions arising under the Fair Labor Standards Act and the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act.

(9) The Regional Offices. The Regional Offices headed by Regional attorneys, under the supervision of the Solicitor, act as legal advisers to the 13 regional offices of the Department of Labor in the continental United States and a regional office in Puerto Rico. The attorneys in these offices prepare, try, or assist in the trial of cases, provide legal services in connection with administrative proceedings, and prepare advisory opinions on interpretative questions arising under the statutes and executive orders administered by the Department. The regional offices and their addresses are listed above at § 2.001 (c).

§ 2.003 Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

NOTE: Statements of the functions and organization, and procedural and substantive rules of the Wage and Hour Division, are set forth in Parts 500, 501 and 502 of this Title. Statements of the functions and organization, and procedural and substantive rules of the Public Contracts Division are set forth in Chapter II of Title 41.

§ 2.0004 Bureau of Labor Statistics—(a) Functions. The Bureau of Labor Statistics gathers and publishes information on all matters connected with labor, in the broadest sense of that term. Under the general supervision and direction of the Secretary of Labor, it collects factual information on a wide variety of questions relating to labor, and publishes the results of its investigations in periodic reports and in the Monthly Labor Review, a general survey of labor conditions in the United States and abroad. (U. S. C., Title 29, secs. 1, 2, 2b, 4, 5, 6, 7.) The Bureau is authorized, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, to make statistical studies on request and payment of the cost thereof by private persons. (U. S. C., Title 29, secs. 9, 9b.)

(b) National organization. The Commissioner of Labor Statistics is responsible for the policies and the administration of the Bureau. He is assisted by an Executive Officer and an Assistant Commissioner.

The Bureau is divided into branches, each of which conducts research in a particular field of study:

The Prices and Cost of Living Branch conducts research in matters relating to prices of consumers' and industrial goods and services and rents, maintains the various price indices issued by the Bureau and prepares special studies on cost of living problems.

The employment and Occupational Outlook Branch conducts research on matters relating to employment, pay rolls, hours worked and average hourly earnings, the employment outlook in various trades and occupations and the effects of technological developments on productivity employment and labor costs.

The Working Conditions Branch conducts research on matters relating to working conditions in industry, including their effects on production and on physical well-being of workers.

The Industrial Relations Branch maintains files of current collective bargaining agreements and directories of local and national unions, and conducts research on matters relating to employer-employee relationships, industrial disputes and similar matters.

In addition, special staffs within the Bureau conduct research on matters relating to foreign and domestic labor problems occurring outside the field of study of the various branches of the Bureau.

(c) Field organization. The Regional and Branch Offices of the Bureau of Labor Statistics are as follows:

Region address and geographical jurisdiction

1. Old South Building, 294 Washington Street, Boston 8, Mass.: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island.

2. 1000 Parcel Post Building, 341 Ninth Avenue, New York 1, N. Y.: New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia. Branch office (wage work): 1516 Widener Building, Chestnut and Juniper Streets, Philadelphia 7, Pa.: New Jersey (southern counties), Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia.

5. Sixth floor, Silvery Building, 114 Marietta Street NW., Atlanta 3, Ga.: Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia.

8. 420 Williamson Building, Public Square, Cleveland 14, Ohio: Indiana (except wage work), Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia.

(d) Information and requests. Requests for general information concerning the work of the Bureau and its publications should be addressed to the Commissioner of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C. Requests for the technical assistance of the Bureau in conducting special studies to be paid for by the party requesting the assistance, should be addressed to the Secretary of Labor or the Commissioner of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C. No special form is required.

Requests for statistical information and other data on labor matters of local interest should be addressed to the Regional Director of the appropriate Region.

§ 2.005 Division of Labor Standards—(a) Functions. The Division of Labor Standards, under the supervision and direction of the Secretary, performs three principal functions: (1) furnishing interested persons and groups and governmental agencies and officials with information and technical assistance in the fields of industrial safety, labor legislation and labor education; (2) rendering advisory services to the public and to governmental agencies in connection with promoting the welfare and advancement of opportunities for suitable employment of children and young workers in industry; and (3) administration and enforcement of the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended. (U. S. C., Title 29, secs. 201 et seq.; Reorganization Plan No. 2, effective July 16, 1946, pursuant to Reorganization Act of 1946, Pub. No. 263, 79th Cong., 1st sess.)[1]

(b) National organization. The Division is administered by a Director, with the assistance of two Assistant Directors.

[1] Final authority to issue regulations and orders under section 8 (1) of the act, to institute injunction proceedings under section 17 and to require the production of evidence and testimony under section 9 is exercised by the Secretary. See § 2.001, supra.

The Division's functions in connection with industrial safety, labor legislation and labor education are performed through an Industrial Safety and Health Unit, a Promotion of Labor Standards Unit and a Visual Information Unit.

The Child Labor and Youth Employment Branch of the Division, under an Assistant Director, performs all of the Division's functions with respect to the employment of children and young people. The Child Labor Administration Service, in this Branch, performs those functions which relate to the enforcement of the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act.

(c) Field organization. The Child Labor and Youth Employment Branch maintains Child Labor Consultants at the Regional Offices of the Wage and Hour Division and utilizes the field staffs of the Wage and Hour Division and the Office of the Solicitor to carry out its inspection and other enforcement functions under the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act. In some States, inspection staffs of State or local agencies are utilized, pursuant to agreement between the State agencies on the one hand and the Branch and the Wage and Hour Division on the other. (See 29 CFR, Cum. Supp., Part 481) The Branch maintains field representatives in Idaho, Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas for the purpose of issuing Federal certificates of age.. (See 29 CFR, Cum. Supp., Parts 401 and 402)

(d) Information, submittals and requests. Requests for special services which the Division makes available, for publications of the Division, or for information concerning such services or publications should also be addressed to the Director, Division of Labor Standards, United States Department of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Child labor complaints may be filed with the appropriate Regional Office of the Wage and Hour Division or with the Child Labor and Youth Employment Branch of the Division of Labor Standards.

Federal certificates of age in Idaho may be obtained at the following address:

State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Special Agent, Child Labor and Youth Employment, Branch of United States Division of Labor Standards, State House, Boise, Idaho.

Such certificates in Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas may be obtained by addressing the Child Labor and Youth Employment Branch, Division of Labor Standards, United States Department of Labor, at the following places, respectively:

1. 406 Deposit Guaranty Bank Building, Jackson 14, Miss.
2. State Department of Labor, Wade Hampton Building, Columbia, S. C.
3. 304 Nash Building, Austin, Tex.

§ 2.006 United States Conciliation Service—(a) Functions. The United States Conciliation Service was established pursuant to the power given to the Secretary of Labor by the Act of March 4, 1913 (U. S. C., Title 29, sec. 51) to appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes in the interests of industrial peace. Its functions are to promote and establish harmonious labor-management relations in industry and to assist in the settlement of labor disputes.

(b) National organization. The Director of the United States Conciliation Service, under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of Labor, is responsible for the administration and the policies of the Service. He is assisted by an Associate Director, several Special Assistants, a Technical Advisory Committee and a Labor-Management Advisory Committee appointed by the Secretary, consisting of equal numbers of members and alternates representing labor and industry. The Service is divided into divisions as follows:

The Field Operations Division, under a Chief and two Assistant Chiefs who supervise the work of the Regional Offices and occasionally participate in direct conciliation and mediation, the Program Division and the Technical Services Division assist the Director in coordinating the services rendered to the public through the Regional Offices.

The Arbitration Division maintains a roster of arbitrators, acceptable to management and labor, whose services are available to parties to labor disputes who agree to voluntary arbitration. This Division is frequently named in collective bargaining agreements as the agency to designate an arbitrator should the need for one occur in cases arising under such agreements.

The National Trucking Commission is a tripartite panel, headed by a public member as Chairman, which handles labor disputes in the trucking industry which are voluntarily submitted to it by the parties.

(c) Field organization. The largest proportion of the conciliation and mediation activities of the Conciliation Service is performed from the Regional Offices. Each Regional Director is responsible for the policy and administration of his own office, subject to general supervision in matters of national policy. He is assisted by an Assistant Regional Director and a Regional Service Coordinator.

The operating staffs of the Regional Offices consist of Commissioners of Conciliation, who mediate and conciliate labor disputes, and Technical Commissioners, who assist in settling issues involving merit-rating systems, job-evaluation plans and other technical wage-payment problems. All Commissioners are fully responsible for the handling of cases assigned to them.

The Regional Offices of the Conciliation Service are as follows:

Region address and geographical jurisdiction

1. 294 Washington Street, Boston 8, Mass.: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island.

2. Room 1016, 341 Ninth Avenue, New York 1, N. Y.: New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia.

(d) Information and requests. Requests for general information concerning the work of the United States Conciliation Service should be addressed to the Director, United States Conciliation Service, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C.

Requests for the services or assistance of Commissioners of Conciliation should be addressed to the Regional Director in the appropriate region.

Requests for the services of an arbitrator should be addressed to the Chief, Arbitration Division, United States Conciliation Service, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C., or may be made through the Commissioner of Conciliation who has been working with the parties in the dispute in which arbitration is agreed upon.

Requests for the services or assistance of the National Trucking Commission should be addressed to the Chairman, National Trucking Commission, United States Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C.

No form is prescribed for any requests. They may be made either in writing or orally.

§ 2.007 Women's Bureau—(a) Functions. The Women's Bureau, under the general direction and supervision of the Secretary of Labor, formulates standards and policies which will promote the welfare of wage-earning women, improve their working conditions, increase their efficiency and advance their opportunities for profitable employment, and investigates and reports upon al matters pertaining to the welfare of women in industry. (Act of June 5, 1920, U. S. C., Title 29, sec. 13.) In this connection, the Bureau participates in interdepartmental programs of cooperation with other American republics by rendering advisory and technical services looking to the welfare of wage-earning women in those countries.

(b) National organization. The Director of the Women's Bureau is responsible for the policies and the administration of the Bureau. She is assisted by an Assistant Director.

The work of the Bureau in connection with research on matters relating to the welfare of wage-earning women, publication of materials on the legal and economic status of women and the programs and policies of the Bureau, and rendering advisory services in connection with formulation and administration of legislation to improve the working conditions of women, is carried on through a Research Division, an Editorial and Public Services Division and a Division of Labor Legislation and Administration.

(c) Field organization. The Women's Bureau has Regional Representatives who further the program of the Bureau by cooperation with governmental agencies in their own areas and serve to give the Washington office close contact with developments of concern to employed women in their sections of the country.

The location and geographical jurisdiction of Regional Offices in this Bureau are as follows:

Region address and geographical jurisdiction

294 Washington Street, Boston 8, Mass.: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut.

§ 2.009 Wage Adjustment Board for the Building Construction Industry.

NOTE: Statements of the purpose and functions, organization, and procedural and substantive rules of the Wage Adjustment Board for the Building Construction Industry of the National Wage Stabilization Board are set forth in Part 806 of this title.

The Wage Adjustment Board for the Building Construction Industry has no field organization. Rules of the Department of Labor for disclosure of official information set forth in §§ 2.6 and 2.7 of this title, are also applicable to the Wage Adjustment Board for the Building Construction Industry.

Requests for general information should be addressed to the Executive Secretary, Wage Adjustment Board for the Building Construction Industry, Department of Labor Building, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 2.010 Retraining and Reemployment Administration—(a) Functions. The Retraining and Reemployment Administration, created by Executive Order 9247 of February 24, 1944, was placed on a statutory basis by Title III of the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act of 1944 (58 Stat. 788; 5 U. S. C. 1661). The Administration was transferred from the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion to the Department of Labor by Executive Order 9617 of September 19, 1945.

It is the purpose of the Retraining and Reemployment Administration to coordinate activities and eliminate overlapping functions of all existing executive agencies (except the Veterans Administration and the Administrator of Veterans Affairs), relating to retraining, reemployment, vocational education, and vocational rehabilitation; and to coordinate such Federal activities with those of existing State and local agencies.

(b) Organization. The national offices of the Administration are located in the Federal Trade Commission Building, Washington 25, D. C. No field offices are maintained.

The Administrator directs and coordinates the activities of the Administration, aided by an Executive Assistant, a Special Assistant to the Administrator, Assistant Administrators, professional and technical advisors and consultants, and a legal staff headed by an Assistant Solicitor of Labor.

The Administration is composed of the following Branches and Divisions:

(1) Reemployment Branch.
(2) Field Service Branch.
(3) Retraining and Vocational Educational Branch.
(4) Vocational Rehabilitation Branch.
(5) Solicitor's Office Retraining and Reemployment Branch.
(6) Program Analysis Division.
(7) Public Information Division.
(8) Office Services Division.

(c) Information and requests. Rules of the Department of Labor set forth in §§ 2.6 and 2.7 are also applicable to the Retraining and Reemployment Administration. Requests for general information concerning the work of the Administration should be addressed to the office of the Administrator.

§ 2.011 Apprentice Training Service—(a) Functions. The Apprentice Training Service was re-established within the Department of Labor under Executive Order 9617 of September 19, 1945. The Service functions pursuant to the Act of August 16, 1937 (50 Stat. 663, 29 U. S. C. 50). Pursuant to the act the Secretary of Labor is authorized and directed to formulate and promote the furtherance of labor standards necessary to safeguard the welfare of apprentices.

(b) Organization. To carry out these functions, the Secretary of Labor set up the Apprentice Training Service under the supervision of a Director, appointed a Federal Committee on Apprenticeship composed of representatives of management, labor and interested Government agencies to develop nation-wide standards and policies for apprenticeship training, and appointed the General Committee on Apprenticeship in the Construction Industry which takes an active part in encouraging the adoption of standards by this industry.

The Service consists of the following Units:

(1) Office of the Director. The Director is responsible for the application of national policies with respect to apprenticeship through direction of the headquarters and field organization of the agency; the encouragement of State apprenticeship activities; and the maintenance of liaison with established state agencies and with national organizations interested in apprenticeship.

(2) The Program Division under an Assistant Director serves as a clearing house for the national apprenticeship program. Its duties include the review of apprenticeship plans with regard to conformity to accepted standards and practices, and the registration of apprentices and apprenticeship programs.

(3) The Management Services Division assists the Director in matters of administrative management.

(4) The Field Service Division consults with Assistant Directors on field operations and organizes uniform field operating procedures for issuance by the Director. The five District Offices, each of which is under an Assistant Director, exercises general supervision over the activities of the regional offices within their respective districts. The Regional Offices operate under regional supervisors. Their function is to extend through area and local offices the standards of apprenticeship to the level where the apprentice is employed. There is at least one area office in each State. The function of these offices is to coordinate the activities of the Apprentice Training Service with State Apprenticeship Councils and supervise the activities of the local offices. The field men, who comprise the local offices, contact local employers who employ apprentices, in regard to the initiation of approved apprenticeship training programs and, in the absence of local or State Apprenticeship Councils, approve apprenticeship training agreements conforming to Federal standards.

A list of the district and regional offices and their addresses appears below:

(4) Functions and location of United States Employment Service local offices. (i) The United States Employment Service local office is the point at which all United States Employment Service functions and services are provided for veterans, other workers and employers. Employers may submit their requirements and request the referral of qualified workers or assistance in matters directly related to the filling of job openings. Workers in search of employment may apply and request referral to suitable jobs. Handicapped workers are given special treatment and assistance in finding suitable jobs if they require it.

(ii) Claims arising under the wartime programs of the War Manpower Commission for the temporary migration into the United States of certain foreign workers are filed in United States Employment Service local offices.

(iii) State Unemployment Compensation and Servicemen's Readjustment Allowance claims are filed in the local United States Employment Service offices in those States in which the State Unemployment Compensation agency has so requested. Such claims are made on forms provided by the appropriate State Unemployment Compensation agency.

(iv) Approximately 1,750 United States Employment Service local offices are maintained in cities and towns throughout the Nation. In addition, there are approximately 2,500 itinerant points where part-time employment service is provided by staff traveling from regularly established local offices. The office of each State Director maintains, for the information of the public, a directory of all United States Employment Service local offices and itinerant points within the State. The services of the United States Employment Service are available upon informal request at any United States Employment Service local office. The locations of such local offices may be found in the telephone directory of most cities throughout the country. No formal procedures or forms are prescribed or required.

(c) Information and requests. Rules of the Department of Labor on disclosure of official information, set forth in §§ 2.6 and 2.7 are also applicable to the United States Employment Service. Requests for general information concerning the work of the Service should be addressed to the Director, United States Employment Service, Department of Labor Building, Washington 25, D. C., or to the nearest regional office at the locations listed above.

§ 2.013 Shipbuilding Stabilization Committee—(a) Functions. Pursuant to authority contained in Executive Order 9656 of November 15, 1945, and under the general supervision of the Secretary of Labor, to facilitate production, promote harmonious labor relations and stabilize wages, hours and working conditions in the shipbuilding industry through administering, interpreting and securing compliance with the four Zone Standards Agreements, covering basic wages and working conditions in the shipbuilding industry in the Atlantic, Pacific, Gulf, and Great Lakes Zones. These Agreements are tripartite agreements among shipbuilding labor, shipbuilding management and Government (Navy, War and Labor Departments, and U. S. Maritime Commission).

(b) National organization. The Shipbuilding Stabilization Committee has 31 members, as follows:

Labor Department—1 member (the Chairman)

Shipbuilding management—12 members.

AFL Metal Trades Department—6 members

CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America—6 members.

Procurement agencies (i. e.) Navy Department, War Department and U. S. Maritime Commission)—2 members each.

The Committee engages in the following activities:

Develops procedures for annual and, where necessary, special reviews of the wage rates established by the National Shipbuilding Conference of May 16, 1942, and subsequently ratified, by tripartite conferences, referenda of the parties and other appropriate means; and recommends and takes appropriate steps to bring about such changes in wage rates as the review indicates are required.

Conducts tripartite zone conferences for the purpose of amending such terms of individual Zone Standards Agreements as are not national in scope.

Considers and determines, through regular quarterly and special meetings and by other appropriate means, all questions with respect to the interpretation, application, and coverage of the Zone Standards Agreements as amended, and the securing of compliance therewith.

Performs such other activities as are consistent with the Zone Standards Agreements as amended, and with the purpose of the Committee.

(c) Field organization. The Shipbuilding Stabilization Committee has no field offices or representatives.

(d) Requests and information. All requests for information and interpretations should be addressed to the Chairman, Shipbuilding Stabilization Committee, United States Department of Labor, Washington (25), D. C.

[1] On November 15, 1946, as of the close of business, all State and local offices, except those in Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia, will be transferred to the several States and the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii.

8. After the words "Wage and Hour Division" in § 481.8 are inserted the words "and the Secretary of Labor."

9. The following is substituted for paragraph (a) of § 481.2:

(a) Purpose. The Secretary, the Administrator and the Director may enter into agreements with State agencies for the utilization of services of State and local agencies and their employees in making investigations and inspections under the acts and for reimbursement therefor, when such State agencies have submitted plans of cooperation for such purposes and such plans have been found to be reasonably appropriate and adequate to carry out the respective functions of the Secretary, the Administrator and the Director.

10. The following is substituted for § 481.10:

§ 481.10 Amendments and repeal. This part may be amended or repealed by appropriate joint regulations issued by the Secretary of Labor and the Administrator: Provided, however, That no such amendment or repeal shall be effective as to any agreement previously entered into by a State agency without its consent thereto.

L. M. SCHWELLENBACH,
Secretary of Labor.

WAGE AND HOUR DIVISION

[29 CFR, Chapter V]

PART 500—ORGANIZATION

Sec.
500.1 Functions.
500.2 National organization.
500.3 Field organization.
500.4 Disclosure of information.

§ 500.1 Functions. The Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor is charged with the function of administering and enforcing the minimum wage and maximum hours standards provided by the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (29 U. S. C., 201 et seq.). For administrative purposes this Division has been combined with the Public Contracts Division established by the Secretary of Labor to administer and enforce the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (41 U. S. C., 35–45),[1] and the two Divisions are commonly and collectively known as the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions. The Divisions serve also as points of initial contact for the public under the wage stabilization program.

§ 500.2 National organization. The principal national office of the Divisions is located at 165 West 46th Street, New York 19, New York.[2] A Washington office is located in the Department of Labor Building, Washington 25, D. C.

(a) The national office of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions is organized as follows:

(1) The Administrator plans and directs the administration and enforcement work of the Divisions and issues regulations under the Fair Labor Standards Act pursuant to authority conferred thereby. He is assisted in his executive duties by two deputies who perform the duties set forth below, and by an assistant who performs special assignments at his direction.

(2) The Deputy Administrator at the national office in New York is in administrative charge of the Divisions in the absence of the Administrator; shares with the Administrator the task of considering and acting upon major problems arising under both acts, but particularly the Fair Labor Standards Act; and is the Administrator's assistant in carrying out the functions of his office. He is aided by an assistant. In addition, he exercises direct supervision over the functions of the Exemptions Section, including the preparation and administration of regulations governing all exemptions, regulations in respect to recordkeeping, and the determination of the reasonable cost of board, lodging, or other facilities; the holding of hearings in connection with the foregoing; the issuance and cancellations of certificates for the employment of apprentices, learners and messengers, and the supervision of all exemptions work performed in the field. Petitions for record-keeping exceptions, reasonable cost determinations, seasonal industry determinations, amendment of any of the regulations dealing with exemptions and applications for apprentice, learner, or messenger certificates, as well as inquiries generally with regard to exemptions, should be addressed to the Exemptions Section at the national office in New York.

(3) The Deputy Administrator at the Washington office, aided by an assistant, is responsible for the maintenance of liaison with other bureaus, divisions and offices of the Department and other Federal Departments and agencies, and shares with the Administrator the task of considering and acting upon major problems arising under the Acts. He is in charge of such personnel as are maintained in Washington by the Economics and Business Management Branches to assist in the performance of said duties, and supervises the work of the Hearings and Pay Roll Audit Section of the Field Operations Branch which performs the pay roll transcript and computations involved in formal enforcement proceedings instituted under the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act.

[1] The Fair Labor Standards Act and the Walsh-Healey Act are designated herein as the "Acts."

[2] This decentralization is of a temporary nature necessitated by the national emergency.

(4) The Field Operations Branch, with a Director in charge, performs the functions of directing, coordinating, analyzing, and reviewing for adequate performance the enforcement activities of the Divisions in the field.

(5) The Information and Compliance Branch, with a Director in charge, advises on and participates in policy decisions of the Divisions involving public relations and creates and effectuates a comprehensive information program designed to achieve voluntary compliance with the Acts.

(6) The Economics Branch, with a Director in charge, is responsible for economic research and advice.

(7) The Business Management Branch is responsible for formulation of policies and procedures and the development of all matters pertaining to the business management functions of the Divisions.

§ 500.3 Field organization. (a) The inspection work of the Divisions and their enforcement work in the field are conducted through the Regional Offices of the Department of Labor and a Territorial Representative in Puerto Rico. A Regional Director is in charge of each region. Branch offices, operating under the supervision of the regional offices, have been established in some regions. The regional offices are also responsible for carrying on the work of the Divisions in the administration of the wage stabilization program. The Administrator of the Divisions has made the following delegations of authority to Regional Directors, Assistant Regional Directors, the Territorial Representative in Puerto Rico, and the Commissioner of Labor in North Carolina:

(1) Power to grant, deny, or cancel special homework certificates pursuant to the provisions of certain wage orders, issued under the Fair Labor Standards Act, and to hold hearings in connection therewith;

(2) Power to issue, deny, or cancel handicapped workers' certificates; [3]

(3) Power to issue, deny, or cancel certificates for the employment of handicapped clients in sheltered workshops.[4]

Applications in connection with subparagraphs (1), (2), and (3) of this paragraph should be addressed to the respective regional directors.

(4) Power to issue, deny, or revoke special certificates for the employment, under any vocational rehabilitation program administered by the Veterans Administration, at subminimum rates, of veterans handicapped by a service-incurred disability. The issuance of such special certificates follows upon receipts by the regional director from the Veterans Administration of a copy of a temporary certificate athorizing such employment and issued by such representatives of Veterans Administration as have been designated by the Administrator as his authorized representatives to issue, deny, or revoke such temporary certificates.

(b) The regional offices answer questions relative to the application of the Acts in respect to matters on which the Administrator has asserted a position. Requests for such information should be addressed to the regional or branch office nearest the applicant or to the national office of the Divisions.

(c) The enforcement of the Fair Labor Standards Act and the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act in North Carolina and in Minnesota has been delegated to the respective State Departments of Labor under agreements entered into pursuant to section 11 (b) of the Fair Labor Standards Act and section 4 of the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act. At the same time agreements have been consummated with 20 State Departments of Labor, as well as with the District of Columbia, and the Territory of Hawaii, under which they make safety and health inspections of concerns subject to the Public Contracts Act.

(d) Complaints of violation of the acts may be filed or general information obtained at the nearest regional office or branch office or from the Director of Information at the national office in New York.

PART 500—ORGANIZATION AND PROCEDURE

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

Sec.
500.1 Creation and authority.
500.2 Functions.
500.3 Organization.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

500.20 Applications, requests, and contributions.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

§ 500.1 Creation and authority. The American Battle Monuments Commission was created by act of Congress approved March 4, 1923 (42 Stat. 1509; 36 U.S.C. 121). It derives its authority from this and subsequent acts and Executive orders (36 U.S.C. ch. 8; Executive Orders 6614 of February 26, 1934, 6690 of April 25, 1934, and 9704 of March 14, 1946; Public Law 466, 79th Congress, approved June 26, 1946).

§ 500.2 Functions. The principal functions of the Commission are:

(a) Administer and maintain World War I American national cemeteries and memorials in Europe.

(b) Prepare plans and estimates for the erection of suitable memorials to mark and commemorate the services of the American armed forces and to erect and maintain memorials in the United States and at such places outside the United States where the American armed forces have served (World War II) or shall hereafter serve as the Commission shall determine.

(c) Erect and maintain works of architecture and art in such American cemeteries located outside the United States, its Territories and possessions, as the Secretary of War shall declare to be permanent cemeteries.

(d) Control as to materials and design, provide regulations for, and supervise the erection of, all memorial monuments and buildings in American cemeteries located outside of the United States and its Territories and possessions.

(e) Control as to materials and design, provide regulations for, and supervise the erection of, all memorial monuments and buildings commemorating the services of the American armed forces erected in any foreign country or political division thereof which may authorize the Commission to perform such functions, or upon federally owned or controlled property in the United States or in its Territories and possessions, except national cemeteries.

(f) Cooperate with American citizens, States, municipalities, or associations desiring to erect war memorials outside the continental limits of the United States in such manner as may be determined by the Commission.

(g) Receive funds from any State, municipal, or private source to be used in carrying out the Commission's program.

(h) Furnish replicas of any memorial, or any part thereof, to States, municipalities, or interested private persons or associations at actual cost.

§ 500.3 Organization. The American Battle Monuments Commission organization is composed of:

(a) The Commissioners. Final authority in all matters pertaining to the erection of memorials to commemorate the services of American armed forces and of memorial monuments and buildings in permanent American cemeteries outside of the continental limits of the United States and its Territories and possessions, including the erection of such memorials and memorial monuments and buildings by American citizens, States, municipalities, and associations, rests in the Commission. Inquiries and proposals regarding such matters should be addressed to the Commission at the Central Office.

(b) The Secretary. The Secretary acts for the Commission in all administrative matters; formulates for the consideration of the Commission plans and estimates for the carrying out of its duties; carries out the plans adopted by the Commission; and otherwise gives effect to its decisions and policies.

(c) Central Office. The Central Office is located in Room 5-A-732, Pentagon Building, Washington 25, D. C. The Central Office is responsible for the conduct of the general administrative work of the organization.

(d) Field Office. The Field Office is located at 2 Avenue Gabriel, Paris, France. The Field Office is responsible for the administration and maintenance of World War I cemeteries and memorials in Europe. Information regarding these cemeteries and memorials and individual graves in the cemeteries may be had by addressing the Field Office. The Field Office will, upon request and upon receipt of funds, arrange for the placing of flowers on individual graves in these cemeteries. Information regarding this service may be had from the Central Office or the Field Office.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURE

§ 500.20 Applications, requests, and contributions. (a) All applications, requests, and contributions will be submitted to the Secretary, American Battle Monuments Commission, Room 5-A–732, Pentagon Building, Washington 25, D. C.

(b) American citizens, States, municipalities, or associations desiring to erect war memorials outside the continental limits of the United States should proceed as follows:

(1) Submit general idea of the memorial to the American Battle Monuments Commission, with a request for the tentative allocation of the site desired.

(2) When site is provisionally allocated prepare and submit the design of the monument, together with the inscription, for approval. The design of the monument will then be referred, in accordance with law, by the Commission to the National Commission of Fine Arts for their approval.

(3) After a site is allocated and the design and inscription approved, the American Battle Monuments Commission will take up with the foreign governments concerned the question of securing approval to the erection of the monument.

(4) When the approval of the foreign government is obtained the Commission will cooperate, if the people concerned so desire, in obtaining of ground and the erection of monument.

THE AMERICAN BATTLE MONUMENTS COMMISSION,
ROBERT G. WOODSIDE,
Vice Chairman.

BOARD OF WAR COMMUNICATIONS

[32 CFR, Ch. XV]

PART 1750—ORGANIZATION AND PROCEDURE

Sec.
1750.1 Purpose and authority.
1750.2 General description of Board organization.
1750.3 Offices.
1750.4 Regulations, procedure, and orders.
1750.5 Duties of Committees.

§ 1750.1 Purpose and authority. The Board of War Communications (formerly the Defense Communications Board) was created by Executive Order No. 8546 on September 24, 1940, (5 F. R. 3817–3827) as amended by Executive Order No. 8960, dated December 6, 1941 (6 F. R. 6325), for the purpose of determining, preparing, and coordinating plans for the most efficient control and use of radio, wire, and cable communication facilities during the national emergency. Thereafter, by Executive Order No. 8964, dated December 10, 1941 (6 F. R. 6367), Executive Order No. 9089, dated March 6, 1942 (7 F. R. 1777), and Executive Order No. 9183, dated June 15, 1942 (7 F. R. 4590), there was delegated to the Board the wartime authority of the President under section 606 (a) of the Communications Act to direct that communications essential to the national defense and security shall have preference or priority and, under sections 606 (c) and (d), to direct the use, control or closure of radio and wire communication stations and facilities.

§ 1750.2 General description of Board organization. The Chairman of the Federal Communications Commission is also the Chairman of the Board of War Communications. The other members of the Board are the Chief Signal Officer of the Army, the Chief of Naval Communications, the Assistant Secretary of State in Charge of Economic Affairs, and the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in Charge of Treasury Enforcement Activities. The Board has no paid personnel, appropriation, or funds. It operates through a coordinating committee and a law committee staffed by personnel from the agencies represented on the Board; through Labor and Industry Advisory Committees and an international Broadcasting Coordinating Committee; and through 11 "numbered committees" for radio amateurs, aviation communications, cable, domestic broadcasting, the Interdepartment Radio Advisory Committee, international broadcasting radio communications, State and municipal facilities, telegraph, telephone, United States Government facilities. The functions of these committees are described in Appendix I hereto.

§ 1750.3 Offices; submittals and requests for information. The offices of the Board are the offices of its Chairman and are located in the New Post Office Building, 13th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, N. W., Washington 25, D. C. Letters, documents, and other submittals and requests should be directed to these offices.

§ 1750.4 Regulations, procedure, and orders. The general regulations governing the activities of the Board of War Communications are contained in the Executive Orders referred to in § 1750.1 under which the Board was created and which set forth the authority of the Board. Additional regulations have not been adopted. Matters requiring the attention of the Board of War Communications are considered initially by the Board and referred to the appropriate committees for consideration and recommendations to the Board. Two orders issued by the Board, other than orders cancelling previously issued orders, are now in effect. These two orders are Order No. 20–B, dated July 2, 1946, entitled "Priority for Urgent Telephone Toll Calls Essential to the War Effort or Public Safety" (11 F. R. 7938), and Order No. 27–D dated March 28, 1946, entitled "Precedence for Telegraph Messages Essential to the War Effort or Public Safety" (11 F. R. 5123).

§ 1750.5 Duties of Committees. The Board of War Communications has assigned the following duties to its several committees:

(a) Coordinating Committee. The duties of the Coordinating Committee include assistance to the Board in planning and coordinating work. It will maintain liaison with the Law Committee, Labor Advisory Committee, and Industry Advisory Committee, for the purposes of advice and consultation and will supervise the work of the other committees, which will report directly to it.

(b) Law Committee. The duties of the Law Committee include the furnishing of legal opinions and advice, and the drafting of final reports and recommendations, proposed Executive Orders, proclamations, and legislation. The Law Committee will report directly to the Board but will have liaison, for purposes of advice and consultation, with the Coordinating Committee, and, as may be necessary, with other committees.

(c) Labor Advisory Committee. The duties of the Labor Advisory Committee include the submission of expert advice to the Board on all labor problems incident to the proper carrying out of its national defense mission. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, the Labor Advisory Committee will submit recommendations to the Board on such problems as are referred to it by the Board. The Labor Committee will report directly to the Board but will have liaison for the purpose of advice and consultation with the Coordinating Committee and the Industry Advisory Committee.

(d) Industry Advisory Committee. The duties of the Industry Advisory Committee include the submission of expert advice to the Board on all problems of general concern to the communications companies incident to the proper carrying out of the Board's national defense mission. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, the Industry Advisory Committee will submit recommendations to the Board on such problems as are referred to it by the Board. The Industry Advisory Committee will report directly to the Board but will have liaison for the purpose of advice and consultation with the Coordinating Committee and the Labor Advisory Committee.

Whenever a problem involving domestic or international broadcasting shall arise, the Chairman of the Industry Advisory Committee shall notify the Chairman of the Domestic Broadcasting Committee or International Broadcasting Committee, as the case may be, and such Domestic or International Broadcasting Committee shall designate a Delegate to act as a member of the Industry Advisory Committee on that problem.

(e) International Broadcasting Coordinating Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of methods of making available necessary physical equipment to provide adequate international broadcast service for psychological warfare purposes. With the requirements of the military services as a primary consideration, it shall consider the problems of manufacturing new equipment as compared with the practicability of diverting the required equipment, all or in part, from other sources and services and make such recommendations as seem desirable from the standpoint of the successful conduct of the war.

(f) Amateur Radio Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of all phases of amateur radio facilities. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, the Committee shall recommend precautions and restrictions with respect to amateur radio operations under various emergency conditions, and the allocation of such amateur facilities as may be required by the Army or the Navy.

(g) Aviation Communications Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of all phases of domestic and international civil aviation radio facilities and communications services associated therewith. It will have liaison with the U. S. Government Facilities Committee and the State and Municipal Facilities Committee. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, the Committee shall recommend plans for the most efficacious use of all of these facilities in time of military emergency, giving due consideration to the needs of other governmental agencies, of industry, and of other civilian activities.

(h) Cable Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of all phases of submarine cable communications facilities used in the international or overseas service. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, the Committee shall recommend plans for the most efficacious use of all of these facilities in time of military emergency, giving due consideration to the needs of other governmental agencies, of industry, and of other civilian activities.

(i) Domestic Broadcasting Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of the physical aspects of domestic standard broadcasting and formulation of recommendations of such precautions, supplementary facilities and reallocations as it shall deem desirable under foreseeable military conditions. It shall also consider other domestic broadcasting systems including relay broadcasting, high frequency (FM) broadcasting, television, facsimile broadcasting and experimental broadcasting. The Committee's work in all of these fields will include recommendations for the speedy and efficacious use in time of military emergency of all necessary domestic broadcasting facilities and communications services associated therewith, with the requirements of the national defense as a primary consideration.

(j) Interdepartment Radio Advisory Committee. This Committee is designated under the provisions of Paragraphs 5 and 7, but without reference to Paragraph 8, of the President's Executive Order of September 24, 1940. The duties of this Committee will include making special studies and recommendations regarding frequency allocations, with the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration but giving due consideration to the needs of governmental agencies, of industry, and of other civilian activities.

(k) International Broadcasting Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of all phases of international broadcasting and the formulation of recommendations concerning such precautions, supplementary facilities and reallocations as it shall deem desirable under foreseeable military conditions. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, it shall also recommend plans for the speedy and efficacious use of all necessary international broadcasting facilities in time of military emergency giving due consideration to the needs of other governmental agencies, of industry, and of other civilian activities.

(l) Radiocommunications Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of all phases of domestic and international radiotelegraph and radio telephone communications facilities (including mobile and fixed services) except aviation, amateur, Federal, State, and Municipal communications facilities. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, the Committee shall recommend plans for the most efficacious use of all of these facilities in time of military emergency, giving due consideration to the needs of other governmental agencies, of industry, and of other civilian activities.

(m) State and Municipal Facilities Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of all phases of State and Municipal communications facilities, including Municipal and State Police Radio Stations, Inter-City Police Radio Stations, State Forestry Radio Stations, Marine Fire Radio Stations, and State and municipally owned or leased wire facilities. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, the Committee shall recommend plans for the most efficacious use of all of these facilities in time of military emergency, giving due consideration to the needs of other governmental agencies, of industry, and of other civilian activities.

(n) Telegraph Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of all phases of landline record communications, both domestic and connecting international and line services and facilities (except federally owned facilities) including leased line, teletypewriter exchange, wirephoto and facsimile services and facilities. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, the Committee shall recommend plans for the most efficacious use of all of these services and facilities in time of military emergency, giving due consideration to the needs of other governmental agencies, of industry, and of other civilian activities.

(o) Telephone Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of all phases of landline telephone communications, both domestic and connecting international landline and submarine cable telephone services and facilities (except federally owned facilities) including leased line telephone services and facilities. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, the Committee shall recommend plans for the most efficacious use of all of these services and facilities in time of military emergency, giving due consideration to the needs of other governmental agencies, of industry, and of other civilian activities.

(p) United States Government Facilities Committee. The duties of this Committee include the study of all phases of non-military governmental communications facilities with a view to possible military use and the coordination of these facilities including wire, cable and radio facilities owned or leased for government operation, with communications facilities of the Army, Navy, and Coast Guard. With the requirements of national defense as a primary consideration, the Committee shall recommend plans for the most efficacious use of all of these facilities in time of military emergency, giving due consideration to the needs of other governmental agencies, of industry, and of other civilian activities.

CHARLES R. DENNY,
Acting Chairman.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[14 CFR, Ch. I]

[Regulations, Serial No. 374]

PART 285—RULES OF PRACTICE UNDER TITLE IV AND SECTION 1002 (D) TO (I) OF THE CIVIL AERONAUTICS ACT OF 1938, AS AMENDED

At a session of the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 28th day of August, 1946. (Revision of Part 285 of the Economic Regulations.)

The Civil Aeronautics Board, acting pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, particularly sections 205 (a), 1001 and 1002 and Title IV of said Act, and pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, particularly sections 3 and 12 thereof, hereby makes and promulgates the following rules and regulations:

RULES OF PRACTICE UNDER TITLE IV AND SECTION 1002 OF THE CIVIL AERONAUTICS ACT OF 1938, AS AMENDED

Effective September 11, 1946, Part 285 of the Economic Regulations, as amended, is hereby amended in its entirety to read as follows:

Sec.
285.1 Proceedings.
285.2 General requirements as to papers in proceedings.
285.3 Form and filing of documents.
285.4 Appearances and practice requirements.
285.5 Subpoenas and depositions.
285.6 Appearances by third persons and formal interventions.
285.7 Conference procedure.
285.8 Hearings, argument, recommended decisions and proceedings subsequent thereto.
285.9 Exhibits.
285.10 Hearings before the Board and before Boards of Examiners.
285.11 Petition for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration.
285.12 Memoranda in opposition or support.
285.13 Procedure in rate proceedings.
285.14 Informal complaints.
285.15 Formal complaints.
285.16 Objections to public disclosure of information.

§ 285.1 Proceedings. There shall be one form of formal proceeding (to be known as a "proceeding") under Title IV and section 1002 of the act.

A proceeding may be instituted (a) by order to show cause or other process of the Board, (b) by the filing with the Board of a formal application, complaint or petition.

§ 285.2 General requirements as to papers in proceedings—(a) Content of documents. Any person wishing to institute a proceeding should consult the rules, regulations and orders of the Board under the various sections of the act. In case there is no rule, regulation or order of the Board which prescribes the contents of the formal application, complaint or petition in a given case, the application, complaint or petition should contain a proper identification of the parties concerned, a reference to the statutory authority under which the document is filed, and a concise but complete statement of the facts relied upon and the relief sought.

(b) Insufficient allegations. In any case where the Board is of the opinion that a formal application, complaint or petition does not sufficiently set forth the material required to be set forth by any applicable rule, regulation or order of the Board, or is otherwise insufficient, the Board may advise the party filing the same of the deficiency and require that any additional information be supplied by amendment.

(c) Answers. Answers to formal complaints, petitions and orders to show cause will not usually be required. In case an answer is deemed desirable, the parties will be notified. The issues of the proceeding will ordinarily be formulated at the prehearing conference.

(d) Retention of papers by the Board. When any formal application, complaint or petition is denied, dismissed or permitted to be withdrawn, in whole or in part, said application, complaint or petition, and all documents filed with the Board pertaining thereto shall be retained in the files of the Board. When any proceeding instituted by the Board is dismissed, terminated or rescinded, all documents filed with the Board pertaining thereto shall be retained in the files of the Board; Provided, That this paragraph shall not apply to documents filed with the Board in any proceeding on the basis of a stipulation that such documents will be returned to the parties so filing when the purpose for which the documents are filed has been served; and Provided further, That the Board in its discretion may permit the withdrawal of original documents upon the submission of properly authenticated copies to replace such documents.

§ 285.3 Form and filing of documents—(a) Execution, number of copies and service. Unless otherwise required by applicable rule or regulation, every application, petition and formal complaint relating to any of the provisions of Title IV or section 1002 of the act, and every answer or other formal document in any such proceeding shall be signed by, or on behalf of, the person filing the same, and shall be verified by the person signing the same, in the manner required by paragraph (b) of this section. Proposed findings and conclusions or exceptions and supporting reasons therefor shall be signed but need not be verified. Any general partner may sign on behalf of a partnership. Documents filed by a corporation, business trust or other similar organization must be signed by an officer who is duly authorized to take such action. An executed original copy of each such document, and nineteen true copies thereof, which need not be signed or verified, but which should have typed or facsimile signatures, shall be filed with the Board. Each person filing any such document shall furnish such additional copies and shall make such service of the document on other persons as the Board may at any time require. Such documents shall be delivered in person, through the mails, or otherwise, to the Civil Aeronautics Board in Washington, D. C., and shall be deemed to have been filed on the date on which they are actually received by the Board.

(b) Verification. Every verification shall set forth that the person verifying the document has read and is familiar with the contents thereof and the attached exhibits, if any; that he intends and desires that in granting or denying the relief requested, the Board shall place full and complete reliance upon the accuracy of each and every statement therein contained; that he is familiar with the facts therein set forth; that to the best of his information and belief, every statement contained in the instruments is true and no such statement is misleading.

(c) Formal specifications of papers. All papers filed in proceedings should be on strong, durable paper not larger than $8\frac{1}{2}$" by 13" in size except that tables, charts and other documents may be larger, folded to approximately that size. The left margin should be at least $1\frac{1}{2}$" wide and, if the document is bound, it should be bound on the left side.

Papers may be reproduced by printing or by any other process, provided the copies are clear and legible. Appropriate notes or other indications should be used, so that the existence of deficits and any other matters normally shown in color will be accurately indicated on photostatic copies.

(d) Waiver of strict compliance with rule. The Board may, in its discretion, waive strict compliance with any requirement of this section.

§ 285.4 Appearances and practice requirements—(a) Appearances. Any party to a proceeding may appear and be heard in such proceeding in person or by attorney. So far as the orderly conduct of business permits, any person may appear and be heard in person or by attorney before the Board or its officers and employees for the presentation, adjustment, or determination of any issue, request or controversy in any proceeding or in connection with any function of the Board.

(b) Practice requirements. No register of attorneys who may practice before the Board is maintained and no application for admission to practice is required. Any attorney practicing before the Board or desiring so to practice may, for good cause shown, be disbarred or suspended from so practicing, but only after he has been afforded an opportunity to be heard in the matter.

§ 285.5 Subpoenas and depositions—(a) Subpoenas. Subpoenas requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of books, papers and documents relating to any matter under investigation, may be issued by any member of the Board or any person designated as Examiner in any proceeding or investigation. Application therefor may be made either to the Secretary of the Board or to the Examiner. Such application must be in writing and should specify as exactly as possible the competency, relevancy, and materiality of the evidence sought, and should describe in detail the documents desired.

(b) Depositions. Any party desiring to take the deposition of a witness shall make application in writing to the Secretary of the Board or the Examiner in the proceeding or investigation, stating the reasons why such deposition should be taken, the name of the witness, the time and place for taking of such deposition, and a general description of the matter or matters concerning which testimony is requested, or a list of questions or interrogatories to be propounded. Such application shall be accompanied by a proof of service upon all parties to the proceeding. If good cause be shown, an order will be issued authorizing such deposition and specifying the time and place, the subject matter to be covered, and designating, by name or otherwise, the person before whom such deposition is to be taken. After the deposition has been reduced to writing and properly certified, the original and two copies thereof shall be forwarded to the Board at its office in Washington, D. C., where unless otherwise ordered by the Board for good cause shown, it shall be filed in the record in said proceeding or investigation. Depositions shall conform to the requirements of Formal Specifications of Papers contained in § 285.3.

§ 285.6 Appearances by third persons and formal interventions—(a) Appearances by third persons. Any person, including any state, political subdivision thereof, state aviation commission, or other public body, may appear at any hearing and present any evidence which is relevant to the issues. Such persons may also suggest questions or interrogatories to be propounded by public counsel to witnesses called by other persons. With the consent of the examiner, or of the Board, if the hearing is held before the Board, such persons may also cross-examine witnesses directly.

(b) Formal interventions. (1) Any person having a substantial interest in the subject matter of any proceeding may petition for leave to intervene in such proceeding and may become a party thereto upon compliance with the provisions of this paragraph. In general, such petitions will not be granted unless it shall be found:

(i) That such person has a statutory right to be made a party to such proceeding; or,

(ii) That such person will or may be bound by the order to be entered in the proceeding; or,

(iii) That such person has a property or financial interest which may not be adequately represented by existing parties, if such intervention would not unduly broaden the issues or delay the proceeding.

However, the denial of such a petition for leave to intervene shall not prevent the petitioner from participating in the proceeding in the manner described in paragraph (a) of this section.

(2) Unless otherwise ordered by the Board every petition for leave to intervene shall be filed with the Board prior to the first prehearing conference, or in the event that no such conference is to be held, not later than 10 days prior to the hearing. Copies of the petition shall be mailed or delivered to each party to the proceeding prior to the filing of the petition. The Board, however, may pass upon any such petition without receiving testimony or argument either from the petitioner or from other parties to the proceeding. The petition shall clearly set forth the interest of the petitioner, and shall otherwise comply with the requirements of § 285.3.

(3) No petition for leave to intervene, not filed within the time limited by the preceding paragraph of this subsection, will be entertained unless the petitioner shall clearly show good cause for his failure to file such petition within the time so limited. In the event that such petition is heard by an examiner, his determination shall be governed by the standards hereinabove set forth, but no decision by an examiner on such petition shall be binding on the Board. Interventions herein provided are for administrative purposes, and no decision to grant leave to intervene shall be deemed to constitute a finding or determination that the intervening party has such a substantial interest in the order that is to be entered in that proceeding as will entitle it to demand court review of such order.

§ 285.7 Conference procedure—(a) Purpose. In any proceeding, the examiner or any other person designated for the purpose of this section will, unless otherwise ordered by the Board, direct counsel for the parties to such proceeding to appear before him for a conference to consider the following:

(1) The formulation of the issues to be considered at the hearing by:

(i) Agreement of the parties,

(ii) Amendment of the application, complaint, or petition,

(iii) Any other appropriate means;

(2) The position of all parties with respect to the issues so formulated. Unless responsive pleading is required by order of the Board it is intended that the position stated at the conference shall serve in lieu of formal answer or notice of issues controverted in fact or law. The person conducting the conference may order further conference to accomplish this purpose, or may require responsive pleadings from any party failing to give notice at the conference of its position respecting the issues.

(3) The simplification of proof by:

(i) Stipulations concerning matters of which the Board can take notice, the admission in evidence of particular facts or documents or any other appropriate matter,

(ii) Limitation of the number of witnesses,

(iii) The preparation of exhibits, and the use thereof in lieu of oral testimony whenever possible,

(iv) Any other appropriate means;

(4) The exchange prior to the date of the hearing of exhibits proposed to be introduced therein and any other material which will expedite the conduct of the same; and

(5) Such other matters as may, in the opinion of the person conducting the conference, aid in the conduct and disposition of the proceeding.

(b) Notice. Notice of the time and place of the conference shall be given by letter or otherwise to all parties to the proceeding.

(c) Exchange of exhibits. The person conducting the conference may require exchange of exhibits before the date set for the hearing, and if any exhibits are not exchanged in advance as required, or as agreed upon by counsel at the conference, the hearing shall be subject to postponement until such exchange is completed.

(d) Conference report. The person conducting the conference shall prepare a report of the same; which shall be served upon counsel for all of the parties and made of record. Counsel may object to the description of anything which occurred at the conference within five days after the receipt of the report, and such report may, in the discretion of the person preparing the same, be revised in accordance therewith. If revised, the report shall again be served upon counsel and made of record in the same manner as the original report. Exceptions may be taken on the basis of any written objection submitted within the time prescribed which has not been met by a revision of the report. Such report shall constitute the official account of all that transpired at the conference and shall control the subsequent course of the proceeding, but it may be reconsidered and modified at any time to prevent injustice.

§ 258.8 Hearings, argument, recommended decisions, and proceedings subsequent thereto—(a) Oral argument before examiner, proposed findings and conclusions and supporting reasons therefor. (1) Upon request of any party, an examiner may permit oral argument at the close of the hearing. Oral argument shall be transcribed, but shall not constitute part of the record.

(2) After the close of the hearing, and within the time announced by the Examiner, the parties may submit proposed findings and conclusions and supporting reasons therefor.

(b) Transcript of hearings and corrections thereto. (1) Hearings shall be recorded and transcribed by a contract reporter of the Board under supervision of the examiner. Copies of the transcript will be supplied to the parties to the proceeding by the reporter at rates not to exceed the maximum rates fixed by contract between the Board and the reporter.

(2) Changes in the official transcript may be made only when they involve errors affecting substance. Lists of proposed corrections shall be filed with the examiner together with proof of service upon other parties to the proceeding within ten days after receipt of the completed transcript by the Board. If no objections to the proposed corrections are received within ten days after proof of such service, the transcript will, upon the approval of the examiner, be changed to reflect such corrections. If exceptions are received, the proposed corrections will be submitted to the official reporter for comparison with the stenographic record of the hearing. If such record indicates that the transcript is in error, it will be corrected. If the reporter states that the transcript is correct, the request for corrections will be denied.

(c) Recommended decisions. In each proceeding heard before an examiner, other than proceedings for the determination of rates, fares or charges, or the determination of compensation for the transportation of mail, unless the Board shall by order in the particular proceeding require the entire record to be certified to it for initial decision, the examiner shall recommend a decision. The examiner will also announce, or state in his recommended decision:

(1) The names of the persons who are to receive copies of the same;

(2) The time within which exceptions are to be filed and exchanged; and

(3) The time thereafter within which supporting reasons relating to such exceptions are to be filed and exchanged, and may give other instructions relating to procedure after the hearing.

(d) Exceptions to recommended decisions and supporting reasons therefor. (1) Any party to the proceeding may take exceptions to the recommended decision. Exceptions to findings of fact shall designate, by exact and specific reference, the portions of the record which will be relied upon in support of such exceptions. Exceptions to conclusions of law shall briefly cite the statutory provisions or the principal authorities that will be relied upon in support of the exceptions to the conclusions of law.

(2) After the filing and exchange of exceptions, each party should prepare a single statement supporting its own exceptions and covering any points which it wishes to raise in connection with exceptions filed by others. Exceptions and supporting reasons therefor shall be filed with the Board and not with the Examiner.

(e) Service and form of proposed findings and conclusions, exceptions and supporting reasons, postponement of date. (1) Each set of proposed findings and conclusions, exceptions, and reasons in support thereof shall when filed, be accompanied by a proof of service thereof by mail upon all parties to the proceedings and upon such other persons designated by the examiner to receive copies of the report.

(2) Except by special permission of the Board, briefs shall not exceed fifty pages in length and reply briefs will not be received. The number of copies to be filed is governed by § 285.3 (a).

(3) After a date has been set for the submission of proposed findings or conclusions and reasons in support thereof to the examiner, or the filing of exceptions to the recommended decision and supporting reasons therefor, such date may be postponed upon proper cause shown, but any such postponement shall not be granted by the examiner less than three days prior to the date originally set for the filing thereof except in cases involving unusual circumstances imposing substantial hardship upon the requesting party or parties.

(f) Oral argument before the Board. If any person desires to argue a case orally before the Board he must request leave of the Board to make such argument. Such request should be filed with the briefs for the Board in the proceeding. The Board will advise the persons making such request as to its decision and if such argument is to be allowed all persons who have filed briefs in the proceedings will be advised of the date and hour set for such argument and the amount of time allowed to each such person.

§ 285.9 Exhibits—(a) Copies. Wherever practicable, one copy of each exhibit (in addition to the original offered in evidence at the hearing) should be furnished for the use of each examiner and two copies should be furnished to Public Counsel. One of such copies will be made available for inspection by all persons present at the hearing. One copy should also be furnished to each party and the examiner may, in his discretion, direct that any other person deemed by him to have a sufficient interest shall receive copies of designated exhibits.

(b) Excerpts from other documents. Excerpts from lengthy documents or of portions of the record in other proceedings before the Board should be offered in the form of exhibits and copies furnished as above provided. Such exhibits may be received in evidence, subject to objection and rebuttal by Public Counsel or other counsel, after opportunity to examine the exhibit in question and the source from which the same was taken.

§ 285.10 Hearings before the Board and before Boards of Examiners. Provisions of this part governing the conduct of hearings before single examiners shall also govern, with necessary changes, in cases where such hearings are held before the Board, a member thereof, or a Board of more than one examiner.

§ 285.11 Petition for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration—(a) Parties. Any party may petition for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration of any final order by the Board in a proceeding, or for further hearing before decision by the Board.

(b) Contents of petitions. (1) The matters of record claimed to have been erroneously decided must be specified, and the alleged errors, and the grounds relied upon must be briefly and specifically stated in the petition.

(2) If a final order of the Board is sought to be vacated or modified by reason of matters which have arisen since the hearing, or of a consequence which would result from a compliance therewith, or both, the new matter, the resulting consequence, or both, which are relied upon by the petitioner must each be set forth in the petition. Where the petition is based wholly or in part upon new matter, the petition must contain a statement that the petitioner, with due diligence, could not have known or discovered the new matter prior to the time of the hearing.

(3) The petition must set forth a brief statement of the relief sought by the petitioner and conform to requirements of section 285.3.

(c) Filing and service of petitions. Such petition for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration, must be filed within thirty days after service of the order sought to be vacated or modified. After the expiration of said thirty days, such a petition may be filed only by leave of the Board granted purusant to formal application upon a showing of reasonable grounds for failure to file the petition within the prescribed thirty-day period. Any such petition or application shall be served by the petitioner or applicant upon all parties to the proceeding or their attorneys of record.

(d) Stay of orders. No petition for rehearing, reargument, or reconsideration filed in accordance with this section, or the granting thereof, shall operate as a stay of the effective date of the final order sought to be modified or vacated by such petition, unless specifically so ordered by the Board.

§ 285.12 Memoranda in opposition or support. Each protest or memorandum of opposition to or in support of the issuance, alteration, amendment, modification, suspension, revocation or abandonment of a certificate of public convenience and necessity or of a foreign air carrier permit which is desired to be filed with the Board pursuant to the provisions of section 401 or 402 of the act, shall conform to the requirements of § 285.3 with respect to size, style and number of copies, shall be signed by the person filing it, and shall be acknowledged before a person authorized to administer oaths. Each such protest or memorandum shall clearly state on its face the particular proceeding in which it is desired to be filed and shall contain a concise but clear statement of the grounds of opposition or support. At the time of filing any such protest or memorandum with the Board, the person filing it shall serve a copy thereof upon each party to the particular proceeding and upon such other persons as the Board may require. No such protest or memorandum will be received as, or be considered to constitute, evidence in the particular proceeding of any fact mentioned or discussed therein. However, evidence in support of any such protest or memorandum may be presented by or on behalf of the person filing it in the manner provided in § 285.6 (a).

§ 285.13 Procedure in rate proceedings—(a) Institution of proceedings. Proceedings for the determination of rates of compensation for the transportation of mail may be commenced by the filing of a petition by an air carrier or the Postmaster General, or upon the issuance of an order by the Board. Proceedings for the determination of rates, fares, or charges for the transportation of passengers or property may be commenced by the filing of a complaint, the filing of a petition by an air carrier or upon issuance of an order by the Board.

(b) Order setting tentative rates, fares or charges. Proceedings commenced by the Board will normally be instituted by the issuance of an order directing the parties to show cause why specified rates, fares, or charges set out in such order should not be fixed and determined by the Board.

(1) In proceedings instituted upon petition or complaint, the Board, before further procedural steps are taken, will normally issue an order directing the parties to show cause why specified rates, fares, or charges set out in such order should not be fixed and determined by the Board.

(2) The rates, fares, or charges specified in any order issued pursuant to this section will represent tentative rates, fares, or charges which appear to the Board to be fair and reasonable on the basis of the carrier's monthly and annual reports and other information available to the Board. Such orders will be accompanied by and incorporate exhibits setting forth the basis upon which the tentative rates, fares, or charges have been formulated.

(3) Rules, orders and notices issued hereunder will be served upon the carrier concerned, and any other parties to the proceeding, and public notices thereof will be given. Copies of rules, orders and notices entered in proceedings for the determination of rates of compensation for the transportation of mail will be transmitted to the Postmaster General.

(c) Objection and answer to order setting tentative rates, fares, or charges. (1) After the issuance of an order of the Board pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section, any party having objections to the tentative rates, fares, or charges specified in such order or to the admissibility in evidence of the exhibits accompanying such order and information specified therein shall file with the Board, within such periods of time as may be prescribed in such order notice of the fact that such objections exist and, after such notice, a written answer setting out the objections of the party to the tentative rates, fares, or charges.

(2) Objections stated in an answer shall be specific, and the answer shall be accompanied by exhibits in support of the objections and by a statement of the effect of such objections upon the tentative rates, fares, or charges.

(d) Procedure when no answer is filed to order setting tentative rates, fares, or charges. (1) If no notice, or if after notice no answer, is filed as provided in paragraph (c) of this section within the periods of time prescribed in the order, the proceeding will be assigned for public hearing. The statutory public hearing thus assigned will be expected to require nothing more than the introduction in evidence of the exhibits provided for in paragraph (b) (2) of this section and the information specified therein.

(2) The Board, upon the close of such hearing, will adopt the tentative rates, fares, or charges specified in its order pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section as its tentative decision. If no exceptions are filed to such tentative decision within 10 days after such decision is published or made available to public inspection, such decision shall without further proceedings become the final decision of the Board.

(e) Procedure when answer is filed to order setting tentative rates, fares, or charges. (1) If an answer is filed as provided in paragraph (c) of this section a conference will be held. The conference will be attended by representatives of the Board assigned to the particular case and representatives of the parties, and will be presided over by an examiner of the Board.

(2) If a party desires to introduce evidence in the proceeding he shall file written notice with the examiner at the time of such conference. If a party desires an opportunity to file proposed findings and conclusions with supporting reasons therefor, he shall file written notice thereof with the examiner not later than the close of the hearing hereinafter provided for. If a party desires an opportunity to present oral argument to the Board prior to issuance of a tentative decision, he shall file a written request therefor with the examiner not later than the close of the hearing hereinafter provided for.

(3) The examiner, at the close of the conference, will prepare and serve upon the parties a conference report stating the issues raised by the objections of the parties with respect to the tentative rates, fares, or charges. Any party may file exceptions to such report within such time as may be prescribed by the examiner.

(4) After service of the conference report, the proceeding will be assigned for public hearing before an examiner of the Board.

(5) The exhibits provided for in paragraph (b) (2) of this section and the information specified therein, and any exhibits filed by any party in support of any objections filed pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section shall constitute evidence of record in the proceeding, subject to the right of any party to object to the admissibility of such exhibits and information. Additional evidence may be presented by the parties at such hearing only if the notice provided for in paragraph (e) (2) has been filed, and such evidence shall be limited to evidence relating to the issues as defined in the conference report issued by the examiner and exceptions filed thereto pursuant to paragraph (e) (3). A member (or members) of the Board's staff will be available at the hearing for examination by the parties on the evidence with respect to such issues.

(6) Upon the conclusion of the hearing and the filing of proposed findings and conclusions and reasons in support thereof, the examiner shall certify the entire record to the Board for a tentative decision.

(7) After certification of the record to the Board and completion of any oral argument, the Board will issue a tentative decision. Exceptions to a tentative decision and supporting reasons therefor may be filed within such time as may be prescribed in the tentative decision. Oral arguments to the Board on exceptions to tentative decisions will be permitted only in unusual and exceptional instances for good cause shown, and upon request set forth in the document containing the exceptions and supporting reasons.

(8) If no exceptions to a tentative decision are filed within the prescribed time, the tentative decision shall, without further proceedings, become the final decision of the Board. If exceptions are taken to a tentative decision and oral argument is not entertained, the proceeding will be deemed submitted to the Board for final decision upon the filing of exceptions by the parties, or upon the expiration of the prescribed time for exceptions, whichever first occurs. Proceedings in which oral argument on exceptions to the tentative decision is entertained, will be deemed submitted to the Board for final decision upon the completion of such oral argument.

§ 285.14 Informal complaints. Complaints, other than formal complaints, may be made in writing with respect to anything done or omitted to be done by any person in contravention of any provision of the act, or of any requirement established pursuant thereto. Matters so presented may, if their nature warrants, be taken up by correspondence or conference with the person or persons complained of. Any matter not disposed of informally may, in the discretion of the Board, be made the subject of a formal proceeding. The filing of an informal complaint shall not prohibit the subsequent filing of a formal complaint.

§ 285.15 Formal complaints—(a) Form and content of formal complaints. Formal complaints must conform to the requirements of this Part concerning form and filing of documents in proceedings. They should be so drawn as fully and completely to advise the persons complained against and the Board in what respect anything has been done or omitted to be done in contravention of any provision of the act or of any requirement established pursuant thereto, the facts claimed to constitute such action or omission, and the relief sought. Formal complaints filed with the Board must be accompanied by a proof of service personally or by mail upon the person or persons complained against.

(b) Satisfaction of formal complaints. If the person complained against satisfies a complaint at any time prior to final action by the Board on such complaint, a statement to that effect must be filed setting forth when and how the complaint has been satisfied. Upon receipt of satisfactory evidence of settlement, the complaint may be dismissed in the discretion of the Board. Voluntary settlements are encouraged, and in furtherance of such settlement a representative of the Board may attempt settlement by means of correspondence or conference with the parties. No statement, admission or offer of settlement made pursuant to such correspondence or conference shall be admissible in evidence over the objection of either party in any formal proceeding before the Board concerning the complaint.

(c) Complaints requesting suspension of tariffs. (1) Formal complaints seeking suspensions of tariffs pursuant to section 1002 (g) of the act shall fully identify the tariff and include reference to the name of the publishing carrier or agent, to the CAB number, and to specific items or particular provisions protested or complained against. In addition to conforming to the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, such complaint should indicate in what respect the tariff is considered to be unlawful, and state what complainant suggests by way of substitution.

(2) A complaint requesting suspension of any tariff filed under the act ordinarily will not be considered unless made in conformity with this section and filed with the Board at least ten days before the effective date of the tariff. In an emergency satisfactorily shown by complainant, and within the time limits herein provided, a telegraphic complaint may be sent to the Board and to the publishing carrier or agent stating the grounds relied upon, but such telegraphic complaint must immediately be confirmed by complaint filed and served in accordance with this section.

§ 285.16 Objection to public disclosure of information—(a) Information contained in paper to be filed. Any person who objects to the public disclosure of any information contained in any paper filed in any proceeding, or in any application, report, or other document filed pursuant to the provisions of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, or any rule, regulation, or order of the Board thereunder, shall segregate, or request the segregation of, such information into a separate paper and shall file it, or request that it be filed, with the examiner or the person conducting the hearing or proceeding, as the case may be, or with the person with whom said application, report, or document is required to be filed, separately in a sealed envelope, bearing the caption of the enclosed paper and the notation "Confidential Information." At the time of filing such paper, or, when the objection is made by a person not himself filing the paper, application, report, or other document, within five days after the filing of such paper, the objecting party shall file a motion to withhold the information from public disclosure, in accordance with the procedure outlined in paragraph (d) of this section, except as hereinafter provided in paragraph (c) of this section. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, copies of the filed paper and of the motion need not be served upon any other party unless so ordered by the Board.

(b) Information contained in oral testimony. Any person who objects to the public disclosure of any information sought to be elicited from a witness or deponent on oral examination shall, before such information is disclosed, make his objection known. Upon such objection duly made, the witness or deponent shall be compelled to disclose such information only in the presence of the examiner or the person before whom the deposition is being taken, as the case may be, the official stenographer and such attorneys for and lay representatives of each party as the examiner or person before whom the deposition is being taken, as the case may be, shall designate, and after all present have been sworn to secrecy. The transcript of testimony containing such information shall be segregated and filed in a sealed envelope, bearing the title and docket number of the proceeding, and the notation "Confidential Testimony Given by (name of witness or deponent)." Within five days after such testimony is given, the objecting person shall file a motion, except as hereinafter provided in paragraph (c) of this section, in accordance with the procedure outlined in paragraph (d) of this section, to withhold the information from public disclosure. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, copies of the segregated portion of the transcript and of the motion need not be served upon any other party unless so ordered by the Board.

(c) Objection by governmental departments or representatives thereof. In the case of objection to the public disclosure of any information filed by or elicited from any governmental department, or representative thereof, under paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section, the department, or person representing said department, making such objection shall be exempted from the provisions of paragraphs (a), (b), and (d) of this section in so far as said paragraphs require the filing of a written objection to such disclosure. However, any department, or person representing said department, if it so desires, may file a memorandum setting forth the reasons on the basis of which it is claimed that a public disclosure of the information should not be made. If such a memorandum is submitted, it shall be filed and handled as is provided by this section in the case of a motion to withhold information from public disclosure.

(d) Form of motion to withhold information from public disclosure. Subject to the exception of paragraph (c), no information covered by paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section need be withheld from public disclosure unless written objection to such disclosure is filed with the Board in accordance with the following procedure:

(1) The motion shall be headed with the title and docket number of the proceeding and shall be signed and verified by the objecting person, any duly authorized officer or agent thereof, or by counsel representing such person in the proceeding.

(2) The motion shall include (i) a description of the information sought to be withheld, sufficient for identification of the same, and (ii) a full statement of the reasons on the basis of which it is claimed that a public disclosure of the information would adversely affect the interests of the objecting person and is not required in the interest of the public, or that the information is of a secret nature affecting the national defense.

(3) Such motion shall be filed with the examiner or the person conducting the hearing or proceeding, as the case may be, or with the person with whom said application, report, or document is required to be filed.

If such motion relates to contracts, agreements, understandings, or arrangements filed pursuant to section 412 (a) of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, and § 251.1 of this chapter, or pursuant to § 251.2 of this chapter, an executed original copy and two copies of such motion shall be filed.

(e) Motion referred to the Board. The order of the Board containing its ruling upon each such motion will specify the extent to which, and the conditions upon which, the information may be disclosed to the parties and to the public, which order shall become effective upon the date stated therein, unless, within five days after the date of the entry of the Board's order with respect thereto, a petition is filed by the objecting person requesting reconsideration by the Board, or a written and verified statement is filed indicating that the objecting person in good faith intends to seek judicial review of the Board's order.

(f) Objection in proceeding before the Board. Notwithstanding any of the provisions of this section, whenever the objection to disclosure of information shall have been made, in the first instance, before the Board itself, the written motion of objection contemplated by paragraphs (a), (b), and (d) of this section shall not be necessary, but may be submitted if the parties so desire or if the Board, in a particular case, shall so direct.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board:

[SEAL] M. C. MULLIGAN,
Secretary.

[F. R. Doc. 46-15379; Filed, Aug. 28, 1946; 4:28 p. m.]

[Regulations, Serial No. 375]

At a session of the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 28th day of August 1946.

The Civil Aeronautics Board, acting pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, particularly section 205 (a) thereof, and pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, particularly sections 3 and 12 thereof, hereby approves and adopts for publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, effective September 11, 1946, the following descriptive material concerning the Board's organization, functions, procedures and substantive rules:

PART 301—ORGANIZATION, DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY, AND PUBLIC INFORMATION

Sec.
301.1 Description of organization.
301.2 Delegations of authority.
301.3 Public information.

§ 301.1 Description of organization—(a) The Board. The Civil Aeronautics Board is a five member agency appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, which provides the basis for all federal regulation of civil aviation, originally provided for the creation of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, the Administrator, and the Air Safety Board. As originally constituted, the Administrator and the Air Safety Board both were "within" the Authority, and the Authority was an independent agency separate from any other agency or department of the Government. Pursuant to Reorganization Plans Nos. III and IV of 1940, the five member Authority has been renamed the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Administrator transferred to the Department of Commerce, and the Air Safety Board abolished, with transfer of its functions to the Civil Aeronautics Board. For the purposes of "administrative housekeeping", the Board is within the framework of the Department of Commerce. The Board, however, appoints and controls its own staff, authorizes its own expenditures, determines and supports its own budget estimates, and promulgates its policies and decisions as an independent agency. The Board exercises rule making and adjudicative powers in the economic regulation of air transportation and in the safety regulation of air commerce.

Functions of the Board and the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics are closely associated with respect to federal safety regulation of civil aviation. Standards of safety and rules and regulations concerning safety in air commerce are determined and promulgated by the Board as the rule making agency. Responsibility for applying and enforcing such standards and regulations of the Board is vested in the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics as the law enforcement agent. Certain proceedings relating to enforcement of safety requirements are instituted before the Board as the adjudication agency by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics.

(b) Principal office and organization. The principal office of the Board is located in the Department of Commerce Building, Washington, D. C. The Board's staff is composed of Offices, Bureaus and various subdivisions as follows:

(1) The Office of the Secretary.
(i) Personnel Section.
(ii) Minutes Section.
(iii) Mail and Messenger Section.

(7) To rule upon the admissibility of and receive evidence;
(8) To do any and all other or further acts necessary or incident to the conduct of such proceedings and as are ordinarily entrusted to a presiding judicial officer.
(9) In all proceedings other than those for the determination of rates of compensation for the transportation of passengers or property or mail (in which proceedings tentative decisions will be made by the Board), unless the Board shall by rule or by order in the particular proceeding require the entire record to be certified to it for initial decision, to make the following decisions:

(i) The initial decision in proceedings for the suspension or revocation of airman and other safety certificates, and for the review of the Administrator's refusal to issue an airman certificate.

(ii) A recommended decision in all other proceedings.

§ 301.3 Public information—(a) Requests for information. Requests for information as to any matter falling within the jurisdiction of the Board should be made to the Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, D. C. Persons residing in Alaska may at their option make such requests to the Civil Aeronautics Board, Alaska Office, Anchorage, Alaska. Requests for information may be made in writing or in person. Offices are open from 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. Monday through Friday, inclusive, with the exception of legal holidays.

(b) Opinons, orders, and rules. All final opinions, orders and rules entered by the Board, unless held confidential or withheld from public disclosure for good cause and not cited as precedents, are available for public inspection at the Board's office in Washington, D. C. Opinions, orders and rules respecting Alaskan Air carriers may also be inspected at the Board's office in Anchorage, Alaska. Copies of opinions, orders, rules, special studies, reports and bulletins ordinarily are obtainable from the Board's Publications Section. Bound volumes of the Board's official reports which are published periodically, printed copies of Civil Air Regulations, and other printed publications of the Board may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. or through the Publications Section of the Board.

(c) Public records. Public records and documents are available for inspection at the Board's office in Washington, D. C. Documents and records pertaining to Alaskan Air Carriers may also be inspected at the Board's office in Anchorage, Alaska. The following documents and records, unless held confidential or withheld from public disclosure pursuant to sections 1001 or 1104 of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, and § 285.16 of the Economic Regulations, are available for public inspection:

(1) All documents authorized or required to be filed with the Board by the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, or any regulation, order or rule of the Board issued thereunder.

PART 302—DESCRIPTION OF FUNCTIONS: COURSE AND METHOD BY WHICH FUNCTIONS ARE CHANNELED: SCOPE AND CONTENTS OF DOCUMENTS

Sec.
302.1 Statemeent of functions.
302.2 Functions of offices and bureaus.
302.3 General statement of channels.
302.4 Channeling of certain routine functions.
302.5 Channeling of complaints.
302.6 Public rule making procedure; channeling of proposed substantive rules and regulations and amendments.
302.7 Channeling of formal proceedings.
302.8 Scope and content of documents.

§ 302.1 Statement of functions—(a) Economic regulation. The Board exercises economic regulatory jurisdiction over air carriers and air transportation. The most important functions of the Board incident to economic regulation include or involve:

(1) The granting or denying of certificates of public convenience and necessity or permits to engage in interstate, overseas or foreign air transportation; and the alteration, amendment, modification, suspension, revocation, or transfer of such certificates or permits;

(2) The furnishing by air carriers of reasonable and adequate service to the public;

(3) The prescription or approval of rates and practices of air carriers, and the prevention of discriminations, preferences, or prejudices;

(4) The fixing of the rate of compensation for the carriage of mail by aircraft;

(5) The prescription of accounts, and records and memoranda to be kept by air carriers, and inspection of property, accounts, records, and memoranda of air carriers;

(6) The prescription of reports required from air carriers.

(7) The approval or disapproval of contracts and agreements between air carriers, or between air carriers, foeign air carriers or other carriers, affecting air transportation;

(8) The appoval or disapproval of interlocking relationships affecting air carriers;

(9) The approval or disapproval of consolidations, mergers, purchases, leases, operating contracts, or acquisitions of control affecting air carriers;

(10) The prevention of unfair or deceptive practices or unfair methods of competition or discrimination in air transportation;

(11) The approval or disapproval of applications for loans or financial aid to air carriers from the United States or any agency thereof;

(12) The classification of air carriers for the purpose of economic regulation according to the nature of the services performed;

(13) The entering of orders exempting air carriers from the requirements of the Act in appropriate cases; and

(14) The investigation upon complaint or upon the Board's own initiative of anything done or omitted to be done by any person in contravention of any provision of the Civil Aeronautics Act, or any requirement established pursuant thereto, and the taking of appropriate action to enforce the Act or requirements established pursuant thereto.

(b) Safety regulation. Safety regulations prescribed by the Board, other than those relating exclusively to air carriers, apply to all flight in or affecting air commerce and are thus held to apply to all ments filed pursuant to section 412 (a) of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as suant to Reorganization Plans Nos. III and IV of 1940, the five member Aureau is maintained at Anchorage, Alaska.

aircraft and airmen operating anywhere within the United States, its territories and possessions. The most important functions of the Board incident to safety regulation include or involve:

(1) The prescription and revision of safety standards, rules and regulations as authorized by section 601 of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended;

(2) The prescription and revision of standards governing the issuance by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics of airman certificates, aircraft certificates, air carrier operating certificates, and other safety certificates authorized pursuant to Title VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended; and the revocation or suspension of such certificates;

(3) The review, upon petition, of the refusal by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics to issue airman certificates;

(4) The investigation of aircraft accidents; and

(5) The granting of exemptions or waivers of rules and regulations in proper cases.

§ 302.2 Functions of offices and bureaus—(a) The Office of the Secretary. The Secretary to the Board is directly responsible to the Board for the performance of all duties assigned to his office. Most of such duties pertain to administrative, budget and procedural functions and other matters relating solely to internal management. Those functions of the various sections in the Office of the Secretary which directly concern the public are as follows:

(1) The Personnel Section. The Personnel Section receives and processes applications for employment and secures certificates of eligibles from the Civil Service Commission and accomplishes the selection and appointment of qualified persons in accordance with the Civil Service rules and practices.

(2) The Publications Section. The Publications Section arranges for the printing or reproduction by other means of all publications of the Board, arranges for the distribution of such publications through the medium of established mailing lists and in response to specific requests, and maintains permanent supplies of all publications of the Board.

(3 The Public Information Section. The Public Information Section handles inquiries from the press and the public regarding the Board's activities, prepares and distributes press releases concerning the Board's activities, and maintains contact with and obtains requested information for the press, the public, and other agencies of the Government and arranges for interviews by the press with Members of the Board and its staff.

(4) The Minutes Section. The Minutes Section compiles agenda of matters presented to the Board for action and processes the formal documents evidencing such action, prepares and maintains the official minutes of the meetings of the Board, and provides upon request certified copies of documents reflecting action of the Board.

(b) The Office of the General Counsel. The General Counsel provides legal counsel for the Board and is directly responsible for the Board for the performance of all duties assigned to his office. Functions of the General Counsel's staff which directly concern the public area as follows:

(1) Public Counsel. An attorney from the Office of the General Counsel is designated as Public Counsel or Enforcement Attorney, which ever is appropriate, to present the Government's case in all formal proceedings before the Board arising under Title IV and section 1002 of the Civil Aeronautics Act. In the course of such proceedings the attorney so designated performs the following duties:

(i) Participates in the prehearing conference and hearing for the purpose of assisting in the defining of the issues in the case, assisting in the working out of other preliminary steps, and developing an adequate record through the introduction of evidence and the cross examination of witnesses;

(ii) After the close of the hearing and until the final decision is entered by the Board, Public Counsel and Enforcement Attorneys occupy a position similar to that of counsel for any party to the proceeding for the purpose of filing proposed findings and conclusions or exceptions to the recommended or tentative decision and briefs and oral argument in support thereof; except that in proceedings under sections 401 and 402 of the act for the issuance or amendment of certificates of public convenience and necessity and permits involving new services, Public Counsel's participation after the close of the hearing, unless otherwise ordered by the General Counsel and upon notice to other parties of such order, is limited to exceptions to the recommended decision and briefs and oral argument in support thereof concerning those matters which are of a character of which a reviewing court would take cognizance on an appeal from such recommended decision, if such decision were the final decision of the Board. The positions taken by Public Counsel and Enforcement Attorneys prior to final decisions by the Board do not necessarily reflect the views of the Board;

(iii) Following the submission of cases involving applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity or for foreign air carrier permits to the Board for decision, Public Counsel assists the Office of Trial Examiners in drafting opinions pursuant to instructions from the Board, and reviews and comments on draft opinions as they are circulated to the Board from the point of view of their adequacy in the event of judicial review, and prepares and submits for the General Counsel's signature a memorandum to the Board certifying to the legal adequacy of the Board's final opinion.

(2) The Finance Legal Division. The Finance Legal Division under the direction of an Assistant General Counsel, is concerned with finance and carrier relationships problems in connection with the economic regulation of air transportation (problems incident to passenger, cargo and mail rates; consolidations, mergers, and acquisition of control, interlocking relationships, contracts affecting air transportation; and related matters) and performs the following duties:

(i) Advises and makes recommendations to the Board and its staff respecting the legal effect of proposed or recommended action;

(ii) Drafts or reviews drafts of orders and regulations;

(iii) Provides Public Counsel in formal proceedings;

(iv) Reviews and participates in disposition of complaints; and

(v) Interprets regulations and requirements and answers correspondence involving legal questions.

(3) The Operations Legal Division. The Operators Legal Division under the direction of an Assistant General Counsel, performs the following duties in connection with the economic regulation of air transportation with respect to routes, services and practices of air carriers:

(i) Advises and makes recommendations to the Board and its staff respecting the legal effect of proposed or recommended action;

(ii) Drafts or reviews drafts of orders and regulations;

(iii) Provides Public Counsel for formal proceedings, and provides attorneys to present the Government's case, in all enforcement cases involving the Board's economic regulatory powers and jurisdiction, and to represent the Board in all litigated cases including cases involving finance matters;

(iv) Reviews and participates in the disposition of formal complaints;

(v) Interprets regulations and requirements and answers correspondence involving legal questions; and

(vi) Reviews and analyses pending and proposed legislative matters and advises the Board thereon.

(4) The Safety Legal Division. The Safety Legal Division under the direction of an Assistant General Counsel, performs the following duties with respect to safety regulation:

(i) Advises and makes recommendations to the Board and its staff respecting the legal effect of proposed or recommended action;

(ii) Drafts or reviews drafts of orders and regulations;

(iii) Provides Trial Examiners for all formal proceedings involving safety matters other than aircraft accident investigations (The Office of the General Counsel does not perform any investigative or prosecuting functions with respect to safety matters. Such functions are performed by the Office of the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics or the Safety Bureau of the Board. Examiners in safety proceedings make initial decisions without aid or assistance from any persons engaged in investigative or prosecuting functions. Such examiners are designated by the General Counsel or Assistant General Counsel, Safety, from persons holding credentials as a Safety Examiner signed by the Secretary of the Board);

(iv) Drafts or reviews drafts of formal opinions and orders involving safety matters; and

(v) Interprets safety requirements and answers correspondence involving legal questions concerning safety matters.

(c) The Economic Bureau. The Economic Bureau collects and analyzes data, takes certain actions, and makes recommendations to the Board with respect to the economic regulation of air transportation and supervises the Alaska Office. The Director of the Economic Bureau is directly responsible to the Board for the performance of all duties assigned to the Economic Bureau, functions of the various divisions of which are as follows:

(1) The Accounting and Rates Division. The Accounting and Rates Division has responsibility for the initiation and administration of the Board's program of financial, accounting and rate regulation. Its principal duties are:

(i) The administration of, and recommending changes in, the Uniform System of Accounts and the Uniform Systems of Periodic Reports of Financial and Operating Statistics; the issuance of letters of interpretation of such systems; and the performance of audits of accounts of certificated air carriers;

(ii) The receipt and analysis of Periodic Reports of Financial and Operating Statistics, and the preparation of recurrent statistical reports based upon such reports;

(iii) The constant review of the financial operations of all certificated air carriers; the recommending to the Board of initiation of mail rate fixing proceedings; the preparation of financial and statistical analyses for introduction into evidence in rate fixing proceedings and providing expert witnesses to appear in such proceedings; and the drafting of statements of tentative findings and conclusions and opinions in rate cases pursuant to instructions by the Board.

(2) The Analyses Division. The Analyses Division prepares analyses of economic problems in air transportation currently requiring Board action and makes recommendations thereon; prepares exhibits for introduction into the record in formal proceedings before the Board and supplies expert witnesses to testify concerning such exhibits; analyzes exhibits prepared by parties in formal proceedings; and prepares as directed comprehensive economic and statistical surveys and studies related to the development and regulation of air transportation.

(3) The Foreign Air Transport Division. The Foreign Air Transport Division obtains, correlates and analyzes comprehensive information on flight equipment, operating and traffic statistics, and financial and economic data in connection with all foreign airlines. Such information is used as a basis for studies required by the Board in connection with the granting of foreign air carrier permits. The Division also assists the Board in supplying information for use in consultations with the Secretary of State concerning the negotiation of agreements with foreign governments for the establishment or development of air navigation, including air routes and services.

(4) The Operations Division. The Operations Division receives, investigates, analyzes, reports and makes recommendations with reference to the following reports or documents required or authorized to be filed with the Board, and conducts informal compliance investigations with respect to related matters:

(i) Contracts affecting air transportation;

(ii) Requests for approval of interlocking relationships;

(iii) Reports of ownership of stock and other interests;

(iv) Reports of affiliates of air carriers;

(v) Agreements between air carriers and foreign governments;

(vi) Agreements submitted to the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organization under the provisions of the Interim Agreement on Interntaional Civil Aviation;

(vii) Reports required from non-certificated air carriers; and (viii) Complaints arising under Title IV of the Civil Aeronautics Act.

(5) The Tariffs and Service Division. The Tariffs and Service Division has responsibility for matters relating to tariffs and the services performed by certificated air carriers. Its principal duties are:

(i) To review all tariffs filed with the Board for conformity to the requirements of the Civil Aeronautics Act and requirements established pursuant thereto, and to make recommendations concerning such tariffs;

(ii) To receive and make recommendations concerning applications by air carriers for special permission to make changes in tariffs upon less than statutory notice;

(iii) To analyze the schedules and other service records of air carriers to determine the conformity of the carriers' service pattern with the certificates or other service authorizations of the Board, and to make recommendations concerning such matters;

(iv) To receive and make recommendations concerning notices and applications of air carriers respecting airport notices, nonstop notices, suspension of service, and exemption orders respecting service;

(v) To investigate through correspondence with the parties complaints concerning rates, fares, charges, transportation practices and service deficiencies and to effect disposition or settlement of such complaints;

(vi) To maintain the official airport-to-airport mileage record; and

(vii) To maintain a file of currently effective and proposed tariffs for public inspection.

(d) The Safety Bureau. The Safety Bureau collects and analyzes data, takes certain actions and makes recommendations to the Board with respect to the safety regulation of aircraft and aircraft operation. The Director of the Safety Bureau is directly responsible to the Board for the performance of all duties assigned to the State Bureau, functions of the various divisions of which are as follows:

(1) The Safety Rules Division. The Safety Rules Division conducts technical studies and coordinates proposed changes, or deductions concerning the Civil Air Regulations. Such proposals may originate within the Safety Bureau as a result of observation or through air-craft accident investigations or may result from recommendations submitted to the Board by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics or from recommendations or requests from the aviation industry or the public.

(2) The Accident Investigation Division. The Accident Investigation Division is charged with the investigation of accidents involving aircraft, preparation of reports for Board approval concerning such accidents, the holding of public or private hearings in order to ascertain the facts, conditions, circumstances and probable causes of such accidents, and the making of recommendations to the Board for action to prevent recurrence of similar accidents and to insure and promote safety of aircraft and aircraft operation.

(3) The Accident Analysis Division. The Accident Analysis Division receives and analyzes all reports of accidents involving aircraft; compiles statistical and analytical reports for the information of the Board and the public; and edits and issues safety bulletins and accident reports.

(e) The Office of the Trial Examiners. The Chief Examiner is directly responsible to the Board for the conduct and disposition of all formal proceedings before the Board arising under Title IV and section 1002 of the Civil Aeronautics Act. The following activities within the Office of Trial Examiners are performed under the administrative supervision and direction of the Chief Examiner:

(1) The Examiners. The Examiners preside at prehearing conferences and hearings in all formal proceedings. All matters concerning the conduct of a hearing and motions and requests arising in connection with any proceeding are referred to the Examiner assigned to such proceeding. Such Examiner acts upon such matters as may be disposed of by him and prepares recommendations to the Chief Examiner or the Board respecting disposition of such matters as require action by the Chief Examiner or the Board. Recommended decisions are made by the Examiners in all proceedings other than those for the fixing of passenger, cargo and mail rates. The final decision is also drafted by the Examiner pursuant to instructions from the Board.

(2) The Docket Section. The Docket Section receives, dockets and maintains all documents in normal proceedings before the Board; makes official service of notices, orders, rules, reports and decisions upon all interested persons; and issues periodic statements and reports respecting the status of all formal proceedings.

(3) The Editorial Unit. The Editorial Unit edits reports, decisions and opinions and prepares the same for printings, and prepares the index digest for the bound volumes of the Board's official reports.

(f) The Alaska Office. The Director of the Alaska Office is under the general supervision of the Director of the Economic Bureau for the performance of all duties assigned to his office. Such duties include the receipt and investigation of all matters pertaining to the regulation of air transportation in Alaska, the conduct of proceedings incident thereto, and the forwarding of recommendations and reports to the Economic Bureau of the Board respecting such transportation, the audit and inspection of records, memoranda, accounts, and property of air carriers; and otherwise serving as the Board's representative in Alaska.

§ 302.3 General statement of channels. Action initiated pursuant to the Board's own initiative or by any document authorized or required to be filed with the Board originates in or is referred to the office or division of the Board having jurisdiction over the subject matter involved. In all cases other than those in which preliminary action is taken pursuant to specific procedures hereinafter set forth, or specified in the regulations of the Board governing the particular subject, the appropriate office or division prepares a memorandum to the Board setting forth its recommendations for action. If the recommendation involves any legal question or the issuance of an order or regulation, it is referred to the appropriate section of the General Counsel's office before submission to the Board. Final action is determined by the Board.

§ 302.4 Channeling of certain routine functions—(a) Preliminary action and ratification. Certain definite procedures have been evolved by the Board for the disposition of routine matters. In all instances hereinafter set forth in which preliminary action is taken by subordinates, such action is submitted to the Board for ratification. The Board's action thereon is reflected in the official record indicating every vote and official act of the Board.

(b) Procedural matters incident to formal proceedings. The Chief Examiner, with the concurrence of the Assistant General Counsel having jurisdiction over the subject matter of the proceeding, is authorized to take the following preliminary action on behalf of the Board:

(1) Grant intervention in formal proceedings;

(2) Deny intervention in formal proceedings with respect to cities or Chambers of Commerce representing cities which are off-line points;

(3) Dismiss applications when such dismissal is requested by the applicant or where the applicant has failed to prosecute such application; and

(4) Consolidate applications under sections 401 (b) and 401 (h) of the Act into one proceeding for purposes of hearing and decision. Formal motions by parties requesting consolidation together with the Chief Examiner's recommendations thereon are submitted to the Board for action.

(c) Requests and submissions from air carriers. The Director of the Economic Bureau, with the concurrence of the Assistant General Counsel having jurisdiction over the subject matter involved, is authorized to take the following preliminary action on behalf of the Board:

(1) To approve all Airport Notices from holders of certificates indicating an intention to serve regularly a point through any airport not then regularly used by such holder, including the granting or denying of requests for an effective date earlier than thirty days subsequent to filing such notice, provided that the granting or permission to use a new airport does not, in the opinion of the Director of the Economic Bureau, involve a new and substantial question of policy;

(2) To approve Non-Stop Notices from holders of certificates indicating an intention to inaugurate a scheduled nonstop service between any two points not consecutively named in the certificate, including the granting or denying of requests for an effective date earlier than twenty days subsequent to the filing of such notice, provided that the granting of non-stop service does not, in the opinion of the Director of the Economic Bureau, involve a substantial deviation from the shortest course between such points as determined by the route described in the certificate, or involve a schedule designated for the transportation of mail and the inauguration of such service on such date would be prohibited pursuant to the provisions of section 405 (e) of the Act; or involve a new and substantial question of policy; or might be adverse to the public interest;

(3) To approve revocation or modification of suspension of service orders in cases in which the carrier concerned requests such revocation or modification, provided that the revocation or modification of such suspension of service order does not, in the opinion of the Director of the Economic Bureau, involve a new and substantial question of policy; and

(4) To approve contracts and agreements, and modifications and cancellations thereof, filed under section 412 of the act, relating exclusively to the following enumerated services and facilities: (i) air conditioning, (ii) oxygen bottles (iii) cleaning machines, (iv) radio site space, (v) office space, (vi) field post offices, (vii) porter, janitor, and guard services, (viii) flight quarters and lounge space, (ix) storage space for cargo, gasoline, or parts, (x) electric power and light, and (xi) other joint facility arrangements involving similar routine matters.

(d) Requests for extensions of time for filing documents and waivers of contents. (1) The Chief Examiner may extend the time for filing notices of objection and answers to show cause orders and responsive pleadings upon proper cause shown but any postponement will not be granted less than three days prior to the date originally set for the filing thereof except in cases involving unusual circumstances imposing substantial hardship upon the requesting party or parties.

(2) Individual requests for extensions of time for filing reports or for waiver of the form or content of such reports to conform to the particular operation of the individual requesting such waiver, are referred to the Director of the Economic Bureau or the Director of the Alaska Office, as the case may be, who, upon good cause shown, may grant or deny such request.

§ 302.5 Channeling of complaints—(a) Informal complaints. Informal complaints are referred to the Economic Bureau for preliminary investigation and handling by the division concerned with the subject matter of the complaint. If the preliminary investigation indicates the need for formal Board action, appropriate recommendation is made to the Board through the General Counsel.

(b) Formal complaints. Formal complaints are referred to the General Counsel and assigned to attorneys of the Enforcement and Litigation Section who have legal supervision of or participate in any necessary investigations or negotiations looking toward satisfaction of the complaint, and prepare and present the Government's case in formal proceedings resulting from the filing of such complaints. Dismissals of formal complaints without hearing require order or ratification by the Board upon recommendation of the General Counsel.

§ 302.6 Public rule making procedure; channeling of proposed substantive rules and regulations and amendments—(a) Notice. Except where the Board for good cause finds that such action is impractical, unnecessary, or contrary to public interest, notice concerning the proposed issuance, amendment, or alteration of Economic Regulations or Civil Air Regulations will be circulated to directly interested persons and to trade associations and published in the Federal Register. Proposed changes in regulations may result from petitions, requests or suggestions submitted to the Board by interested persons or may be initiated by the Board.

(1) The Director of the Safety Bureau is authorized to publish notice of proposed changes in the Civil Air Regulations, provided that such notice shall indicate clearly that the proposed changes are those of the Safety Bureau and have not been approved by the Board.

(2) The Director of the Alaska Office is authorized to publish notice of proposed changes in the Economic Regulations affecting Alaskan Air Carriers, providing that such notice shall indicate clearly that the proposed changes are those of the Alaska Office and have not been approved by the Board.

(b) Contents of notice. Such notice shall include reference to the statutory authority under which the regulation is proposed and its purpose, a draft of the proposed regulation or a description of the subject and issues involved, and a statement of the time within which written data, views or arguments respecting such regulation shall be submitted to the Board.

(c) Procedures. After expiration of the time fixed for submission of data, the Board after consideration of all relevant matter presented, will act upon the proposed regulation. Public hearing or oral argument ordinarily will not be held, but the Board may in proper cases authorize such hearing or argument.

§ 302.7 Channelling of formal proceedings—(a) Functions involving Presidential powers. The issuance, denial, transfer, amendment, cancellation, suspension, or revocation of, and the terms, conditions, and limitations contained in any certificate authorizing an air carrier to engage in overseas or foreign air transportation, or air transportation between places in the same territory or possession, or any permit issuable to any foreign air carrier to engage in foreign air transportation, are subject to the approval of the President. Copies of all applications in respect of such certificates and permits are transmitted to the President prior to hearing thereon, and all decisions thereon by the Board are submitted to the President before publication thereof.

(b) Formal economic proceedings. (1) Any document, application, petition, or complaint seeking to institute a formal proceeding is referred to the Docket Section. Such document is examined for compliance with currently effective requirements governing the form and filing of documents and if conforming thereto, is accepted for filing and assigned a docket number. The person filing is advised by letter of the docket number assigned. Matters which do not require a hearing under the Act are generally referred to the appropriate Office or Division for consideration and written recommendation to the Board. A hearing may be ordered concerning matters not otherwise requiring a hearing but involving special circumstances or new questions of law or policy.

(2) On matters requiring formal hearing, the Chief Examiner or the Director of the Alaska Office, as the case may be, designates a trial examiner to conduct the hearing and issues a notice of a prehearing conference to the party or parties concerned when that docket is reached on the calendar. In proceedings upon applications by air carriers for new routes, it is customary to assign all pending applications for a similar service in the same general area for conference at one time.

(3) The prehearing conference is conducted by the trial examiner. At the conference, applicants and other interested parties state their attitude toward consolidation of the various applications for purposes of hearing and decision, the time and place of hearing and other procedural matters, and indicate the number of witnesses and kind of evidence to be presented. The examiner in charge discusses the procedure to be followed and records the position of each party. It is the purpose of this conference to consider all problems of a procedural nature, arrive at agreed statements of facts, define the issues, and do everything possible to expedite the formal hearing and final disposition of the case.

(4) Following the conference a report is prepared by the examiner and forwarded to all parties setting forth a record of the results of the conference and any rulings which may be necessary on questions arising in connection with the case. The parties may file exceptions with the examiner to point out any disagreement with statements contained in the report. The examiner may supplement his report to revise or clarify statements to which exception is so taken which materially affect the position of any party.

(5) If consolidation of certain applications for hearing and decision was agreed to at the conference, the examiner will recommend an appropriate consolidation order. The Board's subsequent order or notice of hearing, together with the prehearing conference report, will establish the scope of the proceeding.

(6) Hearings are held in accordance with the currently effective rules of practice, set forth in Part 285 of this chapter, and are presided over by a trial examiner.

(7) After the close of hearing, proposed findings and conclusions and reasons in support thereof may be filed with the examiner. The examiner prepares a recommended decision in all cases other than proceedings for the determination of passenger, property or mail rates and other cases in which the Board requires that the entire record be certified to it for initial decision. The parties are afforded an opportunity to file with the Board exceptions to the recommended or initial decision and reasons in support thereof. Oral argument may be granted upon request in the discretion of the Board. In due course the Board renders its decision which is served on all parties in the case.

(c) Suspension and revocation of safety certificates. (1) Proceedings for the suspension or revocation of airmen, aircraft and other safety certificates follow the procedure and requirements of Part 97 of this chapter, known as the rules of practice governing suspension and revocation proceedings. A proceeding is instituted by complaint filed with the Board by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics or by a show cause order issued by the Board.

(2) A copy of the complaint or show cause order is served upon the respondent by registered mail. A letter explaining the procedure followed and respondent's rights, a copy of the rules of practice (Part 97, CAR), a return addressed envelope, and a statement concerning whether a hearing is requested, accompany the complaint. The respondent is requested to indicate whether he desires or will waive a formal hearing.

(3) A trial examiner is designated by the Assistant General Counsel, Safety.

(4) If formal hearing is waived, the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics submits documentary evidence in support of the complaint, and the respondent, if he so desires, may submit documentary evidence in defense. Such evidence is considered by the trial examiner who enters the initial decision in the proceeding. If no exceptions or motion to review are filed, such initial decision becomes the final decision of the Board. If exceptions are filed, the procedure followed is identical to that of a formal hearing case in which exceptions to the initial decision have been filed, as hereinafter described in subparagraph (8) of this paragraph.

(5) If the respondent desires a formal hearing, every effort is made to hold such hearing within ninety days of receipt of the request and such hearings are usually held not further than forty miles from respondent's residence. Respondent may be represented by counsel if he desires. An attorney from the Administrator's Office appears for the purpose of prosecuting the complaint or supporting the show cause order of the Board.

(6) Proceedings of this nature have been held to be civil in character, and the general rules of evidence applicable to civil proceedings are followed. The attorney prosecuting the complaint is required to prove the allegations in such complaint by fair preponderance of the evidence. The issues are predetermined by the complaint and answer.

(7) After hearing, the parties are afforded an opportunity to file proposed findings and conclusions and reasons in support thereof. The trial examiner then makes the initial decision. With the consent of the parties, the examiner may announce his findings of fact and make the initial decision at the close of the hearing. In either event, if no exceptions are filed to the initial decision, such decision becomes the final decision of the Board, unless the Board, on its own motion, within the time allowed for filing exceptions, should determine to review such initial decision.

(8) Exceptions and reasons in support thereof may be made to the initial decision. Oral argument may be granted upon request in the discretion of the Board. In due course the Board renders its final decision which is served on all parties in the case.

(d) Hearings concerning accidents involving aircraft. When, in the opinion of the Director of the Safety Bureau, a a hearing is necessary in order to fully ascertain the facts, conditions, circumstances, and the probable cause of an accident involving aircraft, the Director of the Safety Bureau, on behalf of the Board, orders a hearing and designates a Presiding Officer to conduct such hearings. Such hearings do not involve adjudication of essential rights of persons but are in the nature of technical fact finding investigations conducted in a formal manner, with authority to issue subpoenas, administer oaths, and receive and record evidence.

(e) Settlement procedures—(1) Economic proceedings. Proceedings involving the granting or denying of certificates of public convenience and necessity or permits to engage in air transportation, or the alteration, amendment, modification, suspension, revocation, or transfer of such certificates are not susceptible of settlement or compromise. In proceedings instituted upon complaint, every effort is made to effect satisfaction of the complaint through negotiations with the parties before conducting a formal hearing. If the complaint is satisfied and the action complained against does not represent an unlawful practice or method of doing business affecting the using public, such complaint will ordinarily be dismissed. In all proceedings involving enforcement of the act, whether instituted by complaint or upon the Board's own motion, the only settlement or compromise ordinarily acceptable is a stipulation to cease and desist from the unlawful practice involved. Such stipulations will not be accepted where the Board is of the opinion that such procedure will not be effective in preventing similar unlawful acts or practices on the part of others, or where in its opinion, action should be instituted under the penalty provisions of the act.

(2) Safety proceedings. Proceedings for the revocation or suspension of safety certificates are ordinarily instituted by complaint filed by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics. The Administrator may also effect a compromise of the civil penalty prescribed by section 901 of the act. The Board will take into consideration any such compromise in connection with any related proceeding for suspension or revocation of a safety certificate.

§ 302.8 Scope and content of documents. All forms and instructions as to the scope and contents of all papers, reports, or other documents required or authorized by the Board to be filed or maintained, pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act or any rule, regulation, or order of the Board, are contained in the Board's civil air regulations and economic regulations. If the form of any document required to be filed is not prescribed, such document should set forth the matter specified in letter form. If the form of any document authorized to be filed is not prescribed, such document should conform to the currently effective provisions of the rules of practice governing general requirements as to papers in proceedings and form and filing of documents.

PART 303—SUBSTANTIVE RULES

Sec.
303.1 Civil air regulations.
303.2 Economic regulations.

§ 303.1 Civil air regulations. Substantive rules, adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board as authorized by law, relating to the Board's safety regulatory jurisdiction and including statements of general policy and interpretations and rules of practice are separately stated and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for inclusion in Title 14, Code of Federal Regulations, Chapter I, Parts 01 et sequitur.

§ 303.2 Economic regulations. Substantive rules, adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board as authorized by law, relating to the Board's economic regulatory jurisdiction and including statements of general policy and interpretations and rules of practice are separately stated and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for inclusion in 14 CFR, Parts 201 et seq.

THE COMMISSION AND STAFF ACTIVITIES

§ 60.1 The Commission. (a) The Commission is composed of three Commissioners appointed by the President, by and with the consent of the Senate, and removable by him. One member is designated by the President to be President of the Commission. The Commissioners, not more than two of whom may be adherents of the same political party, make final decisions on matters of policy, organization and administration within the Commission. They also serve, through the Liaison Officer for Personnel Management, as advisers to the President in personnel matters.

(b) The Commissioners in some cases act as a quasi-judicial body in reviewing and making final determinations on appeals of individuals and agencies from decisions made by officials of the Commission, and from certain decisions by officials of other agencies.

§ 60.2 Executive Director and Chief Examiner. The Executive Director and Chief Examiner is the chief technical and administrative official of the Commission. He has authority to take final action on matters covered by established policy and regulations. On other matters on which the Commissioners themselves make the final determination he reviews the recommendations prepared by the various divisions of the Commission and submits advisory opinions and recommendations. He represents the Commission in conferences and negotiations with representatives of other Government agencies, interpreting the regulations and policies of the Commission to officials and advising them in personnel policies and major personnel problems.

§ 60.3 Executive Assistant to the Commissioners. The Executive Assistant to the Commissioners presents to the Commission for action cases handled in the divisions; advises Members of Congress, Government officials and others on civil-service matters; performs special assignments at the direction of the Commission, and handles other administrative functions.

§ 60.4 Chief, Field Operations. The Chief, Feld Operations, supervises the operations and procedures of the Commission's regional offices and coordinates their work with the divisions of the central office.

§ 60.5 Chief Law Officer. The Chief Law Officer advises the Commission, the Executive Director and Chief Examiner and division chiefs on legal questions pertinent to Commission policies and operations. He is responsible for the enforcement of the statutes and civil service rules relating to political activity of Federal and State employees including investigation of complaints and for drafting or reviewing drafts of legislation, Executive orders and regulations. He adjudicates appeals of veteran preference eligibles that are filed under the Veterans Preference Act of 1944.

§ 60.6 Information Division. The Information Division furnishes to newspapers and magazines information regarding the Commission and the Federal civil service; prepares articles on these subjects for encyclopedias and other reference books; reviews manuscripts on these subjects which are submitted by publishing concerns or by individual writers; prepares informational booklets; prepares radio scripts and other public-address material; answers oral and written inquiries from the public regarding (a) the general activities of the Commission and (b) opportunities for employment in the Federal service; compiles the "Official Register of the United States".

§ 60.7 Veterans Service Section. The Veterans Service Section serves at the Commission's staff unit concerning policies and procedures with respect to the employment and reemployment of veterans; preferences granted veterans in Federal employment; legislation affecting the employment of veterans in the Federal service; and the maintenance of good public relations with veterans, veterans organizations, government agencies, legislative bodies and the public generally. Information may be obtained from and requests and submittals may be made to the Central Office in Washington or any one of its fourteen regional offices. These matters may be presented in any general written form.

§ 60.8 Board of Appeals and Review. (a) The Board of Appeals and Review of the Central Office of the Commission was created by official action of the Commission November 26, 1930. The Board has four members, one of whom, designated the Chairman, is the chief administrative officer of the Board. Only three members act on any one case. The Board has jurisdiction to entertain appeals on any matter adversely affecting eligibility, rights and/or interests arising under any law (except cases arising under sec. 12 (a) of the Hatch Act, Act of August 2, 1939, as amended July 19, 1940, 53 Stat. 1147, 54 Stat. 767, 18 U. S. C. 61 e), rule or regulation administered by the Commission, Provided, That the matter previously has been finally acted upon and decided at the highest reviewing level in the division or office (departmental or field) having original jurisdiction. The Board, however, has jurisdiction to entertain appeals from the initial adverse action in ratings in postmaster examinations, adverse decisions on actual residence in postmaster and rural carrier examinations, findings by the Fourth Regional Branch Office in Washington, D. C., of unsuitability for Federal employment, adverse decisions on claims for benefits under the several retirement acts administered by the Commission, and appeals involving alleged discrimination because of race, creed, color or national origin.

(b) In those cases where the adverse action on appeal was taken by the Executive Director and Chief Examiner or by the Commissioners, and in appeals from the findings and recommendations of the Chief Law Office or a regional director in cases arising under section 14 of the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944, the Board processes, analyzes, and submits the case with its recommendation to the Commissioners who make the final decision on the appeal.

(c) Laws, rules, regulations, matters of Commission policy, examination specifications, standards of rating, and standards of classification are not subject to appeal.

(d) Appeals are not required to be in any particular form and should be directed to the Chairman, Board of Appeals and Review, U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

OPERATING ACTIVITIES

§ 60.9 Examining and Personnel Utilization Division—(a) Organization. Responsibility for the functions connected with recruitment, examining and certification for positions in the departmental service in Washington, D. C., and for certain field positions, when public announcement to that effect is made, is vested in the Chief of the Examining and Personnel Utilization Division and his staff. The Chief of the Division is also responsible for recommending to the Commission necessary changes in policies and practices regarding recruitment, examining and certification.

The operating sections of the divisions with their responsibilities and functions are as follows:

(1) The Clerical Placement and Services Section. This section prepares and distributes publicity for examination announcements on a nation-wide basis, receives and reviews applications for such examinations (except those announced on behalf of Regional Offices or Boards of U. S. Civil Service Examiners in the field), rates machine-scored examinations, prepares and maintains lists of eligibles for all positions in the departmental service in Washington, D. C. (except those handled by Committees of Expert Examiners), issues certificates of eligibles therefrom and audits the agencies' selections from such certificates. It maintains an information center for public inquiries regarding civil service examinations and answers other questions regarding Federal employment. In addition the section arranges for examinations for admission to the United States Military and Naval Academies, when requested, as a courtesy to Members of Congress to aid them in making selections for appointments thereto and administers examinations for the foreign service of the State Department.

This section and the other sections of the division are subdivided into examining units which deal specifically with particular types of examinations. The responsibilities of examining units are as follows:

(i) Surveys agencies for anticipated needs for employees in the occupational fields with which the unit is concerned.

(ii) Plans recruiting programs in advance of needs.

(iii) Prepares standards for examinations for all positions in its field in the Federal service and non-competitive standards for transfer, promotion and reinstatement and for positions under Schedule A and B where necessary. (Schedule A is a list of positions to which departments and agencies may make appointments without competitive examinations; Schedule B is a list of positions to which departments and agencies may make appointments as a result of non-competitive examination.)

(iv) Passes on qualifications for Schedule A and B appointments in its occupational fields if necessary and advises for qualifications for transfer, promotion and reinstatement.

(v) Cooperates with the Commissioners of the District of Columbia in observing the agreement regarding filling of positions in the District of Columbia Government.

(vi) Determines qualifications necessary to fill positions for which no register is appropriate and prepares a certificate of eligibles for such positions.

(vii) Acts or recommends action on agency objections or passing over of veterans, based on qualifications.

(2) The Physical Science Placement Section. This section comprises the examining units having responsibilities similar to those set forth above, with respect to positions in the engineering and allied fields, the physics, chemistry and related occupational areas and in the industrial and skilled trades. The Postal Examining Unit of this section performs all the functions of the examination program from the announcement of the examination to the audit of certificate.

(3) The Social Science and Personnel Management Section. This section comprises the examination units having responsibilities with respect to positions in the fields of social services, economics, accounting and allied occupations and the various phases of administrative management. The section also maintains a Personnel Management Advisory Service for the benefit of the agencies.

(b) Delegations of authority—(1) To the division. With respect to the functions set forth above the Examining and Personnel Utilization Division has overall responsibility for the development of plans and programs and for the establishment of procedures and standards applying both to regional offices (including Boards of U. S. Civil Services Examiners) and the Central Office (including Committees of Expert Examiners). It has direct operating responsibility for the recruiting, examining and placement programs in the departmental service in Washington, D. C., except insofar as any functions connected with these activities have been delegated to Committees of Expert Examiners as explained below.

(2) By the division—(i) To Regional Offices. Development of assembled examination material for field examinations under the jurisdiction of the Regional Offices or Boards of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, in the absence of appropriate standardized examination material; preparation of examining standards (specifications) for field positions, in the absence of approved specifications; modification of examination specifications by agreement with representatives of the agency (in the absence of a specific prohibition).

(ii) To departments and agencies. Certain phases of the review of applications involving acceptability from the standpoint of legal requirements for Federal service, for example, proof of citizenship, proof that the requirement limiting the number of members of the same family who may be employed in the Federal service has been met, proof of military service and honorable discharge in case of five point war veterans; audit of declaration of appointees; determination of experience, training or educational qualification for transfer, reinstatement or promotions (under standards and with limitations prescribed by the Commission).

(iii) To committees of expert examiners. Where a Committee-type examination is involved, ratings of hand scored assembled or unassembled examination papers; securing of corroborative information regarding experience; handling of appeals on ratings of other than machine scored examinations; preparation and maintenance of registers of eligibles; certification of eligibles and audit of report on certificates (except actions on objections and passing over).

(iv) To the District of Columbia government by agreement between the District of Columbia Commissioners and the Civil Service Commission. Authority to effect appointments to lower grade positions in the District of Columbia Government in the absence of local eligibles on the Commission's registers (without audit of qualifications by the Commission).

(c) Method of securing and source of information. (1) For positions under the jurisdiction of the central office, whether Commission controlled or committee type, questions may be addressed in writing to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Inquirers may call in person at the Information Office maintained by the Examining and Personnel Utilization Division at 7th & F Streets, N.W. Such inquiries may concern Civil Service examinations, that is, for what positions applicants may apply, how and where to file applications, what qualifications are required, etc.; requirements for veterans' preference, citizenship and age; ratings; employment opportunities in the Federal service during the periods preceding the establishment of appropriate registers for the majority of positions; types of written examinations, methods of rating, contents and form of questions etc. The information available to the general public is restricted to that published in the examination announcement and the accompanying sample questions, if any, so that the secrecy of the examination materials may be preserved.

(2) Complaints should be in writing and should be addressed to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Examples of types of complaints:

(i) Complaints regarding publicity given, admission to or conduct of central office examinations.

(ii) Complaints with regard to discrimination because of race, color or religious or political affiliations in connection with central office examinations.

(iii) During the period in which agencies are authorized to handle recruiting, examining and placement for positions under their jurisdiction pending establishment of a register appropriate to the particular position, complaints with regards to agency noncompliance with the policy and procedures established by the Commission for agency guidance, so far as positions in the departmental service are concerned.

(iv) Complaints of veterans with regard to agency action in passing over their names for positions in the departmental services. Such complaints may be presented by the veteran or his authorized agent either in writing, addressed to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C., or to the Commission's Information and Interview Office, 7th & F Streets NW. In either case the Commission's action is limited to the authority granted by the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944 to present to the veteran or his authorized representative a copy of the agency's reasons for passing over his name and the Commission's recommendation to the agency with respect to the sufficiency of the reasons.

(3) Appeals from ratings assigned as a result of examination are handled originally in the unit that assigned the rating. Appeals in writing from Commission-controlled examinations for positions in the departmental service (identified by the name of the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C. as the issuing agency on the notice of rating (CSC Form 4008 or equivalent form) should be addressed to the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C. Appeals in person should be addressed to the examiner-in-charge of the appropriate examining unit.

Appeals from committee-type examinations for positions in the departmental service (identified by the name of the issuing agency, other than the Commission, preceded by the words "Committee of Expert Examiners" on the Notice of Rating, (CSC Form 4008 or equivalent form) should be presented in writing to the Committee of Expert Examiners concerned at the agency named in the Notice of Rating or equivalent form.

Appeals from the final decisions rendered by the Examining and Personnel Utilization Division or the Committee of Expert Examiners should be submitted in writing to the Board of Appeals and Review, United States Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 60.10 Personnel Classification Division—(a) Organization. The Personnel Classification Division is organized into five sections the functions of which are as follows:

(1) Washington Section. (i) Investigates the duties and responsibilities of positions in the departmental service within the scope of the Classification Act of 1923, as amended, (5 U. S. C. 661ff.) and allocates them to services, grades, and classes.

(ii) Conducts classification surveys of organizations in the departmental service.

(iii) Postaudits for compliance with Commission's requirements, reports of vice changes, additional identical positions, and combined position descriptions submitted by Federal Agencies.

(iv) For the duration of the emergency, considers and makes recommendations on position classification appeals in the departmental service.

(v) Processes all classification sheets, appeals and requests for reconsideration before and after allocation decisions have been made.

(2) Standards and Special Studies Section. (i) Prepares and issues class specifications and statements of allocation standards under the Classification Act and Executive Order No. 9512; and gives technical supervision to the standards development work of the regional offices.

(ii) Prepares and revises the Handbook of Occupational Groups and Series of Classes.

(iii) Advises on all problems in which classification standards are involved.

(iv) Makes special studies on classification or compensation problems of the Government service.

(v) Prepares Departmental Circulars, Commission Letters and technical memoranda dealing with allocation standards, class titles, and the establishment or revision of classes.

(3) Efficiency Ratings Administration Section. (i) Establishes efficiency rating systems applicable to all employees in the field and departmental services compensated under the pay scales of the Classification Act of 1923 as amended and cooperates with agencies in their administration of the uniform efficiency rating system.

(ii) Administers the Board of Review program including the preparation and promulgation of regulations and procedures governing efficiency rating appeals, and provides chairmen for such boards.

(iii) Reviews and recommends decisions on agency requests for approval of proposed action, in the field or departmental service, to reduce in salary, demote, or separate employees on the basis of "Fair" or "Unsatisfactory" efficiency ratings.

(iv) Establishes uniform reduction in force procedures; reviews proposed reductions in force and considers appeals from such action in the departmental service.

(v) Reviews and approves grievance procedures proposed by the Federal agencies.

(vi) Prepares regulations and procedures dealing with (a) periodic within-grade salary advancements and (b) additional within-grade advancements as rewards for superior accomplishment. Preaudits, for compliance with regulations, proposed rewards submitted by departments or agencies. On the basis of plans approved by the Commission, recommends delegation, and when necessary revocation of delegation, of authority to heads of departments and agencies for prior approval of these rewards. Postaudits all actions by departments to insure compliance with the regulations. Compiles an annual consolidated report for presentation to the Congress.

(4) Field Section. (i) Gives technical supervision to the work of regional offices in making postaudit reviews of field allocations for conformance with standards issued by the Commission.

(ii) Inspects the work of the regional classification divisions for compliance with established policies and procedures, understanding of the various classification programs, and operating effectiveness; and follows up on delays or inadequacies.

(iii) Issues instructions to regional offices on classification policies, procedures and practices; assists regional offices in the installation of new classification programs or procedures; develops methods and materials for training field classification staffs; and performs other field supervisory functions assigned by the Chief of Division.

(iv) Advises agencies on general problems relative to classification and compensation of position in the field service.

(v) Under the authority and conditions prescribed in section 401 of the Federal Employees Pay Act of 1945 (59 Stat. 295), conducts studies to recommend the establishment of higher minimum rates of pay for particular classes of positions within the ranges of pay fixed by the Classification Act of 1923.

(vi) Recommends maximum stipends for positions in hospitals, hospital clinics or medical or dental laboratories owned or operated by the Federal Government primarily for training purposes which are excluded from the Classification Act of 1923, as amended, by Executive Order No. 9750.

(vii) Prepares or reviews regulations, Departmental Circulars, Commission Letters, and/or chapters of the Federal Personnel Manual and the Commission's Manual dealing with any phase of Federal position classification or pay administration that does not pertain directly to functions of the Efficiency Ratings Administration Section.

(viii) Conducts studies and recommends other action preliminary to future expansion of classification to the field service in accordance with title II of the act (Ramspeck) of November 26, 1940 (54 Stat. 1212, 5 U. S. C. 681).

(5) Administrative Section. (i) Makes continuing studies to eliminate duplication of work, unnecessary procedures and practices and to see that available personnel is being used to best advantage.

(ii) Provides classification information to departmental position classifiers and to the general public.

(iii) Receives all requests for personnel or for other proposed personnel changes within the Division, prepares necessary forms for transmittal to the Budget and Finance and Personnel Divisions; maintains leave records for the Division.

(iv) For administrative purposes within the Division, maintains records of encumbrances from the Division allotment for personnel services and prepares reports on the status of the allotment.

(v) Performs the usual service function for the Division, including supervision of mail and files and the stenographic force, compilation of production reports, timekeeping, furnishing of supplies, equipment, etc.

(vi) Prepares general correspondence not pertaining to the work of the several sections.

(b) Delegation of authority. (i) The authority for making initial decisions on matters within the purview of the Personnel Classification Division, except as specified in subparagraph (ii) of this paragraph, is vested in the Chief of Division, subject to appeal to the Commission.

(ii) Final decisions on efficiency rating appeals are, by statute, made by the efficiency rating Board of Review for the agency in which the appeal arises and are not reviewable by the Commission.

(c) Method of securing and source of information. (a) Information regarding functions of the Personnel Classification Division, including appeals from allocation actions of the Commission in central government offices, may be obtained in the Washington, D. C., area by writing or calling the Personnel Classification Division. In the field the appropriate regional office of the Commission may be contacted for such information. Inquiries regarding individual field allocations which are finally determined by the agency concerned should be addressed to such agency.

(ii) Requests for review of efficiency ratings should be made in writing to the Chairman, Board of Review of the agency in which the appellant is employed, c/o U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 60.11 Investigations Division—(a) Organization. The Commission's investigative activities may be divided into three major types:

(1) Investigations of the qualifications of candidates for Federal employment.

(2) Investigations to determine the facts when a preference eligible alleges that he has been denied any of the rights guaranteed him under the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944.

(3) Investigations arising out of the administration of the Merit System involving violations of the Civil Service Act and Rules.

For the purpose of carrying out these investigative functions the Investigations Division is divided into the following sections:

(i) Field Inspection and Training Section. This section inspects the work of the regional investigations division and assists regional offices in installing new procedures and in the training of personnel.

(ii) Rating Section. This section makes recommendations and renders advisory opinions with respect to cases referred by other divisions of the Commission, regional offices and other departments and agencies. It rates cases at the request of the Executive Director and Chief Examiner or the Chief of the division and develops rating standards and procedures for use of the regional offices.

(iii) Administrative Section. This section performs the necessary personnel and administrative work of the division.

(iv) Procedures and Control Section. This section prepares and issues instructions of a technical nature for investigators and raters. It maintains a master index and control records of all regional offices cases as well as master bar and flag records.

(v) Confidential Information Section. This section maintains confidential files of reports of investigations and makes them available to individuals and agencies that have a legitimate and valid reason for seeking information therein. (For information as to what records are available and to whom they are available see § 60.18 below.)

(b) Delegation of authority—(1) To regional offices. Regional directors are authorized to initiate investigations into the qualifications of applicants for certain specified positions. Investigations of applicants for all other positions must have the prior approval of the Commission. Regional directors are authorized to handle appeals of veterans under the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944 that arise in their region and to initiate investigations where the facts so warrant. Investigations into alleged violation of the Civil Service Act and rules must have the prior approval of the Commission.

(2) To departments and agencies. Authority is delegated to departments and agencies to conduct character and loyalty investigations where the nature of the positions to be filled is such that the agency reasonably requires its own investigations; where the agency maintains investigative facilities established for purposes other than undertaking personnel investigations but finds it desirable to undertake personnel investigations in order to afford maximum use of such facilities; and where the requirements of the agency become so great that the funds or facilities of the Commission are inadequate to meet the needs. Such investigations are to be conducted in accordance with standards set by the Commission. The Commission reserves the right to audit actions taken under this delegated authority and to inspect and review individual cases to determine compliance with the standards that have been established.

(c) Method of securing and source of information. Information in the files of the Investigations Division is considered confidential.

§ 60.12 Retirement Division—(a) Organization. The Retirement Division is charged with responsibility for interpreting and administering the Civil Service Retirement Act of May 22, 1920 (41 Stat. 614), as amended (5 U. S. C. 691–738), The Canal Zone Retirement Act of March 2, 1931 (46 Stat. 1471), as amended (48 U. S. C. 1371) and the Alaska Railroad Retirement Act of June 29, 1936 (49 Stat. 2017), as amended (5 U. S. C. 745). Jurisdiction over the administration of the Act of May 29, 1944 (58 Stat. 257), is also vested in the division. This act provides for the payment of annuities to United States citizen employees (or to their unremarried widows under prescribed conditions) who served on the Isthmus of Panama during the construction period of the Panama Canal from May 4, 1904 to March 31, 1914, inclusive, who were not included in the recognition and the benefits accorded by the act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat. 1190).

The operating sections of the division are as follows:

(1) Annuity Section. This section adjudicates claims for annuity under the acts administered by the Retirement Division. It examines service credit applications and makes decisions with respect to the service credits to which present or former employees are entitled. It examines agency requests for the retention of employees beyond retirement age and makes recommendations thereon to the President. It maintains records of all annuitants retired on disability and orders the annual medical examinations as required.

(2) Death Claims Section. This section adjudicates claims filed by the beneficiaries, legal representatives or next of kin of deceased employees or annuitants for the accrued annuities, the unexpended balance or the accumulated deductions in the retirement funds. It adjudicates claims in behalf of former employees who are incompetent for accumulated deductions to their credit, examines designation of beneficiary forms and maintains a file of such forms.

(3) Refund Section. This section adjudicates refund claims filed by former employees for the refund of deductions made from their salaries and to their credits in the retirement funds.

(4) Fiscal Section. This section prepares schedules and vouchers covering payments on all retirement claims. It prepares periodic financial statements, receives and records cash, check or money order remittances of voluntary deposits, accepts and records payments from employees covering the purchase of service credit or redeposit of amount withdrawn, maintains the individual annuity award accounts and the individual retirement accounts on all separated employees.

(5) Agency Accounting Section. This section conducts studies of the procedures used and practices followed by agencies in the maintenance of retirement accounts, makes periodic inspections of the retirement records in the agencies, posts and maintains the retirement accounts for employees of first class post offices, advises and instructs officials and employees in the agencies who are assigned to and are responsible for the agency retirement work.

(6) Accounting Systems and Report Analysis Section. This section studies the accounting system in the division and recommends changes and improvements when they are necessary, studies financial statements and reports to determine the adequacy of the accounts and reports the effectiveness of the protection afforded, assists in the installation of retirement accounting systems in the agencies.

(7) Office of the Legal Adviser. This office renders advisory decisions and interpretations of the retirement laws and decisions of the Comptroller General and of the Attorney General, prepares cases for submission to the Board of Appeals and Review, to the Attorney General or to the Comptroller General, collaborates in the preparation and trial of suits arising under the retirement laws, prepares drafts of bills and reports on proposed legislation concerning retirement, and drafts rules and regulations with respect to the administration of the Retirement laws.

(8) Office of the Actuary. This office conducts actuarial studies, periodic valuations of retirement funds and longevity investigations of annuitants. It recommends improvements and simplifications in retirement systems and policies, prepares the annual retirement report and other special tables and similar types of aids to facilitate the speedy and economical performance of retirement activities.

(9) Office of the Chief of Technical studies. This office studies and coordinates the civil service retirement system with other federally administered or public employee systems. It conducts technical insurance studies of the various provisions of the retirement act, prepares analyses of these studies, plans insurance and retirement programs designed to provide for complete protection and conducts long range economic studies of the effect of changing coverage and characteristics of the coverage of retirement systems and their economic and administrative implications.

(10) Board of Actuaries. The Board of Actuaries is composed of three actuaries, appointed by the Commission, one of whom is the Government actuary. It is the Board's duty to report annually upon the actual operations of the Retirement Act, to recommend such changes as in their judgment may be deemed necessary to protect the public interest and maintain the system upon a sound financial basis, to make a valuation of the Civil Service, the Canal Zone and the Alaska Railroad Retirement and Disability Funds at intervals of five years or oftener if the Commission deems it necessary and to prepare such tables as may be required by the Commission for the purpose of computing annuities.

(b) Delegation of Authority. The Commission with the concurrence of the Comptroller General of the United States (letters B–45488, dated November 11, 1944 and March 24, 1945) has approved a temporary plan for the duration of the emergency, unless terminated prior thereto, whereby local disbursing officers of the War Department, under certain conditions, are authorized to issue checks in payment of amounts due as refunds of civil service retirement deductions to former civilian employees of the War Department. The responsibility for making refunds of retirement deductions so authorized is lodged with local certifying officers of civilian payrolls and applies only when the following conditions exist:

(1) The employee must have received an original appointment in the War Department on July 1, 1942, or subsequent thereto.

(2) The employee must have been officially separated on July 1, 1945 or subsequent thereto.

(3) The employee must have had no prior Federal or military service other than the period of employment in the specific installation and must have had no break in service during the period of employment at the installation for which the local retirement refund is being paid.

(4) The employee must not be indebted to the Federal Government for any reason according to the records of the installation.

Computations of refund payments are made in accordance with instructions approved by the Commission and copies of paid vouchers with supporting documents are transmitted to the Retirement Division for audit recording and filing.

(c) Method of securing and source of information. Decisions of the Retirement Division may be appealed to the Board of Appeals and Review through the Retirement Division. Appeals should be in writing and should show the name and post office address of the appellant, his retirement claim number, the date and substance of the action from which the appeal was taken and the full reason for the appeal. They must generally be filed within six months from the date the notice of final action was mailed.

Questions on retirement matters should be submitted by Federal employees to their Personnel Director.

§ 60.13 Service Record Division—(a) Organization. The Service Record Division has over-all responsibility for the administration and enforcement of rules and regulations governing the reporting of personnel transactions; maintenance of service records; according of classified (competitive) civil service status; determination of status of positions and status of present and former Federal employees and of compliance by Commission or agency officials with the procedural and legal requirements for effective personnel actions under the civil service rules and regulations.

The operating sections of the division are as follows:

(1) Audit Section. This section receives and inspects reports of personnel actions. It initiates corrective action on the enforcement of Civil Service Rules and other authorities governing appointments and personnel changes, inspects reports of separation to determine whether the reasons or circumstances shown appear to require debarment or flagging, maintains records showing currently the condition of the apportionment, determines adequacy of proof of date of birth, reports cases of apparent dual employment to the Comptroller General and authorizes extension of suspensions.

(2) Correspondence Section. This section replies to inquiries and complaints regarding treatment in the Federal service, promotions, demotions, forced resignations, suspensions or removals, hours of duty, leave, assignment to duty, dual employment, payment for services rendered, overtime, deductions from salary for war bonds, subsistence allowance and travel. It also answers inquiries concerning rights under the Selective Service Act and reemployment benefits provided by regulations of the Commission.

(3) Postal Section. This section maintains complete records of employees in the field service of the Post Office Department, audits all personnel actions involving such employees, initiates corrective action where needed, maintains substitute rolls in accordance with the order of seniority of appointment and in general performs the other functions of the Audit Section with reference to employees in the field service of the Post Office Department.

(4) Records Section. This section maintains service records of present and former Federal employees and processes and files reports of personnel action.

(5) Status Section. This section receives agency recommendations for conferring of classified status on Federal employees, acts on requests for promotion, transfer and reinstatement requiring prior approval of the Commission, post audits reports of reinstatements not requiring prior approval of the Commission, acts on agency recommendations in connection with non-competitive appointments under Schedule B of the Civil Service rules, furnishes information to agencies and individuals regarding their status for reinstatement, transfer, classification.

(b) Delegation of authority. Regional directors are authorized to pass on requests for reinstatement, transfer, promotion and reassignment to field positions in cases where the prior approval of the Commission is required. Regional directors are authorized to consider and act upon requests for extension of suspensions when the request is presented by a field officer of an agency who has authority to initiate such action.

(c) Method of securing and source of information. Decisions of the Service Record Division may be appealed to the Board of Appeals and Review.

Federal employees should submit questions to their Personnel office. Others may secure information by writing to the Commission or by calling at the Commission's office.

§ 60.14 Medical Division—(a) Organization. The Medical Division, created by the Commission in 1940 through unification of its previously diversified medical activities is under the immediate supervision of a Medical Director. Primarily, it is charged with responsibility (under the administrative direction and through the office of the Executive Director and Chief Examiner in all cases) for: Advising the Commission, in cooperation with the Examining and Personnel Utilization Division, on all matters pertaining to physical standards for entrance or reinstatement into the Government service. In conjunction with the Retirement Division criteria are set up for separation from the service by reason of disability preventing satisfactory performance of duty. It is also responsible for the processing and disposing of all types of cases in the above categories which are referred by other divisions for comment or action as well as rendering opinions and advice on any other medical matters pertaining to Federal employment concerning which information may be requested by the Board of Appeals and Review or other officials of the Commission.

Other activities include the conducting of research programs throughout the Civil Service Regions for the purpose of determining appropriate physical standards for the various positions; carrying out studies of the performance of the physically impaired as compared to the able bodied; administering the program recommended by the Coordinating Committee for the Placement of the Physically Handicapped.

The operating sections of the Division are as follows:

(1) Office of the Medical Director. This office has the over-all administration of the Division's activities in the central office, including the handling of appeals in connection with certain types of cases. Also, through the offices of the Chief of Field Operations and the Executive Director and Chief Examiner, the Medical Director transmits to the various Regional Directors such information, instructional material and technical advice as may be necessary for the effective functioning of the medical officers assigned to their Regions. A member of the staff is detailed to the function of maintaining liaison with the various regional medical officers which may require travel to the Regional offices.

(2) Consultative Service Section. This section formulates physical requirements for entrance into the classified civil service and prepares guides based thereon for the use of the appointing officers in the various agencies; devices schematic outlines for necessary physical examinations of both applicants and employees; reviews medical certificates exhibiting questionable conditions not covered by specific instructions and renders advisory services to appointing officers relative to the employability of applicants and the physical fitness of employees to continue in their post of duty, particularly with respect to nervous and mental conditions, communicable diseases, heart disease and diabetes.

Within the section is a unit for the specialized handling of physically impaired applicants (emphasis on veterans) who offer unusual placement problems. This Unit is charged with the duties of devising broad schemes for the effective utilization of the remaining capabilities of impaired individuals as well as conducting interviews in specific cases.

(3) Disability Retirement Section. This section receives from the Retirement Division such applications for retirement as are based on claims of total disability for useful and efficient service; arranges for and authorizes physical examinations of applicants except in cases where sufficient evidence has already been presented by Federal medical officers or establishments; after securing adequate medical evidence, passes on the merits of applications and takes medical action of rejection or allowance; arranges for annual medical examinations or secures pertinent information in lieu thereof, in cases of retired employees (annuitants) whose cases have not been made permanent; supervises, by use of liaison facilities through the office of the Medical Director, the initial medical processing in the regional offices of applicants residing within those areas; furnishes to the Retirement Division, through the office of the Medical Director, such technical advice pertaining to retirement matters in general as may be requested.

(4) Examining Section. This section in accordance with general procedures established by the Examining and Personnel Utilization Division, examines and rates applications for professional and subprofessional positions in the medical and related fields in such agencies or establishments as are not otherwise provided for; renders advisory services to agencies regarding educational and experience standards in connection with the above positions; supervises and assists Committees of Expert Examiners in the conducting of examinations and the rating of applications in the medical and related fields; assists the Medical Director in making recommendations to the Personnel Division relative to the filling of medical officer and related positions within the Commission; receives and processes applications from cadet nurses who desire to complete their training in Federal hospitals under the provisions of the Cadet Nurse Act.

(b) Delegation of authority. The Commission has delegated to the respective agencies in the classified service authority to approve appointments under the Temporary Civil Service Regulations so far as physical condition is concerned, except that prior approval of the Commission is required when the appointees are recieving disability annuities under the Civil Service Retirement Act, the Canal Zone Retirement Act or the Alaska Railroad Retirement Act. The Commission retains authority to disapprove appointees on grounds of physical condition; whenever the making of an appointment requires a determination that some person is physically disqualified for appointment, the agency must obtain a decision from the Commission.

(c) Method of securing and source of information. Information in the files of the Medical Division is available to individuals and agencies in accordance with the regulations of the Commission set out in § 60.18.

FIELD ACTIVITIES

§ 60.15 Regional Offices—(a) Organization. In the interest of economy and efficiency in administration of the field service, the Commission has divided the United States into fourteen regions. The activities of each region centers in a regional office, located in a principal city within the region. A Regional Director is in charge of each Regional Office.

Each Regional Office supervises civil service activities within its area, in accordance with policies and procedures established by the Commission, furnishes information to the public, and announces regional and local examinations to fill positions under the jurisdiction of the region.

The functions of the regional office are performed under the regional director by Divisions and staff officials such as the following:

Budget and Fiscal Officer.
Personnel Officer.
Regional Examining and Placement Division.
Regional Classification Division.
Regional Investigations Division.
Medical Officer.
Regional Veterans Federal Employment Representative.
Examiner for Appeals under section 14 of the Veterans Preference Act of 1944.
Personnel Management Advisor.

Representatives Outside Continental United States

Hawaii (Subsidiary to Twelth Region) Branch Regional Office, 12th U. S. Civil Service Region, Federal Building, Honolulu 2, T. H.

Puerto Rico (Under supervision of Director, 8th Region, insofar as employment under U. S. Government is concerned)—Chairman, Puerto Rico Civil Service Commisison, San Juan, P. R.

Canal Zone—Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Balboa Heights, C. Z.

In order to provide closer supervision and render more effective service, regional directors may, as necessary from time to time, station representatives in smaller key cities to facilitate administration of civil service activities in areas within the region.

(b) Delegation of authority. Regional directors have general authority over civil service matters arising within their region. Specific grants of authority have been referred to in connection with the description of the functions of the divisions of the Commisison set out above. Their decisions may be appealed to the Commission, through the Board of Appeals and Review in the same manner as decisions of the varicus divisions of the Commission may be appealed.

(c) Method of securing and source of information. Individuals residing in the states that are included within any region may secure information by writing to or calling at the Regional or Branch Regional Office. Information is also obtainable at Boards of U. S. Civil Service Examiners. (See § 60.16.)

§ 60.16. Boards of United States Civil Service Examiners—(a) Organization—(1) Boards located at Federal establishments other than in the Post Office Department. Wherever considered administratively advisable, Boards are established by the regional director in agreement with the head of the establishment and are composed of officers and employees of the establishment or establishments served by the board.

For positions under their jurisdiction, such boards announce examinations, receive and rate applications, establish registers, certify names to appointing officers, approve the apopintments made from names submitted, and perform other functions delegated by the regional director.

All activities of these boards are performed in accordance with current standards and instructions of the Commission. The extent of authority to be delegated to individual boards is determined by the regional director and is not uniform for all boards.

(2) Boards located at first and second class post offices. Boards of United States Civil Service Examiners have been established in each city which has a first or second class post office.

These boards publicize examinations announced by the Commission's central office, the regional office, and by Boards located at other Federal establishments. They also furnish general information to the public and conduct assembled examinations.

Regional directors may delegate other special functions to these boards within the limits of the policies established by the Commission.

(b) Delegation of authority. Boards of Examiners located in Federal establishments other than the post office can take final action on any matters delegated by the regional director. Requests for a review of rating and appeals from the action of any board in any matter properly before it, are first considered and decided by the board. In the event of an adverse decision further appeal may be made to the regional office.

(c) Method of securing and source of information. General information on civil service matters and employment opportunities can be secured from the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners at any first or second class post office. Such information is available also at the regional or branch office of the Commission or at the offices of its representatives outside continental United States.

Where more detailed and specific information is desired which is not available at the office of a Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiner, this information may be obtained by communicating with the regional or branch office.

Listed below are the places where the public may secure information and submit requests relating to specific civil service matters.

(1) Open competitive examinations. (i) To keep informed of pending examinations, the bulletin board and examination announcements at any first or second class post office may be consulted. A copy of any examination announcement may be inspected but extra copies are not always available for distribution. In a city in which there is a regional or branch regional office, that office may also be contacted for information.

(ii) To secure a copy of the announcement the office having immediate jurisdiction over the examination as shown in the announcement under the heading "Where to file application" may be contacted.

(iii) The examination announcement contains full details about the requirements, the specific application forms and the location of the office where the required application forms should be filed. Application forms are available at first and second class post offices, except in cities where regional offices of the Commission are located, in which case they may be obtained from the regional office. In branch office cities, application forms may also be obtained from such offices.

(2) Examinations under section 10 of the Veterans Preference Act of 1944. (i) Persons granted ten-point preference under section 2 (1), (2) and (3) of the Veterans Preference Act of 1944 may apply for examination as provided in section 10 of the same act.

(ii) For information concerning examinations which may be reopened, The Executive Secretary of the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners at the establishment where employment is desired or the regional or branch office of the Commission may be contacted.

(3) Acceptance of delayed applications after the closing date. Persons entitled to five-point military preference under section 2 (4) of the Veterans Preference Act of 1944, and citizens who served beyond the continental limits of the United States with a Federal agency or international organization in which the U. S. Government participates, may, under certain conditions, file delayed applications.

(4) Restoration to the list of eligibles of honorably discharged veterans under Executive Orders 9733 and 8937. Requests for restoration should be made to the office which maintained the list of eligibles. The address of this office can be obtained from the notice of rating which the applicant received.

(5) Requests for a review of examination rating. A request for a review of a rating received may be made to the office which assigned the original rating as shown on the notice of rating.

(6) Complaints on discrimination. Complaints involving alleged discrimination on the grounds of race, creed, color, or national origin may be made to the regional director.

(7) Reduction in force appeals. Appeals involving alleged violation of reduction in force regulations based on section 12 of the Veterans Preference Act of 1944 may be made to the regional office of the Commission.

(8) Suitability appeals. Appeals from applicants rated ineligible because they were not found suitable for government employment should be addressed to the office which assigned the rating, as shown on the notice of rating.

(9) Appeals under section 14 of the Veterans Preference Act. Appeals under section 14 of the Act may be filed with the regional office.

(10) Classified status under Executive Order 9598 of August 17, 1945. Requests for the benefits of this order should be submitted individually by letter to the office of the Commission which authorized the basic appointment. Requests are ordinarily submitted by the current employing agency, but may be acted upon if submitted by the agency in which the employee received his basic appointment.

(11) Passing over preference eligibles. Records of the Commission's findings in determining the sufficiency of the reasons submitted by an agency for passing over a preference eligible are available at the office of the Commission which maintains the register. The records will be made available to the veteran eligible or his designated representative upon request as provided in Section 8 of the Veterans Preference Act.

(12) Restoration under section 8 of the Selective Service and Training Act. Whenever a misunderstanding occurs between a veteran and his former employing agency as to restoration rights, the case may be submitted by the veteran for final determination to the regional office.

(13) Requests for reinstatement. Requests should be submitted to the appointing officer of the office in which the vacancy is to be filled.

(14) Requests for transfer. Requests should be submitted to the appointing officer of the office in which the vacancy is to be filled.

ADVISORY COMMITTEES

§ 60.17 Council of Personnel Administration. The Council of Personnel Administration was established in February, 1939 under Executive Order No. 7916, June 24, 1938. The Council was placed within the Commission under Executive Order No. 8467, July 1, 1940.

The Council is set up to improve Federal personnel administration through common understanding and effort, to meet the personnel needs of the service by developing standards and practices sufficiently uniform for the Government as a single employer and yet flexible enough to provide for the great differences in the character and conditions of work. The Council serves as a clearing house where directors of personnel develop plans and spread throughout the service information about practices, and where representatives of the Commission and of the Bureau of the Budget meet regularly with the personnel directors to consult with them and to discuss and interpret the policies, programs and procedures which are in the course of development.

The Council's work is carried on by members assisted by a small staff through weekly meetings of the entire Council and by standing and special committees. The actions of the Council are put into effect in various ways. Recommendations are made to the President and to the Civil Service Commission, Bureau of the Budget and other appropriate agencies. Much of the Council's work results in practical suggestions or agreements on improved personnel methods which are carried out by departments and agencies themselves. Field personnel councils have been authorized by the Commission and established under the supervision of the Commission's Regional Directors or their Representatives. The field councils are composed of officers responsible for personnel administration in their agency in the area designated by the regional director. They have the same object and function along similar lines as the Federal Personnel Council.

The Council of Personnel Administration is located at 1626 K Street, NW., Washington 25, D. C.

PUBLIC RECORDS

§ 60.18 Availability of official records. (a) Official records of the Commission are generally regarded as confidential except that upon request by any person decision will be made in each case as to the part of the record which may be disclosed or made available to him.

(1) Examination records. Under this heading are included application forms filed in connection therewith. When the Commission's work load will permit copies of applications or a resumé of the pertinent information desired will be furnished an applicant.

(2) Medical records. Medical information furnished to the Commission as "fully confidential" is not given out. Instead the inquirer is referred to the source of information.

Medical information not secured in confidence may be disclosed under the following circumstances:

(i) The name of the examining physician is not to be disclosed without his consent.

(ii) An applicant (or his authorized agent) may be informed of the reasons for the action taken on his medical certificate only to the extent necessary to enable him to correct defects or to seek medical advice or treatment. No information is given where it is of such a nature as to make it inadvisable to release it as, for example, in case of mental disability or other serious diseases, the knowledge of which might prove injurious to the physical health of the applicant. Occasionally information that should not be given to the applicant may upon his authorization be given in confidence to his attending physician or to a hospital as an aid in diagnosis or treatment. If the applicant is already aware of the contents of the medical certificate it is not regarded as confidential as far as he or his authorized agent is concerned.

(iii) Information derived from a medical certificate is not disclosed to individuals or organizations (legal firms, insurance companies, employment agencies, etc.) not concerned unless the applicant gives his consent, or unless the Commission finds that it is in the public interest to do so.

(iv) Information officially requested by a Federal agency other than the employing agency, such as the Veterans Administration, may be furnished as confidential, except fully confidential material furnished for the use of the Commission only.

(v) Exact or photostatic copies of medical certificates are usually furnished in confidence to other Federal agencies when requested. They are not furnished to other inquirers or to the applicant himself except under unusual circumstances. In such cases there is furnished a statement of the defects found or a statement that the certificate discloses no defects. The selection of medical facts to be disclosed is made by a medical officer of the Commission.

(vi) Copies of medical surveys that have been obtained from the Veterans Administration are by law confidential. The Veterans Administration reserves the legal right to make decisions regarding the disclosure of information contained in its medical surveys to the veteran concerned. No information is furnished by the Commission except upon authorization in each individual case from the Veterans Administration.

(vii) Information received from State hospitals is treated as fully confidential. Disclosure of information received from other hospitals or private institutions is governed by the condition under which the information was furnished to the Commission.

(viii) Medical statements from Selective Service Boards are required only when the Commission's medical director determines that the statement is necessary. Such statements are kept strictly confidential.

(3) Service records. Records comprised under this heading are the employment records of present and former Federal employees. Such records are disclosed only to the individuals themselves upon request and to proper agency officials as required in connection with application for or employment in the Federal service.

(4) Reports of investigations. (i) Complete information contained in investigative reports is made available to properly identified investigative representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Treasury Department, the Office of Naval Intelligence, the Military Intelligence Service, the Provost Marshal General's office, the Post Office Inspection Service, the Immigration and Naturalization Service and the State Department. Such reports are made available with the understanding that the information contained therein will be treated with the same confidence as information developed by representatives of the agencies themselves and that sources of the Commission's information will not be revealed outside the investigative agency.

(ii) Regional Directors, Chiefs of regional investigation divisions, the Chief of the central office Investigations Division, and the Director of Personnel (with respect to requests relating to employees of the Commission) are authorized to permit inspection of reports by properly identified representatives of the above agencies.

(iii) Analytical memoranda and other memoranda indicating actions or decisions reached as the result of the report of investigation are removed from the files before they are made available. Upon request the representatives may be advised of the Commission's final decision.

(iv) Upon showing a legitimate need for information contained in investigative files representatives of other Federal agencies are furnished an oral summary of the facts developed by investigation. Upon request the representatives may be advised of the Commission's final decision.

(v) Regional Directors, Chiefs of regional investigation divisions, the Chief of the central office Investigations Division and the Director of Personnel (with respect to requests relating to employees of the Commission) or officials designated by them are authorized to furnish oral summaries.

(vi) Information regarding cases in which investigative or rating action is pending is not furnished to Federal agencies other than those to which complete investigative reports are available.

(vii) Information contained in bar and flag files is strictly a confidential matter with the Commission and is for the official use of the Commission only. It is the policy of the Commission not to give out publicly any information that a particular individual has a bar or flag record.

(5) Retirement records. (i) Disclosure of information from the files, records, reports and other papers and documents pertaining to a retirement claim is made to a claimant or to his duly authorized representative in matters concerning himself alone when such disclosure would not be injurious to the physical or mental health of the claimant or be regarded as a breach of confidence.

(ii) The name or address of a beneficiary designated by an employee or an annuitant will, during the life of the employee or annuitant, be furnished only to the designator when request therefor is made in writing over the signature of the designator.

(iii) Such information as may properly be disclosed to a claimant personally shall in the event of his death be disclosed upon proper request to the duly appointed representative of his estate or to such person as may be designated by such representative or to a duly designated beneficiary or to the claimant's next of kin.

(iv) Copies of documents or other records desired by or in behalf of parties to a suit may be furnished to the court on an order of the court or subpena duces tecum.

(v) The address of a claimant as shown by the Commission's record may be furnished to duly constituted police or court officials upon proper requests or the submission of a certified copy either of the indictment returned against the claimant or of the warrant for his arrest.

(vi) Disclosure of the amount of annuity or refund to any claimant may be made to anly National State, county, municipal or other publicly recognized charitable or social security administrative agency.

(vii) All records or documents officially required by any department or agency of the United States Government or by Senators and Representatives of the United States in their capacity as Members of Congress may be furnished in response to a proper request.

(viii) Copies of papers, records, etc., the furnishing of which would be prejudicial to the interest of the Government, copies of reports of examining surgeons, reports from the War Department or copies of records of other departments and other confidential matters will not be furnished.

(6) Personnel classification records. Classification specifications and statements of allocation standards are available for public inspection at the Commission's central, regional and branch offices.

By The United States Civil Service Commission.

PART 61—FUNCTIONS OF THE COMMISSION

Sec.
61.1 In general.
61.2 Examining applicants for employment in the classified civil service.
61.3 Retirement.
61.4 Enforcement of the Civil Service Act and Rules.
61.5 Enforcement of other statutes.

§ 61.1 In general. The Commission's primary function is to serve as the central personnel agency for the Federal Government. In so doing, it holds examinations to test the fitness of applicants for positions in the classified civil service of the United States; conducts investigations into the character and suitability of successful applicants; certifies the names of qualified persons in response to requests from appointing officers in the various agencies; establishes standards for reinstatement, promotion and transfer of Federal employees; and in general enforces the Civil Service Act and the Civil Service Rules relating to the employment and the conduct of Federal employees. In addition the Commission is charged with the functions of administering the Classification Act of 1923 as amended, which provides for the classification of positions according to duties and responsibilities; of administering an efficiency rating system for Federal employees; of maintaining service records of employees in the executive civil service; of administering the Civil Service Retirement Act, the Canal Zone Retirement Act, the Panama Canal Construction Annuity Act and the Alaska Railroad Retirement Act; of administering the Veterans Preference Act of 1944; and of enforcing the provisions of the Hatch Political Activities Act which prohibits political activity on the part of employees of State or local governments participating in Federally financed projects.

Inasmuch as most of these functions pertain to the internal management of the Federal Government they are not set out in full in this part. Federal employees who are affected by their operations may generally obtain information or answers to their questions from their personnel office. Insofar as their operations affect persons outside the Federal service they are explained in the sections that follow.

§ 61.2 Examining applicants for employment in the classified civil service.—(a) Announcement of examinations. From data on net personnel requirements for positions in Washington, D. C., and in the field which are filled by the central office of the Commission, determination is made by the Commission as to what examinations will be held and which examinations will be given priority in announcement. In preparing to hold an examination the Commission and the agency or agencies in which the positions exist prepare a statement of the duties of the position and reach agreement as to the qualifications required for the satisfactory performance of these duties and the method of examining, including such factors as age, physical requirements, written tests, experience, training or education necessary. (Education may be prescribed only when the Commission has determined and made public its reasons for so doing, that the duties of a position of a scientific, professional or technical nature cannot be satisfactorily performed by an individual who has not met the specific educational requirements prescribed for the position.) The Commission then issues an announcement of the examination in which it incorporates the information needed by the applicant as to the requirements for the position, the method of examination, the location and salary of the position and the conditions of employment. Examination announcements may be given publicity by display and by newspaper publicity in the area from which applicants are accepted for the examination, and, when feasible, by publication in periodicals normally read by persons engaged in the occupations related to the position for which examination is announced.

(b) Applications. The examination announcement specifies the application forms to be filed by the applicant and indicates the period during which applications will be accepted. The application forms specified in the announcement may generally be obtained from the Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, at any first- or second-class post office, or from the Commission's central, regional, or branch regional offices. However, application Form 9, required for rural carrier and fourth class postmaster, and application Form 10, required for first, second, and third-class postmaster, may be obtained only from the post-office for which the examination is announced, during the time an announcement for the position is open, or from the Examining and Personnel Utilization Division, Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Applications for an examination which are received after the closing date specified in the announcement are cancelled and returned to the applicant, unless he is eligible for a reopened or delayed examination or has been granted the privilege of filing for a position for which there is no open announcement, as in the case of displaced career employees or those former status employees who failed of restoration after military service, service in the merchant marine or war transfer.

(c) Examinations. Applicants for assembled examinations are notified of the time, place and date to report for examination and are supplied any additional forms necessary. These forms are collected at the time of the written examination and become a part of the examination file. At the time of the written examination each competitor fills in a "declaration sheet" carrying an identifying number which is placed on each answer sheet used by the competitor during the examination. The identity of the competitors is maintained secret by keeping the applications, related forms, and the declaration sheets entirely separate from the answer sheets until the rating has been completed, after which the answer sheets are matched with the declaration sheets and the applications and related forms.

(d) Ratings. Examinations are rated on a scale of 100. The examination announcement specifies the relative weights given to each part of the examination. In general nonpreference competitors must obtain a rating of 70 for eligibility, 5-point preference competitors, a rating of 65; and 10-point preference competitors, a rating of 60. After rating of the written examination, the applications of eligibles are reviewed to ascertain that they meet the legal requirements for Federal employment as listed in Section 3 of Rule II of the Civil Service Rules and the age and physical requirements listed in the announcement and have proved legal or voting residence if the position is in the apportioned service. Failure to meet requirements renders the applicant ineligible; failure to prove residence permits the eligible to be considered only for the non-apportioned service. If the announcement of a written examination specifies that the competitors must show prescribed experience or training (which may represent a minimum qualification, or may be rated and incorporated in the final rating, according to the terms of the announcement) the application papers of the acceptable eligibles are reviewed to ascertain that the experience or training requirements are met, and the competitors failing to meet the minimum requirements are declared ineligible.

Applications filed for unassembled examinations are first reviewed to ascertain that the applicant meets the legal requirements for Federal employment, the age and physical requirements specified in the announcement and has proved legal or voting residence if the position is in the apportioned service. Applications not canceled during this review, are then rated on the basis of experience, training or education shown by the applicant which is pertinent to the position for which he is being examined, in accordance with a predetermined rating schedule which fixes the credit to be assigned for various grades of the required experience. To attain eligibility a competitor must meet the minimum requirements for the position as stated in the examination announcement. When necessary, the Commission may request the applicant to supply the additional detailed information necessary to evaluate his qualifications.

(e) Register of eligibles. From the applications and related papers of persons eligible under the terms of the announcement the list of eligibles, known as the register, is prepared. A register card is completed for each eligible and a permanent index card and notice of rating prepared for each competitor.

The register of eligibles is arranged in such manner that the provisions of section 7 of the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944, of Executive Order 9733 and of the apportionment (section 2 of the Civil Service Act, March 3, 1871, 16 Stat. 514; 5 U. S. C. 631) are observed in certification from the top of the register. Existing registers are combined with the newly established register, when, in the judgment of the Commission, it is expedient to do so. Names of persons whose eligibility for probational appointment was restored under the provisions of Executive Order 8937 and Executive Order 9733 are also entered on the new register, if the period of extended eligibility to which they are entitled has not already expired.

Eligibles are requested to inform the Commission of any changes in availability, and may be suspended from the register during a period of unavailability, with the privilege of restoration upon notification to the Commission at any time during the life of the register. Eligibles who decline offers of appointment without a reasonable explanation may be suspended from the register. Eligibles on the central office register may be transferred to a register maintained in a field office of the Commission, and vice versa: Provided, The following conditions are met:

(1) An appropriate register is maintained by the receiving office.

(2) The requirements stated in the examination announcement for both offices concerned are the same.

(3) When the transfer is from a register for the non-apportioned service to one for the apportioned service, the eligible must prove legal or voting residence for 1 year prior to the submission of proof.

(4) If the register to which transfer of eligibility is requested is subject to a zone of certification provision, the eligible must be a resident of such zone of certification.

(5) On certain field registers the eligible must be merely a resident of the area in which the examination was publicized.

(6) Transfer is not permitted from a register established from an announcement which closed later than the comparable announcement in the office to which transfer is desired.

(7) Transfer of eligibility is subject to the approval of the receiving office.

(f) Certification of eligibles. If an agency desires to fill a vacancy by original appointment and it has been notified by the Commission that a register of eligibles has been established for probational appointment to such position, the Personnel Director of the agency, or his authorized representative, forwards to the Commission a request for the name of eligibles from which to select new personnel. If, upon receipt of the request in the central office, it is decided that the existing register is appropriate, eligibles in sufficient number to permit the appointing officer to consider three eligibles for each vacancy are listed from the top of the register and the list, known as a "certificate of eligibles", is furnished to the agency, together with the applications of such eligibles. If a study of the request indicates that certification in regular order from the register would not provide persons properly qualified to fill the vacancy, selective certification may be made. This can be done in two ways: (1) by reviewing all eligibles on the register to locate those having the special qualifications required to perform the duties of the position; or (2) rerating the eligibles on the most nearly appropriate registers on the basis of a special rating schedule which emphasizes the importance of the special qualifications required. In either case, the resulting eligibles are listed in the order of rating as augmented by veteran preference (and in accordance with the apportionment list if the positions are in the apportioned service) and the certificate forwarded to the appointing officer for his consideration.

(g) Selections from certificates. The appointing officer is required to make selection in accordance with the rule of three (See Section 8 of the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944). If the appointing officer passes over a veteran eligible and tentatively selects a non-veteran he is required to furnish to the Commission reasons for his action, which are subject to review by the Commission. (Section 8 of the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944). The appointing officer is not permitted to appoint a non-preference eligible, tentatively selected, in place of a preference eligible passed over, until he has received the Commission's opinion as to the sufficiency of his reasons for passing over the veteran. (If the appointing officer leaves a vacancy open for the selection of the preference eligible passed over, he may appoint the non-preference eligible.) If the Commission disagrees with the agency's reasons it requires the agency to submit any additional evidence in support of its action in passing over the veteran or a statement that there is no additional evidence in the case. In either event, the agency may, upon receiving a response to its second submission, appoint the non-preference eligible. The Commission is not empowered by the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944 to force the agency to appoint a veteran passed over by the agency without sufficient reason; however, it is directed by that act to furnish copies of the agency's reasons and its opinions of such reasons to the veteran or his authorized representative upon request.

The appointing officer, during the course of an interview with an eligible certified by the Commission, or in connection with any pre-employment check of an eligible's references, may receive information about the eligible which he believes would have disqualified the eligible from certification had the Commission been in possession of the information at the time the certificate was issued. In such cases, the appointing officer offers an objection to the eligible, and tentatively selects an eligible who would not have been within reach for consideration otherwise. He may not appoint such eligible selected out of order until the Commission has notified him whether the objection is sustained by the Commission. If the objection is sustained, the agency may appoint the eligible tentatively selected; if the objection is not sustained, the agency must reconsider the eligible to whom objection was offered. If the Commission lowers the rating of an eligible or declares him ineligible as the result of investigation following a sustained objection, the eligible is notified.

Since the regulations of the Commission do not require an appointing officer to give an eligible more than 3 considerations for the same position, a record of the certifications accorded each eligible is maintained on his record card, and, the number of considerations accorded the eligible as a result of each certification is recorded. If an eligible declines an offer of appointment, or fails to reply to the appointing officer's offer of appointment or inquiry as to availability, Form 1078, "Notice of Suspension of Eligibility" is sent to the eligible, informing him that if he does not reply to the questions with regard to the conditions under which he will accept an offer of appointment his name will be suspended from the register until such time as he notifies the Commission of his availability. If the agency's correspondence with the eligible is returned undelivered, the central office records are checked to insure that the correspondence was properly addressed; if so, the eligible is regarded as unavailable until he communicates with the Commission.

§ 61.3 Retirement.—(a) Filing death claims. When an employee or an annuitant dies leaving any amount to his credit in the Retirement and Disability Funds it is the Commission's function to pay such amount to the person or persons who have a rightful claim to it. Such claims are handled as follows:

(1) The claimant must obtain a copy of Civil Service Commission Form 2000 either from the Retirement Division, 916 G Street N. W., Washington 25, D. C. or from the office in which deceased was last employed and complete it in accordance with the instructions contained therein. The completed form and supporting papers must be sent direct to the Retirement Division. There must be submitted with the application a certified copy of the public record showing the death of the employee or annuitant unless such death occurred while the employee was in the armed forces outside the continental United States. In the latter case the branch of the armed forces in which deceased was serving must be stated.

(2) A claim filed by or for a person who was designated by the deceased as beneficiary should be accompanied by the duplicate copy of the form on which such beneficiary was designated (Form 2806-1).

(3) If the application is filed by an executor, administrator, guardian, or committee, a certified copy of the court order showing such appointment must be submitted.

(4) If no beneficiary has been designated by deceased and no executor or administrator has been or will be appointed the claim should be filed by the legal heir or heirs under the laws of the State in which the deceased was domiciled.

(5) The application must be signed in the presence of two witnesses who must certify as to the identity of the person filing the claim.

(6) Upon examination of the application and the supporting documents the Commission adjudicates the claim.

§ 61.4 Enforcement of the Civil Service Act and rules—(a) Discrimination. Complaints by applicants who have been denied employment because of marital status, race or for political or religious reasons should be submitted in writing with all available evidence to the office of the Commission that has jurisdiction over filling the positions involved. The Commission investigates the allegation and notifies the appellant of the finding made. If a finding of a discrimination is made the Federal agency involved is notified and directed to take appropriate corrective action.

§ 61.5 Enforcement of other statutes—(a) Hatch Political Activities Act. Section 12 (a) of the Hatch Act prohibits political activity on the part of officers and employees of State and local governments whose principal employment is in connection with an activity financed in whole or in part by Federal funds. In exercising its function of enforcing this prohibition the Commission:

(1) Receives complaints alleging political activity.

(2) If the complaint so warrants, conducts an investigation.

(3) On the basis of the investigation issues a letter of charges.

(4) Reviews the answer to the letter of charges and either closes the case or conducts a formal hearing.

(5) Issues a final order embodying its findings as a result of the hearing.

(6) In the event of an appeal to the United States District Court, prepares the record for certification to the court and by arrangement with the Department of Justice represents the Government in the proceedings before the District Court.

NOTE: For the rules of practice under section 12 (a) of the Hatch Political Activities Act see Part 25 of this chapter.

By the United States Civil Service Commission.

CIVILIAN PRODUCTION ADMINISTRATION

[32 CFR, Ch. IX]

PART 903—ORGANIZATION AND DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY [1]

[Organizational Document 1]

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE CIVILIAN PRODUCTION ADMINISTRATION

Sec.
903.201 Establishment.
903.202 Office of the Administrator.
903.203 Office of the General Counsel.
903.204 Office of Compliance Commissioners.
903.205 Office of Information.
903.206 Office of Labor Requirements.
903.207 Office of Economic Review and Analysis.
903.208 Bureau of International Supply.
903.209 Bureau of Demobilization.
903.210 Bureau of Priorities.
903.211 Bureau of Construction and Field Operations.
903.212 Bureau of Industry Operations.
903.213 Field Office Addresses.

§ 903.201 Establishment. (a) The Civilian Production Administration was established by Executive Order 9638, which terminated the War Production Board at the close of business November 3, 1945. By this order the powers and functions vested in the War Production Board by Executive Orders 9024, 9040, 9125, and 9599, were transferred to the Civilian Production Administration.

(b) The Executive Order which created the Civilian Production Administration directed the Agency to utilize its powers to further a swift and orderly transition from wartime production to a maximum peacetime production in industry free from wartime government controls, with due regard to the stability of prices and costs; and more specifically to:

(1) Expand production of materials which are in short supply;

(2) Limit the manufacture of products for which materials or facilities are insufficient;

(3) Control the accumulation of inventories so as to avoid speculative hoarding and unbalanced distribution which would curtail total production;

(4) Grant priority assistance to break bottlenecks which would impede the reconversion process;

(5) Facilitate the fulfillment of relief and other essential export programs; and

(6) Allocate scarce materials or facilities necessary for the production of low-priced items essential to the continued success of the stabilization program of the Federal Government.

(c) The departmental offices of the Agency are located in the Social Security Building at 4th and Independence Avenue, S. W., Washington 25, D. C. Communication may be addresed to the Agency at this address and will be referred to the proper office of the Agency. Visitors to the Agency may obtain information and directions at the Inquiry Section, Room 1501. Regional and District offices are maintained in various cities as shown in § 903.213.

The Agency discharges its functions through the major organizational units which are described in the following sections: Office of the Administrator, Office of the General Counsel, Office of Compliance Commissioners, Office of Information, Office of Labor Requirements, Office of Economic Review and Analysis, Bureau of International Supply, Bureau of Demobilization, Bureau of Priorities, Bureau of Industry Operations, and Bureau of Construction and Field Operations.

§ 903.202 Office of the Administrator. (a) The head of the Agency is designated as the Administrator of the Civilian Production Administration and is appointed by the President without limitation as to tenure. The Administrator exercises his authority in accordance with the general policies established by the Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

(b) The powers of the Administrator and of the Agency are derived from the following statutes and Executive orders. The powers that were originally granted to the War Production Board or the Chairman of the War Production Board were transferred to the Civilian Production Administration or the Administrator under Executive Order 9638, dated October 4, 1945. 10 F. R. 12591, issued under Title I of the First War Powers Act, Public Law 354, 77th Congress, 55 Stat. 838.

(1) The priority and allocations powers.

(i) Executive Order 8629, January 7, 1941, 6 F. R. 191. Established Office of Production Management

(ii) Executive Order 8875, August 28, 1941, 6 F. R. 4483. Enlarged powers of OPM

(iii) Executive Order 9024, January 16, 1942, 7 F. R. 329. Established War Production Board

(iv) Executive Order 9040, January 24, 1942, 7 F. R. 527. Enlarged powers of WPB

(v) The Second War Powers Act, Title III, March 27, 1942, Public Law 507, 77th Congress, 56 Stat. 176. Contains the statutory priorities and allocations powers. It was amended and extended on December 20, 1944, Public Law 509, 78th Congress, 58 Stat. 827; December 28, 1945, Public Law 270, 79th Congress, 59 Stat. 658; and June 29, 1946, Public Law 475, 79th Congress.

(vi) Executive Order 9125, April 7, 1942, 7 F. R. 2719, Delegated powers of President to the Chairman of WPB under the Second War Powers Act

(vii) Executive Order 9599, August 18, 1945, 10 F. R. 10155. Established reconversion policies

(viii) Executive Order 9638, October 4, 1945, 10 F. R. 12591. Transferred powers and functions of WPB to the Civilian Production Administration

(ix) G. I. Bill of Rights, June 22, 1944, Public Law 346, 78th Congress, 58 Stat. 284. Priorities for Veterans' Administration.

(x) Flood Control Act, June 5, 1945, Public Law 75, 79th Congress. Priorities to replace farm machinery lost in floods.

(2) Requisitioning powers.

(i) Act of October 10, 1940, Public Law 829, 76th Congress, 54 Stat. 1090. Amended and extended July 2, 1942, Public Law 643, 77th Congress, 56 Stat. 467; June 28, 1944, Public Law 379, 78th Congress, 58 Stat. 624; June 30, 1945, Public Law 101, 79th Congress, 59 Stat. 270. Requisitioning of property whose export has been denied.

(ii) Act of October 16, 1941, Public Law 274, 77th Congress 55 Stat. 742, as amended and extended; March 27, 1942, Public Law 507, 77th Congress, 56 Stat. 181; June 30, 1943 Public Law 104, 78th Congress, 57 Stat. 271; June 28, 1944, Public Law 378, 78th Congress, 58 Stat. 624; June 30, 1945, Public Law 102, 79th Congress, 59 Stat. 271. Provides for requisitioning of property for defense.

(iii) Executive Order 8942, November 19 1941, 6 F. R. 5909; Executive Order 9024, January 16, 1942, 7 F. R. 329; Executive Order 9040, January 24, 1942, 7 F. R. 527; and Executive Order 9138, April 17, 1942, 7 F. R. 2919. Transfer powers of requisitioning to OPM and thence to WPB.

(3) Power over compulsory orders.

(i) Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, Section 9, September 16, 1940, Public Law 783, 76th Congress, 54 Stat. 892; amended June 25, 1943, Public Law 89, 78th Congress, 57 Stat. 164; extended May 9, 1945, Public Law 54, 79th Congress, 59 Stat. 166; May 14, 1946, Public Law 379, 79th Congress; June 29, 1946, Public Law 473, 79th Congress. Provides for seizure of plants.

(ii) Executive Orders 8629, 9024, and 9040 cited above. Transfer of powers under section 9 of Selective Training and Service Act to OPM and WPB.

(4) Suspension of anti-trust laws.

(i) Small Business Mobilization Act, June 11, 1942, Public Law 603, 77th Congress, 56 Stat. 351; amended and extended April 27, 1945, Public Law 42, 79th Congress, 59 Stat. 95. Powers with regard to utilization of small business and suspension of anti-trust laws.

(5) Stockpiling.

(ii) Executive Order 9599, Executive Order 9638, cited above. State reconversion policies as applied to WPB and then to CPA.

(c) Delegations of final authority to take action in the name of the Civilian Production Administration is made in CPA Regulation 1 (§ 903.0). By this regulation, action not taken in the name of the Administrator may be taken in the name of the Agency, countersigned or attested by the Recording Secretary, except (1) action under Public Law 603, 77th Congress (Smaller War Plants Act), and (2) delegations to Compliance Commissioners of the Civilian Production Administration, and (3) delegations to other agencies and officials of the Government.

(d) The Administrator is assisted in the discharge of his responsibilities and in the direction of the Agency by two Deputy Administrators and is aided by a staff of special assistants and advisors. In addition, he is assisted by:

(1) Deputy Administrator for Small Business who is authorized to exercise the powers and duties under sections 1 and 2 of Public Law 603, 77th Congress and who also is Director of the Office of Small Business, Department of Commerce, where he maintains his office;

(2) The Critical Products Committee, a committee of the CPA top staff delegated by the Administrator the responsibility for determining those products, designated as critical products, which, because of their importance and inadequate supply, require special priorities or other assistance in order to increase production.

§ 903.203 Office of the General Counsel. As a staff office of the Civilian Production Administration, the Office of General Counsel advises the officials of CPA in all matters involving questions of law as they relate to the present and proposed activities of the entire organization, including relations with other Government agencies. As part of this general responsibility, the Office performs a number of duties. Its staff drafts all proposed orders and regulations and prepares interpretations of regulations and orders issued by CPA in the manner prescribed in CPA Regulation 3. The Office of General Counsel exercises legal supervision over the formation and functioning of Industry Advisory Committees. The Office also supervises the legal aspects of the compliance activities of CPA designed to secure enforcement of the orders and regulations issued by the Administration. In this connection the legal staff participates in investigations and administrative hearings, drafts, charging letters, and orders, and recommends civil or criminal action to the Department of Justice, collaborating in such action with officials of that Department. The Office has regional attorneys who service the field offices. In addition, the Office is responsible for legislative matters in which the Agency is concerned.

§ 903.204 Office of Compliance Commissioners. The functions of the Chief Compliance Commissioner are to consider and determine appeals from the decisions of Compliance Commissioners; to exercise general supervision over the work of the Compliance Commissioners; to establish policies, standards, and procedures to be followed by the Commissioners; to issue rules governing appeals from suspension orders. The Compliance Commissioners' functions are to consider and decide all charges presented by the Compliance Division, Bureau of Priorities, of violations of Civilian Production Administration orders and regulations. The Commissioners preside at hearings held to consider all charges of violation of CPA orders and regulations presented and may administer oaths and affirmations and may require by subpoenas, issued in the name of the Civilian Production Administration, the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of any books, records or any other evidence. The Compliance Commissioners are authorized to recommend the administrative action to be taken in cases of violations, including the issuance of suspension orders. The Chief Compliance Commissioner is authorized to issue orders to effectuate his decisions, which are final.

§ 903.205 Office of Information. The Office of Information, a staff office of CPA, is responsible for keeping industry, labor, and the public, as well as other governmental agencies and Congress, fully informed about the current activities, programs and policies of CPA, and for describing such matters so they may be clearly understood. The methods used in accomplishing this objective include the preparing of daily press releases, supplying information and answers to specific queries, writing speeches and official statements, and direct contact work with members of the press, radio, trade journals, and magazines. An important aspect of the informational program is the prompt issuance of releases covering Industry Advisory Committee meetings, so that the subject matter of such meetings is available to nonparticipants and the public within a short time thereafter.

§ 903.206 Office of Labor Requirements. This staff office is maintained so that a close working relationship may be maintained between CPA and the agencies of the Federal government dealing with labor problems which are often of great importance in achieving maximum industrial production. The Office provides assistance to the Administrator in formulating policy by keeping him advised of the labor-manpower situation in critical areas or industries. It also serves as a channel whereby an interchange of fact and opinion between CPA and representatives of organized labor is maintained so that mutual confidence and cooperation may prevail. The Office assists the Government Presiding Officer at Labor Advisory meetings. It is responsible, through the Occupational Certification Review Committee which it chairmans, for final action on application for certification to the Selective Service System for deferment of essential personnel from military service. The Office also certifies to the Wage Adjustment Board for the Building and Construction Industry and to the National Wage Stabilization Board its interest in wage cases before those Boards, involving critical industries, with a view to obtaining prompt acton.

§ 903.207 Office of Economic Review and Analysis. Current economic analysis, research, and statistics required by the CPA as a basis for its policy and action is performed or supervised by this staff office. In cooperation with the program and statistical sections of the Industry Divisions, the Office makes studies for the Administrator as to the effect of existing or proposed regulations and the need for changes in existing controls. The Office prepares the Monthly Report on Civilian Production, a summary of the CPA program progress and the national production picture. It also represents CPA on inter-agency committees dealing with special problems of a statistical nature, and develops information for the use of such committees. Impact of nonresidential construction upon the supply of building materials is estimated by this Office from a continuing analysis of applications for non-residential construction.

§ 903.208 Bureau of International Supply. This Bureau is responsible for determining the extent to which exports should be controlled, to protect the needs of the domestic economy, to meet the obligations of this country to assist in rehabilitation of war-devasted areas, and to maintain U. S. commercial export trade. Where these objectives conflict, the Bureau must maintain a proper balance among them. The methods used by the Bureau in accomplishing its objectives are: granting priorities assistance to foreign purchasers; recommending the application of export license control to scarce materials and products, and the establishment of export quotas (against which the Office of International Trade, Department of Commerce, issues export licenses). The Bureau is also responsible for controlling imports, issuing recommendations to Reconstruction Finance Corporation for the public purchase of materials in short supply; and participating on behalf of the United States Government, in international commodity committees which have the responsibility for recommending to their constituent countries the equitable distribution of basic materials in global short supply.

§ 903.209 Bureau of Demobilization. (a) The Bureau of Demobilization is generally responsible for all internal administrative activities of the Civilian Production Administration, for making and executing plans for the future demobilization of the Agency, and for supervision of functions which are at present in the process of liquidation or which will continue to operate after the Agency expires, such as the writing of historical reports or studies.

This Bureau is composed of an Office of the Bureau Director, Division of Personnel Management, Division of Budget Administration, Division of Administrative Services, Policy Analysis and Records Branch, Recording Secretary Branch, Financial Policy Division, and the Industrial Statistics Division.

(b) The Division of Personnel Management is responsible for all personnel and employment activities of the Agency in Washington, D. C., and in the field offices, except that Regional Administrative Officers have authority to employ certain clerical and stenographic personnel in the field offices.

(c) The Division of Budget Administration is responsible for preparing budget estimates, for controlling the expenditure of funds appropriated by Congress, and for organizational planning as it pertains to current operations or to the liquidation of the Agency.

(d) The Division of Administrative Services is responsible for providing facilities for fiscal operations, such as accounting and auditing for the departmental and field services of the Agency, providing for space, equipment, supplies, printing and distribution of material, the routing and issuance of all communications, and for other related general office services.

(1) This Division also has an Inquiry Section which acts as the contact point between the Agency and the public. This section maintains a supply of official orders and regulations, forms, etc., which it distributes to interested parties on request. Letter requests, telephone requests, or personal requests to the Civilian Production Administration for information relating to the program are handled in this section. The Industrial Advisory Unit of this section interviews visitors to the Agency and advises them on the procedures to be followed under Civilian Production Administration orders and regulations and answers specific questions relating to Agency programs.

(e) The Policy Analysis and Records Branch is responsible for the preparation of historical studies of the Agency and its predecessors, special studies on individual critical materials and products, current studies and annual reports of the progress of reconversion under the present administration, and for the custody and disposition of official records of the Agency. The Historical Records Section of this Branch is in the process of building up a Policy Documentation File which is a collection of policy documents of the Civilian Production Administration and its predecessor agencies. This file is being made available to interested parties within the limits of military security and regulations prohibiting disclosure of confidential business data. A list of publications already available to the public may be obtained by submitting a request to this Branch.

(f) The Recording Secretary Branch is responsible for certifying all official CPA documents, for maintaining the records of all delegations of authority made under orders and regulations, and for acting as the liaison office with the FEDERAL REGISTER. By Civilian Production Administration Regulation No. 1, the Recording Secretary is delegated final authority to attest orders and official actions in the name of the Agency in accordance with the terms of the Regulation.

(g) The Financial Policy Division is responsible for matters pertaining to war contract renegotiation and termination; the requisitioning of property by the War Production Board necessary for the war effort, and the settlement of such cases; processing and approving or denying applications for Necessity, Non-Necessity Certificates, and amendments thereto, as provided under section 124 of the Internal Revenue Code; recommendations to Reconstruction Finance Corporation on Federal financing of facilities, and on manufacturing subsidies (other than building materials); and action on claims arising against the War Production Board or the Civilian Production Administration under the Contract Settlement Act of 1944.

(h) The Industrial Statistics Division is responsible for statistical studies based on records of the War Production Board. The Division is also responsible for the review and approval of all requests for data to be supplied by industry through forms, telegrams, or telephone inquiry and for an analysis of CPA forms to be issued in catalog form for industrial and Government use. The Division prepares, in cooperation with the Department of Commerce, "Facts for Industry", supplying statistical information to industry based on data collected or compiled by the War Production Board or Civilian Production Administration. In addition, the Division is responsible for the organization and analysis of War Production Board statistical material covering wartime material and production controls as a basis for the development of improved statistical methods for use in a future emergency situation.

§ 903.210 Bureau of Priorities.—(a) The Bureau of Priorities is responsible for the development, direction, and supervision of the priorities and allocation systems. In developing the policies, procedures, and techniques to be used the Bureau determines the necessity for the use of priorities to increase production of items where a shortage threatens to impede orderly reconversion and makes the final determinations of the quantities of materials to be allocated for specific purposes. The Bureau also establishes policies and coordinates programs designed to prevent hoarding and preemptive buying through control of inventories, and to direct the flow of surplus goods under certain emergency conditions. The Bureau is also responsible for establishing policies and coordinating the programs of the Agency on priority matters affecting Federal, State and local governments.

The Bureau also administers an impartial Appeals System in order to insure that the use of the priorities powers will not improperly discriminate against, or subject any individual or group to unreasonable hardship.

The Director of the Bureau of Priorities has authority to approve for issuance any action under the priority and allocation powers vested in the Agency, and to so authorize other officials of CPA or other Government agencies.

The Bureau of Priorities discharges its responsibilities through five divisions, two committees, and a review board, described in the following paragraphs:

(b) The Priorities Policy Committee, whose chairman is the Director of the Bureau, includes representatives of CPA from the Bureau of Industry Operations, Bureau of Construction and Field Operations, and Bureau of Priorities, the Office of Labor Requirements, the Office of Economic Review and Analysis; and representatives from the Offices of International Trade and Small Business, of the Department of Commerce; the Office of Price Administration; the Army and Navy Munitions Board, and such other staff groups of CPA or other Government agencies whose interest may be affected by proposed considerations. This Committee initially considers and passes on major matters of policy, including orders, regulations, or other subjects dealing with action by the CPA to increase or decrease controls on production or to regulate the use or distribution of materials, products, or services through the priorities or allocations powers. The Committee also takes jurisdiction on appeal by any affected office or agency from decisions of:

(c) The Clearance Committee, whose chairman is the Director of the Controls Readjustment Division. This Committee is composed of representatives, at a lower level, of the same groups as those represented on the Priorities Policy Committee. Generally, the Clearance Committee initially considers all policy matters which properly come before either of the committees, unless they are of obviously major importance or assigned by the CPA Administrator or the Chairman of either committee to the higher level.

(d) The Appeals Board is an independent group reporting to the Director of the Bureau of Priorities and is responsible for a fair and impartial administration of appeals from administrative actions of the Agency on the grounds of improper discrimination or unreasonable hardship. The Board renders final decision on all appeals from administrative actions taken under priorities orders and regulations of the Agency, with the exception of Compliance action. The appeals procedure under which this Board operates is given in Priorities Regulation No. 16.

(e) The Controls Readjustment Division is generally responsible for reviewing orders and regulations prior to issuance; supplying staff assistance to the Priorities Policy Committee, the Clearance Committee and the Appeals Board; developing procedures implementing orders and regulations and other plans and programs of the Agency; and reporting on the effectiveness of adopted programs. The Division is also responsible for delegating authority of the Director of Bureau of Priorities to take administrative action under the specific orders and regulations of the Agency, and has delegated authority to the Industry Divisions of the Bureau of Industry Operations and other organization units to take action contemplated under specific conservation and limitation orders.

(f) The Inventory Control Division is responsible for the administration of the orders and regulations controlling the accumulation of industrial and commercial inventories in order to avoid speculative hoarding and unbalanced distribution. The Division also coordinates the Agency's recommendations with respect to the declaration and disposal of surplus property, strategic or critical materials.

(g) The Special Assistance Division is responsible with the advice of the appropriate Industry Division for the approval or denial of all preference ratings or other instruments providing preference in delivery schedules, directives, or other special actions except those granted under specific limitation or conservation orders.

(h) The Inter-Agency Division deals with problems relating to Federal, State, and local government, and quasi-governmental agencies including prisons, colleges and schools, and other similar institutions, and the Canadian Government. The Division recommends the granting of priorities assistance to such agencies and advises on the effect on such agencies of actions taken by CPA. The Division also assists in remedying fuel and transportation problems delaying plants whose products are urgently needed.

(i) The Compliance Division is responsible for conducting investigations and surveys to insure compliance with CPA orders and regulations and has sole authority for such investigations and surveys. Such authority and responsibility has been delegated by the Director of the Compliance Division to Regional Branch Managers of the Compliance Division with authority to redelegate, with the consent of the Director of the Compliance Division, to other regional compliance personnel. Unless otherwise ordered, all employees of the Compliance Division may, in the course of their official duties exercise the authority conferred upon the President by the Second War Powers Act to make inspections and investigations in connection with the enforcement or administration of said Act; such employees include field employees assigned to compliance activities in their respective offices and all employees of other agencies of the United States who may be requested by the Director of the Compliance Division to assist in Civilian Production Administration compliance activities.

The Washington staff of the Compliance Division is responsible for the analysis and review of investigative reports submitted by the field, including the determination whether such cases should be closed or referred to the field for legal action. In addition, the Director of the Compliance Division has authority to effect quota adjustments under priorities orders and regulations in cases where the violator admits his violation and consents to such action.

The Compliance Field Offices are listed in § 903.213 (b). These offices conduct the investigations and surveys in connection with Compliance with the orders and regulations of CPA by audit and examination of documents and records of firms, subject to the orders and regulations, submitting investigative reports to the Washington office. The Field Compliance Offices also prepare cases returned by the Washington Office for presentation to the Regional Attorney for legal action recommended, and cooperate with him in prosecution of the cases.

The Field Compliance Offices also conduct investigations and surveys of compliance with the Emergency Premium Payment Regulations of the Housing Expediter in accordance with directives issued by him.

§ 903.211. Bureau of Construction and Field Operations. (a) The Bureau of Construction and Field Operations is responsible for the conservation of scarce building materials necessary for the Veterans Emergency Housing Program and other essential construction. The Bureau is also responsible for assisting in increasing the production of critical building materials.

The conservation of building materials is accomplished through the administration of the Veterans' Housing Program Order (VHP–1) which restricts construction. The Bureau of Construction and Field Operations processing applications for all types of construction except housing and farm construction. The National Housing Agency is charged with the responsibility of processing all housing applications, and the Department of Agriculture is charged with the responsibility of approving or disapproving applications for non-housing farm construction.

The Bureau of Construction and Field Operations is comprised of the Office of the Director, the Field Operations Division which directs the Regional and District Construction Offices, the Project Processing Division, the Facilities Review Committee, and the Production Expediting Division.

(b) The Field Operations Division directs the activities of the 10 Regional and 71 District Construction Offices listed in § 903.213 (a) that are established in principal cities throughout the country and in Honolulu and Puerto Rico.

(c) The District Construction Offices receive all non-housing and non-farm applications submitted under VHP–1. The Managers of the District Construction Offices are authorized to:

(1) Approve applications having a total cost of one million dollars or less;

(2) Deny initial applications without regard to dollar value;

(3) Recommend approval to the Washington Office on applications in excess of one million dollar valuation; and

(4) Approve or deny amendments to applications approved by the District Construction Manager increasing the total cost to not more than $1,500,000.00.

When requested by the applicant, the District Construction Manager may also reconsider decisions of denial made by him and approve such applications or, if denial is recommended, forward the case to Washington for administrative action.

Certain applications may be referred to the Washington Office for administrative action even though ordinarily within the scope of the District Construction Manager's authority. These include cases where considerations of national policy are involved or where additional special information is available only to the Washington Office.

A District Construction Committee, composed of a group of public advisers representative of the major economic interests, of the locality assists each District Construction Manager in the review of the applications. Each Committee generally includes a representative from an industrial interest, such as manufacturing, mining, lumber, etc., from the construction materials distribution industry, from the construction industry, from construction labor, from commercial interests, from the press, from state or civic government, and a representative of veterans of World War II. The Committee acts in an advisory capacity to the District Construction Manager who has sole authority to approve or deny the applications coming within his jurisdiction. In addition to the regular committee members, a representative of the National Housing Agency may attend the meetings as an observer and may appeal in writing from any decisions rendered by the District Construction Manager on applications considered at a meeting attended by him. Such appeals are forwarded to the Washington Office for final administrative action.

(d) The Project Processing Division is responsible for the approval or denial of applications for construction projects under the following circumstances:

(1) When the application is beyond the scope of field authority because the valuation exceeds $10,000,000.

(2) When the application is an appeal from decision rendered by the District Construction Manager; and

(3) When the project requires consideration on a national scale.

The Project Processing Division refers to the Facilities Review Committee appeals on all cases which it has previously denied unless the decision of denial is reversed and the case approved. It may, however, refer any case which it elects to the Facilities Review Committee.

(e) The Facilities Review Committee, of which the Director of the Bureau of Construction and Field Operations is the chairman, is composed of a representative of the Housing Expeditor, the CPA Office of Labor Requirements, the CPA Bureau of Priorities, the CPA Bureau of Industry Operations and the Project Processing Division. This Committee reviews applications for construction projects that are referred to it by the Project Processing Division. The committee acts in an advisory capacity to the chairman who has authority to approve or deny applications.

(f) The Production Expediting Division supervises and coordinates the activities of the Field Production Specialists, working under direct assignment of this Office in the areas where the most critical shortages occur, promote the productic of critical building materials by:

(1) Rendering production engineering services to the manufacturers;

(2) Expediting shipments of raw materials, component parts, and equipment necessary for urgent programs; and

(3) Aiding plants in adjusting their facilities and manpower to the production requirements established by the Washington office.

In cooperation with the Office of Labor Requirements, the Production Expediting Division prepares instructions for the field labor representatives in their investigation and solution of labor-manpower problems affecting the production of critical building materials.

§ 903.212 Bureau of Industry Operations. (a) The Bureau of Industry Operations is responsible for the execution of the policies, plans, and programs of the Civilian Production Administration which are designed to increase the supply, expand the production of materials, especially those in short supply, and for directing their distribution in order to complete the transition from wartime production to a maximum peace-time production in industry free from wartime government controls with due regard to the continued success of the Stabilization Program and assurance of completion of the Veterans Emergency Housing Program.

In carrying out its responsibilities, the Bureau analyzes the supply and requirements of resources, facilities, and materials and recommends appropriate conservation and limitation orders necessary to direct critically short items into the most essential uses. The Bureau also directs the preparation and execution of incentive programs and the development of substitute materials where production shortages indicate the necessity of such action.

The Bureau administers the specific CPA orders which control production and distribution of materials in short supply and recommends the use of priorities to break bottlenecks, expand production of materials in short supply, and assist small business and veterans of World War II in obtaining their business needs. The Bureau also recommends the control of inventories in order to avoid speculative hoarding and unbalanced distribution.

The Bureau has the authority to make allocation of materials in critically short supply to the most essential users where specific allocation programs have been established and to take other administrative actions contemplated under the conservation and limitation orders of the CPA. The Bureau also has authority within CPA for the administration of the Premium Price Plan on copper, lead, and zinc; and to determine the amounts of strategic and critical materials necessary to make up any deficiency of the supply of such materials for the current requirements of industry, for exemption from the stockpiling requirements of Public Law 520 of the 79th Congress.

(b) The Bureau of Industry Operations discharges its responsibilities through the organization described in the following paragraphs:

(1) The Office of the Director is responsible for coordinating the activities of the various divisions and for representing the CPA on the Inter-Agency Steering Committee on Premium Payments organized by the Housing Expediter for the purpose of devising production incentive programs to alleviate critical shortages of building materials needed in the Veterans Emergency Housing Program. This office also supervises and coordinates the work of CPA in preparing incentive production program proposals and implementing approved programs.

(2) The Office of Industry Advisory Committees is responsible for the formation and operation of Industry Advisory Committees, in accordance with an exchange of letters with the Attorney General. Industry Advisory Committees are carefully selected groups of businessmen, representative of their industry, which may be called on to give expert advice and criticism of proposed policies and programs prior to adoption by CPA.

(c) The eight industry divisions of the Bureau, described in the following paragraphs, serve as the general contact of CPA with the industries which are assigned to their jurisdiction. The divisions are generally responsible for assisting industry to overcome production bottlenecks; to expand production of materials and products, especially those in short supply, to meet the needs of the economy; and to assist in the reconversion of industrial facilities from wartime to full peacetime production. The divisions are also responsible for collecting and analyzing supply and requirements data relating to the materials and products under their jurisdiction, and for recommending new controls or the cancellation or modification of controls exercised over industry to achieve the objectives of the Agency. In addition, the divisions are the point of consultation and reference on all matters within the Agency which relate to the industries under their jurisdiction.

(1) The Building Materials Division is responsible for increasing the production and directing the distribution of construction components in short supply, with the exception of lumber and a few minor ones in order to meet the needs of the Veterans Emergency Housing Program and other construction. The Division administers the specific CPA orders dealing with building materials and has the authority to take action contemplated by those orders. The Division also represents CPA on various Specific Task Committees, appointed by the Housing Expediter's Inter-Agency Committee on Premium Payments, to devise production incentive programs needed to further stimplate production of building materials in short supply. When such programs have been developed and approved, the Division also participates in their administration by assisting the Housing Expediter to establish and adjust production goals, quotas and premium payments, and by performing such other services as the Housing Expediter may direct.

The Division discharges its responsibilities through the following seven branches:

Building Board and Roofing Products.
Clay and Concrete Products.
Electrical Products.
Hardware and Small Tools.
Heating.
Metal Building Materials.
Plumbing.

(2) The Chemicals Division is responsible for increasing the production of chemicals, including alcohols, aromatics, intermediates, pharmaceuticals, plastics, and other chemicals and related products which are in short supply and for directing their distribution to the most effective use.

The Division administers the specific conservation and limitation orders of CPA in the chemicals field and has the authority to take actions contemplated by those orders.

The Division discharges its responsibility through the following three branches:

Alcohols, Aromatics and Drugs.
Inorganics.
Plastics and Protective Coatings.

(3) The Consumers Hard Goods Division is responsible for increasing production, effecting proper distribution, and assisting manufacturers of consumers hard and durable goods, including furniture, household appliances, housewares, personal goods, and health, safety and technical equipment.

The Division discharges its responsibilities through the following two branches:

Consumers Durable Goods, Health Supplies, Safety and Technical Equipment.

(4) The Equipment Division is responsible for production and distribution of machine tools, and general industrial, construction, farm, communications, automotive, and other types of equipment. The Division also administers the Utilities Order, U–2, which establishes the sequence of installation of new telephone service.

The Division discharges its responsibilities through the following nine branches:

Automotive.
Construction Machinery.
Farm Machinery and Equipment.
General Industrial Equipment.
Service Equipment.
Shipbuilding, Tools.
Transportation Equipment.
Utilities.

(5) The Forest Products Division is responsible for increasing the supply and directing the distribution of lumber, plywood, pulpwood, paper, paperboard, and other forest products. The Division is also responsible for the containers, printing, and publishing industries in matters dealing with the supply and requirements for machinery and production materials. The Division administers the containers simplification order designed to increase the supply of critically short glass containers and other specific orders dealing with forest products. The Division has authority to take action contemplated by the orders it administers.

The Division represents CPA on various specific Task Committees dealing with forest products, appointed by the Housing Expediter's Inter-Agency Committee on Premium Payments, which develops incentive production programs to further stimulate production of building materials needed in the Veterans Emergency Housing Program. The Division also participates in the administration of approved programs by assisting the Housing Expediter to establish and adjust production goals, quotas, and premium payments and by performing such other services as the Housing Expediter may direct.

The Division discharges its responsibilities through a Program Branch which is responsible for gathering statistics on supply, requirements, and current production on all products handled by the Division and through the following three industry branches:

Lumber and Lumber Products.
Paper and Paperboard (including printing and publishing machinery).
Containers.

The Division also maintains a field office in Portland, Oregon, which assists in the administration of lumber program in the Far Western States.

(6) The Metals and Minerals Division is responsible for increasing the production and directing the distribution of basic metals and minerals, such as steel, copper, aluminum, magnesium, tin, lead, zinc, and many others which are in short supply. The Division administers the specific conservation and limitation orders covering metals and minerals, develops program for public purchase and stockpiling of metals and minerals in short supply, and develops recommendations as to the amounts of strategic and critical materials necessary to make up any deficiency of the supply of such materials for the current requirements of industry, for exemption from the stockpiling requirements of Public Law 520 of the 79th Congress. The Division is also responsible for directing the distribution of metals and minerals for which there are specific allocation programs. The Division participates in the Premium Price Plan for copper, lead and zinc, under which premiums are paid by the Office of Metals Reserve for mine production in excess of quotas recommended by a quota committee. The Division supplies the chairman of the committee and three members and the Office of Price Administration supplies three members. The committee's recommendations are subject to the approval of three reviewing offices, one from the Division, one from the Office of Price Administration and one from the Office of Metals Reserve, RFC.

The Division discharges its responsibility through the following six branches:

Aluminum and Magnesium
Copper.
Cork and Asbestos.
Miscellaneous Minerals (including mining machinery and equipment).
Steel.
Tin, lead, and Zinc.

(7) The Rubber Division is responsible for the production program for synthetic rubber and for controlling the use of synthetic and natural rubber. The Division is also responsible for controlling the production and distribution of tires, tubes, and other rubber consuming products.

The Division administers Rubber Order, R–1, which controls the use and distribution of synthetic and natural rubber. The Division discharges its responsibility through the following four branches:

Production.
Rubber Supply and Statistics.
Technical Control and Analysis.
Technical Administration.

(8) The Textile Division is responsible for increasing the production of textile, clothing, leather, and related products and their raw materials and for the proper distribution of such products and materials in short supply to meet the essential civilian need as well as continuing military and export requirements. The Division administers the specific conservation and limitation orders in these fields and allocates textiles to the production of low cost clothing in order to assist the stabilization program.

The Division discharges its responsibilities through the following branches:

Appeals—considers appeals under orders administered by the Division.
Authorizations—responsible for granting or denying initial applications for assistance under orders administered by the Division.
Programs—responsible for collecting the supply and requirements data on products handled by the Division and recommending production and distribution programs.
Clothing, Knit Goods and Equipage.
Cotton and Synthetic Textiles.
Hide and Leather.
Wool, Cordage and Textile Machinery.

PART 903—ORGANIZATION AND DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY

[Organizational Document 2]

AVAILABILITY OF CIVILIAN PRODUCTION ADMINISTRATION RECORDS

Sec.
903.301 Scope.
903.302 Published official records.
903.303 Unpublished official records.
903.304 Retention of official records.

§ 903.301 Scope. In accordance with section 3 of the Administrative Procedure Act, the records, including opinions and orders, with which the public may be properly concerned are listed, described, and classified below with respect to their official nature and confidentiality. The location of the records, their availability, and methods of requesting permission to examine them, are given for each type of record. The records, with certain exceptions, will be made available to persons properly and directly concerned. Each request will be considered on its own merits and requests may be denied if the records contain information held confidential for security reasons or disclose confidential business information, if they are found confidential for reasons of administrative privacy, or if the request would delay action on pending cases. Unless otherwise designated, the official to whom the request is made will decide whether to grant it.

§ 903.302 Published official records. The following types of records, amendments, interpretations, directions, and similar supplementary documents, are published in the daily issues of the FEDERAL REGISTER, which may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C. By the Federal Register Act, certified copies of orders and regulations are available for public inspection in the Division of the Federal Register, The National Archives, Washington 25, D. C.

(a) Regulations:
(1) Civilian Production Regulations.
(2) Priorities Regulations.
(b) Orders:
(1) "L" Series (Limitation Orders).
(2) "M" Series (Conservation, Allocation and Scheduling Orders).
(3) "R" Series (Rubber Orders).
(4) "S" Series (Suspension Orders).
(5) "U" Series (Utilities Orders).
(6) "VHP" Series (Veterans Housing Program Orders).
(7) Consent Orders.
(c) Directives (Delegations of Authority).
(d) Procedural Documents.
(e) Organizational Documents.

Printed copies of current orders and regulations may be obtained upon request in person or by mail to the Inquiry Section, Civilian Production Administration, Room 1501, Social Security Building, Washington 25, D. C. Current orders relating to construction or housing may be obtained from the field offices of the Civilian Production Administration.

§ 903.303 Unpublished official records. (a) Applications are filed by individuals, partnerships, or corporations in accordance with rules set forth in orders and regulations issued by the Administration. They are on file either in the Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C., or the agency indicated in the governing order. Requests may be made in person or by letter to the Director of the division designated in the governing order. Inquiries respecting the proper source of information may be directed to the Inquiry Section, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

Construction applications (Form CPA-4423) involving amounts less than $1,000,000 initially, or $1,500,000 including amendments, are generally on file in the District Office to which application was made.

(b) Authorizations and denials often form a part of the applications and are filed with them. Inspection may not be permitted if confidential information is revealed, but information respecting the authorization or denial may be furnished.

(c) Data Request Forms are filed by individuals, partnerships, or corporations in accordance with the provisions of orders and regulations issued by the Administration. The rules governing requests to consult these records are the same as those governing applications.

(d) Appeals Records are documents relating to the filing of appeals, hearings, and findings of the Appeals Board. They consist of the following: (1) Appeal filed by an individual in accordance with provisions of the governing order or regulation; (2) Recommendation of the Civilian Production Administration division having jurisdiction; (3) Verbatim transcript of the hearing before the Appeals Board; (4) Finding of the Appeals Board; (5) Letter to appellant embodying final actions.

These records are filed in the Civilian Production Administration in the Division having jurisdiction. Bequest may be made to the Director of that division in person or by letter, and that official with concurrence of the Chairman of the Appeals Board will determine whether to grant it.

(e) Compliance Records relate to proceedings before Compliance Commissioners. They include: (1) Report of the compliance investigator; (2) Analyses of Compliance Division; (3) Warning or charging letters; (4) Verbatim transcripts of hearings before Compliance Commissioners; (5) Report and recommendations of Compliance Commissioners; (6) Appeals of respondents, answers, and replies; (7) Decision of Chief Compliance Commissioner on appeal; (8) Suspension, Consent, or Probation orders, or revocation thereof.

These records are filed in the Compliance Division, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C. Requests may be made in person or by letter to the Director of the Compliance Division.

(f) Priorities Policy Decisions are determinations of the Bureau of Priorities with respect to ratings, allocations, export quotas, etc. These are on file in the Bureau of Priorities and request may be made in person or by letter to the Director.

(g) Industry Advisory Committee Minutes and membership lists are on file in the Office of Industry Advisory Committees, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C. Requests may be made in person or by letter to the Director.

(h) Labor Advisory Committee Minutes and membership lists are on file in the Office of Labor Requirements, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C. Requests may be made in person or by letter to the Assistant Director of that Office.

(i) Records of Premium Price Plan Quota Committee consist of quota lists and assignments to mine owners issued by the Quota Committee under the Premium Price Plan. These records are on file in the Office of the Executive Secretary of the Committee, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C. They are confidential as they contain business information.

(j) Determinations of deficiency of material for civilian production under section 6a of the Strategic and Critical Materials Stockpiling Act (Public Law 520, 79th Congress) are on file in the Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C., in the division having responsibility for the material concerned. Requests may be made in person or by letter to the Director of the division.

(k) Recommendations to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to sell from its stockpiles are on file in the Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C., in the division having responsibility for the material concerned. Requests may be made in person or by letter to the Director of the division.

(l) Directives to the War Assets Corporation relate to the disposal of surplus property to particular assignees, and are on file in the Routing and Issuance Section, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C. Requests may be made in person or by letter to the Director of the Special Assistance Division, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

(m) The following records are on file in the Financial Policy Division, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C. and are generally confidential. Requests may be made in person or by letter to the Director of that division. (1) Recommendations to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance plant construction; (2) Records relating to claims under section 17 (except 17b) of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944; (3) Records pertaining to the requisitioning of property for war purposes; (4) Tax Amortization Records.

(n) Records relating to claims under section 6 and 17b of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 are on file in the Accounts and Audits Branch, Division of Administrative Services, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C., and requests may be made in person or by letter to the chief of that branch.

(o) Directives against new production are on file in the Routing and Issuance Section, Division of Administrative Services, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C. Requests may be made in person or by letter to the Director of the Special Assistance Division.

§ 903.304 Retention of official records. All of the records described will not be retained permanently by the Administration. It is the policy of the Administration to recommend to the Archivist of the United States the disposal of records which are not of permanent value in accordance with the applicable provisions of law. Accordingly in some cases records over two years old may not be available.

PART 904—PROCEDURES

[Procedural Document 1]

METHODS AND PROCEDURES FOR ISSUANCE OF CPA ORDERS AND REGULATIONS

Sec.
904.101 Scope.
904.102 Initiation of requests for policy decisions or orders and regulations.
904.103 Procedure.
904.104 Interpretations and explanations of orders and regulations.

§ 904.101 Scope. This document describes the general course and method which the Civilian Production Administration uses in the preparation, clearance, and issuance of orders and regulations, issued under the priorities and allocation powers.

§ 904.102. Initiation of requests for policy decisions or orders and regulations. (a) Each division of the Bureau of Industry Operations, upon detecting reconversion problems within its industry, proposes remedial measures. These remedial measures may be designed to direct the distribution of available supplies of short materials, or they may be designed to stimulate the production of such materials.

(b) The appropriate division of the Bureau of Priorities initiates priorities regulations, regulations establishing policy, plans, and general methods of implementation of actions under the priorities system and other regulations applicable to more than one industry for controlling the distribution of materials, for scheduling production of deliveries of products when necessary and for controlling inventories.

§ 904.103 Procedure. (a) The following steps outline the procedure which is usually followed by CPA in making policy decisions, and in considering whether to issue an order or regulation.

(1) The division or bureau director initiating an order or regulation consults with appropriate officials in CPA and other Federal agencies who can render useful service and advice. Budget and procedural implications of orders and regulations are considered before the order or regulation is submitted for issuance.

(2) If a proposed order or regulation will result in a substantial change in the rate of operations of an industry and security regulations permit, it is generally submitted to the appropriate industry advisory committee for advice.

(3) The Controls Readjustment Division, to which a draft of the proposed order or regulation is submitted with a full justification of its necessity, distributes copies of the proposal to all interested persons within CPA and within other cooperating Government agencies for examination of its impact on the products or special functions within their jurisdiction.

(4) The Office of Economic Review and Analysis may prepare a report of the production and distribution situation including an analysis of the factors creating the problem and recommendations for action by CPA or other Government agencies.

(5) The initiating division or office studies the suggestions made, incorporating those which it believes relevant, and summarizes all unresolved issues.

(6) The proposal, together with the statement of unresolved issues, is presented to the Clearance Committee or the Priorities Policy Committee whose members represent all parts of CPA and all cooperating Government agencies.

(7) The Clearance or Priorities Policy Committee reviews the proposal for conformity to CPA policy, necessity for the proposed action, and whether the proposed action is the most effective means of accomplishing the desired result.

(8) The Chairman of the Priorities Policy Committee or the Chairman of the Clearance Committee recommends to the Director of the Bureau of Priorities the action CPA should take. If it is decided that a proposed order or regulation should be issued, it is attested by the Recording Secretary, filed and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

§ 904.104 Interpretations and explanations of orders and regulations. After orders and regulations have been issued as described above, interpretations of them are issued only in accordance with the rules stated in CPA Regulation 3 and have the effect stated in that regulation.

PART 904—PROCEDURES

[Procedural Document No. 2]

METHODS AND PROCEDURES GOVERNING APPLICATIONS FOR ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION, OR APPEALS FROM SUCH ACTION

Sec.
904.201 Scope.
904.202 Basis for applications.
904.203 Processing of applications.
904.204 Grants and denials of applications.
904.205 Reconsiderations and appeals.

§ 904.201 Scope. This document describes the general procedures followed by the Civilian Production Administration in handling applications under priorities and allocation orders and regulations. Other documents may provide rules for special cases.

§ 904.202 Basis for applications. The Civilian Production Administration generally exercises its priorities and allocation powers through orders and regulations. These orders which in general restrict or control the use or distribution of materials or products, or provide for the granting of priorities assistance, are designed to accomplish the objective of the Agency in the reconversion program.

The orders or regulations specify the manner in which an individual must apply to obtain the benefits granted by the orders or relief from the restrictions imposed by the orders.

All Civilian Production Administration orders and regulations are published in the FEDERAL REGISTER and in addition Procedural Document No. 4 (§§ 904.401 to 904.406) includes the procedure governing the submission of applications.

§ 904.203. Processing of applications. (a) Consideration of applications within the Civilian Production Administration includes a comparison of the applicant's stated position with the criteria of the relevant order or regulation.

(b) An administrator of an order, regulation or program has general responsibility for processing all requests for action under it. The administrator is usually a member of the operating division in the Civilian Production Administration which is responsible for the product, material, or activity covered by the order or regulation. He is advised by other offices having an interest in the material, product requested, or in the activity in which the applicant is engaged. The administrator is responsible for securing uniformity of administrative action under the order, regulation, or program he is administering.

(c) Veterans' Housing Program Order 1, limiting construction, is administered both in Washington and the field and applications under it are handled as follows:

The Civilian Production Administration field construction offices receive all construction applications, except housing and farm ones, which are handled by the National Housing Agency and the Department of Agriculture, respectively. The Civilian Production Administration field construction offices have authority to take action on applications within certain limits. In considering such cases a field office is usually advised by a local construction committee whose chairman is a Civilian Production Administration employee and whose membership is representative of the major interests of the community. Cases which the field offices have no authority to process and appeals from actions taken in the field are forwarded to the Project Processing Division in the Bureau of Construction and Field Operations in Washington. That Division in turn handles certain cases and refers others to the Facilities Review Committee. This committee is advisory to its Chairman and considers all cases referred to it, including appeals not approved by the Project Processing Division. Section 903.211 of Organizational Document No. 1 provides further information on handling of cases under Veterans' Housing Program Order 1.

§ 904.204 Grants and denials of applications. As provided in Civilian Production Administration Regulation 1, the grant or denial of any application for administrative action under a priorities order or regulation is valid only when issued by the Administrator of the Civilian Production Administration or in the name of the Civilian Production Administration countersigned or attested by the Recording Secretary.

§ 904.205 Reconsiderations and appeals. An applicant may request that a Civilian Production Administration action taken with respect to him be reconsidered. Generally such a request should be filed where the original application was filed except as otherwise provided. When requests are based on a claim of exceptional and unreasonable hardship or discrimination they are handled as appeals under Priorities Regulation 16. That regulation explains when a person may have his case considered by the Appeals Board whose decision is final.

Issued this 28th day of August 1946.

APPLICATIONS, FORMS AND REPORTS

Sec.
904.401 Reporting and application requirements in orders and regulations.
904.402 Other reporting requirements.
904.403 Printed forms.
904.404 Other applications and reports.
904.405 Table I.
904.406 Table II.

§ 904.401 Reporting and application requirements in orders and regulations. Orders and regulations of the Civilian Production Administration may provide for the filing of applications and reports. Where a specific CPA printed form is to be used, the order or regulation identifies it by CPA form number. However, in many cases a specific form is not prepared and the order or regulation itself contains the reporting requirements. A frequent example of this is a provision to the effect that where the terms of an order cause unreasonable hardship, a person may request relief by letter.

As explained in Priorities Regulation 8 (§ 944.29) where a published CPA order or regulation requires the filing of a report by a specified class, every person belonging to that class must file the report in accordance with applicable instructions.

§ 904.402 Other reporting requirements. The Civilian Production Administration may also require reports which are not specified in an order or a regulation. Priorities Regulation 8 (§ 944.29) provides that such a report must be submitted by a person who receives written notice to do so in either of the following ways: (1) A letter or other written instrument specifically addressed to him issued in the name of the Civilian Production Administration, countersigned or attested by the Recording Secretary, or in accordance with CPA Regulation No. 1 (§ 903.0); or (2) a report form or instruction sheet with an official form number in the "CPA" series bearing his name or enclosed in an envelope specifically addressed to him.

§ 904.403 Printed forms. All printed applications or other forms carry on the form (or on separately printed instructions) the form number, the date issued or last revised, the title of the form, the related order or regulation, if any, where and when to file it, the number of copies required and other pertinent items of instruction. All printed CPA forms are stocked in the Washington office of the Civilian Production Administration; selected forms are stocked in the Civilian Production Administration Field Construction Offices and in the Department of Commerce Field Offices. These forms are listed numerically in § 904.406 Table II below.

§ 904.404 Other applications and reports. Where an order or a regulation provides for filing an application or a report but not on a printed CPA form, the order indicates the contents of the reporting requirements, the place and date of filing and the number of copies which should be sent. These requirements are listed in § 904.406 Table II below.

§ 904.501 Investigations and action thereon. (a) The Compliance Division has sole authortiy within the Civilian Production Administration for authorizing and conducting investigations and surveys relating to compliance with CPA orders and regulations.

(b) Systematic surveys are undertaken by the compliance field staff under all major programs of the Civilian Production Administration to determine violations. These surveys are planned and directed by the Washington compliance staff and are conducted through audit and examination of documents and records of firms subject to the orders and regulations of the agency. When completed the surveys are analyzed and evaluated by the Washington compliance staff and, where necessary, referred to the field for further action. Investigations are also made by the compliance staff of specific complaints of violations which are received by the Agency.

(c) After completion of an investigation which has disclosed a violation, the Director of the Compliance Division may either close the case, issue a warning letter, effect a quota adjustment if the violator admits the violation and agrees to the adjustment, or refer the case to the Office of the General Counsel or Regional Attorney for legal action. The Office of the General Counsel or the Regional Attorney may refer the case to the Department of Justice for criminal or civil action or institute administrative proceedings. In the latter event a charging letter or telegram is prepared for the signature of the Director of the Compliance Division or the Regional Branch Manager advising the respondent of the specific violations charged and the administrative action that may be taken against him.

§ 904.502. Charging letter. When a letter charging specific violations has been issued by a Regional Compliance Manager, the respondent is advised that the matter will be presented to a Compliance Commissioner at a hearing. The respondent should write or phone the Regional Compliance Manager to arrange a date for the hearing. In the event the respondent does not communicate with the Regional Compliance Manager prior to the date specified in the letter, the Regional Compliance Manager will set the date and the respondent will be advised.

§ 904.503 Compliance Commissioners. The Compliance Commissioners of the Civilian Production Administration are appointed by the Administrator, are attached to his office, and are responsible solely to him. They are not a part of the Office of the General Counsel or the Compliance Division. The duty of Compliance Commissioners is to hear and determine charges of violation of orders and regulations of the Civilian Production Administration which have been brought by the Compliance Division against persons or corporations, who are referred to as respondents.

§ 904.504 Hearings. Hearings before Compliance Commissioners are held for the purpose of bringing forth all of the facts and circumstances relevant to the charges which have been made. These hearings are purely voluntary and no respondent is required either to attend or to testify. Violations of Civilian Production Administration regulations and orders are criminal offenses, punishable by imprisonment or a fine under the Second War Powers Act, and respondent is entitled to his constitutional privileges against self-incrimination. The Compliance Division is represented by its attorneys and such investigators or analysts as are necessary to present its side of the case. The respondent may be represented by counsel and should bring to the hearing such other persons as are necessary to present its defense or explanation of the charges. The respondent should be represented by persons thoroughly familiar with its operations and the controls it has established to comply with applicable orders and regulations. If records or reports are to be offered in support of the respondent's explanation or defense, the person offering such records or reports should be familiar with their preparation and factual background. Two copies of any explanatory statement which has been prepared and one copy of every other document to be offered for the Commissioner's consideration should be submitted at the hearing.

§ 904.505 Witnesses; admissions and denials by respondent. Witnesses at hearings are not placed under oath unless the Commissioner deems it necessary. At the beginning of each hearing the Commissioner will attempt to determine what facts are in issue. If the respondent admits the facts which constitute the violations charged, the Commissioner will request the respondent to present whatever explanation or defense he has to offer respecting the charges. If, on the other hand, respondent denies any or all of the facts set forth in the charges, the Compliance Division will be called upon to produce proof of the charges. A transcript of the proceedings is made by a court reporter, and a copy of it may be obtained by respondent at his own expense.

§ 904.506 Matters of defense. Respondent's explanation or defense should in general be restricted to matters which may excuse, explain, or disprove the violations charged. Respondent will, however, be afforded an opportunity to state by way of explanation any operational difficulties or problems which may have caused or contributed to the violations, including problems of accounting, bookkeeping, production or purchasing, or any other practical difficulties experienced in conforming or attempting to conform to the applicable regulations or orders. The Commissioner may also call upon production or priority experts of the Civilian Production Administration for advice or assistance during the course of the proceeding.

§ 904.507 Recommendations and directives by Compliance Commissioners. Compliance proceedings are instituted for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not violations have occurred and, if violations are found, what action, administrative or otherwise, shall be taken, and for the further purpose of determining the reason for the violations and how they can be prevented in the future. After considering the case, the Compliance Commissioner may recommend: (a) That a suspension order be issued against the respondent, withdrawing or withholding priorities assistance and allocations or allotments of scarce materials or otherwise restricting the respondent in the acquisition, production, use or disposition of scare materias or items containing scarce materials, or otherwise regulating the business conducted by respondent in order to assure future compliance; (b) That the case be referred to the Department of Justice with a recommendation for the institution of civil or criminal proceedings; (c) Or the Commissioner may direct: (1) That no final disposition be made of the case for a specified period of time pending a determination of the possibility of continuing violations in the future; (2) That the case be closed.

§ 904.508 Review by Director of the Compliance Division and General Counsel. Upon the basis of the facts brought forth at the hearing, the Compliance Commissioner will make a report containing findings of fact and recommendations. In the event the Commissioner recommends the issuance of a suspension order, the report will be forwarded to Washington, where the recommendation will be subject to review by the Director of the Compliance Division and by the General Counsel of the Civilian Production Administration, but only in the following respects:

(a) If either the Director of the Compliance Division or the General Counsel do not concur, no suspension order may be issued, and

(b) The Director of the Compliance Division and the General Counsel may jointly revise the recommended order by reducing the period of suspension or otherwise mitigating the effect of the order, but may not prescribe a more severe order than has been recommended.

§ 904.509 Suspension orders. Suspension orders are not ordinarily issued unless the Commissioner finds that the violations were wilful or caused by gross negligence, but where the suspension order is designed to affect a readjustment in cases where the respondent has exceeded his allowable quota or allocation of receipts, use, production or delivery of materials, or to reduce an excessive inventory, or to put a stop to violations, no finding of wilfulness or gross negligence is required.

§ 904.510 Consent orders; exceptions and authorizations under suspension orders. The Director or Deputy Director of the Compliance Division may at any time, with the approval of the Office of the General Counsel and a Compliance Commissioner, direct the issuance of a suspension order upon the consent of the respondent and the issuance of specific exceptions or authorizations under suspension orders; this authority may be delegated by the Director to other officials of the Civilian Production Administration.

§ 904.511 Authority of Chief Compliance Commissioner where no appeal is made. The Chief Compliance Commissioner may also at any time, with the consent of the Office of the General Counsel, revoke or modify any suspension order by diminishing the period of suspension or the restrictions imposed though no appeal from the order has been taken by the respondent.

§ 904.512 Appeal. If the respondent objects to the action taken against him, he may appeal in writing to the Chief Compliance Commissioner, Civilian Production Administration, Washington, D. C., whose decision in the case shall be final. A copy of the "Rules and Procedure Governing Appeals from Suspension Orders" will be given the respondent or his attorney at the time of the Compliance hearing. In all cases in which a suspension order is issued, a copy of the Compliance Commissioner's Report and Final Recommendations will be sent to the respondent with a copy of the suspension order.

§ 904.513 Investigatory proceedings. In order to secure evidence which investigators have been unable to obtain, the Regional Attorney and the Regional Compliance Manager may institute investigatory proceedings before a Compliance Commissioner, and subpoenas may be issued by the Commissioner requiring the presence of witnesses or production of documents. Such hearings should never be used as "fishing expeditions", and the evidence sought to be obtained should always be material to the subject of the investigation. No report or recommendation shall be made by the Compliance Commissioner who acts solely as a presiding officer.

§ 904.514 Temporary suspension order; special hearing. Subject to the approval of the Office of the General Counsel, the Director or Deputy Director of the Compliance Division may, at any time, direct the issuance of a temporary suspension order with or without notice. In such cases the alleged violator may request a special hearing without the issuance of a formal charging letter and arrangements for such hearing shall be made by the Regional Compliance Manager as speedily as possible. If the alleged violator consents in writing to the terms of the temporary suspension order or waives a hearing, the order will then be made permanent. In all other cases the Regional Compliance Manager shall issue a charging letter as soon as possible in order that the respondent may be informed of the charges against him and a hearing held as soon as practical.

§ 904.515 Appearances by former WPB or CPA employees. No person shall represent, or be permitted to represent, a respondent in any hearing before a Compliance Commissioner, or act, or be permitted to act, as agent or attorney for, or representative of, any person, corporation, partnership, association, or organized group of persons in any compliance proceedings in the Civilian Production Administration, if such person (1) is or has been at any time associated with the specific matter involved as an officer or employee of the War Production Board or the Civilian Production Administration or (2) has been within one year an officer or employee of the War Production Board or the Civilian Production Administration.

RULES AND PROCEDURES GOVERNING APPEALS FROM SUSPENSION ORDERS

Sec.
904.601 Appeals by respondents.
904.602 Stays pending appeal.
904.603 Deputy Chief Compliance Commissioner.

The following rules and procedures have been prescribed by the Chief Compliance Commissioner of the Civilian Production Administration.

§ 904.601. Appeals by respondents. (a) Any person or corporation affected by the provisions of a suspension order may appeal from any or all of the provisions of such order to the Chief Compliance Commissioner of the Civilian Production Administration.

(b) The appeal shall be made in writing and must be submitted within thirty day from the date of issuance of the suspension order, Provided, however, The Chief Compliance Commissioner may in his discretion permit the filing of an appeal at any time during the effective period of the Suspension Order.

(c) The respondent will file a signed original and three copies of the appeal with the Chief Compliance Commissioner, Rm. 4062, Social Security Building, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C. The Chief Compliance Commissioner will furnish copies of the appeal to the Director of the Compliance Division and the appropriate Regional Compliance Manager.

(d) The appeal shall set forth the points relied upon by the respondent for relief from the provisions of the Suspension Order together with the arguments advanced in opposition to the findings. The appeal may also set forth the effect of the Suspension Order upon the respondent's operations. The Chief Compliance Commissioner will not consider arguments bearing on the policy embodied in the orders or regulations which the respondent has been found to have violated.

(e) The Director of the Compliance Division or the Regional Compliance Manager who issued the letter charging the violation upon which the suspension order was based may within fifteen days from the receipt of an appeal file with the Chief Compliance Commissioner an original and three copies of an answer to the appeal. A copy of any such answer shall be furnished the respondent, and within five days from the receipt of the answer, respondent may file with the Chief Compliance Commissioner an original and three copies of a reply. The Chief Compliance Commissioner may in his discretion require the filing of an answer within a shorter period of time.

(f) The Chief Compliance Commissioner may, after the filing of an appeal, permit the respondent to appear before him and make an oral presentation of his appeal. The Director of the Compliance Division will be notified of any meeting and a representative of the Compliance Division will be permitted to attend and present the views of the Division.

(g) The Chief Compliance Commissioner, after a review of the record in the case in the light of the appeal, the answer and the reply, will either grant or deny the appeal in whole or in part, and his decision thereon shall be final.

(h) No person shall represent, or be permitted to represent, a respondent in any appeal if such person

(1) is or has been at any time associated with the specific matter involved as an officer or employee of the War Production Board or the Civilian Production Administration; or

(2) has been, within one year, an officer or employee of the War Production Board or the Civilian Production Administration.

§ 904.602 Stays pending appeal. Pending the determination of an appeal, the Chief Compliance Commissioner, upon a showing of irreparable harm, may in his discretion stay the provisions of a Suspension Order. An application for a stay must be made in writing to the Chief Compliance Commissioner.

§ 904.603 Deputy Chief Compliance Commissioner. The Chief Compliance Commissioner may assign cases to his Deputy who shall be authorized to exercise any and all of the powers of the Chief Compliance Commissioner with respect to the cases so assigned.

Issued this 28th day of August 1946.

INDUSTRY ADVISORY COMMITTEES

Sec.
904.701 Consultation with Committees.
904.702 Formation.
904.703 Authority for use of Committees.
904.704 Attendance.
904.705 Informal conferences.
904.706 Functions of the Office of Industry Advisory Committees.

§ 904.701 Consultation with Committees. The Civilian Production Administration generally consults the appropriate industry advisory committees before taking action which would materially affect production or distribution of a product or material. The Civilian Production Administration industry division having jurisdiction over an industry to be affected is responsible for discussing the plan with the Industry Advisory Committee for that industry. Exceptions to this rule are made where prompt action is imperative or where prior public knowledge of an intended action would defeat its purpose. In such cases the action is customarily discussed with the Industry Advisory Committee soon afterwards.

§ 904.702 Formation. Industry Advisory Committees are formed by the Director, Office of Industry Advisory Committees, on the recommendation of the directors of the industry divisions, who submit reasons for formation, proposed membership with statistical data to show its representative character, proposed Government Presiding Officer, and proposed agenda for first meeting.

The membership of Industry Advisory Committees is limited to senior executives from the minimum number of companies necessary to represent a fair cross section of the industry from the standpoints of (a) large, medium and small companies, (b) geographical distribution, (c) trade association membership, and (d) segments of the industry (types of products, degree of integration, etc.). To promote free discussion different levels of production and distribution are regularly represented by separate Industry Advisory Committees rather than by a single Committee consisting of customers and suppliers.

§ 904.703 Authority for use of Committees. To assure Industry Advisory Committee members against involuntary violation of the anti-trust laws while attending meetings, the Civilian Production Administration and its predecessor agencies exchanged letters with the Attorney General, which approved the use of Industry Advisory Committees provided certain limitations and restrictions are observed. The members of the committees are given to understand that they defray their own expenses, that their function is solely advisory and that the Government will make no commitments to them. They are warned that any concerted action they take, except to agree on recommendations at meetings officially called and presided over by the Government Presiding Officer, is subject to the normal operation of the anti-trust laws. The membership of the Industry Advisory Committees is checked in relation to the compliance proceedings of the Civilian Production Administration in accordance with the policy to suspend or remove from the Committee members who are found in violation of Civilian Production Administration orders.

§ 904.704 Attendance. (a) Any subject which is within the purview of the Civilian Production Administration may be placed on the agenda of an Industry Advisory Committee meeting. Where the subjects are of direct interest to other agencies or concern joint responsibilities of the Civilian Production Administration and other agencies, the Civilian Production Administration seeks to have authorized spokesmen from all responsible Government units attend the meetings and participate in the discussion. Attendance by "observers" is discouraged. Where all participating agencies agree to observe the rules used by the Civilian Production Administration to protect Industry Advisory Committee members from anti-trust violations, the Civilian Production Administration calls jointly sponsored meetings for discussion of interagency problems.

(b) To enable expeditious handling of business, industry attendance is regularly limited to Industry Advisory Committee members or Civilian Production Administration approved alternates. In restricting attendance the Civilian Production Administration accepts the responsibility of making available to companies not represented on the Industry Advisory Committee and to the public the information disclosed to Industry Advisory Committee members. This is accomplished by asking Industry Advisory Committee members to discuss freely with interested persons all proceedings not designated confidential, issuing full press releases on meetings, and making summaries of meetings available to the entire industry and the trade press.

§ 904.705. Informal conferences. On technical or specialized problems or preliminary to formation of an Industry Advisory Committee, the appropriate industry division director or the Director, Office of Industry Advisory Committees, may call an informal conference of industry representatives. He may also request a small group of industry representatives to prepare and submit a report based on their knowledge or on information readily available to them. The "task group letter" advises the addresses not to circulate questionnaires or consult their competitors. The Civilian Production Administration takes action on recommendations of a "task group" only where an Industry Advisory Committee has previously approved the "task group" for the purpose of making a recommendation, or the recommendation has been discussed with the Industry Advisory Committee.

§ 904.706 Functions of the Office of Industry Advisory Committees. In addition to general supervision over Industry Advisory Committees, the Office of Industry Advisory Committee performs the following functions:

(a) Calls a meeting of the Industry Advisory Committee at the request of any 3 members who submit an agenda adjudged within the purview of the Civilian Production Administration;

(b) At the request of interests not represented by an Industry Advisory Committee and who wish to discuss the effects of Civilian Production Administration actions on their operations, arranges for an informal conference with responsible Civilian Production Administration officials, or, cooperates with the appropriate division director in forming an Industry Advisory Committee;

(c) Considers and acts on recommendations for changing the membership of Industry Advisory Committees to increase their representative character, and in particular to increase the representation for small business;

(d) Makes available to persons properly and directly concerned the membership lists and summaries of meetings of Industry Advisory Committees.

§ 904.801 Consultation with committees. The Civilion Production Administration generally consults the appropriate Labor Advisory Committee in situations in which its actions or proposed actions would have a material affect upon labor or in which the viewpoint of labor is desired before a final decision is reached.

§ 904.802 Meetings. Meetings are called at the request of the Government presiding officer in the Industry Division affected or at the request of the Office of Labor Advisory Committees with the approval of the Division Director. Members of the Labor Advisory Committee who wish to suggest a meeting may address their request to the appropriate Industry Division Director or to the Director, Office of Labor Advisory Committees, supplying a proposed agenda.

§ 904.803 Formation. Labor Advisory Committees are formed by the Director, Office of Labor Advisory Committees on the recommendation of the Director of the Industry Division who submits information on the purpose for which the Labor Advisory Committee is to be established, the proposed composition of the committee, the date and time of the first meeting and the Government representatives to be notified of the meetings, and the proposed Government presiding officer.

§ 904.804 Membership. The membership of Labor Advisory Committees is selected from the labor organizations involved in the industries in question. The labor organizations are requested to nominate members who will represent a fair cross section of employment in the industry. Attendance at meetings is limited to the Committee members or their approved alternates.

§ 904.805 Public information. (a) The Civilian Production Administration informs the public of information disclosed to Labor Advisory Committee members by:

(1) Asking Committee members to discuss with all interested parties, proceedings not specifically labeled "confidential",

(2) Issuing press releases on all meetings, and

(3) Making summaries of all meetings available.

(b) The membership of each committee is publicized at the time of its first meeting and the list of Committee members are available at the Office of Labor Advisory Committees to persons properly and directly concerned.

PART 904—PROCEDURES

[Procedural Document 9, as Amended Sept. 4, 1946]

CIVILIAN PRODUCTION ADMINISTRATION'S PROCEDURE RELATIVE TO SELECTIVE SERVICE CERTIFICATIONS

Sec.
904.901 General policies.
904.902 Special provisions.
904.903 Civilian Production Administration certification.
904.904 Definitions.
904.905 Civilian Production Administration certification policy.
904.906 Civilian Production Administration certification procedure.

§ 904.901 General policies. (a) In compliance with policies and procedures established under Selective Service Local Board Memorandum No. 115, as amended, the Civilian Production Administration will certify applications for occupational deferment of key workers in essential reconversion production and transportation.

(b) In general, a registrant age 19 through 29 may be retained or placed in Class II–A if the local board finds that he is irreplaceable and indispensable to an activity essential to the national existence. An activity essential to the national existence is one of such importance that any disruption thereof would adversely affect the physical well-being, the public safety or economic life of the community or the nation.

§ 904.902 Special provisions. In order to meet more adequately the most essential civilian manpower needs of the nation, however, special provision has been made by the Selective Service System permitting the certification of certain registrants by specified governmental agencies. These certifications are to be submitted to Selective Service Headquarters and transmitted by the Director of Selective Service to the local draft boards through the State Directors. The boards are instructed to give the most serious consideration to the occupational deferment of such registrants. The following certifications have been authorized:

(1) Registrants engaged in advanced studies in the physical sciences and engineering will be certified by the Office of Scientific Research and Development.

(2) Registrants engaged in university research in the physical sciences or engineering will be certified by the Office of Scientific Research and Development.

(3) Registrants engaged in industrial and foundational research in the physical sciences or engineering will be certified by the Office of Scientific Research and Development.

(4) Teachers in accredited colleges or universities will be certified by the United States Office of Education.

(5) Production workers in essential reconversion industries and transportation will be certified by the Civilian Production Administration.

(6) Construction workers will be certified by the National Housing Agency.

§ 904.903 Civilian Production Administration certification. (a) In accordance with Selective Service policies, the Civilian Production Administration will certify the following registrants engaged in production (Authority to certify for transportation workers has been delegated to the Office of Defense Transportation by Directive 45):

(1) Supervisory, technical, or scientific personnel whose removal would significantly retard production in industries essential to reconversion or otherwise essential to the national existence;

(2) Qualified and irreplaceable production workers in industries designated as critical by CPA. The Civilian Production Administration, from time to time, makes a determination of critical products, in programs such as veterans' housing, public health, and food and famine relief, requiring special Government action. The current List of Critical Materials and Products can be obtained by writing to the Office of Economic Review and Analysis, Civilian Production Administration, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 904.904 Definitions. (a) The industries intended to be covered by §904.903 (a)(1) above are those considered by the Civilian Production Administration to be essential, though not necessarily critical, to the present national reconversion and production programs. Supervisory personnel are those responsible for directing and coordinating the activities of a group of workers on a specific job. Technical personnel are employees who by reason of specialized training and/or work experience are particularly qualified to perform work of a highly technical nature (e. g. engineers, metallurgists and journeymen patternmakers). Scientific personnel are those educationally qualified to perform professional work in the physical sciences and whose activities are immediately and directly related to production processes.

(b) It is intended that the industries covered in § 904.903 (a)(2) above will be limited to those listed on the CPA Critical Materials and Products List. By qualified and irreplaceable production workers is meant all categories of workers engaged in the production of "critical products" whose loss would result in a material reduction in the output of such products and for whom no qualified replacements are available.

§ 904.905 Civilian Production Administration certification policy. It is expected that CPA certifications will be held to a minimum. Only upon that basis is it possible for Selective Service Headquarters to accept the certifications in good faith and for local boards likewise to honor the certifications. All applications for deferment will therefore be scrutinized very carefully and the above criteria and definitions will be applied in a strict and equitable manner.

§ 904.906 Civilian Production Administration certification procedure. Employers or self-employed registrants who seek a CPA certification should send to the Civilian Production Administration, Office of Labor Requirements, Washington 25, D. C., a complete set (original, duplicate and triplicate) of Selective Service Form 42A (Special-Revised). The form can be obtained from the local draft boards. Extreme care should be exercised to furnish adequate details. In addition to a mere description of the registrant's job, there should be a clear indication of the relation between the registrant's work and reconversion, national existence, or critical production, and a showing of the probable effect of the loss of the registrant upon output. The record of the registrant's prior work experience and educational background should present data pertinent to the specific activities described above. Applicants for certification will be advised of Civilian Production Administration action promptly.

CLAIMS UNDER THE CONTRACT SETTLEMENT ACT OF 1944

Sec.
904.1001 Claims under section 17.
904.1002 Other claims, including certain claims under section 17b.
904.1003 Approval or denial of claims.
904.1004 Appeals.

§ 904.1001 Claims under section 17. All claims asserted against the War Production Board or the Civilian Production Administration or requests made under section 17 of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 (58 Stat. 649) except as noted below, should be submitted to the Director of the Financial Policy Division. Where the Director finds that a claimant has a valid claim or request, he will certify to the Division of Budget Administration and the Division of Administrative Services the extent to which the claimant is entitled to fair compensation or fair treatment. These reference Divisions will take the necessary administrative action to insure completion of the case.

§ 904.1002 Other claims, including certain claims under section 17b. All claims asserted or requests made under section 17b of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944 with respect to contracts entered into on behalf of the Civilian Production Administration or on behalf of the War Production Board and authorized under Congressional appropriations, and with respect to settling claims arising from terminated war contracts so entered into and authorized (such as the contracts which were sponsored by the Office of Production Research and Development) should be directed to the Contract Termination and Settlement Officer of the Division of Administrative Services. This officer has authority to negotiate with claimants. The terms of the proposed settlements under terminated war contracts will be presented to the Civilian Production Administration Settlement Review Board for approval. After approval of the terms by the Board, the Contract Termination and Settlement Officer will take the necessary steps to provide payment. On requests or claims on matters relating to non-terminated contracts made by the Civilian Production Administration or War Production Board, the same official, acting as the Civilian Production Administration Contracting Officer, will decide the case, although the Civilian Production Administration Settlement Review Board may act in an advisory capacity upon request of the Contracting Officer.

§ 904.1003. Approval or denial of claims. The appropriate Civilian Production Administration official will, subject to the approval of the Office of the General Counsel, and in conformity with Regulation 12 of the Office of Contract Settlement, approve or deny claims or requests asserted under section 17 of the Contract Settlement Act of 1944, except those section 17b claims which must also have approval of the Civilian Production Administration Settlement Review Board.

§ 904.1004 Appeals. Appeals under section 13 (a) of the act should be filed with the Appeal Board of the Office of Contract Settlement in accordance with Regulation 15 of that office.

COMMITTEE FOR RECIPROCITY INFORMATION

[19 CFR, Ch. III]

PART 310—CREATION AND AUTHORITY, ORGANIZATION AND ACTIVITIES

Sec.
310.1 Creation and authority.
310.2 Purpose.
310.3 Organization.
310.4 Activities.

§ 310.1 Creation and authority. The Committee for Reciprocity Information was created by Executive Order 6750, issued June 27, 1934, which was amended by Executive Order 8190 issued July 5, 1939, and further amended by Executive Order 9647 issued October 25, 1945. Executive Orders 6750 and 8190 were issued pursuant to the provisions of section 4 of the Act approved June 12, 1934 (48 Stat. 945; 19 U. S. C. (1940) 1354), and Executive Order 9647 was issued pursuant to that section, as amended by Public Law 130, 79th Congress, approved July 5, 1945.

§ 310.2 Purpose. The above-mentioned section 4 provides in part that before a trade agreement is concluded with any foreign government reasonable public notice shall be given in order that interested persons shall have an opportunity to present their views to the President or to such agency as the President may designate. The Committee for Reciprocity Information is the agency created for the purpose of receiving such views. The purpose of the Committee is to accord reasonable opportunity to all interested persons to present their views, formally or informally, on any proposed or existing trade agreement or any aspect thereof.

§ 310.3 Organization. The Committee consists of members appointed from the personnel of their respective agencies by the Chairman of the United States Tariff Commission, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Commerce and the heads of such other agencies as the Secretary of State may designate on the recommendation of the Committee. In practice the members of the Committee are the persons most directly concerned with actual trade agreement negotiations and other trade agreement matters in the department or agency which they represent. The Chairman of the Committee is designated from among the members of the Committee by the Secretary of State. The Committee is authorized to designate such subcommittees as it may deem necessary.

§ 310.4 Activities. (a) The Committee's work is primarily concerned with receiving, and disseminating to the governmental departments and agencies concerned with the negotiation and administration of trade agreements, information and views presented by interested persons in regard to any proposed or existing agreement, or any aspect thereof.

(b) These views are received in formal briefs filed, and during formal hearings held, at times fixed by the Committee following the public notice by the Secretary of State of intention to conclude a trade agreement, and at other times in connection with formal hearings to consider the operation of a trade agreement. The Committee also receives informal views with respect to the operation of existing trade agreements or the possible conclusion of new agreements.

(c) The rules issued by the Committee provide that formal statements submitted to it in writing shall be in ten copies and that the original shall be under oath. Anyone who has presented a written statement and has requested to be heard may make oral presentation at the formal public hearings. The Committee digests the written and oral views received and transmits the digests to the various departments and agencies concerned with the trade-agreements program; the complete statements received by it are also available to those departments and agencies. Information submitted to the Committee by interested parties, except oral testimony and exhibits in public hearings, is treated as confidential and for the sole use of the governmental departments and agencies concerned. Transcripts of oral testimony adduced at public hearings, including exhibits presented at such hearings, are available for inspection by persons properly and directly concerned upon application to the Executive Secretary of the Committee. Copies of transcripts of the record of oral testimony at public hearings may be obtained by purchase from the official reporter.

(d) Communications should be addressed to the Committee for Reciprocity Information, Tariff Commission Building, 8th and E Streets, N. W., Washington 25, D. C.

EDWARD YARDLEY,
Executive Secretary.

PART 315—SUGGESTIONS AS TO THE METHOD AND CHARACTER OF REPRESENTATIONS TO THE COMMITTEE FOR RECIPROCITY INFORMATION

Sec.
315.1 General.
315.2 Data with respect to import items.
315.3 Data with respect to export items.

§ 315.1 General. (a) The Committee for Reciprocity Information is the agency designated by the President, pursuant to section 4 of the Trade Agreements Act, as amended, to receive the views of interested persons on any proposed or existing trade agreement or on any aspect thereof. This obligation naturally carries with it responsibility for seeing that views and information thus received are made available, promptly and in convenient form, to the trade-agreements organization for consideration, along with other available information, in arriving at specific recommendations with reference to tariff or other trade barriers affecting either import or export items. In fact, there are very close working relationships between the Committee for Reciprocity Information and the Trade Agreements Committee, the latter being the Committee which heads up the trade-agreements organization and is responsible for specific recommendations regarding trade-agreement action to the Secretary of State and the President.

(b) The Committee for Reciprocity Information believes it is desirable to offer certain suggestions as to the character of the data to be submitted to it in connection with trade-agreement matters. These suggestions are intended to indicate the types of information and data that are ordinarily most helpful to the interdepartmental trade-agreements organization in the performance of its functions. They apply to the preparation of written briefs and statements and to the presentation of oral views with regard to current trade-agreement negotiations, as well as to the presentation of problems that may arise in connection with existing trade agreements.

(c) It is the Committee's desire to obtain as much information as possible in advance of the negotiation of any trade agreement. The Committee is available for consultation with business and other interests concerning any phase of trade-agreement matters. Arrangements may be made to confer informally with the Committee concerning any special problem that may arise incident to current trade-agreement negotiations or in relation to an agreement already concluded. The Committee also receives suggestions regarding the possibility of initiating trade-agreement discussions with countries with which negotiations have not been announced.

(d) Whenever trade-agreement negotiations are contemplated, public notice of intention to negotiate is issued by the Secretary of State. At the same time there is issued a list of products upon which reductions or bindings in the United States tariff or other import charges may be considered; and no item which is not covered by this list, or by a supplemental announced list, will be a subject for negotiation. The Committee for Reciprocity Information also issues a notice indicating the time and place for the submission of written briefs concerning any matter relating to the proposed negotiations and the time and place of public hearings at which additional information and views may be presented. It is suggested that the text of these announcements be given careful attention in order that interested parties may determine the character of the data which they think may most usefully be conveyed to the Committee.

(e) There is no public announcement of the items on which concessions will be requested from the country or countries with which negotiations are contemplated. With respect to export items, therefore, representations, both in writing and orally, are in order with respect to any item of which the United States is actually or potentially an important source of foreign supply for the country in question.

(f) Written briefs are submitted to the Committee in ten copies (one of which is under oath) and in accordance with a few other simple rules which are stated in the announcements. All information submitted to the Committee by interest parties, except oral testimony and exhibits in public hearings, is treated as confidential and for the use of only the interdepartmental trade-agreements organization.

(g) Arrangements for appearances at public hearings should be made with the Committee within the time indicated in the announcements. The rules provide that only those who have previously filed written statements and have requested to be heard may make oral presentations at public hearings. While it is not the intention to exclude any form of presentation, it is preferable that material presented orally should expand or supplement rather than merely repeat data previously presented in writing, except as relevant to additional views presented. Also, the hearings provide an opportunity to cover developments which have taken place since a brief was submitted, or to present information not easily susceptible of explanation in writing. It is particularly desirable that detailed or voluminous statistical material be presented in writing rather than orally.

(h) Communications should be addressed to the Committee for Reciprocity Information, Tariff Commission Building, Eighth and E Streets, NW., Washington 25, D. C.

(i) Before submitting suggestions of a positive type regarding the kind of information which is ordinarily considered helpful, the Committee desires to call attention to certain negative aspects. It is anxious to discourage, so far as possible, the presentation of unnecessary and irrelevant data. The emphasis should be on presentation of factual information and views pertinent to the specific matters under consideration. All-inclusive requests and general protests are unlikely to prove helpful. There is no point, for example, in protesting against the philosophy and objectives of the Trade Agreements Act or the negotiation of any trade agreement whatsoever with the country under consideration, since these matters lie outside the scope of the Committee's functions.

(j) The following suggestions regarding data to be presented concerning export and import items are offered merely as a guide and are not intended to preclude the submission of other factual information and data that may be considered of importance in a particular case.

§ 315.2 Data with respect to import items. (a) As regards possible concessions by the United States on import articles, it is suggested that in any representation in behalf of domestic industry, attention should be given to:

(1) The precise interest which the writer or witness has in the proposed negotiations; the concern which he represents, its location, size, character of output, and importance in the given industry.

(2) The character of the domestic industry concerned; uses of its products; general location of plants; the number and character of the employees, whether skilled or unskilled; the quantity and value of the annual output; the position of the industry in the national business structure; and available information concerning costs in the domestic industry in comparison with costs in the principal competing foreign countries. In the latter connection, comparative data on labor costs should relate primarily to cost per unit of output (resulting from the combination of the productivity of labor and rates of wages). Information regarding wages alone, independent of productivity, is of only limited value.

(3) The extent and character of the competition to which the domestic industry has been or may be subjected by reason of imports, indicating by description and by price brackets, if possible, the precise products in which competition has chiefly been encountered or is to be foreseen. If competition is localized, the markets in which competition is expected might also be indicated. Since there is a possibility that, to a limited extent, existing tariff items may be subclassified with a view to distinguishing those types or classes of the general commodity which differ as regards the extent of foreign competition, suggestions for possible subclassification may also be made. These suggestions should, however, be for subclassification along natural lines recognized in the trade and should not involve excessively fine distinctions.

(4) Data on sources of past imports, and prospective changes in sources if the United States duties should be reduced.

(5) Particularly useful are details of a kind not revealed by official statistics and known only within the trade, such as those relating to types and grades produced or imported, style trends, recent inventions, improvements in processes, and the like.

(6) In those special cases where claim is made that the national security is involved in consideration of the tariff on any item, full substantiating data should be submitted on an industry-wide basis. If either maintenance or education in the tariff is requested, information as to the critical character of the item in wartime, domestic availability, et cetera, should be provided, and in the case of an inexhaustible resource, the effect upon the reserve position of the country from a relatively long-range standpoint should be given. If it is claimed that national security requires maintenance of the existing tariff, data should be furnished to show that the effects of reduction would be such that military and essential civilian requirements for the item could not be met in the event of another national emergency. It will not be sufficient merely to show deliveries for military or essential civilian purposes during the war just ended, and no useful purpose is likely to be served by claims of national-security interest when the item referred to is essential only in the broad sense that all items needed for military or civilian consumption in wartime are essential.

(7) If the interest of the domestic industry is in securing a reduction of the United States tariff on a product which it utilizes in its operations, it should submit, in addition to such information referred to in the next paragraph below as may be pertinent to its particular situation, full information regarding the nature and extent of the impediment to its operations resulting from the existing tariff on the item under reference.

(b) Importers or others desiring a reduction in the United States duty on any commodity should submit data relating to the domestic industry and to imports similar to that suggested in the preceding paragraphs and should also furnish information, often not readily available from published sources, regarding conditions and trends in the foreign industry as affecting imports into the United States. Where appropriate, information should be submitted with regard to competition between imports and the nearest comparable domestic product, including the extent to which they are actually interchangeable, taking into account grade and quality, consumer preferences for foreign specialties, seasonality in imports or domestic production, and other pertinent factors. The number and character of employees, whether skilled or unskilled, engaged in processing and distributing imports might also be indicated.

§ 315.3 Data with respect to export items. Representations concerning concessions to be requested of a foreign government should include information, as far as possible, on the following points:

(a) Brief description of the business of the firm or individual submitting the request, with particular reference to production and sales for export, location of plant, quantity and type of labor employed, et cetera.

(b) Description of commodities for which concessions are sought.

(c) Production of commodities itemized under 2 above and percent exported. (Give figures for the individual firm and the domestic industry as a whole.)

(d) Sales experience of the concern, and of the industry generally, in the foreign country with which a trade agreement is contemplated.

(e) Full information concerning the trade barriers from which relief is requested, with suggestions as to specific changes desired, and with particular reference, where applicable, to the following:

(1) Import duties and other charges. (Give, when possible, tariff classification, item numbers, nomenclature, and approximate ad valorem equivalent of specific duties, methods of valuation, basis of duty, kind of duty, fines, et cetera.)

(2) Tariff preferences. (Indicate nature, extent, and effect of preference.)

(3) Quantitative restrictions (quotas).

(4) Clearing, barter, or other agreements involving discrimination against the United States.

(5) Import licensing requirements.

(6) Exchange control restrictions.

(7) Government monopolies or other forms of state trading.

(8) Customs regulations (marking requirements, documentation, and other formalities).

(f) Supporting data available to the trade, such as:

(1) The competitive situation in the foreign market, both with respect to competition with domestic production and with imports from sources other than the United States.

(2) Peculiar marketing or other conditions such as those involved in cartel organization, government subsidy to domestic production, or other similar factors.

(g) In the case of countries with which our trade was interrupted by the war, it would in general be desirable to base requests for concessions on pre-war trading experience, with such comment as is possible on the current and anticipated post-war situation.

EDWARD YARDLEY,
Executive Secretary.

COMMITTEE ON PURCHASES OF BLIND-MADE PRODUCTS

[41 CFR, Ch. III]

PART 302—ORGANIZATION AND PROCEDURES

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

Sec.
302.1 Committee on Purchases of Blind-made Products.
302.2 Procurement Division of the Treasury Department.
302.3 National Industries for the Blind.
302.4 Delegations of final authority.
302.5 Information, submittals and requests.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURES

302.101 Basic procedures.
302.102 Schedule of blind-made products.
302.103 Violations.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

§ 302.1 Committee on Purchases of Blind-made Products. The Committee on Purchases of Blind-made Products consists of seven members appointed by the President, one of whom is a private citizen conversant with the problems of employment of the blind and the others are representatives, respectively, of the Departments of the Treasury, War, the Navy, the Interior, Agriculture and Commerce. The Committee is headed by a chairman designated by the members from among their number. It is the duty of the Committee under the Wagner-O'Day Act of June 25, 1938 (41 U. S. C. 46–48) to determine from time to time the fair market price of products manufactured by the blind and offered for sale to the Federal Government by non-profit-making agencies for the blind, to make rules and regulations relating to specifications, delivery and related procedural matters, and to facilitate the distribution among the blind agencies of purchase orders of Federal agencies, which must place purchase orders for their needs with blind agencies for those blind-made products available within the period specified unless such products are available at Federal Prison Industries, Inc. or are for use outside continental United States. This work is performed by the Committee directly and with the assistance of two coordinating organizations, the Procurement Division of the Treasury Department and the National Industries for the Blind.

§ 302.2 Procurement Division of the Treasury Department. The Procurement Division of the Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C., has been designated by the Committee to coordinate purchases of blind-made products by Federal agencies (41 CFR 301.3). It provides the Committee with an executive secretary and legal and administrative services.

§ 302.3 National Industries for the Blind. The National Industries for the Blind, 15 West 16th Street, New York, New York, has been designated by the Committee as the central non-profit-making agency to facilitate the distribution of Federal purchase orders among the agencies for the blind (41 CFR 301.2). It maintains liaison between the Procurement Division and the blind agencies and determines to which blind agency shall be allocated particular orders.

§ 302.4 Delegations of final authority. Unless a case assumes serious proportions, determination that a blind agency has or has not violated the regulations of the Committee may be made by the secretary of the Committee with the concurrence of the chairman.

§ 302.5 Information, submittals and requests. The public, orally or in writing, may secure information or make submittals or requests concerning the operations of the Committee by addressing the Committee care of the Procurement Division, Treasury Department, 7th and D Streets, S. W., Washington 25, D. C. All final opinions or orders in the adjudication of cases, including those relating to eligibility of blind agencies to participate in the program, suitability for sale of blind-made commodities and violations of Committee regulations, and all rules issued by the Committee are available for public inspection. Matters of official record, pertaining principally to such eligibility, suitability and violations will be made available to persons properly and directly concerned for inspection or copying, and copies will be provided upon payment of their cost.

SUBPART B—PROCEDURES

§ 302.101 Basic procedures. The basic procedures prescribed by the Committee for performing operations under the Wagner-O'Day Act (41 U. S. C. 46–48) are published in 41 CFR, Part 301.

§ 302.102 Schedule of blind-made products. The Committee issues from time to time through the Procurement Division a schedule of blind-made products, and amendment thereto, describing blind-made products available, fair prices, specifications, etc. and including the text of the Wagner-O'Day Act (41 U. S. C. 46–48) and the regulations prescribed by the Committee.

§ 302.103 Violations. Where an alleged violation of the regulations has occurred, the blind agency concerned is notified by the secretary of the Committee and afforded an opportunity to submit a statement of facts and evidence on the subject. Such statement is generally considered satisfactorily authorized when signed by the manager of the blind agency workshop and attested by an officer of the private organization controlling it or, in case of governmental workshops, when signed by an official of the controlling department. In appropriate cases oral testimony may also be taken, particularly when the workshop requests a hearing. The secretary of the Committee with the concurrence of the chairman may ordinarily determine whether a violation has or has not occurred. Where a violation is found, the secretary notifies the National Industries for the Blind to discontinue allocation of orders to the blind agency concerned until the Committee is satisfied its operation is in accord with the regulations.

Secretary.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION

§ 149.1 General. The Commodity Exchange Commission consists of the Secretary of Agriculture, Chairman, the Secretary of Commerce, and the Attorney General (7 U. S. C. 2, 8). The Commission has no employees but operates through employees of the Commodity Exchange Authority, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture (7 CFR, 2322.1 (a)).

§ 149.2 Office. The office of the Commission is at Washington, D. C. Communications should be addressed to the Secretary of Agriculture, Chairman, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 149.3 Availability of information and records. Any person desiring information or desiring to make submittals or requests with respect to the functions of the Commission should address: Secretary of Agriculture, Chairman, Commodity Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. The official records of the Commission relating to disciplinary proceedings and proceedings to exclude cooperative associations or corporations from membership in contract markets are available for examination at the Office of the Hearing Clerk, Office of the Solicitor, United States Department of Agriculture. Official records of the Commission relating to rule-making proceedings are available for examination at the office of the Administrator of the Commodity Exchange Act, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture.

SUBPART B—FUNCTIONS AND PROCEDURES

§ 149.10 Functions. Pursuant to the provisions of the Commodity Exchange Act (7 U. S. C. 1–17a), the Commodity Exchange Commission:

(a) Initiates complaints, conducts administrative hearings, and issues cease and desist orders or suspension orders in connection with violations of the Commodity Exchange Act by any board of trade (commodity exchange) designated as a contract market, or any director, officer, agent, or employee thereof (17 CFR, 0.53–0.72; 10 F. R. 9707, 13489).

(b) Conducts hearings and fixes trading limits in connection with the sale of commodities for future delivery made on or subject to the rules of contract markets (17 CFR, 0.73–0.77; 10 F. R. 9707, 13489).

(c) Hears and decides complaints filed by a contract market seeking to exclude from membership therein and privileges thereon any cooperative organization or corporation (17 CFR, 0.78–0.95).

(d) Hears and decides appeals from a refusal by the Secretary of Agriculture of designation of any board of trade as a contract market.

§ 149.11 Procedures. The procedure governing proceedings under § 149.10 (a), (b), and (c) may be found in that part of the Code of Federal Regulations cited therein. Inquiries about procedure governing appeals from decisions of the Secretary of Agriculture under § 149.10 (d) should be addressed to the Secretary of Agriculture, Chairman, Commodity Exchange Commission.

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF WASHINGTON

[12 CFR, Ch. IV]

PART 401—ORGANIZATION

Sec.
401.1 Authority.
401.2 Purpose.
401.3 Organization.
401.4 Official records.

§ 401.1 Authority. (a) The Export-Import Bank of Washington was established in 1934 as a banking corporation organized under the laws of the District of Columbia. The Bank was continued as an agency of the United States by acts of Congress in 1935, 1937, 1939, and 1940, and was made an independent agency of Government by the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945, as amended. (59 Stat. 341–602; 12 U. S. C. 635)

(b) In addition to its capital stock of $1,000,000,000 subscribed by the United States, the Bank is authorized to borrow from the Secretary of the Treasury on the evidence of its own debentures or other acceptable obligations an amount not in excess at any one time of two and one-half times its authorized capital stock. The earnings of the Bank provide an additional source of funds.

(c) The Bank has been given broad powers to do a general banking business and to make practically any type of loan, without limitation as to the amount of loans to any one borrower, in so far as the exercise of these powers is necessary to carry out its fundamental purpose of assisting in the financing of United States foreign trade. (See Part 421 of this chapter for statements of transactions expressly forbidden to the Bank or excluded by reason of its general policies.)

(d) The Bank shall not have outstanding at any one time loans and guaranties in an aggregate amount in excess of three and one-half times its authorized capital stock, or $3,500,000,000. However, over a period of time the Bank can obviously handle a total volume of business larger than this amount because of participations by private banks with the Bank without its guaranty, because of sales by the Bank to private persons of paper from its portfolio without its endorsement or guaranty, and because of the release of funds through repayments.

§ 401.2 Purpose. The purpose of the Bank, as laid down by Congress, is to aid in "the financing and facilitating of exports and imports and the exchange of commodities between the United States or any of its Territories or insular possessions and any foreign country (or the Philippine Islands) or the agencies or nationals thereof." (59 Stat. 341,602; 12 U. S. C. 635.) All of the operations of the Bank are and must be related to this fundamental purpose.

§ 401.3 Organization. (a) The management of the Bank is vested by the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 in a Board of Directors consisting of the Secretary of State and four full-time directors appointed by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, one of whom serves as Chairman. Not more than three of the five members of the Board shall be members of any one political party. Participation by other Government agencies in shaping the policies of the Bank is provided through an Advisory Board consisting of the Chairman of the Bank, the Secretaries of State, Treasury, and Commerce, and the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

(b) The National Advisory Council created by the Bretton Woods Agreements Act has the same membership as the Advisory Board of the Bank, except that its Chairman is the Secretary of the Treasury. It is responsible for coordinating the policies of the Bank with those of the United States representatives on the Bretton Woods organizations and with all other agencies of the Government to the extent that they make foreign loans or engage in foreign financial transactions.

(c) The close working relationships between the Bank and the Department of State, Treasury, Commerce, Agriculture, and the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, as the permanent agencies of Government primarily concerned with foreign economic operations, serve to keep them fully informed regarding individual loan projects under consideration by the Bank and give them full opportunity to call attention to any possible conflict between the day-to-day activities of the Bank and their activities in carrying out the international economic program of the United States. They have also facilitated access by the Bank to the information and technical services of these Departments and the Federal Reserve Board and in this way enabled the Bank to limit the size of its own technical staff.

(d) The functions of the Bank are under the supervision of the Board of Directors. Under this supervision those functions are carried out by seven groups: (1) the Economic Advisory Group, (2) the Legal Group, (3) the Technical Banking Operation Group, (4) the Treasurer's Group, (5) the Private Capital Participation Group, and (6) the Secretary's Office. As indicated above, final authority is vested in the Board of Directors of the Bank. By resolutions made available to interested parties authority is delegated in individual instances to the officers or members of the staff of the Bank specified therein.

§ 401.4 Official records. Matters of official record of the Bank, except information held confidential for good cause found, will be made available to persons properly or directly concerned at the office of Export-Import Bank of Washington, 734 Fifteenth Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. Information and records will be classified as confidential to the extent that the revelation of the contents thereof might in the opinion of the Bank be a breach of confidence or adversely affect institutions or persons doing business with the Bank or encroach upon their right of privacy or be inimical to the public interest.

PART 402—PROCEDURES

Sec.
402.1 Who may apply for credit.
402.2 How to apply.
402.3 Advance commitments.

§ 402.1 Who may apply for credit. (a) The facilities of the Export-Import Bank of Washington are open to United States exporters either of goods or of engineering and other technical services, to United States importers, and to foreign governments, the agencies of foreign governments, and foreign firms and individuals. In brief, the Bank's facilities are accessible to anyone requiring assistance and to whom the granting of assistance will aid in the financing of United States foreign trade.

(b) The Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 released the Bank from the pre-existing prohibition against loans by the Bank to foreign governments in default on their obligations to the United States Government. The Act also permits any individual, partnership, corporation, or association to participate with the Bank in any of its authorized transactions and thus sets aside, with respect to participations with the Bank, the provisions of the so-called Johnson Act prohibiting loans by private persons to such governments.

§ 402.2 How to apply. (a) United States exporters, both of goods and of engineering and other technical services, or United States importers who wish to apply to the Bank for credit may do so by writing directly to the Export-Import Bank of Washington, Washington 25, D. C., or, preferably, by seeking assistance from the Bank through their own commercial banks. It is recommended that the applicant consult his bank in any case, since in most instances it will be familiar with the facilities of the Bank and will be able to judge whether or not the assistance of the Bank is necessary and appropriate. Banks may obtain further information with respect to Bank policies and procedures from their local Federal Reserve Banks.

(b) The following information is essential for the consideration by the Bank of applications from domestic exporters (and, with appropriate modifications, also for the consideration of applications from domestic importers):

(1) Description of commodity to be financed.

(2) Name of foreign country to which the exports to be financed are destined and the name of the foreign purchaser.

(3) Justification for seeking the assistance of the Bank, including a statement of the credit terms to be extended to the purchaser and suitable evidence that neither the seller nor his bank is in a position to finance the transaction.

(4) Amount of credit desired and proposed terms of repayment.

(5) Commercial bank and trade references.

(6) Comparative balance sheets and profit-and-loss figures for the preceding three years.

(7) In certain cases, cost sheets or other evidence of cost.

(8) Brief statement of history and experience.

(9) Credit information regarding the purchaser.

(10) Names of possible guarantors, together with an indication as to whether the guaranty of a foreign bank or government has been promised and whether assurances have been obtained that dollars will be made available by the monetary authorities of the foreign country to meet payments of interest and principal by the purchaser.

(11) Any other information which would be useful to the Bank in appraising the credit risk involved.

(c) Authorized representatives of foreign governments may apply directly to the Bank for credits or may initiate discussions through United States embassies and legations in their respective countries. In the consideration of applications from foreign governments or their agencies, the following information is necessary:

(1) Purposes for which the credit is to be used, including lists of materials, equipment, and services to be purchased in the United States and their suppliers (if known) and, when specific projects are involved, engineering and economic surveys.

(2) Justification for seeking the assistance of the Bank, including satisfactory evidence that private credit is not available.

(3) Amount of credit desired and proposed terms of repayment.

(4) Statement of external assets of the country in the form of gold and foreign exchange, showing official holdings separately from private holdings and holdings of dollars separately from holdings of other currencies.

(5) Current and prospective rate of gold production.

(6) Statement of the international investment position of the country at long-term and short-term, including major commitments pending or contemplated, and an estimate of the amounts of interest and amortization due annually over the life of the loan on external fixed-service obligations.

(7) Summary of the record of the country with respect to the payment of external debt and statement of the default status of outstanding external obligations.

(8) Analysis of the capacity of the country to repay on the basis of its current and prospective balance-of-payments position.

(9) Satisfactory assurances that dollars will be made available by the monetary authorities of the country to meet payments of interest and principal to the Bank as they fall due.

(d) Foreign applicants other than governments or their agencies may apply directly to the Bank, but the support of their governments will ordinarily be required before a credit can be negotiated. The information required of such applicants is contained in paragraphs (c) (1), (2), and (3) and (b) (5), (6), (8), (10), and (11) of this section.

§ 402.3 Advance commitments. (a) Subject to the requirements set forth in this Part, and particularly to those set forth in § 402.2, above, United States exporters who desire to bid on specific business may apply to the Bank for credit with a view to securing a commitment in principle in advance of the submission of the bid. When more than one United States exporter is interested in obtaining a given order, the Bank will indicate identical or similar terms to all qualified bidders in order that the successful bidder, if a United States exporter, will be determined solely on the basis of price, quality, and proposed delivery schedule, rather than upon any advantage in credit terms created by the Bank.

(b) The Bank does not look with favor upon requests for assistance from exporters who have not consulted it prior to making credit engagements to foreign buyers.

PART 421—EXTENSION OF CREDIT

Sec.
421.1 Basic principles.
421.2 What the Bank finances.
421.3 What the Bank does not do.
421.4 Maturities.
421.5 Interest rates.
421.6 Security.
421.7 Nonrecourse financing.
421.8 Marine transporttion.
421.9 Marine insurance.
421.10 Aid to small business.
421.11 Relations with commercial banks.
421.12 Relationship to International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

§ 421.1 Basic principles. Since its organization in 1934, the Export-Import Bank of Washington has been guided in its lending operations by the following basic principles:

(a) In accordance with the statutes governing its activities, the Bank makes only loans and guaranties which serve to promote the export and import trade of the United States. The Bank promotes foreign trade directly by financing exports and imports as specific transactions and by financing exports in connection with development projects and programs in foreign countries. Loans of the latter type have a further indirect effect upon United States foreign trade; for they assist in building up the economies and raising the levels of income of foreign countries, which thereby become better markets for American products and better suppliers of imports to this country. Thus, the Bank is guided in its lending policies by the demonstrated fact that the best trading partners of the United States are countries which have reached the highest state of economic development.

(b) In accordance with its established practice and as explicitly provided in the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945, the Bank makes loans generally only for specific purposes. A corollary of this principle is that disbursements under a commitment by the Bank are made only upon receipt of evidence satisfactory to the Bank that the purposes of the loan have been carried out by the borrower. Conversely, the Bank does not make lump-sum advances for use as the borrower sees fit.

(c) As a matter of prudent management and as required by law, the Bank makes only loans which offer reasonable assurance of repayment. The restriction of loans to specific purposes is an important means to this end, as is also the spread of maturities over the productive life of a project in order to facilitate repayment. Furthermore, all loan applications are carefully analyzed by the Bank's staff from the legal, engineering, and economic points of view and must be approved by its Board of Directors.

(d) As a general rule, the Bank extends credit only to finance purchases of materials and equipment produced or manufactured in the United States and the technical services of American firms and individuals as distinguished from outlays for materials and labor in the borrowing country or purchases in third countries. The reasons for doing so are principally two: (1) The limited resources of the Bank should be used with rare exceptions solely for the purpose of directly financing and facilitating United States foreign trade; (2) foreign countries should not ordinarily assume external indebtedness to finance expenditures in local currency.

(e) In accordance with its own rule and the express instruction of Congress, the Bank does not compete with private capital but rather supplements and encourages it. The activities of the Bank are confined, therefore, to dealing with certain types of risks which private banks are not in a position to assume without government assistance and with other risks which they are not prepared to assume at all.

(f) The principle of noncompetition with private lending institutions is further carried out by the readiness of the Bank to sell paper which it has acquired, by its readiness to arrange with commercial banks and investment institutions for participation in loans jointly with the Bank, and by arrangements under which the Bank undertakes in advance to purchase from commercial banks notes arising out of specified transactions financed in the first instance by the commercial banks.

§ 421.2 What the Bank finances. (a) The Bank is prepared to assist, under proper conditions, in financing exports from the United States and imports into the United States of products of all kinds. It is also prepared to aid in the purchase of engineering and other technical services in the United States. As a matter of practice, however, its assistance is required primarily in facilitating exports of tangible commodities the sale of which involves extended terms of credit. Exports of commodities may be financed on the basis of values f. o. b. the inland point of shipment, f. o. b. the landport or seaport of exit from the United States, or c. i. f. a foreign port.

(b) The Bank's financing of exports is of two general types. The first type consists of credits for the benefit of individual United States exporters to facilitate the sale abroad of specific materials or equipment. The second type consists of a line of credit in favor of a foreign government, a foreign bank, or a foreign firm, to be available during a stipulated period of time, for the purpose of facilitating the purchase in the United States of specific materials, equipment, and services. Although different in form, the two types of credits obviously serve a single purpose. It is often a matter of choice or convenience whether a given transaction or set of transactions is financed by extending credit to American exporters or by making a loan to a foreign country or purchaser. Thus, it is clearly preferable from the point of view of ease of administration to make an arrangement with a foreign government or purchaser rather than separate arrangements with each of several hundred United States suppliers who may be providing equipment for a given project. The difference between the two types of operations is made even smaller by the fact that the guaranty of a foreign bank or government is usually required as a condition of credits extended on the application of individual United States exporters without recourse to them (i. e., credits involving no liability on the part of the exporter in the event of default by the foreign debtor).

§ 421.3 What the Bank does not do. There are a number of things which the Bank is expressly prohibited from doing under existing law or which are excluded by its general policies. Thus,

(a) The Bank does not compete with private capital and does not, therefore, extend credits when private credit is available in adequate amounts on reasonable terms.

(b) The Bank is prohibited by its charter from purchasing stock in any corporation. In other words, the Bank is not permitted to engage in equity financing.

(c) The Bank does not make lump-sum advances for use as the borrower sees fit.

(d) The Bank is not authorized by the language of the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945 to finance trade between the United States and its Territories or insular posessions. This means that the Bank may not assist in financing trade between continental United States and Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, Alaska, Hawaii or other possessions in the Pacific or between any two of these Territories or possessions. However, the Bank may finance export or import transactions between United States territories or possessions and foreign countries.

(e) The Bank does not ordinarily finance local currency expenditures.

(f) The Bank does not assume any obligation or responsibility for the issuance by any agency of the United States Government of any priority, allocation, permit, or license which may be required by law or regulation for the procurement and export of any commodity which it may finance. Nor does the Bank attempt to give advice to borrowers on possible suppliers of exports which it finances.

(g) The Bank does not undertake to select engineering or other technical firms or individuals whose services may be sought by foreign borrowers in connection with projects financed by the Bank, although it does require competent engineering and other technical direction of such projects and will finance long-term contracts providing for payments for engineering or other technical services.

(h) The funds of the Bank are not available to finance, in whole or in part, the purchase of ships which can be sold on credit terms by the United States Maritime Commission or ships of types similar to those available for sale by the United States Maritime Commission.

(i) The funds of the Bank are generally not available to finance the purchase of goods in the United States of the same types or kinds as are available as United States surplus property whether located in a borrowing country, in other foreign countries or in the United States or its Territories, nor the purchase of surplus property which can be sold on credit terms by the Surplus Property disposal agencies under their existing powers.

§ 421.4 Maturities. The maturities of credits granted by the Bank are arranged in accordance with the circumstances in each case. Generally speaking, the financing of trade in consumption goods is limited to relatively short-term credits. On the other hand, the financing of trade in durable productive equipment may be on terms extending over a period of years. Where extended terms are involved, principal amounts are ordinarily made payable in equal installments beginning with the first or some subsequent interest date.

§ 421.5 Interest rates. The rate of interest charged by the Bank depends upon the type of credit involved in each case, is computed on the outstanding balance, and is usually payable semiannually. The Bank is obliged to charge interest sufficient to cover the cost of its own funds, defray its administrative expenses, and accumulate a reasonable reserve against losses in order that the Bank may be self-sustaining. The Bank is also bound to consider market rates of interest in order to avoid what might be construed as competition on a rate basis with private sources of credit. Interest rates are uniform to all borrowers for any given type of credit.

§ 421.6 Security. Loans to domestic exporters, importers, and manufacturers are usually made on the basis of the credit standing of the borrower, supplemented by the guaranty of a foreign bank or government in the case of loans made without recourse to the applicant. Credits to foreign governments and their agencies are made on the basis of the general credit of the country or agency, supplemented when desirable and appropriate by a pledge of specific revenues or specific receipts of dollar exchange. The Bank attempts to arrange the terms and conditions of its loans in accordance with the circumstances in each case and with a view to creating the type of obligation which is most suitable from the point of view of both the borrower and the Bank.

§ 421.7 Nonrecourse financing. The percentage of the credit risk involved in any export or import transaction which the Bank will assume without recourse on the exporter or importer depends upon the circumstances in each case. Under present conditions, nonrecourse financing of exports by the Bank almost invariably requires the endorsement or unconditional guaranty of a foreign bank or foreign government.

§ 421.8 Marine transportation. Public Resolution No. 17, 73d Congress, requires that exports of agricultural or other products fostered by loans made by any instrumentality of the United States Government shall be carried exclusively in vessels of United States registry unless it is determined by proper authority after investigation that such vessels are not available in sufficient numbers, or in sufficient tonnage capacity, or on necessary sailing schedule, or at reasonable rates.

§ 421.9 Marine insurance. The Bank adopted in March 1946 the policy of requiring that goods financed under the credits of the Bank be insured by contracts of insurance payable in United States dollars. The Bank considers waiver or modification of the requirement in those cases in which borrowers prefer to assume all or part of the risk of loss without insurance and in which the circumstances are such as to render this course appropriate.

§ 421.10 Aid to small business. As a special aid to small and medium-sized firms engaged in exporting, the Bank extends credit lines to individual firms which are experienced and of good repute, but which are hampered by lack of capital in obtaining adequate accommodation from private sources. These credits are revolving and are available for limited periods, generally from year to year, upon presentation for discount by the Bank through its agent bank of drafts on approved foreign purchasers. These credits are designed especially to help small firms increase their export commitments without the necessity of raising additional capital. Comparable facilities are available to small and medium-sized firms engaged in importing.

§ 421.11 Relations with commercial banks. (a) It is a cardinal principle of the Bank's operations that it does not compete with private banks. This principle is carried into effect in a number of ways. As indicated in Part 402 of this chapter, the Bank prefers to receive applications for loans from private firms and individuals through commercial banks to ensure that private credit is not available. The Bank attempts to secure the maximum participation by private banks in credit arrangements to which it is a party. The Bank commonly uses the facilities of commerical banks for making funds available to borrowers under lines of credit, receiving payments of interest and principal, and for handling other matters in connection with the extension and collection of credit. The Bank enters into agreements with commercial banks under which it undertakes in advance to purchase from them notes arising out of specified transactions financed in the first instance by the commercial banks. It stands ready in turn to sell to commercial banks or other private investors paper from its own portfolio.

(b) By using the services of commercial banks and other private organizations to the fullest extent possible, the Bank is able to keep its own operating personnel at a minimum.

§ 421.12 Relationship to International Bank for Reconstruction and Development. The Bank will not compete in any sense with the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development. It is true especially with respect to short-term and medium-term credits to United States exporters and importers, because this is a field in which the International Bank will not operate. With respect to long-term loans to foreign governments, the activities of the Bank and the policies of the United States representatives on the International Bank are coordinated by the National Advisory Council on International Monetary and Financial Problems, as provided in the Bretton Woods Agreements Act. The making of long-term loans to private foreign companies by the Bank and the International Bank are coordinated in the same way.

HAWTHORNE AREY,
Vice President.

SUBPART A—ORGANIZATION OF THE COMMISSION [1]

GENERAL

§ 1.1 Statutory authority. The Federal Communications Commission is created by the Communications Act of 1934, as amended. This Act is printed in Title 47 of the United States Code beginning with Section 151. Pamphlet copies of the Act may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, United States Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for 15 cents.

§ 1.2 Commissioners. (a) The Federal Communications Commission is composed of 7 members appointed by the President, subject to Senate confirmation, one of whom the President designates as Chairman.

(b) From time to time the Commission designates a Vice Chairman who acts as Chairman in the Chairman's absence. In the absence of both the Chairman and Vice Chairman, the Commissioner most senior in terms of service, who is present, acts as Chairman, unless otherwise provided by the Commission.

[1] Subpart A is issued pursuant to section 3 (a) (1) of the Administrative Procedure Act.

(c) There are two standing committees of Commissioners, the Telegraph Committee and the Telephone Committee, each composed of three Commissioners. Certain telegraph and telephone matters are from time to time referred to these Committees by the Commission for report and study.

§ 1.3 Offices. All offices of the Commission unless otherwise hereinafter described are located in the New Post Office Building, 13th Street and Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington 25, D. C. All meetings of the Commission, unless otherwise directed by the Commission, are held at the above address.

§ 1.4 General description of Commission organization. The Commission is divided into the following principal units:

(a) Office of the Secretary.
(b) Engineering Department.
(c) Accounting Department.
(d) Law Department.
(e) Administrative Divisions.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

§ 1.11 Secretary. The Secretary of the Commission is custodian of its official records. He is responsible for the preparation of Commission minutes which are the official record of action taken by the Commission, the processing of correspondence and official papers, the administrative examination of applications, and certain functions relating to the internal management of the Commission. All orders, permits, licenses, or other instruments of authorization made, issued, or granted by the Commission are signed by the Secretary in the name of the Commission and authenticated by the seal of the Commission, unless otherwise specifically directed by the Commission. In the Office of the Secretary are the following units:

(a) License Division.
(b) Service Division.
(c) Records Division.
(d) Minute Section.
(e) Library Section.

§ 1.12 License Division. The License Division is divided into the following sections:

(a) Broadcast License Section, which examines all applications and supporting data relating to all classes of radio stations in the broadcast services; issues orders and authorizations approved by the Commission affecting broadcast stations in non-docket cases; and maintains records of stock ownership of broadcast applicants and licensees.

(b) Commercial License Section, which examines all applications and supporting data relating to all classes of non-broadcast radio stations (except amateur), telephone and telegraph extensions or abandonment of facilities, and interlocking directorates; and issues orders, authorizations and certificates approved by the Commission in the above class of cases in non-docket cases.

(c) Amateur Section, which examines applications and issues licenses for amateur radio stations and operators; assigns amateur station call letters; and maintains records concerning amateur and commercial radio operators.

(d) Tabulating Section, which maintains statistical data and listings for various departments of the Commission.

§ 1.13 Service Division. The Service Division consists of the following Sections: Procurement Section, Duplicating Section, Stenographic Section, Telephone Section. These sections perform functions relating only to internal management.

§ 1.14 Records Division. The Records Division is divided into the following sections:

(a) Mail and Files Section, which receives, opens, dates and time stamps, all incoming mail; summarizes, classifies and indexes such correspondence and routes it to the appropriate department; maintains the Commission's correspondence file; and dispatches outgoing mail.

(b) Docket Section, which maintains dockets of all Commission hearings; notifies all parties in interest of action taken by the Commission in docket cases; serves parties in docket cases when service by the Commission is required; and issues orders, notices and decisions approved by the Commission in docket cases.

(c) Messenger Section. The functions of this section relate to internal management.

§ 1.15 Minute Section. The Minute Section prepares agenda for Commission meetings; takes notes at meetings of actions on all matters notifying appropriate sections of action taken; and prepares minutes of Commission action; and maintains custody of all approved Commission minutes.

§ 1.16 Library Section. The Library Section maintains the main library of the Federal Communications Commission.

ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT

§ 1.21 Chief Engineer. The Chief Engineer as head of the Engineering Department supervises all Commission activities concerning engineering matters including activities in connection with the North American Regional Broadcasting Engineering Committee. The following units are included in the Engineering Department:

(a) Broadcast Branch.
(b) Safety and Special Services Branch.
(c) Common Carrier Branch.
(d) Field and Research Branch.

§ 1.22 Broadcast Branch. The Broadcast Branch is responsible for the activities of the Standard Broadcast, Frequency Modulation, and Television Broadcast Divisions.

§ 1.23 Standard Broadcast Division. The Standard Broadcast Division is responsible for all engineering matters pertaining to radio stations in the standard broadcast service. It is divided into the following sections:

(a) Allocations Section, which is concerned with the overall allocation of standard broadcast frequencies; maintains complete records of United States and foreign assignments of standard broadcast stations; and prepares maps, charts, tables, and conducts studies regarding frequency allocations for standard broadcast stations.

(b) Applications I Section, which reviews and reports on applications to construct or modify standard broadcast facilities; prepares engineering specifications for appropriate authorizations; and formulates recommendations for additions and improvements to the engineering standards concerning standard broadcast stations.

(c) Applications II Section, which reviews and reports on applications for renewal of license or for change of ownership of standard broadcast stations, and applications for experimental and developmental stations in the standard broadcast service; studies and coordinates the experimental programs of experimental and developmental stations of the standard broadcast service; and, based upon appropriate data, gives type approval for transmitting and monitoring equipment submitted by manufacturers.

(d) Hearings Section, which prepares and presents engineering testimony and exhibits in hearings involving standard broadcast applications and reviews and reports on records in such cases.

§ 1.24 FM (Frequency Modulation) Division. The FM (Frequency Modulation) Division is responsible for all engineering matters pertaining to stations in the FM and associated services (remote pickup, facsimile and studio-transmitter). It is divided into the following sections:

(a) Allocations Section, which is concerned with the overall allocation of frequencies assigned to FM and associated services; maintains complete records of United States and foreign FM assignments; prepares maps, charts, tables, and conducts studies regarding FM frequency allocations.

(b) Applications I Section, which reviews and reports on applications to construct or modify FM stations and stations in the associated services, and prepares engineering specifications for appropriate authorizations.

(c) Applications II Section, which reviews and reports on applications for renewal of license or for change of ownership of FM broadcast stations and associated services and applications for experimental and developmental stations in the FM broadcast service; studies and coordinates the experimental programs of experimental and developmental stations of such services; based upon appropriate data, gives type approval for transmitting and monitoring equipment submitted by manufacturers; and formulates recommendation for additions and improvements to the engineering standards concerning these stations.

(d) Hearings Section, which prepares and presents engineering testimony and exhibits in hearings involving FM applications and associated services and reviews and reports on records in such cases.

§ 1.25 Television Broadcast Division. The Television Broadcast Division is responsible for all engineering matters pertaining to the television broadcast service, adjunct services, and international broadcast stations. It is divided into the following sections:

(a) Allocations Section, which is concerned with the overall allocation of frequencies assigned to the television (commercial and experimental) service, adjunct services, and international broadcast services; maintains complete records of United States and foreign assignments for such services; and prepares maps, charts, tables, and conducts studies regarding frequency allocations for such services.

(b) Applications I Section, which reviews and reports on applications to construct or modify television (commercial and experimental) stations, adjunct services, and international broadcast stations, and prepares engineering specifications for appropriate authorizations.

(c) Applications II Section, which reviews and reports on applications for renewal of license or for change of ownership of television (commercial and experimental) stations, adjunct services, and international broadcast stations and associated services and applications for experimental and developmental stations in the television broadcast service; studies and coordinates the experimental programs of experimental and developmental stations of such services; based upon appropriate data, gives type approval for transmitting and monitoring equipment submitted by manufacturers; and issues type approval for such equipment.

(d) Hearings Section, which prepares and presents engineering testimony and exhibits in hearings involving television broadcast, adjunct services, and international broadcast applications and reviews and reports on records in such cases.

§ 1.26 Safety and Special Services Branch. The Safety and Special Services Branch is responsible for the activities of the Marine and General Mobile, Aviation, and Emergency and Miscellaneous Divisions.

§ 1.27 Marine and General Mobile Division. The Marine and General Mobile Division is divided into the following sections:

(a) General Mobile Service Section, which reviews and reports on applications for permits to construct or modify marine and general mobile stations, and prepares and presents engineering testimony and exhibits at hearings.

(b) Maritime Safety Communications Section, which makes engineering recommendations and coordinates with other appropriate agencies on all phases of ship radio communications including applications for exemption from Part II, Title III, of the Communications Act, and radio requirements of Safety of Life at Sea Convention; studies ship disasters and distress communications; and prepares recommendations for treaty proposals for ship communication activities on the Great Lakes.

(c) Allocations and Equipment Section, which is concerned with the allocation and assignment of frequencies to the various classes of stations in the marine and general mobile services; studies equipment specifications; prepares performance standards and issues type approval; and prepares and presents engineering testimony and exhibits at hearings.

§ 1.28 Aviation Division. The Aviation Division is divided into the following sections:

(a) Domestic and Territorial Section, which reviews and reports on applications for permits to construct or modify stations in the domestic and territorial aviation service and prepares and presents engineering testimony and exhibits at hearings.

(b) International Section, which reviews and reports on applications for permits to construct or modify stations in the international aviation service; prepares and presents engineering testimony and exhibits at hearings; and conducts special studies relating to international aviation.

(c) Allocations and Equipment Section, which is concerned with the allocation and assignment of frequencies to the various classes of domestic and international aviation stations; studies equipment specifications; prepares performance standards; and issues type approval for such equipment.

§ 1.29 Emergency and Miscellaneous Division. The Emergency and Miscellaneous Division is divided into the following sections:

(a) Applications and Hearings Section, which reviews and reports on applications for authorizations to construct, or modify, emergency and miscellaneous radio stations (emergency; railroad, geophysical, special press, intermittent, war emergency), and prepares and presents engineering testimony and exhibits at hearings.

(b) Allocations and Equipment Section, which is concerned with the allocation and assignment of various classes of stations in the emergency and miscellaneous serivces; prepares reports on technical equipment used in these services; prepares recommendations for standards of good engineering practice; and makes various studies relating to equipment and frequency allocations.

(c) Experimental Section, which is responsible for the development and coordination of experimental programs particularly with respect to proposed new services and prepares and presents engineering testimony and exhibits at hearings.

(d) Operators and Amateurs Section, which prepares recommendations for the preparation and promulgation of rules and regulations governing commercial radio, amateur radio and citizen's radio operators and amateur radio stations.

§ 1.30 Common Carrier Branch. The Common Carrier Branch is responsible for the activities of the International Communications, Domestic Communications, Rate and Common Carrier Field Divisions.

§ 1.31 International Communications Division. The International Communications Division is responsible for all technical matters relating to wire, cable and radio common carrier communication services between the United States and all foreign countries; reviews and makes recommendations on applications for facilities in the fixed public services and with respect to cable landing licenses; makes studies relating to the adequacy of facilities and the speed of service in international telephone and telegraph communications; makes studies of the technical phases of the problems relating to the merger of international communication facilities, international telecommunication treaties, distribution of international telegraph traffic and other matters affecting Commission policy in the international field; cooperates with the Department of State and other departments and agencies of the United States Government in matters relating to international communications; participants in the preparation for international conferences and technical meetings; participates in the preparation for and gives technical testimony at formal hearings on international telecommunications matters.

§ 1.32 Domestic Communications Division. The Domestic Communications Division is responsible for all engineering matters, except rates, relating to domestic common carrier communication services by wire, cable and radio; reviews and makes recommendations on applications for domestic common carrier radio relay systems and for mobile common carrier radio service; participates in the preparation for and gives technical testimony at formal hearings on domestic telecommunications matters; reviews and makes recommendations on applications for new facilities and extensions and discontinuance of domestic telephone and telegraph service, and applications for merger and consolidation of these services; makes studies relating to the adequacy of facilities and the speed of service in domestic telephone and telegraph communications.

§ 1.33 Rate Division. The Rate Division prepares engineering studies relating to rates and charges for international and domestic communication services, including methods of separation of properties and expenses, determination of the costs of properties and services, annual depreciation rates and depreciation reserve requirements, and methods of making and maintaining continuing property records of common carrier property.

§ 1.34 Common Carrier Field Division. The Common Carrier Field Division collects, analyzes, and summarizes information relating to the communications industry for the use of the other divisions of the Common Carrier Branch. It has offices at: Room 631-C, 90 Church Street, New York 7, New York; 411 Federal Annex, Atlanta, Georgia; Room 809, West Coast Life Building, 605 Market Street, San Francisco 5, California.

§ 1.35 Field and Research Branch. The Field and Research Branch is responsible for the activities of the Field Engineering and Monitoring, Laboratory, Technical Information and Frequency-Service Allocation Divisions.

§ 1.36 Field Engineering and Monitoring Division. The Field Engineering and Monitoring Division directs the activities and formulates policies and procedures for all the Commission's engineering offices, primary monitoring stations and secondary monitoring stations. The addresses of these offices are to be found in § 1.40. The Division is divided into the following sections:

(a) Administrative Section, which is responsible for administrative, statistical and clerical duties such as workload statistical reports, personnel records and reports, service functions, distribution and mailing, maintenance and records.

(b) Inspection and Operator Examination Section, which directs all engineering activities in connection with the inspection of radio equipment on board United States and foreign passenger and cargo vessels, land radio stations including aircraft; supervises the conduct of examinations, grading and issuance of commercial radio operators' licenses; conducts and grades examinations and issues licenses for commercial radio operators for the Washington district at 316 F Street NE.; supervises the grading of amateur radio operator examinations submitted by all field offices; reviews inspection reports and citations; designs, constructs and distributes code tapes to all field offices and maintains records of inspections, citations and operator examinations.

(c) Monitoring Section, which provides surveillance of the radio spectrum to insure compliance with treaties, the Communications Act and Commission standards in operations of radiotelegraph and radiotelephone circuits of all types; maintains complete case records of illegal stations including locations, calls, frequencies, technical characteristics and other significant information, and prepares and presents evidence on illegal operation or other violations in criminal prosecutions.

(d) Technical Operations Section, which is responsible for all technical equipment and plant activities of primary and secondary monitoring stations, investigative units, district field offices, field sub-offices, ship offices and mobile laboratories; conducts special technical investigations, field intensity surveys, field intensity recordings; gathers technical data to substantiate proposed rules and decisions of the Commission; studies the needs for new apparatus which may be required for field use for direction finding, monitoring, frequency measurement, radio station inspection and designs and/or writes specifications for manufacturing of such equipment by commercial concerns.

§ 1.37 Laboratory Division. The Laboratory Division is responsible for the development, investigation and completion of a variety of field studies, surveys and tests, resulting in the accumulation of engineering data or statistics in any of the broad fields of the communications art; designs and assemblies apparatus for special tests and studies; determines capabilities of newly developed equipment and develops, designs and constructs equipment for use in connection with field and monitoring activities of the Commission; and makes recommendations concerning type approval of diathermy equipment and other types of equipment. It is located near Laurel, Maryland, but all inquiries regarding the division should be addressed to the Secretary of the Commission.

§ 1.38 Technical Information Division. The Technical Information Division is composed of a Propagation Expert and Consultant, Routine Information Section, Information Projects Section and Information Analysis Section. This division is responsible for the analysis, coordination and dissemination of information obtained through the Laboratory Division and other sources, and acts as technical consultant to the other divisions and branches of the Engineering Department.

§ 1.39 Frequency-Service Allocation Division. The Frequency-Service Allocation Division is divided into the following sections:

(a) Frequency Utilizations and Requirements Section, which studies the actual use of frequencies by the various radio services to determine their allocation requirements; keeps informed of the state of the radio art as it pertains to the utilization of frequencies in all parts of the radio spectrum; participates in the preparation for all bilateral, multilateral, regional and world international telecommunication conferences which have to do with the service-allocation of radio frequencies.

(b) IRAC Section, which represents the Commission on the Interdepartment Radio Advisory Committee;[1] maintains a continuous study of the relative priority existing between United States and foreign radio frequencies; maintains master record of all frequency assignments made by the Commission; and maintains a record of all frequency assignments and their utilization by foreign governments.

(c) IRAC Secretariat, which performs the secretarial work of the Interdepartment Radio Advisory Committee, including taking verbatim notes of meetings, compiling and distributing lists of all government stations; prepares Executive orders which list all frequency assignments to the Federal Government; and maintains a complete file of all application for government frequency assignments.

(d) International Records and Reports Unit, which is responsible for maintaining complete records of frequency assignments to authorized radio stations throughout the world and the preparation of various reports for domestic and international use including report to the Bern Bureau.[2]

[1] The Interdepartment Radio Advisory Committee is composed of representatives of various government agencies which use radio in their operation. It makes recommendations to the President with respect to the assignment of frequencies to all federal government radio stations. (See section 305 of the Communications Act.)

[2] The Bern Bureau acts as the Secretariat for the International Telecommunications Union, an organization of countries which are parties to the International Telecommunications Convention (Madrid, 1932). The Bern Bureau maintains the master list of frequency registrations, publishes documents relating to telecommunications, and receives and disseminates information and notifications relating to telecommunications.

§ 1.82 The Budget and Planning Division, under the supervision of the Director, is responsible for all budget, finance and organizational activities and has the following sections: Budget Section, Organization and Procedure Section, Finance Section.

§ 1.83 The Office of Information, headed by the Director, is responsible for press and public relations including the preparation and distribution of news releases, periodic reports and general information relating to Commission activities.

SUBPART B—DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY[1]

GENERAL

§ 1.101 Authority for delegation. (a) Under the authority of Section 5 of the Communications Act that portion of the work, business, or functions of the Federal Communications Commission hereinafter specified is assigned and referred to the respective Board of Commissioners, individual Commissioners, and employees of the Commission, hereinafter designated, for action thereon in accordance with the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, Rules and Regulations, Orders and established policies of the Commission.

(b) Any board or individuals to whom authority is delegated shall have power and authority to consider and determine, order, certify, report, or otherwise act as to any of said work, business, or functions so assigned or referred to it, and in respect thereof shall have all the jurisdiction and power conferred by law upon the Commission, and be subject to the same duties and obligations. Any order, decision, or report made or other action taken in respect to any matters assigned or referred shall have the same force, and effect, and may be made, evidenced and enforced in the same manner as if made or taken by the Commission.

§ 1.102 Petitions for reconsideration with regard to action taken under delegation of authority. Any person affected by an order, decision, or report or other action taken or made under any delegation of authority made herein may file a petition for reconsideration within 20 days after public notice is given of the action complained of, and every such petition shall be passed upon by the Commission.

DELEGATION TO BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

§ 1.105 Description of Board. (a) From time to time the Commission may issue an order authorizing, for a period specified in the order, the Chairman or Acting Chairman of the Commission to convene a Board of Commissioners if he determines that a quorum of the Commission is not present.

(b) The Board shall be composed of all Commissioners present and able to act.

§ 1.106 Authority delegated. (a) Such Board of Commissioners is authorized to act with respect to all work, business, or functions of the Federal Communications Commission arising under the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, except that portion of the work, business, or functions of the Federal Communications Commission specifically delegated to individual Commissioners or employees. This authority shall not extend to the institution of investigations upon the Commission's own motion, or to rendering a final decision in such matters, or without consent of the parties thereto, to final action in contested proceedings involving the taking of testimony at public hearings, or to investigations specifically required by the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

(b) Any actions taken by the Board shall be recorded in the same manner as action taken by the entire Commission.

DELEGATION TO MOTIONS COMMISSIONER

§ 1.111 Designation of Motions Commissioner. A motions Commissioner will be named from time to time by the Commission to hear and determine, order, certify, report or otherwise act upon the matters set forth in Section 1.112.

§ 1.112 Authority delegated. Except as otherwise ordered by the Commission, the Motions Commissioner shall act upon the following matters:

(a) The designation of hearing officers to preside at hearings.

(b) All petitions or motions to reinstate applications theretofore dismissed without prejudice following the filing by applicant of a petition to amend without submitting simultaneously the said amendment, pursuant to § 1.365 (c).

(c) All motions, petitions, or matters in cases previously designated for hearing by the Commission, including motions for further hearing and for consolidation and severance, excepting motions and petitions requesting final disposition of a case on its merits, those having the nature of an appeal to the Commission, and those requesting change or modification of a final order made by the Commission.[1] However, when one or more members of the Commission have been designated to preside at a hearing, all such motions, petitions or matters in such case or cases so designated for hearing, shall hereafter be handled by him or them, and such Commissioner or Commissioners shall be authorized and empowered to fix the time and place such hearings shall be held. In the absence of the individual Commissioner designated to preside at a hearing, or his inability to act or pass upon such preliminary matters, they shall be referred to the Motions Commissioner.

(d) All applications or requests for special temporary standard broadcast authorizations except those covered by §§ 1.121 and 1.144 and those cavered by shall be first referred to the Law and Engineering Departments for recommendation thereon, and then referred to the Motions Commissioner.

[1] Subpart B is issued pursuant to section 8 (a) (1) of the Administrative Procedure Act.

[1] For the procedure followed in connection with Motions Docket Matters see §§ 1.741 to 1.745.

§ 1.113 Records of action taken. Any action taken by the Motions Commissioner shall be recorded each week in writing and filed in the official minutes of the Commission.

DELEGATION TO CHIEF ENGINEER

§ 1.121 Authority delegated to Chief Engineer. The Chief Engineer or, in his absence, the Acting Chief Engineer of the Commission is designated to act upon applications, requests, and other matters as follows:

(a) For temporary operation without specified items of equipment, or with temporary, substitute, or auxiliary equipment as specified below:

(1) For operation without an approved frequency monitor;

(2) For operation without an approved modulation monitor;

(3) For operation without thermometer in automatic temperature control chamber;

(4) For operation without antenna ammeter, plate voltmeter or plate ammeter;

(5) For operation with substitute antenna ammeter, plate voltmeter or plate ammeter;

(6) For operation with temporary antenna system;

(7) For operation with auxiliary transmitter as main transmitter.

(b) For operation with new or modified equipment pending repair of existing equipment, or pending receipt and action upon a formal application.

(c) For new or modified equipment or antenna system where formal application is not required.

(d) For specification for painting and lighting antenna towers.

(e) For relocation of transmitter at the address specified in the outstanding authorization.

(f) For operation with reduced power or time under §§ 3.57, 3.71, and 3.261 of the Rules and Regulations.

(g) For operation of all classes of broadcast stations except standard broadcast stations on a temporary basis for periods not to exceed the normal license period with reduced power, or to make other changes in operation or authorized equipment for technical reasons.

(h) For approval of types of equipment as to compliance with outstanding rules and standards.

(i) For equipment and program tests, or extensions thereof, except those falling under § 1.141.

(j) For extensions of time within which to comply with technical requirements specified in authorizations, orders and rules or releases of the Commission.

(k) Representations of compliance with technical requirements specified in authorizations, orders, rules or releases of the Commission (except formal applications).

(l) For operation with licensed, new or modified equipment at a temporary location with a temporary antenna system in case of an emergency when, due to causes beyond the control of the licensee, it becomes impossible to continue operating at the licensed location.

(m) For special operation necessary to facilitate equipment, program and service tests or to comply with technical requirements specified in authorizations, orders, rules or releases of the Commission.

(n) For special temporary authority in emergency cases, or at times outside of the regular office hours of the Commission and requiring immediate action during those hours.

(o) For operation by broadcast station licensees during daytime for specified periods with their nighttime facilities in order to check measurements and operation which, as a practical matter, may not be accomplished during nighttime.

(p) For assignment from time to time of the frequency or frequencies to be employed by any experimental or developmental radio station, so as to provide the maximum results from the experimentation with the minimum of interference.

(q) For addition, modification or coordination of programs of research or experimentation of any experimental or developmental radio station, so as to provide the maximum results from the experimentation which can be reasonably expected of the licensee or licensees.

§ 1.122 Action with respect to International Broadcasting. The Chief Engineer, or, in his absence, the Acting Chief Engineer, acting in coordination with the Commission's representative on the Interdepartment Committee for International Radiobroadcasting Facilities, is authorized to take the following action:

(a) To issue special service authorizations for the use of frequencies assigned to international broacast service to international broadcast stations and to those stations which are being used by the State Department for international broadcasting and for multiple address press and facsimile services.

(b) To prescribe and to change from time to time the hours during which the frequencies assigned by these special service authorizations may be used.

(c) To prescribe and to change from time to time the hours during which each international broadcast station may use the frequencies licensed to it.

(d) To issue a temporary authorization permitting a licensee of an international broadcast station temporarily to substitute another frequency for a frequency specified in the applicant's regular license, where operation on such regularly licensed frequency is subject to serious interference. In authorizing any such substitution of frequencies the Chief Engineer, or, in his absence, the Acting Chief Engineer shall, where feasible, authorize the use of a frequency in the same megacycle band as the frequency specified in the regular license.

§ 1.123 Record of actions taken. Action on formal applications taken by the Chief Engineer, or, in his absence, by the Acting Chief Engineer, in accordance with §§ 1.121 and 1.122, shall be recorded each week in writing and filed in the official minutes of the Commission.

DELEGATION TO CHIEF ACCOUNTANT

§ 1.131 Authority delegated to Chief Accountant. The Chief Accountant, or, in his absence, the Acting Chief Accountant, of the Commission is designated to act upon:

(a) Administration, interpretation and application of regulations promulgated by the Commission pursuant to section 220 of the Communications Act, relating to accounts, records, and memoranda to be kept by carriers subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission.

(b) Applications for extensions of time in which to file annual, monthly, and special reports required by the Commission pursuant to section 219 of the Communications Act.

(c) Administration, interpretation and application of orders or rules of practice and procedure promulgated by the Commission relating to financial and statistical data of stations in the broadcast service and broadcast networks or chains, including applications for extensions of time in which to file financial and statistical statements and reports.

(d) All matters arising in connection with the administration of tariff regulations promulgated by the Commission pursuant to section 203 of the Communications Act, and in connection with the administration of this section insofar as it relates to the modification of requirements thereof or made pursuant thereto, as authorized in particular instances by subsection (b) thereof, and to the rejection of tariffs as authorized by subsection (d) thereof.

§ 1.132 Authority to issue orders; record of actions taken. Where appropriate, in acting upon the matters referred to in § 1.131, the Chief Accountant, or, in his absence, the Acting Chief Accountant, is authorized to make orders in letter form for the signature of the Secretary of the Commission. Action taken on formal applications in accordance with § 1.131 shall be recorded each week in writing and filed in the official minutes of the Commission.

DELEGATION TO SECRETARY

§ 1.141 Authority delegated to Secretary. The Secretary of the Commission, or in his absence, the Acting Secretary of the Commission, is designated to act upon the following matters:

(a) Applications for amateur station licenses.

(b) Applications for new, or modified, ship station licenses, or for special temporary authority to operate ship stations[1] except applications which request—

(1) authority to operate on a frequency or frequencies which are not currently available in accordance with the frequency allocation plan of the Commission;

(2) authority to communicate with aircraft stations;

(3) authority to operate a life boat transmitter when no other transmitting equipment is to be authorized in the same license;

(4) authority to use A–4 emission or special emission under the provisions of section 8.69 of the Rules;

(5) authority to operate transmitting equipment on a cable marker buoy pursuant to section 8.65 of the Rules;

(6) authority to communicate with amateur stations;

[1] See §§ 1.142, 1.144, and 1.145 for delegations of authority covering other applications in the Ship Service.

(7) authority to operate for a period in excess of three months transmitting equipment which has not been approved by the Engineering Department;

(8) a license or modification of license where the Law Department or the Engineering Department notifies the Secretary that the applicant is involved in any discrepancy, violation or hearing concerning any treaty, law, or regulation governing radio or wire communications;

(9) authority to operate for a period in excess of three months a station where the applicant is a corporation controlled by another corporation;

(10) authority to operate a ship telephone station open to public correspondence where a charge will be made by the ship station licensee for the service.

(c) Applications for new licenses, modification of licenses, special temporary authorizations for a period not to exceed 3 months, and consent to assignment of licenses for aircraft radio stations on board non-scheduled aircraft[1] where:

(1) the applicant requests only A–1, A–2, or A–3 emission or any combination thereof;

(2) the applicant requests frequencies currently available in accordance with the frequency allocation plan of the Commission;

(3) the equipment involved is listed among types of equipment stated by the Engineering Department to be capable of meeting the pertinent requirements of the Commission's Rules; or

(4) the applicant, if a corporation, is not controlled by another corporation.

(d) Applications by persons, who are already licensees, for new licenses, or modification of licenses and special temporary authorizations for a period not to exceed 3 months, for scheduled aircraft stations where:

(1) the applicant requests only frequencies in accordance with sections 9.72 and 9.73 of the Rules;

(2) the applicant does not request authority to communicate with a station in any other service;

(3) the equipment involved is listed among types of equipment stated by the Engineering Department to be capable of meeting the pertinent requirements of the Commission's Rules; and

(e) Requests by licensees or permittees for cancellation of their station licenses, construction permits or other authorization except those stations which render a common carrier service or standard, FM, television, or international broadcast stations.

(f) Applications for renewal of amateur radio operator licenses or authorizations.

(g) Except for specific applications concerning which the Engineering Department or the Law Department shall notify the Secretary, applications for license or modification of license to cover construction permits, where the permittee has complied with all the terms of the construction permit and no additional authority not covered by the permit is requested, in the following categories of cases:

(1) All classes of stations in the Emergency Services;

(2) All classes of stations in the Aviation Services;

(3) All classes of stations in the Railroad Radio Service;

(4) All classes of stations in the Miscellaneous Services;

(5) All Class 1 Experimental Stations, and Class 2 Experimental Stations operating in established services:

(6) All classes of stations in the Public Coastal and Fixed Public Services in Alaska;

(7) All classes of stations in the Utility Radio Service.

(h) All applications for renewal of licenses, other than those for stations rendering a common carrier service, where the renewal is in accordance with the terms of the previous license, or the sole difference is that the authority requested is less than that previously granted, in the following categories of cases:

(1) All classes of stations in the Emergency Services;

(2) All classes of stations in the Aviation Services;

(3) All classes of stations in the Railroad Radio Service;

(4) All classes of stations in the Miscellaneous Services, except provisional stations in the Intermittent Service;

(5) All classes of stations in the Utility Radio Service.

(6) All classes of stations in the Ship Service.

(i) Applications for consent to assignment of licenses or for consent to transfer of control of remote pickup or ST broadcast stations, when the Commission has on a prior date consented to a like assignment or transfer of control of the standard broadcast station with which the remote pickup stations are affiliated.

(j) Except for specific applications concerning which the Engineering Department or the Law Department shall notify the Secretary, applications for extension of the expiration dates of construction permits and applications for extension of the period of equipment and service tests, in the following categories of cases:

(1) All classes of stations in the Emergency Services;

(2) All classes of stations in the Aviation Services;

(3) All classes of stations in the Railroad Radio Service;

(4) All classes of stations in the Miscellaneous Services;

(5) All Class 1 Experimental Stations, and Class 2 Experimental Stations operating in established services ;

(6) All classes of stations in the Public Coastal and Fixed Public Services in Alaska;

(7) All classes of stations in the Utility Radio Service.

(k) All applications for restricted radiotelephone permits for use by operators of itinerant aircraft radio stations.

(l) Applications for mobile stations (other than those rendering a common carrier service) in the Emergency Services, Miscellaneous Services, Railroad Service and Utility Radio Service, where the applicant already holds licenses or construction permits for stations of the type applied for; provided, however, that such action shall be restricted to cases:

(1) Where there is no question as to the eligibility of the applicant;

(2) Where the applications request frequencies currently available to the particular applicant in accordance with the frequency allocation plan of the Commission.

(m) Requests for assignment of call letters to new radio stations and for changes in the call letters of existing stations.

§ 1.142 Authority delegated to Secretary upon securing approval of Engineering Department. The Secretary, or, in his absence, the Acting Secretary, is designated to act upon the following matters upon securing the approval of the Chief Engineer or his nominee, with the exception of applications for restricted radiotelephone permit for use by operators of itinerant aircraft radio stations.

(a) Formal applications for broadcast services as follows:

(1) For construction permit, modification of construction permit, and modification of license, involving only a change in equipment with an additional cost not in excess of $1,000.00;

(2) To install frequency control equipment;

(3) Relating to auxiliary equipment;

(4) For authority to determine operating power of broadcast stations by direct measurement of antenna power;

(5) For construction permit or modification of license involving relocation locally of a control point or transmitter site not involving any substantial change in service area;

(6) For remote pickup and ST broadcast stations.

(b) The following applications for commercial radio operator licenses:

(1) All applications for new licenses except where it appears that the applicant has been convicted of a crime for which the sentence imposed was more than 1 year imprisonment or a $500 fine;

(2) All applications for renewal and modified licenses except where it appears that the applicant has been convicted of a crime for which the sentence imposed is more than 1 year imprisonment or a $500 fine. This exception does not apply to those cases where the same crime or crimes have been disclosed in previous applications for operator license granted by the Commission.

(c) All applications for new or modified amateur radio operator licenses or authorizations.

(d) Applications for new ship station licenses, for modification of ship station licenses, and for special temporary authority to operate a ship station where these applications request authority to operate transmitting equipment on a cable marker buoy pursuant to section 8.65 of the Rules.

(e) Applications for construction permit, modification of construction permit and modification of license which involve only a change in equipment, except applications involving stations in the broadcast services and except applications falling under § 1.141.

(f) All applications for new licenses, modifications of license, special temporary authorizations for a period not to exceed three months and consent to assignment of licenses for aircraft stations on board non-scheduled aircraft, except where the applications fall within the provisions of § 1.141, and where the applicant is not a corporation controlled by another corporation.

§ 1.143 Authority delegated to Secretary upon securing approval of Law Department. The Secretary, or, in his absence, the Acting Secretary, is designated to act upon the following matters upon securing the approval of the General Counsel or his nominee:

(a) Broadcast service applications for modification of licenses involving only change of the name of the licensee, where ownership or control is not affected.

(b) Requests for inspection of records under the provisions of § 1.206.

(c) All requests for withdrawal of papers in accordance with § 1.768.

(d) Applications filed by attorneys for admission to practice before the Commission.

(e) The execution of contracts or leases in the name of the Commission.

§1.144 Authority delegated to Secretary upon securing approval of the Law and Engineering Departments. The Secretary, or, in his absence, the Acting Secretary, is designated to act upon the following matters upon receiving the approval of the General Counsel and Chief Engineer or their respective nominees:

(a) Applications for the utility, railroad, aviation, emergency, ship and miscellaneous services, and for state guard stations in the war emergency radio service, except those rendering a common carrier service and those falling under §§1.141 and 1.142.

(b) Applications for Class 1 and Class 3 experimental stations and all applications for Class 2 experimental stations both in established services and in the proposed General Mobile Service, the proposed Rural Radio Telephone Service, and for radar navigational aid stations, except

(1) Those falling under §§1.121 and 1.141.

(2) Those rendering or proposing to render a common carrier service.

(c) All broadcast service applications as follows:

(1) For extensions of time within which to commence and complete construction;

(2) For authorization to rebroadcast when Commission authorization is required under Parts 3 and 4 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations;

(3) To withdraw authorizations for equipment and service or program tests where subsequent to the issuance of the original authorizations it appears that the terms of the construction permit have not been met.

(d) Applications or requests for emergency and renewal exemptions of ships, and initial exemptons of ships of less than 100 gross tons, pursuant to the provisions of section 352 (b) of the Communications Act and Article 28 of the Safety Convention.

(e) Proposals by FM broadcast stations to deviate from time schedules.

(f) Applications and requests for waiver of Rules, Regulations and Orders of the Commission relating to the proper time for filing of renewals of Commercial and Amateur Radio Operator Licenses.

(g) Applications for new, renewal or modified commercial radio operator licenses except those falling under § 1.141.

(h) Applications or requests for temporary operation by radio station licensees with a licensed operator of lesser grade than normally required or for waiver of other technical requirements for operators.

§ 1.145 Authority delegated to Secretary upon securing the approval of the law, Engineering and Accounting Departments. The Secretary, or, in his absence, the Acting Secretary, is designated to act upon the following matters upon securing the approval of the General Counsel, Chief Engineer and Chief Accountant, or their respective nominees;

(a) Applications for experimental class 2 stations both in established services and in the proposed General Mobile Service, the proposed Rural Radio Telephone Service, and the proposed Short Distance Toll Service, which render or propose to render a common carrier service, except those falling under § § 1.121 and 1.141.

(b) Applications for the aviation, ship, miscellaneous, coastal, and marine relay services, except those falling under § § 1.121, 1.141, 1.142 and 1.144.

(c) Applications for special temporary authorizations other than those falling under §§ 1.112, 1.121, 1.141, 1.142, and 1.144.

(d) Applications or requests under section 214 of the Communications Act for a certificate authorizing the construction, acquisition, operation or extension of lines, or for an authorization of temporary or emergency service, or the supplementing of existing facilities, where the total expenditure involved in less than $250,000.

(e) Applications or requests under section 214 of the Communications Act for an authorization for temporary or emergency closures or reductions of hours of telegraph offices, and for any closure, or reduction of hours, of a telegraph office at a military establishment.

(f) Applications from existing licensees for instruments of authorizations for the agriculture, fixed public or fixed public press radio services, except applications involving:

(1) New points of communications not already licensed to a station of the licensee at some other location;

(2) Changes in transmitter location other than local in character;

(3) Assignment of additional frequencies not already assigned to a station of the licensee at some other location;

(4) The establishment of a new type of service.

(g) Applicatons for experimental television, developmental broadcast and experimental facsimile broadcast stations except those specifically mentioned in other sections of Subpart B.

(h) All broadcast service applications involving only a change in equipment with an additional cost in excess of $1,000.00, for construction permit, modification of construction permit, and modification of license.

(i) Applications in the broadcast service for license following construction where the applicant has complied with all the terms of the construction permit.

§ 1.146 Record of actions taken. All action taken by the Secretary in accordance with §§ 1.141–1.145 shall be recorded each week in writing and filed in the official minutes of the Commission.

SUBPART C—PLACES FOR SUBMITTING APPLICATIONS AND OTHER REQUESTS AND SECURING PUBLIC INFORMATION[2]

§ 1.201 Main offices. The main offices of the Federal Communications Commission are located in the New Post Office Building at 13th and Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington 25, D. C., and the public may secure information or make submittals or requests to the Commission by coming in person to these offices (or the offices listed below) or by addressing the Federal Communications Commission, Washington 25, D. C. The hours of the Commission are from 9:15 a. m. to 5:45 p. m., Monday through Friday, except on legal holidays.

§ 1.202 Other offices in Washington, D. C. Other offices of the Commission in Washington, D. C., are maintained at 1319 F Street NW.; 1424 K Street NW.; 601 Pennsylvania Avenue NW.; and 316 F Street NE.

§ 1.203 Field offices. The location of the Engineering Department field offices are shown in §§ 1.34 and 1.40, those of the Accounting Department in § 1.56, and those of the Law Department in § 1.73.

§ 1.204 Public reference rooms. Five public reference rooms are maintained by the Commission where the public may inspect any material which is available for public inspection in accordance with § 1.206. These rooms are as follows:

(a) Broadcast and Docket Reference Room is located in Room 8454, New Post Office Building. Here the public may inspect all broadcast applications and files relating thereto as well as dockets relating to all Commission matters which have been designated for hearing;

(b) Commercial License Reference Room is located in Room 1202, New Post Office Building. Here the public may inspect all applications and files relating thereto concerning non-broadcast radio station applications (except amateur and non-radio applications by common carriers;

(c) Amateur License Reference Room is located at 316 F Street NE, Washington, D. C. Here the public may inspect all applications and files relating thereto concerning amateur radio station applications. In addition a complete file is maintained relating to commercial and amateur radio operators. More complete information concerning applications filed by commercial and amateur radio operators outside of the Washington district may be obtained from the appropriate Engineering Department district offices listed in § 1.40.

[2] Subpart C is issued pursuant to section 3 (a) (1) of the Administrative Procedure Act.

(d) Common Carrier Reference Room is located at 1424 K Street NW, Washington, D. C. Here the public may inspect all annual and other reports filed by common carriers pursuant to section 219(a) of the Communications Act and the schedules for all charges for interstate and foreign wire or radio communications filed pursuant to Section 203 of the Act.

(e) Contracts Reference Room is located in Room 7266, New Post Office Building. Here the public may inspect all contracts, agreements, or arrangements between carriers filed pursuant to section 211(a) of the Communications Act, except those marked confidential.

§ 1.205 Information office. The information office is located in Room 7232, New Post Office Building. It maintains a file of current news releases, public notices, proposed decisions and final decisions issued by the Commission which are available for inspection. Extra copies when available are furnished to interested persons upon request.

§ 1.206 Inspection of records. Subject to the provisions of sections 4(j), 213(f), 412 and 606 of the Act, the files of the Commission shall be open to public inspection as follows:

(a) Tariff schedules required to be filed under section 203 of the Act; valuation reports, including exhibits filed in connection therewith, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, with reasons therefor, pursuant to section 213 of the Act; and annual and monthly reports required to be filed under section 219 of the Act.

(b) Contracts, agreements, or arrangements between carriers, filed pursuant to section 211(a) of the Act, except such contracts relating to foreign wire or radio communications which are marked confidential by the Commission: Provided, however, That the Commission will give appropriate consideration to a petition filed by any party showing that any such contract, agreement, or arrangement relates to foreign wire or radio communication; that its publication would place American communication companies at a disadvantage in meeting the competition of foreign communication companies; and that public interest would be served by keeping its terms confidential.

(c) All applications and amendments thereto filed under Title II and Title III of the Act, including all documents and exhibits filed with and made a part thereof, and all communications protesting or endorsing any such applications, authorizations and certifications issued upon such applications; all pleadings, depositions, exhibits, transcripts of testimony, reports of examiners or presiding officers, exceptions, briefs, proposed reports, or findings of fact and conclusions; all minutes and orders of the Commission. The information filed under § 1.341 and network and transcription contracts filed pursuant to § 1.342 shall not be open to public inspection. The Commission may, however, either on its own motion, or on motion of an applicant, permittee or licensee, for good cause shown, designate any of the material in this subsection as confidential.

(d) In the discretion of the Commission, other files, including those excepted in subsections (a), (b), and (c) hereof, upon written request describing in detail the documents to be inspected and the reasons therefor.

§ 1.207 Certified copies; requests for; costs. Copies of any documents subject to inspection under the provisions of § 1.206 will be prepared and certified by the Secretary, under seal, on written request, specifying the exact documents, the number of copies desired, and the date on which the same will be required. Such request must be made so as to permit a reasonable time for the preparation of such copies and any cost incurred in the preparation of such copies must be prepaid by the person making application therefor.

§ 1.208 Reports of violations. Reports of violations of the Communications Act or of the Commission's Rules and Regulations may be submitted direct to the Commission in Washington or to any field office.

§ 1.209 Place of filing of applications for radio authorizations.

§ 1.210 Applications for ship radio inspection. Applications for ship radio inspection shall be forwarded to the office of the district in which the ship is located. In order to expedite action for ships docked in Mobile, Alabama, this form may be submitted direct to the Mobile, Alabama, office located at 320 U. S. Courthouse and Customhouse, Mobile 10, Alabama.

§ 1.211 Applications for Exemptions under Part II of Title III. Applications for exemption from the requirements of Part II of Title III shall be filed at the Commission's office in Washington, D. C.

§ 1.212 Non-radio common carrier applications. All such applications shall be filed at the Commission's office in Washington, D. C.

§ 1.213 Applications for amateur station and operator license and/or commercial operator license. (a) Application for amateur station and operator license shall be filed in the appropriate engineering field office listed in § 1.40 if the personal appearance of the applicant for operator examination is required. In all other cases, including examination for class C privileges, the application should be sent to Washington. Only one copy of the application is required.

(b) Application for commercial operator license shall be filed in duplicate with any engineering field office listed in § 1.40 under whose supervision the applicant desires to be examined.

(c) Radio operator examinations are given frequently under announced schedules at the Commission's office at 316 F Street, N. E., Washington, D. C., and at each of the Commission's field offices listed in § 1.40. Examinations are also given frequently, by appointment, at the Commission's offices at the following points:

Cleveland, Ohio.
Savannah, Georgia.
San Diego, California.
Tampa, Florida.
Juneau, Alaska.

Examinations are also given at less frequent intervals at the places named below, which are visited for that purpose by Commission examiners from the district offices for such locations. For current schedules, exact time, place, and other details, inquiry should be addressed to the office conducting examinations at the chosen point.

Arrangements have also been made, with the cooperation of other Federal agencies, for classes A and B examinations in outlying areas as follows:

Alaska: United States Signal Corps stations; at other points by coast guard officers.
Guam: District communications officer, United States naval station.
Hawaii: At not exceeding one point on any island, by the engineer in charge (Honolulu).

(d) Applications for aircraft radiotelephone operator license in connection with itinerant aircraft radio may also be obtained from approximately 2,000 Civil Aeronautics Administration flight examiners; the licenses themselves may under certain conditions be obtained from these flight examiners. For information as to the location of these examiners, inquiry should be made at airports and aviation training schools. Issuing officers are authorized to charge a maximum of $1.00 for issuing each authorization. The authorization may also be issued free of charge in the regular procedure described above in this section.

§ 1.215 Where to obtain forms. All forms for use in submitting applications for radio authorizations together with instructions and information as to filing such forms may be obtained at the Washington offices of the Commission or at any of the engineering field offices listed in § 1.40.

SUBPART D—RULES RELATING TO APPLICATIONS AND PROCEEDINGS AFFECTING RADIO LICENSES UNDER TITLE III OF THE COMMUNICATIONS ACT[1]

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS AS TO APPLICATIONS

§ 1.301 Applications required.[2] Construction permits, modification of construction permits, operator and station licenses, renewal of operator and station licenses, modification of station licenses, special temporary authorizations, special service authorizations, assignment of construction permits or licenses and consent to transfer control of a corporation holding a construction permit or license, shall be granted only upon written, subscribed, and verified application upon forms prescribed by the Commission. A separate application shall be filed for each instrument of authorization requested. In cases of emergency the Commission may issue for a period not in excess of three months licenses, renewal of licenses or modification of licenses for stations on vessels or aircraft of the United States without a formal application. In case of vessels at sea, the Commission may issue by cable, telegraph or radio a permit for the operation of a station until the vessel returns to a port of the continental United States.

§ 1.302 Place of filing and number of copies. For places where applications must be filed and number of copies to be filed, see §§ 1.209 to 1.213, inclusive.

§ 1.303 Subscription and verification of applications. Each application or amendment thereto shall be personally subscribed and verified or affirmed according to law: (1) By the party filing such application or amendment, or by one of the parties, if there be more than one; (2) by an officer of the party filing the application or amendment if the party be a corporation: Provided, however, That subscription and verification may be made by the attorney for the party (1) in case of physical disability of the party, or (2) his absence from the continental United States. If it be made by a person other than the party, he must set forth in the verification the grounds of his belief as to all matters not stated upon his knowledge and the reason why it is not made by the party. Where more than one copy of an application is required to be filed with the Commission, only the original need be signed and verified; the copies may be conformed.

§ 1.304 Contents of applications. Each application (unless otherwise directed) shall be specific with regard to frequency or frequencies, power, hours of operation, equipment, location of the station, and other information required by the application forms. An application for broadcast facilities in the standard, FM, or television bands shall be limited to one frequency and an application for radio station construction permit or license requesting alternate facilities will not be accepted.

§ 1.305 Full disclosures. Each application shall contain full and complete disclosures with regard to the real party or parties in interest, and their legal, technical, financial, and other qualifications, and as to all matter and things required to be disclosed by the application forms.

§ 1.306 Additional statements. The Commission may require an applicant to submit such documents and written statements of fact, under oath, as in its judgment may be necessary.

§ 1.307 Form of amendments to applications. Any amendment to an application shall be subscribed, verified, and submitted in the same manner, and with the same number of copies, as was the original application.

§ 1.308 Amendments of applications ordered. The Commission may, upon its own motion or upon motion of any party to a proceeding, order the applicant to amend his application so as to make the same more definite and certain.

RULES RELATING TO FILING OF APPLICATIONS AND DESCRIPTION OF APPLICATION FORMS

§ 1.311 Application forms for construction permit or modification thereof; broadcast services. Applications for new facilities or modification thereof in the broadcast services including AM (standard), FM (frequency modulation), noncommercial educational, commercial television, commercial facsimile, international, experimental (experimental television, experimental fascimile and developmental), and auxiliary (remote pickup and studio-transmitter) shall be made on the following forms:

(a) FCC Form No. 301, "Application for new standard broadcast station construction permit."

(b) FCC Form No. 335, "Supplement concerning chain broadcasting to application for standard broadcast authorization."

(c) FCC Form No. 304, "Application for construction permit, modification of construction permit or modification of license for an existing standard broadcast station."

(d) FCC Form No. 319, "Application for new FM broadcast station construction permit."

(e) FCC Form No. 309, "Application for Relay, International, Television, Facsimile, Experimental Broadcast Station Construction Permit or Modification Thereof." To be submitted with FCC Form No. 318 for experimental television applications.

(f) FCC Form No. 340, "Application for new noncommercial educational broadcast station construction permit."

(g) FCC Form No. 330, "Application for new television broadcast station construction permit."

(h) FCC Form No. 322, "Application for construction permit, modification of construction permit, or modification of license for an existing FM broadcast station."

(i) FCC Form No. 333, "Application for construction permit, modification of construction permit, or modification of license for an existing television broadcast station."

(j) FCC Form No. 318, "Supplemental application for experimental television broadcast station construction permit, license or modification thereof."

(k) FCC Form No. 305, "Application for authority to install new equipment or to make changes in equipment of an existing standard broadcast station" shall be used in making application for authority:

(1) To install new automatic frequency control equipment;

(2) To install new automatic temperature control equipment;

(3) For any other change affecting the accuracy or stability of the operating frequency of a standard broadcast station where an application for construction permit is not required;

(4) To install new transmitter;

(5) To make changes in existing equipment with respect to system of modulation;

(6) To change type of vacuum tubes in the last radio stage except to tubes of the same rating in accordance with release "Power Rating of Vacuum Tubes";

(7) To change number of vacuum tubes in the last radio stage;

(8) To make any other change affecting the maximum-rated carrier power or type number of equipment.

§ 1.312 Application forms for construction permit or modification thereof; radio services other than broadcast. Applications for new facilities or modification thereof in the Fixed Public Radio Services, Experimental Radio Services, Coastal and Marine Relay Services, Avia-

[1] Subpart D is issued pursuant to the provisions of section 3 (a) (2) of the Administrative Procedure Act.

[2] For additional information relative to applications see the respective rules relating to each service.

tion Services, Emergency Radio Services, Miscellaneous Radio-Services, Radio Stations in Alaska, War Emergency Services, Railroad Radio Services and Utility Radio Services shall be made on the following forms:

(a) FCC Form No. 401, "Application for new or modified Radio Station Construction Permit (other than Broadcast)".

(b) FCC Form No. 401A, "Description of Proposed Antenna Structure(s) (services other than Broadcast)".

(c) FCC Form No. 401B, "Application for police, fire or forestry radio station construction permit."

(d) FCC Form No. 401C, "Application for Radio Station Construction Permit in the Utility or Miscellaneous Radio Service."

(e) FCC Form No. 455, "Application for authority to construct and operate radio stations in the War Emergency Radio Service."

§ 1.313 Installation or removal of apparatus; broadcast and non-broadcast. Applications for construction permit or modification thereof, involving removal of existing transmitting apparatus and/or installation of new transmitting apparatus, shall be filed at least 60 days prior to the contemplated removal and/or installation.

§ 1.314 Application for extension of construction permit; broadcast and non-broadcast. (a) A construction permit shall be automatically forfeited if the station is not ready for operation within the time specified therein or within such further time as the Commission may have allowed for completion, and a notation of the forfeiture of any construction permit under this provision will be placed in the records of the Commission as of the expiration date.

(b) Application for extension of time within which to construct a station shall be filed on FCC Form No. 701 at least thirty days prior to the expiration date of such permit if the facts supporting such application for extension are known to the applicant in time to permit such filing. In other cases such applications will be accepted upon a showing satisfactory to the Commission of sufficient reasons for filing within less than thirty days prior to the expiration date. Such applications will be granted upon a specific and detailed showing that the failure to complete was due to causes not under the control of the grantee, or upon a specific and detailed showing of other matters sufficient to justify the extension.

§ 1.315 Application for equipment tests; broadcast and nonbroadcast. Upon completion of construction of a radio station in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit, the technical provisions of the application therefor and the rules and regulations governing the class of station concerned and prior to filing of application for license, the permittee is authorized to test the equipment for a period not to exceed 10 days: Provided, That:

(a) The inspector in charge of the district in which the station is located is notified 2 days in advance of the beginning of tests.

(b) In the case of all broadcast stations the Commission also shall be notified 2 days in advance of the beginning of tests, which shall be conducted in the case of standard broadcast stations, only between 1 a. m. and 6 a. m. local standard time unless otherwise specifically authorized. Equipment tests shall not be conducted during the frequency monitoring period when the station is required to remain silent.

(c) The Commission may notify the permittee to conduct no tests or may cancel, suspend, or change the date of beginning for the period of such tests as and when such action may appear to be in the public interest, convenience, and necessity.

§ 1.316 Application for service or program test; broadcast and non-broadcast. (a) When construction and equipment tests are completed in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit, the technical provisions of the application therefor, and the rules and regulations governing the class of station concerned, and after an application for station license has been filed with the Commission showing the transmitter to be in satisfactory operating condition, the permittee is authorized to conduct service or program tests in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit for a period not to exceed 30 days: Provided, That:

(1) The inspector in charge of the district in which the station is located is notified 2 days in advance of the beginning of such tests.

(2) In the case of all broadcast stations the Commission also shall be notified 2 days in advance of the beginning of tests.

(b) The Commission reserves the right to cancel such tests or suspend, or change the date of beginning for the period of such tests as and when such action may appear to be in the public interest, convenience, and necessity by notifying the permittee.

(c) Service or program tests will not be authorized after expiration date of the construction permit.

(d) The authorization for tests embodied in §§ 1.315 and 1.316 shall not be construed as constituting a license to operate but as a necessary part of the construction.

§ 1.317 Application for license following construction permit. (a) In all cases where a construction permit is required for the construction of a station, the application for station license (or for station license or modification thereof, if for station other than broadcasts) shall be filed by permittee prior to service or program tests.

(b) The following application forms shall be used:

(1) FPC Form No. 302, "Application for standard broadcasts station license."

(2) FCC Form No. 310, "Application for Relay, International, Television, Facsimile, Experimental, Broadcast Station License."

(3) FCC Form No. 320, "Application for FM broadcast station license."

(4) FCC Form No. 403, "Application for Radio Station License or Modification thereof (other than broadcasting, amateur, ship and aircraft)."

§ 1.318 Application for station license where no construction permit is required. (a) Where a construction permit is not required by the Communications Act or the applicable Rules and Regulations of the Commission, an application for a new station license shall be filed at least 60 days prior to the contemplated operation of the station.[1] In emergency and for good cause shown, the Commission may waive the requirements of this rule.

(b) The following application forms should be used:

(1) FCC Form No. 302, "Application for standard broadcast license"—to be used for all applications for license to use the former main transmitter as the auxiliary transmitter when no new construction is involved, and for regular authorization covering special experimental authorization.

(2) FCC Form No. 402, "Application for Railroad Radio Station License."

(3) FCC Form No. 404, "Application for Aircraft Radio Station License."

(4) FCC Form No. 404A, "Application for Non-Scheduled Aircraft Radio Station License."

(5) FCC Form No. 500, "Ship Radio Station Equipment"—to be filed with FCC Form 501 in triplicate.

(6) FCC Form No. 501, "Application for New Ship Radio Station License."

(7) FCC Form No. 501A, "Application for Ship Radiotelephone Station License."

(8) FCC Form No. 610, "Application for Amateur Radio Operator and/or Station License."

(9) FCC Form No. 602, "Application for Amateur Station License (under special exception of Commission's Regulations)"—to be used for a station of amateurs in the armed forces when located in public quarters but not operated by the United States Government.

§ 1.319 Application for modification of license; broadcast and non-broadcast. (a) An application for modification of license, except amateur, and except as otherwise provided by these rules, may be filed for change in frequency, change in operating power where no construction is necessary, change in hours of operation, and for change in name of licensee where no change in ownership or control is involved. In case of a broadcast station, an application for modification of license may be filed for change in location of main studio. In case of all stations other than broadcast, an application for modification of license may be filed for change in points of communication, change in nature of authorized service, and to cover an outstanding construction permit where the station is already licensed. Except when filed to cover construction permit, each application for modification of license shall be filed at least 60 days prior to the contemplated modification of license: Provided, however, That in emergencies and for good cause shown, the requirements hereof may be waived insofar as time for filing is concerned.

(b) The following application forms should be used:

(1) FCC Form No. 304, "Application for construction permit or modification of license for an existing standard broadcast station"—to be used for all applications for modification of any term of an existing regular license of a standard broadcast station:

(a) Change of frequency.

(b) Change of power where the equipment at present installed is capable of satisfactory operation at the proposed power.

(c) Change of time of operation.

[1] Applications for Amateur Station License need not be filed 60 days prior to the contemplated operation of the station.

(d) Change of location of main studio (See § 3.31).

(e) Change of name of licensee where no change of ownership is involved.

(f) To change location of an existing transmitter or for approval of location previously authorized to be determined subject to Commission approval.

(g) To install directional antenna system.

(h) For modification of any outstanding construction permit which has not been covered by license.

(2) FCC Form No. 322, "Application for construction permit, modification of construction permit, or modification of license for an existing high frequency broadcast station."

(3) FCC Form No. 312, "Application for modification of relay, international, television, facsimile, experimental broadcast station license."

(4) FCC Form No. 333, "Application for construction permit, modification of construction permit or modification of license for an existing television broadcast station."

(5) FCC Form No. 403, "Application for radio station license or modification thereof (other than broadcasting, amateur, ship, or aircraft)."

(6) FCC Form No. 404–A, "Application for Non-Scheduled Aircraft Radio Station License."

(7) FCC Form No. 501–A, "Application for Ship Radiotelephone Station License, New, Modified, or Renewal."

(8) FCC Form No. 503, "Application for modification of ship radio station license." Form 503 should be accompanied by FCC Form No. 500, submitted in triplicate, if there is to be any change in the equipment specification.

§ 1.320 Application for renewal of license; broadcast and non-broadcast. (a) Unless otherwise directed by the Commission, each application for renewal of license shall be filed at least 60 days[1] prior to the expiration date of the license sought to be renewed. No application for renewal of license of a broadcast station will be considered unless there is on file with the Commisison, the information currently required by §§ 1.341 to 1.344, inclusive, reference to which by date and file number shall be included in the application.

(b) Whenever the Commission regards an application for a renewal of license as essential to the proper conduct of a hearing or investigation, and specifically directs that it be filed by a date certain, such application shall be filed within the time thus specified. If the licensee fails to file such application within the prescribed time, the hearing or investigation shall proceed as if such renewal application had been received.

(c) The following application forms should be used:

(1) FCC Form No. 303, "Application for renewal of standard broadcast station license."

(2) FCC Form No. 303–A, "Statement of technical information concerning standard broadcast stations using nondirectional antennas," to be filed with FCC Form No. 303.

(3) FCC Form No. 303–B, "Statement of technical information concerning standard broadcast stations using nondirectional antennas," to be filed with FCC Form No. 303.

(4) FCC Form No. 311, "Application for renewal of international, television, facsimile, high frequency, experimental broadcast station license"—to be used for all applications for renewal of licenses of international, television, facsimile, FM, noncommercial educational and experimental broadcast stations.

(5) FCC Form No. 313, "Application for renewal of relay broadcast radio station license"—to be used for all applications for renewal of regular licenses of auxiliary (remote pickup and ST) radio broadcasting stations.

(6) FCC Form No. 405, "Application for renewal of radio station license (other than Broadcasting, Ship and Amateur)."

(7) FCC Form No. 405–A, "Application for waiver of inspection requirement for Aircraft Radio Station"—to accompany FCC Form No. 405 where no inspection has been made.

(8) FCC Form No. 502, "Application for renewal of ship radio station license."

(9) For renewal of an amateur station license, FCC Form No. 610 and No. 602 should be used (see § 1.318).

(10) FCC Form No. 404–A, "Application for Non-Scheduled Aircraft Radio Station License."

(11) FCC Form No. 501–A, "Application for Ship Radiotelephone Station License, New, Modified, or Renewal."

[1] The 60-day requirement does not apply to amateurs.

§ 1.321 Application for voluntary assignment or transfer of control; broadcast. (a) Applications for consent to the assignment of a construction permit or license for an AM, FM, television or other broadcast station or for consent to the transfer of control of a corporation holding such a construction permit or license shall be filed with the Commission on FCC Form No. 314 (Assignment of License) or FCC Form No. 315 (Transfer of Control). Each application shall be accompanied by a copy of a proposed notice in a form prescribed by the Commission which notice the licensee or permittee shall cause to be published at least twice a week for the 3 weeks immediately following the filing of such application in a daily newspaper of general circulation published in the community in which the station is located. The notice shall state the terms and conditions of the proposed assignment or transfer, the name of the proposed assignee or transferee, and, further, that any other person desiring to purchase the facilities upon the same terms and conditions may file an application to this effect with the Federal Communications Commission within 60 days from the date of the first publication of the notice, which date shall be expressly set forth therein. Upon receipt of the application, the Commission itself will issue a similar public notice stating the terms and conditions of the proposed sale and stating that others may file competing applications for the same facilities upon the same terms and conditions.

(b) No action on any such application will be taken by the Commission for a period of 60 days from the date of first publication, during which time any person desiring to purchase the facilities upon the same terms and conditions may file a competing application. In the case of such competing application, it shall be necessary for the applicant to execute only so much of the application form as relates to the proposed assignee or transferee—F. C. C. Form No. 314, Part II, and Form No. 315, Part III.

(c) If no competing application is filed during this 60-day period, the Commission will consider the original application upon its merits and will grant it if it appears from an examination of the application and supporting data that public interest will be served thereby; otherwise it will be designated for hearing. If, during such 60-day period, any other application is filed, all such applications will then be considered simultaneously upon their merits, and if, upon such consideration, it appears that the proposed assignee or transferee selected by the licensee is the best qualified and that the transfer would otherwise be in the public interest, the Commission will grant the original application without a hearing. If the Commission is unable to make such a determination upon consideration of the several applications, the original application and all competing applicants will be designated for hearing, to be heard in a consolidated proceeding, to determine among other things which of the applicants is best qualified to operate the station in the public interest.

(d) If, at the conclusion of such hearing, the Commission is of the opinion that the proposed assignee or transferee selected by the licensee is the best qualified and that the transfer is otherwise in the public interest an order will be entered granting the original application. However, if the Commission is of the opinion that one of the other applicants is the best qualified and that a transfer is otherwise in the public interest, an order will be entered denying the original application and stating that the Commission's consent to an assignment of the license or construction permit or to the transfer of control of the corporate licensee or permittee to such competing applicant will be given provided the licensee or permittee and such competing applicant enter into and file with the Commission within 30 days from the date of such order a contract for the assignment of the license or construction permit, or the transfer of control of the licensee or permittee, to such competing applicant upon the same terms and conditions as stated in the original application or upon such other terms and conditions as the parties may agree upon and which new terms and conditions the Commission shall find to be in the public interest.

(e) The provisions of this section shall not apply to the following cases:

(1) Where there is a reorganization of a corporation holding a license or construction permit which involves no substantial change in the beneficial ownership of that corporation;

(2) Where there is an assignment from an individual or individuals to a corporation owned and controlled by such individual or individuals without any substantial change in their respective interests or from a corporation to the individual stockholders controlling such corporation when there is no substantial change in their respective interests;

(3) Where there is an assignment or transfer by way of gift or testamentary disposition of a license or construction permit or of a controlling interest in a corporate licensee or permittee, or an assignment or transfer of a license, permit or interest to effect such testamentary disposition. This section shall, however, apply to an assignment or transfer by an administrator or executor to persons other than the lawful heirs or legatees of the licensee or permittee or to trustees or beneficiaries other than those designated in the licensee's or permittee's will or other testamentary instrument.

(4) Where the interest being transferred, if acquired by a person other than the proposed assignee, would not result in such person acquiring control. The Commission, however, will scrutinize carefully successive transfers to the same person or persons to determine whether such transfers are for the purpose of evading compliance with this section.

(5) In the case of any other assignments or transfers where the parties are in doubt as to whether the provisions of this section are applicable, or are of the opinion that if the section is applicable, the requirements should be waived, the application may be filed with a request for a ruling as to whether the section is applicable or with a petition for waiver of the rule. The Commission will determine on the facts of each case whether the section is applicable or whether public interest will be served by a waiver of the rule.

(f) The following application forms should be used:

(1) FCC Form No. 314, "Application for consent to assignment of radio broadcast station construction permit or license."

(2) FCC Form No. 315, "Application for consent to transfer of control of corporation holding radio broadcast station construction permit or license."

(3) FCC Form No. 316, "Inventory of station property to be submitted with and as a part of FCC Form 314 or 315."

(4) FCC Form No. 328, "Income statement." Applicant's own form of income statement may be used if he desires.

(5) FCC Form No. 329, "Balance sheet." Applicant's own form of balance sheet may be used if he desires.

§ 1.322 Application for voluntary assignment or transfer of control; non-broadcast. (a) Application for consent to voluntary assignment of a construction permit or license or for consent to voluntary transfer of control of a corporation holding a construction permit or license shall be filed with the Commission at least 60 days prior to the contemplated effective date of assignment or transfer of control.

(b) The following application forms should be used:

(1) FCC Form No. 702, "Application for consent to Assignment of Radio Station Construction Permit or License (for stations in services other than Standard Broadcast)."

(2) FCC Form No. 703, "Application for Consent to Transfer of Control of Corporation Holding Construction Permit or Station License (for stations in services other than Standard Broadcast)."

§ 1.323 Application for involuntary assignment or transfer of control; broadcast and non-broadcast. In the event of the death or legal disability of a permittee or licensee, or a member of a partnership, or a person directly or indirectly in control of a corporation, which is a permittee or licensee

(a) the Commission shall be notified in writing promptly of the occurrence of such death or legal disability, and

(b) within thirty days after the occurrence of such death or legal disability (except in the case of a ship or amateur station), application shall be filed for consent to involuntary assignment of such permit or license or for involuntary transfer of control of such corporation to a person or entity legally qualified to succeed to the foregoing interests under the laws of the place having jurisdiction over the estate involved. The procedure and forms to be followed are the same as those specified in §§ 1.321 and 1.322. In the case of ship and amateur stations, involuntary assignment of licenses will not be made; such licenses shall be surrendered for cancellation upon the death or legal disability of the licensee.

§ 1.324 Application for special temporary authorization; broadcast and non-broadcast. (a) Special temporary authority may be granted for the operation of a station for a limited time, or in a manner and to an extent or for service other or beyond that authorized in an existing license upon proper application therefor. No such request will be considered unless full particulars as to the purpose for which the request is made are stated and unless the request is received by the Commission at least 10 days previous to the date of proposed operation. A request received within less than 10 days may be accepted upon due showing of sufficient reasons for the delay in submitting such request.

(b) If the request is for operation of a standard broadcast station, the following additional requirements shall apply:

(1) No such authority may be granted to a person other than the licensee of an existing standard broadcast station.

(2) The request shall be limited to a definite or temporary period or periods for the transmission of programs or events which are not recurrent, and approval thereof will not be granted for a period in excess of 30 days.

(3) The request shall show that it has been seasonably submitted to other stations whose operations may be affected (to be determined as indicated below), and the date on which such request was so submitted, which such stations shall submit direct to the Commission waiver of objection to the granting thereof or a statement of the nature of any objections that such stations may desire to interpose.

(4) If the request is for operation upon a clear channel, showing required above shall be made with respect to the Class I station or stations on the channel.

(5) If the request is made by time-sharing station, the showing required above shall be made with respect to the station or stations with which time is shared.

(6) In any case, the showing required above must be made with respect to any station on the same or adjacent channels when any such station is located within the interference range of the station making the request to be determined by the "Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations."

(7) Waiver of objections, or statement of objections, when furnished under this rule, shall be forwarded direct to the Commission by the responding station, and in the case of waiver shall show whether the waiver covers simultaneous operation or whether the station is giving up the time sought by the applicant. Where it appears that the proposed operation has been seasonably submitted to the station or stations referred to in subparagraphs (4), (5), and (6), above, and no reply has been received, it will be considered that such stations have waived any objections to the granting of the request.

(c) The following application forms should be used:

(1) FCC Form No. 408, "Application for special temporary or experimental authorization (Fixed Public Radio Services only)" shall be used in appropriate cases.

(2) FCC Form No. 409, "Application for renewal or extension of special temporary or experimental authorization (Fixed Public Radio Services Only)."

(3) In all other cases, informal application may be used.

§ 1.325 Application for special service authorization; broadcast. (a) Special service authority may be issued to the licensee of a standard broadcast station or, in connection with the furnishing of facilities for service to the United States Government, to the licensee of an international broadcast station, for a service other or beyond that authorized in its existing license for a period not exceeding that of its existing license.

(b) Application for special service authorization must be made by formal application on FCC Form No. 317—"Application for Standard Broadcast Station Special Service Authorization or Extension Thereof"—and a satisfactory showing must be made in regard to the following, among others:

(1) That the requested operation may not be granted on a regular basis under the existing rules governing the operation of standard broadcast stations;

(2) That experimental operation is not involved as provided for by § 3.32 of the Rules and Regulations;

(3) That public interest, convenience, and necessity will be served by the authorization requested.

§ 1.326 Application for standard broadcast station experimental operation. Special experimental authorization may be issued in accordance with § 3.22 to the licensee of a standard broadcast station in addition to the regular license. An informal application should be used in applying for such authorization.

§ 1.327 Application concerning programs to be transmitted to foreign radio stations. Application under section 325 (b) of the Communications Act for authority to locate, use or maintain a radio broadcast studio in connection with a foreign radio station should be made on FCC Form No. 308, entitled "Application for permit to locate, maintain, or use studio or apparatus for production of programs to be transmitted or delivered to foreign radio station."

§ 1.328 Application to determine operating power by direct measurement of antenna power. Application to determine operating power of broadcast stations by direct measurement of antenna power shall be made on FCC Form No. 306, entitled "Application to Determine Operating Power of Broadcast Station by Direct Measurement of Antenna Power."

§ 1.329 Application for radio operator license. (a) Application for a commercial radio operator's license or permit shall be filed in duplicate on FCC Form No. 756, entitled "Application for commercial radio operator license or permit," FCC Form No. 756–A, entitled "Application for Authority to Operate Radiotelephone Equipment on Aircraft," or on FCC Form No. 457, entitled "Application for War Emergency Radio Service Operator Permit."

(b) Application for an amateur radio operator license is included with the application for station license. (See § 1.318.)

(c) FCC Form No. 759 should be used for filing statement relative to the posting of operator license.

§ 1.330 Application for radio ship inspection and certification of ship radio license. (a) Applications for ship radio inspection and certification of the ship radio license, in accordance with the requirements of section 360 (b) of the Communications Act, and/or a Safety Convention certificate in accordance with the terms of Article 50 of the Safety Convention, should be submitted on FCC Form No. 801, entitled "Application for Ship Radio Inspection." These forms should be forwarded to the Engineering field office of the district in which the ship is located. (See § 1.40.) In order to expedite action on Form 801 in District 8, a ship docked in Mobile, Alabama, may submit Form 801 direct to the Mobile office, located at 320 U. S. Courthouse and Customhouse, Mobile 10, Alabama.

(b) FCC Form No. 808, entitled "Application for and Certificate of Overtime Service Involving Inspection of Radio Equipment," should be submitted by inspectors of ship stations who work overtime at the request of licensee when making inspections of compulsorily equipped vessels.

§ 1.331 Application for exemptions under Part II of Title III. Applications for exemptions from the requirements of Part II, Title III of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and Article 27 of the Safety of Life at Sea Convention, London, 1929, shall be submitted on FCC Form No. 820, entitled "Application for Exemption."

§ 1.332 Informal applications. (a) Whenever Commission authorization is required by the Communications Act or the Commission's Rules and Regulations in connection with any matter under Title III of the Act and no application form is specified in this Subpart, informal application may be utilized.

(b) A partial list of some of the matters concerning standard broadcast operation as to which informal request may be made is given below:

(1) To operate additional time.

(2) To discontinue operation or services not covered by § 3.71.

(3) To operate with additional power.

(4) To operate with reduced power not covered by § 3.57.

(5) To operate for test purposes (to determine site, etc.).

(6) To rebroadcast programs of stations of other classes.

(7) Other special temporary operation beyond terms of existing license.

(8) Temporary operation without specified items of equipment, or with temporary, substitute, or auxiliary equipment.

(i) Operation without an approved frequency monitor.

(ii) Operation without an approved modulation monitor.

(iii) Operation without thermometer in automatic temperature control chamber.

(iv) Operation without antenna ammeter, plate voltmeter, or plate ammeter.

(v) Operation with substitute ammeter, plate voltmeter, or plate ammeter.

(vi) Operation with temporary antenna system.

(vii) Operation with auxiliary transmitter as main transmitter.

(9) Operation with new or modified equipment pending repair of existing equipment, or pending receipt and action upon a formal application.

(10) Where formal application is not required, application for new or modified equipment or antenna system.

(11) Change of specifications for painting and lighting antenna towers where formal application is not required.

(12) Relocation of transmitter in same building.

(13) Operation with reduced power or time under §§ 3.57 and 3.71.

(14) Approval of types of equipment as to compliance with outstanding rules or standards.

(15) All authorizations for equipment and program tests, or extensions thereof, where it appears that compliance has been had with the terms of the construction permit.

(16) Extensions of time within which to comply with technical requirements specified in authorizations, orders, and rules or releases of the Commission.

(17) Representations of compliance with technical requirements specified in authorizations, orders, rules, or releases (except formal applications).

(18) Operation with licensed, new or modified equipment at a temporary location with a temporary antenna system in case of an emergency when, due to causes beyond the control of the licensee, it becomes impossible to continue operating at the licensed location.

(c) Requests for type approval of equipment should be made by informal application. Arrangements should be made through the office of Chief Engineer for inspection and examination of the equipment in question.

RULES RELATING TO OTHER FORMS AND INFORMATION TO BE FILED WITH THE COMMISSION

§ 1.341 Financial report, broadcast licensees. Each licensee of a broadcast station (standard, FM, television, and international) shall file with the Commission on or before April 1 of each year on Form 324, together with supporting schedules, a balance sheet showing its financial condition as of December 31 of the preceding calendar year and an income statement for said calendar year.

§ 1.342 Filing of contracts. Each licensee of a broadcast station (standard, FM, television, and international) shall file with the Commission within 30 days of execution thereof verified copies of all documents, instruments, contracts (the substance of oral contracts or understandings shall be reported in writing for submission) together with amendments, supplements, and changes therein and cancellations thereof relating to ownership, management or control of licensee of station, or of any of licensee's stock, rights or interests therein; the use, management, or operation of licensed facilities; and agreements relating to network service, transcription service or bulk, time sales (amounting to two hours or more per day); including but not limited to: (a) Articles of partnership, association, or incorporation; (b) By-laws affecting character of organization, control, number or powers of its officers or directors, the classification or voting rights of any stock; (c) Any document, instrument, or contract relating to or affecting ownership of licensee, rights or interests therein, its stock, or voting rights thereto; (d) Management contracts, network contracts, transcription network contracts, and time sales to brokers.

§ 1.343 Ownership reports, broadcast licensees—(a) Annual ownership reports. The licensee of each broadcast station (standard, FM, television, and international) shall file on or before April 1 of each year on FCC Form 323 an annual ownership report and shall show the following information as of December 31 of the preceding calendar year:

(1) In the case of an individual, the name of such individual.

(2) In the case of a partnership; the names of the partners and the interests of each partner.[1]

(3) In the case of a corporaton or association: (i) Capitalization, with a description of the classes and voting power of stock authorized and the shares of each class issued and outstanding; (ii) the name, residence, citizenship, and stockholdings of officers and directors, and stockholders; (iii) full information with respect to the interest and identity of any person whether or not a stockholder of record, having any interest, direct or indirect, in the licensee or any of its stock;

For example:

(a) Where A is the beneficial owner or votes stock held by B, the same information should be furnished for A as is required for B.

(b) Where X corporation controls the licensee, or holds 25% or more of the stock of the licensee, the same information should be furnished with respect to X corporation (its capitalization, officers, directors, and the amount of stock in X held by each) as is required in the case of the licensee, together with full information as to the identity and citizenship of the person authorized to vote licensee's stock.

(c) The same information should be furnished as to Y corporation of it controls X corporation or holds 25% or more of the stock of X, and as to Z corporation if it controls Y corporation or holds 25% or more of the stock of Y and so on back to natural persons.

(iv) Full information as to family relationship or business association between two or more officials and/or stockholders.

[1] Any change in partners or in their rights will require prior consent of the Commission upon an application for consent to assignment of license.

(4) In the case of all licensees: (i) the name, residence, position and date of appointment of operating personnel determining program policy (such as general manager, program director, etc.); (ii) a list of all contracts still in effect required to be filed with the Commission by § 1.342 showing the date of execution and expiration of each contract; (iii) any interest which the licensee may have in any other broadcast station.

(b) Interim ownership reports. An interim ownership report shall be filed by each licensee on FCC Form 323A describing any change in information required in the annual ownership report from that previously reported within 30 days after any such change occurs, including without limitation:

(1) Any change in capitalization or organization.

(2) Any change in officers and directors or in operating personnel determining program policy.

(3) Any transaction affecting the ownership, direct or indirect, or voting rights of licensee's stock, such as (i) a transfer of stock, (ii) issuance of new stock or disposition of treasury stock, (iii) acquisition of licensee's stock by the issuing corporation.

(4) Any change in the officers, directors or stockholders of a corporation other than the licensee such as X, Y or Z Corporation described in the example above.

Provided, however, That in the case of a change in the officers, directors or stockholders of a corporation other than the licensee (such as X, Y or Z corporation described in the example above), such change need not be reported in the interim report unless that corporation directly or indirectly owns 25% or more of the voting stock in the licensee.[1]

(c) Exceptions. Where information is required under paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section with respect to a corporation having more than 50 stockholders, such information need be filed only with respect to stockholders having 1% or more of the stock of the corporation.

§ 1.334 Definitions of terms used in §§ 1.341 to 1.343, inclusive. As used in §§ 1.341 to 1.343, inclusive:

(a) "Stock" shall include any interest, legal or beneficial in, or right or privilege in connection with stock.

(b) "Officer" and "director" shall include the comparable officials in unincorporated associations.

(c) "Contract" shall include any agreement (including, without limitation, an option, trust, or pledge) or any modification thereof, express or implied, oral or written.

§ 1.345 Information regarding station equipment filed under section 308 of the Communications Act. Supplemental statements of fact concerning station equipment required pursuant to section 308 of the Communications Act shall be made on FCC Form No. 327. This form shall be submitted:

(a) Subsequent to the completion of any changes in automatic frequency control or devices.

(b) As may be required on other changes affecting frequency stability provided by § 3.60.

§ 1.346 Reports in connection with certain Fixed Public Radio Service operations. Monthly and quarterly reports must be filed with the Commission in connection with certain fixed public radio service operations. No form is prescribed. A complete description of the contents of these reports is contained in §§ 6.31 and 6.53.

§ 1.347 Reports to be filed by international and coastal radiotelegraph carriers. Commission Orders Nos. 85 and 86 require international telegraph carriers to file on FCC Form No. 336 and common carriers engaged in radiotelegraph communication with maritime mobile stations (with certain exceptions) to file on FCC Form No. 337 certain traffic information at periodic intervals. A complete description of these reports is set forth in Orders Nos. 85 and 86.

RULES RELATING TO ACCEPTANCE, AMENDMENT OR DISMISSAL OF APPLICATION

§ 1.361 Defective applications. (a) Applications which are defective with respect to completeness of answers to required questions, execution or other matters of a purely formal character will not be received for filing by the Commission, unless the Commission shall otherwise direct, and will be returned to the applicant with a brief statement as to the omissions.

(b) If an applicant is requested by the Commission to file any documents or information not included in the prescribed application form, a failure to comply with such request will constitute a defect in the application.

(c) Applications which are not in accordance with the Commission's rules, regulations or other requirements will be considered defective unless accompanied either (1) by a petition to amend any rule or regulation with which the application is in conflict, or (2) by a request of the applicant for waiver of, or an exception to, any rule, regulation or requirement with which the application is in conflict. Such request shall show the nature of the waiver or exception desired and set forth the reasons in support thereof.

(d) Applications found to be complete are accepted for filing and are given a file number. Public notice of broadcast applications accepted for filing is given at regular intervals.

§ 1.362 Inconsistent or conflicting applications. When an applicant has an application pending and undecided, no other inconsistent or conflicting application filed by the same applicant, his successor or assignee, or on behalf or for the benefit of said applicant, will be considered by the Commission.

§ 1.363 Repetitious applications. (a) Where an applicant has been afforded an opportunity to be heard with respect to a particular application for new station, or for an extension or enlargement of service or facilities, and the Commission has, after hearing or default, denied the application or dismissed it with prejudice, the Commission will not consider a like application involving service of the same kind to the same area by the same applicant, or by his successor or assignee, or on behalf of or for the benefit of the original parties in interest, until after the lapse of 12 months from the effective date of the Commission's order. The Commission may, for good cause shown, waive the requirements of this rule.

(b) Where an appeal has been taken from the action of the Commission in denying a particular application, another application for the same class of broadcast station and for the same area, in whole or in part, filed by the same applicant or by his successor or assignee, or on behalf or for the benefit of the original parties in interest, will not be considered until the final disposition of such appeal.

§ 1.364 Multiple applications; broadcast service. In the broadcast service, while there is one application for new or additional facilities pending for a standard, international, television, facsimile, FM, or experimental broadcast station, the Commission will not consider another application for new or additional facilities for a station of the same class (as given above) to serve in whole or in part the same area, by the same applicant or by his successor or assignee, or on behalf of or for the benefit of the original parties in interest. Two such applications may not be filed simultaneously.

§ 1.365 Amendments and dismissals of applications. (a) Any application may be amended or dismissed without prejudice as a matter of right prior to the designation of such application for hearing. Thereafter, requests to amend or dismiss without prejudice will be considered only upon written motion properly served upon all parties of record.

(b) When leave to amend has been granted after an application has been designated for hearing, the application will not be removed from the hearing docket unless the Motions Commissioner shall determine that the proposed amendment substantially affects the issues upon which the application has been designated for hearing and orders that the application shall be removed from the hearing docket. An amended application which has been removed from the hearing docket will be reexamined by the Commission and when necessary will be redesignated for hearing at a subsequent time.

(c) When a broadcast applicant seeks removal from the hearing docket by proposing an amendment as to frequency or other matter substantially affecting the issues in the proceeding in which he is involved, and is unable concurrently to specify and submit the desired amendment, his application shall be dismissed without prejudice, subject to the right of reinstatement within a reasonable time. In any proper case of this kind where dismissal without prejudice has been allowed, the application involved will be reinstated upon the filing of a proper petition, accompanied by the amendment necessary to complete the application.

[1] Before any change is made in the organization, capitalization, officers, directors or stockholders of a corporation other than licensee, which results in a change in the control of the licensee, prior Commission consent must be received under section 310 (b) of the Communications Act.

THE MANNER IN WHICH APPLICATIONS ARE PROCESSED[1]

§ 1.371 Acceptance of applications. All applications, other than amateur operator and ship radio inspection, which are tendered for filing by mail are dated upon receipt by Mail and Files Section of the Secretary's Office and are forwarded to Broadcast License Section if a broadcast application, otherwise to Commercial License Section.[2] Applications tendered for filing, in person, in the Secretary's Office are dated and forwarded to the Broadcast or Commercial License Section. An administrative examination is made of all applications by the Broadcast or Commercial License Section to ascertain whether the application is complete. If found to be complete it is accepted and is then routed to the other departments of the Commission.

§ 1.372 Staff consideration of applications which receive action by the Commission. (a) Upon acceptance of an application, the complete file is routed to the appropriate Branch of the Engineering Department. The application is there reviewed, from an engineering standpoint. A draft report containing the recommendations of the Engineering Department is prepared. In cases where no engineering problems are involved, the report contains no recommendations as to disposition.

(b) The complete file is then routed to the appropriate Branch of the Accounting Department where it is reviewed from an accounting standpoint. A draft report containing the recommendations of the Accounting Department is prepared. In cases where no accounting problems are involved the report contains no recommendations as to disposition.

(c) The complete file is then routed to the appropriate division of the Law Department where it is reviewed to determine whether the authorization requested will be in accordance with the Commission's policies, Rules and Regulations and any other requirements imposed by law. A joint report containing the recommendations of the Law Department and the other departments and any other documents required is prepared and the entire file routed to the Minute Section of the Secretary's Office which records, mimeographs and distributes necessary papers to the members of the Commission, heads of departments and other interested staff members, and places the matter on the Commission's agenda.

[1] This description is applicable to all applications filed under Title III. However, some of the detailed provisions governing processing are applicable only to applications which are tendered for filing in Washington. Operator and ship radio inspection applications are filed in the field. Their processing in general is substantially similar to that accorded applications filed in Washington.

[2] Applications for Alaskan stations tendered for filing with the Inspector in Charge of Radio District 14, Seattle, Washington, are forwarded to Washington for processing.

§ 1.373 Special procedure with respect to processing of standard broadcast applications. (a) When an application for the construction of a new broadcast station, or for a change in the facilities of an existing station, is received in the Commission it is immediately referred to the Broadcast License Section which examines the application to determine whether it is sufficiently complete to permit the Commission to process it. If it is found to be sufficiently complete to be processed—even though it is incomplete in certain minor particulars—it is immediately given a file number and a letter is sent to the applicant requesting the correction of any minor defects that may have been disclosed by the examination. If the examination by the Broadcast License Section discloses that the application is incomplete in major particulars which makes it impossible to process it, the Broadcast License Section then with the advice and concurrence of the Engineering Department and Law Department, returns the application to the applicant with a statement that it cannot be accepted. The reasons for its rejection are specified in the letter returning the application.

(b) Once an application has been given a file number it is referred to a member of the Engineering Department for "classification." This involves two separate functions. First, the application is examined to determine whether it is one which must obviously go to hearing. For example, if the application seeks to use 1240 kc in a particular town and there is already pending an application for that same frequency in that same town, then the two obviously must be consolidated for hearing and steps are set in motion at this stage looking toward an order designating the two applications for a consolidated hearing. At this stage, however, only those cases which are obvious conflicts are sifted out and put into hearing. If an engineering study is necessary in order to determine whether the case must go to hearing, the application is not set for hearing at this stage but is put in line for processing by the Engineering Department and is set for hearing after the engineering study is completed (provided that such a study discloses an engineering conflict requiring a hearing). In view of this, it is to the advantage of an applicant who knows that his case does present a conflict requiring a hearing promptly to point that fact out to the Commission—preferably at the time the application is filed—so that it will be immediately recognized as a hearing case at the time it is classified. This will result in getting the application immediately into line awaiting the assignment of a date on the hearing calendar instead of having the case remain in line awaiting processing by the Engineering Department with the result that some weeks or months later it will be recognized as a hearing case and then put in the hearing line.

(c) The second step performed by the classifier is to determine whether the application presents a relatively simple engineering question or whether it presents an engineering question of some complexity. If it presents a fairly simple engineering problem, such as is presented by 250 watt applications on local frequencies and applications for daytime only operation, it is classified as a case to be put in processing line No. 1. If on the other hand it is found to present engineering questions of some complexity, such as are presented by applications for nighttime operation on regional and clear channels, particularly those involving directional antennas, it is classified as a case to be put in processing line No. 2.

(d) Once it is determined that a case falls into a particular line it is listed in its proper order according to file number. The oldest (lowest file number) is at the front of the line and the newest (highest file number) is at the back of the line. Cases are drawn by the group of engineers working on line 1 from the front of line 1 and similarly cases are drawn by the groups of engineers working on line 2 in order of file number. Thus, the file number strictly determines the order in which the staff's work is begun on a particular application. There is one exception to this. The Broadcast Branch of the Engineering Department is authorized to group together for study cases in Lines 1 and 2 which involve interference conflicts where it appears that by making a simultaneous study of such conflicting applications rather than individual studies of separate applications, a substantial amount of the Engineering Department's time can be saved. Further, such cases would ordinarily require simultaneous consideration by the Commission and preparation of simultaneous reports is, therefore, necessary.

(e) It takes longer to process some applications than it does others, even where both applications are in the same general category and therefore in the same processing line. Also it frequently occurs that when the processing of an application is begun it is discovered that additional information is needed and the staff's work cannot be completed until further word is received from the applicant. Thus, there will be cases where the processing of a particular application may be completed and ready for Commission action prior to another application even though the processing of the latter application began at an earlier date. However, every effort is made, once the processing of an application has begun, to carry its processing through to completion at the earliest possible date in the light of the circumstances involved in the particular case. The Law and Accounting Departments by keeping track of the cases which will be reached next in the processing line are in position to plan their work so that they will be writing reports on the same applications that are being studied by the Engineering Department.

(f) If, as a result of the study by the three departments and the Commission it appears that the application is satisfactory in all respects, it can be granted without a hearing. If, on the other hand, the complete study by the staff and the Commission indicates that a hearing is required, then the application will be designated for hearing.

(g) If a waiver of hearing is requested pursuant to § 1.391, the Commission will, if it determines that a hearing may properly be dispensed with, take the case out of the hearing line and place it back in the appropriate processing line in its proper position (as determined by the file numbers). However, if any such case involves conflicting applications a decision will not be made prior to the time when the file number of the oldest of such conflicting applications is reached in the proper processing line.

(h) Frequently, when two cases are designated for hearing because they are mutually exclusive, one of the applicants amends and removes the conflict. Where this occurs the appropriate procedure is to petition for leave to amend and remove from the hearing docket. Such motions will be considered promptly and if it appears that the conflict which caused the case originally to be set for hearing has been removed and there is no other obvious conflict, the two cases will be removed from the hearing docket and placed back in their proper position (as determined by the file numbers) in the processing line. Petitions for amendment, removal from the hearing docket, and grant will not be entertained insofar as they request a grant. The Motions Commissioner in acting on such petitions will dismiss the request for a grant. In such a case the matter will simply be put back in its proper place in line.

(i) An application will continue to be carried under the same file number unless major amendment is made which really involves the substitution of a different application. Amendments simply changing the frequency and/or power or changing from fulltime to daytime only will be accepted without changing the file number.

(j) Sometimes it occurs that when an application is reached for processing it is necessary for one of the departments or the Commission itself to address a letter to the applicant asking further information. If the application cannot be processed until the information requested is received, then the application is placed in the pending file to await the applicant's response. Also it sometimes occurs that a particular category of cases is placed in the pending file by Commission action. In such cases the Commission makes a public announcement of its policy and notifies the individual applicant as to why his application is being placed in the pending file.

(k) From time to time the Commission will publish lists given the status of all pending applications in the processing line.

§ 1.374 Staff consideration of applications which do not require action by the Commission. Those applications which do not require action by the Commission but which pursuant to the delegation of authority contained in Subpart B may be acted upon by employees designated in that subpart are forwarded to the appropriate heads of departments for necessary action. In those cases where the Secretary may act after securing the approval of the various departments, the applications are forwarded to such appropriate departments. If the application is granted, it is returned to the appropriate License Section for issuance of the formal authorization. In cases where the Secretary acts by himself the appropriate License Section reviews the applications before final decision is made and the authorization issued if the application is granted. In any case where it is recommended that it be set down for hearing, a novel question of policy is presented or where the employee to whom authority is delegated desires instructions from the Commission, the file with necessary recommendations is forwarded to the Minute Section to be placed on the Commission agenda for action by the Commission.

§ 1.375 Procedure with respect to amateur and commercial radio operator licenses. (a) After an application for an amateur radio operator license is accepted for filing, and an examination conducted in accordance with Part 12 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations, the examinations are sent to Washington where they are graded in the Amateur License Section of the Secretary's Office and, if the applicant passes, a license is issued by that section.

(b) After an application for a commercial radio operator license is accepted for filing, and an examination conducted in accordance with Part 13 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations, the examination papers are graded by the office supervising the examination which also issues a license, if the applicant is successful. In the case of third class radiotelephone operator permits an examination is not required.

(c) For special optional procedures relating to the processing of applications for authority to operate radiotelephone equipment on aircraft, see § 1.213 (d).

§ 1.376 Procedure with respect to applications for radio ship inspection and certification of ship radio licenses. After applications for ship radio inspection and certification of the ship radio license, in accordance with the requirements of section 360 (b) of the Communications Act, as amended, and/or a Safety Convention certificate in accordance with the terms of Article 50 of the Safety Convention, are accepted for filing, the district engineer to whom the application is made makes the necessary examination and issues the appropriate certification.

ACTION ON APPLICATIONS

§ 1.381 Failure to prosecute applications. An applicant not desiring to prosecute his application may request the dismissal of same without prejudice. A request of an applicant for the return of an application which has been accepted for filing will be considered as a request to dismiss the same without prejudice. Where an applicant fails to respond to official correspondence or request for additional material, the application will be dismissed without prejudice.

§ 1.382 Grants without a hearing. Where an application for radio facilities is proper upon its face and where it appears from an examination of the application and supporting data that (a) the applicant is legally, technically and financially qualified; (b) a grant of the application would not involve modification, revocation, or non-renewal of any existing license or outstanding construction permit; (c) a grant of the application would not cause electrical interference to an existing station or station for which an construction permit is outstanding within its normally protected contour as prescribed by the applicable Rules and Regulations; (d) a grant of the application would not preclude the grant of any mutually exclusive application; and (e) a grant of the application would be in the public interest, the Commission will grant the application without a hearing.

§ 1.383 Partial grants. Where the Commission without a hearing grants any application in part, or with any privileges, terms, or conditions other than those requested, or subject to any interference that may result to the station if designated application or applications are subsequently granted, the action of the Commission shall be considered as a grant of such application unless the applicant shall, within 20 days from the date on which public announcement of such grant is made, or from its effective date if a later date is specified, file with the Commission a written request rejecting the grant as made. Upon receipt of such request, the Commission will vacate its original action upon the application and set the application for hearing in the same manner as other applications are set for hearing.

§ 1.384 Temporary extension of station licenses. Where there is pending before the Commission any application, investigation, or proceeding which, after hearing, might lead to or make necessary the modification of, revocation of, or the refusal to renew an existing license, the Commission may, in its discretion, grant a temporary extension of such license. No such temporary extension shall be construed as a finding by the Commission that the operation of any radio station thereunder will serve public interest, convenience, and necessity beyond the express terms of such temporary extension of license or will in no wise affect or limit the action of the Commission with respect to any pending application or proceeding.

§ 1.385 Designation for hearing. Applications will be designated for hearing in the following cases:

(a) Where it does not appear from an examination of the application that the applicant is legally, technically or financially qualified; or

(b) Where a grant of the application would require the modification, revocation, or non-renewal of license of an existing station or of any outstanding construction permit; or

(c) Where a grant of the application would cause electrical interference to an existing station or station for which a construction permit is outstanding within its normally protected contour as prescribed by the applicable Rules and Regulations; or

(d) Where it does not appear from from an examination of the application that a grant of the application will be in the public interest.

(e) Where a grant of the application would preclude the grant of an application or applications mutually exclusive with it. However, the Commission may, if public interest will be served thereby, make a conditional grant of one of the applications and designate all of the mutually exclusive applications for hearing. Such conditional grant will be made upon the express condition that such grant is subject to being withdrawn if at the hearing it is shown that public interest will be better served by a grant of one of the other applications. Such conditional grants will be issued only where it appears:

(1) That some or all of the applications were not filed in good faith but were filed for the purpose of delaying or hindering the grant of another application; or

(2) That public interest requires the prompt establishment of radio service in a particular community or area; or

(3) That a grant of one or more applications would be in the public interest and that a delay in making a grant to any applicant until after the conclusion of a hearing on all applications might jeopardize the rights of the United States under the provisions of international agreement to the use of the frequency in question; or

(4) That a grant of one application would be in the public interest and that it appears from an examination of the remaining applications that they cannot be granted because they are in violation of provisions of the Communications Act, or of other statutes, or of the Commission's Rules and Regulations.

§ 1.386 Petition for reconsideration and grant without hearing. Where the Commission has designated an application for hearing, the applicant may file a petition requesting reconsideration and grant of the application without hearing. If the petition shows that a grant of the application without hearing would be consistent with § 1.382, the petition will be granted. Otherwise it will be denied.

§ 1.387 Procedure when case is designated for hearing. (a) When an application has been designated for hearing, the Secretary of the Commission will mail a written notice to the applicant setting forth the action of the Commission designating the application for hearing, together with such statement of the Commission's reasons therefor as shall be appropriate to the nature of the application. In addition, notice of hearing involving matters under Part I of Title III of the Act will be given by publishing the notice of hearing in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The Commission will attempt, when possible, to give at least 30 days advance notice of a hearing. In order to avail himself of the opportunity to be heard, the applicant, in person or by his attorney, shall, within 15 days of the mailing of the notice of designation for hearing by the Secretary, file with the Commission a written appearance stating that he will appear and present evidence on the issues specified in the statement of reasons furnished by the Commission on such date as may be fixed for the hearing. In cases involving applications for facilities other than AM broadcast, FM broadcast, international broadcast, or television, the applicant shall submit with his appearance an additional copy of his application and supporting documents.

(b) The Commission will on its own motion name as parties to the hearing:

(1) Any existing licensee or holder of an outstanding construction permit who, if the application were granted, would suffer electrical interference within his normally protected contour as prescribed by the Commission's Rules and Regulations.

(2) Any existing licensee or holder of an outstanding construction permit whose license or construction permit would have to be modified or revoked, or whose application for renewal of license would have to be denied, if the application in question were granted.

(3) Any person who, prior to the time the application in question was designated for hearing, had filed with the Commission a mutually exclusive application. Persons filing mutually exclusive applications after the application in question has been designated for hearing will be named as parties only if the Commission in its discretion deems such action advisable.

§ 1.388 Petitions to intervene. (a) Where the Commission has failed on its own motion to name as parties to a hearing any person specified in § 1.387 (b), such person will be permitted to participate in the proceeding by filing a petition to intervene showing that he comes within the provisions of § 1.387 (b). Where the petition to intervene is based upon a claim that a grant of the application would cause electrical interference to an existing station or a station for which a construction permit is outstanding within its normally protected contour as prescribed by the applicable Rules and Regulations, the petition must be accompanied by an affidavit of a qualified radio engineer which shall show either by reference to the Commission's Standards of Good Engineering Practice or to actual measurements made in accordance with the methods prescribed by the Commission's Standards of Good Engineering Practice that electrical interference will be caused to the existing station or station for which a construction permit is outstanding within the normally protected contour of the station.

(b) Any other person desiring to participate in the hearing may file a petition to intervene. The petition must set forth the interest of the petitioner in the proceedings and must show how such person's participation will assist the Commission in the determination of the issues in question. The Commission in its discretion may grant or deny such petition or may permit intervention by such persons limited to particular issues or to a particular stage of the proceeding.

(c) The granting of any petition to intervene shall not have the effect of changing or enlarging the issues specified in the Commission's notice of hearing unless the Commission shall on motion amend the same.

(d) Petitions to intervene under this section must be filed with the Commission not later than 15 days after the issues in the hearing have first been published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Any person desiring to file a petition to intervene after the expiration of such 15 days must set forth the reason why it was not possible to file the petition within the prescribed 15 days. Unless good cause is shown for delay in filing, the petition will not be granted.

§ 1.389 Motions to enlarge or change the issues. Motions to enlarge or change the issues may be filed by any party to a hearing. Such motions must be filed with the Commission not later than 15 days after the issues in the hearing have first been published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Any person desiring to file a motion to enlarge or change the issues after the expiration of such 15 days must set forth the reason why it was not possible to file the petition within the prescribed 15 days. Unless good cause is shown for delay in filing, the motion will not be granted.

§ 1.390 Petitions for reconsideration or for rehearing. (a) Where an application has been granted without a hearing, any person aggrieved or whose interests would be adversely affected thereby may file a petition for reconsideration of such action. Such petition must be filed with the Commission within 20 days after public notice is given of the Commission's action in granting the application. Such petition will be granted if the petitioner shows that:

(1) Petitioner is an existing licensee or permittee and a grant of the application would require the modification, revocation, or non-renewal of his license or construction permit; or

(2) That petitioner is an existing licensee or permittee and a grant of the application would cause interference to his station within the normally protected contour as prescribed by applicable Rules and Regulations; or

(3) At the time the application was granted, petitioner had a mutually exclusive application pending before the Commission; or

(4) A grant of the application is not in the public interest.

(b) Where an application has been granted or denied after hearing, petitions for rehearing may be filed within 20 days after public notice is given of the Commission's action in granting or denying the application. Petitions for rehearing by persons not parties to the Commission's hearing will not be granted unless good cause is shown as to why it was not possible for such person to participate earlier in the Commission's proceeding.

(c) Where a petition for reconsideration or for rehearing is based upon a claim of electrical interference within the normally protected contour of an existing station or a station for which a construction permit is outstanding, such petition must be accompanied by an affidavit of a qualified radio engineer which shall show either by reference to the Commission's Standards of Good Engineering Practice or to actual measurements made in accordance with the methods prescribed by the Commission's Standards of Good Engineering Practice that electrical interference will be caused to the station within its normally protected contour. If the claim of interference is not based upon actual measurements made in accordance with the Standards of Good Engineering Practice, it may be controverted by affidavit containing results of actual measurements made in accordance with the Standards of Good Engineering Practice.

(d) Any opposition to a petition for reconsideration or rehearing may be filed within 10 days after the filing of such petition.

(e) Petitions for reconsideration or rehearing filed under this section may request (1) reconsideration, either in cases decided after hearing or in cases of applications granted without hearing; (2) reargument; (3) reopening of the proceeding; (4) amendment of any finding; or (5) such other relief as may be appropriate. Such petition shall state specifically the form of relief sought and, subject to this requirement, may contain alternative requests. Each such petition shall state with particularity in what respect the decision, order or requirement or any matter determined therein is claimed to be unjust, unwarranted, or erroneous, and with respect to any finding of fact must specify the pages of record relied on. Where the petition is based upon a claim of newly discovered evidence, it must be accompanied by a verified statement of the facts relied upon, together with the facts relied on to show that the petitioner, with due diligence, could not have known or discovered such facts at the time of the hearing.

(f) The filing of a petition for reconsideration or rehearing shall not excuse any person from complying with or obeying any decision, order, or requirement of the Commission, or operate in any manner to stay or postpone the enforcement thereof. However, upon good cause shown the Commission may stay the effectiveness of its order or requirement pending a decision on the petition for rehearing.

§ 1.391 Special procedure relative to waiver of hearing on broadcast applications. (a) In the case of any broadcast applications designated for hearing, the parties may request the Commission to waive a hearing and to grant or deny the applications upon the basis of the information contained in the applications and other papers on file with the Commission pertaining to the applicants or applications. Any party desiring to waive a hearing in accordance wth this procedure should execute and file with the Commission a waiver in accordance with subsection (f) and serve copies on all other parties, or a joint waiver may be signed by all the parties. Upon the receipt of waivers from all the parties to a proceeding, the Commission will decide whether the case is an appropriate one for determination without a hearing. If it is determined by the Commission that notwithstanding the waiver, a hearing is necessary, the case will be continued on the hearing docket. If the Commission concludes that the case can appropriately be decided without a hearing, the case will be removed from the hearing docket.

(b) In all cases which are removed from the hearing docket in accordance with this procedure, the Commission will be free to proceed to decide the case upon the basis of the information contained in the applications and in any other papers on file with the Commission which pertain to the applicants or applications in question, including any protests filed at any time prior to final decision. The Commission reserves the right to call upon any party to furnish any additional information which the Commission deems necessary to a proper decision. Such information shall be served upon opposing parties.

(c) This procedure does not in any way change the Commission's practice with respect to protests. Any party, or any member of the public, may file with the Commission any information concerning the applicant which bears upon his qualifications to operate a station in the public interest. Where such protest raises a question of substance which might affect the granting of the application a hearing will generally be required. If the protest is not of any substance, the Commission may proceed to act upon the application without hearing.

(d) In all cases where the Commission issues a decision pursuant to this procedure without holding a hearing a brief memorandum opinion will be issued by the Commission stating its reasons for its grant or denial of the individual applications. This decision shall have the same effect as a proposed decision, and the procedure thereafter to be followed shall be the same as in the case of a proposed decision made after a hearing.

(e) The Commission does not construe this procedure as involving any waiver by the parties of the right to appeal to the Courts from any adverse final decision of the Commission.

(f) The waiver of hearing shall be in the following form:

WAIVER OF HEARING

NAME OF APPLICANT----------
CALL LETTERS---------- DOCKET NO.----------

The undersigned hereby waives its (their) right to a hearing in the above-entitled docket case and in all other docket cases which have been consolidated for hearing with such case and requests the Commission to decide said case or cases upon the basis of the information contained in the applications and in any other papers on file with the Commission pertaining to the applicants or applications in question. It is expressly understood that the Commission may render a proposed decision based upon such information or such additional information as the Commission may request from any party at any time before such decision and that such decision shall have the same force and effect as though made after a hearing.

PROCEDURE WITH RESPECT TO REVOCATION AND MODIFICATION OF STATION LICENSE AND SUSPENSION OF RADIO OPERATOR'S LICENSE

§ 1.401 Notice of violations. Any licensee who appears to have violated any provision of the Communications Act of 1934 or of the Rules and Regulations of the Federal Communications Commission, shall be served with a notice calling the facts to his attention and requesting a statement concerning the matter. Within 3 days from receipt of such notice, or such other period as may be specified, the licensee shall send a written answer direct to the Federal Communications Commission at Washington, D. C., and a copy thereof to the office of the Commission originating the official notice when the originating office is other than the office of the Commission in Washington, D. C. If an answer cannot be sent nor an acknowledgment made within such 3-day period by reason of illness or other unavoidable circumstances, acknowledgment and answer shall be made at the earliest practicable date with a satisfactory explanation of the delay. The answer to each notice shall be complete in itself and shall not be abbreviated by reference to other communications or answers to other notices. If the notice relates to violations that may be due to the physical or electrical characteristics of transmitting apparatus, the answer shall state fully what steps, if any, have been taken to prevent future violations, and if any new apparatus is to be installed, the date such apparatus was ordered, the name of the manufacturer, and promised date of delivery. If the installation of such apparatus requires a construction permit, the file number of the application shall be given, or if a file number has not been assigned by the Commission such identification shall be given as will permit ready identification thereof. If the notice of violation relates to lack of attention to or improper operation of the transmitter, the name and license number of the operator in charge shall be given.

§ 1.402 Revocation of licenses. Whenever it appears that grounds exist for revocation of license, as provided in section 312 (a) of the Act, the Law Department after conferring with the other departments of the Commission prepares a report and other necessary papers which are presented to the Commission for action. If the Commission concludes that a revocation proceeding should be instituted, an order of revocation will be issued effective not less than 15 days after written notice thereof is given the licensee. The order of revocation shall contain a statement of the grounds and reasons for such proposed revocation and a notice of the licensee's right to be heard by filing with the Commission a written request for hearing within 15 days after receipt of said order. Upon the filing of such written request for hearing by said licensee, the order of revocation shall stand suspended and the Commission will set a time and place for hearing and shall give the licensee and other interested parties notice thereof. If no request for hearing on any order of revocation is made by the licensee against whom such an order is directed within the time set forth, the order of revocation shall become final and effective, without further action of the Commission. When any order of revocation has become final, the person whose license has been revoked shall forthwith deliver the station license in question to the inspector in charge of the district in which the station is located.

§ 1.403 Modification of licenses. Whenever it appears that public interest, convenience, and necessity would be served, or the provisions of the Communications Act, or of any treaty ratified by the United States will be more fully complied with, by the modification of any radio station construction permit or license, the Law and Engineering Departments prepare a report and other necessary papers which are presented to the Commission for action. If the Commission concludes that proceedings should be instituted, an order will be issued to show cause why such construction permit or license should not be modified. Such order to show cause shall contain a statement of the grounds and reasons for such proposed modification, and shall specify wherein the said construction permit or license is required to be modified. It shall require the license against whom it is directed, to appear at a place and time therein named to show cause why the proposed modification should not be made and the order of modification issued. If the licensee against whom the order to show cause is directed does not appear at the time and place provided in said order, a final order of modification shall issue forthwith.

§ 1.404 Suspension of operator licenses. Whenever it appears that grounds exist for suspension of an operator license, as provided in section 303 (m) of the Act, the Law Department after conferring with the other Departments of the Commission prepares a report and other necessary papers which are presented to the Commission for action. If the Commission concludes that suspension proceedings should be instituted, a suspension order will be issued. No order of suspension of any operator's license shall take effect until 15 days' notice in writing thereof, stating the cause for the proposed suspension, has been given to the operator licensee who may make written application to the Commission at any time within said 15 days for a hearing upon such order. The notice to the operator licensee shall not be effective until actually received by him, and from that time he shall have 15 days in which to mail the said application. In the event that physical conditions prevent mailing of the application at the expiration of the 15-day period, the application shall then be mailed as soon as possible thereafter, accompanied by a satisfactory explanation of the delay. Upon receipt by the Commission of such application for hearing, said order of suspension shall be held in abeyance until the conclusion of the hearing which shall be conducted under such rules as the Commission shall deem appropriate. Upon the conclusion of said hearing the Commission may affirm, modify, or revoke said order of suspension. If the license is ordered suspended, the operator shall send his operator license to the office of the Commission in Washington, D. C., on or before the effective date of the order, or, if the effective date has passed at the time notice is received, the license shall be sent to the Commission forthwith.

SUBPART E—RULES RELATING TO APPLICATIONS, REPORTS AND PROCEEDINGS AFFECTING COMMON CARRIERS UNDER TITLE II OF THE COMMUNICATIONS ACT [1]

GENERAL RULES RELATING TO APPLICATIONS

§ 1.501 Subscription and verification of applications. Each application or amendment thereto shall be personally subscribed and verified: (a) By the party filing such application or amendment, or by one of the parties, if there be more than one; (b) by an officer of the party filing the application or amendment if the party be a corporation: Provided, however, That subscription and verification may be made by the attorney for the party (1) in case of physical disability of the party, or (2) his absence from the continental United States. If it be made by a person other than the party, he must set forth in the verification the grounds of his belief as to all matters not stated upon his knowledge and the reason why it is not made by the party. Where more than one copy of an application is required to be filed with the Commission, only the original need be signed and verified; the copies may be conformed.

§ 1.502 Full disclosures. Each application shall contain full and complete disclosures with regard to the real party or parties in interest and as to all matters and things required to be disclosed by the application forms.

§ 1.503 Additional statements. The Commission may require an applicant to submit such documents and written statements of fact, under oath, as in its judgment may be necessary.

§ 1.504 Form of amendments to applications. Any amendment to an application shall be subscribed, verified, and submitted in the same manner, and with the same number of copies, as was the original application.

§ 1.505 Amendments of applications ordered. The Commission may upon its own motion or upon motion of any party to a proceeding, order the applicant to amend his application so as to make the same more definite and certain.

§ 1.506 Defective applications. (a) Applications which are defective with respect to completeness of answers to required questions, execution or other matters of a purely formal character will not be received for filing by the Commission, unless the Commission shall otherwise direct, and will be returned to the applicant with a brief statement as to the omissions.

(b) If an applicant is requested by the Commission to file any documents or information not included in the prescribed application form, a failure to comply with such request will constitute a defect in the application.

(c) Applications which are not in accordance with the Commission's rules, regulations or other requirements will be considered defective unless accompanied either (1) by a petition to amend any rule or regulation with which the application is in conflict, or (2) by a request of the applicant for waiver of, or an exception to, any rule, regulation or requirement with which the application is in conflict. Such request shall show the nature of the waiver or exception desired and set forth the reasons in support thereof.

(d) Applications found to be complete are accepted for filing and are given a file number.

§ 1.507 Amendments and dismissals of applications. (a) Any application may be amended or dismissed without prejudice as a matter of right prior to the designation of such application for hearing. Thereafter, requests to amend or dismiss without prejudice will be considered only upon written motion properly served upon all parties of record.

(b) When leave to amend has been granted after an application has been designated for hearing, the application will not be removed from the hearing docket unless the Motions Commissioner shall determine that the proposed amendment substantially affects the issues upon which the application has been designated for hearing and orders that the application shall be removed from the hearing docket. An amended application which has been removed from the hearing docket will be reexamined by the Commission and when necessary will be redesignated for hearing at a subsequent time.

§ 1.508 Failure to prosecute applications. An applicant not desiring to prosecute his application may request the dismissal of same without prejudice. A request of an applicant for the return of an application which has been accepted for filing will be considered as a request to dismiss the same without prejudice. Where an applicant fails to respond to official correspondence or request for additional material, the application will be dismissed without prejudice.

§ 1.509 Partial grants. Where the Commission without a hearing grants any application in part, or with any privileges, terms, or conditions other than those requested, the action of the Commission shall be considered as a grant of such application unless the applicant shall, within 20 days from the date on which public announcement of such grant is made, or from its effective date if a later date is specified, file with the Commission a written request rejecting the grant as made. Upon receipt of such request, the Commission will vacate its original action upon the application and set the application for hearing in the same manner as other applications are set for hearing.

FILING AND PROCESSING OF APPLICATIONS

§ 1.521 Filing and routing of Applications. All applications under Title II of the Act are filed with the Secretary and dated by the Mail and File Section of his office. All applications other than for special tariff permission are then routed to the Commercial License Section, Secretary's Office, where they are given a file number and then routed to the appropriate units of the Law, Accounting and Engineering Departments. Applications for special tariff permission are routed to the Rates Branch, Accounting Department, where they are numbered and referred to the appropriate divisions of that branch.

§ 1.522 Application for extension of time in which to file financial reports. Applications for extensions of time in which to file annual, monthly, and special reports required by the Commission pursuant to Section 219 of the Act should be made in writing.

§ 1.523 Application for special tariff permission; procedure and application form. Applications under section 203 (a) of the Act for special tariff permission shall be made in the form and manner and with the number of copies required by §§ 61.151 to 61.153 inclusive of the Rules and Regulations. Final action is taken by the Chief Accountant where Commission policy in the matter has been established, and in other cases the Commission acts upon the recommendation of the Chief Accountant or upon the recommendation of the Law, Accounting and Engineering Departments.

§ 1.524 Application for holding interlocking offices or directorates; procedure and application form. Applications under sectiton 212 of the Act for authority to hold the position of officer or director of more than one carrier subject to the Act shall be made in the form and manner and with the number of copies required by §§ 62.1, 62.2, 62.11 and 62.21 to 62.25 inclusive of the rules and regulations. These applications are processed by the Common Carrier Division of the Law Department and a report thereon is made to the Commission which acts on the applications.

§ 1.525 Application for lines. (a) Applications under section 214 of the Act for authority to construct a new line, extend any line, acquire or operate any line or extension thereof, or to engage in transmission over or by means of such additional or extended line, to furnish temporary or emergency service or to supplement existing facilities shall be made on the form and manner and with the number of copies required by §§ 63.01 to 63.06 inclusive and §§ 63.51 to 63.54 inclusive. Final action is taken by the Secretary with the approval of the Law, Accounting and Engineering Departments in cases where Commission policy in the matter has been established. In other cases the Commission acts upon the recommendations of the Law, Accounting and Engineering Departments.

(b) In cases requiring a certificate, notice is given to and a copy of the application is filed with the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, and the Governor of each state involved. Hearing is held if any of these parties desires to be heard or if the Commission determines that a hearing should be held. Copies of applications for certificates are also served upon the state regulatory commissions of the states involved.

§ 1.526 Application for discontinuance, reduction or impairment of service. (a) Applications under section 214 of the Act for authority to discontinue, reduce or impair service to a community or part of a community or for the temporary, emergency or partial discontinuance, reduction or impairment of service shall be made on the form and manner and with the number of copies required by §§ 63.51 to 63.54 inclusive, §§ 63.60 to 63.66 inclusive and appendices A to F inclusive of Part 63 of the Rules and Regulations. Posted and published notice shall be given to the public as required by § 63.90 of the Rules and Regulations. Final action is taken by the Secretary with the approval of the Law, Engineering and Accounting Departments in uncontested cases where Commission policy in the matter has been established. In other cases the Commission acts upon the recommendations of the Law, Accounting and Engineering Departments.

(b) In cases requiring a certificate, notice is given to and a coupy of the application is filed with the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, and the Governor of each state involved. A hearing is held if any of these parties desire to be heard or if the Commission determines that a hearing should be held. Also, copies of all formal applications under this section requesting authorizations are filed with the Governors of the States involved and the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Navy.

§ 1.527 Application for consolidation of telephone companies. Applications under section 221 (a) of the Act, by one or more telephone companies for authority to consolidate their properties or a part thereof into a single company or to acquire the whole or any part of the property of another telephone company or other telephone companies or the control thereof by the purchase of securities or by lease or in any other like manner when such consolidated company would be subject to the Communications Act shall be submitted as follows:

(a) Contents of application. Each application shall contain in narrative form the following information:

(1) The exact name and address of each applicant;

(2) A statement as to whether each applicant is a carrier subject to the Act and what change or changes in status will result from the consummation of the proposed transaction;

(3) The name, title, and post office address of the officer to whom correspondence in regard to the application should be addressed:

(4) The Government, State, or Territory, under the laws of which each corporate applicant was organized;

(5) Detailed description of the property to be acquired, consolidated, or merged, and a brief history of such property;

(6) In a proposed consolidation or merger, the name of the company resulting therefrom, the capitalization proposed therefor, and the amount and class of capital stock and other securities proposed to be issued;

(7) The manner in which the properties, or control, will be acquired and the consideration, in money and otherwise, to be paid by each applicant;

(8) Statement of action of stockholders and directors of each applicant approving the proposed transaction, giving date and place of each meeting;

(9) Facts as to any intercorporate relations through holding companies, ownership of securities or otherwise, between the applicants, or any of them;

(10) Reasons in general why the proposed transaction will be of advantage to the persons to whom service is to be rendered and in the public interest;

(11) The extent to which the facilities to be acquired or controlled (by purchase, lease, or otherwise) parallel or are competitive with the facilities of the proposed purchaser or others;

(12) A statement as to whether the proposed transaction has been presented to the regulatory authority of each state in which the property is situated, and, if so, with what results.

(b) Supporting data required with application. There shall be filed with and made a part of the original of each application under section 221 (a) the following:

(1) One copy of the charter, articles of incorporation and the by laws of each applicant, duly certified (such copies as are already on file with the Commission may be incorporated in the application by reference);

(2) One copy of resolutions of the stockholders or directors of each of the applicants approving the proposed transaction, such resolutions to be properly attested and accompanied by appropriate excerpts from the minutes, showing the number of votes cast for and against each such resolution;

(3) Map or sketch indicating the facilities of each telephone carrier in the area involved, and the location and ownership of exchange and toll properties before and after consummation of the proposed transaction;

(4) A recent balance sheet and an income statement of each party involved;

(5) A statement showing the book cost and related reserve amounts with respect to the plant items to be acquired unless all of the telephone plant is included in the proposed acquisition, consolidation, or merger;

(6) Copy of any contract or contracts, exclusive of right-of-way and attachment contracts, entered into between the applicants, or any of them, with respect to any of the telephone properties or service included in the proposed transaction;

(7) Any additional facts or reasons in support of the application.

(c) Copies required. Fifteen copies shall be furnished to the Commission for its use and two additional copies shall be furnished for each additional state in which the property in question is located. In addition a copy should be served on any other party to the proceeding.

(d) Procedure. These applications are acted upon by the Commission after a public hearing is held thereon. Reasonable notice of the hearing is given by the Commission to the Governor of each state in which the physical property affected, or any part thereof, is situated, and to the state commission having jurisdiction over telephone companies and to such other persons as the Commission may deem advisable.

§ 1.528 Application for consolidation of domestic telegraph carriers. (a) Applications under section 222 of the Act by two or more domestic telegraph carriers for authority to effect a consolidation or merger or to acquire all or any part of the domestic telegraph properties, domestic telegraph facilities, or domestic telegraph operations of any carrier which is not primarily a telegraph carrier shall contain such information as is necessary for the Commission to act upon such application under the provision of section 222 of the Act.

(b) These applications are acted upon by the Commission after public hearing. Reasonable notice in writing of the public hearing and an opportunity to be heard is given by the Commission to the Governor of each of the states in which any of the physical property involved in such proposed consolidation or merger is situated, to the Secretary of State, the Secretary of War, the Attorney General of the United States, the Secretary of the Navy, representatives of employees where represented by bargaining representatives known to the Commission, and to such other persons as the Commission may deem advisable.

§ 1.529 Application with respect to disposition of debit amounts in accounts 100.4 "telephone plant acquisition adjustment," for class A and class B telephone companies and in account 1200, "Plant adjustments" for class C telephone companies. Commission Order No. 60 contains provisions relating to the disposition of such debit amounts in whole or in part, or for amortization over a reasonable period, through charges to appropriate income or surplus accounts. If a different disposition is desired, application therefor shall be made to the Commission. Final action, in accordance with established Commission policy, is taken on such applications by the Chief Accountant; or such applications are presented to the Commission for action upon the recommendation of the Chief Accountant.

TARIFFS, REPORTS, AND OTHER MATERIAL REQUIRED TO BE SUBMITTED BY CARRIERS

§ 1.541 Tariffs to be filed. Schedules of charges required under section 203 of the Communications Act shall be constructed, filed and posted in accordance with Part 61 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations.

§ 1.542 Rate increases—filing with Commission of data furnished to Office of Price Administration. Any common carrier subject to the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which furnishes any notice or other data to the Office of Price Administration in connection with an increase in rates or charges subject to the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, shall concurrently furnish to this Commission two copies of such notice and other data.

§ 1.551 Reports to be filed under Commission Order 100. Carriers subject to the Communications Act shall report all changes made in the depreciation rates applied by such carriers in accordance with Commission Order 100.

§ 1.552 Reports regarding destruction of records. Carriers shall file reports relating to the destruction of records as provided in §§ 42.1 to 42.91, inclusive, of the Rules and Regulations.

§ 1.553 Reports regarding pensions. Carriers shall file reports of relief and pensions as required by § 43.42 of the Rules and Regulations.

§ 1.554 Reports regarding foreign telegraph communication charges. Carriers engaging or participating in foreign telegraph communication shall file statements in regard to charges and divisions of charges as required by § 43.53 of the Rules and Regulations.

§ 1.555 Reports regarding telegraph carrier services. Telegraph carriers shall file description of their services as required by § 43.54 of the Rules and Regulations.

§ 1.556 Reports regarding foreign communications negotiations. Carriers engaging or participating in foreign communication shall file statements in regard to certain negotiations as required by § 43.55 of the Rules and Regulations.

§ 1.557 Reports on traffic. (a) Commission Orders Nos. 85 and 86 require international telegraph carriers to file on FCC Form No. 336 and common carriers engaged in radiotelegraph communication with maritime mobile stations (with certain exceptions) to file on FCC Form No. 337 certain traffic information at periodic intervals. A complete description of these reports is set forth in Orders Nos. 85 and 86.

(b) Monthly and quarterly reports must be filed with the Commission in connection with certain fixed public radio service operations. No form is prescribed. A complete description of the contents of these reports is contained in §§ 6.31 and 6.53.

§ 1.558 Reports under § 63.04 of the rules. Radio carriers receiving authority under § 63.04 of the Rules and Regulations shall furnish quarterly reports as required therein.

§ 1.559 Reports to be filed regarding lines. Carriers shall furnish reports under § 63.54 of the Rules and Regulations when a line authorized to be constructed, acquired or operated has been put into service.

RULES RELATING TO COMPLAINTS

§ 1.571 Formal or informal complaints. Complaints filed under Title II of the Act may be either formal or informal.

§ 1.572 Informal complaints. No particular form is prescribed for informal complaints but they must be in writing, subscribed, and verified by the complainant. The complaint shall state the name and address of the complainant, the name of the carrier against whom the complaint is made, and shall state as definitely as possible the basis or reason for the complaint.

§ 1.573 Action on informal complaints. Upon receipt of an informal complaint properly drawn and executed, the Commission will, if its nature warrants, take the question up by correspondence with the carrier complained of in an endeavor to bring about satisfaction. Such correspondence with the carrier shall call upon it either to satisfy the complainant or advise the Commission of its refusal or inability to do so within such time as may be prescribed. If the carrier satisfies the complainant, it shall immediately notify the Commission and file with it proof of satisfaction; whereupon the complaint will be dismissed. If the carrier refuses or is unable to satisfy the complainant within the time prescribed, it shall so notify the Commission, which decision the Commission will forthwith give notice of to the complainant.

§ 1.574 Resubmission; 6 months' rule. When an informal complaint has not been satisfied pursuant to the foregoing rule, the complainant may either file a formal complaint or resubmit his informal complaint within 6 months from the date of the Commission's notice: Provided, however, That such resubmitted informal complaint must contain new material matter upon the same cause of action. The procedure prescribed herein for handling of informal complaints will be followed in case of resubmitted informal complaints. If such resubmitted informal complaint or a formal complaint is filed with the Commission within the 6-month period, such resubmission or filing will be deemed to relate back to the date of the filing of the original informal complaint. But reference to the original date of the informal complaint must be made in such resubmission or in the formal complaint filed.

§ 1.575 Formal complaints; requirements. (a) Formal complaints shall contain the names of all parties complainant and defendant in full, the address of each complainant, and the name and address of his attorney, if represented by attorney, and shall be subscribed and verified by the complainant.

(b) A form of such complaint is as follows:

(This form may be used in cases to which they are applicable, with such alterations as the circumstances may render necessary.)

COMPLAINT

The complainant (here insert full name of each complainant and if a corporation the corporate title of such complainant) respectfully shows:

(1) That (here state occupation and post-office address of each complainant).

(2) That (here insert the full name, occupation, and post-office address of each defendant).

(3) That (here insert fully and clearly the specific act or thing complained of, together with such facts as are necessary to give a full understanding of the situation).

Wherefore, complainant asks (here state specifically the relief desired).

Dated at -------- this --- day of ---, 19---.

(Name of each complainant)

(Name and address of attorney, if any)

FORM OF VERIFICATION

---------- being first duly sworn, on oath, deposes, and says:

That he is the complainant (or one of the complainants), in the above-entitled matter; that he has read the within and foregoing complaint and knows the contents thereof, and that the matters and things therein stated are true of his own knowledge, save and except those matters therein stated on information and belief, and as to those he believes them to be true.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this ---- day of ---- 19---.

(Notary public or other proper officer)

§ 1.576 Statement of issues; joinder of causes of complaint. Formal complaints shall be so drawn as to advise the Commission and the defendant fully wherein the provisions of the Act, or an order, rule or regulation of the Commission have been violated, the facts claimed to constitute such violation, and the relief sought. Two or more grounds of complaint involving the same principle, subject, or state of facts may be included in one complaint, but should be separately stated and numbered.

§ 1.577 Notice of complaints. Upon receipt of any formal complaint against any common carrier subject to the act, the Commission will forward a copy of the same to such carrier together with a notice of the filing thereof, which notice shall contain an order of the Commission calling upon the carrier to satisfy the complaint or answer the same in writing within the time specified in said notice, which in no event shall be less than 30 days.

§ 1.578 Charges, etc.; specific references. The several charges, classifications, regulations, or practices complained of shall be set out by specific references to schedules of charges and classifications, and also the particular regulations or practices whenever that is possible.

§ 1.579 Separate statement of each provision violated. When a violation of more than one provision of a section of the act is alleged, such violation shall be separately stated with respect to each provision of the act claimed to be violated.

§ 1.580 Allegations; certainty. In case recovery of damage is sought, the complaint should contain appropriate allegations showing such data as will serve to identify, with reasonable certainty, the communications or transmissions, or other services, in respect of which recovery is sought, and shall state (a) that the complainant makes claim for reparation; (b) the name and address of each individual claimant asking reparation; (c) the name and address of defendants against which claim is made; (d) the communications, transmissions, or other services rendered, the charge applied thereto, the date when charges were paid, by whom paid, and by whom borne; (e) the period of time within which, or the specific dates when such communications, transmissions, or other services were rendered; (f) points of origin and reception of such communications or transmissions, and if the damages sought to be recovered are for services other than communications or transmissions, then the allegations of the complaint shall state the nature and extent of such services, the date or dates when rendered, when paid for, and by whom borne; (g) nature and amount of injury sustained by each claimant; (h) if reparation is sought on behalf of others than the complainant, in what capacity or by what authority complaint is made in their behalf; and (i) that claimant has not filed suit in any court on the basis of the same claim.

§ 1.581 Challenge of general rate adjustments; reparation. If a general rate adjustment is challenged in the complaint, or many communications and transmissions or points of origin and reception are involved, the Commission will find and determine in its report the issues as to violation of the act, injury thereby to complainant, and right to reparation. The Commission will afford the parties opportunity to agree or make proof respecting the communications, transmissions, or other services, and amount of reparation due under its findings, before entering its order awarding reparation. In such cases, authenticated schedules of charges, receipts, statements, and other exhibits bearing on details of such communications, transmissions, or other services, for which reparation is claimed, and the amount claimed (separately stated with respect to each communication, transmission, or other service rendered), need not be produced at the hearing unless called for or needed to develop other pertinent facts.

§ 1.582 Discrimination specified. In case unjust or unreasonable discrimination is alleged, the charge, practice, classification, regulation, facility, or service complained of must be clearly specified.

§ 1.583 Preference or prejudice. In case undue or unreasonable preference, advantage, or prejudice is alleged, the particular person, company, firm, corporation, locality, or description of traffic affected thereby, and the particular preference or prejudice or disadvantage, relied upon as constituting a violation, shall be clearly specified.

§ 1.584 Reparation; prayer for. Reparation will not be awarded upon a complaint unless specifically prayed for, except under unusual circumstances and for good cause shown. Reparations may be awarded, however, upon a supplemental complaint based upon the finding of the Commission in the original proceeding.

§ 1.585 Limitations; damages pendente lite. The Commission will consider as in substantial avoidance of the statute of limitations, a complaint in which the complainant alleges that the matters complained of, if continued in the future, will constitute violations of the act in the particulars and to the extent indicated, and prays reparation accordingly as to charges which shall be paid and borne by complainant on all communications, transmissions, or other services affected thereby occurring during the pendency of the proceeding.

§ 1.586 Supplemental complaints—(a) General. Supplemental complaints may be tendered for filing by the parties complainant, against the parties defendant, setting forth any causes of action under the act alleged to have accrued in favor of the complainants and against the defendants since the filing of the original complaint.

(b) Seeking damages. If recovery of damages is sought by supplemental complaint, it must be filed with the Commission within the statutory periods stated in section 415 of the act.

§ 1.587 Cross complaints. Cross complaints alleging violations of the act by other carriers, parties to the proceeding, or seeking relief against them under the act, may be tendered for filing by defendants with their answers and, upon leave granted, will be filed and served by the Commission in the manner provided for serving complaints.

§ 1.588 Answers to complaints and petitions. Any party upon whom a copy of a complaint, petition, or cross complaint is filed under this subpart shall file an answer within 30 days after service of the complaint. Such answer shall be subscribed by the party answering and shall be so drawn as to advise the parties and the Commission fully and completely of the nature of the defense, and shall admit or deny specifically and in detail all material allegations of the complaint. Collateral or immaterial issues shall be avoided in answers and every effort shall be made to narrow the issues. Matters alleged as affirmative defense shall be separately stated and numbered. Any defendant failing to file and serve answer within the time and in the manner prescribed will be deemed in default, and the Commission will issue an appropriate order. (Counterclaims and set-offs against users of service supplied by carriers are not within the jurisdiction of the Commission.) This section does not apply to protests or applications seeking suspensions of proposed tariff schedules.

§ 1.589 Answers to petitions or amended complaints. Answers to petitions for intervention, or to amended complaints filed and served upon leave granted, need not be separately made unless the defendant so elects, and defendant's answer to the complaint will be deemed its answer to the petition in intervention.

§ 1.590 Requests for suspension of tariff schedules. Requests for suspensions of tariff schedules under section 204 of the act will not ordinarily be considered unless made in writing or by telegram at least 10 days before the effective date named in the schedule. Requests for suspensions must indicate the schedule affected by its Federal Communications Commission number and give specific reference to the items against which protest is made, together with a statement of the grounds thereof. If such request is made by telegram, the telegram must be followed and confirmed by request in writing and the telegram should succinctly state the substance of the matters to be set forth in the written request. Sixteen copies of each written request must be furnished to the Commission.

RULES CONCERNING SHOW CAUSE ORDERS AND TENTATIVE VALUATIONS

§ 1.591 Order to show cause. (a) Whenever the Commission desires to institute a proceeding within its jurisdiction under Title II of the act against any common carrier, it will commence such action by serving upon the carrier an order to show cause. Said order shall contain a statement of the particulars and matters concerning which the Commission is inquiring, and the reasons for such action, and shall call upon the carrier to appear before the Commission at a place and time therein stated, and answer and give evidence upon the matters specified in said order. The Commission may require in said order, that the carrier file with the Commission its verified answer to the order to show cause, on or before a day certain, prior to the hearing date therein fixed, in no event less than 30 days after service of the order.

(b) Any carrier, upon whom an order to show cause has been served under § 1.591 shall respond to the same by filing its answer within the time specified in said order. Such answer shall be drawn so as specifically to admit or deny the charges or allegations which may be made in said order, and so as to advise the Commission fully and completely upon the matters and things inquired of.

§ 1.592 Protests of tentative valuations. Protests in opposition to a tentative valuation shall be subscribed and verified and shall contain a concise statement of the essential elements of the protest with particularity to the matters concerning which protest is made. Each object of protest shall be set up as a separate item in a separately numbered paragraph and the protest shall also include a statement of the protestant's interest in the matter in controversy.

SUBPART F—GENERAL RULES OF PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE [1]

GENERAL

§ 1.701 Suspension, amendment or waiver of rules. The rules and Regulations of the Commission may be suspended, revoked, modified, amended, or supplemented, in whole or in part, at any time by the Commission, subject to the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act. Any provision of the rules may be waived by the Commission, if good cause therefor exists.

§ 1.702 Petition for amendment or waiver of rules. Any interested person may petition for issuance, amendment, repeal or waiver of any rule or regulation. Such petition shall show the text of the proposed rule, or its change, and set forth the reason in support of the petition.

§ 1.703 Computation of time. In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by the Commission's rules or by order of the Commission the day of the act, event, or default, after which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included, unless it is a Sunday or a legal holiday or a Saturday on which the Commission's offices are not open, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is not a Sunday, holiday, or Saturday on which the Commission's offices are not opened. When the period of time prescribed or allowed is less than 7 days, intermediate Saturdays, Sundays and holidays shall be excluded in the computation. A half holiday shall be considered as other days and not as a holiday.

PERSONAL APPEARANCES; PRACTITIONERS

§ 1.711 Appearances. Any person appearing before the Commission or any of its representatives may be heard in person and may be accompanied, represented and advised by counsel.

§ 1.712 Authority for representation. Any person, in a representative capacity, transacting business with the Commission, may be required to show his authority to act in such capacity.

§ 1.713 Persons who may be admitted to practice. (a) The Commission will maintain a register of attorneys admitted to practice before the Commission. Any attorney at law in good standing admitted to practice before any court of the United States, the District of Columbia, or the highest court of any State or Territory, may register by filing with the Commission, an affidavit to this effect on FCC Form No. 786. The Commission may, if it so desires, require additional proof of said attorney's qualifications.

(b) Any attorney at law who has not been admitted to practice before the Commission may, in the discretion of the Commission or the official presiding at any hearing, be admitted for a particular case in which he may be employed.

§ 1.714 Suspension or disbarment of attorneys. The Commission may censure, suspend, disbar, or revoke the right of any person who has been admitted to practice before it if it finds that such person has in obtaining admission concealed any material facts with reference to his legal qualifications, professional standing, character or integrity, or has failed to conform to recognized standards of professional conduct. Before any member of the bar of the Commission shall be censured, suspended, disbarred, or his right to practice before the Commission revoked, charges shall be preferred by the Commission against such practitioner and he shall be afforded an opportunity to be heard thereon.

§ 1.715 Former employees. (a) No member, officer, or employee of the Commission shall, within 2 years after his service with the Commission is terminated, appear as attorney before the Commission in any cause or application which he has handled or passed upon while in the service of the Commission.

(b) No member, officer or employee of the Commission (1) whose active service with the Commission has terminated but who is receiving pay while on annual leave not taken prior to separation from such active service, or (2) who is in any other leave status, shall appear as attorney or participate in the preparation or handling of any matter before, or to be submitted to, the Commission.

§ 1.716 Appearance blanks. Each attorney representing a party to any proceeding shall enter his appearance in duplicate on the form prescribed for the purpose by the Commission prior to participating in such proceeding, which appearance shall be made a part of the record.

PETITIONS AND OTHER REQUESTS FOR COMMISSION ACTION

§ 1.721 General. Persons desiring to file complaints with the Commission or to request information on file with the Commission or for any other relief under the jurisdiction of the Commission may do so either formally or informally. Formal submissions must be by way of petition which shall set forth clearly and concisely the petitioner's interest and facts supporting the relief sought and must comply with the Commission's rules concerning pleadings. All other submittals will be considered as informal in nature.

§ 1.722 Petitions to intervene. (a) Special rules governing petitions to intervene in matters arising under Title III of the Communications Act are set forth in § 1.388.

(b) In all other proceedings persons desiring to intervene must file a petition setting forth the grounds of the proposed intervention, the position and interest of the petitioner, in the proceeding, the facts on which the petitioner bases his claim that his intervention will be in the public interest. If a proper showing is made, the Commission will grant the petition and permit participation in the proceedings. If the facts warrant, the Commission may limit participation by such persons to particular issues or to a particular stage of the proceedings. The granting of a petition to intervene shall not have the effect of changing or enlarging the issues which shall be those specified in the Commission's notice of hearing unless on motion the Commission shall amend the same.

§ 1.723 Request by non-parties to participate in hearing; communications relating to applications. (a) There will be maintained in the office of the Secretary of the Commission a record of all communications received by the Commission relating to the merits of any application pending before the Commission requesting the granting, renewal, modification, or revocation of any license or construction permit, certificate of convenience and necessity, or rate schedule. Such record shall show the name and address of the person making the statement and the substance of such statement. When the date of hearing has been set, if the matter is designated for hearing, the Secretary shall notify all persons shown by the records to have communicated with the Commission regarding the merits of such matter in order that such persons will have an opportunity to appear and give evidence at such hearing. In the case of communications bearing more than one signature, notice shall be given to the person first signing unless the communication clearly indicates that such notice should be sent to some one other than such person.

(b) No such person shall be precluded from giving any relevant material and competent testimony at such hearing because he lacks a sufficient interest to justify his intervention as a party in the matter.

(c) No such communication will be considered by the Commission in determining the merits of any such matter, nor shall any such communication be considered by any hearing officer unless it has been introduced into evidence at the hearing and appears as a part of the record. The admissibility of any such communication or the Secretary's record of any such communication shall be governed by the applicable rules of evidence, and no such communication shall be admissible on the basis of a stipulation unless Commission's counsel as well as counsel for all of the parties shall join in such stipulation.

(d) Such communications, however, may be considered by the Commission if circumstances warrant in deciding whether or not a matter shall be set down for hearing in cases where in the absence of such communication no hearing would be required by the Commission.

§ 1.724 Petitions to consolidate. The Commission, upon motion, or upon its own motion, will, where such action will best conduce to the proper dispatch of business and to the ends of justice, consolidate for hearing (a) any cases which involve the same applicant or arise from the same complaint or cause, or (b) any applications which by reason of the privileges, terms, or conditions requested present conflicting claims of the same nature.

§ 1.725 Motions to enlarge or change the issues. (a) Special rules governing motions to enlarge or change the issues in matters arising under Title III of the Communications Act are set forth in § 1.389.

(b) In all other proceedings, motions to enlarge or change the issues may be filed by any party to a hearing.

§ 1.726 Petitions for reconsideration or rehearing. (a) Special rules relating to petitions for reconsideration or rehearing concerning matters arising under Title III of the Communications Act are set forth in §§ 1.386 and 1.390.

(b) Rules governing petitions for rehearing in other cases are set forth in §§ 1.891–1.896.

§ 1.727 Complaints. (a) Special rules governing complaints as to matters arising under Title II of the Communications Act are set forth in §§ 1.571 to 1.590, inclusive.

(b) In other matters, formal petitions may be filed complaining of anything done, or omitted to be done, in contravention of provisions of law or of the Commission's Rules and Regulations. Upon the filing of such a petition the Commission will either make an investigation and issue a report or will deny the petition, setting forth the reasons therefor. Persons desiring to submit complaints by informal methods may do so. Such complaints may, in the Commission's discretion, be investigated or otherwise acted upon in any manner the Commission may deem expedient; but such informal complaint shall not be deemed to be a formal complaint within the meaning of these rules, irrespective of any action taken thereon by the Commission.

§ 1.728 Declaratory rulings. The Commission may in its discretion on motion or on its own motion issue a declaratory ruling terminating a controversy or removing uncertainty.

§ 1.729 Adverse rulings on petitions. (a) Whenever the Commission denies in whole or in part any petition, prompt notice thereof will be given. This notice will contain or be accompanied by a statement of the reasons for the Commission's action unless it is merely an affirmance of a prior denial where reasons were given or the reasons for the denial are self-evident.

(b) The requirements of this section shall apply only to formal petitions as defined in § 1.721.

MOTIONS DOCKET

§ 1.741 Matters to be heard. All motions, petitions, or matters in cases designated for formal hearing, excepting motions and petitions requesting final disposition of a case on its merits, those having the nature of an appeal to the Commission, and those requesting change or modification of a final order made by the Commission, shall be placed upon the motions docket for hearing in accordance with § 1.111 (c).

§ 1.742 Time of calling; continuances. The motions docket will be called at the offices of the Commission at such times as the Motions Commissioner may designate, and the presiding officer shall have the authority to continue any motion, petition, or other matter presented to a future date, and may, proper notice having been given, hear any motion at any time.

§ 1.743 Time for filing motions. No such motion, petition, or other matter presented shall be called, considered, or determined in the absence of consent by all parties unless the same shall have been on file, accompanied by proof of service upon all interested parties with the Commission for a period of 5 days

[1] Subpart F is issued pursuant to section 9 (a) (2) of the Administrative Procedure Act.

§ 1.744 Oppositions; right to be heard. During the time specified in § 1.743, any party in interest shall have the right to file an opposition thereto. Parties filing oppositions shall have the right to be heard on the day designated for hearing of the motion, petition, or other matter against which the opposition is directed. Any party desiring to waive oral argument on any motion, or opposition thereto, may indicate such desire by an appropriate notation or by a statement to that effect upon the call of the docket. In case oral argument is waived by any party, such motion or opposition shall be considered together with any memorandum or briefs which may be filed in support thereof; and the waiving of oral argument by any party shall not preclude the holding of oral argument by any other party desiring same.

§ 1.745 Adverse ruling. (a) Notice thereof and reason therefor. Prompt notice shall be given of the denial in whole or in part of any written application, petition, or other request of any interested person made in connection with any motion docket proceeding. Except where the denial is self-explanatory or is merely the affirmance of a prior denial where reasons have been given, such notice shall contain or be accompanied by a brief statement of the reasons for the action.

(b) Exceptions thereto. Where a ruling on any written application, petition, motion, or other matter is adverse to any interested party, said interested party may except thereto, and when the matter comes on for the hearing of the evidence, he shall state into the record at such hearing that he reseves an exception to the ruling made by the presiding officer of the motions docket and request that such exception be noted and carried forward in the record. In the event such interested party fails to note his exception taken at the time ruling was made by the presiding officer of the motions docket, such exception shall be considered waived. Within 2 days from the date of any ruling on any petition, motion, or other matter by the presiding officer of the motions docket, any interested party may petition for a review of such ruling by a quorum of the Commission. Such petition for review shall not be essential for the preservation of any exception taken.

SPECIFICATIONS AND SERVICE OF PLEADINGS AND OTHER PAPERS

§ 1.761 Cross reference. Rules governing applications and reports under Title III of the Communications Act are contained in Subpart D. Rules governing applications, reports and complaints under Title II of the Communications Act are contained in Subpart E.

§ 1.762 Specifications as to pleadings and documents. All pleadings and documents (except briefs) filed in any proceeding shall unless otherwise specifically provided herein, be on paper either 8 x 10½ or 8½ by 13 or 14 inches, with lefthand margin not less than 1½ inches wide. This requirement shall not apply to original documents, or admissible copies thereof, offered as exhibits or to specially prepared exhibits. The impression shall be on one side of the paper only and shall be double-spaced, except that long quotations shall be single-spaced and indented. All papers, except charts and maps, shall be typewritten or prepared by mechanical processing methods, other than letter press or printed. The foregoing shall not apply to official publications. All copies must be clearly legible.

§ 1.763 Briefs. Briefs may be printed, typewritten, mimeographed, or multigraphed. Printed briefs shall be in 10– or 12-point type, on good unglazed paper, 5⅞ inches wide by 9 inches long, with inside margin not less than 1½ inches wide, and with double-leaded text and single-leaded citations.

§ 1.764 Number of copies. Unless otherwise specifically provided, an original and fourteen copies of all petitions, motions, pleadings, briefs and other documents required or permitted to be field under these rules shall be furnished the Commission, and one extra copy for each party to the proceeding when service is made by the Commission.

§ 1.765 Subscription and verification. All petitions, motions, pleadings, briefs and other documents filed by any party represented by an attorney, shall be signed by at least one attorney of record in his individual name, whose address shall be stated. A party who is not represented by an attorney shall sign and verify the document and state his address. Except when otherwise specifically provided by rule or statute, documents signed by the attorney for a party need not be verified or accompanied by affidavit. The signature of an attorney constitutes a certificate by him that he has read the document; that to the best of his knowledge, information, and belief there is good ground to support it; and that it is not interposed for delay. If a document is not signed or is signed with intent to defeat the purpose of this section, it may be stricken as sham and false and the matter may proceed as though the document had not been filed. For a willful violation of this rule an attorney may be subjected to appropriate disciplinary action. Similar action may be taken if scandalous or indecent matter is inserted.

§ 1.766 Amendments to pleadings. Any pleading may be amended as a matter of right if filed with the Commission not less than 30 days prior to the date set for hearing in the proceeding in which the pleading is filed. Thereafter, requests for leave to amend will be considered only upon written motion. Amendments, amended pleadings, or requests for leave to amend must be served upon all parties of record.

§ 1.767 Service of documents and proof of service. All pleadings, petitions, motions, briefs, or other documents filed in any proceeding shall be served by the party filing the same upon all parties of record, at or prior to the date fixed by these rules for the filing thereof, as follows:

(a) Service upon common carriers shall be made as provided in section 413 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

(b) In all other cases whenever under these rules service is required or permitted to be made upon a party, and such party is represented by an attorney of record in the proceeding, the service shall be made upon the attorney. Service upon the attorney or upon a party shall be made by delivering a copy to him or by mailing it to him at his last-known address. Delivery of a copy within this rule means: handing it to the attorney or to the party; or leaving it at his office with his clerk or other person in charge thereof; or, if there is no one in charge, leaving it in a conspicuous place therein, or, if the office is closed or the person to be served has no office, leaving it at his dwelling house or usual place of abode with some person of suitable age and discussion then residing therein. Service by mail is complete upon mailing.

Proof of service as provided in the foregoing shall be made by appropriate affidavit describing the service which shall be attached to the original and copies of which shall be attached to all copies filed with the Commission. If service has been made by delivery of a copy to the attorney, written acknowledgment thereof on the original filed will be considered proof of service; in such case an appropriate notation of such acknowledgment shall be made on all copies filed.

(c) Applications under Title II of the Communications Act, which require service, and formal complaints, supplemental complaints, cross complaints, and amended complaints under Title II will be served by the Commission. Service by the Commission upon common carriers shall be by leaving a copy of any document requiring service with the designated agent of such carrier at his office or usual place of residence in the District of Columbia, and if no such agent is designated, then service may be made by posting such notice, process, order, decision, or pleading in the office of the Secretary of the Commission.

§ 1.768 Withdrawal of papers. The granting of a request to dismiss or withdraw an application or a pleading does not authorize the removal of such application or pleading from the Commission's records. No application or other document once officially filed shall be returned unless the Commission shall, for good cause shown, order such return.

SUBPART G—RULES RELATING TO HEARINGS[1]

GENERAL

§ 1.801 Classes of hearings. (a) Hearings before the Commission may be formal or informal.

(b) The Commission may upon petition by any person or upon its own motion hold such informal hearings as it may deem necessary from time to time in connection with the investigation of any matter which it has power to investigate under the law, or for the purpose of obtaining information necessary or helpful in the determination of its policies, the carrying out of its duties or the formulation or amendment of its Rules and Regulations. For such purposes it may subpena witnesses and require the production of testimony as in formal hearings but the procedure to be followed shall be informal and such as in the opinion of the Commission will best serve the purposes of such hearing.

(c) The rules as to formal hearings are set forth below.

[1] Subpart G is issued pursuant to section 9 (a) (2) of the Administrative Procedure Act.

§ 1.802 Official reporter; transcript. The Commission will designate from time to time an official reporter for the taking down and transcribing of its proceedings. No transcript of the testimony taken, or argument had, at any hearing will be furnished by the Commission, but will be open to inspection under § 1.206. Such transcript, if desired, must be obtained from the official reporter upon payment of the charges therefor.

§ 1.803 Notice of hearing. Reasonable notice of hearing will be given to all parties to a proceeding.

PROCEEDINGS PRELIMINARY TO HEARING

§ 1.811 Continuances and extensions. Continuance in respect to any proceeding or hearing pending before the Commission and extensions of time for making any filing or performing any act required or allowed to be done within a specified time may be granted upon motion for good cause shown, except where the time for performance or filing is limited by statute.

§ 1.812 Postponement or change of place. The Commission or the presiding officer at a hearing may, after opening any hearing pursuant to notice, recess or adjourn the same for such time as may be necessary, or change the place thereof.

§ 1.813 Motions involving delay. Requests for continuance shall show diligence by the moving party and shall be made at such time and in such manner as to avoid unnecessary hardship or expense to the parties to the proceeding.

§ 1.814 Prehearing conferences. (a) Whenever time, the nature of the proceeding and the public interest permit, the Commission on motion of any party, or on its own motion may direct the parties or their attorneys to appear before a member of the Commission, or a designated official, at a specified time and place for a conference, prior to or during the course of a hearing, or in lieu of personally appearing to submit suggestions in writing, for the purpose of considering, among other things, the following matter:

(1) The simplification of issues;

(2) The necessity or desirability of amending the pleadings either for the purpose of clarification, amplification, or limitation;

(3) The possibility of making admissions of certain averments of fact or stipulations concerning the use by either or both parties of matters of public record to the end of avoiding the unnecessary introduction of proof;

(4) The procedure at the hearing;

(5) The limitation of the number of witnesses;

(6) The propriety of prior mutual exchange between or among the parties of prepared testimony and exhibits;

(7) Offers of settlement or proposals of adjustment.

(b) Action taken at the conference, including a recitation of the amendments to the pleadings, and agreements made by the parties as to any of the matters considered and defining the issues, may be recorded for appropriate use at the hearing.

DEPOSITIONS

§ 1.821 Request for orders to take; time of filing; contents. The Commission, either on its own motion, or on formal notice of a party to a proceeding, will issue an order to take depositions. Motions to take depositions shall be filed with the Commission not less than 15 days before the proposed date for taking of the depositions, and shall set forth the names and addresses of the witnesses, a specific statement as to each witness of the matters and facts concerning which it is expected such witness will testify, the place where, the time when, the officer before whom, and the cause or reason why such deposition should be taken. Such motion shall be accompanied by a proposed order in a sufficient number of copies to be served on all parties. The order shall state the name and address of each witness, the matters and facts concerning which it is expected such witness will testify, the place where, the time when and the designated officer before whom the witness is to testify. If said order is allowed, the secretary shall mail a copy thereof to all parties to the proceeding at least 15 days prior to the date fixed for the taking of testimony.

§ 1.822 Record of examination; oath; objections. The officer before whom the deposition is to be taken shall put the witness on oath and shall personally, or by some one acting under his direction and in his presence, record the testimony of the witness. The testimony shall be taken stenographically and transcribed, unless the parties agree otherwise. All objections made at the time of the examination to the qualifications of the officer taking the deposition, or to the manner of taking it, or to the evidence presented, or to the conduct of any party, and any other objection to the proceedings, shall be noted by the officer upon the deposition. Evidence objected to shall be taken subject to the objections. In lieu of participating in the oral examination, parties served with notice of taking a deposition may transmit written interrogatories to the officer, who shall propound them to the witness and record the answers verbatim.

§ 1.823 Submission to witness; changes; signing. When the testimony is fully transcribed the deposition of each witness shall be submitted to him for examination and shall be read to or by him. Any changes in form or substance which the witness desires to make shall be entered upon the deposition by the officer with a statement of the reasons given by the witness for making them. The deposition shall then be signed by the witness, unless the parties by stipulation waive the signing or the witness is ill or cannot be found or refuses to sign. If the deposition is not signed by the witness, the officer shall sign it and state on the record the fact of the waiver, or of the illness or absence of the witness or the fact of the refusal to sign together with the reason, if any, given therefor; and the deposition may then be used as fully as though signed, unless upon a motion to suppress the Commission holds that the reasons given for the refusal to sign require rejection of the deposition in whole or in part.

§ 1.824 Certification and filing by officer; copies. The officer shall certify on the deposition that the witness was duly sworn by him and that the deposition is a true record of the testimony given by the witness, and that said officer is not of counsel or attorney to either of the parties, nor interested in the event of the proceeding or investigation. He shall then securely seal the deposition in an envelope endorsed with the title of the action and marked "Deposition of (here insert name of witness)" and shall promptly send the original and one copy thereof together with the original and one copy of all exhibits by registered mail to the Secretary of the Commission.

§ 1.825 Waiver of objections. Objections to the form of question and answer shall be made before the officer taking the depositions, and if not so made, shall be deemed waived. However, if no representative of the Commission is present at the taking of the deposition of any witness, such deposition shall be received in evidence at the hearing when offered subject to such legal objection by Commission counsel as may be proper.

§ 1.826 Time of filing. All depositions shall be filed with the Commisison not later than 3 days before the date of the hearing in which they are to be offered as evidence. The presiding officer at any hearing may, on motion which shall show diligence on the part of the moving party, waive the requirements of this section.

§ 1.827 Inclusion in record. (a) No deposition shall constitute a part of the record in any proceeding until received in evidence at a hearing.

(b) The deposition of a principal witness will not be admitted in evidence unless it is shown that the witness is dead or seriously ill or that the requirement to produce the witness at the hearing would cause undue hardship.

SUBPENAS

§ 1.831 Who may sign and issue. Subpenas requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses, and subpenas requiring the production of any books, papers, schedules of charges, contracts, agreements, and documents relating to any matter under investigation or hearing may be signed and issued as follows: (a) Hearings before the Commission en banc or before a Committee of Commissioners: By any Commissioner; (b) hearings before any designated officer: (1) by any Commissioner; (2) the officer designated to hear the case.

§ 1.832 Requests; verification and content. Unless directed by the Commission upon its own motion, subpenas will be issued only upon request in writing which shall set forth the general relevance and reasonable scope of the evidence sought. Requests for subpenas to compel witnesses to produce documentary evidence must be subscribed and verified and must specify with particularity the books, papers, or documents desired, and the facts expected to be proved thereby. Prompt notice will be given by the Commission of the denial in whole or in part of a request for a subpena together with a brief statement of the reason therefor.

§ 1.833 Witness fees. Witnesses who are subpenaed and respond thereto are entitled to the same fees including mileage as are paid for like service in the courts of the United States, such fees to be paid by the party at whose instance the testimony is taken at the time the subpena is served.

§ 1.834 Service of subpenas; return. (a) A subpena may be served by a United States marshal or his deputy or by any other person who is not a party and is not less than 18 years of age. Service of a subpena upon a person named therein shall be made by delivering a copy thereof to such person and by tendering to him the fees for 1 day's attendance and the mileage allowed by law. When the subpena is issued on behalf of the United States or an officer or agency thereof, fees and mileage need not be tendered.

(b) If service of the subpena is made by a person other than a United States marshal or his deputy, such person shall make affidavit thereof, stating the date, time, and manner of service; and return such affidavit on, or with, the original subpena in accordance with the form thereon. In case of failure to make service the reasons for the failure shall be stated on the original subpena. In making service, the original subpena shall be exhibited to the person served, shall be read to him if he is unable to read, and a copy thereof shall be left with him. The original subpena, bearing or accompanied by the required return, affidavit, or statement, shall be returned forthwith to the Secretary of the Commission, or, if so directed on the subpena, to the presiding officer before whom the person named in the subpena is required to appear.

CONDUCT OF HEARINGS

§ 1.841 Order of procedure. At hearings on complaints, petitions, applications, or other proceedings for instruments of authorization which the Commission is empowered to issue, the complainant, petitioner, or applicant as the case may be, shall open and close. At hearings on investigation and suspension proceedings under title II of the act, the respondent whose tariffs are under suspension shall open and close. At hearings in all other investigations, the party to whom the order to show cause was issued shall open and close. At hearings under title III of the act on revocations and suspension of operator licenses or modifications of licenses under section 312 (b) of the act, or other like proceedings instituted by the Commission, the Commission shall open and close. In hearings upon a consolidated record, the Commission or presiding officer shall designate the order of presentation. Interveners shall follow the party in whose behalf intervention is made, and in all cases where the intervention is not in support of an original party, the Commission, or presiding officer, shall designate at what stage such interveners shall be heard.

§ 1.842 Authority of presiding officer. The presiding officer at the hearing shall have authority to administer oaths, examine witnesses, and receive evidence at any place in the United States designated by the Commission, and to rule upon the admissibility of evidence and other matters that normally and properly arise in the course of the hearing, but shall have no power to decide any motion to dismiss the proceeding or other motion which involves final determination of the merits of the proceeding.

§ 1.843 Transcript filed with Secretary. After the close of the hearing the complete transcript of testimony taken, together with any exhibits and any briefs or memoranda of law filed theretofore on behalf of any party, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commission.

§ 1.844 Corrections to transcripts. Suggested corrections to transcripts of records shall be considered only if offered within 10 days after the date the transcript is filed with the Commission. Suggested corrections shall be served upon all other parties participating in the proceeding prior to the filing with the Commission. The presiding officer at the hearing shall have authority to act upon motions to correct the record.

§ 1.845 Findings proposed by parties. Within 20 days from the date when the record in the hearing is closed by the presiding officer each party to the proceeding shall file with the Commission proposed findings of fact and conclusions which shall be served upon all parties participating in the hearing. Failure to file proposed findings of fact and conclusions by any such party within the time so required, shall be deemed a waiver by such party of any right of further participation in the proceeding, including oral argument if any is held.[1]

§ 1.846 Contents of findings proposed by parties. Such proposed findings of fact shall be set forth in serially numbered paragraphs and shall set out in detail and with particularity all basic evidentiary facts developed by the evidence (with appropriate citations to the transcript of record or exhibits relied on) supporting the conclusions proposed by the party filing same. Proposed conclusions shall be separately stated. Proposed findings of fact and conclusions submitted by a person other than an applicant may be limited to those issues in connection with the hearing which affect the interests of such person. Such proposed findings and conclusions may be accompanied by briefs or memoranda of law.

§ 1.847 Proposed decisions of Commission. The Commission will thereafter enter its proposed report or findings of fact and conclusions.

§ 1.848 Final decision of the Commission in lieu of proposed decision. If the proposed findings of fact and conclusions filed by the parties present no substantial conflict, and the Commission is in accord with the ultimate conclusions proposed, it will, if it deems such action will best conduce to the proper dispatch of business and to the ends of justice, issue a final order with or without findings of fact and conclusions in lieu of issuing its proposed findings of fact and conclusions.

§ 1.849 Exceptions; reply briefs; request for oral argument. (a) Within 20 days from the filing of the Commission's proposed report or findings of fact and conclusions the parties to the proceeding may file exceptions to the same which shall point out with particularity alleged errors in said report or findings of fact and conclusions and shall contain specific reference to the page of the transcript of hearing or exhibit on which the exception is based; such exceptions shall be accompanied by a memorandum brief in support thereof, and may request oral argument.

(b) Within 10 days after the filing by any party of exception to the Commission's proposed decision, any other party may file a reply memorandum brief. If no request for oral argument is made within said 30-day period all parties shall be considered as waiving any right thereto.

(c) Within 5 days of the filing with the Commission of a request for oral argument by any party to a proceeding all parties to such proceeding shall file written notice of desire to appear and participate in such oral argument. In the absence of the filing of such written notice by any party his right to oral argument will be considered as waived.

§ 1.850 Number of copies. Fifteen copies of any proposed findings of fact and conclusions, exceptions, or memorandum briefs filed in connection with any hearing shall be filed with the Commission.

§ 1.851 Final decisions of the Commission after a proposed decision. After there has been an opportunity for the filing of exceptions and reply briefs, and for oral argument, as provided above, the Commission will issue its final report, decision, or order, or take such other action as may be appropriate.

§ 1.852 Hearings before more than one person. The authority to perform any act in connection with a hearing vested in a "presiding officer" under these rules shall be vested in a majority of the persons conducting the hearing if the hearing is conducted by more than one person.

[1] In broadcast cases, until further notice, parties will not be required to file proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law with the Commission unless they are specifically directed to do so by the Commission. The non-filing of such proposed findings in broadcast cases where there is no direction by the Commission that they be filed will not constitute a waiver by the parties of any rights. Any party not directed to file proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law may do so if he desires by notifying the Commission of his intention before the record is closed.

EVIDENCE

§ 1.871 Rules of evidence. Except as otherwise provided herein, the rules of evidence governing civil proceedings in matters not involving trial by jury in the courts of the United States shall govern formal hearings before the Commission. Such rules may be relaxed in any case where the ends of justice will be better served by so doing.

§ 1.872 Cumulative evidence. The introduction of merely cumulative evidence shall be avoided, and the number of witnesses that may be heard in behalf of a party on any issue may be limited.

§ 1.873 Further evidence during hearing. At any stage of a hearing, the presiding officer may call for further evidence upon any issue and may require such evidence to be presented by any party to the proceeding.

§ 1.874 Documents containing matter not material. Where material and relevant matter offered in evidence is embraced in a document containing other matter not material or relevant, and not intended to be put in evidence, such document will not be received, but the party offering the same shall present to opposing counsel, and to the Commission, the original document, together with true copies of such material and relevant matter taken therefrom, as it is desired to introduce. Upon presentation of such matter in proper form, it may be received in evidence, and become a part of the record. Opposing counsel will be afforded an opportunity to introduce in evidence, in like manner, other portions of such document if found to be material and relevant.

§ 1.875 Documents in foreign language. Every document, exhibit, or other paper written in a language other than English, which shall be filed in any proceeding before the Commission or in response to any order of the Commission unless expressly waived therein, shall be filed in the language in which it is written together with an English translation thereof duly verified under oath to be a true translation. Each copy of every such document, exhibit, or other paper filed, shall be accompanied by a separate copy of the translation.

§ 1.876 Copies of exhibits. No documents or exhibit, or part thereof shall be received as, or admitted in, evidence unless offered in duplicate. In addition, when exhibits of a documentary character are to be offered in evidence, copies must be furnished to opposing counsel unless the presiding officer otherwise directs. Whenever practicable the parties should interchange copies of exhibits before or after commencement of the hearing.

§ 1.877 Mechanical reproductions as evidence. Unless offered for the sole purpose of attempting to prove or demonstrate sound effect, mechanical or physical reproductions of sound waves shall not be admitted in evidence. Any party desiring to offer any matter alleged to be contained therein or thereupon shall have such matter typewritten on paper of the size prescribed by the rules of the Commission, and the same shall be identified and offered in duplicate in the same manner as other exhibits.

§ 1.878 Tariffs as evidence. In case any matter contained in a tariff schedule on file with the Commission is offered in evidence, such tariff schedule need not be produced or marked for identification, but the matter so offered shall be specified with particularity (tariff and page number) in such manner as to be readily identified, and may be received in evidence by reference subject to check with the original tariff schedules so on file.

§ 1.879 Proof of official record; authentication of copy. An official record, or entry therein when admissible for any purpose, may be evidenced by an official publication thereof or by a copy attested by the officer having legal custody of the record, or by his deputy, and accompanied with a certificate that such officer has the custody. If the office in which the record is kept is within the United States or within a territory or insular possession subject to the dominion of the United States, the certificate may be made by the judge of a court of record of the district or political subdivision in which the record is kept, authenticated by the seal of the court, or may be made by any public officer having a seal of office having official duties in the district or political subdivision in which the record is kept, authenticated by the seal of his office. If the office in which the record is kept is in a foreign state or country, the certificate may be made by a secretary of embassy or legation, consul general, consul, vice consul, or consular agent or by any officer in the foreign service of the United States stationed in the foreign state or country in which the record is kept, and authenticated by the seal of his office.

§ 1.880 Proof of lack of record. The absence of an official record or entry of a specified tenor in an official record may be evidenced by a written statement signed by an officer, or by his deputy, who would have custody of the official record, if it existed, that after diligent search no record or entry of a specified tenor is found to exist in the records of his office accompanied by a certificate as provided in § 1.879. Such statement and certificate are admissible as evidence that the records of his office contain no such record or entry.

§ 1.881 Other proof of official record. Sections 1.879 and 1.880 do not prevent the proof of official records or of entry or lack of entry therein by any method authorized by any applicable statute or by the rules of evidence at common law.

REHEARINGS

§ 1.891 Cross reference. Special rules relating to petition for reconsideration or rehearing concerning matters arising under Title III of the Communications Act are set forth in §§ 1.386 and 1.390.

§ 1.892 Who may file. A petition ofr rehearing may be filed by any party to the hearing. Any person not a party to the hearing desiring to file a petition for rehearing shall state his interest in the proceeding and show good reason why it was not possible for him to participate in the hearing.

§ 1.893 Contents; relief requested. (a) Petitions for rehearing shall state with particularity in what respect the decision, order, or requirement or any matter determined therein is claimed to be unjust, unwarranted, or erroneous, and with respect to any finding of fact must specify the pages of record relied on. Where the existence of newly discovered evidence is claimed, the petition must be accompanied by a verified statement of the facts, together with the facts relied on to show that the petitioner, with due diligence, could not have known or discovered such facts at the time of the hearing.

(b) The petition for rehearing may request (1) reconsideration, either in cases decided after hearing or in cases of applications granted without hearing under Title III of the Act; (2) reargument; (3) reopening of the proceeding; (4) amendment of any finding, or (5) other relief. Such petition shall be specific as to the form of relief sought and, subject to this requirement, may contain alternative requests.

§ 1.894 Time for filing. Petitions for rehearing shall be filed within 20 days after the date on which public notice is given of the order or action complained of. The Commission for good cause shown may grant an extension of time within which to file such petition for rehearing with respect to matters arising under Title II of the Communications Act.

§ 1.895 Opposition. An opposition to any petition for rehearing may be filed within 10 days after the filing of such petition.

§ 1.896 Special calendar when granted. In case any petition for rehearing is granted, whether the taking of additional testimony is ordered or otherwise, the case shall be placed upon a special calendar and consideration of the same shall be expedited.

APPENDIX 1—APPLICATIONS UNDER THE CABLE LANDING LICENSE ACT AND EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 6779

APPLICATIONS UNDER "AN ACT RELATING TO THE LANDING AND THE OPERATION OF SUBMARINE CABLES IN THE UNITED STATES," FOR PRESIDENTIAL LICENSE FOR THE LANDING OR OPERATION OF SUBMARINE CABLES OR FOR CONSENT TO THE TRANSFER OF SUCH LICENSE

These applications should be filed in duplicate with the Secretary of the Federal Communications Commission in accordance with the provisions of Executive Order No. 6779, dated June 30, 1934, and shall contain such information as may be necessary for the Commission to make a recommendation thereon to the President. Each application or amendment thereto shall be personally subscribed and verified (or affirmed according to law): (1) By the party filing such application or amendment, or by one of the parties, if there be more than one; (2) by an officer of the party filing the application or amendment if the party be a corporation: Provided, however, That subscription and verification may be made by the attorney for the party (1) in case of physical disability of the party, or (2) his absence from the continental United States. If it be made by a person other than the party, he must set forth in the verification the grounds of his belief as to all matters not stated upon his knowledge and the reason why it is not made by the party. Only the original copy need be signed and verified, the copy may be conformed.

These applications are acted upon by the President of the United States upon the recommendation of the Federal Communications Commission made after obtaining the approval of the Secretary of State and such assistance from any executive department or establishment of the government as it may require. These applications are processed initially by the Law, Accounting and Engineering Departments and a joint recommendation thereon is made to the Commission.

APPENDIX 2—A PLAN OF CO-OPERATIVE PROCEDURE IN MATTERS AND CASES UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 410 OF THE COMMUNICATIONS ACT OF 1934

(Approved by the Federal Communications Commission October 25, 1938, and approved by the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners on November 17, 1938.)

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT CONCERNING THE PURPOSE AND EFFECT OF THE PLAN

Section 410 of the Communications Act of 1934 authorizes co-operation between the Federal Communications Commission, hereinafter called the Federal Commission, and the State commissions of the several States, in the administration of said Act. Subsection (a) authorizes the reference of any matter arising in the administration of said Act to a board to be composed of a member or members from each of the States in which the wire or radio communication affected by or involved in the proceeding takes place, or is proposed. Subsection (b) authorizes conferences by the Federal Commission with State commissions regarding the relationship between rate structures, accounts, charges, practices, classifications, and regulations of carriers subject to the jurisdiction of such State commissions and of said Federal Commission and joint hearings with State commissions in connection with any matter with respect to which the Federal Commission is authorized to act.

Obviously, it is impossible to determine in advance what matters should be the subject of a conference, what matters should be referred to a board, and what matters should be heard at a joint hearing of State commissions and the Federal Commission. It is understood, therefore, that the Federal Commission or any State commission will freely suggest co-operation with respect to any proceedings or matter affecting any carrier subject to the jurisdiction of said Federal Commission and of a State commission, and concerning which it is believed that co-operation will be in the public interest.

To enable this to be done, whenever a proceeding shall be instituted before any commission, Federal or State, in which another commission is believed to be interested, notice should be promptly given each such interested commission by the commission before which the proceeding has been instituted. Inasmuch, however, as failure to give notice as contemplated by the provisions of this plan will sometimes occur purely through inadvertence, any such failure should not operate to deter any commission from suggesting that any such proceeding be made the subject matter of co-operative action, if co-operation therein is deemed desirable.

It is understood that each commission, whether or not represented in the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners, must determine its own course of action with respect to any proceeding in the light of the law under which, at any given time, it is called upon to act, and must be guided by its own views of public policy; and that no action taken by such Association can in any respect prejudice such freedom of action. The approval by the Association of this plan of co-operative procedure, which was jointly prepared by the Association's standing Committee on Co-operation between Federal and State commissions and said Federal Commission, is accordingly recommendatory only; but such plan is designed to be, and it is believed that it will be, a helpful step in the promotion of co-operative relations between the State commissions and said Federal Commission.

NOTICE OF INSTITUTION OF PROCEEDING

Whenever there shall be instituted before the Federal Commission any proceeding involving the rates of any telephone or telegraph carrier the State commissions of the States affected thereby will be notified immediately thereof by the Federal Commission, and each notice given a State commission will advise such commission that, if it deems the proceeding one which should be considered under the co-operative provisions of the Act, it should either directly or through the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners, notify the Federal Commission as to the nature of its interest in said matter and request a conference, the creation of a joint board, or a joint hearing as may be desired, indicating its preference and the reasons therefor. Upon receipt of such request the Federal Commission will consider the same and may confer with the commission making the request and with other interested commissions, or with representatives of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners, in such manner as may be most suitable; and, if co-operation shall appear to be practicable and desirable, shall so advise each interested State commission, directly, when such co-operation will be by joint conference, or by reference to a joint board appointed under said section 410 (a), and, as hereinafter provided, when such co-operation will be by a joint hearing under said section 410 (b).

Each State commission should in like manner notify the Federal Commission of any proceeding instituted before it involving the toll telephone rates or the telegraph rates of any carrier subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal Commission.

PROCEDURE GOVERNING JOINT CONFERENCES

The Federal Commission, in accordance with the indicated procedure, will confer with any State commission regarding any matter relating to the regulation of public utilities subject to the jurisdiction of either commission. The commission desiring a conference upon any such matter should notify the other without delay, and thereupon the Federal Commission will promptly arrange for a conference in which all interested State commissions will be invited to be present.

PROCEDURE GOVERNING MATTERS REFERRED TO A BOARD

Whenever the Federal Commission, either upon its own motion or upon the suggestion of a State commission, or at the request of any interested party, shall determine that it is desirable to refer a matter arising in the administration of the Communications Act of 1934 to a board to be composed of a member or members from the State or States affected or to be affected by such matter, the procedure shall be as follows:

The Federal Commission will send a request to each interested State commission to nominate a specified number of members to serve on such board.

The representation of each State concerned shall be equal, unless one or more of the States affected chooses to waive such right of equal representation. When the member or members of any board have been nominated and appointed, in accordance with the provisions of the Communications Act of 1934, the Federal Commission will make an order referring the particular matter to such board, and such order shall fix the time and place of hearing, define the force and effect the action of the board shall have, and the manner in which its proceedings shall be conducted. The rules of practice and procedure, as from time to time adopted or prescribed by the Federal Commission, shall govern such board, as far as applicable.

PROCEDURE GOVERNING JOINT HEARINGS

Whenever the Federal Commission, either upon its own motion or upon suggestions made by or on behalf of any interested State commission or commissions, shall determine that a joint hearing under said section 410 (b) is desirable in connection with any matter pending before said Federal Commission, the procedure shall be as follows:

(a) The Federal Commission will notify the General Solicitor of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners that said Association, or, if not more than 8 States are within the territory affected by the proceeding, the State commissions interested, are invited to make Co-operating Commissioners to sit with the Federal Commission for the hearing and consideration of said proceeding.

(b) Upon receipt of any notice from said Federal Commission inviting co-operation, if not more than 8 States are involved, the General Solicitor shall at once advise the State commissions of said States, they being represented in the membership of the Association, of the receipt of such notice, and shall request each such commission to give advice to him in writing, before a date to be indicated by him in his communication requesting such advice (1) whether such commission will co-operate in said proceeding (2) if it will, by what commissioner it will be represented therein.

(c) Upon the basis of replies received, the General Solicitor shall advise the Federal Commission what States, if any, are desirous of making the proceeding co-operative and by what commissioners they will be represented, and he shall give like advice to each State commission interested therein.

(d) If more than 8 States are interested in the proceeding, because within territory for which rates will be under consideration therein, the General Solicitor shall advise the President of the Association that the Association is invited to name a Co-operating Committee of State Commissioners representing the States interested in said proceeding.

The President of the Association shall thereupon advise the General Solicitor in writing (1) whether the invitation is accepted on behalf of the Association, and (2) the names of commissioners selected to sit as a Co-operating Committee. The President of the Association shall have authority to accept or to decline said invitation for the Association, and to determine the number of commissioners who shall be named on the Co-operating Committee, provided that his action shall be concurred in by the Chairman of the Association's Executive Committee. In the event of any failure of the President of the Association and Chairman of its Executive Committee to agree, the Second Vice-President of the Association (or the Chairman of its Committee on Cooperation between State and Federal Commissions, if there shall be no Second Vice-President) shall be consulted, and the majority opinion of the three shall prevail. Consultations and expressions of opinion may be by mail or telegraph.

(e) If any proceeding, involving more than 8 States, is pending before the Federal Commission, in which co-operation has not been invited by that Commission; which the Association's President and the First and Second Vice Presidents, or any two of them, consider should be made a co-operating proceeding, they may instruct the General Solicitor to suggest to the Federal Commission that the proceeding be made a co-operative proceeding; and any State commission considering that said proceeding should be made co-operative may request the President of the Association or the Chairman of its Executive Committee to make such suggestion after consideration with the Executive Officers above named. If said Federal Commission shall assent to the suggestion, made as aforesaid, the President of the Association shall have the same authority to proceed, and shall proceed in the appointment of a Co-operating Committee, as is provided in other cases involving more than 8 States, wherein the Federal Commission has invited co-operation, and the invitation has been accepted.

(f) Whenever any case is pending before the Federal Commission involving 8 States or less, which a commission of any of said States considers should be made co-operative, such commission, either directly or through the General Solicitor of the Association, may suggest to the Federal Commission that the proceeding be made co-operative. If said Federal Commission accedes to such suggestion, it will notify the General Solicitor of the Association to that effect and thereupon the General Solicitor shall proceed as is provided in such case when the invitation has been made by the Federal Commission without State commission suggestion.

APPOINTMENT OF CO-OPERATING COMMISSIONERS BY THE PRESIDENT

In the appointment of any Co-operating Committee, the President of the Association shall make appointments only from commissions of the States interested in the particular proceeding in which the Committee is to serve. He shall exercise his best judgment to select co-operating commissioners who are especially qualified to serve upon Co-operating Committees by reason of their ability and fitness; and in no case shall he appoint a commissioner upon a Co-operating Committee until he shall have been advised by such commissioner that it will be practicable for him to attend the hearings in the proceeding in which the Committee is to serve, including the arguments therein, and the co-operative conferences, which may be held following the submission of the proceeding, to an extent that will reasonably enable him to be informed upon the issues in the proceeding and to form a reasonable judgment in the matters to be determined.

TENURE OF CO-OPERATORS

(a) No State commissioner shall sit in a cooperative proceeding under this plan except a commissioner who has been selected by his commission to represent it in a proceeding involving 8 States or less, or has been selected by the President of the Association to sit in a case involving more than 8 States, in the manner hereinbefore provided.

(b) A commissioner who has been selected, as hereinbefore provided, to serve as a member of a Co-operating Committee in any proceeding, shall without further appointment, and without regard to the duration of time involved, continue to serve in said proceeding until the final disposition thereof, including hearings and conferences after any order or reopening: Provided, That he shall continue to be a State commissioner.

(c) No member of a Co-operating Committee shall have any right or authority to designate another commissioner to serve in his place at any hearing or conference in any proceeding in which he has been appointed to serve.

(d) Should a vacancy occur upon any Co-operating Committee, in a proceeding involving more than 8 States, by reason of the death of any co-operating commissioner, or of his ceasing to be a State commissioner, or of other inability to serve, it shall be the duty of the President of the Association to fill the vacancy by appointment, if, after communication with the Chairman of the Co-operating Committee, it be deemed necessary to fill such vacancy.

(e) In the event of any such vacancy occurring upon a Co-operating Committee involving not more than 8 States, the vacancy shall be filled by the commission from which the vacancy occurs.

CO-OPERATING COMMITTEE TO DETERMINE RESPECTING ANY REPORT OF STATEMENT OF ITS ATTITUDE

(a) Whenever a co-operative committee shall have concluded its work, or shall deem such course advisable, the committee shall consider whether it is necessary and desirable to make a report to the interested State commissions, and, if it shall determine to make a report, it shall cause the same to be distributed through the Secretary of the Association, or through the General Solicitor to all interested commissions.

(b) If a report of the Federal Commission will accompany any order to be made in said proceeding, the Federal Commission will state therein the concurrence or nonconcurrence of said Co-operating Committee in the decision or order of said Federal Commission.

CONSTRUCTION HEREOF IN CERTAIN RESPECTS EXPRESSLY PROVIDED

It is understood and provided that no State or States shall be deprived of the right of participation and co-operation as hereinbefore provided because of non-membership in the Association. With respect to any such State or States, all negotiations herein specified to be carried on between the Federal Commission and any officer of such Association shall be conducted by the Federal Commission directly with the Chairman of the Commission of such State or States.

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION

[12 CFR, Ch. III]

RESOLUTION OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS ADOPTED AUGUST 30, 1946, PRESCRIBING RULES AND REGULATIONS OF THE CORPORATION

Resolved, That the proposed draft of Rules and Regulations of this Corporation submitted by the Committee on Administrative Procedure, Regulations and Forms, which is attached hereto, be and the same hereby is adopted in the form attached hereto, as the Rules and Regulations of the Corporation.

[SEAL] FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION,
By E. F. DOWNEY, Secretary.

SUBCHAPTER A—PUBLIC INFORMATION

PART 301—INTRODUCTORY

§ 301.0 Scope and source of authority. The rules contained in this subchapter are promulgated pursuant to the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (Public Law 404, 79th Cong.), section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, and other applicable laws, and, in accordance with the provisions of section 3 (a) (1) of the Administrative Procedure Act, describe the Corporation's central and field organization, including delegations by the Corporation of final authority and the established places at which, and methods whereby, the public may secure information or make submittals or requests; and include appropriate provisions with respect to the information specified in sections 3 (b) and 3 (c) of said act.

PART 302—DESCRIPTION OF ORGANIZATION

Sec.
302.1 Central organization.
302.2 Field organization.

§ 302.1 Central organization — (a) Board of Directors. Section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, creates a Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (hereinafter referred to as the Corporation) the management of which is vested in a board of directors consisting of three members, one of whom is the Comptroller of the Currency, and two of whom are appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for terms of six years. One of the appointive members, designated by the board of directors, acts as its Chairman and presides at all its meetings. The Acting Comptroller of the Currency acts as a member of the board in the place and stead of the Comptroller in the event of a vacancy in the office of the Comptroller, and pending the appointment of his successor, or during his absence from Washington, D. C. In the event of a vacancy in the office of the Chairman, and pending the appointment of his successor, or during his absence from Washington, D. C., the Comptroller of the Currency acts as Chairman. The board of directors is responsible for the performance of all duties, and exercises all powers, vested by law in the Corporation. The board of directors has assigned certain functions to the several officers, committees, and Divisions of the Corporation for the performance of which they are responsible to the board.

The principal office of the Corporation, and the offices of the members of the board and of the Secretary, are located in the National Press Building, 14th and F Streets, N. W., Washington 25, D. C.

(b) Secretary. The Secretary is the chief recording and custodial officer of the board of directors and the Corporation, has legal custody of the seal of the Corporation, and is responsible for the maintenance and custody of the minutes and other official records of, and, except as otherwise directed by the board, the furnishing of notice of matters acted upon by, the board, the certification and ensealing of all resolutions, papers, and documents requiring certification or the affixation of the corporate seal, and the issuance of certificates of membership, or duplicates thereof, to insured banks.

(c) Committees—(1) Board of Review. A Board of Review, consisting of a member of the board of directors and such other staff members of the Corporation as are thereto appointed by the board of directors, has been established to consider recommendations from the Division of Examination relative to applications from banks for deposit insurance; for consent to retirement or reduction of capital, change of location of main office, establishment, operation, or change of location, of branches, mergers (including consolidations or assumptions of liabilities) of insured with noninsured banks, extensions by State nonmember insured banks (except District banks) of corporate or charter powers, and other similar requests; and recommendations to terminate the insured status of a bank; and to recommend to the board of directors the action to be taken thereon.

(2) Committee on Liquidations, Loans, and Purchase of Assets. A Committee on Liquidations, Loans, and Purchase of Assets, consisting of a member of the board of directors and such other staff members of the Corporation as are thereto appointed by the board, has been established to consider recommendations from the Division of Examination relative to loans to, or purchases of assets from, insured banks, and recommendations from the Division of Liquidation relative to liquidation activities, and to recommend to the board of directors the action to be taken thereon.

(3) Special Committee. A Special Committee consisting of a member of the board of directors and such other staff members of the Corporation as are thereto appointed by the board, has been established to consider recommendations from the Legal Division with respect to legal matters requiring action of the board, including applications for exemption from the advertising regulations of the Corporation, compromises or settlements of litigation in which the Corporation is involved, claims by or against the Corporation, and fixing of fees of attorneys employed by the Corporation; recommendations from the several Divisions of the Corporation with respect to all matters requiring board action, except as otherwise prescribed by these rules; and to recommend to the board of directors the action to be taken thereon.

(4) Committee on Administrative Procedure, Regulations, and Forms. A Committee on Administrative Procedure, Regulations, and Forms, consisting of such staff members of the Corporation as are thereto appointed by the board of directors, has been established to consider, review, and advise and assist the board with respect to, matters relating to administrative procedure, and the rules, regulations, and forms of the Corporation, including the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act, section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, and other laws; and to recommend to the board of directors the action to be taken thereon.

(d) Divisions—(1) Division of Examination. The Division of Examination, headed by a Chief, is responsible for the examination of State nonmember banks applying to become insured banks, closed insured banks, and all insured banks which by law, or with the consent of the Comptroller of the Currency or the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, as the case may be, are subject to examination by the Corporation; reviews reports of such examinations as well as reports of examinations made by the office of the Comptroller of the Currency, in the case of National and District banks, and by the Federal Reserve banks, in the case of State member banks; advises, assists, and makes recommendations to, the board of directors with respect to (i) any necessary supervisory action pertaining to insured banks, including termination of insured status; and (ii) applications for deposit insurance from noninsured State banks, proposed new State nonmember banks, and State member banks applying to be insured as State nonmember banks; for consent to the retirement or reduction of capital by State nonmember insured banks (except District banks)[1], the establishment and operation of branches by State nonmember insured banks (except District banks), the change of location of its main office, or any branch, by State nonmember insured banks, the extension by State nonmember insured banks (except District banks) of corporate or charter powers, and the merger (including consolidations or assumptions of liabilities) of insured with noninsured banks.

(2) Fiscal and Accounting Division. The Fiscal and Accounting Division, headed by a Fiscal Agent, supervises, is responsible for, and advises and assists the board of directors with respect to, the general accounting records of the Corporation, all disbursements of its funds, and the collection of assessments for deposit insurance from insured banks and other receipts.

(3) Division of Liquidation. The Division of Liquidation, headed by a Chief, supervises, is responsible for, and advises, assists, and makes recommendations to, the board of directors with respect to (i) payments to depositors of closed insured banks in the manner, and to the extent that the Corporation is required by law to make such payments; (ii) the liquidation of National banks and insured State banks for which the Corporation is appointed receiver; (iii) the Corporation's interest in the progress of the liquidation of closed insured banks for which the Corporation is not receiver; and (iv) the liquidation of assets acquired through loans or purchases made pursuant to, and in accordance with, applicable provisions of law.

(4) Legal Division. The Legal Division, headed by a General Counsel, advises and assists the board of directors and the several Divisions of the Corporation, with respect to all legal matters concerning the functions, activities, and operations of the Corporation, including all litigation, correspondence of a legal or quasi-legal character, interpretation of organic law and Federal and State laws applicable to or affecting the Corporation or its activities, and the preparation of rules, regulations, orders, and opinions, and documents of a legal character.

(5) Division of Research and Statistics. The Division of Research and Statistics, headed by a Chief, provides economic counsel to the board of directors; supervises, is responsible for, and advises and assists the board of directors with respect to, (i) continuing and special studies pertaining to deposit insurance, banking, finance, and economic matters; (ii) preparation of security analyses; and (iii) collection, compilation, and interpretation of statistical data relating to the condition and operations of banks.

(6) Executive Division. The Executive Division, headed by an Executive Officer, supervises, is responsible for, and advises and assists the board of directors with respect to, the business management functions of the Corporation.

(7) Personnel Division. The Personnel Division, headed by a Director of Personnel, supervises, is responsible for, and advises and assists the board of directors with respect to, procedures for personnel matters, including recruitment, appointment, placement, classification, training, payroll, leave, and retirement.

(8) Audit Division. The Audit Division, headed by a Chief, conducts and is responsible for, a continuous administrative audit of the books and accounts of the Corporation, the preparation of detailed and summary audit reports to the board of directors, and when and as necessary audits the books and records of insured banks pertaining to certified statements for assessment purposes.

(9) Service Division. The Service Division, headed by a Chief, supervises, is responsible for, and advises and assists the board of directors with respect to, the purchase of materials, supplies and equipment for the central and field offices, and general maintenance services for the Corporation.

§ 302.2 Field organization—(a) District offices. The continental United States is divided into twelve (12) Federal Deposit Insurance Districts. The Corporation maintains an office in each of such Districts, which is headed by a Supervising Examiner, appointed by the board of directors, who functions under the supervision of the Chief of the Division of Examination. Each Supervising Examiner is assisted by a staff of examiners, assistant examiners, and clerical and stenographic employees. The Supervising Examiner supervises the examination of insured banks located within the states and territories comprising the District, makes recommendations to the Chief of the Division of Examination with respect to applications from banks (or proposed banks) for deposit insurance, for consent to capital reduction or retirement, change of location of main office, establishment and operation, or change of location, of branches, extensions of corporate or charter powers, and mergers of insured with noninsured banks; and the termination of insured status of banks; and acts as the Corporation's representative in dealing directly with insured banks in his District regarding bank supervisory matters. The location of the District offices and the states and territories comprising each District are as follows:

(b) Agents for service of process. The board of directors, in accordance with the provisions of section 12B (j) (Fourth) of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, has designated an agent upon whom service of process may be made in each state, territory, and other jurisdiction in which an insured bank is located. A current list containing the names and addresses of such agents is kept on file in the office of the General Counsel of the Corporation at Washington, D. C.; a current list of such agents in each Federal Deposit Insurance District is kept on file in the office of the Supervising Examiner for the District; and the name and address of such agent for each state, territory, and jurisdiction are on file with the secretary of state or corresponding official in such state, territory, or jurisdiction. Persons desiring to serve process upon the Corporation may obtain the name and address of the proper agent by communicating with such local official, the Supervising Examiner for the District, or the General Counsel of the Corporation at Washington, D. C.

(c) Liquidators. The Corporation appoints a Liquidator for each receivership of an insured national bank or District bank or insured State bank for which the Corporation is appointed receiver, as well as for the liquidation of the assets acquired by the Corporation pursuant to a loan or purchase of assets made in accordance with the provisions of applicable law. Under the control of the board directors, and subject to the supervision of the Chief of the Division of Liquidation, the Liquidator is the official representative of the Corporation with respect to the receivership or liquidation entrusted to his charge, and, in general, supervises the liquidation or receivership on behalf of the Corporation. Local field offices are maintained by such Liquidators with respect to such receiverships and liquidations and ordinarily are located in the community in which the closed insured bank was engaged in business. A current list containing the names of such Liquidators, the places at which they maintain offices, and the receiverships and liquidations under their supervision, is kept on file in the office of the Chief of the Division of Liquidation. Persons desiring to communicate or transact business with any such Liquidator may obtain his name and address by communicating with the Chief of the Division of Liquidation, Field Building, Chicago 3, Illinois.

(d) Claim agents. Pursuant to the provisions of the second paragraph of subsection (k) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, the Corporation appoints one or more Claim Agents for each insured bank which shall have been closed under circumstances requiring the Corporation, in accordance with applicable law, to make payment of the insured deposits therein. Under the control of the board of directors, and subject to the supervision of the Chief of the Division of Liquidation, the Claim Agent exercises the powers prescribed by law and is the official representative of the Corporation with respect to the payment of insured deposits in such closed bank and, in general, supervises the payoff on behalf of the Corporation. Local field offices are maintained by such Claim Agents with respect to each such pay-off and ordinarily are located at the site of the closed insured bank until the payoff has been fully or substantially completed. A list containing the names of current Claim Agents, the places at which they maintain offices, and the payoff proceedings under their supervision, is kept on file in the office of the Chief of the Division of Liquidation. Persons desiring to communicate or transact business with any such Claim Agent may obtain his name and address by communicating with the Chief of the Division of Liquidation, Field Building, Chicago 3, Illinois.

(e) Location of divisions. The following Divisions are located at the principal office of the Corporation, 14th and F Streets, N. W., Washington 25, D. C.: The Division of Examination, the Legal Division, the Division of Research and Statistics, the Executive Division, the Personnel Division, and the Service Division. The Fiscal and Accounting Division, the Division of Liquidation, the staff of the Legal Division dealing with the activities of the Division of Liquidation, and the Audit Division, are located at the office of the Corporation maintained in the Field Building, Chicago 3, Illinois.

PART 303—DELEGATIONS OF FINAL AUTHORITY

§ 303.1 Delegations of final authority. Except as otherwise provided by rule, or with respect to matters which generally involve conditions or circumstances requiring prompt action in the field, and to achieve flexibility and expedition in operations and in the exercise of its functions, such as arise in connection with litigation, liquidation, and the payment of claims for insured deposits, the board of directors does not delegate its authority with respect to any question of general policy, action, or function; and no delegations of final authority within the statutory meaning of that phrase are made by the board of directors. Any person having a proper and direct concern therein may ascertain the scope of authority of any officer, agent, or employee of the Corporation by communicating with the Secretary.[1]

PART 304—SECURING INFORMATION

Sec.
304.1 Published information.
304.2 Unpublished information.
304.3 Securing certain other information.
304.4 Applications, submittals, and requests.
304.5 Opinions and orders.

§ 304.1 Published information—(a) Annual report of the Corporation. In conformity with the provisions of subsection (r) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, the Corporations makes an annual report of its operations to the Congress as soon as practicable after the first day of January in each year.

(b) Semiannual report of assets and liabilities of operating insured commercial and mutual savings banks. The Corporation publishes for each semiannual period a report of the assets and liabilities of all operating insured commercial and mutual savings banks.

(c) Statement of assets and liabilities of the Corporation. The Corporation publishes periodic statements of its assets and liabilities.

(d) Rules and regulations. The Corporation, from time to time, publishes, in separate pamphlet form, the rules and regulations issued and prescribed by the board of directors.

(e) Federal deposit insurance law. The Corporation publishes, in separate pamphlet form, the provisions of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, constituting the Federal deposit insurance law.

(f) Insured deposits. The Corporation publishes a pamphlet entitled "Is my deposit insured?" which contains a brief description of the Corporation and the manner in which it insures deposits.

(g) List of insured banks. The Corporation publishes a current list containing the names and locations of all insured banks.

(h) Others. From time to time the Corporation issues press releases, and publishes, in disributable form, for the information of the public, other material with respect to banking.

(i) FEDERAL REGISTER. The Corporation publishes in the FEDERAL REGISTER all information specified in paragraph (d) of this section, and such other material as is by law required so to be published.

[1] Section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, provides:

"(c) (1) The term 'State bank' means any bank, banking association, trust company, savings bank, or other banking institution which is engaged in the business of receiving deposits and which is incorporated under the laws of any State, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands, or which is operating under the Code of Law for the District of Columbia (except a national bank), and includes any unincorporated bank the deposits of which are insured on the effective date under the provisions of this section.

"(c) (2) * * * the term 'State nonmember bank' means any State bank which is not a member of the Federal Reserve System.

"(c) (3) The term 'District bank' means any State bank operating under the Code of Law for the District of Columbia."

[1] See § 307.9 of this chapter.

(j) Securing published information. Any insured bank and any other person may obtain copies of all published information, within the limits of available copies for distrubution, upon written request therefor addressed to the Secretary at the principal office of the Corporation.[1] Published information may be examined at the principal office of the Corporation, or at any District office, upon request and during regular business hours.

§ 304.2 Unpublished information—(a) Confidential information and records. All files, documents, reports, books, accounts, and records (hereinafter collectively referred to as "records") pertaining to insured banks, or the internal operations and affairs of the Corporation, in the possession or under the control of the Corporation or any officer, agent, or employee thereof, and all facts or information contained in such records or acquired by said officers, agents, or employees in the performance of their official duties (hereinafter collectively referred to as "information") are confidential, unless prepared for public distribution by order of the board of directors of the Corporation or its Chairman.

(b) Certain records and information also privileged. Records and information pertaining to (1) examinations or investigations of insured banks, (2) applications and reports to the Corporation by any bank (exclusive of applications for loans or purchases of assets under 12 U. S. C. 264 (n) (4)), (3) proceedings for the termination of the insured status of any bank, or (4) the internal operations of the Corporation, are conditionally privileged as well as confidential, and are hereinafter sometimes referred to as "privileged."

(c) Disclosure prohibited. Officers, agents, and employees of the Corporation are prohibited from allowing any person to inspect, examine, or copy any of said confidential or privileged records, or furnishing copies thereof, or from disclosing any such confidential or privileged information, except as hereinafter provided:

(1) The Chief of any Division having custody thereof, in his discretion, may release or furnish any record or information, not privileged, to any governmental agency, state or federal, for use in the exercise of its official duties; and to any other person upon a verified written application, which shall show that the applicant has a substantial interest therein and the purpose for which it is to be used: Provided, That such disclosure, in the opinion of the Division Chief, will not be prejudicial to the Corporation or the public interest.

(2) The Chief of the Division of Examination may furnish to an insured nonmember bank copies of any reports of examination of such bank (except the section designated "confidential") and other information pertaining to its affairs: Provided, That copies of such reports of examination and other information so furnished to an insured nonmember bank shall remain the property of the Corporation and under no circumstances shall the bank or any of its directors, officials, or employees disclose or make public in any manner such reports or any portion thereof or other information so furnished.

(3) The Chief of the Division of Examination may furnish to the Comptroller of the Currency, to any Federal Reserve Bank, and to any Commission, Board, or authority having supervision of a State nonmember bank, and to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, if it owns or holds as pledgee, or has under consideration an application for the purchase of, any preferred stock, capital notes, or debentures in such bank, copies of reports of examination made on behalf of the Corporation and other information pertaining to insured nonmember banks for use in the exercise of their official duties: Provided, That such reports of examination and other information so furnished to such officials or agency shall remain the property of the Corporation and under no circumstances shall any such official or agency disclose or make public in any manner such reports or any portion thereof or other information so furnished.

(4) The Chief of the Division of Examination may furnish to any official of the Department of Justice any information regarding defalcations, burglaries, or robberies, affecting insured banks, when, in his opinion, there is urgent need for immediate action to be taken by such Department in the investigation thereof or the apprehension or prosecution of persons responsible therefor.

(5) The Chief of the Division of Research and Statistics may furnish to the Comptroller of the Currency, to any Federal Reserve Bank, and to any commission, board, or authority having supervision of a state nonmember bank copies of reports of condition made by insured banks to the Corporation, including statements of assets, liabilities, and capital accounts, and of earnings, expenses, and distribution of profits, for use in the exercise of their official duties: Provided, That under no circumstances shall such state or federal officials make public the contents of such reports or any portion thereof, except in the publication of general statistical reports.

(6) The General Counsel of the Corporation may disclose to the proper federal prosecuting authorities any and all records and information relating to irregularities discovered in open and closed insured banks believed to constitute violations of the federal criminal statutes. The General Counsel may authorize the production of any record, the disclosure of any information, and the giving of any testimony with respect thereto, by any officer or employee of the Corporation, upon any proceeding, hearing, or trial, civil or criminal, in any state or federal court or before any administrative board, commission, or committee. Such authorization may be given only in response to a subpoena or other process duly issued and served upon the Corporation at its principal office, which service may be by registered mail addressed to the Corporation at Washington, D. C., specifying the record requested, the nature and scope of the testimony to be elicited, the name of the witness and the place and time of appearance: Provided, That the General Counsel, in his discretion, may waive the requirement of service of subpoena or process when he believes it to be in the interest of justice to do so. Without such prior authorization, any officer or employee required to respond to a subpoena or other legal process shall attend at the time and place therein mentioned and respectfully decline to produce any record or disclose any information or give any testimony with respect thereto, basing his refusal upon this rule: Provided, That this prohibition shall not apply to information which may be disclosed pursuant to and in accordance with the provisions of subsection (b), section 22 of the Federal Reserve Act (12 U. S. C. 594) as amended by section 326 of the Banking Act of 1935 and Provided further, That when such requested records or information are privileged, the General Counsel shall not authorize their production or disclosure in any of the suits or proceedings hereinbefore mentioned, or otherwise, except where the production of such evidence is requested in behalf of the Corporation, the United States, or the person from whom such privileged documents and information were obtained.

(d) Application for disclosure. Applications for disclosure of information or records hereunder should be addressed to the appropriate Division Chief or the General Counsel of the Corporation, as the case may be.

(e) Service of process on officer, agent or employee. Any officer, agent, or employee of the Corporation served with a subpena, order, or other process requiring his personal attendance as a witness or the production of records or information upon any proceeding mentioned in paragragph (c) (6) of this section shall promptly advise (1) the court or tribunal which issued the process, and the attorney for the party at whose instance the process was issued, if known, of the substance of this rule, and (2) the General Counsel of the Corporation at Washington, D. C., of such service and of the records and information requested and any facts which may be of assistance to the General Counsel in determining whether such records and information should be made available.

(f) Authority of Chairman of board of directors. Notwithstanding any of the foregoing provisions, the Chairman of the board of directors, in his discretion and pursuant to law, may authorize the production, examination, or inspection of any records, or the furnishing of copies thereof, or the disclosure of any information, or may direct the General Counsel or the Chief of any Division to refuse to permit the production, examination, or inspection of any records, or the furnishing of copies thereof, or the disclosure of any information, when in his opinion such action is consistent with the public interest.

§ 304.3 Securing certain other information. Information with respect to the operations and functions of the Corporation generally, may be obtained by writing directly to the Secretary at the principal office of the Corporation. Information with respect to the following may be obtained by writing to the designated office:

Division of examination or appropriate district office. Applications for deposit insurance; for consent to the establishment and operation, or change of location of, branches, change of location of main office, capital retirement and reductions, extensions of corporate or charter powers, and mergers of insured with noninsured banks.

Fiscal agent. Assessment for deposit insurance; certified statements; official signs.

Division of liquidation. Liquidations, receiverships, claims, payment of insured deposits in closed insured banks.

Legal division. Litigation, and other legal matters.

Division of research and statistics. Statistical data in general; requirements for reports of condition and reports of earnings and dividends, summary of deposits, and similar reports.

§ 304.4 Applications, submittals, and requests. Except as otherwise provided by rule or regulation, all applications, submittals, and requests should be addressed to the Secretary at the Corporation's principal office. The procedure to be followed in making applications, submittals, and requests is contained in subchapter B of this chapter.

§ 304.5 Opinions and orders. A survey and review of the opinions and orders heretofore made by the board of directors of the Corporation in the adjudication of cases, in connection with licensing, supervision, investigation, termination of insured status, payment of insured deposits, and the administration of liquidations and receiverships, discloses that their publication would not be of current interest or importance, they are not cited as precedents, and are required for good cause to be held confidential. Accordingly, they will not be published nor made available to public inspection.

The board of directors will, however, either publish, or, in accordance with published rule, make available for public inspection, final opinions and orders in the adjudication of cases which are cited as precedents and which are not required for good cause to be held confidential.

[1] The Corporation reserves the right to make a small charge, to cover the cost of printing and handling, for copies of any published information.

SUBCHAPTER B—PROCEDURES AND RULES OF PRACTICE

PART 305—INTRODUCTORY

§ 305.0 Scope and source of authority. The rules contained in this subchapter are promulgated pursuant to the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (Public Law 404, 79th Cong.), section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, and other applicable laws, and in accordance with the provisions of section 3 (a) (2) of the Administrative Procedure Act state the general course and method by which the Corporation's functions with respect to deposit insurance are channeled and determined, including the nature and requirements of formal or informal procedures available as well as forms and instructions as to the scope and contents of papers and reports. This subchapter also includes appropriate provisions with respect to rule making, adjudications, and hearings, as prescribed by law.

Proceedings by the Corporation within the meaning of this subchapter include:

(a) The formulation and promulgation of rules and regulations, including amendments thereto or the repeal thereof;

(b) The disposition of applications, requests, and submittals;

(c) Formal hearings and adjudications.

PART 306—FORMULATION AND PROMULGATION OF RULES AND REGULATIONS

Sec.
306.1 Notice.
306.2 Public participation.
306.3 Formulation of rules.
306.4 Petitions.
306.5 Effective date.
306.6 Exceptions.
306.7 Amendment and repeal.

§ 306.1 Notice. General notice of proposed rule making, including amendments thereto or repeal thereof, will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, except as specified in § 306.6, or otherwise excepted by law. Such notice will include either the terms or substance of the proposed rule or a description of the subjects and issues involved, reference to the authority under which the rule is proposed, and a statement of the time, place, and nature of the public proceedings for making the rule.

§ 306.2 Public participation. Interested persons will be afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of any rule, except as specified in § 306.6, or otherwise excepted by law, through the submission of written data, views, or arguments, unless the board of directors shall specifically provide an opportunity for the oral presentation thereof.

§ 306.3 Formulation of rules. After consideration of all relevant matter presented, the Committee on Administrative Procedure, Regulations, and Forms will submit its recommendations to the board of directors and, in collaboration with appropriate Divisions, will prepare drafts of any proposed rules or amendments. The board of directors will take such action thereon as it deems appropriate and in any rule adopted will incorporate therein a concise general statement of its basis and purpose.

§ 306.4 Petitions. Any interested person may petition the Corporation for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of any rule by submitting such petition in writing together with a complete and concise statement of the petitioner's interest in the subject matter and the reasons why the petition should be granted. Such petition should be submitted to the Secretary.

§ 306.5 Effective date. Any rule issued by the Corporation will be published or served not less than thirty (30) days prior to the effective date thereof except as specified in § 306.6 or otherwise excepted by law.

§ 306.6 Exceptions. Whenever the Corporation finds that notice of, and public participation in, rule making is impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest, or there is good cause why the effective date of any rule should not be deferred for thirty (30) days, the provisions of §§ 306.1, 306.2, and 306.5 shall not apply; and any such rule when published will incorporate the finding and a brief statement of the reasons therefor.

§ 306.7 Amendment and repeal. The right to alter, amend, or repeal the whole or any part of any rule except as otherwise provided by law, is expressly reserved.

[4] "The term 'branch' includes any branch bank, branch office, branch agency, additional office, or any branch place of business located in any State of the United States the consent of the Corporation to establish and operate a new branch by a State nonmember insured bank (except a District bank),[4] or to move a branch from one location to another by a State nonmember insured bank, should be filed with the Supervising Examiner of the Federal Deposit Insurance District in which the bank is located. The appropriate form of application and instructions for completing the same may be obtained upon request from the Supervising Examiner of the District in which the application originates. (See Part 308 of this subchapter for list of forms and instructions.)

§ 307.3 Application by State nonmember insured bank to change location of main office. Application for the consent of the Corporation to change the location of the main office of a State nonmember insured bank (except a District bank) should be filed with the Supervising Examiner of the Federal Deposit Insurance District in which the bank is located. The appropriate form of application and instructions for completing the same may be obtained upon request from the Supervising Examiner of the District in which the application originates. (See Part 308 of this subchapter for list of forms and instructions.)

§ 307.4 Application by insured State nonmember bank to reduce or retire capital. Application for the consent of the Corporation to the reduction in the amount, or retirement of any part, of the common or preferred capital stock, or retirement of any part of the capital notes or debentures, of an insured State nonmember bank (except a District bank) should be filed with the Supervising Examiner of the Federal Deposit Insurance District in which the bank is located. The appropriate form of application and instructions for completing the same may be obtained upon request from the Supervising Examiner of the District in which the application originates. (See Part 308 of this subchapter for list of forms and instructions.)

§ 307.5 Application by insured bank to merge or consolidate with, or assume deposit liabilities of, or transfer assets to, a noninsured bank. Application for the consent of the Corporation to the consolidation or merger of an insured bank with a noninsured bank, or the assumption by an insured bank of the liability to pay any deposits made in any noninsured bank, or the transfer of assets by an insured bank to any noninsured bank in consideration of the assumption of liability for any portion of the deposits made in such insured bank, together with copies of all agreements, or proposed agreements relating thereto, should be filed with the Supervising Examiner of the Federal Deposit Insurance District in which the insured bank is located. The appropriate form of application and instructions for completing the same as well as instructions concerning notice to depositors, may be obtained upon request from the Supervising Examiner of the District in which the application originates. (See Part 308 of this subchapter for list of forms and instructions.)

§ 307.6 Application by state nonmember insured bank to extend its corporate or charter powers. Application for the consent of the Corporation to the extension of the corporate or charter powers of a State nonmember insured bank (except a District bank) should be filed with the Supervising Examiner of the Federal Deposit Insurance District in which the bank is located. The appropriate form of application and instructions for completing the same may be obtained upon request from the Supervising Examiner of the District in which the application originates. (See Part 308 of this subchapter for list of forms and instructions.)

§ 307.7 Application to continue or resume insured status. Application under § 327.3 (c) of this chapter by a bank whose insured status has been terminated, to be permitted to continue or to resume its status as an insured bank, should be filed with the Supervising Examiner of the Federal Deposit Insurance District in which the bank is located. Such application should be (a) in writing; (b) signed by the president, or cashier, or other managing officer of the bank; (c) accompanied by a certified copy of the resolution of its board of directors authorizing the submission of such application; and should contain (d) a statement that the bank's insured status has been terminated, the date thereof, and the basis therefor, that the insurance of its deposits has not ceased, and that it applies for permission to continue or resume its status as an insured bank; and (e) the reasons why the continuance or resumption of such status should be permitted by the Corporation.

§ 307.8 Applications for exemption from advertising requirements.—(a) Official signs. Application under § 328.1 (b) of this chapter by an insured bank for approval of its use of a sign other than the official sign should be filed with the Division of Examination of the Corporation at its principal office. Such application should be (1) in writing; (2) signed by the president, or cashier, or other managing officer of the bank; (3) accompanied by a sample of the proposed sign; and (4) in conformity with the provisions of that section, should state the reasons why the application should be granted.

(b) Official advertising statement. Application under § 328.2 (a) of this chapter by an insured bank for temporary exemption from the provisions thereof should be filed with the Division of Examination of the Corporation at its principal office. Such application should be (1) in writing; (2) signed by the president, or cashier, or other managing officer of the bank; and (3) in conformity with the provisions of that section, should state with particularity the undue hardship which will result by reason of the requirements of said regulation, and the reasons why the application should be granted.

§ 307.9 Other applications. Except as otherwise provided by rule or regulation, all applications, requests, and submittals for which no form of application has been prescribed by the Corporation, should be (a) in writing; (b) signed by the applicant or his duly authorized agent; and (c) should contain a statement of the applicant's interest therein, a complete and concise statement of the action requested and the reasons and facts relied upon as the basis for such requested action; and should be addressed to the Secretary at the principal office of the Corporation. The applicant shall furnish such other pertinent information as may be required by the Corporation.

Whenever applicable the forms specified in Part 308 of this subchapter should be used and the instructions issued with respect thereto should be followed and submission made as therein provided.

§ 307.10 Procedure on applications. With respect to applications for deposit insurance under § 307.1, the Division of Examination of the Corporation will cause an investigation to be conducted, and an examination to be made of the bank or proposed bank;[4] and the board of directors will thereafter, in accordance with applicable provisions of law, act upon such application, the report of such investigation and examination, the recommendations thereon of the examiner and Supervising Examiner of the District in which the bank is or will be located, of the Division of Examination and of the Board of Review, and the legal opinion of counsel for the Corporation. The applicant bank will be duly advised of the board's decision upon such application.

With respect to all other applications, requests, or submittals the board of directors will cause such an investigation or examination, or both, to be made by the proper Divisions of the Corporation, as the board shall deem appropriate, and upon the report of such investigation and examination, and the recommendations thereon, will take such action as it shall deem necessary or appropriate in the premises.

§ 307.11 Notice of disposition of application. Prompt notice will be given of the grant or denial, in whole or in part, of any written application, petition, or other request of any interested person made in connection with any agency proceeding. In the case of a denial, except in affirming a prior denial, or where the same is self-explanatory, such notice will be accompanied by a simple statement of procedural or other grounds.

PART 308—FORMS, INSTRUCTIONS, AND REPORTS

Sec.
308.1 Certified statements.
308.2 Reports of condition, etc.
308.3 Forms and instructions.

§ 308.1 Certified statements. The certified statements required to be filed by insured banks in accordance with the provisions of subsection (h) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, should be filed with the Fiscal Agent of the Corporation upon the forms, and in the manner, and pursuant to the instructions, prescribed by the board of directors. The form of certified statement and instructions for completing the same will be furnished to all insured banks by, or may be obtained upon request from, the Fiscal Agent.

§ 308.2 Reports of condition, etc. Whenever required by the board of directors pursuant to law, insured State nonmember banks (except District banks) should file reports of condition, reports of earnings and dividends, and summaries of deposits, with the Division of Research and Statistics upon the forms, and in the manner, and pursuant to the instructions, prescribed by the board of directors from time to time. The form of such reports and instructions for completing the same will be furnished to all such banks by, or may be obtained upon request from, the Division of Research and Statistics.

§ 308.3 Forms and instructions. The following forms and instructions have been prepared by the Corporation for the use of banks and may be obtained by any person properly and directly concerned therewith upon request at the office designated in these rules:

(a) Form 82.[1] Application of Proposed Bank (Other than Mutual Savings) for Federal Deposit Insurance. The proposed incorporators are required to make statements and representations and to submit information with respect to the several factors enumerated in subsection (g) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended. The application on Form 82 must be executed in quadruplicate. Three applications signed by the proposed incorporators must be forwarded to the Supervising Examiner and the other application retained by the prospective incorporators. Applications filed on Form 82 must be accompanied by a certified copy of the proposed Articles of Incorporation or Association and the requisite number of properly executed Forms 83. After incorporation is duly effected, the bank must admit a properly executed Form 82 (a).

(b) Form 82–M[1] Application of proposed Mutual Savings Bank for Federal deposit insurance. Form 82–M, which is substantially the same as Form 82, should be used when the proposed bank is to be a mutual savings bank, and should be prepared and submitted in the same manner as Form 82.

(c) Form 82 (a) and Form 82 (a)–M. Certificate of adoption of resolution. Form 82 (a) is a copy of the Resolution of the board of directors (or trustees) of the bank approving the action of the prospective incorporators in preparing and presenting its application for Federal deposit insurance on Form 82, or 82–M certified to be a true and correct copy by the president or vice-president and cashier or secretary. After incorporation has been duly effected and the bank is chartered to do business by the proper state authority, four properly executed Forms 82 (a) must be transmitted to the Supervising Examiner. If not previously submitted, Form 82 (a) must be accompanied by a copy of the bank's Articles of Incorporation or Association and a copy of the bank's license or authorization to engage in the business of receiving deposits.

(d) Form 84.[2] Application for Federal Deposit Insurance by an Existing Noninsured State Bank (Other than Mutual Savings). The applicant bank is required to submit statements, representations, and information with respect to the several factors enumerated in subsection (g) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, and a copy of the Resolution of its board of directors authorizing the bank's president or vice-president and cashier or secretary to make the application. The application must be executed in quadruplicate, signed by such officers and the bank's corporate seal affixed thereto. Three signed applications must be forwarded to the Supervising Examiner and the other application retained by the bank as part of its permanent records. Applications filed on Form 84 must be accompanied by the requisite number of properly executed Forms 83 and a certified copy of the Articles of Incorporation or Association including any amendments thereto.

(e) Form 84–M.[2] Application for Federal Deposit Insurance by an Existing Noninsured Mutual Savings Bank. Form 84–M, which is substantially the same as Form 84, should be used by Mutual Savings Banks, and should be prepared and submitted in the same manner as Form 84.

(f) Form 83 and Form 83–M. Financial Statement. Form 83 must be executed in triplicate and certified to be true and correct by each individual director (or trustee) and officer of the bank or proposed bank (who is solely responsible for its contents) for the benefit of the board of directors of the Corporation in determining, with respect to the applicant bank, the general character of its management in accordance with subsection (g) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended. The requisite number of properly executed and signed Forms 83 must accompany each application on Form 82, Form 82–M, Form 84, or Form 84–M.

(g) Form 85. Application by Banks (Other than Mutual Savings) to Establish and Operate, or Change the Location of, a Branch. The applicant bank is required to submit statements, representations, and information with respect to the several factors enumerated in subsection (g) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, and a copy of the Resolution of its board of directors authorizing the bank's president or vice-president and cashier or secretary to make the application. The application must be executed in quadruplicate, signed by the president or vice-president, have the corporate seal of the bank affixed thereto, and be attested by the cashier or secretary. Three signed applications must be forwarded to the Supervising Examiner and the other application retained in the files of the bank as part of its permanent records. The application must be accompanied by a certified copy of the bank's Articles of Incorporation or Association including any amendments thereto unless previously submitted to the Corporation and not subsequently amended.

(h) Form 85–M. Application to Establish, Operate, or Change the Location of, a Branch by a Mutual Savings Bank. For 85–M, which is substantially the same as Form 85, should be prepared and submitted in the same manner as Form 85.

(i) Form 85 (a) Application to Establish a Branch Pursuant to Designation as Depositary and Financial Agent of the United States Government. Form 85 (a) is similar to Form 85 and should be used by a bank when applying for consent to the establishment of a branch to perform limited banking functions in connection with its designation by the Secretary of the Treasury as a depositary of public money and financial agent of the United States Government. Form 85 (a) should be accompanied by the documents which are required in connection with Form 85.

(j) Form 100. Application for Consent to Retirement of Common or Preferred Stock, Capital Notes, or Debentures. The applicant bank is required to submit statements with respect to the nature of proposal, source of funds to effect the proposal, and other steps involved in the retirement. The application contains a statement of assets and liabilities and the disposition of certain assets adversely classified in the preceding Report of Examination made of the bank by examiners of the Corporation. Three applications certified to be true and correct and signed by the president or cashier of the bank must be forwarded to the Supervising Examiner.

(k) Form 102. Application. Form 102 should be used by all banks applying for the consent of the Corporation with respect to any application requiring such consent and for which no specific form is prescribed by this section or otherwise. The form contains a copy of the Resolution of the bank's board of directors describing the proposal and authorizing the application, a statement of the action taken upon the proposal by the proper state banking authority, where such action is required, and must be signed by the president or vice-president and attested by the cashier or secretary. The application must be accompanied by a copy of the bank's Articles of Incorporation or Association including any amendments thereto unless previously submitted to the Corporation and not subsequently amended. The application must be executed in quadruplicate. Three signed applications must be submitted to the Supervising Examiner of the District wherein the bank is located and one copy retained in the bank's files.

or in Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands at which deposits are received or checks paid or money lent" (subsection (c) (15) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended [12 U. S. C. 264 (c) (15)]).

[4] See footnote 1 to § 307.1 (d) (1) of this chapter for the definition of a District bank.

[1] If the proposed bank contemplates the establishment of a branch or branches, its application on Form 82 must be accompanied by a properly executed Form 85 for each branch. Form 85–M is to be used where the proposed bank is to be a mutual savings bank.

[2] If the bank has a branch or branches, its application on Form 84 must be accompanied by a properly executed Form 85 for each branch. Form 85–M is to be used where the bank is a mutual savings bank.

(l) Form 64 (Short Form). Report of Condition (From Banks Other Than Mutual Savings). Form 64, is a report in the form of a standard statement of the Assets and Liabilities of the reporting bank together with additional detailed breakdown of selected items. When special circumstances so require, additional detail with respect to specific asset or liability items may be required. Reports of Condition must be prepared in accordance with the instructions contained in the booklet entitled "Instructions for the Preparation of Reports of Condition on Form 64", copies of which are furnished by the Corporation to all insured State nonmember banks (except District banks) and which may be obtained on request from the Division of Research and Statistics.

(m) Form 64 (Savings). Report of Condition (From Mutual Savings Banks). Form 64 (Savings) is substantially the same as Form 64 (Short form) and should be used by mutual savings banks.

(n) Form 73. Report of Earnings and Dividends (From Banks Other Than Mutual Savings). Report of Earnings and Dividends, Form 73, is a report in the form of a standard profit and loss statement and a reconciliation of changes in total capital accounts, during the year. When special circumstances so require additional detail with respect to specific income or expense items, charge-offs or recoveries, profits on assets sold, or changes in total capital account may be required. Reports of Earnings and Dividends must be prepared in accordance with the instructions contained in the booklet entitled "Instructions for the Preparation of Report of Earnings and Dividends on Form 73", which is furnished by the Corporation to all insured State nonmember banks (except District banks) and which may be obtained on request from the Division of Research and Statistics.

(o) Form 73 (Savings). Report of Earnings and Dividends (From Mutual Savings Banks). Form 73 (Savings) is substantially the same as Form 73 and should be used by mutual savings banks.

(p) Form 89. Summary of deposits. Report of Summary of Deposits is a report of the number of deposit accounts and the amount of deposits in such accounts grouped by size of account and type of deposit. Summary of deposit reports must be prepared in accordance with instructions contained in the pamphlet entitled "Instructions for Preparation of Form 89", which is furnished by the Corporation to all insured banks and which may be obtained on request from the Division of Research and Statistics.

(q) Form 555. Certified Statement—Part 2. Tabulation of Assessment Base. Form 555 is used for the daily tabulation of total deposit liabilities, deductions claimed, and deposits for assessment base in connection with the preparation of Part 1 of the various Certified Statements. The form is prescribed by the board of directors of the Corporation and must be retained by the bank as a permanent record. A supply of these forms, ample for its needs for one year, is mailed annually to each insured bank. Additional supplies of the form may be obtained from the Fiscal Agent upon request on order blank, Form FA–29, or by letter when accompanied by remittance at the rate of fifty cents per package of 25 sheets.

(r) Form 556. Certified Statement—Part 2, Suggested Form for Schedule Supporting Tabulation of Assessment Base. Form 556 is designed for the convenient accumulation of data relating to deposit liabilities or deductions claimed as shown on Tabulation of Assessment Base (Form 555). Use of this form is optional and may be obtained upon request on order blank, Form FA–29, or by letter when accompanied by remittance at the rate of fifty cents per package of 25 sheets.

(s) Form 645. First Certified Statement—Part 1, Based on Deposits for the First 31 Days of Operation as an Insured Bank. Form 645 must be executed in quadruplicate, by each bank admitted to membership, except banks admitted in June or December. Form 645 contains a summary of the aggregate daily totals of deposit liabilities less authorized deductions by which the submitting bank reports the amount of deposits used in computing its assessment base and the amount of its assessment due the Corporation. Three copies, signed and certified under oath as true by the officer authorized to so certify, must be forwarded to the Fiscal Agent on or before the forty-fifth day after the first day of operation as an insured bank. The fourth copy must be retained in the bank's file. These forms are mailed to newly insured banks with appropriate instructions for the preparation.[3]

(t) Form 645–A. Second Certified Statement—Part 1. Form 645–A must be submitted by all banks becoming insured, except those admitted to insurance during the months of June or December. Form 645–A contains a summary of the aggregate daily totals of deposit liabilities less authorized deductions by which the submitting bank reports the amount of deposits used in computing its assessment base and the amount of its assessment due the Corporation. The form must be executed in quadruplicate. Three copies, signed and certified under oath as true by the officer authorized to so certify, must be forwarded to the Fiscal Agent on or before the next succeeding January 15th or July 15th, after the bank became an insured bank. The fourth copy must be retained in the bank's file. They are mailed to the insured banks with an accompanying letter of instructions.[3]

(u) Form 645–B. Second Certified Statement—Part 1. Form 645–B must be submitted by each bank admitted to membership in the months of June and December. Form 645–B contains a summary of the aggregate daily totals of deposit liabilities less authorized deductions by which the submitting bank reports the amount of deposits used in computing its assessment base and the amount of its assessment due the corporation. The form must be executed in quadruplicate. Three copies, signed and certified under oath as true by the officer authorized to so certify, must be forwarded to the Fiscal Agent on or before February 15th or August 15th after becoming an insured bank. The fourth copy must be retained in the bank's file. They are mailed to the insured banks with an accompanying letter of instructions.[3]

(v) Form 545. Certified Statement—Part 1. A Form 545 must be submitted on or before January 15th and July 15th, based on deposits for the preceding six months ending on December 31st or June 30th, by each insured bank, except newly insured banks which must submit their first and second certified statements on other specified forms. Form 545 contains a summary of the aggregate daily totals of deposit liabilities less authorized deductions by which the submitting bank reports the amount of deposits used in computing its assessment base and the amount of its assessment due the Corporation. The form must be executed in quadruplicate. Three copies, signed and certified under oath as true by the officer authorized to so certify, must be forwarded to the Fiscal Agent, and the fourth copy retained in the bank's file. The forms are mailed to all insured banks each six months, in ample time to permit compliance with the law, but if not received on or before January 1st or July 1st they should be obtained from the Fiscal Agent. Instructions for the preparation of said forms are furnished all insured banks.[3]

(w) Form 845. Final Certified Statement—Part 1. For an Insured Bank Whose Deposit Liabilities are Assumed by Another Insured Bank. Form 845 contains a summary of the aggregate daily totals of deposit liabilities less authorized deductions by which the submitting bank reports the amount of deposits used in computing its assessment base and the amount of its assessment due the Corporation. Form 845, accompanied by an appropriate letter of explanation and instructions, is mailed to each insured bank whose deposit liabilities are assumed by another insured bank.[3] The form must be executed in quadruplicate. Three copies, signed and certified under oath as true by the officer authorized to so certify, must be forwarded to the Fiscal Agent and the fourth copy retained in the bank's file.

(x) Form 845–A. Final Certified Statement—Part 1. For an Insured Bank Whose Deposit Liabilities are Assumed by Another Insured Bank (For Use When the Assuming Bank is Executing the Certified Statement for the Bank Whose Deposit Liabilities Were Assumed). Form 845–A contains a summary of the aggregate daily totals of deposit liabilities less authorized deductions by which the submitting bank reports the amount of deposits used in computing its assessment base and the amount of its assessment due the Corporation. Form 845–A, accompanied by an appropriate letter of explanation and instructions, is mailed to the insured bank which is assuming the liabilities of another insured bank.[3] The form must be executed in quadruplicate. Three copies, signed and certified under oath as true by the officer authorized to so certify, must be forwarded to the Fiscal Agent, and the fourth copy retained for the bank's file.

(y) Form 555.[4] Recapitulation of the Monthly Totals of Certified Statement—Part 2. A Form 555, (Recapitulation) must be submitted with the Certified Statement, Part 1, required of each insured bank, except the first certified statement required of newly insured banks and the second certified statement required of banks becoming insured in June or December. Form 555 (Recapitulation) is a monthly recapitulation of the daily deposit liabilities, deductions claimed, and deposits for assessment base tabulated on Form 555, Certified Statement—Part 2, Tabulation of Assessment Base, and is used in connection with the preparation of Part 1 of the various certified statements. The form must be executed in duplicate, the original to be forwarded to the Fiscal Agent and the duplicate retained in the bank's file.

(z). Amended and Corrected Certified Statements. Forms for the amendment or correction of previously submitted certified statements are identical in number and form to the Forms 645, 645–A, 645–B, 545, 845, and 845–A described above except that in the title of the form they carry the additional word "Amended" or "corrected". These forms may be obtained on request from the Fiscal Agent.

[3] Copies of such instructions may be obtained on request from the Fiscal Agent.

PART 309—PAYMENT OF INSURED DEPOSITS

§ 309.1 Payment of insured deposits in closed banks. When an insured bank closes under circumstances requiring the Corporation to make payment of the insured deposits therein, as prescribed by law,[1] the board of directors appoints one or more Claim Agents with power and authority as provided by law [2] who maintain a temporary office at the site of the closed bank for the purpose of receiving claims for insured deposits and making payment thereof as soon as possible in accordance with applicable law. Claimants for insured deposits are required to submit to such Claim Agents appropriate proofs of claims, in form and manner prescribed by law or by the board of directors, to deliver up any pass book or other record issued by the bank evidencing the insured deposit, to assign their claims for insured deposits to the Corporation to the extent required by law, and to furnish proper identification. The claimant is required to make proof thereof to the satisfaction of the Claim Agent. Disputed claims which cannot be adjusted in the field are referred to the Chief of the Division of Liquidation for determination and when satisfactory disposition cannot be so made, may be referred to the board of directors for appropriate action. In cases where the Corporation is not satisfied as to the validity of a claim for an insured deposit, it may require the final determination of a court of competent jurisdiction before paying such claim. The Corporation is authorized to make payment of the insured deposits by making available to each depositor a transferred deposit in a new bank in the same community or in another insured bank in an amount equal to the insured deposit of such depositor and subject to withdrawal on demand, which is the equivalent of cash, or in such other manner as the board of directors may prescribe. The Corporation's more recent practice has been to make such payment by issuing its check for the amount of the insured deposit. In making such payments, the Corporation exercises its statutory authority to withhold payment of such portion of the insured deposit of any depositor as may be required to provide for the payment of any liability of such depositor as a stockholder of the bank, or of any liability of such depositor to the closed bank or its receiver, which is not offset against a claim due from the bank, pending the determination and payment of such liability by the depositor or any other person liable therefor.

PART 310—RECEIVERSHIPS AND LIQUIDATIONS

Sec.
310.1 Liquidation of assets acquired through loans and purchases.
310.2 National bank receiverships.
310.3 State bank receiverships.

§ 310.1 Liquidation of assets acquired through loans and purchases. Assets acquired by the Corporation pursuant to contracts of loan or purchase from insured banks or receivers of closed insured banks, in accordance with the provisions of section 12B (n) (3) and (n) (4) of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended (12 U. S. C. 264 (n) (3) and (n) (4)), are liquidated by the Corporation through a liquidator appointed in the same manner as in the case of a national bank receivership (see section 310.2 of this part). The liquidator takes possession of the assets and usually maintains a liquidating office in the vicinity of the bank from which the assets were acquired. The liquidator receives collections of debts and claims due, effects sales of assets, compositions and compromises of debts, and otherwise enforces claims and obligations due and owing and arising out of the liquidation. Proposals for the sale of assets, compositions and compromises, and extensions or renewals of debts due or other contracts, are transmitted by the liquidator to the Chief of the Division of Liquidation and are in turn submitted to the Committee on Liquidations, Loans and Purchase of Assets and to the board of directors of the Corporation for approval. Expenses of administration, attorneys' fees, proposals for leasing, engaging brokers or others, independent contractors, and advances to protect assets are likewise submitted by the liquidator for transmission with the recommendation of the Division of Liquidation to the Committee on Liquidations, Loans and Purchase of Assets and to the board of directors of the Corporation for approval. In general, the liquidator is the local representative of the Corporation and proceeds in compliance with the manual of instructions of the Division of Liquidation to liquidate the assets so acquired.

§ 310.2 National bank receiverships. Whenever any insured national bank or insured District bank shall have been closed by action of its board of directors, or of the Comptroller of the Currency, on account of inability to meet the demands of its depositors,[1] or whenever the insured status of a national member bank is terminated by action of the board of directors of the Corporation, or it ceases to be a member of the Federal Reserve System,[2] and is unable to meet the demands of its depositors, the Comptroller of the Currency appoints the Corporation as receiver for such bank. Immediately upon appointment the Corporation takes possession of the records, assets and affairs of the bank through one of its agents, usually a liquidator, appointed to represent the Corporation in that receivership. If possession is taken by an agent other than a liquidator, the liquidator, when appointed, is substituted for the agent. The board of directors of the Corporation appoints the agent to take possession, the liquidator, such assistant liquidators, and personnel, as may be necessary, as well as an attorney to furnish the Corporation as receiver with such legal assistance as may be required in the administration of the receivership. The liquidator as local representative of the Corporation proceeds, in compliance with the manual of instructions of the Division of Liquidation, and in conformity with the applicable provisions of the National Bank Act and Section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, to liquidate the assets, receive claims of depositors (claiming in excess of $5,000 per depositor)[3] and other creditors, pay the expenses of administration, distribute the proceeds of such liquidation, and otherwise wind up the affairs of the bank subject to the control of the board of directors of the Corporation and under the supervision of the Chief of the Division of Liquidation. After notice by advertisement pursuant to law, depositors having claims in excess of $5,000 per depositor, and other creditors, are permitted to file claims with the liquidator, who transmits such claims to the Division of Liquidation for allowance, classification, and deductions by way of setoffs or counterclaims. Such claims are filed on blanks prescribed from time to time by the Corporation and when allowed are evidenced by receiver's certificates issued by the Division of Liquidation on such forms as are from time to time prescribed by the Corporation. The liquidator receives collections of debts and claims due to the receivership, effects sales of assets, compositions and compromises of debts, and otherwise enforces claims and obligations, owing to the receivership. All proceeds of the liquidation are segregated and are kept separate and apart from the general and other funds of the Corporation. Proposals for the sale of assets, compositions, and compromises are transmitted by the liquidator to the Division of Liquidation, which in turn submits them to the Committee on Liquidations, Loans and Purchase of Assets and to the board of directors of the Corporation as well as to the Comptroller of the Currency for approval; and upon such approval the liquidator, through local counsel, presents the proposals to a court of competent jurisdiction for authorization as provided by 12 U. S. C. 192. Expenses of administration are similarly submitted by the Division of Liquidation for approval by the board of directors and the Comptroller of the Currency. Attorney fees are submitted by the Legal Division to the Special Committee for determination by the board of directors and the Comptroller of the Currency. Proposals for leasing, engaging brokers or others, independent contractors, extensions or renewals of debts due the receivership, or other contracts, and advances to protect assets, are submitted by the liquidator for transmission and recommendation by the Division of Liquidation to the Committee on Liquidations, Loans and Purchase of Assets and to the board of directors for authorization. When sufficient funds have been realized from the liquidation to justify payment of a dividend to creditors, the Division of Liquidation submits a recommendation to the Comptroller of the Currency, who orders a ratable dividend to be paid. Dividend checks are drawn by the Division of Liquidation on receivership funds and transmitted to the liquidator for delivery to the claimants who are required to present their receiver's certificates for endorsement thereon and to execute receipts for such dividends. If such claims are paid in full with interest, receivership certificates must be surrendered. If surplus assets remain after payment of dividends to creditors equal to the principal of their respective claims plus interest thereon in a meeting of the shareholders is called pursuant to the provisions of 12 U. S. C. 196, for the purpose of determining whether a shareholders' agent shall be elected or the receivership continued. If the shareholders elect to have a shareholders' agent appointed then the assets are assigned and delivered to the shareholders' agent upon compliance with the requirements of 12 U. S. C. 196.

[3] Claims for insured deposits up to $5,000 for each depositor are filed with a Claim Agent appointed by the board of directors of the Corporation who represents the Corporation in its capacity as insurer of deposits. (See sec. 302.2 (d) and Part 309 of this chapter.)

§ 310.3 State bank receiverships. When the Corporation accepts appointment as receiver of an insured State bank[1] the board of directors appoints an agent or liquidator to take possession, on behalf of the Corporation, of the assets, books, and records, and to administer the affairs, of the closed bank. The liquidator as the local representative of the Corporation proceeds, in accordance with the provisions of the applicable law of the state in which the bank is located, and in conformity with the manual of instructions of the Division of Liquidation, to administer the receivership, subject to the control of the board of directors and under the supervision of the Division of Liquidation.

PART 311—VOLUNTARY TERMINATION OF INSURED STATUS

Sec.

311.1 Steps to be taken and records to be furnished the corporation by an insured nonmember bank in liquidation.

311.2 Steps to be taken and records to be furnished the corporation by a member bank in liquidation (both State and national).

311.3 Steps to be taken and records to be furnished the corporation where deposits are assumed by another insured bank.

§ 311.1 Steps to be taken and records to be furnished the Corporation by an insured nonmember bank in liquidation. (a) Whenever a nonmember bank goes into liquidation and its insured status has not been terminated by the board[1] and its deposit liabilities are not assumed by another insured bank, it shall terminate its status as an insured bank in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (1) of subsection (i) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended.[2] To effect such termination the bank shall adopt a resolution in form substantially as follows:

Resolved: (1) That the status of the ---------- (Name of bank) ---------- (City or town) ---------- as an insured bank under the (State) provisions of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, shall terminate ninety (90) days from the date of the receipt by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation of a copy of this resolution;[3]

(2) That ---------- (Cashier or other officer) ---------- is hereby directed to immediately forward a certified copy of this resolution to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Washington, D. C., which shall constitute the notice of termination prescribed in paragraph (1) of subsection (i) of said section 12B.

Upon receipt of a certified copy of the aforesaid resolution the Corporation will promptly advise the bank of the date of the receipt thereof, and confirm the date of the termination of its insured status.

Thereupon, and prior to the termination date, the bank shall give notice to its depositors of the termination of its insured status. Such notice shall be (1) mailed to each depositor at his last address of record as shown upon the books of the bank, (2) published in not less than two issues of a local newspaper of general circulation, and (3) in form substantially as follows:

---------- (Date)

Notice to Depositors:

Please be advised that the status of the ---------- (Name of bank) ---------- (City or town) ---------- (State) as an insured bank under the provisions of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, will terminate on the ------ day of ---------- 19 ----

You are Further Advised that your insured deposits in this bank on the date of termination will continue to be insured within the limitations provided by law.

---------- (Name of Bank)

---------- (Address)

There may be included in such notice any additional information or advice the bank may deem desirable.

Whenever the bank proposes to pay its depositors and, at the direction of the depositors, effects such payment by transferring the deposits to a noninsured bank, the following information shall be added to the notice to depositors prescribed in the above form:

You are further advised that your deposits may be transferred to the---------- (Name of noninsured bank) ---------- (City or Town) ---------- (State) upon your direction to this bank and your acknowledgment in writing of the payment of your deposits in full by such transfer.

---------- (Name of noninsured bank) is not a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and deposits made in it, or transferred to it, will not be insured.

(b) The bank shall furnish to the Corporation the following records and information:

(1) An affidavit of the mailing and an affidavit of the publication of the notice to depositors. The affidavit of mailing should be executed by the person mailing the notice and should state (i) the date of mailing, (ii) that it was mailed to each depositor at his last address of record as shown on the books of the bank, and (iii) that a copy of the notice as mailed is attached.

(2) A certified copy of the resolutions pursuant to which the bank was placed in liquidation and/or any other document or instrument required by law to place the bank in liquidation.

(3) The bank shall continue to file certified statements and pay assessments

[1] Board means board of directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

[2] Section 12B (i) (1) of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended (12 U. S. C. 264 (i) (1)), provides, in part, as follows: "Any insured bank (except a national member bank or State member bank) may, upon not less than ninety days' written notice to the Corporation, and to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation if it owns or holds as pledgee any preferred stock, capital notes, or debentures of such bank, terminate its status as an insured bank. • • • After the termination of the insured status of any bank • • • the insured deposits of each depositor in the bank on the date of such termination, less all subsequent withdrawals from any deposits of such depositor, shall continue for a period of two years to be insured, and the bank shall continue to pay to the Corporation assessments as in the case of an insured bank during such period. • • •" [Italics supplied.]

[3] If the bank desires to fix a later date of termination, it may do so as the law prescribes only the minimum notice period which is ninety (90) days.

thereon for the period its depositors are insured, as provided by the Federal Reserve Act, as amended: [4] Provided, That after the bank shall have paid in full its deposit liabilities and the assessment to the Corporation required to be paid for the semiannual period in which its deposit liabilities are paid in full, and after it shall, under applicable law, have ceased to have authority to transact a banking business and to have existence, except for the purpose of, and to the extent permitted by law, for winding up its affairs, it shall not be required to file further certified statements nor to pay further assessments.

(4) When the deposit liabilities of the bank shall have been paid in full, the bank shall furnish to the Corporation an affidavit executed by two of its officers, which affidavit shall state the fact that the deposit liabilities have been paid in full and give the date of the final payment.[5]

(5) Where the bank has unclaimed deposits the affidavit to be furnished pursuant to the preceding subparagraph, shall further state the amount of such unclaimed deposits and the disposition made of the funds to be held to meet such claims. For assesment purposes, the following will be considered as payment of such unclaimed deposits, viz:

(i) the transfer of cash funds in an amount sufficient to pay such unclaimed and unpaid deposits to the public official authorized under the law to receive the same; or

(ii) if no provision is made by law for the transfer of funds to a public official, the transfer of cash funds or compensatory assets to an insured bank in an amount sufficient to pay the unclaimed and unpaid deposits in consideration of such insured bank assuming the payment thereof: Provided, That, prior to such transfer, the liquidating bank shall have given notice, as hereinafter provided, to the owners of the unclaimed deposits of the intended transfer and a reasonable time shall have elapsed after the giving of such notice to enable the depositors to obtain their deposits. Such notice shall be mailed to each depositor and shall be published in a local newspaper of general circulation. The notice shall advise such depositors of the liquidation of the bank, shall request them to call for and accept payment of their deposits, and shall state the disposition to be made of their deposits upon their failure to promptly claim the same.

If such unclaimed and unpaid deposits are disposed of as provided in (i) above, a certified copy of the public official's receipt issued for such funds shall be furnished to the Corporation. If such unclaimed and unpaid depositors are disposed of as provided in (ii) above, an affidavit of the publication and of the mailing of the notice to depositors, together with a copy of such notice, and a certified copy of the contract of assumption shall be furnished to the Corporation.

(6) The liquidating bank shall advise the Corporation of the date on which the authority or right of the bank to do a banking business shall have terminated and the method or means whereby such termination shall have been effected, that is, whether such termination has been effected by the surrender of its charter, by the cancellation of its authority or license to do a banking business by the supervisory authority, or otherwise.[6]

§ 311.2 Steps to be taken and records to be furnished the Corporation by a member bank in liquidation (both state and national). (a) Whenever a bank which is a member of the Federal Reserve System goes into liquidation and its insured status has not been terminated by the board[7] and its deposit liabilities are not assumed by another insured bank, it shall notify its depositors of the date of the termination of its insured status.[8] Such notice shall be in the form prescribed in the preceding section and shall be given at the time and in the manner therein provided.

(b) The bank shall furnish to the Corporation the records and information mentioned in, and comply with the requirements of, paragraph (b) of the preceding section.

§ 311.3 Steps to be taken and records to be furnished the Corporation where deposits are assumed by another insured bank.[9] (a) Whenever the deposit liabilities of an insured bank are assumed by another insured bank, the bank whose deposits are assumed, or the assuming bank as its agent, shall give notice to its depositors of such assumption. Such notice shall be (1) mailed to each depositor at his last address of record as shown upon the books of the bank, (2) published in not less than two issues of a local newspaper of general circulation, and (3) in form substantially as follows:

---------- (Date)

Notice to Depositors:

Please be advised that the deposit liabilities shown on the books of the undersigned bank as of the close of business on ---------- 19-- have been assumed by the ---------- (Name of assuming bank) ---------- (City or town) ---------- and that the status of the (State) undersigned bank as an insured bank will therefore terminate as provided in section 12B (i) (4) of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended.

You are further advised that ---------- (Name of ---------- is an insured bank and assuming bank) that your deposits will continue to be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in the manner and to the extent provided in said Act.

----------[10] (Name of bank)

---------- (Address)

There may be included in such notice any additional information or advice the bank may deem desirable.

The bank shall furnish to the Corporation an affidavit of mailing and an affidavit of publication of the notice to depositors. The affidavit of mailing should be in the form prescribed in section 311.1 (b).

(b) The liquidating bank shall continue to file certified statements and pay assessments thereon for the period its deposits are insured, as provided by the Federal Reserve Act, as amended: Provided, That if the liquidating bank, or the assuming bank as its agent, has given the requisite notice to the depositors of the assumption of the deposit liabilities within thirty days after such assumption takes effect, then the liquidating bank shall file a final certified statement, which statement shall be executed to reflect its average daily deposit liabilities for the semiannual period in which its deposit liabilities are assumed and shall pay to the Corporation the normal assessment thereon.[11]

(c) The Corporation will consider receipt of the following as satisfactory evidence of such assumption:

(1) A certified copy of the resolution (i) duly authorizing the bank's officers to enter into a contract for the sale of the bank's assets to another insured bank

[4] See footnote 2 to § 311.1. (a).

[5] The issuance of a draft or officer's check does not constitute the discharge of a deposit liability nor relieve the bank of assessment until such draft or other evidence of payment has been duly presented for payment and has been paid.

[6] As the governing law of the various jurisdictions is not uniform in this respect, it is suggested that the applicable statute be consulted and that this Corporation be advised of the manner in which the termination or cancellation of such authority has been effected.

[7] See footnote [1] to § 311.1 (a).

[8] Section 12B (i) (2) of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, provides, in part, as follows: "Whenever a member bank shall cease to be a member of the Federal Reserve System, its status as an insured bank shall, without notice or other action by the board of directors, terminate on the date the bank shall cease to be a member of the Federal Reserve System, with like effect as if its insured status had been terminated on said date by the board of directors after proceedings under paragraph (1) of this subsection." Section 10, subsection (c) of regulation H of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System provides, in part, as follows: "A bank's withdrawal from membership in the Federal Reserve System is effective on the date on which the Federal Reserve bank stock held by it is duly canceled."

[9] Section 12B (i) (4) of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, provides, in part, as follows: "Whenever the liabilities of an insured bank for deposits shall have been assumed by another insured bank or banks, the insured status of the bank whose liabilities are so assumed shall terminate on the date of receipt by the Corporation of satisfactory evidence of such assumption with like effect as if its insured status had been terminated on said date by the board of directors after proceedings under paragraph (1) of this subsection: Provided, That if the bank whose liabilities are so assumed gives to its depositors notice of such assumption within 80 days after such assumption takes effect by publication or by any reasonable means, in accordance with regulations to be prescribed by the board of directors, the insurance of its deposits shall terminate at the end of 6 months from the date such assumption takes effect, and such bank shall thereupon be relieved of all future obligations to the Corporation, including the obligation to pay future assessments."

[10] If this notice is given by the assuming bank as agent for the liquidating bank, it may add its own name designating itself as agent.

[11] See § 327.3.

upon the consideration of the assumption by it of the deposit liabilities, and (ii) duly placing the bank in liquidation; and

(2) A certified copy of the assumption agreement, provided it contains an express undertaking by an insured bank to pay the deposit liabilities of the bank going into liquidation.

(d) The bank shall furnish to the Corporation the information called for in § 311.1 (b) (6).

§312.1 Termination of insured status by the Corporation. Under the authority of subsection (i) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, the board of directors of the Corporation may terminate the insured status of an insured bank. The procedure for terminating the insured status of a bank as therein prescribed will be followed and the hearing required thereunder will be conducted in accordance with the rules and practice set forth in this part.

§ 312.2 Appearance and practice before the Corporation—(a) Power of attorney and notice of appearance. The Corporation maintains no register of attorneys or agents who may practice before it nor is an application for admission to practice required. Any person desiring to appear before or transact business with the Corporation in a representative capacity may be required to file with the Secretary of the Corporation a power of attorney showing his authority to act in such capacity, and he may be required to show to the satisfaction of the board of directors that he has the requisite qualifications. Attorneys and representatives of parties to proceedings shall file a written notice of appearance with the Secretary or with the trial examiner.

(b) Suspension and disbarment. Any person appearing before the board of directors or before a trial examiner in a representative capacity, or desiring so to act, may for cause, sufficient in the judgment of the board of directors, be suspended or disbarred from so doing, provided that charges shall be preferred by the board of directors against such representative and he shall be afforded an opportunity to be heard thereon.

(c) Summary suspension. Contemptuous conduct at an argument before the board of directors or at a hearing before a trial examiner shall be ground for exclusion therefrom and suspension for the duration of the argument or hearing.

§ 312.3 Notice of hearing. Whenever a hearing is ordered by the board of directors in any proceedings a Notice of Hearing shall be given by the Secretary or other designated officer of the Corporation to the bank involved and the appropriate supervisory authority. Such notice shall designate the time and place of the hearing, the nature thereof, the trial examiner and shall specify the charges against the bank and shall be delivered by personal service, by registered mail to last known address, or other appropriate means, at least 30 days in advance of the hearing.

§ 312.4 Conduct of hearings. Any hearing shall be held before a person designated by the board of directors as the trial examiner and, unless otherwise provided in the notice of hearing, shall be conducted as hereinafter provided.

(a) Authority of trial examiner. The trial examiner at the hearing shall have authority to administer oaths and affirmations, take or cause depositions to be taken, examine witnesses and receive evidence and rule upon the admissibility of evidence and other matters that normally and properly arise in the course of the hearing, but shall have no power to decide any motion to dismiss the proceedings or other motion which results in a final determination of the merits of the proceedings. Except as authorized by law, the trial examiner shall not consult any person or party on any fact in issue unless upon notice and opportunity for all parties to participate, nor be responsible to or subject to the supervision or direction of any officer, employee, or agent engaged in the performance of investigative or supervisory functions. The trial examiner may hold conferences before or during the hearing for the settlement or simplification of issues by consent of the bank and counsel for the Corporation.

(b) Attendance at hearings. A hearing shall be private and shall be attended only by the bank and its representatives or counsel, representatives of the Corporation, witnesses, and other persons having an official interest in the proceedings; provided, however, that on the written request of the bank or counsel for the Corporation, or on its own motion, the board of directors when not prohibited by law, may permit other persons to attend or may order the hearing to be public.

(c) Transcript of testimony. Hearings shall be reported and transcripts will be available at cost to the bank and, if the board of directors has ordered the hearing to be public, to the public. At the close of the hearing a complete transcript of the testimony taken, together with any exhibits and any briefs or memoranda of law filed theretofore on behalf of the bank or counsel for the Corporation, shall be filed with the Secretary. Requested corrections to a transcript of record shall be considered only if offered within 10 days after the date the transcript is filed with the Secretary (or within 10 days after the bank's receipt of a copy of such transcript, if ordered by the bank before conclusion of the hearing). Requested corrections shall be filed with the Secretary and shall be served upon the other party to the proceedings as provided in § 312.14. The trial examiner shall have authority to act upon motions to correct the record.

(d) Order of procedure. The counsel for the Corporation shall open and close.

(e) Continuances and changes or extensions of time and changes of place of hearing. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, the board of directors may by the notice of hearing, or subsequent order, provide time limits different from those specified in these rules, may on its own motion or for cause shown extend any time limits prescribed by these rules or the notice of hearing, and may continue or adjourn any hearing. The trial examiner may continue or adjourn a hearing to such time and place as may be ordered by him.

(f) Call for further evidence, oral argument and briefs, reopening of hearings. The trial examiner may call for the production of further evidence upon any issue, may permit oral arguments and submission of briefs at the hearing, and, upon appropriate notice, may reopen any hearing at any time prior to the certification of his recommended decision to the board of directors, or the board of directors may reopen any hearing at any time prior to its order disposing of the proceeding.

(g) Depositions. The board of directors or trial examiner may order evidence to be taken by deposition in any proceeding at any stage thereof. Such depositions may be taken by the trial examiner or before any person designated by the board of directors or trial examiner and having power to administer oaths. Unless notice be waived, no deposition shall be taken except after at least 5 days' notice to the bank and counsel for the Corporation.

Any party desiring to take the deposition of a witness shall make application in writing, setting out the reasons why such deposition should be taken, stating the time when, the place where, and the name and post-office address of the person before whom it is desired the deposition be taken, the name and post-office address of the witness, and the subject matter or matters concerning which the witness is expected to testify. If good cause is shown, the board or trial examiner will make and serve upon the bank, or its counsel, and counsel for the Corporation, an order wherein the board of directors or trial examiner shall name the witness whose deposition is to be taken and specify the time when, the place where, and the person before whom the witness is to testify, but such time and place, and the person before whom the deposition is to be taken so specified in the order, may or may not be the same as those named in the application. The testimony of the witness shall be reduced to writing by the person before whom the deposition is taken, or under his direction, after which the deposition shall be subscribed by the witness and certified as a true and complete transcript of the testimony by the person before whom the deposition was taken and by him forwarded as specified in the order with three additional copies thereof made by him or under his direction. A certified copy thereof shall be furnished to the bank, or its counsel, and to counsel for the Corporation. Witnesses whose depositions are taken, and the person taking such depositions, shall severally be entitled to the same fees as are paid for like services in the courts of the United States whih shall be paid by the party upon whose application the deposition was taken.

§ 312.5 Rules of evidence—(a) Evidence. Every party shall have the right to present his case or defense by oral and documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence and to conduct such cross examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. Irrelevant, immaterial or unduly repetitious evidence shall be excluded.

(b) Objections. Objections to the admission or exclusion of evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objections relied upon, and the transcript shall not include argument thereon except as ordered by the trial examiner. Rulings on such objections and on any other matters shall be a part of the transcript. Failure to object to admission or exclusion of evidence or to any ruling shall be considered a waiver of such objection.

(c) Official notice. All matters officially noticed by the trial examiner shall appear on the record.

§ 312.6 Proposed findings and conclusions and recommended decision—(a) Proposed findings and conclusions and supporting briefs. Within 15 days after the filing of the transcript with the Secretary (or within 15 days after the bank's receipt of a copy of such transcript, if ordered by the bank before the conclusion of the hearing) the bank or counsel for the Corporation may file with the Secretary for submission to the trial examiner proposed findings and conclusions, which may be accompanied by a brief or memorandum in support thereof. A copy of such proposals and brief or memorandum in support thereof shall be delivered by the Secretary to the trial examiner and a copy shall be served by the Secretary upon the other party to the proceedings. All such proposed findings and conclusions shall be a part of the record.

(b) Recommended decision. The trial examiner, within 15 days after the expiration of the time allowed for filing proposed findings and conclusions, shall file with the Secretary his recommended decision in the form prescribed by law.

(c) Service of recommended decision. A copy of the recommended decision shall be forthwith served on the bank and on counsel for the Corporation by the Secretary.

§ 312.7 Exceptions—(a) Filing. Within 15 days after receipt of a copy of the recommended decision of the trial examiner, the bank or counsel for the Corporation may file with the Secretary exceptions to the recommended decision of the trial examiner or any portion thereof or to his failure to adopt a proposed finding or conclusion, or to the admission or exclusion of evidence or to any other ruling. A copy of such exceptions shall be forthwith delivered by the Secretary to the trial examiner and a copy shall be served on the other party to the proceedings. Exceptions shall be argued only if a hearing is ordered before the board of directors.

(b) Waiver. Failure to file exceptions to the recommended decision of the trial examiner or any portion thereof, or to his failure to adopt a proposed finding or conclusion, or to the admission or exclusion of evidence, or to any ruling, within the time so required, shall be deemed to be a waiver of the objections thereto.

§ 312.8 Briefs—(a) Filing. Within the time provided for filing of exceptions, the bank or counsel for the Corporation may file a brief in support of his conclusion and exceptions.

(b) Contents. All briefs shall be confined to the particular matters in issue. Each exception or proposed finding or conclusion which is briefed shall be supported by a concise argument or by citation of such statutes, decisions or other authorities and by page reference to such portions of the record or recommended decision of the trial examiner as may be relevant. If the exception relates to the admission or exclusion of evidence, the substance of the evidence admitted or excluded shall be set forth in the brief with appropriate references to the transcript. Exceptions not briefed may be regarded by the board of directors as waived.

(c) Reply briefs. Reply briefs may be filed within 10 days after service of briefs and shall be confined to matters in original briefs of opposing parties.

(d) Service of briefs. Copies of briefs shall be served by the Secretary on the other party to the proceedings.

(e) Delays. Briefs not filed on or before the time fixed in these rules will be received only upon special permission of the board of directors.

§ 312.9 Certification of record to board of directors. Within 15 days after expiration of the time required for filing exceptions to his recommended decision, the trial examiner shall file with the Secretary of the Corporation and certify to the board of directors for initial decision the entire record, including the transcript of testimony, exhibits (including on request of party concerned any exhibits excluded from evidence) recommended findings and conclusions, exceptions, any briefs or memoranda filed by any party or counsel for the Corporation in connection therewith and his recommended decision.

§ 312.10 Consent to termination of insured status. Unless a bank, which has received notice of intention to terminate its status as an insured bank pursuant to paragraph (1), subsection (i), section 12b of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, shall appear at the hearing designated in the notice of hearing by a duly authorized representative, it shall be deemed to have consented to the termination of its status as an insured bank. In such event counsel for the Corporation may, but need not, present his case. Within 10 days of the date or close of the hearing the trial examiner shall certify the transcript and exhibits, if any, to the board of directors with his recommended decision.

§ 312.11 Oral argument before Board of Directors. Upon written request of the bank or counsel for the Corporation, within the time provided for filing the original briefs, the board of directors may order the matter to be set down for oral argument before the board of directors at the time and place specified in such order.

§ 312.12 Decision of Board of Directors. Appropriate members of the staff, who are not engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecuting functions may advise and assist the board of directors in the consideration of the matter and in the preparation of appropriate documents for its disposition. Copies of the decision of the board of directors shall be furnished by the Secretary to the bank, to Counsel for the Corporation and to the appropriate State supervisory authority, in the case of a State bank, to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, in the case of a State member bank, or to the Comptroller of the Currency in the case of a national bank.

§ 312.13 Filing papers. Recommended decisions, exceptions briefs and other papers required to be filed with the board of directors or Secretary in any proceeding shall be filed with the Secretary, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Washington 25, D. C. Any such papers may be sent to the Secretary by mail or express but must be received by the Secretary in the office of the Corporation in Washington, D. C., or post marked by a post office, within the time limit for such filing.

§ 312.14 Service, proof of service. All documents or papers required by these rules to be served on the bank, or on counsel for the Corporation shall be served by the Secretary or other designated officer of the board of directors. Such service, except on counsel for the Corporation, shall be made by personal service on, or by registered mail addressed to the last known address of, the attorney or representative of record of any party. If there is no attorney or representative of record, such service shall be made upon the bank.

§ 312.15 Copies. Unless otherwise specifically provided in the notice of hearing, an original and 7 copies of all documents and papers required or permitted to be filed or served under these rules except the transcript of testimony and exhibits, shall be furnished to the Secretary.

§ 312.16 Computing time. In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by these rules or by order of the board of directors, the day of the act, event, or default after which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday in the District of Columbia, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is neither a Saturday, Sunday nor a legal holiday. Intermediate Saturdays, Sundays and holidays shall be included in the computation. A half-holiday shall be considered as other days and not as a holiday.

§ 312.17 Documents in proceedings confidential. Unless and until otherwise ordered by the board of directors, the notice of hearing, the transcript, the recommended decision of the trial examiner, exceptions thereto, proposed findings or conclusions, and briefs in support of such proposals or in support of or in opposition to such exceptions, the findings and conclusions of the board of directors and other papers which are filed in connection with any hearing shall not be made public, and shall be for the confidential use only of the board of directors, the bank and appropriate supervising authorities.

§ 312.18 Formal requirements as to papers filed—(a) Form. All papers filed under these rules shall be typewritten, mimeographed, or printed.

(b) Signature. All papers must be signed by an officer of the bank filing the same, or its duly authorized agent or attorney, or counsel for the Corporation, and, except in the case of counsel for the Corporation, must show the address of the signer.

(c) Caption. All papers filed must include at the head thereof, or on a title page, the name of the Corporation, the names of the bank, and the subject of the particular paper.

SUBCHAPTER C—REGULATIONS AND STATEMENTS OF GENERAL POLICY

PART 325—INTRODUCTORY

§ 325.0 Scope and source of authority. The regulations and statements of general policy contained in this subchapter are promulgated pursuant to the provisions of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended, and are published pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act (Public Law 404, 79th Cong.), and other applicable laws, and, in accordance with the provisions of section 3 (a) (3) of the Administrative Procedure Act, contain rules adopted as authorized by law and statements of general policy or interpretations formulated and adopted by the Corporation for the guidance of the public [1].

[1] These regulations were duly adopted by the Corporation, and were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER in substantially the form herein set forth, prior to the effective date of the Administrative Procedure Act (September 11, 1946). The regulations now appearing in parts 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, and 331 formerly appeared in parts 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, and 307; former parts 306, 308, and 309 now appear as §§ 302.2 (b), 304.2, and part 311 of this chapter respectively. The parts of this chapter published in conformity with the Administrative Procedure Act have been assigned the part numbers of the former regulations. This republication of former regulations is for the convenience and information of the public and in order that they may be conformed to, and made consistent with, the present structure of the Corporation's rules. The effective dates of such former regulations, as heretofore provided, shall not be affected by such republication, nor shall such republication serve to relieve or excuse any bank or person heretofore subject thereto from any prior failure to comply therewith.

PART 326—BANK OBLIGATIONS PRESCRIBED AS DEPOSITS

§ 326.1 Deposits. The term "deposit" as used in subsection (c), paragraph (12) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended (12 U. S. C. 264 (c) (12)), shall include the following obligations:

(a) Outstanding drafts, cashier's checks and other officer's checks. Outstanding drafts,[1] cashier's checks, and other officer's checks issued under any of the following circumstances:

(1) For money or its equivalent received by the issuing bank; or

(2) For a charge against a deposit account in the issuing bank; or

(3) In settlement of checks, drafts, or other instruments forwarded to the issuing bank for collection.

(b) Certified checks. Checks drawn against a deposit account and certified by the drawee bank.

(c) Traveler's checks and letters of credit. Outstanding traveler's checks or letters of credit on which the bank is primarily liable issued under either of the following circumstances:

(1) For money or its equivalent received by the issuing bank; or

(2) For a charge against a deposit account in the issuing bank.

(d) Money or its equivalent. Under paragraphs (a) and (c) of this section drafts, cashier's checks and other officer's checks, traveler's checks and letters of credit must be regarded as issued for the equivalent of money when issued in exchange for checks or drafts or for promissory notes upon which the person procuring any of the enumerated instruments is primarily or secondarily liable.

[1] Drafts drawn on foreign correspondents or foreign branches and payable only in foreign countries are not included in the term "deposit."

PART 327—ASSESSMENTS

Sec.
327.1 Classes of uncollected items eligible for deduction.
327.2 Periods of deduction for uncollected items.
327.3 Payment of assessments by banks whose insured status has terminated.

§ 327.1 Classes of uncollected items eligible for deduction. The term "item" as used in this part means any instrument providing for the payment of money. In computing the bank's assessment base, items may be deducted by the bank of deposit from the total amount of the bank's liability for deposits during the periods prescribed by § 327.2. Provided, That they were included in the bank's liability for deposits and, Provided further, That they were received in the usual course of business pursuant to an agreement under which the bank has given or is obligated to give credit to a commercial, checking, savings, time or thrift account, and that the drawee or the payor of the item is a bank or person other than the bank of deposit. The bank may deduct such uncollected item without regard to whether withdrawal has been made against the credit given or agreed to be given therefor. No item shall be deducted except in accordance with the provisions of this section.

§ 327.2 Periods of deduction for uncollected items—(a) Local item. A local item shall be eligible for deduction for a period not to exceed one (1) day. The term "local item" does not include items which are not available for two or more days under the current Time Schedules of the Federal Reserve bank or branch thereof for the city in which the bank of deposit is located.

(b) Out-of-town item. An out-of-town item shall be eligible for deduction for a period not to exceed the time which would be necessary to send the item in due course to the Federal Reserve bank of the Federal Reserve district or the branch of the sub-district thereof in which the bank of deposit is located, plus the time allowed for collection from the place where the item is payable, as shown on the current Time Schedule of such Federal Reserve bank or branch thereof: Provided, That no item shall be deducted after the bank has had advice that the item has been paid or dishonored.

(c) Items credited to deposit account in bank or branch located outside of any Federal Reserve District. In the case of an insured bank or branch located outside of any Federal Reserve district an item credited to a deposit account subject to final payment which is drawn on a bank located in a place other than the place where the bank of deposit is located may be claimed as a deduction for the period between the date the item is credited to the deposit account and the date of receipt (in the usual course of business) by the correspondent bank to which the item is forwarded for collection, plus the collection time allowed by the Federal Reserve time schedule for the district in which the correspondent bank is located, or, where collection time is not included in the Federal Reserve time schedule, plus the actual collection time: Provided, That the bank of deposit maintains analyses of its accounts and determines periodically the amount of uncollected transit items contained in the credit balance of each deposit account at all times and, Provided further, That no deduction for such transit items shall be permitted in an amount in excess of the balance in the individual account to which such items have been credited. If the bank of deposit does not maintain such analyses, it shall be permitted to claim deductions for such items for a period not to exceed the collection time allowed by the current Federal Reserve time schedule for the district in which the correspondent bank is located, the same as if the bank of deposit were located in the same place, plus an allowance of one day for transmission to such correspondent, or, where the collection time is not included in the Federal Reserve time schedule, for the time required by the correspondent bank to make the collection, plus an allowance of one day for transmission to such correspondent.

(d) Construction of section. This section is not to be construed as requiring any bank to clear items through any Federal Reserve bank or branch thereof.

§ 327.3 Payment of assessments by banks whose insured status has terminated—(a) Assumed deposits of terminating banks become deposits of assuming bank. The deposit liabilities of an insured bank, if assumed by another insured bank, will, except to the extent that depositors of the first bank by affirmative action signify their express intention to hold the first bank liable as a debtor, be presumed for assessment purposes to cease being deposit liabilities of the first bank on the date the assumption becomes effective: Provided, That the requisite notice of assumption be given to the depositors of the terminating bank.[1] The assumed deposits, for assessment purposes, are deposit liabilities of the assuming bank from the date of assumption, whether or not the requisite notice of assumption has been given to the depositors.

(b) Payment of assessments by assuming bank on assumed deposits of terminating bank. Where the deposit liabilities of an insured bank are assumed by another insured bank and the assuming bank agrees to file the certified statement which the terminating bank is required to file, the filing of such certified statement and the payment of the assessment thereon by the assuming bank shall be deemed the acts of the terminating bank: Provided, That the requisite notice of assumption [1] be given to the depositors of the terminating bank and, Provided further, That such certified statement shall be filed separately from that required to be filed by the assuming bank.

(c) Resumption of insured status before insurance of deposits ceases. If a bank whose insured status has been terminated under paragraphs (1) or (2) of subsection (i) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended (12 U. S. C. 264 (i) (1) and (2)), makes application to the Corporation, before the insurance of its deposits shall have ceased, to be permitted to continue or to resume its status as an insured bank and if the board of directors grant the application, the bank will be deemed, for assessment purposes, to continue as an insured bank and must thereafter furnish certified statements and pay assessments as though its insured status had not been terminated. For the procedure to be followed in making such application, see § 307.7 of this chapter.

PART 328—ADVERTISEMENT OF MEMBERSHIP

Sec.
328.0 Scope.
328.1 Mandatory Requirements with Regard to the Official Sign and its display.
328.2 Mandatory Requirements with Regard to the Official Sign and its Display, ment and Manner of Use.

[1] The requisite notice of assumption shall be the notice prescribed in § 311.3 of this chapter.

Sec.
328.3 Approved Emblem and Approved Short Title Which Insured Banks May Use at Their Option.
328.4 Penalties.

§ 328.0 Scope. The regulation contained in this part prescribes the requirements with regard to the official sign insured banks must display and the requirements with regard to the official advertising statement insured banks must include in advertisements relating to deposits. It also prescribes an approved emblem and an approved short title which insured banks may use at their option. It imposes no limitations on other proper advertising of insurance of deposits by insured banks and does not apply to advertisements published in foreign countries by insured banks which maintain offices in such foreign countries in which offices the deposits are not insured.

§ 328.1 Mandatory requirements with regard to the official sign and its display—

(a) Insured banks to display official sign. Each insured bank shall continuously display on and after October 11, 1935, for so long as it continues to be an insured bank, an official sign as hereinafter prescribed at each station or window where insured deposits are usually and normally received in its principal place of business and in all its branches: Provided, That no bank becoming an insured bank after October 11, 1935, shall be required to display such official sign until twenty-one (21) days after its first day of operation as an insured bank. The official sign may be displayed by any insured bank prior to the date display is required.

(b) Official sign. The official sign referred to in paragraph (a) of this section shall be seven inches by three inches in size, and shall be of the following design:

NOTE: A reproduction of the official sign appears at 12 CFR 303.1.

Any insured bank may procure official signs from the Corporation or may use any other sign of the same size, wording and appearance which shall have been approved in writing by the Corporation as conforming to the requirements of this section. Such approval will be given only in individual cases where the official sign does not harmonize with the bank's counters or fixtures or where it cannot be adequately displayed because of the type of construction of the bank's counters or fixtures. For the procedure to be followed in applying for such approval see § 307.8 (a) of this chapter.

The Corporation shall furnish to banks an order blank for use in procuring the official signs. Any bank which promptly, after receipt of the order blank fills it in, executes it, and properly directs and forwards it to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Washington, 25, D. C., shall not be deemed to have violated this regulation on account of not displaying an official sign or signs, unless the bank shall omit to display such official sign or signs after the same have been tendered to the bank through the instrumentality of the United States mail or otherwise.

(c) Insured bank forbidden to receive deposits at same window or stations as noninsured bank. Where two or more banks receive deposits in the same office or offices, each bank operating as an insured bank and doing business in such office or offices is forbidden on and after October 11, 1935, or, in the case of a bank becoming an insured bank after October 11, 1935, after its first day of operation as an insured bank, to receive deposits at any window or station where any noninsured bank receives deposits.

(d) Change in wording of official sign. Pursuant to written notice from the Corporation given to insured banks at least thirty (30) days prior to any date the Corporation specifies, provided on such date special circumstances exist, with regard to particular banks, making a change in the wording of the official sign to be used desirable, each insured bank receiving such notice shall on and after the date specified in such notice change its official sign or signs in accordance with the requirements of this Corporation.

§ 328.2 Mandatory requirements with regard to the official advertising statement and manner of use—(a) Insured banks to include official advertising statement in advertisements of types enumerated. Each insured bank shall include the official advertising statement, prescribed in paragraph (b) of this section, in advertisements issued or caused to be issued by it after November 20, 1936, of the types enumerated in paragraph (c) of this section as being of the class in which the official advertising statement is required to be included.

No bank which becomes an insured bank after October 26, 1936, is required to include the official advertising statement in such advertisements until sixty (60) days after its first day of operation as an insured bank.

In cases where the board of directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation shall find the application to be meritorious, that there has been no neglect or wilful violation in the observance of this paragraph, and that undue hardship will result by reason of its requirements, the board of directors may grant a temporary exemption from its provisions to a particular bank upon its written application setting forth the facts. For the procedure to be followed in making such application see § 307.8 (b) of this chapter. In cases where advertising copy not including the official advertising statement is on hand on the date the requirements of this paragraph become operative, the insured bank may cause the official advertising statement to be included by use of a rubber stamp or otherwise.

(b) Official advertising statement. The official advertising statement shall be in substance as follows: "Member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation." The word "the" or the words "of the" may be omitted. The words "This bank is a" or the words "This institution is a" or the name of the insured bank followed by the words "is a" may be added before the word "member".

(c) Types of advertisements requiring official advertising statement. The following is an enumeration of the types of advertisements which, when issued or caused to be issued by an insured bank, shall, in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, include the official advertising statement:

(1) Statements of condition and reports of condition of an insured bank except those required to be published by State or Federal law;

(2) All calendars;

(3) Institutional advertisements published in a newspaper, magazine, or other periodical, bill board advertisements, posters, street car or bus displays, signs, plates, pamphlets, circular letters, leaflets, novelty and specialty advertisements, pay roll envelopes, display advertisements in directories such as telephone, bank, and city directories, and advertisements made by radio or reproduced on the picture screen in theaters: Provided, That of the types of advertisements listed in this subparagraph the following shall be exempt from the requirement of including the official advertising statement:

(i) Bank supplies such as stationery (except when used for circular letters), envelopes, deposit slips, checks, drafts, signature cards, deposit pass books, certificate of deposit, etc.;

(ii) Signs or plates in the banking offices or attached to the building or buildings in which the banking offices are located;

(iii) Listings in directories whether in bold face or other type;

(iv) Advertisements not setting forth the name of the insured bank;

(v) Advertisements not containing any advertising relating to the insured bank in addition to any or all of the following, its name, telephone number, address, announcement of membership in the Federal Reserve System, and subject matter specifically excluded under exemptions (vi) through (xvii);

(vi) Advertisements relating to the making of loans by the bank or loan services;

(vii) Advertisements relating to safe keeping box business or services;

(viii) Advertisements relating to trust business or trust department services;

(ix) Advertisements relating to real estate business or services;

(x) Advertisements relating to armoured car services;

(xi) Advertisements relating to service charges or analysis charges;

(xii) Advertisements relating to securities business or securities department services;

(xiii) Display advertisements in bank directory on a page on which there are bank listings whether in bold face or other type, provided the name of the insured bank appears on some page of the listings in the directory, and provided there appears on each page of the directory containing listings a symbol or other descriptive matter indicating the banks which are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation;

(xiv) Advertisements relating to travel department business, including traveler's checks on which the bank issuing or causing to be issued the advertisement is not primarily liable;

(xv) Joint or group advertisements of banking service where the names of insured and non-insured banks are listed and form a part of such advertisements;

(xvi) Advertisements relating to Savings Bank Life Insurance;

(xvii) Advertisements by radio which do not exceed thirty (30) seconds in time.

(d) Other types of advertisements need not include official advertising statement. Insured banks are not required to include the official advertising statement in any type of advertisements other than those enumerated in paragraph (c) of this section as being of the class in which such statement is required to be included.

(e) Outstanding bill board advertisements. Where an insured bank has bill board advertisements outstanding, not excluded under exemptions (i) through (xvii) in paragraph (c) (3) of this section and has direct control of such advertisements either by possession or under the terms of a contract, it shall, if it can do so consistently with its contractual obligations, cause the official advertising statement to be included therein at such time as it would have been required to include the official advertising statement had the advertisement been newly issued rather than previously outstanding.

§ 328.3 Approved emblem and approved short title which insured banks may use at their option.—(a) Emblem. The only emblem approved for use by insured banks, when reference therein is made to deposit insurance or membership in the Corporation, is the one reproduced below:

NOTE: A reproduction of the emblem appears at 12 CFR 303.3.

(b) Short title. The following short title is approved for use by insured banks only on signs or plates attached to the outside of the bank building: "Member of FDIC".

(c) Use of emblem or short title. No insured bank is required to use the emblem or short title to any extent whatsoever. If any insured bank desires to use the emblem, it may do so in any of its advertisements and on any of its bank supplies. Since the approved emblem contains the official advertising statement in the outside circle, its use in the type of advertisements listed in § 328.2 (c) will satisfy the mandatory requirements of that section.

Any insured bank may, in addition to the requirements of this part, use any proper advertising of insurance of its deposits. For example, as an addition to the official advertising statement, any insured bank may, at its option, use the following in any of its advertisements:

"Deposits in this bank are insured with maximum insurance of $5,000 for each depositor."

Further, in the case of display signs in the banking offices which, under the provisions of this part, are not required to include the official advertising statement, any insured bank may use, for example, any of the following:

(1) "The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation insures deposits in this bank with $5,000 maximum insurance for each depositor."

(2) "Deposits in this bank are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation with $5,000 maximum insurance for each depositor."

(3) Electric sign or other display reproduction of the official sign.

§ 328.4 Penalties. No bank will violate any provision of paragraph (2) of subsection (v) of section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended (12 U. S. C. 264 (v) (2)), or any provisions of this part if it complies with the provisions of §§ 328.1 and 328.2.

PART 329—PAYMENT OF DEPOSITS AND INTEREST THEREON BY INSURED NONMEMBER BANKS

Sec.

329.0 Scope.
329.1 Definitions.
329.2 Demand deposits.
329.3 Maximum rate of interest on time and savings deposits.
329.4 Payment of time deposits before maturity.
329.5 Notice of withdrawal of savings deposits.
329.6 Maximum rates of interest payable on time and savings deposits by insured nonmember banks.

§ 329.0 Scope. The regulation contained in this part relates to the payment of deposits and interest thereon by insured nonmember banks. This part is not applicable to banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System. Regulation Q (12 CFR Part 217), prescribed by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System for banks which are members of that System, is not applicable to insured banks which are not members of the Federal Reserve System, except to the extent that the State law of a particular State provides otherwise. The provisions of this part do not apply to mutual savings banks or to any deposit in a bank located outside of, or payable only at a bank's office which is located outside of, the States of the United States and the District of Columbia.

§ 329.1 Definitions—(a) Demand Deposits. The term "demand deposit" includes every deposit which is not a "time deposit" or "savings deposit", as defined below.

(b) Time deposits. The term "time deposit" means "time certificates of deposit" and "time deposits, open account", as defined below.

(c) Time certificates of deposit. The term "time certificate of deposit" means a deposit evidenced by a negotiable or nonnegotiable instrument which provides on its face that the amount of such deposit is payable:

(1) On a certain date, specified in the instrument, not less than thirty (30) days after the date of the deposit; or

(2) At the expiration of a specified period not less than thirty (30) days after the date of the instrument; or

(3) Upon written notice to be given not less than thirty (30) days before the date of repayment.[1]

[1] If the certificate of deposit provides merely that the bank reserves the right to require notice of not less than thirty (30) days before any withdrawal is made, the bank must require such notice before permitting withdrawal.

(d) Time deposits, open account. The term "time deposit, open account" means a deposit, other than a "time certificate of deposit" or a "savings deposit", with respect to which there is in force a written contract with the depositor that neither the whole nor any part of such deposit may be withdrawn, by check or otherwise, prior to the date of maturity, which shall be not less than thirty (30) days after the date of the deposit,[2] or prior to the expiration of the period of notice which must be given by the depositor in writing not less than thirty (30) days in advance of withdrawals.[3]

(e) Savings deposits. The term "savings deposit" means a deposit evidenced by a pass book consisting of funds (1) deposited to the credit of one or more individuals or of a corporation, association, or other organization operated primarily for religious, philanthropic, charitable, educational, fraternal, or other similar purposes and not operated for profit,[4] or (2) in which the entire beneficial interest is held by one or more individuals or by such a corporation, association, or other organization and in respect to which—

(i) The depositor is required, or may at any time be required, by the bank to give notice in writing of an intended withdrawal not less than thirty (30) days before such withdrawal is made; or the bank consistently continues to adhere to a practice existing prior to January 23, 1936, of requiring notice of at least fifteen (15) days before permitting withdrawal;

(ii) Withdrawals are permitted in only two ways, either upon presentation of the pass book through payment to the person presenting the pass book, or without presentation of the pass book, through payment to the depositor himself but not to any other person, whether or not acting for the depositor.[5]

The provisions of subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph, limiting savings deposits to funds of certain classes of persons, shall not be applicable to deposits received and credited on or before February 1, 1936, to accounts evidenced by pass books in insured nonmember banks and these deposits, together with interest subsequently payable on such deposits, less any withdrawals from such accounts, may be classed by insured nonmember banks as savings deposits under the terms of this paragraph, even though such deposits belong to an association, organization, or corporation organized for profit. The said provisions of subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph, however, shall be applicable to deposits received subsequently to February 1, 1936, whether or not such deposits are credited to an account existing prior to February 1, 1936.

The presentation by any officer, agent or employee of the bank of a pass book or a duplicate thereof retained by the bank or by any of its officers, agents or employees is not a presentation of the pass book within the meaning of this part except where the pass book is held by the bank as a part of an estate of which the bank is a trustee or other fiduciary, or where the pass book is held by the bank as security for a loan. If a pass book is retained by the bank, it may not be delivered to any person other than the depositor for the purpose of enabling such person to present the pass book in order to make a withdrawal, although the bank may deliver the pass book to a duly authorized agent of the depositor for transmittal to the depositor.

Every withdrawal made upon presentation of a pass book shall be entered in the pass book at the time of the withdrawal, and every other withdrawal shall be entered in the pass book as soon as practicable after the withdrawal is made.

§ 329.2 Demand deposits—(a) Interest prohibited. Except as hereinafter provided, no insured nonmember bank shall directly or indirectly, by any device whatsoever, pay any interest on any demand deposit. Within this part any payment to or for the account of any depositor as compensation for the use of funds constituting a deposit shall be considered interest.[6]

(b) Exceptions. The prohibition stated in paragraph (a) of this section does not apply to—

(1) Payment of interest accruing before August 24, 1937, on any deposit made by a "savings bank"[7] as defined in section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended (12 U. S. C. 264), or by a mutual savings bank;

(2) Payment of interest accruing before August 24, 1937, on any deposit of public funds[8] made by or on behalf of any State, county, school district, or other subdivision or municipality, or on any deposit of trust funds, if the payment of interest with respect to such deposit of public funds or of trust funds is required by State law when such deposits are made in State banks;

(3) Payment of interest in accordance with the terms of any certificate of deposit or other contract which was lawfully entered into in good faith before February 1, 1936 (or, if the bank became an insured nonmember bank thereafter, before the date upon which it became an insured nonmember bank), which was in force on such date, and which may not legally be terminated or modified by such bank at its option and without liability but no such certificate of deposit or other contract may be renewed or extended unless it be modified to eliminate any provision for the payment of interest on demand deposits, and every insured nonmember bank shall take such action as may be necessary, as soon as possible consistently with its contractual obligations, to eliminate from any such certificate of deposit or other contract any provision for the payment of interest on demand deposits.

(c) Deposits in savings banks. Deposits in "saving banks"[9] in specifically designated deposit accounts with respect to which withdrawal by checking is permitted in accordance with paragraph (7), subsection (c), section 12B of the Federal Reserve Act, as amended (12 U. S. C. 264 (c) (7)), shall, for the purposes of this part, be classed as demand deposits.
